CONFERENCE OF BAY STATE MAYORS

Governor Walsh Tells Them There Is Too Much Politics in Massachusetts

Difficult to Have Measures Considered on Merits

Quincy was represented at the annual banquet of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at the Copley-Plaza Tuesday evening by Mayor Miller and ex-Mayor John O. Hall, secretary of the Mayors club, who occupied seats at the head table, Frank Fessenden Crane, Quincy's Dock and Water Front Commissioner, and City Solicitor Pinkham. That the industrial world shall be humanized more and more to the end that labor as well as capital shall receive its just reward, was the new theme given expression by John S. Kent, president of the New England Shoe and Leather Association, in his address.

Another question that was threshed out was the tax system, President Martin, Gov. Walsh and Mayor Curley laying emphasis on the necessity of changing the present tax laws so as to encourage rather than discourage industrial and business development. The dinner was very largely attended about 500 being present, representing all the cities of the State.

TAX LAWS.

President Martin in his opening remarks speaking of the tax laws said:

"The present tax laws are unequal in their operation. They are disproportionate and unjust and bear most heavily on the classes which can least afford to carry the tax burden.

"The poor man with the small holding of real estate is hit the hardest in this situation.

"Rhode Island and other States have kept up with the times. They have changed their tax methods in such manner as to not only satisfy their own citizens, but to actually tempt Massachusetts citizens and Massachusetts business to emigrate.

"Public opinion in the matter of more equitable tax laws is stronger this year than ever before, although there are still some people that have not as yet waked up to the danger of the situation. If we are to maintain any degree of prosperity, if we are to hold the industries that we have and are to induce new industries to leave other States and come here, we must give immediate attention to our tax laws, and we must see to it that cer-

BIG CLASS INITIATION

Seventy-Five Unite With John Adams Aerie

Inspector of Buildings Merrill stated this morning, that at Monday nights Council meeting he was asked relative to the number of building permits issued in the month of March and if the number in March last year was not more than this year.

The month of March closed at 5 o'clock Tuesday night and the Inspector says that the number of permits issued in March this year was 67, as against 49 for the month of March 1913, an increase of 18.

One other fact that should be brought out this year, is that the receipts for permits issued in March 1914, amounted to $105, while in 1913 nothing was received. This goes to show that if the business of the department continues at the same ratio as during the past month the receipts will place the department on nearly a self supporting basis. The total number of permits was 785. This year a fee is charged for permits ranging from $1 upwards, so that if anything like the number is issued this year the receipts will nearly total the amount appropriated for the department.

Anouncement is made by Wellesley girls of this city of a benefit performance Friday evening April 24 at Quincy Music hall in aid of the Wellesley Fire Fund. The entertainment will be a vaudeville and dance. Already there is a long list of patronesses with the outlook good for a large amount for the fund. The loss by fire of the administrative building is a great handicap for Wellesley college.

PROMPT TO ENTER SCHOOL

New Arrival from Russia Enrolled First Day

The readiness with which foreigners assimilate American ideas and customs, and take advantage of their oportunities, is no better shown than in the case of a native of Russia, who in ten hours from the time he arrived in New York from his native country was enrolled as a pupil at the evening schools in Quincy.

The man in question arrived in New York last week Wednesday at 9 A .M. He immediately started for Quincy and arrived here that afternoon gowned in Russian peasant costume, which include high top laced boots, etc.

He was met on his arrival in Quincy by relatives, and by night a great transformation had taken place, for when he aplied to the evening school at the Adams building that evening for enrollment he wore an American suit of clothing, which included a white shirt, collar and four-in-hand tie and derby hat. He was immediately assigned to a class and immediately began to obtain an education. If he keeps on in his persistence some day he will be a heavy tax payer.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED.

WILLARD STREET FIRE

Quincy and Milton Apparatus Respond to Box 48

The alarm from Box 48 at 1,20 this morning was for a fire in the L of a house at 215 Willard street, near the Milton line, occupied by Michael Dunican. The L was a small affair built onto the house and was used as a kitchen. The fire evidently started under the stove and was blazing in good shape when the department arrived. Some one living over the line in Milton also saw the blaze and telephoned the East Milton fire station, and the Hose Co. responded. Their services were not needed however and this apparatus immediately returned to quarters. The fire was confined to the L where it started and was extinguished with a loss that will not exceed $50.

FARCE AT HIGH SCHOOL.

"Three of a Kind," a snappy farce was given Monday at the High school. The cast included Sturgis Hunt, Reginald Gay, Miss Rosalie DuTemple, Miss Ethel Brown, E. C. Danielson, Miss Edna Miller and Miss Olga Verganzi, members of the Junior English class. The farce was directed by Miss Gay, instructor of English. Miss Du Temple rendered several solos, and Messrs. Hunt and Gay performed a stunt called "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm."

At the last of the Thursday evening Lenten services this week at St. Chrysostom's lhurch the preacher will be Rev. Francis Lee Whittemore, rector of St. Paul's church, Dedham.

SCHOOL BOARD INCREASE SALARIES

But at Same Time Claim That Appropriation Voted by Council Is too Small

Plans Approved for Addition to Houghs Neck School

Although the School Committee claim that the amount for instruction as named in the appropriation order passed by the City Council Monday evening will not be sufficient to pay the salaries for the entire year, the Board at its meeting Tuesday evening voted to increase the salaries of the grammar school janitors five per cent, said increase to take effect April first.

All members were present at the meeting which was devoted largely to consideration of plans for an addition to the Atherton Hough school building.

HOUGHS NECK SCHOOL.

A letter was received from the Houghs Neck Associates asking that a hall be built in the Atherton Hough school, which was placed on file.

The plans for a four-room addition to the school, by Architect Albert M. Wright were forwarded to the committee by the Mayor. After considering them the committee voted to officially approve them and send them to the City Council with their vote of approval.

JANITORS SALARIES.

The special committee on Janitors salaries made its report recommending an increase. After adjusting the salaries so as to conform in a uniform manner, regarding the area of the different buildings, etc., the committee voted to increase all the grammar school janitors salaries five per cent, to take effect April 1. The increase adds between $100 and $500 to the expenditures of the department.

HOBBIES.

Last week the Quincy Women's Club had a meeting at which several members told of their special hobby. Naturally the telling was varied and interesting. None had a startling or silly hobby the trend of thought showing rather the place women are now occupying in the broader outlook and social work for others. It justified the coming together of a large body of women. It makes one think of the influence for good that the women's clubs must be all over our broad land and they are multiplying every day and reaching out for new fields of work and thought.

Possibly mere man may consider women's clubs "hobbies" but even so they are a factor for good in every community and long ago got beyond the hobby stage.

It is good for every one to have a hobby, man or woman, even a foolish one is of some use for it keeps one interested in something. Interest in life is what keeps one young and gives a broader outlook.

Take the man whose hobby is gardening—he gets close to nature—he is interested in his neighbor's garden and incidentally his neighbor also. He will not spend his idle moments in the saloon or getting into trouble. He is too near nature not to see things with a clear vision mentally and bodily. It works for civic pride.

If you haven't a hobby hunt one up and see if you do not enjoy it, even if your friends are not as interested and sympathetic as you think they ought to be. Ride it hard for a while and then have another one.

BOYS AND SWEARING.

Word comes from Spokane, Washington that at least 180 small boys in that city will be careful of their language this spring for the grade school baseball league has decreed that any player who uses profane language will be expelled from his team. Tobacco is also under the ban for members of the 20 grade school teams.

This is something that could be well adopted in the east. Right here in Quincy here is great opportunity for a little missionary work along these lines. Did you ever stop to watch boys at a game of ball? Most of their time seems to be taken up with swearing or disputing the play, that to their mind being playing ball.

Last year's model automobile may run all right, but does it make your neighbors sufficiently envious?

Anyway, when the Suffragettes are out burning buildings, they are not at home burning the steak.

Some people feel it necessary to go and get drunk during Lent in order to prove their freedom from hypocritical religious observances.

ODE TO MYRTILLA.

A pure, sweet saint! At church I see you pray
As if a worldly thought would make you faint,
Serenely walking on your heavenly way pure, sweet saint!

And yet—although I would make no complaint—
You quickly doff the grave to don the gay.
Your cheeks aren't wholly innocent of paint!

You flirt outrageously the livelong day.
And—to use slang, dear Myrt—in fact you ain't,
I am thoroughly rejoiced to say,
A pure, sweet saint.
—Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BREVITY SERMONS.

This is the first condition of a living morality as well as of vital religion, that the soul shall find a true center out from and above itself, round which it shall revolve.—J. C. Sharp.

We treat God with irreverence by banishing him from our thoughts, not by referring to his will on slight occasions.—Ruskin.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

No Intimation That Mayor Will Veto Appropriations

Mayor Miller was asked this morning if it was true that he intended to veto the annual appropriation order, and in reply said that he had not had time as yet to consider the matters of the City Council which were then before him.

When asked if he had made a statement that he intended to veto the order, he replied that he did not remember of having made any such statement.

He said that he should give all the Council matters before him careful attention, and should decide later what he would do. He has ten days in which to sign the order, to veto the order or allow it to become a law without his signature.

If the Mayor is dissatisfied with the amounts named he can send a supplementary budget to the Council at any time before the tax rate is announced.

When informed that the School Commitee had at its meeting Tuesday evening voted to increase the salaries of the school janitors he seemed much surprised. He said that in view of the fact that the department were claiming that under the amount named in the appropriation order it would not have money enough to carry them through, it looked like taking their bill by the horns to further increase salaries the minute the appropriation order had passed. He was in doubt in what light the Council would view the matter when the School Committee applied for an additional appropriation later in the year.

Although the Mayor was scheduled to speak at the meeting of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange at the Copley-Plaza on Tuesday evening he did not speak, as it was too late before he was reached. The Mayor was all prepared to speak but when 11 o'clock arrived he had to leave for home in order to get the late train. He says that the meeting was a fine one and that he would have liked to have remained until the end.

Abner Packard Camp, Sons of Veterans; members of the respective organizations, and Mr. and Mrs. John Ramsdell.

tain necessary changes are effected without unreasonable delay."

MERCHANT MARINE.

Mayor Curley aside from agreeing that some action should be taken for the revision of the tax laws, said that he believed that the next step in National progress should be the development of the merchant marine which would free us from England and Germany in our commercial carrying. He urged uniform state laws governing the employment of labor.

VOCATIONAL TRAINING.

John Hayes Hammond said if Massachusetts would retain her industrial superiority she must look closely after the efficiency of vocational training. While it is true we all advocate a broad education, so far as practicable, we nevertheless believe that we should insist on such graduates of our public schools, as do not contemplate taking a university course being better equipped to earn their livelihood in industrial vocations. We should remember that "He is idle who is not best employed;" and there are far too many young men being educated for professional life who add to the already congested ranks of the professions and whose energies could be more profitable expended in other vocations. They should be included in the producing rather than in the non-producing class of the community.

"Second, by establishing more cordial relations, i. e. teamwork between employers and employes. This is absolutely essential to high efficiency in production and cannot be attained until we eliminate the influence of pothouse politicians and social agitators who fatten upon the discontent they create.

TOO MUCH POLITICS.

Gov. Walsh said the great evils in Massachusetts at the present time were an antiquated taxation system; an unsound, financially weak system of transportation, and "too much politics."

He said the present taxation system is a failure and yet we stand powerless. For years we've admitted it and yet no attempt to change or better it has been made.

For five years the Legislature has been struggling with the evil. A change in the organic law by means of a Constitional amendment is essential.

Two interests have been working to prevent that change: First, interests promoting tax-exempt Massachusetts securities; second, interests pushing the securities of foreign corporations.

One of the great weaknesses of the law is that in its present form foreign corporations of immense capitalization have been favored and the smaller corporations have suffered.

Concerning the railroad situation Gov. Walsh said it was the railroads themselves that had brought about this situation.

The transportation situation must be remedied by men with brains and public spirit, and the Governor called on such men to come forward and place the railroads of Massachusetts on a sound financial basis.

"The great evil of too much politics in our State is that it makes everybody critical of the other. Our annual elections are a serious impairment to prosperity. The Legislators are too much concerned about the political effect of every move they make and in consequence they devote half their time to the interests of the State and half to the interests of politicians. The consequence is if a man proposes a measure the questions is: What are the politics behind the measure?" rather than, "What is the merit of the measure?"

"Speaking as Governor I ask you men to take interest in the public problems that effect the structure and formation of our Government and the welfare of our people."

BIENNIAL CONVENTION.

Mrs. Frederick Dow, state president of Illinois, is planning to keep open house during the Biennial Convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, June 9-19, at Hotel La Salle, that, as head of the hostess state, she may be of all possible assistance to the various delegations which have their headquarters at that hotel. On Saturday, June 13, with the assistance of past state presidents, she will hold a reception from 2 to 4 o'clock for Illinois delegations and many distinguished club women from all parts of the country. This will be one of the attractive social features of the convention. Other state presidents are also planning for dinners and receptions.

The Press Committee, of which Mrs. Grace Julian Clarke, of Indianapolis, is General Federation chairman, will hold a press luncheon, followed by a conference, at 1.30 Saturday, June 13, at one of the downtown hotels. There will be short, crisp, pointed speeches by members active in press work throughout the country, with addresses by a leading newspaper man and a leading newspaper woman of Chicago. This will be followed by a general discussion presenting the how, where and why of publicity work. Some of the topics discussed will be The Future of the Club Department in the Newspaper, Why is the Press Committee, and Holding Out Inducements.

After the seven working days of the convention there will be a sociological pilgrimage under the direction of Mrs. Willis O. Nance, of Chicago, chairman of the Excursions Committee. This will include an automobile trip over the park and boulevard system, with visits to Hull House, Fellowship House, Gadshill Settlement and numerous public playgrounds, where the school children of the city will furnish entertainment for the guests in pageant and otherwise. Tea will be served at various stopping places and each little group of women will be conducted by a member of the Excursions Committee, who will be ready to explain the different points of interest visited. There will also be excursions to the stores and shops where arts, crafts and textile exhibits will be seen and the visits to the Art Institute will be under the direction of competent guides.

The Local Biennial Board is never for a moment forgetting that it has made Comfort its slogan and there will be maintained in each hotel a room in which will be found a member of the Hotels Committee, the Bureau of Information, the Press, Reserves, Registration and Local Board Ticket Committees ready to answer all questions and do everything possible for the comfort and convenience of the guests. Arrangements have been made whereby state headquarters will be located free of charge in the hotel to which a delegation is assigned.

PRESS NEWS.

Mrs. Grace Julian Clarke, chairman of the press committee, writes in part to the General Federation her idea of news matter. She says: "The press committee of the General Federation of Women's clubs represents every section of the United States and it is gratifying to note that the policy adopted at the beginning of the present administration of seeking a wider publicity by enlisting interest of the daily newspapers in club and federation doings has been abundantly justified. Every week brings to the chairman's desk fresh proof of the growing friendliness of the newspaper fraternity towards the club movement.

Of course this means several things. It signifies first that club women are doing things of real moment to their community and are genuine factors in the world's progress. It means that they have outgrown their old provincialism and are keenly interested in one another and eager to learn from one another. It means, too, that they have rid themselves of a certain self-satisfaction and early 19th century disapproval of seeing their names, even the names of their clubs, 'in the public prints,' lest, forsooth, they appear 'common' and not quite 'lady-like.'

Woman is slowly discarding a lot of old cob-webs that formerly obscured her vision to a lamentable degree. Of course there was once a reason for most of these cobwebs, but that is no excuse for clinging to them now when every ray of light is needed in every corner of her brain. It is quite natural, inevitable in fact, that club women should be among the first to step forward in the glorious march towards the new and better day."

WELLESLEY GIRLS' PLAY.

The junior students of Wellesley college are raising funds as rapidly as possible for the erection of new buildings to replace the old administration buildings destroyed by fire March 17, and will give two benefit performances of "Beau Brummel" in the Cort theatre, Boston, Thursday and Friday afternoons. The proceeds of the performance will be added to the "fire fund" which has recently been established. The same cast that was seen in "The Barn" last December will participate in the play. Miss Tracy L'Engle who gave the first alarm when the fire broke out in the college hall will be seen as Beau Brummel, the part which she assumed on that occasion. The Cort theatre should be filled to capacity as the performance itself will be something to be seen for itself alone, as well as from the interest in the reason for its being given.

MRS. GILMAN S. SEAVEY.

Mrs. Mary S., widow of Gilman S. Seavey passed away Tuesday night at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Joseph C. Morse, 110 Monroe road, Presidents hill. Mrs. Seavey was stricken with paralysis Tuesday from which she did not regain consciousness, and only lingered a few hours.

She has made her home for several years with her daughter, and the two have been much to each other, especially since the death of Mr. Morse a few years ago. Mrs. Seavey was interested in the First Parish church and made many friends since coming to Quincy. Beside her daughter she leaves two grandsons Joseph C. Morse of Fairmount way, and Edward Morse of Malden, also several great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held from the home of her daughter Friday afternoon at two o'clock.

Double legal stamps at Remick's every day this week are proving popular, and a big inducement.

TO SOLVE HOME RULE TROUBLE

Grey Favors Federal System of Government

THE SITUATION IN ULSTER

Ministers Not Prepared to Make Further Concessions and Force Will Be Used If Needed to Check Outbursts —Morley Decides He Will Not Quit the Cabinet at Present

London, April 1.—The establishment of a federal system of government for the British isles was suggested to the house of commons by Foreign Secretary Grey as a solution of the home rule difficulty. The suggestion received great attention from the house, which was engaged in the debate on the second reading of the home rule bill.

Grey said he believed that if the difficulty was not solved by the introduction of a federal system the country would go under through the sheer inability of parliament to transact its business.

If, he added, an election could be assured on the terms of securing the abolition of plural voting and of placing home rule and Welsh disestablishment on the statute books, the method would be worthy of consideration.

Grey, who spoke in the house on behalf of the government, said the ministers were not prepared to make any concession beyond the six-year exclusion of the Ulster counties from the operation of the bill offered by Premier Asquith. The country, he said, must settle the question at the end of that time.

Meanwhile the question of Ulster could not arise until after a general election, but if there were sporadic outbursts in that province force must be used, said Grey, and if an attempt was made to set up a provisional government and defy the imperial parliament, the army would be used.

Viscount Morley of Blackburn, lord president of the council, abandoned his intention of resigning from the cabinet, intimated in the house of lords.

The cabinet met and the strongest pressure was brought to bear on Morley not to add to the difficulties of his colleagues by giving up his office.

Temporarily, at least, Premier Asquith has arrested the danger of the dissolution of his cabinet. An aggressive campaign looking toward the straightening out of affairs in the army is expected to be conducted by Asquith in his new post as war secretary, assumed with the resignation of Colonel Seely, and the Laborites, Nationalists and Liberals, constituting the coalition majority, are confident of complete victory over the Unionists and Conservatives.

Grey assumed leadership of the Liberals in the absence of Asquith. The writ for the elections in East Fife, in which Asquith will go before his constituents for indorsement, was formally ordered.

Jim Larkin, Dublin strike leader, who attracted particular attention in the dock workers' strike, announced his candidacy to oppose Asquith in the East Fife elections.

Use for Aniline Colors.

That aniline colors have a marked action upon various kinds of microbes appears to be established. It is discovered that aniline compounds in general act to destroy microbes, even in greater degree than does phenic acid. Of the different bacteria examined the typhus bacillus is the most readily affected.

TO COACH AT WORCESTER.

Sidney Hazelton of Milton High school has been engaged to coach the Worcester Academy football and base ball teams next year and will start in next fall. He will succeed George Dole who has accepted a position with a New England college. Mr. Hazleton pitched on the Dartmouth nine and when he graduated he joined the Red Sox. Four years ago he gave up professional base ball to coach and teach at Milton High school.

He was graduated from Medford High in 1905 and Dartmouth in 1910. At Medford he played guard on the football team but never took part in that game at college. His base ball career at college was marred when he was disqualified for playing summer base ball at York Beach. For four years he has pitched for the Norfolk and Stetson Shoe baseball teams of Weymouth and last summer he captained the latter team. His coaching at Milton has been most acceptable and successful, the teams having made a splendid showing since he joined the faculty.

The Davis and Makaria classes will roll their last match in the Sunday School bowling league tonight at the Y. M. C. A., and the result of this match will determine which team will occupy the runner-up position. The Rand class bowls the Clark class on Friday night, and unless the latter team takes a very big brace there is no doubt that the Rand bowlers will win first honors in the league. The Makaria class now leads the Davis by only two points in the standing and to hold second place the Bethany boys will need to win two points in their match tonight.

The Employed Boys Class at the Y. M. C. A. will elect new captains tonight and also choose new teams for a short tournament in baseball, volley-ball and cricket. About 24 boys will be in the new games, and some red-hot competition may be expected especially in the base ball games as several of the youngsters made good records while in the grammar schools.

The annual "Gym" night of the Y. M. C. A. will be held on Friday night of this week in the Association hall. Dr. E. R. Johnson, chairman of the physical department will preside, and short talks will be made by George A. Sidelinger, President of the Association, General Secretary Bromley, and a brief report of the activities of the physical department for the past season will be read by the Physical Director. Joe Beal of Braintree will be the entertainer of the evening and popular songs will also be sung by the members and friends. Prizes will be presented to the winners in the various games and tournaments held during the year.

John Minihan netted 963 points in the weekly whist parties at Ave Maria council, Knights of Columbus, during the past winter and took the season prize offered for high score. He was presented with a century ride trip ticket at the Club rooms Tuesday night by Lecturer Edward Reinhalter. James White was second with 938, and Owen O'Toole third with 918.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKET BALL

Review of Season Very Satisfactory to Team

The recently closed basketball season at Quincy High school is one of which members are exceedingly proud from two standpoints: a clean, sportsmanlike spirit on the part of players and spectators, and a decided success from the standpoint of games won.

The team started the season with but one veteran, Capt. Jenkins, available. Browne, White, Bates, Hamlin and Martin had played on the second team of the year before, and from such material, apparently second class, there developed a team which captured fifteen out of nineteen games from the best teams in the state, and tied for second place in the interscholastic league, Winthrop High, considered the best team in the vicinity when the season started. The bulk of the credit for the development of this material goes to Mr. French, who, assisted by Mr. Mansur and Mr. Thompson, coached the team.

Capt. Jenkins at left forward naturally, was the pivot of team while on the floor. The quintette never worked as smoothly with him out of the game, having in him the confidence usually placed in a veteran. Earl Bates, playing the other forward, although smaller than the rest proved to be one of the best players of the league by his accurate shooting. Besides netting fifty-two baskets, he scored ninety-six points on fouls. This gives him the distinction of being the team's high scorer, with a total of two hundred points.

Leon White at center was pitted against the best man on nearly every team. Putman of Wellesley, Merkelovitz of Fall River, Brown of Holliston, and Bates of Revere were all stars; yet White not only played these men even, but in the season out scored his opponents by twenty points. This record stands out still more when it is considered that the coaches required that White play a defensive game. It is the opinion of the coaches that no one member of the team was so much responsible for the team's showing as White.

As guards Hamlin, Crocker, Page and Martin played clean cut, aggressive basket ball. Hamlin developed into one of the best backs of the season, and scored within eight of as many baskets as all his opponents combined.

The following statistics of the season have been compiled:

	Baskets.	On F's	Total P's	By R's

COAL COMBINE FOUND

Anthracite Sold by Forty Men at Over 300 Percent Profit

Trenton, April 1.—The assembly coal investigating committee submitted a report to the house that eleven big railroad companies control 87 percent of the total antiracite mined; that there is a general combination between these companies to fix prices, and that the coal sales companies are owned and controlled by the railroads and are devised by the carriers for the purpose of technically avoiding the commodities clause of the Hepburn railroad act.

The report asserts that these companies also control a large proportion of the acreage of all the anthracite producing regions. The committee declares that the prepared sizes of anthracite coal, such as stove, egg and chestnut, used almost exclusively by the small consumers, are sold at the enormous profit of upward of 300 percent.

The committee further asserts that the business of mining and selling this 87 percent of hard coal is controlled by a combination of forty men.

NO FEARS FOR SAFETY

Revival of Rumor That Mishap Had Befallen Roosevelt

New York, April 1.—What appeared to be a roundabout revival of the rumor that some mishap had befallen Theodore Roosevelt in Brazil received no credence at the colonel's offices here. A vague dispatch, purporting to come from Peru, said that alarm was expressed for his safety.

Those who naturally would receive first information in the circumstances pointed out that the whereabouts of the party, as recently reported directly by cable, indicated that telegraphic advices from Roosevelt could hardly reach Peru at this time.

They assumed that the Peru rumor was likely to prove a recurrent one based on the canoe overturning incident, which caused a flurry when published here March 23.

CARRIED A LARGE CARGO OF RIFLES

Vessels Disappear After Embargo by Danish Officials

Copenhagen, April 1.—A mysterious cargo of 300 tons of rifles, supposed to be intended for Ireland, disappeared from the vicinity of the Danish island of Langeland during the night after an embargo had been placed on it by the authorities.

The rifles were brought to Langeland on board a lighter from Hamburg, which anchored off the island. A short time afterward the Norwegian steamer Fanny drew up alongside and proceeded to take the arms on board.

The Danish authorities then came upon the scene and seized the papers of the lighter and the steamer, whose commanders were ordered to await further instructions. During the night the two vessels vanished.

KEITH'S WILL OPENED

Leader In Theatrical World Made Son His Sole Executor

Boston, April 1.—Announcement was made by the family of Benjamin F. Keith that the will of the theatrical magnate had been opened and read by the widow and son.

After making "generous provision" for the widow, it is stated, the will bequeaths the residue of the estate to his son, A. P. Keith, who is made sole executor.

No statement has been given out as yet as to the value of the estate left by Keith.

Keith's entire theatrical business was acquired some time before his death by his son and Edward F. Albee. The latter was Keith's general manager. They are now absolute owners and will continue the business as it is at present, it is understood.

VICTORY FOR AVE MARIA

Ave Maria beat Quincy council 4 to 0 in a bowling match at the City Square alleys Tuesday night in connection with the K. of C. tournament, and netted enough points to overcome the 5 to 4 score against them, coming in and taking the big end of the tournament 8 to 5.

Ave Maria sliced off two more pins in the first team single than did the Quincys and gradually increased their lead until 26 pins separated them in the totals. Thomas J. Shortle, whose mark of 140 in the West Quincy league still stands, got high single, 103. Avery of Quincy took the high total with 277.

NEW LEADERS CLAN LEAGUE

Michaels Drop and O'Neil Stock Booms

The O'Neils ousted the Michaels team from the leadership in the Clan MacGregor league in the Coliseum alley rolloff Tuesday night and are now leading by seven points.

McLean, anchor man on his team, rolled 144 and established a single string record which stands not alone in the league but also as the best single made in competition this season. His team boosted the team single record from 507, made last week by the O'Neils to 516.

Incidentally it was McLean's team that took the crimp out of the Michaels quintette while the runners up were having an enjoyable time burying the Thompson. The standing to date is:

WILSON WINS IN THE HOUSE

Bill to Repeal Panama Tolls Exemption Is Carried

HAS MAJORITY OF EIGHTY-SIX

Clark's Speech In Opposition Is Feature of Final Debate—Speaker Cheered by Entire Assemblage After Smoothing Over Party Breach —Measure Ready For Senate

Washington, April 1.—The house of representatives last night, after one of the most spectacular legislative struggles in the history of the nation, voted to repeal the provision of the Panama canal act exempting American vessels from the payment of tolls.

The vote on the repeal bill was 247 to 161, a majority of 86 votes in support of the personal plea of President Wilson.

This verdict on the issue which has absorbed congress for many weeks came at the close of a stirring day, made memorable in the annals of the house by a party division, which found Speaker Clark, Majority Leader Underwood and other Democratic chieftains lined up in open opposition to the president on an issue which the latter had declared vital to his conduct of the nation's foreign policy.

The bill now goes to the senate, where the fight will be renewed with all the vigor and determination that attended it in the lower house.

On the final vote, 220 Democrats in the house stood by the president, giving him in "ungrudging measure" what he had asked "for the honor of the nation" in its foreign relations. Twenty-five Republicans and two Progressives also voted to sustain the president.

Fifty-two Democrats followed Clark and Underwood to defeat in their steadfast determination that the president was wrong in his decision that the toll exemption for American ships is a violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty with Great Britain. Nothing, it seemed, could stem the tide of administration success.

Speaker Clark, for nearly twenty-two years a member of the house, made the speech of his life to forestall what he called "unquestionable degredation of the nation." In this he failed, but he did smooth over the party breach with kindly words for his adversaries, praise for President Wilson and an unqualified denial of any vaulting ambition on his own behalf.

When he had closed the debate for the opposition to the repeal with an impassioned argument in which he often departed from his prepared speech, the speaker was triumphant in defeat, for the entire legislative assemblage, in which were many senators, rose en masse to cheer him.

President Wilson was at dinner when the result of the vote was announced. He was gratified, but made no comment.

In the senate, the bill will be referred to the committee on interoceanic canals, of which Senator O'Gorman, a vigorous opponent of the measure, is chairman. O'Gorman has said he would call a meeting of the committee at once to consider the bill. That there will be a fight in that committee is certain.

How long the bill will be there cannot be predicted, but administration senators propose that a vote shall be taken by the committee within a reasonable time. Senator Owen is leading the fight for the president in the committee.

COUNCILMEN SHALL VOTE

West Quincy Men Criticised for Not Voting

Considerable unfavorable comment is being made because Councilman Little of Ward Four refused to declare himself on roll call Monday night on the annual appropriation order, when the vote was taken on its passage. The vote came shortly after the Councilman had been unsuccessful in his attempt to reduce the amount for street lighting from $33,000 to $30,000, and his refusal to vote was evidently because he felt provoked that the Council had not taken more seriously his argument and did not agree with him, which was rather unfair. Every man is entitled to his own opinion, and because 22 other men did not agree with him, it showed a boy like spirit in refusing to vote either way.

When the roll call was being taken and his name was reached, he arose and stated that he desired to vote on all items except that for street lighting, but was informed by the Chairman that the question could not then be divided. The Councilman's name was called twice but he failed to answer either yes or no.

The refusal of the Councilman to vote was in direct violation of the rules of the Council, and should not be allowed to pass unnoticed. It has been stated by one official that his refusal under the circumstances was sufficient grounds for the Council to declare the seat vacant, but even if possible, it is doubtful if that body would carry the matter as far as that.

The rule governing voting in numbered 15, and reads as follows: "Every member present, except the presiding officer, when a question is put and not excluded by interest, SHALL VOTE unless the Council by vote excuse him, application to be excused on any question must be made before the Council is divided, or before the calling of the yeas and nays and shall be decided without debate."

If Councilman Little desired to be excused from voting he should requested to be excused before the voting commenced.

OLDE FOLKES CONCERTE

Pleasing Program at Wollaston Methodist Church

"Ye olde folkes concerte" brought to the Wollaston Methodist church, Tuesday evening, an audience which overflowed the seating capacity. The program was an attractive one, and the chorus and principals in costumes of long ago made a pretty sight.

A march by the orchestra opened the program and two chorus selections "Invitation" and "Sherbourne" followed, Goodman Miller of Springfield beating time. A duet by S. N. Belcher in his knickerbocker and frills, and Mrs. O. N. Estes in her poke bonnet and quaint gown made a decided hit.

Several readings by Miss Bella McMichael of Boston were enjoyed including "Parliamentary law" "The wind," "Confidences," and "Her catch." "Grandma's advice" was prettily sung by Mrs. Walter Sutermeister and the chorus numbers included "Strike the cymbal," "O turn thee" and "Old folks at home," concluding with the stirring "Marseilles."

"Jehovah's praise" opened part two, and Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook sang "Within a mile of Edinboro town." Frank Dunham assisted by the chorus sang "Cousin Jedediah" in a very effective manner.

Readings during the second part included "The long handled dipper" "Billy Brad's lie" and "The fly," "Jerusalem" was sung by the chorus and "Yankee sleigh ride" by the men singers with F. A. Sutermeister as soloist.

Mr. Miller sang "Jedediah blow the fire" assisted by the chorus, and all present joined in "The star spangled banner" which brought the evening to a close.

Mrs. F. G. Bennett presided at the piano and a large orchestra assisted. The affair, which was given under the auspices of Group Two of the Ladies Aid, was a distinct success.

Composing the chorus were: Mrs. O. N. Estes, Mrs. W. E. Keyes, Mrs Walter Sutermeister, Miss Marguerite Louise Holbrook, Miss Beulah Collett, Miss Hilda Bailey, Miss Lucy Palmer, Mrs. Seymour Scott, Mrs. E. A. Roberts, Miss Mertie Lovelle, Miss Nettie Crittenden and Miss Myrtle Starbird.

F. A. Sutermeister, Walter Sutermeister, S. N. Belcher, Nelson Merrill, Franklin Dunham, F. E. Baumber, Raymond Cassidy, Clarence Cassidy, E. A. Roberts and F. G. Bennett.

The ushers were Mrs. Eric H. Ewertz, Mrs. F. A. Sutermeister, Mrs. Louis E. Crosscup and Mrs. L. C. Merrill.

PLUMBER WAS MOST NEEDED

Steam from Leaky Pipe Taken for Smoke from Fire

When T. L. Williams discovered what he thought was smoke coming from the basement of his store at 1.25 this noon he should have telephoned the plumber and not the fire department, for the firemen from the Central Station found that the supposed fire was nothing more than steam caused by a leaky hot water heating pipe. However as Chief Billings said it was better to be on the safe side.

LOVING CUP PRESENTED

Services of Superintendent Alex Clark Appreciated

Appreciation of the services of Alexander Clark, as superintendent for seven years of the Sunday School of the First Presbyterian church, were shown at a banquet of the officers and teachers at the church Tuesday evening. Rev. J. A. Matheson, the pastor, presided and presented Mr. Clark with a friendship cup which bore the following inscription:

"Presented to Alexander Clark by teachers and officers, March 31, 1914, in recognition of faithful services as superintendent of the First Presbyterian Sunday School, Quincy, Massachusetts."

ALEXANDER CLARK.

Mr. Clark responded and there were also remarks by Alfred Bishop, the newly elected superintendent and others. Mr. Clark has been superintendent for seven or eight years, and resigns to devote his full time to a young men's class in which he has been much interested. It was a very enjoyable evening for all.

The third degree staff of Mt. Wollaston lodge, I. O. O. F., of which Past Grand Charles S. Jones is degree master and Walter H. Walker noble grand gave an exemplification of the degree upon sixteen candidates on Tuesday evening.

HERMAN FRASCH IN TROUBLE.

The steamship Herman Frasch, built at the Fore River shipyard for the Union Sulphur Co., is helpless off Hatteras. Wireless calls have been received and revenue cutters are making for the ship. The S. O. S. messages do not contain the cause of her plights.

—Common sense ought to know that in an age of general competition things cannot be made or sold for less than their market value, and hence it is absurd to talk about cheapness. But there is something more important than that to be understood, something that touches the welfare of a whole nation—namely, that a habit of doing bad work is degrading, like a habit of telling lies. Thoroughness of work is honesty of character, without which no nation can progress.—Westminster Gazette.

BUSY NIGHT AT BOARD OF TRADE

Plans Completed for Entertainment of Massachusetts Grocers and Ladies

Is Quincy Able to Supply Granite For Large Contracts

In the absence of President John L. Hamilton, Vice President Joseph A. Sedgwick presided at the meeting of the Board of Trade Wednesday evening. The meeting was held in the rooms of the Granite Manufacturers' association and was well attended.

NEW MEMBERS.

Twelve business men were elected to membership, as follows: E. E. Estey, William E. Foley, Roy W. Wascoat, Charles R. Cummings, G. G. Roberts, H. H. Ralph, William B. Holmes, F. J. Williams, C. B. Huston, Faxon Billings, Moses L. Brown, Charles A. Chase.

PAINT UP, CLEAN UP.

The secretary, reporting for Chester I. Campbell of the city improvement committee, said that he would have something to report soon on the paint up and clean up week.

GROCERS' CONVENTION.

A. L. Whitman of the entertainment committee reported that plans for the entertainment of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers' Association, April 15, were well under way. That the Board would serve them with a lunch at its roms. That in the morning the grocers would be taken for an auto trip to the Fore River shipyard, and that in the afternoon the ladies would be given auto rides and would visit Kincaide's theatre.

Secretary Hall said that he had prepared a sketch of Quincy for the official program. The President hoped that the citizens would unite in extending hospitality to the visitors.

GRANITE FOR DRY DOCK.

A resolution was adopted relative to the use of granite for the new dock in Boston urging that granite be used in preference to cement and that preference be given to Quincy granite, also requesting the Governor to specify Quincy granite ,and that preference be given to Massachusetts labor. The resolution was adopted.

BOOM QUINCY.

The membership committee reported that it had prepared a circular, 5,000 copies of which had been printed, for merchants and others to enclose in their correspondence. The circular contains valuable information about Quincy, giving its area, population, location, method of transportation, and what it offers in the way of schools, library, hospital, churches, clubs, etc. etc.

NEW INDUSTRIES.

Under new industries, a report was made relative to the Atlantic Rubber company for which a location was desired in Quincy. Arrangements had been made that the company could secure two and one half acres at Atlantic, and the proposition was to erect a building for them and rent it to the company for a period of years. When this company had completed its contracts in its present location it would probably come to Quincy.

Herbert S. Barker went into detail of the work of the Board in the arrangement of matters ho that the Paumatic Scale Co. might be retained in Quincy. The Board had been successful in its efforts and the company was now building a new concrete building and other concrete buildings would replace the wooden structures now in use. The work of the Board in this instance had been a good advertisement for the Board.

The Water Front Committee, through Frank Fessenden Crane, reported what had been done toward securing the glass company to locate in Quincy. Everything had been successful, but before the deal had been consumated the parties received a flattering offer from London to bring the invention over there with a view to purchase and the deal was off. However the committee had the satisfaction of knowing that the gentleman had said that of all places he had looked at, Quincy offered the best advantages.

VOTE OF THANKS.

Vice President Sedgwick reported that a board containing the officers and all of the committees had been placed in the rooms, and a vote of thanks was tendered T. L. Williams for furnishing the board.

TRANSPORTATION.

W. H. Teasdale reported what the transportation committee were doing and that it was about assured that the additions to the train service desired a South Quincy would be given. He also spoke of better facilities that were being arranged on the Quincy-Dudley street electric car line.

He also spoke of the courteous manner in which the committee had been received by A. B. Smith, the general passenger agent and his chief clerk and a vote of thanks tendered these gentlemen for their courtesy to the Board of Trade.

COMMITTEE ON SIGN.

T. L. Williams, for the special committee on sign, reported that a 25 foot sign could be had for $30. That is would cost $100 a year to light it

POISONED BY BERRIES

Little Children Seriously Ill After Trip to Woods

Several hours after a trip to the woods near their home on Wednesday afternoon, Sylva Carlson, the three year old daughter of Peter Carlson of 95 Cranch street, and Battle Johnson, the five year old son of Peter Johnson of 85 Cranch street were attacked with severe pains in the stomach. Little Sylvia, between gasps told her parents that she had eaten April Fools candy. She was taken to the hospital where the surgeons applied a stomach pump and removed a large quantity of berries, thought to have been dog berries, a poisonous fruit that grows in many parts of the city.

Little Battle was treated at his home and the same kind of berries removed from his stomach, but his condition was in no way as serious as that of his playmate.

It was not until Battle told the story of the trip to the woods and the eating of the berries that surgeons realized why they found no trace of poinoned candy in Sylvia's stomach. Battle is resting comfortably and the little girls condition is grave.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Mayor Looks Upon Appropriations As a Bad Dose

The annual appropriation order passed by the City Council Monday night was still on the Mayor's desk, unopened this morning, just as it was received from the Clerk of the Council When asked what he was going to do with it, the Mayor said the way some people do in taking a bad dose of medicine. That is they put it off as long as possible. Then he laughed, but gave no intimation as to when he would consider it or what he would do with it.

He did say, however, that he has just received notice from the State police of a new law enacted this year, which would make more work for the buzz wagon of the Inspector of Buildings, if he got it. This law is one which requires the Inspector of Buildings, if a city has one, to inspect every hotel and boarding house of more than eight rooms to see if the regulations relative to fire escapes, etc., were being carried out. In such places the law provides that each room shall be provided with a knotted rope for use in case of fire. It is the duty therefore of the Inspector of Buildings to visit all hotels and boarding houses of the city to see that the provisions of the new law are carried out.

Another thing which the Inspector informed the City Council he had to do, was to inspect places to see if the law in regard to the collection of rubbish was being lived up to. Everybody has supposed that this was part of the duty of the Chief Engineer of the Fire department, but it appears that it is up to the Inspector of Buildings to make these inspections.

QUINCY MUTUAL RECOVERS

Had Given Check to Pay Forged Note of $25,000

The full bench of the Supreme court has decided that the International Trust Company must pay the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company $24,066.66, the amount of a check given by the latter in payment of a note for $25,000 to the town of Framingham, on which the names of two selectmen had been forged by John M. Lombard, a former treasurer of the town.

The note with the endorsment of Lombard was deposited with the International Trust Co., to the account of the American Banking Co. It matured on Oct. 15, 1909, and was not paid. The finding was the outcome of a suit for the amount of the check.

The court says: "The record shows that the defendant collected the check and credited the proceeds to the account of the American Banking Co. The defendant dealt with " as the property of the banking company, and thereby in law became liable to the plaintiff for the proceeds thereof."

VAUDEVILLE AT WOLLASTON

Kiddies Offering to Park and Downs Church

A pleasing vaudeville show opening with musical selections and closing with a one act farce, formed the entertainment at the Park and Downs vestry Wednesday evening given under the auspices of the infant class of the Sunday School as its Easter offering. Although it was in charge of the "kiddies" the talent was furnished by the Norwoll club of the church, and the young men demonstrated their ability to furnish an evenings entertainment full of interest.

Opening the program was the Fedara Trio, composed of Miss Freda Klingenhagen, pianist, Charles A. Richardson violin, and Allan Painten, tenor. The first was a vocal solo with violin obligato and was followed by a tenor solo by Mr. Painten. Lowell A. Norris made a hit as an impersonator and it was regretted that a little "kidding" on, the part of the audience caused him to cut short his act. His first character was an English dude in which he took the part to perfection. His rendition of Alexander's Ragtime band after the London style was a scream. Other Other characters depicted were the Italian and Rube types.

The final number was a one act farce entitled "Fooling father" by the Millard Sumner Company. Composing the cast were Paul Somerville, a retired merchant, Millard Sumner, Jack Somerville, his son, Percy Carter Fred Faulkner, Jack's friend, Stanley Smith. The acting caused much laughter and the story was full of diversified events.

Communications were read from the various clubs, one from the Quincy Women's club inviting the Squantum club to attend a reception to be tendered Mrs. Perkins, President of the State Federation on Saturday April 18. Many of the members are planning to attend this reception.

NEW CLUBHOUSE IS WANTED

Town River Yacht Club to Act on Purchase of Land

Action will be taken at the quarterly meeting of the Town River yacht club Tuesday evening April 7, relative to empowering the Executive Committee to purchase additional land and erect a new club house. The need of additional room by the club has long been felt. When the club started it was in a small way and the building now used was purchased. Under the good work of the clubs first and second Commodores, Eugene R. Stone and Thompson B. Crane, the club prospered from the first, and it was not long before the mortgage was liquidated and the club was free from debt. The club has continued to grow and prosper and this winter under Commodore Mellen has been unusually active. The present quarters are entirely inadequate for the club and with a new and larger club house it could extend its usefulness. The committee has completed arrangements for the annual dance of the club which will be held at Alpha hall Tuesday evening, April 21.

About now the landlady brings in the fresh vegetables supplied from the grocers' excellent stock of canned goods.

It is claimed that the mail order houses have increased their business 20 per cent. since the parcel post was introduced, but they never believed you could sell goods merely by unlocking your front door and waiting for the public to come in. They advertise.

The man with the hoe grows a little scarcer every spring, as the farmers have a preference for tools they can sit down on.

There is again talk about reducing the size of United States paper money but as it would save a million, Congress may not look on the idea with favor.

There is a general feeling among the girls that with a spring hat costing about $23.50, they could afford to show up at church Easter Sunday.

It is claimed that the new style of buffalo nickels look cheap, but that will not hinder people from putting them into the contribution box.

President Wilson is trying to persuade the statesmen of Mexico of the benefits of foreign travel.

FOREIGNERS WELCOMED.

However it may be elsewhere, it cannot be charged against the people of Quincy that they neglect the rights of the foreigner in their midst, even if we don't invite them to our homes and social functions. We maintain evening schools at great expense for their benefit. We give them work. They are welcomed at our most exclusive churches, as well as at others. They enjoy the protection of our laws. When they become naturalized we elect them to office without discrimination, provided they are desirable candidates. We give them every encouragement and reasonable aid in becoming used to American ways and participating in our affairs.

All this is true of our treatment of those who cannot speak our language on arriving here. As for English speaking immigrants we treat them exactly like our own people in social and religious relations from the moment they arrive. And when they assume the obligations of citizenship there is no hesitation about voting them into political office if they are worthy and properly qualified.

There is no prejudice against the foreigner in Quincy. On the contrary a great deal is done for him if he proves himself to be industrious and law-abiding.

TROOPS RUSH TO VELASCO'S AID

Huerta Endeavors to Avoid Capture of Torreon

DEFEAT MEANS HIS OVERTHROW

Herrera Detailed by Villa to Meet Advancing Column of Forty-Five Hundred Men—Federals Still Hold Beleagured City—Military Positions Practically Unchanged

Juarez, Mex., April 2.—Denial of the report that an armistice had been declared at Torreon to discuss the terms of the surrender of the city by the federal army was followed by the report that President Huerta was rushing troops to the relief of General Velasco, the federal commander, and that several thousand trained men were now nearing Torreon.

Huerta has realized that this is the big battle of the revolution and is moving heaven and earth to save his army from defeat. He has now come to understand that victory for the rebels now will in all probability spell the final overthrow of his government.

The rebels have several forces out around Torreon, trying to intercept the reinforcements and the fate of the city depends upon wherhet General Villa's men can prevent them from relieving Velasco.

The new column, reported marching to the relief of Velasco, was said to be under the command of General Maas and to number 4500 men.

To meet him, it was reported, General Herrera was detailed by Villa. An engagement between these forces was expected hourly.

Carranza informed American, British and German consuls that reports of the fall of Torreon were premature.

General Carranza, through Roberto V. Pesqueria, gave out a statement that the federals still held the general barracks and two smaller barracks in Torreon. This indicates that there have been no material changes in military positions in Torreon.

BOYS GOT CHURCH SILVER

Found It Easy to Solve Combination Lock on Strong Box

Boston, April 2.—Tnree boys, the oldest 8 years, solved the combination of the burglar-proof safe in the vestry of the Second Universalist church and rifled it of silver valued at $700, the police discovered yesterday.

The fire which practically destroyed the church did not injure the safe, which preserved the silver set intact. Sexton Lane declares he locked the safe.

The children, in playing with the knob, managed to hit upon the right combination of numbers, or the dial combination was not twirled sufficiently to fix the combination lock.

The names of the children are being kept from the public by the police, who say the boys did not realize the serious nature of their act in removing the silver.

"NOTORIOUSLY DANGEROUS"

Pet Ants Are Now on Hands of the Agricultural Department

Washington, April 2. — Mrs. Charles W. Morse's colony of European ants, seized by treasury department inspectors in New York last week, have come to the agricultural department and officials there are now wondering what to do with them.

Dr. Howard, chief of the bureau of entomology, believes the ants to be dangerous to farm products and wants to destroy them, but is uncertain as to their status.

The law says that animals and insects "notoriously dangerous" must not be imported into the United States. Mrs. Morse is insisting upon their return. The ants, housed in a glass covered case, were bought abroad by Mrs. Morse as a curiosity.

STORM AND STRESS HAVE DISAPPEARED

Home Rule Is Calmly Debated In House of Commons

London, April 2.—A remarkably pacific spirit has come over the political situation, in strange contrast to the stom and stress of a week ago. It is almost certain that Mr. Asquith will be returned to parliament unopposed. The feeling in favor of a settlement of the home rule question on a federal basis is gaining ground.

The Unionist, Sir Mark Sykes, made a strong appeal for such a settlement during the debate on the home rule bill, which also was notable for a very pacific speech by John Dillon, Nationalist.

The younger members of the Unionist party and the older members on the Liberal side are working hard to secure a settlement of the home rule question by consent.

KNEW NOTHING OF LETTERS

Former Premier of France Denies Testimony of Mme. Caillaux

Paris, April 2.——Louis Barthou, former premier, declared Mme. Caillaux's testimony false when she stated that Mme. Gueydan, a former wife of Joseph Caillaux, had read to him letters which Mme. Caillaux feared would be published.

Barthou was giving evidence before Henri Boucard, investigating magistrate in charge of the inquiry into the killing of Gaston Calmette by Mme. Caillaux.

The former premier said he knew of the existence of the letters only at the time of the death of Calmette.

Although on an average 500 men were fed during the twenty-one days the soup kitchen was open, the number of men fed at the Wayfarers' Lodge last night was only increased by twenty-seven.

WORK WANTED BY THE NEEDY

The Overseer of the Poor is doing good work in the line of assisting people to obtain employment. In all cases it is where the parties have made application to the department for aid. They claim they are willing to work but unable to find any. In the case of several men, Overseer Green has been able to place them in positions where they can earn enough at least to support themselves. Then there are many cases of women who would gladly go out washing or take in work if able to get it, and in these cases the Overseer has been able to find employment for them. He thus saves the city from the necessity of supplying these people with food and clothing.

The newspapers are co-operating with Overseer Green by publishing his want advertisements free of charge.

An entertainment was given in Protection hall after the close of the meeting which included songs and dances by the new candidates and older members. Refreshments were served. An exhibition drill was given by the degree team under the direction of Geo. Mitchell, conductor.

RUNAWAY BOY COMES TO QUINCY

James Reynolds, 17 years old who ran away from the state home at Waverly on Monday, was picked up in City Square Tuesday night by patrolman Olsen, whose attention was first attracted to the boy by his general appearance. When he inquired where he could secure 10 cent lodgings in this city that would be as good as his bed on Monday night on the dismantled T wharf , he was questioned and wiliingly admitted that he was a runaway. He said one piece of dry toast had been his food all day Tuesday and that he welcomed being taken into custody although his return to the home would not be agreeable as he had run away because another boy had struck him on the face several times and might repeat the performance. The authorities took him back to Waverly this morning.

TALK ON SOCIALISM.

A. E. Usenius, a former member of of the senate of Finland, and one of the leading Socialists of that country, addressed the members of the Scandinavian Socialist Club and friends in Electa hall Wednesday night. He talked on Socialism and organization. At the close of the address he was questioned by members of the Swedish Socialist Labor Party.

—"The errand boys and stock clerks of a large concern are the underpinnings on which the success of that house is to stand, and they in part must be taught to feel the dignity of the business in which they have become participants," was urged in a talk on "In Business for Yourself," by George S. Smith, former president of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, before the members of a class in "Business Efficiency and Salesmanship," at the Boston Y. M. C. Union, a few nights ago. The trouble with some clerks is that they are mere time-servers and fail utterly to grasp the fact that their own interests and those of their employer are identical.—Banker & Tradesman.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

Owing to the present warring conditions in our neighboring country, American eyes are turned with especial interest, just now, to Mexico.

For the use of those who care to make a study of the country and its history, a bulletin on that subject has been made and hung in Crane Memorial hall, near the door.

This bulletin shows pictures of the men most concerned in the recent rebellion which has resulted in Huerta's presidency, and scenes from the seat of war, showing modern methods of attack.

About two dozen books of travel and the older history of the country appear on a list which accompanies the pictures, and besides the books, numerous selected magazine articles bring the history down to the current month.

A large map of Mexico is also posted, which will prove of use to those who follow the battles or read the books on travel.

School Masters Club.

The Quincy School Masters Club held its semi-annual banquet at the Quincy house, Boston, Tuesday evening, with the largest attendance in the history of the organization. In addition to the active members, many former members now teaching in other cities were present. Headmaster Arthur Lee of the Malden High School was the speaker of the evening, and his topic was "The impressions and experiences of an Exchange Teacher in the German schools. At the business meeting of the club, the following officers were elected: President, Ernest L. Collins; Vice President, David H. Goodspeed, Secretary and Treasurer, J. G. Spofford.

Teachers' Association.

The Quincy Teachers Association meets this evening at the Coddington School hall, and with their friends will be entertained by the Huff Concert Company. The meetings of the association are always enjoyable and this evening promises to be no exception. The play given by the members some weeks ago before a limited audience will be repeated later publicly for charitable purposes.

Adams School Grounds.

It is to be hoped that the Adams school grounds may be properly graded as soon as weather conditions will permit. There have been a number of accidents to the pupils, by no means slight, as a result of the extremely rocky condition of the surface, and the sooner these rocks can be covered, the better it will be for the school.

Evening Schools.

The incident reported in Wednesday evening's Ledger of the Russian who made so prompt entrance to the public evening schools is characteristic of the spirit shown this year in the public evening school work. These schools have been greatly appreciated by the immigrant living in Quincy, and will undoubtedly find it easier in succeeding years to strengthen their hold as a result of the confidence they now inspire.

Lecture on Birds.

The nature loving public of the city will have an opportunity Friday afternoon to listen to a lecture by Winthrop Packard of Boston, a well known authority on "Birds and their ways." The lecture will take place at the Coddington school at 4 P. M. and in addition to the teachers and older pupils of the city, the public in general will be heartily welcome.

Cranch School.

The pupils of Grade IV, Miss Annie C. Healey teacher, are justly proud of the fact that not a member of the class has been tardy during the past seven months of the school year. Interest in the interclass base ball games is keen. Grade V has won the most games at the present writing.

Mass. Fields School.

An entertainment will be given by the pupils of grades seven and eight to raise money for the Parent-Teachers' Association and the base ball team, on Thursday and Friday evenings this week at 7.30.

The program includes a song—"Over hill, over dale" by Grade VIII; a dialogue, "Capture of Major Andre," by Carroll Wright, George Nichols, Aubrey Nicholson and Percy Coupal; "Home Study," Edna Mellish; Song, "Lift Thine Eyes," by Violet Shay, Percy Coupal Katherine Finn and Warren Ranagan. Also a dialogue, "Waiting for the Train" by Ethel Chapman, Mildred Morris, Blanch Morris, Mildred Matiack, Dorothy Chase, Helen Pease, Arleen Williams, Horatio Holland, Warren Ranagan, William Hammond, Everett Miller, Ralph Painten, Gordon Banks and Alvah Reynolds.

Pupils will be admitted free to a performance today at 3 P. M. Candy will be on sale both evenings.

Wollaston School.

The Wollaston Parent-Teachers' Association is glad to announce that Rabbi Stephen S. Wise is to deliver his much advertised address on "Making life worth Living" in the school hall, Monday evening, April 6, at eight o'clock. A crowded house is assured.

The New York Evening Mail says: "Rabbi Wise was born in Budapest, Hungary, March 17, 1872. He received his preparatory education at the College of the City of New York, 1887-91; was graduated from Columbia College School of Arts, 1892; special study in divinity Ph. D., Columbia, 1901. After varied activities in New York and later on the Pacific coast, he accepted the call to be the head of the Free Synagogue in New York, and has since exercised a large influence in social, civic and religious affars, hs sermons and addresses being reported in the press throughout the country.

"His pulpit was fearless. He preached what he thought, not at all times what his listeners might want to hear. But those open, frank expressions won him great renown on the Pacific coast and the absolute freedom of his position attracted great crowds to hear him. He was sought by his people in New York and he came simply to be where the fight was thickest, giving up the greatest offer, in my mind, ever made a preacher, and today we find him a sturdy character, striking blows straight from the shoulder."

A committee meeting on supervised playground will be held Monday evening at 7 o'clock, and report at the regular meeting. Members of the committee are Messrs. Hutchins, Shaw, Morgan, Page, Goodspeed, Keyes, Brown, Pinkham and Murray.

SCHOOL FOR CITIZENSHIP

Lynn Idea Should Be Adopted in Quincy

It looks as if the Y. M. C. A. of Lynn were on the right track when it attempts to reach the new comers from foreign lands. It is work that must be done in Quincy and every city. The Lynn Item says:

About 50 foreign born men assembled Monday evening at the lecture room of the public library in response to an invitation to join the school for citizenship. These men have all applied for their second papers. The following committee, Hon. George H. Newhall, Roy F. Bergengren, Frederic W. Perkins, D. D., John A. O'Keefe, Francis Haseltine and Freeman H. Newhall, plan to provide instruction to fit those candidates for citizenship, giving them the ideals and principles of our government and introducing from time to time, representatives of city, county, State and national government, who shall address them.

This work is being promoted by the Young Men's Christian Association and the teacher for the course is Eustis Rowland, Yale 1911. Sessions will be held each Monday evening at the public library, unless the place become too small. As the instructors volunteer their services, no charge is made to those attending.

Mayor Newhall opened the meeting and made an appropriate address of welcome as presiding officer. John A. O'Keefe also gave a most comprehensive and earnest presentation of the privileges of citizenship in these United States and was enthusiastically applauded.

The principal speaker of the evening was Guy D. Gold of Brockton, Y. M. C. A., an expert in the field of work among "coming Americans." He spoke on "Our Government and the Ideals Behind It," and gave a sample hour of instruction on the three great divisions of government, executive, legislative and judicial. He illustrated his address by many practical experiences in work of this kind and some puzzling questions that had been put by courts of naturalization. The men were so interested that they kept him long answering questions. This was followed by Mr. Rowland and Freeman Newhall outlining the course for the future.

Next Monday evening the City government will be presented by Commissioner George A. Cornet, and will be open to all men who are candidates for final papers.

—It is noted that there is a measure before the legislature to change the state highway commission from a board of three members to a single commissioner. Some of the country selectmen, who have been before that august body pleading for assistance in road matters, have often come away with the impression that the commission was a one-headed affair anyway. —Spencer Leader.

SHORE DRIVE DISCUSSED

Easterly Route Proposed by Mayor Is Favored

Of the several hundred persons who crowded into the Aldermanic Chamber at Boston City Hall relative to the proposed boulevard from Columbia road to and including the Quincy Shore reservation, Dr. Melville Rogers of Savin Hill was the only one, apart from Commissioner William B. de las Casas, who spoke in favor of the plans submitted by the Metropolitan Park Commission says the Boston Advertiser. All favored a route that would take in Tenean and Savin Hill beaches, such as was outlined by Mayor Curley, when he opened the meeting.

There is a sum of $475,000 appropriated for the land takings alone, but what it will cost to construct the proposed boulevard was mentioned by Commissioner de las Casas in a general way as being under $1,000,000. No figures were given as to the cost of the bridge across Dorchester bay.

Commissioner de las Casas, after explaining the proposed route in detail, said that including the bridge the cost of construction of the entire parkway or boulevard would be less than the cost of constructing the parkway over the route proposed by the Mayor.

At the close the Mayor gained the point for which the public hearing was mainly held, namely, a concession from Commissioner de las Casas that the Board would willingly go over the whole proposition with the Mayor and City Council before action was taken by the Council on the approval or rejection of the plans.

BOARD OF TRADE

by gas. That the painting would cost about $15 or $20. He had been unable to obtain any figures from Mr. Faxon relative to lighting the sign by electricity. The committee was granted further time.

NEW TRUST COMPANY.

Under new business the Vice President spoke of the new trust company being formed at Wollaston.

John R. Richards went into a little history of the banking business in Quincy. There were the same number of banking institutions today as there was when the population was but 9,000. The average savings of Quincy people was $200 per capita while in Providence, R. I., it was about $670. There was something wrong in Quincy from a financial standpoint. He believed there was much money that was now being deposited in Boston, and that many people were using Boston banks that should use local banks, and he believed they would if they had facilities. Anything that would foster such a new industry as a Trust Co. for Wollaston should be encouraged, and he moved that the Board of Trade endorse the movement.

Mr. Sedgwick said that much money in Wollaston, Norfolk Downs and Atlantic did not find its way into Quincy banks. If we can by having another bank encourage deposits to be made in Quincy it would be a good thing.

Secretary Hall thought the Board ought to go slow. The Quincy Co-operative bank can now loan more money than it can get. If the new banks will injure our present banks, the Board ought not to lend its influence.

Mr. Richards said that it did not affect the centre of Quincy. Wollaston people were now doing their banking business in Boston and he believed if Wollaston had a bank it would use it.

Joseph Walker suggested a special committee to look into the subject.

Councilman Carlson said it would be a good thing to have more banks in Quincy. We are not now able to get loans from the local banks in Quincy. We need an up-to-date bank in Quincy and the Board should encourage this new industry.

The motion to endorse the new Trust Co. prevailed.

RECREATION GROUND.

Vice President Sedgwick spoke relative to seats on the Thomas Crane Library grounds for tired women to use in the summer. Several thought this would be a good idea, although Charles C. Foster thought it would mean a loafing place for hoodlums. The matter was referred to the Civic Improvement committee for investigation.

SUNDAY AT POST OFICE.

T. L. Williams said that Quincy was the only city of importance in the state where the Post office was not open on Sundays so that box holders could get their mail, and he moved that the secretary be instructed to ask the superintendent of the Quincy office to have the outer doors open on Sundays so that box owners could get their mail.

This raised quite a protest on the part of several members and after some little discussion the motion was rejected.

Secretary Hall read a resolution from the Committee of the New England Association of Commercial Executives relative to the endorsement of Massachusetts granite and Massachusetts labor for the new dock to be built in Boston.

Joseph Walker said that if $100,000 could be saved by using cement it should be used; as Quincy could not handle the contract if it should get it.

Peter T. Fallon thought we should not be narrow and confine it to Massachusetts but that all New England should be included.

Mr. Pinel thought that if it was a Massachusetts project and Massachusetts money was paying for it, the stock should come from this state. Rockport can furnish the granite.

Andrew Milne said that even if Quincy could not furnish the granite it would be a good advertisement for the use of granite in similar projects.

A. L. Whitman was surprised to hear the statement that one of our principal industries was unable to furnish the material for the dock, and could not compete. He believed that Quincy could compete. It would be but little trouble to build a spur street line to the quarries. If the granite men would only wake up they might compete. It would be a good advertisement for Quincy even if the money was lost on the contract.

James Joss said that it was not the cutting of the granite, but the quarries. Rockport granite cuts like cheese. The trouble is to get the stock in Quincy. If we had a public dock we could compete with other places. Otherwise we cannot. We cannot compete with cut stone but we can with grout, if we had the means of transportation, but the railroad rates were too high.

Peter T. Fallon thought the only fair way was by open competition.

Mr. Pinel said that no Quincy quarries could furnish stone the right size.

John R. Richards said that there were thousands and thousands of tons of grout in Quincy that was just what was needed for the back filling but that it was impossible under the present conditions to tackle it. It was a deplorable condition. If we had a public dock we could take these contracts. Other states in public work, particularly New York state, are specifying that all material shall come from that state and that work shall be done by residents of that state, when possible.

It was voted to endorse the resolution.

—With the railroads being crowded to the corner by being obliged to carry parcel post packages for less than cost Postal Savings Banks, Liability Insurance done by the State, etc., etc., you can when your business is wrecked and taken over by the government go to the soup houses which are again opened up—or starve. In the meantime, educate your children, for if you don't you will then be obliged to beg for a scholarship.—Belmont Courier.

THE GARDEN A HOBBY.

In order to obtain the greatest amount of pleasure and satisfaction from a country home, one should give much personal thought and supervision to its care. You can pay a landscape gardener, and have the entire place laid out at once, without trouble on your part. But, by so doing, you will miss one of the joys of suburban life. No two places are situated alike, so, also, no two can be planned exactly alike. Here are four simple rules that can be easily remembered. Have open lawn space, put trees and shrubbery along boundary lines, make backgrounds for hardy borders, and place flower-beds along walks and driveways. When things do not turn out satisfactorily, changes are easily made by transplanting the next season.

To concentrate one's efforts, each year, on a particular portion of the grounds, or on a special bed, and do the work thoroughly, will bring about much better results than trying to do hurriedly everything at once. Plant trees one by one, as they are particularly desired. Try to have the place looking handsomer each successive year. Try to obtain more and better flowers, and an increase of vegetables from the same amount of ground, by reading recent books and magazines on the subject. In fact, make a nobby of your garden. It will bring to you health and happiness, while at the same time, you are making the most of a suburban place.—Suburban Life.

MURDER MOTIVE IS A MYSTERY

Worcester Woman Killed by Stranger Who Shoots Self

ASKED ABOUT HIRING A ROOM

Was Being Shown Vacant Apartments When Young Foreigner Began Using Automatic Pistol—Victim Expires Almost Instantly, While Assailant Cannot Live

Worcester, Mass., April 2.—Mystery cloaks the motive for the shooting of Mrs. Mary A. Chick, an attractive woman of 35, at her home, 31 Green street, by a young man who turned his pistol upon himself. The woman is dead and the man is dying.

All efforts to identify the slayer have failed. He is evidently a foreigner and about 21 years old. The police have been unable to learn anything that would lead to his identification.

Mrs. Chick was almost instantly killed when the man shot her. The bullet took effect in the left side, near the heart. Her assailant then shot himself in the right side. He used an automatic.

The only story of the shooting that the police have obtained was told by William Reylonlds and Mrs. Ruth A. Shepherd, who were in the house at the time it took place. They rushed to Mrs. Chick's aid when they heard the first report.

They told the police that the man came to Mrs. Chick's house and told her he wished to hire a room from her. She showed him several rooms which were vacant.

At last she showed him to a room on the second floor, and they had hardly reached it when Mrs. Shepherd and Reynolds, who were downstairs, heard a shot, followed by two more. They ran upstairs and to the room where the shooting had taken place.

Through the open door they saw Mrs. Chick lying on the floor, apparently lifeless. When they entered the room they found the young man about ten feet away, bleeding from a wound in his abdomen.

The police were notified and an ambulance was called. When the ambulance arrived Mrs. Chick was dead, and her assailant was unconscious. The woman's body was taken to the morgue and the man to the city hospital.

Mrs. Chick had lived in Worcester about five years. Her husband, it is said, is connected with the Chick Printing company in Boston, and is in that city most of the time.

Reynolds is one of the lodgers at her home. Mrs. Shepherd lives in Boston. She is in Worcester at the present time as a visitor at Mrs. Chick's home.

ECHO OF STUDENTS' RIOT

Nixon Arrested For Serious Assault Committed Last October

New Haven, April 2.—Stanhope W. Nixon of New York city, a prominent junior in the Sheffield Scientific school at Yale, was arrested last night, charged with assaulting Edward M. Everett, chief engineer of the Southern New England Telephone company, on Oct, 22 last.

Everett was walking home alone late at night, when he was struck from behind with a club and rendered unconscious. It was thought at the time the motive was robbery.

On the night of the assault there was a student outbreak. Detectives have been working ever since last fall, but no definite clues were found until now.

Nixon has made a complete confession, according to the police. He said he had been drinking with other students, but otherwise gave no explanation of his act. He is out on bonds of $1500 for a hearing.

STRIKERS RETURN TO WORK

Most of Employes of Pacific Mills Are at Their Old Jobs

Lawrence, Mass., April 2.—The strike at the Pacific mills print works, inaugurated March 13 by the color mixers, who demanded an increase in wages, practically ended when all but a few of the strikers applied for their jobs again and reported for work this morning.

It is understood the strikers returned at the suggestion of Charles G. Wood of the state board of conciliation and arbitration, pending an investigation by that body of the wage scale in plants similar to the Pacific mills.

MAY BE 88,000 OUT

Ohio Mines Close and Those In Pennsylvania May Follow Suit

Chicago, April 2.—Nearly 50 000 Ohio bituminous coal miners were forced into idleness yesterday and 38,000 Pennsylvania miners may be thrown out of employment tomorrow because of the failure of the Chicago conference between the operators and officials of the United Mine Workers of America to reach a new wage agreement to take the place of the one which expired March 31.

Pending negotiations for a new agreement, coal miners in Indiana, Illinois and Iowa will continue at work.

The situation in Ohio is aggravated by a mine-run law, passed by the Ohio legislature, and which will go into effect May 15. Enactment of the law was strongly opposed by the operators. The law provides for the payment of miners on a run-of-the-mine basis instead of the screen payment plan, which has always prevailed in Ohio.

Because of the law, the operators refuse to renew contracts with the miners until conditions resulting from the act become more settled.

Unusual Action of Court In Case of Man Under $150,000 Bail

New York, April 2.—Albert Freeman, who is at liberty under $150,000 bail pending the outcome of his appeal from a five-year prison sentence for using the mails to defraud investors in mining stocks, obtained from the federal court permission to leave the country provided he could get the consent of his bondsmen.

His attorneys explained that Freeman wishes to go to Canada in connection with certain mining property.

The action of the court is unusual, inasmuch as Freeman's offense is not extraditable. He was convicted with Julian Hawthorne and William J. Morton, recently released from the Atlanta penitentiary.

NATURAL BRIDE FOR "ARTIFICIAL MAN"

Bridegroom-to-Be Got Mussed Up In Chemical Explosion

New York, April 2.—"The most artificial man in the world," by his own admission, sailed for Holland on the Holland-American liner Niew Amsterdam, where he said he expects to marry the most natural girl in the world. He is Jan van der Blassbalk, 40 years old, former owner of a glass factory in Bavaria, on the Isle of Java.

Van der Blassbalk, to substantiate his claim to artificiality, has a cork leg, a cork arm, a rubber ear, a glass eye and a wig. While experimenting with chemicals, he explained, an explosion happened, which left but little of his natural self.

REASONS ARE WITHHELD

Commissioner of Police McKay of New York Resigns Office

New York, April 2.—The resignation of Douglas I. McKay as police commissioner is in Mayor Mitchel's hands. This fact became known after the publication of a report that within three days the mayor would appoint a new commissioner. The mayor admitted, upon being questioned, that McKay had submitted his resignation. The commissioner desired to retire at once if possible, and by April 15 at the latest.

McKay declined to give his reasons for resigning. His reasons were contained in his letter to the mayor, McKay said, and the executive was at liberty to make the communication public at any time.

MAKARIA IN RUNNING

Take Three Points From the Davis Class

In a hotly contested match Wednesday night on the Y. M. C. A. alleys the Makaria class captured three out of the four points in their match with the Davis class. This victory puts the Makaria right in the running for the Sunday School league championship, as they are at present but one point behind the leaders. If the Clarke class can take three points tomorrow night from the Rand class the league standing will result in a tie.

None of the scores made last night were very high. Dufferin of the Davis Class leading in both single and total pinfall having as his high score 92 and for a total 260. The Davis Class took the first string by 12 pins but the Bethany boys came right back in the next string and won out by 11 pins. This gave the Baptists a lead of only one pin when the third string was started, and the Makaria bowlers soon overcame this and by the fifth frame they had a lead of over 40 pins. A dandy spare by Dufferin, and then another by Bergfors, cut this lead to 17 pins, but the rest of the men on the Davis Class were not equal to the emergency and the decisive point went to Bethany.

They pleaded guilty to the charge, but when Judge Murray and Assistant Probation Officer Linehan tried to find out where they got the heels they declared they found them on a bench in the South station. The case was continued by Judge Murray who told them of their advantage if they told the truth as to where they got the property.

SO DECEPTIVE

Many Quincy People Fail to Realize the Seriousness.

Backache is so deceptive.
It comes and goes—keeps you guessing.
Learn the cause—then cure it.
Possibly it's weak kidneys.
That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.
They're especially for weak or disordered kidneys.
Here's a Quincy case.
Mrs. E. H. Prouty, 85 North street, Quincy, Mass., says: "I had a backache and headaches and my kidneys acted irregularly. It took only a couple of boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills to completely cure me. Another of my family suffered from lame back and weak kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills were used in this case with equally good results. The benefit I got has been permanent. I will always be glad to publicly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for they have certainly done me a lot of good."

The Big Gunner of the Malakoff

And the Sharpshooter Who Supported Him

By F. A. MITCHEL

One of the world's greatest sieges was that of Sebastopol, which occurred in 1854-5. The fall of the fortress marked the end of the Crimean war, in which the English, the French and the Turks on one side were pitted against the Russians on the other.

It was the failure of a bluff on the part of the British ambassador at St. Petersburg that caused thousands of men to kill each other and leave a multitude of widows and orphans to mourn for them. No better argument for a world's peace parliament can be derived from any event of the nineteenth century than this diplomatic blunder.

After a good deal of fighting the Russians shut themselves up in the stronghold of Sebastopol to resist the further progress of the allies and stood one of the longest sieges in history, extending over a period of eleven months.

The allies approached the fortress by that military process which is as old as war—a system of zigzag trenches. In these trenches, in heat and cold, in wind and rain, the soldiers worked their way toward the object of their attack. From the walls the heavy guns sent iron balls to plow up the earth about them and crush those who stood in their path. On both sides the sharpshooter was ever ready to pick off any one who exposed even an infinitesimal portion of his person.

Among the guns that did the most damage to the allies was one on that part of the fortress called the Malakoff. It was an enormous piece of ordnance, which acquired a name among the Russian soldiers taken from the czar who reigned at the time, Nicholas.

THE GUNNER AND HIS PROTECTING SHARPSHOOTER.

They called the gun Old Nicholas. If it had belonged to the English the name Old Nick would have meant more than it did in Russian.

The gunner who served Old Nicholas corresponded in size to his piece. As the gun was one of the biggest in the Russian service, so was Ivan Yasnovsky, the gunner who served it, one of the biggest men in the army. He was six feet four inches high and massive in proportion. Of course he had a number of assistants, but he was plenty strong enough to put in the ponderous balls which it sent down among the trenches. And when left alone there was no diminution in the frequency of his shots.

A more important auxiliary to Ivan Yasnovsky than gun servers was the sharpshooters who when those of the enemy became too troublesome picked them off one by one until Ivan could show a bit of his person without getting a bullet in it. Half a dozen of these sharpshooters were detailed to stand by the gunner of Old Nicholas, but as the siege proceeded some of them were picked off, while others were needed at other points. At last the number was reduced to one.

This single sharpshooter was called Alexis Galieff. Though a man of middle height, beside the ponderous Ivan he looked small. He was especially marked for being beardless, and this, too, was in contrast with the gunner's bristling whiskers and mustachios. Then, too, Ivan was dark, while Alexis was light. It was remarkable how that soft blue eye of the sharpshooter would take sight at an Englishman, a Frenchman or a Turk and at a flash from his rifle the object would sink down under the blight of death.

No such execution was done by any two persons in the Russian army as by this gunner and his protecting sharpshooter. Whether it was the association under constant danger that drew them together no one knew. Certain it was that they were devoted to each other. Alexis was constantly on the watch while Ivan was busy about his gun and would warn him when he saw a puff of smoke or heard a bullet sing near. "Duck, Ivan!" he would cry, and the big man would lower himself just in time to be missed by a missile giving that sound which is musical when heard far up in the air, but terrible when its song is sung close to the ear.

One day an officer ordered Alexis to another part of the fortress, and the sharpshooter refused to leave Old Nicholas and big Ivan. The officer ordered Alexis under arrest. As he was being marched away the commander of the Malakoff came by—he was constantly going from point to point superintending the firing—and, seeing what had occurred, stopped and inquired the cause.

"The man is needed at a bastion where the French sharpshooters are picking off our men," was the reply.

"Well," replied the commander, "you will have to find some one else. This man is needed here."

So Alexis remained with his two companions, Old Nicholas and big Ivan, and after several other attempts had been made by other officers at various times to detach him had failed those who made them began to wonder why it was that the general would not permit Alexis to be taken for any other duty. One whose attempt had been thus interfered with asserted that it was because Old Nicholas was doing more damage than any gun in the fortress. Old Nicholas would be useless without Ivan, and Ivan would not live a day unprotected by Alexis. But, singularly enough, this was considered not to be the only reason why Alexis could not be taken away from his post.

One day when the general was not near an officer carried Alexis away to another part of the Malakoff and forced him to pick off some Turks who had silenced a gun by killing every gunner who attempted to serve it. Alexis rid the Russians of this pestilential nest and was permitted to return to the big gun. He found the gun cold and the gunner lying dead under it.

Alexis at the sight gasped, dropped his rifle and caught at the supports of the gun. Then he bent down and, putting his arms about his friend, moaned in agony.

There was no trouble after that in getting Alexis to go to any point where his services were required. He had but one object—to kill as many as possible of those who had killed Ivan. Whatever they were, English, French or Turks, made no difference to him. He slew them wherever he could catch sight of them. And after Ivan's death he began to keep count of the number he killed. Every time he sent a bullet into a vital part of an enemy he would put his hat on the end of his rifle, hold it up above the works and get a hole in it.

The siege went on, the allies constantly working nearer. The nearer they came the more of them fell under Alexis' bullets, for, being nearer, they were more easily distinguished. They were preparing for the final scene in the struggle, the storming of the Malakoff, and were too intent upon their work to take much care of their persons.

When a number of the allies had been killed at a single point sharpshooters would be ordered to observe whence the fire came and stop it. But Alexis was quick to see that his work had been noticed, for he was accustomed to keep continually feeling of his enemies by exposing some article to draw their fire. As soon as he held an article up on the muzzle of his rifle and a hole was made in it he knew it was time to go elsewhere.

As the siege proceeded the holes in Alexis' hat became very thick. When he went from one point to another those whom he joined began to make comments upon his headgear.

"It would make a good lantern," said one. "Why don't you put a candle in it?"

"What will you do when it is all shot away?" cried another.

"No danger of your head getting too hot," said a third.

Alexis never noticed these remarks. Indeed, there was a seriousness, a sadness about him that, so soon as the others noticed it, caused them to refrain from any further comment.

At last when the allies had approached near enough for their purpose and had finished their mining operations they blew up the walls and stormed the Malakoff. The garrison surrendered and the men marched out as prisoners of war. Among those who were in line was a woman in the dress of a Russian peasant. Perhaps in her changed dress she might not have been recognized had it not been for her sad face and hat full of bullet holes she carried in her hand. A crowd of her former companions gathered about her wonderingly.

"Who was the big gunner?" was the first question.

"My husband."

"How many holes are there in your hat?"

"A hundred and twenty-six."

"Each one a Frenchman?"

"Either a Frenchman, an Englishman or a Turk."

Alexis Galieff, or Vasilia Yasnovsky, which was her real name, returned to St. Petersburg. There the general who had commanded the Malakoff took her with him to the palace, where she was received and decorated by the czar. The general had been in the secret of her sex and knew the big gunner was her husband. The czar not only decorated her, but gave her a pension that enabled her to live comfortably for the rest of her life, and when her children grew to be men and women they were all given government positions.

SURE TO PASS IN THE SENATE

Canal Tolls Repeal Will Have About Sixteen Majority

BITTER STRUGGLE IS EXPECTED

Lodge on Side of President and Will Answer Critics Who Accuse Executive of "Truckling to England"—Majority of Canal Committee Are Already Opposed to the Bill

Washington, April 2.—Sixteen majority in the senate for repeal is the margin President Wilson is said to expect in his favor when the vote is taken on the Panama canal tolls repeal bill. The extreme estimate of the White House on the house vote was seventy-five majority, and the house made it eighty-six.

The fact that, despite the sensational address of Speaker Clark, less than 25 percent of the house Democrats voted against the president, has served to cheer up the administration senators, even though they realize that a senator habitually pays little attention to house action and systematically declines to construe it as accurately reflecting the sentiment of the country.

The White House figures have surprised even the Republican senators who will vote with the president, for they know that many Democrats have been "shaky" up to date and they realize also that some of their Republican colleagues may find it hard to resist the temptation to play politics with the issue.

For the reason that they are thus tempted the administration leaders are the more certain of victory. So far only about twenty Republicans are being counted upon as willing to forego being counted upon as willing to forego their political chance and to support the president because they believe his stand on the issue will make for the welfare of the United States.

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts is expected to make the most important speech on the president's side. He knows, perhaps better than any other senator, how momentous are the issues which hang on a wise disposition of the tolls question, and his speech is expected to supply some of the marked deficiencies in the brief message of the president.

The attitude of Lodge will be an answer, moreover, to the critics who have denounced the president as "truckling to England," for no American senator in the past has shown more independence of British influence.

The fight in the senate will be for blood. Senator O'Gorman, chairman of the committee on inter-oceanic canals, is leading the forces against the president and may begin a filibuster by refusing to call the committee together to consider the house bill. A majority of the committee are opposed to the bill, and Senator Owen, a member, intimated that if a meeting were not called within a week the senate would force the committee to act.

EXTENDS PENSION SYSTEM

Bill Passed by House Aids Widows of Spanish War Veterans

Washington, April 2.—Pensions for widows and minor children of the officers and men who served in the Spanish war, the Philippine insurrection and the Boxer uprising in China, would be authorized by a bill which passed the house by a vote of 276 to 34.

There are about 4000 widows of men who served in the Spanish war and the Philippine insurrection. It is estimated that an appropriation of $2,500,000 would be required to pay the pensions.

KILLED AT REHEARSAL

Girl Falls Fifty Feet From Trapeze In Barnum & Bailey Circus

New York, April 2.—Ella Hackett, 18 years old, was killed almost instantly by a fall of fifty feet from a trapeze to an improvised platform in the arena at the Barnum & Bailey circus in Madison Square Garden.

Ambidous to appear in a trapeze act, she was rehearsing after the afternoon performance. While attempting a "revolving swing" she fell head downward. Miss Hackett was a daughter of a dentist of this city.

SMALLPOX AND FEVER

Diseases Have Got a Good Start In Brockton and Vicinity

Brockton, Mass., April 2.—Four cases of smallpox were discovered in this city yesterday and the patients were removed to the contagious hospital. In North Easton two more cases were discovered.

In Bridgewater an epidemic of scarlet fever has appeared. Already forty-three cases have been reported to the local board of health, and all of the schools were ordered closed, including the state normal school.

April Fool For Society Dancers

New York, April 2.—"This show is pulled by order of the mayor," shouted through a megaphone, checked society raggers at the Hotel Astor, where a big charity ball was on. A minute later electric lights at one end of the room flashed "April Fool."

"RUBE" WADDELL IS DEAD

Once Great Baseball Player Succumbs to Tuberculosis

San Antonio, Tex., April 2.—George E. Waddell, "Rube" as he was known wherever baseball is played, died at a sanitarium here, a victim of tuberculosis, after a long fight for life. Waddell, once one of the greatest baseball players, came to Texas four months ago, already weakened by pulmonary trouble, but hopeful that a few months would see him restored to health and "back in the game." He located on a ranch near Boerne, but his strength failed steadily until his condition became so serious last month that he was brought to a sanitarium here.

His father and mother arrived from Boerne two hours after their son died. A sister who lives here is the only other surviving relative.

Waddell was noted nearly as much for his eccentricities as for his ability as a ball player. In the seventeen years he spent in professional baseball, he held positions with twelve teams.

Waddell's inability to keep in condition discouraged most managers and was directly responsible for his contracting tuberculosis, which caused his death. He was born at Butler, Pa., Oct. 13, 1876.

THREE FATALITIES

Navigators of the Air Are Killed at French Aero Meet

Rheims, France, April 2.—Three men were killed—one of them Emile Vedrines, younger brother of the noted aviator, Jules Vedrines—during an aviation meet at the Champagne aerodrome here.

Pierre Testulat, an aviator, and Clement Avigny, who ascended with him as a passenger, met death when Testulat's machine suddenly plunged toward the earth while flying at a height of 300 feet.

The aeroplane fell on a pylon, the petrol tank exploded, setting fire to the machine, and both men were picked up dead near the spot where young Vedrines had fallen only a short time before, while endeavoring to loop the loop.

Vedrines was killed when his machine fell 100 feet.

INCREASE IN MAINE CENTRAL FARES

Haines Thinks It Will Result In Great Damage to Road

Portland, Me., April 2.—A letter urging delay in the proposed action of the Maine Central management in increasing the mileage rates in Maine was sent to President McDonald by Governor Haines. The new rate goes into effect today.

"The withdrawal of the 2-cent 1000 miles mileage book by the Maine Central Railroad company and issuing in its place only a 500-mile book at 2¼ cents will excite a great amount of public indignation," wrote Haines.

"I believe it will be the most unpopular move you could make, and result in the end to great damage to the Maine Central."

HITS NON-UNION CONCERNS

Unions Furnished a Weapon by Assistant Attorney General

New York, April 2.—Acting under union interpretation of a recent opinion by G. C. Todd, assistant to Attorney General McReynolds, the local chapters of the Photo Engravers' union have instructed union foremen in the photo engraving shops not to permit any work to be done in union shops on publications on which open or non-union shops do work.

This action is aimed directly at the Gill Engraving company, which has been fighting the unions for sixteen years. The company has the only non-union shop in the city.

President Gill of the company said his shop is open to union men, but the union does not permit members to be employed where non-union members are at ork.

POLICEWOMEN AT WORK

Attached to Secret Service Division of Pittsburg Department

Pittsburg, April 2.—C. H. Hubbard, director of public safety, announced the appointment of four policewomen, the first in Pittsburg. They are attached to the secret service division and their names are known to none but the director and the officer to whom they will report.

They will look after young girls coming to the city and investigate violations of the law in cafes where liquor is served to women and in other ways look after members of their sex.

Business Man a Suicide

Boston, April 2.—Ralph G. Whitney, 35, a commission merchant of Harvard, Mass., committed suicide by shooting in a room at a hotel in this city. He had recently escaped from a private hospital, where he had been taken by his father because of his despondency over continued ill health.

Foreign "Hero" Has Disappeared

Bellefontaine, O., April 2.—Police and a prominent society woman are looking for "a friend of the Czar of Russia" and a "Boer war hero," who remained here many weeks and then disappeared. A local jeweler is also mourning.

AUTO SPEEDING.

Chief Maurice Pierce of the Milton police and George M. Heathcote, attorney for the A. L. A., clashed in the Quincy district court this morning, during a hearing on a charge of violation of the speed laws at Milton, preferred against Arsene Pare of 38 Bay street, Brockton.

Pare pleaded nolo and his attorney told the court that he was somewhat of an inventor, and was trying out his carburetor with no intention of violating speed laws. After Officer Fallon testified that he was making 42 miles an hour the attorney said that because of the plea entered the testimony of the officer should be taken with a "grain of salt."

Other testimony was presented and Judge Avery enquired as to the interesting streets on which the young man was alleged to have been speeding. When informed that it was in a populous district, Attorney Heathcote again remarked that because of the nolo plea the officer's testimony should be taken "with a grain of salt."

Chief Pierce retorted that the attorney had come into court intending to stir up matters and Mr. Heathcote retaliated by saying that the plea had been entered so his client would escape the pummelling that would follow his being questioned by Chief Pierce.

The men were directing other sharp thrusts at each other when Judge Avery halted the proceedings. He fined Pare the costs of court, $20, and when he had nothing but checks in his pocket continued the case for payment.

WHERE MOTHERS FAIL.

There is an old Jewish proverb which reads: "Since God could not be everywhere, he created mothers." Upon the mother, in both the human and animal species, devolves the care of the offspring.

How are our American mothers living up to the divine law of Nature? A brief survey of the conduct of our boys and girls is a sufficient answer. The American home seems to have abandoned its interest in the proper nurture of its children. Through indifference and negligence, our American youths are being sent outside the home for training. The burden has fallen upon the church and the public school. The former has proven inadequate for the task. The public school is grappling with the problem.

Leaving out the children of foreign parentage, who, in many instances, are fed, washed and clothed by the public school, let us limit the investigation to our native-born American children. What is home and mother doing for them? Practically nothing, beyond attending to their physical well-being, and even this is open to question. Mothers leave their home-work to foreign domestics, who know nothing and care nothing for the health of the children.—Suburban Life.

CHILDREN'S MANNERS.

In the April American Magazine Mary Antin, writing an interesting article about immigrants, says:

"Some of the things we say against the immigrants sound very strange from American lips. We speak of the corruption of our children's manners through contact with immigrant children in the public schools, when all the world is scolding us for our children's rude deportment. Finer manners are grown on a tiny farm in Italy than in the roaring subways of New York; and contrast our lunch counter manners with the table manners of the Polish ghetto, where bread must not be touched with unwashed hands, where a pause for prayer begins and ends each meal, and on festival occasions parents and children join in folk songs between courses."

The last of the Packard greenhouse building on Hancock street disappeared today with the removal of the office end of the building.

The Dark and Bloody Ground.

Before the white man began to explore Kentucky, about the middle of the eighteenth century, the region was a vast hunting ground for many large tribes of the south, north and east, and between these tribes there was continuous conflict for the possession of the rich game privileges. Later on, when the white people settled in the territory, their struggle with the red men was more bitter and persistent than in almost any other section of the continent; hence the sanguinary name that was given to the territory, "The Dark and Bloody Ground."

The Reform He Advocated.

The editor of a British weekly journal, wishing to know what reforms well known men desired to see effected during the year, once applied to Sir W. S. Gilbert, among others. The author of "The Mikado" answered: "Dear Sir—A reform which I am particularly anxious to see carried into effect is that editors would cease to trouble busy people for gratuitous contributions."

Bankruptcy.

"Pa, what's bankruptcy?" a little boy once asked.

And pa, who had been "bit" that week, answered bitterly:

"Bankruptcy, my son, is where you put your money in your hip pocket and let your creditors take your wallet and coat."

Whist.

An acquaintance of Talleyrand once remarked to him that he did not think it worth his while to learn the game of whist. Talleyrand's reply has been remembered until this day: "Not know whist, young man? What a dismal old age you are preparing for yourself!"

Very Restive.

Tale of Two Lakes.

Lake Baikal, in central Asia, and Lake Tanganyika, in central Africa, furnish similar problems for scientists, as both are fresh water, removed from oceans, yet both contain deep sea fish.

A weak mind is like a microscope, which magnifies trifling things, but cannot receive great ones.—Chesterfield.

—A "gentleman" burglar qualifies for the title in New York because he wore tortoise-rimmed eyeglasses. If he had also worn patent leather shoes we presume they would have described him as a member of a royal family.—Brockton Enterprise.

BETTER CAR SERVICE.

It is understood that the street railway is making arrangements with the Boston L so as to give better service on the through line of cars to Dudley street. As the schedule is now, there is considerable delay in the running time on the other side of the bridge. Cars leave Quincy all right but are held up at Neponset. Then again cars from Boston, especially in the early evening, during the rush hours are more or less delayed in arriving at Neponset which makes the cars late in arriving in Quincy. It what is known as set back cars are used passengers coming from Boston on the through cars are delayed at Neponset bridge. Better service would be given by running all through cars via Hancock street where there is a double track.

BILLY PUT UP A FIGHT.

Quite a crowd was collected about the police box in City Square this noon to see the arrest of William Bucham, one of the boarders at the Quincy Home, whom Officer Farrell had arrested for drunkenness. Billy put up quite a fight and it was necessary for the officer to take him bodily in his arms and put him in head first in an automobile that had been called in place of the police auto. Once in the auto the officer had to sit on him during the ride to the police station to keep him quiet.

THE MORNING ALARM.

The fire department arrived at the home of George Lambros at 40 South Walnut street this morning in response to Box 171, sounded at 9.50, and after much investigation found only a smouldering cloth in the stove which was smoking heavy enough to give neighbors the impression that a brisk fire was burning in the kitchen. There was no damage.

LADIES' AID BANQUET.

Mrs. John Mackay, retiring president, and Mrs. David Muckle, retiring secretary banqueted the members of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church in the lecture room on Wednesday afternoon. Practically the entire membership was present. The new officers elected several weeks ago assumed office. They are: President, Mrs. Alexander Smart; Vice President, Mrs. Charles Ross; Secretary, Mrs. Daniel Dawson and Trustee, Mrs. Alfred Bishop.

LOVING CUP FILLED WITH GOLD

Presented by Rural Lodge of Masons to Walter E. Simmons, After Long Illness

Installed for 30th Time As Secretary of the Lodge

At the annual convocation of Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M., last November, Walter E. Simmons was for the 30th time elected secretary of the lodge. A few days later he was taken seriously ill with pneumonia and it was not until this week that he was able to meet with his lodge. During his long illness the members were solicitous for his recovery and sent many messages of good cheer.

When it became known that Bro. Simmons would be ready for installation on April 2, Worshipful Master H. Everett Crane proposed that the date should be a memorable one to the lodge and also in the life of Mr. Simmons always popular as a member and as an official.

The lodge met Thursday evening at 6.30 and conferred the second degree on several candidates. At the business meeting others were elected and several applications received, the lodge having a most prosperous season. About 300 were present at the meeting.

The special installation came at 8 P. M. Rt. Wor. Walter S. Pinkham, district deputy grand master of the 26th Masonic district, was among the specially invited guests and he was asked to officiate as installing officer. He appointed as a committee to escort the secretary-elect into the lodge room, the worshipful master, H. Everett Crane and all the past masters of the lodge present—Emery L. Crane, Henry L. Kincaide, Herbert . Pierce, Joseph P. Prout, Charles Sampson and Frank A. Reed.

An ovation greeted the delegation when it entered. The deputy as a life-long neighbor and friend of Bro. Simmons was pleased to install him into an office which he had graced for so many years. In conclusion he presented him an armful of beautiful long stemmed Jack roses, thirty in number, admonishing him in the future to take better care of his health so that there would be no more postponed installations.

Then Worshipful Master Crane took a hand. He brought "charges" against Bro. Simmons and severely criticised him in a forty-minute address abounding in wit and humor and good fellowship. In closing he presented a loving cup inscribed as follows: "Presented to Brother Walter E. Simmons on the anniversary of his 30th installation as secretary of Rural lodge, A. F. & A. M., y his fellow members, Quincy, Massachusetts, April 2, 1914.

The Worshipful Master said the cup was overflowing with love for loyal and efficient services, but in addition he would put in a few tablets which he recommended be taken at frequent intervals. The tablets were gold coin aggregating $250.

Bro. Simmons was too overcome to respond in his usual jovial strain. He pleaded guilty to all the charges of the worshipful master. He did not know that he had so many virtues as had been mentioned. He appreciated the kindly interest of the lodge during his sickness and the many inquiries and messages of love. He thanked one and all for the gifts of the evening assuring all that they were close to his heart.

In the East were several prominent Masons and officials of the city. Past Master Gardner R. P. Barker of Orphans Hope lodge of Weymouth was first introduced. He is the district deputy-elect for 1914-1915, and spoke of the importance of a good secretary, and the exhibition of brotherly love manifested this evening. He hoped there would be many visitations among the lodges of the district.

Mayor Miller, a member of Wollaston lodge, was the next speaker, and rejoiced at the recovery of Bro. Simmons. His honor said he too was taken sick last November, and had the same doctor. He learned then

TEACHERS ASSOCIATION

Entertained by the Huff Concert Company

The Quincy Teachers Association were entertained in the assembly hall of the Coddington school on Thursday evening by the Huff Concert Company, a quintette of professional musical artists of Boston. Their program which was high class included several popular compositions and was well presented. George Sykes was the tenor, H. I. Tinkham the 'cellist, H. W. Huff the flutist and P. B. Dallinger the pianist. They were assisted by Miss Marjory Lacy, reader.

The musical numbers by the quartette were "Merry Wives of Winsor" by Nicolai, "Liebestraum by Von Blom and Scene from the Ballett "Rosamunde" by Schubert, "Adagio and Bourree" by Richardson and "Shepherds Dance" and "Torch Dance" from the Henry VIII by German.

The solos of Mr. Sykes were "When the Shadows Gather" by Marshall and the aria from Martha, "M'Appari tutt Amor" of Flotow. Miss Lacy appeared three times, her readings at each being well given.

"Gavotte" a cello solo by Lee was given by Mr. Upham and Mr. Huff and Mr. Tinkham played Boisdeffre's serenade for flute and violin.

The artists were given a fine reception at the opening of the program and that their work was appreciated was evidenced through the spontaneous applause following each number.

He Didn't Mind.

"I suppose, Jerry," said the eminent statesman, looking through his pocketbook for a new dollar bill, "like a lot of other people nowadays, you would rather have clean money?" "Oh, that's all right, Senator," said the cabman. "I don't care how you made your money."

Discovery Valuable to Science.

A German chemist recently discovered that the extract of the skin of red radishes in alcohol is more sensitive to acids and alkalis than litmus, tumeric, or any of the chemicals usually used to detect their presence.

ASSESSOR MAY RESIGN

Rumor Says John A. Duggan Will Retire

There is a rumor about City Square Thursday night, which evidently has some foundation, that John A. Duggan had tendered his resignation to Mayor Miller as a member of the Board of Assessors.

Mr. Duggan is the only member of the present board who has had any previous experience and when the board started out for its field work on Wednesday, rumor says that things did not go exactly to the liking of Mr. Duggan and he determined to get out.

According to the rumors, the Board did not start out early Thursday morning as usual but had a meeting in their office, after which Mr. Duggan tendered his resignation to Mayor Miller. He then started out with the board and finished out the day and is out with them again today.

As far as can be learned the resignation to Mayor Miller. He then started out with the Board and finished out the day and is out with hem again today.

As far as can be learned the resignation has not been accepted as yet, and rumor has it that it will not be accepted, but that the affair will be hatched up and that there will be no change on the board. Mr. Duggan is out with the Board today and could not be seen.

Mayor Miller when asked this noon if it was true that Mr. Duggan had resigned, would neither affiirm or deny the rumor. He did say however that a man had asked him this morning if Mr. Buckley had resigned, and that he had replied that he had not and that he did not expect that he would. On the question of Mr. Duggan however no definite answer was given. The nearest to it was the reply that there was nothing as yet to say.

An effort was made to reach Mr. Duggan by telephone this noon but he was out with the Assessors and could not be reached.

There seems to be somewhat of an air of mystery about the whole matter. Mr. Duggan, it is said, does not believe that he should shoulder the larger part of the Board and it is quite evident that he is not fully satisfied.

CLEAN-UP OF THE CITY

Getting Ready for Clean-Up and Paint-Up Week

The Board of Health is making extensive plans for a general clean-up of the city, and if carried out, the city will receive such a cleaning as it never had before. For the past few days Chairman Murray of the Board of Health has been at work in the Quincy Point district, in what is known as the junk zone, and he says that he found conditons that astounded him. This section is largely populated by an element, who do not seem to have the least conception of cleanliness.

In one place visited, Thursday, Mr. Murray found a bakery in full operation which was anything but sanitary, the bakery being in a small building, which was a part of a stable in which several cows were kept. Then he has found many of the places of men whose occupation is collecting junk, that were sights. To all of these people he laid the law down good and strong, informing the junk men that unless they cleaned up their yards, and kept them clean, that he should oppose them when they applied for a junk license. In connection with the bakery the proprietors were told in plain language what must be done, and according to Mr. Murray the men at these places have been working nights to bring about the changes which he has ordered.

The plan of the Board of Health is to make the first week in May a general clean-up week all over the city. During this period the teams of the Board of Health will carry off all rubbish and other refuse from back yards and cellars, not only of private residences but of business houses as well. This is also the state wide clean up and paint-up week so that when it is over every thing should be spic and span.

It was the intention of Chairman Murray to have begun the clean-up week some time this month, but it could not be brought about.

He has made arrangements with the Metropolitan Insurance Co., a company which does a large industrial insurance business in Quincy, so that during the early weeks in May when the clean-up is in progress that the company will send a large corps of agents into Quincy to assist the Board of Health. These agents will cover the entire city and work in connection with the Board of Health, by distributing printed matter relative to sanitation and will also advise the poorer classes and more especially the foreign classes what they should do to keep their places clean and thus improve their own conditions as far as health is concerned but the whole city as well.

It might also be added that aside from the Board of Health the various societies in the city are to co-operate.

Joseph B. Grossman, one of the best known young men of the city, who was appointed to the Board of Registrars by Mayor oJhn L. Miller had the oath of office administerd to him on Tuesday by City Clerk Emery L. Crane Mr. Grossman is in his 22nd year and is the youngest man in the state ever appointed to that office.

BATTLESHIPS FOR CHINESE

May Be Built at Fore River Shipyard in This City

Report of Award of Contract Is However Denied

Nothing in it as far as we officially know, was the reply of Secretary MacQuarrie of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation this morning, when asked about the contract of the Bethlehem Steel Co., with the Chinese government to build two 30,000 ton dreadnaughts at the Quincy shipyard.

A dispatch in a morning paper stated that a contract had been let to the Bethlehem Steel Co., for the two Chinese dreadnaughts; and that they would be built in Quincy. These dreadnaughts are to have batteries of 14-inch guns, and all their machinery is to be built at Bethlehem. The order comes as the result of a visit of Vice-president Johnston of the steel company to China recently, where he received the contracts in competition with English and German shipbuilding firms, beating them out in quality and price.

The Bethlehem company is also said to be bidding on battleships for the Turkish government.

Secretary MacQuarrie said that it was true that his company made drawings and submitted bids for the two vessels some months ago, but as far as was known at the Fore River today, nothing had been done or no contract awarded.

It is a fact however that today the Fore River yard is the busiest shipyard in the United States, and the working force is the largest. While most yards have been laying off men, the Fore River Corp. have been taking on men ,and business is rushing at the present time.

The Quincy Day Nursery association will hold their annual dance, Friday evening, April 17 in Alpha hall. Lovers of dancing are looking forward to the party.

AGE IN MARRIAGE.

In the courts of femininity, where the acts of womankind are passed in final review, some question is raised as to the approaching marriage of Miss Eleanor Wilson and Secretary McAdoo. The bride-elect is only 24 years old, while the amorous secretary has turned the fateful corner of 50. According to the traditions, this constitutes an element of unsuitability.

Formerly the ancient of a half century was supposed to sit at the card table, playing sedate rubbers of whist with hoary dowagers, while his youthful wife waltzed with courtiers of her own age in the ballroom.

Even the sweetest maiden will some day become tired of running for hot water bottles and invalid chairs for her declining partner, while the pulses of life still beat high in her veins. It has not been strange that her affection often turned to the partners of the dance and the saddle, rather than to the occupant of the placid easy chair and the hearth.

But today the artificial boundaries of age are very much broken up. Many of our serious-minded young folks, with their sociology and erudition, seem to have utterly skipped the decade from twenty to fifty, so thoroughly are their minds matured to all the permanently serious issues of life. They live lives of splendid usefulness. But through failure to kick up their heels in the freedom of sport, they seem to miss the full symmetry of a wholly rounded character.

On the other hand, there are greybeards of the seventies who most mutinously refuse to stand with one foot in the grave where they belong. One suspects that Secretary McAdoo, who tangoes and plays tennis enthusiastically though past the half century mark, will align himself with this class even when he reaches great age. The type is growing more common, and marriages like the one that has just stirred Washington society seems to be more frequent.

TOLL BILL.

The passage of the tolls repeal bill in Congress would fully justify the ringing of the bell on First church. Beneath the edifice repose the mortal remains of two statesmen to whom the honor of the nation was peculiarly dear; and historic Quincy is still inhabited by people who value our national reputation for good faith and fair dealing. The enactment of the repeal bill into law will serve to reassure the nations of the earth that Uncle Sam's word is as good as his bond and that he will not resort to quibbles or technicalities to escape the terms of a bargain.

It doesn't pay to refer too ostentatiously to the income tax you have just paid. It arouses too bright hopes in the minds of those pasing subscription papers.

DRIFTED AWAY ON ICE FLOES

Many Seal Hunters Perish When Overtaken by Storm

DEAD NUMBERED AT FIFTY

Half a Hundred Others May Be Maimed as Result of Exposure to Blizzard Which Swept Down Upon Them When Far From Ship—Many Survivors Are Picked Up

St. Johns, April 3.—Death traveled in a gale that overtook the sealing fleets. The steamer Newfoundland lost probably fifty of her crew, while as many more, it is feared, will be maimed as a result of exposure.

The men lost were far from their ships killing seals when the storm, with blinding snow, swooped down upon them. They were exposed for forty-eight hours before assistance arrived, and in that time many succumbed.

The Newfoundland was one of the fleet of fifteen ships carrying over 2000 men, scattered among the ice floes near Belle Island strait. The crews were on the floes hunting the seals and the hunt had taken them from four to six miles from their ships.

When the blizzard came the crews of the other steamers managed to regain their ships, but the floes on which the Newfoundland's men were hunting drifted away from the main body of ice, and when darkness fell that night not one had returned to his ship. The ship's crew numbered 150, of whom 120 were hunting on the ice. Captain Kean, his officers, engineers, stokers and cooks remained aboard.

Kean signalled the steamers Bellaventura and Stephano, which were nearest him, of the loss of his men. These two vessels, being fast and powerful and equipped with wireless, smashed their way into the floes in search of the missing men.

The captain of the Bellaventura sent a wireless message here, saying he had picked up thirty survivors and a number of dead bodies. He estimated that forty men had perished and said thirty were unaccounted for.

A message from the Stephano said thirty-five survivors had been found and three bodies, but there is doubt as to whether she referred only to those picked up by her.

The wireless of the Bellaventura was working poorly and the messages received from her were somewhat confused. The number of fatalities will be in doubt, at least until she reaches port. There is little hope for any of the hunters who have not already been saved.

Both the Stephano and the Bellaventura have been ordered to make all speed to port, but the blizzard may delay them. Meantime, preparations to care for the dead and suffering are being made.

Omaha, April 3.—A parent's right to choose subjects for his child to pursue in school was decided by the supreme court of Nebraska in State vs. Ferguson, in a proceeding to compel the school authorities to reinstate Ferguson's daughter, who had been dismissed because by her father's direction she had refused to take all the studies prescribed by the school authorities for the grade in which she was a pupil.

The girl, who was 12 years old, was permitted by her father to take all the required studies except cooking.

REBELS FIRED ON COMRADES

Wounded From Villa's Army Tell of Awful Blunders

TRAP IS SPRUNG BY FEDERALS

Lured Into Torreon In Direct Fire of Well-Sheltered Guns and Mowed Down by the Score—Rebel Officials Worrying Over Lack of News From Their Military Leader

Chihuahua, Mex., April 3.—Not since the battle began at Torreon has a day passed without the arrival here of a trainload of wounded soldiers from the ranks of General Villa's army.

From stories told by the wounded it was learned that the first rebel advance on General Velasco's garrison in Torreon and Gomez Palacio, the latter a suburb, resulted in a pitiable slaughter of the rebels, in which about 2000 of them, partly through a series of blunders, were killed or wounded within a few hours.

All trustworthy accounts agree that the rebels' first attack was unsuccessful and that their combined forces, although better equipped with field guns than they ever had been previously, and fully confident they would frighten the federals into a retreat, were forced to retire in the beginning of the fight.

First the rebels were reported to have blundered in opening fire on their own men. Two accounts were given for this mistake. One was that a column of rebel artillery trained over the mark and poured shells into the ranks of General Benavides' force on the opposite side of Gomez Palacio.

Another account was that a body of rebels entered Gomez Palacio without orders and the rest of the army, thinking they were federals, opened fire and killed many of their own number before the mistake was discovered.

To add to the misfortunes of the rebels' first attack, according to details gleaned from the wounded, they were lured into a part of Torreon under the impression that the federals had fled. Then suddenly they discovered they were in direct fire of well-sheltered federal guns, which proceeded to mow them down by the score. Many rebels were wounded as they attempted to withdraw.

These were among the events that happened during the two or three days when the censor at the front refused to permit any messages to be transmitted north.

Villa, before he left for the south, stated emphatically that when the assault on Torreon once began it would not last long, as he was prepared to fight through without having to withdraw temporarily to rest his men.

The stubborn fight put up by the federal garrison apparently has caused Villa to change his plans, for shipments of ammunitiion have been going south steadily and it is reported Villa, while holding some important positions in and about Torreon, really has stopped aggressive fighting in order to recuperate from the first hard blow.

Silence Considered Ominous

Juarez, Mex., April 3.—With the prize for which he has been striving for fourteen days almost within his grasp, General Villa is believed to be confronted with a situation which is taxing his genius and which threatens to destroy rebel hope of ultimate success at Torreon.

Something which had not been anticipated by the rebel leader is believed to have occurred at Torreon. What it is official Juarez does not know. Fear that disaster, wholly unexpected, has overtaken the rebels is very general in Juarez.

Even rebel officials say that if Villa had achieved success he would have sent word. They know he would have kept silent had he been repulsed. The public here regards the absence of news as unmistakable sign that the federals were not so nearly whipped as Villa had imagined, and that possibly they have forced the rebel army to retreat from the positions it had taken in the city of Torreon.

HUERTA TO CONCRESS

Ready to Sacrifice Himself to Establish Peace In Mexico

Mexico City, April 3.—"Before leaving these precincts I must engrave upon your hearts that it is my purpose to achieve the peace of the country, and, if to do so, your sacrifice and mine shall be indispensable, you and I will know how to sacrifice ourselves. This is my purpose, or what is the same thing, my profession of political faith."

With this statement Huerta ended a message to congress. He pointed his finger as he impressed upon congress his "profession of political faith." Then came applause with cries of "Viva Huerta!"

In his message Huerta said he refrained from extensive mention of international relations, although he commented with some bitterness upon the discussions of the various governments and the difficulties the Mexican government had encountered in obtaining money, owing to "the influence exercised by the strange attitude of a certain power toward Mexico."

TALK ON THE TELEPHONE

Illustrated by the Use of the Stereopticon

A lecture on the telephone, illustrated with the stereopticon was given by ex-Councilman Edward P. Histon, to the members of Quincy council Knights of Columbus, Thursday evening at New Colonial hall after the business meeting. The lecture was arranged at almost the last minute and was a pleasant feature. William A. Carey presided, and at the business meeting plans were discussed for the annual Easter Monday night ball.

Then ex-Councilman Histon, a member of the Quincy council was introduced. Mr. Histon has been connected with the New England Telephone Co. for a number of years and is thoroughly familiar with the subject.

In opening his remarks he said:

The telephone knowledge of the majority of subscribers is confined to the telephone set on the desk or on the wall. Comparatively few subscribers have taken the trouble to visit a telephone exchange, and whatever mechanism there is between two persons who are talking is shrouded in wonderful mystery. At the present time 7,000,000,000 messages are sent in one year over the Bell system, or an average of over 26,000,000 per day. To the subscriber, that is incomprehensible and invisible service, which is performed with no other tangible evidence in the operation than a bell, a receiver and transmitter in the hands, a pole line out of doors, or a conduit under ground.

The first telephone exchange ever established was set up at 74 Devonshire street, Boston in the office of the Homes Electric Protective Company. Mr. Holmes had in operation a burglar alarm system connecting some of the leading banks and brokerage houses. He conceived the brilliant idea of putting telephones in some of these offices and permitting his customers to talk without charge. His purpose was to popularize his burglar alarm system by giving as a premium free telephone service, but his offer was received "thumbs down."

Later he organized the Telephone Dispatch Company, the predecessor of the New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Boston proper, and in 1878 established himself in Washington street, Boston, just above Milk street. Measured by modern standards, the old time telephone service was slow and unreliable.

On Nov. 23, 1876, Prof. Bell did an extraordinary thing. He made the first long distance talk. He talked from Boston to Salem, over one of the telegraph wires of the old Eastern railroad. Salem, therefore, after Cambridge, has the honor of being the first long distance point to be reached by telephone. Then a line was built connecting Boston and Providence, and later it was extended to New York Today there are 35 busy direct lines connecting Boston and New York. In 1893 a long distance line was opened from New York to Chicago and Prof. Bell had the pleasure of making the first talk over this line. In the following year, a line was opened from Boston to Chicago.

As the telephone system grew and the number of wires became greater and greater each year, the engineers set about making cables that in a condensed form would carry the talking traffic. At a big city exchange the cables enter the building through ducts and curve out over the main frame where the cable sheaf ends. The wires are fanned out in pairs on these long shelves. Then they pass on to the intermediate frame, from which they are gathered into another series of cables, which connect with the switchboard in another room where the wires are again distributed to the jacks.

The activity of an exchange is incessant. No matter how large it is, so softly do the operators speak into the transmitters resting on their chests that the aggregate sound of their voices is only a subdued murmur. They have no time to listen to conversation, to fall asleep, to chew gum, or sew or crochet, or talk to associates. There are supervisors constantly observing the work of groups of operators, and there is a chief operator in charge of all the switchboard operations in each exchange.

These operators are smart, but they are not supposed to be walking encyclopedias, except on telephone matters. Yet a lot of people call up and ask fool questions, like "How do you spell irridescent?" or "Where's the fire?" or "What time is the last train for Osterville?" as though she didn't have enough to do to keep track of things regarding which she is supposed to keep herself informed.

If you want to talk to someone whose name you have forgotten, she will locate that person and connect. If the person you want to reach hasn't a telephone she will see that a messenger is sent to ask him to come to a pay station to talk to you. If you go to the telephone and say "Fire Department Emergency," she will connect you with the Fire Department. If you call for the Police Department and use the word "Emergency" you will be connected with the police. If you say "Give me a doctor—emergency," she will connect you with some physician. They are part of her manifold duties.

A good many people think the operator says the line is busy simply because she is too lazy to make the connection. If the line you ask for is not busy, the operator simply pushes in the plug and then depresses a key on her desk, which rings the bell of the number desired. Party hangs up his receiver a light glows on the switchboard desk, and by reading these lights, the operator knows when the conversation has ended, or whether the person called for has answered. It is not necessary for her to listen in on the line. In the first place, she hasn't the time to do so. In the second place she hasn't the inclination.

People forget that there are three parties to a telephone call. We have all got to work in harmony or else the call fails. Sometimes this failure is due to the operator, but quite often it is the fault of either one of the other two parties to the call.

In every exchange there is an information operator to answer questions which the regular operator has no time to discuss. The information operators are provided with facilities for giving telephone information by referring to copies of directories kept alphabetically, numerically and by street and number.

Quite important, too, in telephone service is the directory, which has become the standard record of the people worth knowing or doing business with.

If the problem were only to connect one subscriber with another, there would be no problem at all, but here in New England alone each individual subscriber has the chance to be connected with any one of over 700,000 telephones—and our forty million dollar plant in four states is at each subscriber's beck and call for the sum of his small annual rental or the payment of a modest travelling expense for his voice.

THE REASON FEWER PEOPLE TAKE "SALTS"

We find the use of salts and other harsh physics is becoming less every year because more and more people are using Rexall Orderlies, which we and they firmly believe to be the best bowel remedy ever made. They taste so much like candy that even the children like them. At the same time they act so easily and naturally that there is no purging, griping or pain. They promptly remove the constipation and, by soothing and strengthening the bowels, make it less liable to occur again. We have the utmost faith in them. We know what they are made of and the pleasant, beneficial results that always follow their use.

You needn't take our word for it. If Rexall Orderlies don't help you—if they don't entirely relieve all your bowel troubles—come back and tell us and we'll give back your money. In vest pocket tin boxes; 10c, 25c, 50c.

You can buy Rexall Orderlies only at The Rexall Stores, and in this town only of us.

CABARET SHOW
SCANDIA LODGE

A cabaret show for members only was given under the auspices of the officers of Scandia lodge, Vasa Orden, in Electa hall, on Thursday evening, and was well attended. The program included songs by Otto Olson, recitations by Olaf Hanson, and a dialogue, "Stina and Lena" by Mrs. Hilma O'Brien and Miss Anna Johnson. The serving of refreshments by the committee was continuous after which dancing was enjoyed. The committee was Carl Barstin, Olaf Sandstrom, Hilda Johnson, Anna Johnson and Mrs. Hilma O'Brien.

Preceding the cabaret a meeting was held in Protection hall and six candidates were intitated to membership under the direction of Chief Carl Bonivier. Final arrangements were made for the basket party at the next meeting.

Not a Pleasant Surprise.

MINISTERS THE VICTIMS

Several Summoned to Perform a Marriage

Rev. David B. Matthews of St. Paul's Episcopal church of Brockton, who preached at Christ church Wednesday evening, was one of the six clergymen of that city that were victims of an April Fool joke. He with the others received word that Frank Sanderson and Miss Smith were waiting for them to perform a marriage ceremony at 362 Warren avenue and found the place was a garage.

Rev. Paul Sperry of the Church of the New Jerusalem was present and apologizing for his call when he arrived. Rev. Alan Hudson of the First Congregational church, Rev. J. Stanley Durkee of the South Congregational church, Rev. Dr. Albert Marion Hyde of the Porter Congregational church and Rev. Dudley Hays Ferrell of the Church of the Unity arrived in quick succession.

Rector Matthews, in order to assist Mr. Sanderson and Miss Smith start their matrimonial journey, is out a journey himself, because the bookings for a trip he had planned to take closed Monday and through the delay occasioned by the call he was obliged to put over his departure for several days.

Rector Matthews spoke of the occurrence shortly after arriving in Quincy Wednesday night in jocular fashion but is was not unexpected since he is always ready to make the best of any situation.

ILLUSTRATED TRAVEL TALK.

Rev. E. C. Pollard, pastor of the Atlantic Methodist Episcopal church, has sent a circular letter to all residents of the section extending to them an invitation to attend the illustrated travel talks by Rev. Dr. King, for 30 years a missionary to China, at the church on Saturday, Sunday and Monday evenings. On Saturday evening he will show 83 visions of the Holy land. On Sunday he will hold four services, exhibiting idols of heathen worship at the Sunday afternoon service to the young people. These services are all free to the public. A freewill offering for missions will be taken at each service. These lectures will be a rare treat and Atlantic residents cannot afford to miss hearing them and seeing the views shown by the stereopticon.

CATHOLIC CLUB.

A very pleasing entertainment was given after the business session of the Quincy Catholic club Thursday evening. The program included a vocal solo by Miss Susie Halloran, violin solo Miss Alice Barry, and vocal solo by Miss Helen Galvin. At the business session a committee was appointed to nominate a list of officers for the ensuing year. Arrangements were also made for a guest night to be held on Friday evening, April 24, and for a May party to be held Tuesday evening, May 5.

DISTRICT COURT.

Harry Smith, Charles Merigan and Sidney Loyd were fined $10 each for drunkenness at Quincy. Everett M. Baker of Braintree, William Buchan and Patrick J. Whelan of Quincy were sentenced to one month each in the house of correction for drunkenness.

The pool match between Charlie Maloney of this city and Fred Tenney of Braintree which was to have taken place Thursday evening at Dewey square, Boston, failed to materialize because the Braintree man withdrew from competition at the last minute.

ST. MARYS WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

Take All Four Points From Ave Maria Council

The St. Mary's team which beat the Ave Maria council 4 to 0 with ease on St. Mary's alleys on Thursday evening has increased its lead to such proportions that they have won the title of the West Quincy league. Out of 32 possible points they have taken 29, losing the three points one at a time. The team is the holder of all kinds of records, principally the team single of 57, the highest made in the city in two years. In the match Thursday night Dan Duggan tied his own score in taking high single and his 284 was high total.

CLERKS WIN IN P. O. MATCH

The bowling series between the employees of the Quincy Post Office, a weekly feature at the City Square alleys on Thursday evening, ceases after a week from Thursday night. The Clerks are leading the Carriers 19 to 13, and unless the latter take all of the points in the next two matches they have no chance for the title. Seven points would tie the teams at 20 each.

Superintendent Hammond who rolled in the first match leads the bowlers with 114 as the best single and Thursday night a total of 303 by Devlin was the first triple mark attained by the bowlers. There was a battle royal between Devlin and William Joyce for high single, the former losing out when a perfect hit in the last box only gave him four pins on his spare. The Clerks in beating the Carriers took the first single by two, increased the lead to 14 in the second and to 23 in the third. The match was witnessed by a large gallery.

RANK OF KNIGHT CONFERRED

The degree team of Merrymount lodge Knights of Pythias conferred the rank of knight on five candidates at Pythian hall in the Wollaston hotel, Thursday evening.

The occasion was marked by the presence of Grand Chancellor Robert R. Ellingwood and suite consisting of Grand Inner Guard Harlan P. Knight, Past Chancellor Charles F. Stevens of Washington lodge and Past Chancellor Sidney A. Shaw of Massachusetts lodge.

The Grand Chancellor presented the lodge with a silk flag suitably mounted and inscribed, for having had the largest percentage of gain in six months of any Massachusetts lodge. In that time the lodge nearly doubled its membership.

The Grand Chancellor also presented medals to Chancellor Commander Victor Harrie, Past Chancellor George Warren Lord and Brother Lewis N. Poland for their work in increasing the membership.

Chancellor Commander Harrie responded to the presentations for the lodge and refreshments were served after which the degree was worked.

This is the first time the team has done the work as it is composed almost entirely of members new to the order.

The lodge was thrown open to all members to witness the work and a large number of visiting brothers were present.

A flashlight of the lodge members and visiting suite was taken by Brother Haskell.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND
Vinol for Run-Down People.
If any one person should know the value of medicines it is the druggist who dispenses them and from our experience we want to say if people in this vicinity only knew the value of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil) at this season of the year, we would not be able to supply the demand.
This is because Vinol is a combination of the two most world famed tonics, namely, the medicinal curative elements of cod's livers without the oil, and iron for the blood.
Vinol tones up the digestive organs, purifies and enriches the blood, promotes healthful sleep and a normal appetite.
Old people, delicate children, run-down, overworked and tired women, should try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

My First Meeting With My Husband

It Gave Me a Shock

By MARTHA V. MONROE

When I went to visit my Aunt Martha at East Arlington it was in the spring of the year, and I was delighted to be in the country. I sat on the porch most of the time watching a pair of birds building a nest in a tree near the house and listening to their twittering. My cousins were all very kind to me, doing everything in their power to contribute to my enjoyment. Tom was in business in the city, but came out on Saturdays and stayed till Monday morning.

Tom had a friend, Alan Irving, whom he said he had picked out for me. Any girl who is fancy free is interested in a man who has been picked out for her, and I was very curious to see Mr. Irving. I asked Tom to describe him to me, but could get nothing out of him except nonsense. Tom promised to bring him out for the week end as soon as he could get him, but Mr. Irving was so popular and in such demand that Tom found it difficult to find a time when he was disengaged.

"I THOUGHT HE WAS AN ESCAPED LUNATIC"

Very naturally I looked forward to meeting Mr. Irving and was anxious to make a good impression upon him when he arrived. My favorite dress, a dainty white voile, I kept fresh for the purpose. On no account would I wear it till the eventful day when I should meet the man who might possibly be my husband. I wondered whether he would like me and whether I would like him. Then I remembered that men are less impressionable than women in such matters, and while I was indulging in fancies about him he probably never gave me a thought.

One day my aunt and cousins went to the city for a day's shopping. They kept no servant, doing all the work themselves. Consequently, on this occasion the work was left for me to do. I am not adapted by nature to housework as some women are, who can cook a dinner in dinner dress. On the contrary, I become hot, my clothes become soiled and I am irritated. My aunt and cousins did not get off till late, and before I had set the house to rights I was obliged to prepare my lunch. I spoiled what I tried to cook and dropped grease on my dress. Then, to "crown a crown of sorrows," a sharp ring came from the telephone, and I was warned by the authorities of the lunatic asylum a few miles distant that an inmate of the institution had escaped, and all persons in the neighborhood were being notified in order that they might look out for him.

"What do you wish me to do," I asked, "in case he comes here—hold him till your men come for him? I'm alone and entirely unequal to the task myself."

"Oh, no," was the reply, "not that! The man is dangerous. We are notifying persons in order that they may take precautions against being injured by him."

"Oh, heavens! What is he like?"

"Medium height, dark hair and wears a mustache only. He carries a suit case, having taken one that doesn't belong to him in order to make the gatekeeper believe he was a member of the asylum staff or a visitor. He also has an umbrella. Don't be frightened. Our men will soon take him in."

The click that followed hanging up the receiver seemed to leave me alone with the maniac. There had been protection in talking with some one even over a phone. I shut down every window and locked every door. Against some of the doors I moved furniture. The front door had a chain on it, which I put in place to prevent an opening. As soon as I had barricaded myself I sat down and shivered.

After awhile I concluded that if I didn't do something to occupy my mind I would become a lunatic myself. I got up and cleared away the lunch dishes. I was so agitated that my face became smudged with lampblack, though I was unconscious of it, and I spilled soup all over my dress. As soon as I had cleared away the lunch I busied myself doing everything I could find to do, even to sweeping floors that had been swept before. In this way I kept myself occupied till about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when the ax fell.

Looking out through the front window, there was the lunatic, suit case, umbrella and all, coming up the walk to the house. I caught at a dresser to save myself from falling and stood there till I heard the doorbell ring. Then I was obliged to steady myself by putting the other hand on the back of a chair. Several minutes passed, when the doorbell rang again. My only hope was that the maniac would become convinced that there was no one in the house and would go away.

It occurred to me to telephone the authorities at the asylum that their patient was at our house, but I dared not make the slightest sound, for fear of being heard by the man himself. So I kept still, scarcely daring to breathe. He rang the bell three times; then, instead of going away to murder some one else, he deliberately sat down on a bench on the porch. I could not see him, but I could hear every motion he made.

I could not remain where I was. I must go downstairs on tiptoe to see if I had left any weak spot in my fortification. On turning I caught a reflection of myself in the mirror of the dresser. Agitated as I was, I could not but notice my appearance. My dress, a very old one that I had put on to do housework, was bedraggled with soup and spotted with grease. Over my right eye was a smudge, and on the left side of my nose was another. As to my hair, tousled is not strong enough to describe it. But of what importance was this when a maniac was sitting quietly on the porch waiting to effect an entrance to murder me? I did not give my appearance a thought, but went noiselessly down the staircase. I had drawn every curtain below its window sill, not leaving a crack that would admit a streak of sunlight so I could be seen.

I examined all points of ingress and, finding everything as secure as I could make it, thought what next I could do. There was no telephone booth, the instrument being in the dining room. It occurred to me to go upstairs, bring down blankets with which to cover it, so as to deaden the sound, and inform the asylum managers of the lunatic's presence. Having got the blankets and covered myself and the phone, I put the receiver to my ear. If I had been obliged to ring I would not have dared make the call.

"What number?"

"Give me the East Arlington Lunatic asylum at once."

"The line is busy."

That's all I got out of "central," but I heard two women bidding each other goodby, and they spent half an hour doing so, while I was kept waiting with a lunatic on the porch. When I had heard the last goodby I called for the asylum and gave my information. I was told that a force of attendants would be sent at once.

Throwing off the blankets, I went to a window of the drawing room, near which the maniac sat, and listened. I heard nothing, but smelled tobacco. The man while waiting to get at me was quietly smoking. Then suddenly he got up and walked to the steps, and I heard an exclamation. Could it be that relief had come—that I was saved?

There were steps without and a babel of voices, followed by a jerk at the doorbell.

What should I do? I was not sure what to do. I did nothing.

A loud rap at the door.

My aunt's and my cousin's voices (including Tom's) outside:

"For heaven's sake!" cried my aunt. "What has happened to the girl?"

I unlocked and unchained the door. There stood a number of persons, three men from the asylum, my aunt and cousins and the lunatic. Every eye was turned with anxiety on me.

By this time I knew that I had made a goose of myself. I gave a sickly smile.

"I thought," I stammered, pointing to the man with the suit case, "that he was an escaped lunatic."

There was a burst of laughter.

"He's my friend, Alan Irving," said Tom. "He's not very bright, but I wouldn't quite consider him a lunatic."

"Good gracious!" exclaimed my Cousin Bess. "What have you been doing to yourself?"

Then I remembered my soiled dress, my smudged face and, turning, fled.

Tom had made an unexpected arrangement to bring Mr. Irving out with him for the week end. Tom had missed the train, and Irving had come out alone.

So this was the result of my dreams of my first meeting with the man who had been picked out for me; my keeping fresh my most becoming dress; my hopes of making a favorable impression! Could I have made a worse one? I was followed to my room by my Cousins Bess and Julia, who found me sobbing convulsively and in whose arms I gradually recovered my equanimity.

When I went downstairs Mr. Irving was kind enough to say to me, "Of all things I admire, a brave man and a cowardly woman stand at the head."

He afterward declared that, untidy and smudged as I was when he first saw me, I was comely. But that was flattery.

We made a match of it after all.

MILKMAN THOUGHT HE SAW A "GHOST"

But It Proved to Be a Young Woman In Her Nightdress

Hackensack, N. J., April 3.—"There's a ghost standing near the railroad tracks near Berry street, and she's covered with blood," shouted a milkman, as he dashed into police headquarters here.

Patrolman Baer ran to the spot and found a young woman, scantily clothed, standing like a statue, with a long iron pipe in her hands. Her face and nightdress were covered with blood. The policeman took her to a hospital.

She proved to be Mrs. Mary Sherman, 23. "I heard burglars in the house and I juniped through the window to escape them," was all she would say. This explained the lacerations on her arms and hands.

Birmingham, Ala., April 3.—Congressman Hobson's campaign manager announces that Hobson will be a candidate for the presidency if President Wilson's presidential primary bill becomes a law. He will run as a Progressive Democrat.

DID NOT DO SHOOTING

Statement of Dying Man Accused of Killing Mrs. Chick

Worcester, Mass., April 3.—George Apostoly, 22, who is dying at the city hospital, declared he did not shoot Mrs. Sadie Chick at her home, afterwards turning the gun upon himself, but that the crime had been committed by another man.

According to the police, inmates of the house have told contradictory stories regarding the events preceding and following the shooting and an investigation of Apostoly's story is under way. He denied owning the gun with which the shooting was done, and police officials say such a gun was seen in Mrs. Chick's possession not long ago.

At that time, they say, a squad of patrolmen were called out to quell a disturbance at her house. She greeted them on their arrival by pointing an automatic pistol at the front rank of the squad.

L. P. Chick, the husband of the woman who was shot, came here from Boston. He says they were married twenty-five years ago, and separated ten years ago by mutual consent.

FAST TYPEWRITING

Sixteen Errors In 3891 Words Pounded Out In Thirty Minutes

Boston, April 3.—By writing an average of 127 words a minute for thirty minutes on a typewriter, Miss Bessie Friedman of New York, an amateur operator, shattered all typewriting records for that length of time, in a contest at the New England Business Efficiency exposition.

Miss Friedman made sixteen errors in writing 3891 words, for which eighty words were deducted from her total.

Miss Margaret B. Owen of Passaic, N. J., champion professional typist of the world, wrote 124 words a minute for an hour and won the professional competition. She made only seventy-three errors in a total of 7807 words, for which she was penalized 365 words in her score.

LOVING CUP

that chances of Bro. Simmons recovery were doubtful. Hence there was a mutual feeling. Tonight we have a fine example of love and sympathy. Bro. Simmons you have got a great deal to be proud of.

Hon. Edward A. Avery judge of the District court at Quincy, was the next speaker, and added his congratulations. He quoted a very appropriate comment of an English author who must have been a Mason.

Other invited guests were Charles Dunbar, past master of Orphans Hope lodge; George Farrar, the master of Orphans Hope lodge; Edward Wight, past master of Delta lodge of Braintree; John O. Hall, past master of Konohassett lodge of Cohasset; and Edward A. Smith, worshipful master of the lodge at Dover, N. H., who recently raised Joel F. Sheppard, 2d, formerly of Quincy.

The Temple quartette took part in the installation service, and also contributed several pleasing numbers in the entertainment which was given after the lodge closed. A. L. Hipson and F. A. Varney of the quartette contributed solos, while E. E. Bullock and G. G. McGowan were much enjoyed. The quartette was assisted by two artists from the Keith circuit, Miss Ethel Phinney, a charming impersonator who accompanied herself on the piano; and Carle Stowe, the humorist and monologuist. Several encores were demanded.

A buffet lunch and ices were served at the close of the entertainment, rounding out a very enjoyable evening for the craft.

Walter E. Simmons was admitted to Rural lodge, June 5, 1884, at the same time as Samuel King and Frank P. Waterhouse. The worshipful master at that time was Albert A. Brackett and the wardens George S. Paterson and Henry O. Fairbanks. At the annual election that year Mr. Simmons was elected secretary. During his thirty years as secretary there have been 17 masters, George S. Paterson, Henry O. Fairbanks, Charles A. Pitkin, Emery L. Crane, Charles L. Hammond, Charles W. Hollis, Joseph L. Whiton, Henry L. Kincaide, William H. Whitney, Frank W. Brett, Herbert F. Pierce, Joseph P. Prout, Hartley L. White, Charles Sampson, Albert M. Parker, Frank A. Reed, and H. Everett Crane. Three of these have passed away but most of the others were present to extend congratulations to Bro. Simmons. Only 37 to the present members have been enrolled in Rural lodge more years than Bro. Simmons, who becomes a life member next June. Over 400 have been admitted to the lodge during the 30 years of his secretaryship. Mr. Simmons is treasurer of A. Shuman & Co., of Boston and resides on South Central avenue, Wollaston. He is prominent in the Wollaston Unitarian church, the Unitarian club and other organizations.

NEW SHERMAN STORE OPENED

Clarence E. Sherman, whose business at the Daylight Store grew to such proportions in 19 months that he was obliged to seek larger quarters reopened this morning in the store formerly occupied by Curriers Market in the Welch block. He is one of the most successful of the local merchants,—incorporating Boston methods in the management and has one of the most attractive ladies shops in the city.

Mr. Sherman was introduced to Quincy eight years ago when he came to the city as manager and buyer for the Quincy Department store, remaining with them over six years when he severed his connections to open a store of his own in the Johnson building which was a successful venture from the start.

Mr. Sherman's motto is "Boston goods at Boston prices." He took up department store management in his youth and for 13 years was window trimmer and buyer for the Byron, Truell Co., of Lynn and when left their employ he was tendered a monster reception by his associates and presented with a purse of gold. He went from there to Roslindale where he successfully managed a department store conducted by James H. Fitzpatrick.

Early in the year Mr. Sherman was wedded to Miss Ferguson of Hyde Park, and went to live at 46 Upland road in the attractive new house Mr. Sherman had built for himself. He is now a permanent resident of the city —a business man and real estate owner.

☞Today, Saturday and Monday are double stamp days at Kincaide's furniture store and many bargains are advertised.

THE PLAYHOUSE

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

For the Saturday matinee and evening the great three-reel feature, "A Fight to Death" will be shown. This story is told in dramatic form and is accurately produced with a very large cast. It is brim full of action and carries a punch in every scene. The photography is exceptionally fine, and everything that goes to make up a feature production is there. Don't miss seeing this big production at any cost. Also a psychological drama in three parts featuring Miss Gene Gauntier will be given.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

After an entire season at the Eltinge Theatre, New York, where it played to capacity business, from the beginning to the end of the long engagement, "Within the Law," Bayard Veiller's absorbing melo-drama of modern life in New York, is now in its eighth week at the Majestic Theatre, where it is playing to crowded houses. This play which has for its principal theme an exposition of the police methods and economic conditions that exist in the metropolis, has excited more comment than any drama produced within the half-century mark. The minimum wage question now being agitated so widely is one of the important themes selected by the dramatist as the basic material of his play. There is a story of a poor shop-girl who is sent to prison for a crime she does not commit. After her release and a vain endeavor to obtain decent employment, she becomes the "brains" of a gang of "crooks" and as their leader carries on various schemes by which she obtains enormous sums of money, managing always to keep within the pale of the law, and snapping her fingers in the face of the police department. Jane Cowl and the excellent original New York cast appear at each performance. The usual matinees are given on Wednesday and Saturdays.

COLONAL THEATRE.

Klaw and Erlanger's magnificent production of the McLellan-Caryll musical comedy, "The Little Cafe," enters upon its fourth successful week at the Colonial where its myriad guests are served with all the delicacies ever daintily merged into a bright light, airy, colorful, rollicking entertainment to make the mouth of the most exacting connoisseur water because of the myriad delights therein.

A light heart and a hearty laugh go arm and arm together in "The Little Cafe," and the unrestrained laughter and applause which has greeted it since its opening night is emphasized at every performance. It is clean, wholesome entertainment, a joy to the eye and ear alike, absolutely free from objectionable features or suggestions and at the same time, bright, light, airy and colorful. Klaw and Erlanger have given it a production which is "the very last last word" in artistic taste and magnificence, and its big cast and pretty female chorus go far toward making "The Little Cafe" the most alluring musical comedy of the season.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

With "Rip Van Winkle" as the play, and John Craig in the title role, there will be a double interest in next week's production at the Castle Square The play is a famous one. It was acted all over the country by Joseph Jefferson during a period of nearly forty years, and it may fairly be said to be one of the most popular and successful of all American comedies. Its plot is taken from Washington Irving's well known legendary story, and its combination of reality and the supernatural is remarkable. it will be given for only one week at the Castle Square.

Week after next the Castle Square play will be Shakespeare's comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," with Mr. Craig and Miss Young in the cast. It will be followed during the week of April 20th by the latest farce comedy success "Officer 666."

CORT THEATRE.

Delightful melodies that are being applauded when played in the restaurants, and comedy scenes that business men are talking about during their lunch hours have made Oliver Morosco's latest comedy with music, "Pretty Mrs. Smith" now at the Cort Theatre, the talk of the town. Splendid audiences have been greeting fascinating Kitty Gordon and her merry associates since they commenced their engagement two weeks ago and when they are not actually humming the various tuneful numbers, they are applauding and holding their sides with laughter at the continual flow of good fun and bright comedy that fills each act.

There is enough comedy in "Pretty Mrs. Smith" to supply two ordinary musical shows. Every speech is witty and every situation is made doubly attractive by tuneful melodies that one cannot resist.

The company is a brilliant one and made up of artists of reputation.

BOSTON THEATRE.

That stirring American play "In Old Kentucky" is repeating its success of twenty years ago at the Boston Theatre. Produced on Monday night with a splendid cast, 100 or more supernumeraries, a dozen or so horses, a swarm of genuine Southern pickaninnies who sing and dance and frolic to their hearts content and to the undisguised delight of the audience, and with as elaborate and beautiful a production as has ever been seen on the great stage of the Boston Theatre, it, once again established itself in the favor of Boston play-goers. It is seldom that such spontaneous enthusiasm is seen at the premiere of a new play. Curtain calls were numerous and cheers greeted the exciting finish of the great horse race, as Madge, the heroine, riding the beautiful Kentucky, thoroughbred "Queen Bess" dashed under the wire a neck ahead, followed by eight or ten other horses, all running like mad, making probably the most thrilling horse race ever seen on any stage. Few plays possess in such generous measure the wealth of entertainment of "In Old Kentucky." It abounds in thrilling scenes and exciting moments, and is pervaded throughout by a vein of the most wholesome and delicious comedy.

The fact that this is appreciated is evident from the enormous audiences that have filled the great Boston Theatre since the opening night. It is a sign, too, of a healthy public sentiment for "In Old Kentucky," like "The Old Homestead" is as clean and wholesome a play as was ever written.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

The Easter offering at the Hollis Street Theatre will be Mrs. Fiske in the lively comedy that Boston has waited so long to see, "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh." Always significant are the visits of the leader of the American stage, no less on account of her own consummate art than on account of her play material which is certain to contain unusual features else it would not have enlisted her attention. In "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" Mrs. Fiske has a play whose chief object is to amuse. It is the lighest textured in which she has appeared and in no other has she displayed so remarkably, her wonderful versatility. Preceding plays have exploited her emotional powers, her gifts of psychological analysis, or her facile touch in high comedy, but "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," presents her as a perfect queen of laughter and fun.

The play is a satire on social climbing and the story deals with the progress of an Indiana family, whose fortune was founded on various proprietary "cure-alls," this fortune having been used to blaze a pathway through "high Society" by the eldest daughter who had succeeded to the reins of family government when the father, "Old Jim Sayles, the Sufferer's Friend," passed to his reward. The engagement at the Hollis will include matinees on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

WAITING FOR THE TRAIN

A well-filled hall greeted the performers at the entertainment given at the Massachusetts Fields school, Thursday evening for the benefit of school athletics and the Parent-Teachers association.

The cast was made up of pupils from the seventh and eighth grades and the class of entertainment they furnished was a credit to the school.

The opening number was a song "Over hill, over dale" by the pupils of Grade Eight, followed by an encore.

"The capture of Major Andre" a dramatic sketch was well done with Carroll Wright as Major Andre and George Nichols, Aubrey Nicholson and Percy Coupal as American soldiers.

An interesting reading "Home study" was given by Ednah Mellish and she received well merited applause.

A sketch entitled, "Waiting for the train" showed the interior of the Wollaston station just before train time for the 9.02 on Saturday morning.

William Hammond was ticket agent and the parts of the various commuters were all well taken. The sketch was marked by a humorous accident which brought down the house but which Principal Goodspeed assured those present would not occur again this evening.

The cast was as follows:

Grandma	Dorothy Chase
Child	Blanche Morris
Farmer	Horatio Holland
Old Maid	Ethel Chapman
Fat man	Alvah Reynolds
Auntie Doleful	Arleen Williams
Negro	Warren Ronagan
Mother	Mildred Matlack
Book agent	Gordon Banks
Nancy Ann	Helen Pease
Deaf woman	Mildred Morris
Bad boy	Everett Miller
Pedlar	Ralph Painten

For the concluding number a mixed quartet composed of Violet Shay, Katherine Finn, Warren Ranagan and Percy Coupal rendered "Lift thine eyes."

Candy was on sale by a committee in charge of Miss Ruth Taylor. Principal Goodspeed acted as master of ceremonies.

☞Considerable annoyance is being caused the Boston Opera Company management by persons who are presenting throughout the country concerts and excerpts from opera with small and inferior companies under the guise that such enterprises are a part of, or, at least, under the auspices of the Boston Opera Company. It is usually done by engaging an understudy or one or two very minor artists, who may at some time have been with the Boston Opera Company, and then wording the printing and advertisements in such a manner as to create the impression with local theatrical and concert managers, newspapermen, and the public generally, that such troupes are under the sponsorship of the Boston Opera Company. The Boston Opera house maintains its own concert bureau, which is under the direction of Thomas Neilsen.

COLLEGE NIGHT AT FIRST PARISH

Harvard Men, Wellesley Girls and Tech Boys Take Part in Program

College Songs Sung and Cheers Given Alma Maters

The Young Peoples Religious Union of the First Parish church held their "College Night" in the chapel Friday evening with many college grads and their friends present. The decorations consisted of streamers of red, college pennants, potted plants and palms.

A program of merit was given in three divisions, and at the close of each college songs were rendered by the graduates. The Harvard men were in the majority with the Wellesley girls a close second. The Tech boys were in the minority.

Tables were set about the chapel and during the short intermissions refreshments were served by Dorothy Hall, Beatrice Johnson, Noma Johnson, Roxana Schenkelberger, Natalie Saville, Elinor Gow, Maria Schenkelberger, Marjorie Brooks, Josephine Smith, Pearl Hayden, Constance Sears, Margaret Atwood, Ruth Bass, Priscilla Ring, Roberta Smith Blanche B. Hayden, Grace Miller, Dorothy Stevens, Margaret Gray, Florence Barker, Marie Bass.

The ushers were William C. Edwards, Fred Atwood, Henry Faxon, Everett McLaughlin, Abbot Johnson and Albert Barker.

The program opened with selections by an orchestra which included Curtis Arnold, Lyman Morrison, Everett Rhodes, Elton Chase, Alfred Ellsworth, Edwin Ellsworth and Lucian Thayer.

The talking sketch of Ryder Gay and Miss Eleanor Whittemore contained many knocks on conditions in the city, and was followed by a sketch, "Called to Arms" by Bruce Saville and Miss Esther Sidelinger, in which the latter displayed her unusual talents.

Quartette selections, given by the Misses Ruth, Minnie, Ella and Dorothy Packard were encored, and were followed by the singing of the Harvard songs.

Constance Fryer opened the second division of the program with a Spanish dance. She made her entrance from the audience and as an encore gave a Gypsy dance.

Mrs. Ray Blanchard, violinist, Ernest Filerberg, 'cellist and Mrs. Charles Sampson, pianist, rendered the "Reverie" by Louis Eanne, and were warmly applauded. Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis, a general favorite, gave a humorous monologue which called for character impersonations, and the Wellesley girls closed the second half by singing their songs, after which Miss Minnie Packard announced their benefit performance in Music hall on April 24 for the Wellesley fund and received the assurances of an enthusiastic support.

Everett Rhodes and Allan Miller, in a Dutch sketch, "Pilsner and Poppyseed" opened the third division, followed by Harold Bowker who gave impersonations. "The Silent System" a sketch by Miss Ruth Packard and Harry Slade created much laughter, because Mr. Slade remains silent during a verbal attack which lasted nearly 15 minutes. The singing of "Take Me Back to Tech" and the "Stein song" closed the program.

The gathering broke up with all cheering their alma maters.

REBEKAH SOCIAL.

The Rebekah Associates held a social and dancing party in Electa hall Friday night which was attended by many members and friends. Dancing was enjoyed until midnight, music being furnished by the orchestra of John Hancock lodge, I. O. O. F. Refreshments were served. Noble Grand Sadie M. Wood and Mrs. Robert C. Welch headed the committee which comprised Mrs. Sadie Walker, Mrs. Maud Richardson, Mrs. Mary Hall, Mrs. Annie Pushee, Mrs. Charles Johnson and Mrs. James Baker.

The newly elected house committee of Memorial church met Monday evening and put on a chair rail in order to save the plaster in the Sunday school rooms and ladies' parlor. They also plan a waxing bee social when they will wax all the woodwork of the church.

OLD AMATEURS RENEW YOUTH

C. T. Baker And W. E. Simmons Present Farce

The last and most largely attended sociable of the season was held, Friday evening, in the Wollaston Unitarian vestry, under the auspices of the Ladies Aid Alliance.

The sociable formed the occasion for a revival of "Two gentlemen in a fix" a farce presented quite a number of years ago by Charles T. Baker and Walter E. Simmons. Friday evening this one act farce was produced with all the old time success by the two veteran amateurs. The sketch was full of humorous situations and the two lost no opportunity to make the most of each.

The scene showed a railroad waiting room, and the two gentlemen became acquainted through a mixup of men and bundles in rushing for a train. Subsequent dialogue shows one to be the intended son-in-law of the other, and the sketch ends in a rigmarole of mingled emotions.

During the evening piano solos by Dr. John Merrill were enjoyed, and old time songs were sung by the audience. A fine roast beef supper was served.

Composing the committee were Mrs. Clifton H. Baker, Mrs. Harold Green, Mrs. Eben N. Barstow, Mrs. R. W. Oldham, Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield, Mrs. George R. Thompson, Mrs. G. Ernest Carr, Mrs. Joseph Crossley, Mrs. Charles Estes, Mrs. Roy C. Baker, Mrs. William Howard, Mrs. Stiles and Mrs. Charles S. Adams.

The committee was assisted by the following young ladies: Louise Emery Katherine Adams, Marcia Adams, Charlotte Barstow, Helen Thompson, Priscilla White, Gretchen Horst, Helen Richards, Dorothy Atwood, Martha Robinson, Priscilla Robinson, Ernestine Hunt and Anna Weston.

DEATH OF SANTIAGO HERO

Bernard Mullarkey Suffered Privations in Cuba

Bernard Mullarkey of 76 Willard street, one of the brave boys of the 7th U. S. infantry who helped place the banner of the free above the ramparts at Santiago, died late Friday night after a long illness. He met the foe as a member of Co. D which was recruited in Boston.

Privations suffered while on the Isle de Cuba during his service of three years so undermined his constitution that he was unable to withstand the attacks of disease and about a year ago, despite the efforts of physicians he was obliged to give up his daily occupation and wage a war of his own. For a time there was progress but the slow inroads on his constitution had a weakening effect and he answered the last call.

Mr. Mullarkey was born in Ireland and came to this country several years before the Spanish war. He left a good paying position, much to the surprise of his friends, in answer to the call for volunteers and enlisted in the regular army at Boston in May, 1898.

While the battles raged in Cuba word reached here that he had fallen in an engagement, but letters received several weeks after contained the truth. He with others of his company on skirmish duty had been harrassed by the enemy and made their way back to their regiment after extreme difficulty.

While in Cuba he participated in the battles of Guas Imes, El Caney, San Juan and Santiago. He married Delia McCue shortly after the term of his enlistment expired and since then has made his home in this city. He is survived by his wife, and one son, John. A brother, Michael Mularkey, is a foreman of the department of public works. He was a member of Div. 4 A. O. H., and St. Francis Court, M. C. O. F.

RULES AND EGULATIONS

Board of Health Make a Few Changes

In compliance with the requirements of the Revised Laws, the Board of Health published in Friday's Daily Ledger its rules and regulations. The regulations with two exceptions are the same as last year. Regulation 28 is changed so that the name of the diseases are given, instead of referring to the names given in another regulation. That is no child shall be allowed to attend school while any member of the family is ill with any of the diseases named, and until after a period of two weeks after the recovery of removal of said sick person.

A section has aso been added to this regulation which provides that in cases of mumps, measles and chicken pox, only the patient or those not having had the disease shall be excluded, and in cases of whooping cough, typhoid fever and tuberculosis only the patient shall be excluded. Cases of mumps and chicken pox shall be excluded for two weeks and measles for three weeks. Certificates for the above will be required for admission to school.

The other change is the addition of a regulation relative to the pollution of a water shed or the shores of any pond or stream which is the source of any water or ice supply of the city.

Last year the City Council passed an ordinance relative to the pollution of water sheds, ice ponds, etc., and the new regulation is in relation to that.

It provides that no person shall pollute or cause to be polluted by dumping or placing of any vegetable or other waste matter upon a water shed or the shores of any pond or stream which is the source of any water or ice supply.

The plumbing regulations are published in today's Ledger.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Annual Appropriation Order Signed by Mayor

The annual appropriation order, which it was positively announced by one paper that the Mayor would veto has been signed and is now a law.

The order reached the Mayor in the regular course Tuesday afternoon and remained unopened with the other Council papers on the Mayor's desk until Friday afternoon when it was taken up by the Mayor and signed.

It is not unlikely however that the Mayor may forward to the Council a suplementary budget at a later date, in which he will probably include a sum for the purchase of a "buz wagon" for himself and one for the Inspector of Buildings. If the order increasing the number of permanent firement now pending before the City Council, should be passed it will be necessary to provide money to pay them, and this will also probably be included.

According to all accounts things are running smoothly again in the Board of Assessors for what ever dissatisfaction John A. Duggan had, has been patched up. Mr. Duggan was seen late Friday night and in reply to questions said that he was still a member of the Board of Assessors. He further said that he had not resigned, all of which was probably true yet the fact remains nevertheless that he did resign on Thursday, but probably after more sober thought has exercised the woman's prerogative and changed his mind.

The young lady clerks at City Hall who got a slight increase in salary by the signing of the appropriation order will find a few more dollars in their pay roll this noon and it will give them a little more spending money.

NAY ESTATE CHANGES HANDS

The Bigelow F. Nay estate at 53 Howard avenue has been sold this week. One report says to the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, but another report says that two gentlemen are to form a company and establish a coal business. That Hayward's creek will be dredged, and a wharf and coal bins built. The property on the west is owned by the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, and the property on the east by Perry Green, the overseer of the poor. The estate contains 58,090 square feet, and is assessed for over $9,000.

Dr. King a missionary for thirty years to China is to visit the Atlantic M. E. church Saturday, Sunday and Monday evenings and give three stereopticon lectures. Admission will be free but an offering will be taken for mission work. Dr. King is in great demand all over New England making dates a year ahead. The lectures promise to be valuable educationally and should prove especially interesting to public school children.

PONY EXPRESS LICENSES

Will Be Considered by City Council This Month

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held Monday evening and unless something unforeseen happens the meeting does not promise to be a long one. Much of the important business pending before the Council was disposed of at the adjourned meeting last Monday evening, and the only committee that has met this week was that on Licenses who will make several reports.

The great interest in this committee's reports is in regard to the application for licenses to collect junk and for permits to transport liquor. The time for filing applications for these licenses expires Monday evening and the committee will report on them probably at the meeting April 20.

At the present time there are 23 applications pending for junk licenses and more will be received Monday night. There are also 14 applications for liquor permits and more coming. Many new parties have applied this year both for liquor permits and for licenses to collect junk, and it is a foregone conclusion that some are bound to get left.

The License committee this year are going into the matter of licenses very carefully and it would not be surprising if the number of licenses of all kinds was materially reduced this year from the number issued in 1913.

In the matter of junk collectors licenses over which there was considerable controversy a year ago, it might be said that members of the committee have been making a quiet investigation of locations of junk collectors, which they have visited alone and unannounced. In this way they have gathered considerable information, which they otherwise would not have obtained.

As all licenses expire on the first day of May the meeting of the Council on April 20, can properly be called license night and the chances are that the greater part of the time of that meeting will be given up to consideration of licenses for transportation of liquor and for collection of junk.

The members of the Committee on Licenses are Councilmen Beeman, Thompson, Sodergren, Corcoran, Barrows, Richards and Barnicoat.

BOX 18 FOR GRASS FIRE

The alarm from Box 18 at 11.03 this noon was for a fire in a boat on Sea street, owned by Mr. Adams. The fire was caused by a grass fire getting too near the boat which had been hauled up for the winter and had burnt off some of the paint when discovered. A chemical stream from the Chief's car put the fire out of commission.

Y. M. C. A. MEN'S MEETING.

In some way the meeting to be held Sunday afternoon was announced to be at the Kincaide Theatre. The meeting is to be at the Y. M. C. A. building at 2.30 o'clock with B. W. Stockwell as the speaker. Thomas Djerf will render cornet solos. This will be the last meeting of the season and has been arranged on account of so many expressing the desire that more be held. It is hoped there will be a large attendance.

THE FRATERNAL SPIRIT.

If anything were needed to restore Walter E. Simmons to complete health, it was furnished in the spirit of fraternal regard which pervaded the atmosphere at the meeting of Rural Lodge Thursday evening. The good-will expressed by the words and presence of so many men of substance and character must have made the genial secretary feel that he was indeed in the house of his friends. Underneath all the differences in politics and business that must necessarily exist among men of individuality are the strong bands of Masonic brotherhood. Masonry is indeed a potent influence for good in this community, as in every other spot on the globe where it is found. There is probably no other organization ,except the Christian church, which does more to keep people mindful of the great fact of the brotherhood of man than does the Masonic order.

YEAR'S WORK THE TEST.

The Daily Ledger has not indicated disapproval of the administration of Mayor Miller. It is not in the habit of passing judgment on any mayor's administration until its close, when the evidence is all in. It presents to its readers all that can be fairly said for or against the incumbent, keeping its columns open to both sides, and a day or two before election sums up the evidence, as a judge might do for a jury, and expresses its own opinion and preferences, never out of spite, and never for the purpose of winning favor with any candidate, but in the spirit of independent journalism and for the public good.

The Ledger does not place itself in the position of asking or granting favors, preferring to be unbiased and free to express an opinion regarding city matters at any and all times and at the end of the year endorse or disapprove of those whose records have not stood the test.

Mayor Miller will receive a square deal from the Ledger, reportorially and editorially, as long as he remains in office, as all his predecessors have, and nobody knows it better than he does, mischief-makers to the contrary notwithstanding.

PRESIDENT'S POLICIES.

The interests of the American citizen will be amply protected wherever he goes. And in saying that I am only saying what the president himself has said, and it could not be said any stronger.

Our foreign trade will be stimulated not only in the orient, but in South America, by the new law which permits banks here to establish branches throughout the world. By that new act the president has accomplished more for the commerce of the world than was ever done by battleships.

He has declared war upon private monopoly, and this means investment of capital that has heretofore been frightened away from industrial fields. If the new policy results in a reduction of the size of corporations that have become overgrown it will mean a larger number of independent and competing enterprises, and this competition will mean a better article at a cheaper price. In proportion as industries rest upon their own merits rather than upon legislative favor, just in that proportion will they be strengthened for successful contest with competing industries throughout the world.
—William Jennings Bryan.

FREEDOM IN DRESS.

Still to be neat, still to be drest,
As you were going to a feast;
Still to be powdered, still perfumed—
Lady, it is to be presumed,
Though art's hid causes are not found,
All is not sweet, all is not sound.

Give me a look, give me a face
That makes simplicity a grace;
Robes loosely flowing, hair as free—
Such sweet neglect more taketh me
Than all the adulteries of art;
They strike mine eyes, but not my heart.

—Ben Jonson.

TORREON'S FALL HELPS REBELS

Makes Task of Reaching Mexico City Much Easier

A BLOODY SIX-DAY BATTLE

Streets of Federal Stronghold Strewn With Dead and Wounded as Villa Enters—Rebels Now In Control of Greater Portion of Northern Mexico—Federal Loss Said to Be Thirty-Five Hundred—Two Thousand Rebels Dead or Wounded

Torreon, Mex., April 4.—Torreon is General Villa's, together with great supplies, as food, ammunition, artillery and cotton. Saltillo and Monterey must fall and the way to Zacatas, the next objective on the road to the City of Mexico, will be open to the constitutionalist armies.

Villa's capture of the rebel stronghold, after one of the bloodiest battles in recent Mexican history, will have an important bearing on the future. Recruits will now flock to his banner in increasing numbers and he soon will have all the men he can arm.

With the taking of Torreon the constitutionalists now control an immense wedge-shaped portion of Mexico, with the point resting on Torreon, 500 miles south of the border, and the top extending along the American boundary from Nogales, Ari., to a point just west of Eagle Pass, Tex. At Piedras Negras, known also as Ciudad Porfirio Diaz, across the Rio Grande from Eagle Pass, there is a federal garrison, but it does not now constitute a menace to the rebels.

The states now subject to the rebel arms are Chihuahua, Sonora (except the port of Guaymas), most of Coahuila, Durango and Sinaloa.

The main federal force, according to Villa, was destroyed by death, wounds, capture or flight at Gomez Palacio and Torreon. Mazatlan, the federal port in the state of Sinaloa, by the release of the veteran rebel army at Torreon, also is in a precarious state.

Thus, by his successful campaign of the last month, Villa has practically assured rebel control of the vast territory of the northern states of Mexico, and gained for himself the reputation of being the foremost soldier of the country.

General Gonzales for months has harrassed the federal forces at Monclova and Monterey, and now that the Torreon army is loosed, the federals must evacuate these points and attempt to retreat to Tampico, the seaport of the state of Tamaulipas.

This state is sprinkled with rebel troops all along the line of retreat, which makes it evident that the federal garrisons already are threatened with capture by superior numbers.

A railroad runs from Torreon to the city of Durango, which is held by the rebels, and the overland journey from that point to Mazatlan lies through a country which is agriculturally rich and well watered. It would be a pleasant march for an army fresh from the horrors of hunger and thirst in the desert.

The railroad, however, is cut at Picardis, where the big steel bridge over the river of that name was wrecked six months ago. Troops could be moved over it, however.

Torreon, strewn with the dead and wounded of a six-day battle, was occupied by the rebels on the heels of the fleeing federals. In all the fighting no foreigner was killed or injured.

The fighting began March 27 and was almost continuous. At first Villa attempted assaults on the strong federal positions in daylight, but these proved costly, so the days were spent in cannonading and the night in assaults.

Positions were taken and lost time and again. Several night attacks sent the federals scurrying from strong positions, but at daybreak the captors would be compelled to abandon them by the strength and accuracy of the enemy's artillery fire.

Losses have not been compiled, but Villa estimates his own losses at 500 killed and 1500 wounded, and the federal loss at 1000 killed and 2500 wounded, with an unknown number of prisoners. Villa believes the federals, whom his cavalry is pursuing to the south, form but a remnant of the federal force, whose loss he says probably is close to being total. All the subordinate generals have not yet reported, however, and until they do the number captured cannot be accurately stated.

The battle line was four miles long, and the field was determined by three great hills formed like a carpenter's square, at either end of which lay the towns of Gomez Palacio and Torreon. There were about 10,000 men in each army. The federals had fortified the hills with rifle pits, trenches and barb entanglements. The nature of the ground made it difficult to recover the wounded and many of them died of thirst and hunger or lack of attention, where they fell.

Speeches were made at the meeting by Walter H. Long, former chief secretary of Ireland; Lord Milner and Sir Edward Carson. Carson said the government either would have to exclude Ulster from their bill or make up their minds that they would have bloodshed and coercion.

MEDICINE IS BLAMED

Grand Jury Thinks It Responsible For Deaths In Hospital

Los Angeles, Cal., April 4.—A recommendation that the federal government closely inspect a blood disease remedy imported from Germany was made by the grand jury at the conclusion of its investigation of recent deaths at the county hospital of several men into whose spines the medicine was injected.

The investigators attached no blame to any person, but expressed the belief that the deaths were the result of decomposition of the medicine or of too large an injection.

COMFORT STATION BILL

Cities May Be Required Under Law to Provide

If the bill unanimously reported by by the Committee on Public Health of the Legislature becomes a law, as seems likely, every city in the Commonwealth having a population of 25,000 or more must provide one or more comfort stations for the convenience of the wayfarer, to be maintained by the municipality. This means that the City of Quincy will have to provide such a station and failure to comply with the law will impose a penalty of $50 for each month during the failure to provide such a station.

The need of such a comfort station has long been felt in City Square and the Board of Trade and others have long been trying to get the street railway to provide such a station. The street railway people, however, have claimed hat it was up to the city to provide a station and it has been hanging fire. At the meeting of the Board of Trade in February it was reported that the matter of a comfort station was under consideration between the committee of the Board and the street railway officials and it was hoped the want would soon be supplied.

Up to the present time the general public has had to "bum" on the railroad and there has been some complaint bceause the railroad did not provide better facilities.

Much of the trouble has been because the privileges afforded by the railroad have been abused, and this doubtless has been one of the chief causes why the street railway did not long ago establish a comfort station in City Square.

It seems strange that the public would abuse such a place yet it is nevertheless true. A glance into street railway comfort station at the Neponset end of the line will be sufficient evidence of the slovenliness of the general public.

If the city establishes such a station as it will have to if the bill becomes a law, it will have to provide a caretaker for both the men and women stations. Failure to comply with the law means something like $600 a year which would pay the interest on quite a sum.

The original bill called for stations in every city or town of 10,000 population and a penalty of $1,000 a month. The committee however modified the bill somewhat, raising the limit of population and reducing the amount of the penalty.

The fine in case of failure is to be recovered by indictment by the grand jury.

The spring concert of the Wollaston Glee club is to be given next Wednesday evening in the new school hall, Beale street. The assisting talent is A. J. Harpin, basso and Miss Catherine Cole, reader.

TO BE GIVEN BADGE.

Bert Miller qualified as a chicken inspector Friday afternoon when he captured a brood of 12 hens that escaped from a crate in shipment. The first to force open the slats perched on the top over the seat of his express truck and rode there for some distance before the other hens cackled on leaving their temporary home and caught Bert's eye.

He made several ineffectual attempts to catch the hens before his efforts were successful and once he had them all back safely in the crate when they made another escape. The incident occured on Hancock street nearly opposite the Grand Army hall and right after the Kincaide theatre matinee crowd came along. Most of them stopped and apparently enjoyed Bert's discomfiture.

Today Bert's merchant friends are polishing a chicken inspector's badge, bearing the numerals "23" in recognition of his game fight in capturing the fugitives.

KILLS WOMAN AND EMPLOYER

Deed of Rejected Suitor When Final Plea Fails

RESULT OF LOVERS' QUARREL

Chauffeur Shoots Sweetheart and Turns Weapon Upon Man Who Rushes to Her Aid—Holds Police at Bay Until Weapon Is Wrenched From Him—May Be Insane

Peabody, Mass., April 4.—Walter P. Hills, 56, a prominent citizen of this town, and Miss Pearl Frost, 20, his housekeeper, were shot and killed by George LeFave, 35, the rejected suitor of the girl, who had called at the Hills house to make his final plea for her hand.

Brandishing his revolver LeFave held a squad of policemen at bay, threatening to shoot the officers also until one of them wrenched the weapon from his grasp and placed him under arrest on the charge of murder.

The grl died with a fear-inspired promise to marry LeFave on her lips. With one bullet lodged in her breast, she cried out to the enraged suitor: "Don't, George; I'll marry you," but the man was too crazed to heed her words. He fired two more bullets into her body and she died almost instantly.

Then LeFave turned his still-smoking revolver upon Hills, who had rushed to the girl's aid. He poured the three remaining bullets into the man, who died an hour later without regaining consciousness.

In a cell at the police station LeFave appeared ignorant of the tragedy. He declared his mind was a blank, when questioned regarding the shooting. When Chief of Police Grady visited him he was dancing in his cell. Police and acquaintances expressed the belief that he had gone insane.

LeFave is a chauffeur by occupation. During the winter he has been conducting an automobile repair shop. He was engaged to marry Miss Frost, but a few weeks ago she broke the engagement. The girl's mother declared the engagement was broken because Pearl learned that he had taken to drink and because he had been abusive toward her.

Since he was rejected, LeFave has made repeated attempts to regain the girl's consent to marry him, but she firmly refused.

Last Saturday night, friends of the girl say, he pleaded with her in the yard outside the Hills home, and when she refused, he flew into a rage and tried to bite the diamond out of their engagement ring on her finger, dislodging a pivot tooth in the attempt.

The girl also told relatives and friends that he had threatened to kill her. Once, she told them, he warned her: "You'll never live to marry anyone else."

PETITION DRAWN UP

For a Co-operative Bank for Ward Six

An enthusiastic meeting of the Atlantic Improvement Association decided last evening that for the good of the community, it would be advisable to organize a co-operative bank. Mr. Swain of the law firm of Swain Babcock and Nay of Boston gave a strong convincing address on the benefits of such a bank to the individual, the family and community.

Mr. Swain said it was a benefit to the individual because it helped him to form the habit of saving. That the average man's earning capacity was often one dollar and his spending habit one dollar and ten cents. A man has ten dollars and he thinks he will put it in the savings bank, but he sees something he wants and determines to buy it with the thought that he will save twenty dollars next month and in that way the great majority reach sixty-five years of age and have saved nothing.

He showed how life insurance as a family protection had often failed, as it was so easy to borrow on the policy, and when the man died the family found that the policy was worth nothing.

He considered the co-operative bank as the surest plan of saving, that whatever shares a man took, they became a part of the running expenses and it accumulated a nest egg for the rainy day without much conscious effort.

Mr. Swain said that with the business he did in Boston for Atlantic and Norfolk Downs he felt fairly sure that Quincy did not have the loaning capacity to meet the needs of this rapidly growing section, and a bank in Atlantic would be a big benefit in establishing the saving habit. But if a bank was organized it would be necessary for all officers to give their time at least one year without money and without price.

After Mr. Swain's address it was decided that the Improvement Association only wanted to help get the bank started, but that it should be organized by independent citizens and not as an improvement association. The meeting adjourned as an Association and organized as a gathering of citizens to take action on the organization of a co-operative bank for Ward Six.

The first business was the election of a temporary chairman and secretary. Henry F. Mosses was elected chairman and W. H. Davis secretary. Thirty-one men subscribed for 322 shares. Then papers were passed asking for signatures as to how many would become charter members of the bank and forty-two men signed the papers.

Rev. T. W. Davison, H. Martens, E. F. Parlee, W. H. Davis and Willam F. Buckley were appointed as a committee to complete the list of charter members and get the necessary subscribers, and take action for incorporation as soon as possible.

The meeting was enthusiastic, yet careful in its business action.

The Improvement Association held an adjourned meeting after the bank association meeting and fourteen new members were received.

Mr. Swain in leaving told the men that the co-operation bank was the safest possible investment as no treasurer could embezzle, and the money was always invested safely and surely. He made this last statement after the meeting adjourned feeling that some may have fears in that direction.

OUT TWENTY-TWO HOURS

Jury Unable to Reach a Decision In the Mancovitz Case

Boston, April 4.—After twenty-two hours of deliberation the jury in the case of David Mancovitz, lawyer and former representative, charged with receiving money from Jacob Watchmaker, a Revere real estate man, with intent to defeat the bankruptcy act, came into court and reported to Judge Morton that there was no prospect of an agreement.

"It seems to me," said Judge Morton to the jurors, "that you have been out long enough to know whether or not you can agree on a verdict. You say you can't, so I see no reason why you should deliberate further. I order the jury discharged."

There are three other indictments against Mancovitz, two charging him and Jacob Watchmaker with conspiracy to conceal assets from Watchmaker's trustee in bankruptcy, and a third charging Mancovitz alone with perjury.

A TRIANGULAR TRAGEDY

Man Who Used Gun on Two Others Is Killed by Policeman

New York, April 4.—When Charles Moses, a saloon keeper, disdaining the threats of the Harlem tar barn gang, told the grand jury what he knew about "Puggy" Horgan, accused of theft, he practically signed his own death warrant. He is dying of a bullet wound inflicted by "Puggy's" father just before the latter shot and killed a detective and was himself killed by a police lieutenant.

Moses told the grand jury how he had seen young Horgan steal $110 from a woman. "Puggy" Horgan was indicted. William Horgan, his father, went after Moses with a revolver, murdered Detective Guarnieri, who went to arrest him in a flat, and then met death at the hands of Lieutenant Hearle.

NOTE LEADS WOMAN TO SLAY HUSBAND

Aroused by an Invitation to a Missionary Tea

St. Louis, April 4.—An innocent invitation from a minister's wife to attend a missionary tea, which Jeu Han Yee refused to let his wife, Tgo Quong Ho, read, so aroused her that she hacked him to death with a hatchet.

According to the woman's story, she slew her husband, who was assistant Sunday school superintendent at the Union Methodist church, in self-defense, following a quarrel over a note. Then she kept a lonely vigil for hours before going to a lawyer with her story. He took her to the police station, where she confessed.

Detective Burns Declares He Knows Who Killed Atlanta Girl

Chicago, April 4.—William J. Burns, the detective, declared that he knew who murdered Mary Phagan, the Atlanta girl, for whose death Leo M. Frank is under sentence of death.

Whether the murderer was Frank or someone else, in his opinion, Burns would not say, but he intimated that from his investigations and comparing their results with the conclusions of the coroner's jury, he did not think Frank the sort of man capable of making the attack on the girl alleged to have preceded her murder.

SEALING SHIP PERHAPS LOST

Fears For Safety of 170 Men on the Southern Cross

A MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE

Seas Being Scoured In Search of Steamer Not Seen Since Blizzard Set In—Seventy-Seven of Newfoundland's Dead and Many Maimed on Rescue Ship

St. Johns, April 4.—As the hours went by without word from the sealing steamer Southern Cross, fear grew that her crew of 170 men had been added to the toll of Tuesday's blizzard, in which men of the sealer Newfoundland lost their lives.

The Newfoundland's dead is placed definitely at seventy-seven, with the further possibility that thirty-six of the 112 who were rescued will succumb to the effects of forty-eight hours of exposure.

Arrangements were made for the reception of the rescue ship Bellaventure, which is expected to arrive today, bringing most of the Newfoundland's dead and many of the survivors.

In an effort to solve the mystery of the disappearance of the Southern Cross, the Newfoundland government asked the American revenue cutter Seneca to leave the ice patrol and search for the missing sealer.

The coastal steamer Kyle, which has a wireless equipment, was fitted out at this port by the government. Preparations were made to have the Kyle start at once for a cruise along the southeastern coast, off which the Southern Cross was last seen a few hours before the three days' blizzard set in.

Although the vessels of the so-called wooden-walled sailing fleet, of which the Southern Cross was one, have bucked ice fields with impunity, and are regarded as very stanch ships, sealers say her cargo of 17,000 seal pelts would be an active danger during a storm on account of their instability.

DROP DEAD FROM FRIGHT

Aged Man and Woman Collapse While Witnessing a Fight

Worcester, Mass., April 4.—Patrick Eagleton, aged 70, and Mrs. Dennis Arsenault, aged 60, both residents of the town of Spencer, dropped dead of fright as a free fight started in a trolley waiting room at Spencer.

They were admitted to bail for their appearance in the district court in Brookfield.

Lynn, Mass., April 4.—Tackling a masked hold-up man as though he were a football star downing a back, Charles C. Alley, a 70-year-old storekeeper at 49 Hillside avenue, took the robber off his guard, disarmed him and prevented him from getting away with the money in the cash till.

The police are now scouring the Lynn woods for the would-be burglar. Although he appeared to be a negro, Alley is of the opinion that the "yegg" was a white man blacked up. A mask covered the upper part of his face.

The Ghost Of Alvin

Its Identity Disclosed

By CLARISSA MACKIE

The two members comprising the law firm of Harley & Rogers glanced quickly at each other when their strange client repeated his question.

"Do you believe in ghosts?" he asked insistently.

Bob Harley twisted his dark mustache and frowned. "To tell you the truth, sir," he admitted, "all the ghosts I ever met turned out not to be spirits at all."

"And you, sir?" said the old man, turning to Jack Rogers.

"I, too, am skeptical," he confessed pleasantly.

The old man was thoughtful, his thin white hand stroking his cleanly shaven cheek. Suddenly he lifted his snowy head and said with decision, "Perhaps it is best that you do not believe my story—that you do not believe in ghosts—for my experience appears absurd in the face of common sense.

"My carriage is below, and if you can accompany me to my house in Washington square I can better tell my story on the very scene where the ghost has walked. Can you spare the time now, gentlemen?"

A glance at their engagement books assured the young lawyers, who mingled a little detective work with their law practice, that they might spare a couple of hours on this bright May morning; so, leaving the office in charge of their one clerk, they donned their hats and followed old Donald Boyce to the elevator.

A handsome closed carriage stood before the door of the building, and a coachman and footman in plum colored livery came to attention as the three men crossed the pavement.

"I RECOGNIZED HIM AT ONCE."

"Home, Jacob!" ordered Mr. Boyce as the footman slammed the door.

Ten minutes later they were standing in the elegantly furnished drawing room of an old fashioned mansion.

"If you will come into my library," suggested their host as he led the way into an adjoining room, where the walls were lined with books to the very ceiling and where the furniture was of the same massive style as that in the drawing room. "Here," he said quietly, "is where the ghost of Alvin walks."

"The ghost of Alvin?" repeated Rogers amazedly.

"Who was Alvin, sir?" asked Harley practically.

"Alvin Boyce was my only brother, who lived with me here for fifteen happy years after our parents died. Then we quarreled because we both loved the same girl, and Alvin went away and left me alone." His head drooped despondently as he spoke.

"But may I ask if you married, Mr. Boyce?" inquired Harley gently.

"No. Our quarrel was in vain. The girl did not care for either of us and married another man. The bitter words that Alvin and I hurled at each other still ring in my ears. I said things to him that I am sure he never forgave, for he did not have time to cool down before the ship on which he sailed to Japan was lost with all hands. That was twenty-five years ago.

"I have lived here alone with my servants ever since then. My only pleasures have been in travel and in my books. I am rich, and I am lonely, and I have sometimes feared that Alvin's ghost is merely a figment of my own fancy, conjured up by my constant thoughts about him."

The young lawyers exchanged a quick glance of sympathy. Then Harley, the more practical member of the firm, asked their client for a detailed account of the mysterious appearance which he called "the ghost of Alvin."

"I first noticed it three months ago," began Mr. Boyce sadly. "I was sitting in this chair facing the portrait of my brother, and I was thinking about him, regretting the estrangement that resulted in his death, telling myself how happy and contented we could be now, even old men, if we were together.

"I was thinking thus and gazing into the glowing masses of the coal fire which illumined the room in a dull red glow. I had extinguished the lamps, for I am fond of the firelight. As I sat there I heard the great clock in the hall slowly chime the hour of midnight.

"I closed my eyes wearily and opened them again to see the form of my brother Alvin standing in the corner yonder, there in the angle by the fireplace. I recognized him at once, although his hair was as white as my own. He was gazing at me with such remorse in his eyes that involuntarily I stretched out my hands to him, and he instantly vanished."

"What was your object in seeking our advice if you are convinced that it really is the ghost of your brother?" asked Harley gently.

The old man looked up eagerly. Yet, when he spoke, it was timidly, as if fearful of ridicule: "I wanted to be sure—sure—positive that it was Alvin and not a hallucination. I have heard of you and your cleverness in unraveling mysteries, and so I have appealed to you. Will one or both of you join me next Sunday evening and wait for the coming of my brother Alvin?"

"With pleasure," agreed Harley.

As they rose to take their departure Jack Rogers surveyed the large room with speculative eyes that roved from the rich bindings in the bookcases that lined all the walls save the south wall where the fireplace was.

"May I ask what is on the other side of that wall?" inquired Jack suddenly, pointing to the fireplace.

"The house next door," returned Mr. Boyce promptly. "It is empty now and has been for a year or so. It belongs to me—in fact, I fell heir to it when my brother died. It is much out of repair, and I haven't had the heart to put it in order again. Let it fall to pieces, even, as I am doing!"

"Thank you," said Jack Rogers quietly as they bade good afternoon to Mr. Boyce.

Promptly at 9 o'clock on Sunday evening Robert Harley and John Rogers were ushered into Mr. Boyce's library. He came forward to meet them, looking very animated and smiling.

"I suppose you boys think I'm half cracked," he remarked as they drew around the fire, "but wait and see!"

"No, no, sir," assured Jack Rogers heartily; "I'm sure that we shall find there is excellent foundation for your belief that your brother has appeared to you."

"I'm sure I hope your predictions will come true," said Donald Boyce.

The hours passed swiftly. Mr. Boyce had a fund of anecdote to draw upon, and after a servant had served a delicious cold supper on a table drawn close to the fire they lighted cigars and sat back waiting for the striking of the midnight hour. The servants retired, and the house grew still. Now and then from the street outside came the muffled rumble of wheels. Now and then a coal snapped in the grate. The three men fell into silence, Each one was watching that dim corner by the fireplace for the coming of Alvin Boyce.

Just as the clock in the hall struck the first note of midnight Mr. Boyce stretched out his hand and extinguished the electric lamps, so that they sat in a half circle of red firelight. As the last chime died Donald Boyce leaned forward and clutched Bob Harley's arm.

There was no need to point toward that corner, for all three of them were staring hard at the tall, bent figure that appeared for an instant in the deep shadow of the angle of the fireplace. As if aware that alien eyes were watching it, there came a flash of white, and the vision vanished.

"Ah, he has gone! Did you see him?" demanded Mr. Boyce all in one breath.

The two men nodded, Harley rather helplessly, for he was not accustomed to dealing with spirits. But Jack Rogers surprised his companions by reaching the corner in three quick strides. "Please turn on the lights, Mr. Boyce," he requested, "and then come here."

They found him with his hand on the glass knob of a narrow door that opened into a chimney cupboard. The outside of the door was stained to match the dark mahogany woodwork of the room. As Jack opened the closet door he tapped the white painted panels of the inside of the door.

"The cupboard is empty," said Mr. Boyce patiently, for he did not approve of this search for the gentle ghost of his loved brother.

"I know it is now, but a moment ago it had an occupant," said Jack rapidly. "Please follow me, Mr. Boyce, and do not be surprised if you meet your brother—in the flesh—for it may be that he never died."

Without further explanation he pushed back on the tier of empty shelves, and his companions were surprised to see them swing back into space, leaving an opening through which they followed Rogers into what appeared to be a closet that matched the one they had just left. A long rod of light appeared through a partly opened door. Rogers pushed it wider and beckoned to his companions to look into the library of the house next door.

There before a table in a scantily furnished room sat a tall old man. His head was bowed on his folded arms.

"It is your brother Alvin," whispered Jack Rogers as he pushed Donald Boyce into the room. "I have investigated. He was not lost at sea, and after many years he has returned to be near you. He feared your anger. There! He is stirring. Go to him, and be happy the rest of your days."

DAVIS CLASS ENTERTAINED.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Smith entertained the Davis class of the Calvary Baptist church last evening at their home 21 Verchild street, assisted by Mrs. Beaulieu, Mrs. Littlefield, Mrs. Hobart and Miss Louise Johnson.

A duet by Miss Johnson and Mr. Beaulieu was beautifully rendered, followed by many familiar songs. A reading from "Uncle Remus Rymes" by A. Neal made a hit. After, refreshments were generously served, Edward Mundie gave a short address on the benefit of the Panama canal and why we should collect a toll, that was full of sparkling wit and punctuated with praise for the President and Satin for those who oppose him. Mrs. Beaulieu and Mrs. Littlefield favored the party with solos. Everybody was sorry when the hour of departure arrived.

PRESERVATION OF BIRDS

School Children Interested in Talk of Mr. Packard

Winthrop Packard, secretary of the Audubon Society organized for the preservation of birds, and a well known newspaper contributor on that subject, lectured to the upper grade pupils of the grammar schools in the Coddington school hall Friday afternoon. Accompanying the boys and girls were their principals and teachers and many adults interested in the welfare of the feathered flock.

Mr. Packard was presented by Albert L. Barbour, superintendent of schools, and for 40 minutes he intimately discussed birds, their traits and value in such an interesting way that he held in rapt attention the large gathering of children.

When he mentioned that all might join the Audubon Society as junior members they smiled with pleasure and at the close of his address they surrounded Mr. Packard, pressing him for detail and asking for the society button with the blue bird on it which many believe to be an index to the character of the person wearing it

For Mr. Packard, in opening his lecture said, "the welfare of birds is the welfare of mankind, if you hurt one you will hurt the other and more often the joy of their bright presence and beautiful songs touches our hearts and arouses in us noble and poetic sentiments." Many poets have tried to put into verse the songs of birds and Robbie Burns comes near to doing it according to Mr. Packard.

In the past, he said, people were careless and not more than a generation ago it was the custom to slaughter birds indiscriminately. The absolute disappearance of the Wild Passenger pigeon was the result of ruthless killing, and rewards which have stood for years as an incentive to trace this remarkable bird remains unclaimed.

The Audubon Society all over the country has done splendid work in the preservation of birds, and laws have been passed to protect them. In no state have better laws been passed than in Massachusetts. One may of course say that laws help but it is individuals that make the world go round, it's the work of individuals that make the laws and we can do a great deal ourselves.

Mr. Packard explained that one of the best ways to aid in preserving birds was to build bird boxes and bathing and eating trays. If you want them to come you must feed them he said, and if they are fed they will not mind the cold, those that don't migrate. Most of their food in winter is frozen insects and seeds, and when a mantle of snow covers the ground they starve. This year there was a generous spirit shown when the Audubon Society asked that the birds be fed and undoubtedly thousands were saved from death by starvation.

Mr. Packard spoke of the favorites of the new England woods and also of southern birds. The robin he said is the first of our spring birds. He is one of the best friends of man, one of the most cheery and delightful of companions. The early settlers set the music of the birds to words and among the curious phrases was that of the robin. "kill him, cure him, keep him busy." He was loudly applauded at the finish of his lecture.

REQUESTED TO BE BRIEF

Subscribers to party line telephones will be interested in a new rule of the telephone company which has been approved by the Public Service Commission. Users of the telephone have often been delayed for half an hour or more in getting a subscriber on a party line, for the reason that the line is in use by another subscriber in a conversation that might well be curtailed, if the parties desired.

It is a hard thing for the company to govern, but if subscribers would try and remember when they are talking by the half hour stretches, that possibly others might like to use the line on important business the difficulty would be overcome.

The telephone company therefore has put out the following statement: "Satisfactory service on party lines depends very largely upon the willingness of the joint users to co-operate with one another in their demand on the service. The company accordingly respectfully requests party line subscribers to limit their conversations to five minutes when others wish to use the line and to give immediate right of way in case of emergency calls."

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE AND GOVERNOR WALSH

Interested in the Use of Massachusetts Granite for Dry Dock at Boston

President Martin Sends Good Letter to the Governor

Acting on a suggestion by Mayor Miller, President John J. Martin of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange, has written Gov. Walsh urging that the new $3,000,000 dry dock to be built in Boston, should be constructed of granite rather than concrete.

Mayor Miller was one of those in attendance at the conference of Mayors at the annual meeting of the Real Estate Exchange last week, who was billed to speak, but owing to the lateness of the hour the Mayor had to leave for home. As stated in the Daily Ledger at that time Mayor Miller intended to speak of the new dry dock and urge that it be constructed of granite rather than concrete.

After the meeting Mayor Miller wrote to President Martin, suggesting that a practical move to develop a local industry would be to use granite intsead of cement in the new dock. He did not seek to give the work to Quincy alone, but suggested that at Quincy, Rockport and Milford there were immense supplies of granite, and that granite was far superior for all work coming in contact with salt water.

President Martin has written the Governor approving the suggestion. In his letter to the Governor he says:

Hon. David I. Walsh, Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, State House, Boston, Mass.

My dear Sir: At this time when a comprehensive effort is being made to induce industries to locate within this Commonwealth, it seems to me important that the especial needs of our existing industries should not be overlooked.

In this connection, I desire to call to the attention of your Excellency and the Honorable Council certain facts that have come to my attention relative to the construction by the state of the new dry dock at this port, which as I undersand is to cost approximately $3,000,000.

This dock, the building of which is to be of general benefit to the business interests of this section is to be built by the people and paid for with the people's money.

It is natural that the people who are to pay this public work and particularly the commercial and industrial interests that must participate in sustaining the tax burden incident to this enterprise should feel a deep interest as to the manner in which this vast sum of money is to be expended. Of particular interest to at least one of our great industries, is the type of construction which is to be employed.

I am informed that it is yet undecided as to whether granite or cement is to be used in the construction of the dock. I am informed by competent engineers that while granite, for this purpose, would cost a trifle more than cement, it is far superior to cement for any kind of construction that is in direct contact with salt water.

Irrespective, however, of this precise question of cost, I desire to urge upon you the importance to Massachusetts of utilizing Massachusetts granite in the construction of this big Massachusetts dock. The granite industry is a vital factor in the industrial life of some of our most prosperous communities. We have abundant sources of supply at Quincy, Milford, and Rockport, and I see no reason why this Massachusetts product, and this Massachusetts industry, should not be given preference in this connection, over a product and a type of construction that would inure to the particular benefit of other states and outside capital.

Other states have given particular attention to the protection of their local industries, and have even gone so

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Water Loan to Come Up in Council Tonight

Mayor Miller was numbered with the 200 persons from all parts of the state who attended the "Prosperity conference" of Gov. Walsh on Saturday at Ford hall, Boston. There was a discussion of wide range on community and civic betterment subjects and the Governor was empowered to appoint a committee for a permanent organization. The conference will meet again at an early date for further consideration of important matters.

At the morning session the conference listened to a number of special speakers, but the afternoon se developed into a great town meeting in which question of general welfare, varying from transportation to education, from industrial development, to town development, and city planning were discussed from the flo Many views were aired and the me was productive of much good.

Before the meeting adjourned it extended its thanks to Gov. Walsh to the Boston Chamber of Commerce, who entertained them and vot unanimously in favor of holding a similar meeting in the near future. At the next meeting subjects to which little time could be given Saturday will be discussed at greater length The Governor was empowered to appoint a committee, to include at l one member from each county, and as many more as he sees fit, to effect permanent organization to bring about city and town development. At the request of Mrs. Grace W. C. ruth of Winthrop the Governor promised to include women on his list.

The licensing of newsboys is now in full effect. Up to the present time City Clerk Crance has issued quite a number of licenses and supplied the boys with silver badges, each of which are numbered. There are quite a few boys however who are not as yet licensed and the City Clerk intends to have the Chief of Police round up these boys. There are some boys who have been in the habit of selling papers in City Square, who should not be granted a license as they are a source of nuisance to everybody.

A regular meeting of the City Council will be held this evening. Among the important matters that will come up are the orders in the calendar appropriating $26,000 for water extensions and the purchase of water meters. Of the above named sum, $5,000 is named for the purchase and installation of water meters. With the appropriation of this amount there remains but $9,000 of the amount that the city is allowed to borrow outside of the debt limit, for waer extensions under the act of 1911. The total amount authorized under this act was $200,000.

The other order is for $9,000 and is for repairs and replacements of the present system, that sum being taken from the water receipts. There has always been more or less question in the City Council, if the taking up of small pipe and replacing it with larger pipe should be charged to maintenance or new construction. In many places the Commissioners have found it necessary to take up the two inch pipe in many streets laid by the old water company and replace it with six or eight inch pipe. Some of the members of the Council have claimed that this should properly be charged to maintenance, while most commissioners have charged it to extensions, and taken the cost out of the amount annually appropriated for water extensions.

This years Finance committee however it would seem have settled the question by providing that these replacements and repairs of old pipe shall be paid out of the receipts, thus bringing it under the item of maintenance.

There is a new law which limits water debts of cities to five years, but it is ruled that it will not take effect in Quincy unil 1915.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY AND EVERYONE IN QUINCY.

FEW FIREMEN RESPONDED

William A. Coffin of Central Station Injured

Ex-District Chief Perkins, a retired member of the Boston fire department, now residing at Wollaston was at the Central fire station Saturday examining the civil service papers of those members who took the recent examination. While at the station the alarm from Box 18 sounded and he accompanied Chief Billings to the fire. The ex-chief was very much surprised to see so few men respond to the apparatus. It was noticed that when the apparatus went through City Square in response to both alarms from Box 18 Saturday there was hardly a man on the apparatus outside the drivers. Under the present law giving firemen one day off in five there are five men off duty every day, and at certain hours of the day there are just enough men in the houses to drive the apparatus.

William A. Coffin a call man attached to the Central station was seriously injured while responding to the alarm. Coffin who resides on Mechanic street attempted to board apparatus on Hancock street while it was in motion and missed his footin and fell, one of the wheels of the apparatus passing over his left foot, dislocating several bones. Dr. S. C. Hardwick found that Coffin had also received a cut over the left eye. Fireman Coffin has been particularly unfortunate having met with a number of accidents while in the performanc of duty. At one time during a fire in the Tirrell block on Hancock street he had his hand badly lacerated axe in the hands of a fellow workman who was chopping a hole through the roof. The axe came down on Coffin's hand and made a bad cut which incapacitated him for some time. This morning Coffin was reported as doing well, although it will probably be several weeks before he is able to do active duty. It is thought that in trying to board the ladder truck, which slacked up for him, he caught hold of the handle with the wrong hand and was swung around.

ENGAGEMENT RHINES-HARMAN

She was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, the Historical Club, and the Philosophical Club, and at the commencement was valedictorian of her class. The body of John Young, 65 years old, of 61 Hampshire street, Cambridge, who dropped dead after leaving the Fore River shipyard Saturday afternoon, was claimed by his wife, and will be taken to that city for burial. Young was opposite the store of Arthur W. Newcomb on Howard street when he collapsed. Dr. W. H. Blanchard of the company's Red Cross hospital responded almost immediately, but pronounced the man dead on his arrival. Dr. Fred E. Jones, medical examiner said death was due to endocarditis. Young had been an employee of the company for several years. He returned to work only a few weeks ago after an absence of several months on account of illness. He leaves a wife and one son.

It may be safe for Ambassador Page to discuss baseball, but he should not make any speeches on any subject so controversial as the weather.

The Congress of Mothers is to be held in Washington, April 22 to 27. The latest ideas about auction bridge would probably prove a popular subject for discussion.

It is possible for the true spirit of Easter to be observed, even if the milliner does not get your hat finished on time.

The dove of peace must feel considerably encouraged, as only 149 Federal mutineers were executed in Mexico one day recently.

It is believed that if the English Suffragists succeed in burning up the Parliament buildings, the hard-hearted government would put them in jail for as much as three days.

PAINT UP AND CLEAN UP.

Many cities and towns are preparing to observe this spring a week described by the above title.

One of the principal reasons for the shabby appearance of so many localities is the lack of house paint. Builders put up wood tenements in the most flimsy way possible. They buy adulterated paints, in which the fundamental elements of lead and oil are deficient. In a year or two this sham material wears dingy. The increase of railroad traffic and soft coal spreads its mantle of grime.

Of course if buildings lie close to a railroad track or other plant burning smudgy material, or are located in any smoky section, it seems almost hopeless to keep them like Spotlesstown. But for wooden property not exposed to any persistent smudge, it is poor policy to scrimp on house paint. Every poorly painted house throws a grey pall over the neighborhood. It encourages every one around to delay improvements. Building material deteriorates, and an impression of general slovenliness and poverty is given. This scales down real estate values. Paint-up and Clean-up!

INATTENTION OF CONGRESSMEN.

It is the uniform report of people on the ground at Washington, that the sessions of Congress are but poorly attended. It takes a good slamming debate to show half the members on the floor.

The members of Congress are paid $7500 each. The majority of them are boarders at moderate priced hotels. Congress is not in session more than two-thirds of the time. Any business corporation engaging their services would expect them to devote their entire time. Yet the Congressmen drift back and forth between their homes and Washington, and business drags for lack of quorums.

Perhaps one reason for this dawdling and inattention is the feeling of most of the legislators that their attendance or non-atendance amounts to little. They obey the call of the party leader. If they turn up at the closely disputed rollcalls, they feel that the rest of the time can be spent on private business, or trotting around the departments to find jobs for constituents.

Yet it would seem that if a man had ambition, he would mark out a wider scope of usefulness. Even the raw legislator can make himself felt. Let him study the subjects coming before his committee, acquiring a broad range of facts and all points of view. When his committee gives hearings and shapes bills, he will be in a position to put some questions that will arouse interest. His disposition to go to the heart of a thing will attract notice. The party leaders will mark him.

If he gets a re-election, he will have a much better committee appointment. The level of ability in Congress is not prohibitive to the man of average talents, who is willing to do a little digging. One would think that apart from considerations of duty, it would be a paying proposition to work in this thorough way.

HOPE IS GIVING WAY TO DESPAIR

Crew of 173 Men Probably Lost With Southern Cross

SEALER VERY DEEPLY LADEN

Those Who Saw Her Last Say Every Chance Was Against Her—With the Newfoundland Tragedy, In Which Seventy-Seven Lives Were Lost, a Thousand Are Made Destitute

St. John's, April 6.—Anxiety for the 173 men on the sealing steamer Southern Cross, which has been missing since Tuesday's blizzard, has deepened. By sunset today, if she is not heard from, she will be officially posted as lost with all on board.

Disaster to her, following so close upon the loss of seventy-seven men of the sealer Newfoundlad, would bring upon the colony the greatest tragedy in its history, depriving whole settlements of their breadwinners and rendering 1000 women and children dependent upon charity.

As the public learned from the Newfoundland's survivors who were landed the details of the two days' blizzard and the condition in which it caught the Southern Cross, the first hopes, based on the stoutness of the ship, faded. Captain Martin of the sealer Erik and Captain Bartlett of the Terranova, which arrived with full catches, were dubious regarding the safety of the missing ship. Neither had seen her within a week.

Martin said he parted company from her a week ago Thursday, when the Southern Cross turned homeward with 17,000 seals. She was so deeply laden that all her provisions and part of her bunker coal were stored on deck, so that every available space below could be filled with her catch.

Bartlett said the last he saw of the Southern Cross was a week ago Friday, whe she was wallowing slowly down the coast. Other ships of the fleet sighted the steamer driving before the gale last Tuesday morning. She has not been reported since and the skippers of the fleet who came through that gale and the storm of equal severity later in the week say every chance was against a vessel so deep in the water as the Southern Cross.

All but five of the dead bodies of the Newfoundland's hunters, brought to St. John's by the Bellaventure, have been identified. These were shipped on a special train for Bonavista, where most of the victims lived.

Attendants at the Grenfell institute, which was turned into a morgue, said the scenes accompanying the identification of the bodies were almost beyond endurance.

Of the thirty survivors in the hospital none is expected to die, but the majority will never be fit for active service again. Three lost both hands and both feet. Five lost both feet. Eight others lost a foot and eleven will lose a hand or all the fingers of both hands. The others will bear their scars for life.

Some veterans among the hunters told of the desperate straits to which they were driven to save themselves. There was no protection on the open ice floes from the penetrating Arctic gales, so, ripping open with their knives the bodies of the seals they had slain just before the storm broke, they had saved themselves from death by removing the entrails and burying their heads and hands in the stomachs.

Others sought shelter behind the bodies of dead shipmates, hiding from the wind. But in all the delirium of those two days and two nights of exposure to the blizzard, the bodies of the dead were left inviolate. Each man of the 150 endured his lot with grim patience, and each one, the dead as well as the living, was found with his full equipment of clothes, boots and sealing gear intact.

SWALLOWED BADGE PIN

Its Removal Shows Patient Has Severe Case of Appendicitis

Chicago, April 6.—The fact that Harry Spieckerman swallowed a "safety first" badge pin in all probability insures his living to a ripe old age.

He was operated on for the removal of the badge from his stomach, and when the incision was made it was found his appendix had developed to three times its natural size and had hooked around the colon.

Dr. Moje, who performed the operation, stated that if the appendix had not been removed at once Spieckerman probably would not have lived a month.

Laborites Backed by Suffragettes

London, April 6.—The suffragettes have introduced a new phase into the political situation by their determination not only to support labor candidates, but to finance them as well.

No Liquor In Missouri Cars

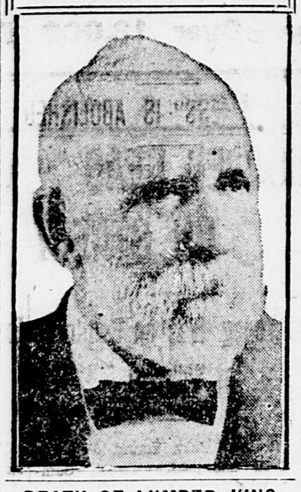

St. Louis, April 6.—All Missouri railroads have adopted the rule that no more liquor will be served to dining or club car patrons on the trains.

Insurgents Take Albanian Town

London, April 6.—A dispatch from Athens says Koritsa, Albania, has been captured by the Epirus insurgents.

FREDERICK WEYERHAUSER

DEATH OF LUMBER KING

Weyerhauser Was Known as a Man of Silence and Mystery

Pasadena, Cal., April 6.—Frederick Weyerhauser, the multi-millionaire lumber man of St. Paul, died at his winter home here of pneumonia after an illness lasting three weeks. His son and several other members of his family were at his bedside when the end came.

Weyerhauser, man of silence and mystery, was the "billionaire" lumber king, the master of an enormous fortune and the directing spirit of huge enterprises, whose name was little known.

Next to lumber, secrecy was his hobby; he was rarely seen at public gatherings. The spectacular pleasures of modern millionaires did not interest him. He had many partners, but none knew his business.

He was born in Neidersaulheim, Ger., in 1834.

AWARD OF $50,000 FOR LOSS OF SIGHT

Verdict In Miner's Favor Returned Against Railroad

New York, April 6.—A verdict awarding $50,000 to Matt Yurkonis for the loss of both his eyes was returned in the United States district court in Brooklyn against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad.

This is said to be the largest verdict ever obtained in this state for an injured workman. Yurkonis was working in the railroad's coal mine at Luzerne, Pa., when he was injured by the explosion of a squib, or fuse, in the face of the coal.

CAUGHT IN NEW YORK

Youth Boasts of Extensive Jewelry Robberies In Florida

New York, April 6.—Boasting that he and another youth had robbed thirteen of the homes of the wealthy residents of St. Petersburg, Fla., of several thousand dollars' worth of gems, rings, watches and pins, and that the police of the city have been increased to stop the robberies, Stanley Bailey, 16 years old, was arraigned before Magistrate Campbell in the Yorkville police court. He was charged with carrying a hammerless revolver and, pleading guilty, was held in $5000.

Lieutenant Boyle, who found him in a Sixth avenue pawnshop offering a ring, said the boy had a suit case full of jewelry. He said he came here to pawn the loot.

WIRELESS LIGHTS BULBS

New Device Also Extinguishes Them at a Long Listance

Madrid, April 6.—An electrician, Senor Igleias, gave a successful demonstration of an apparatus, of which he is the inventor, for condensing and utilizing atmospheric electricity.

With the device, which appears very simple, Iglesias lighted and extinguished at will fifteen electric bulbs placed at a distance of 600 yards.

Experts expressed the opinion that the discovery has great possibilities with regard to cheap production of current for industrial purposes.

Mysterious Death of Police Captain

Washington, April 6.—Captain Thomas J. Hollinberger of the city police force was found dying in his home with a bullet wound in his right temple and clutching a revolver with one chamber discharged. He died shortly afterward and the coroner has begun an investigation.

Strathcona's Probable Successor

Vancouver, B. C., April 6.—Sir Richard McBride, premier of British Columbia, has been offered the position of high commissioner for Canada in London. It is said he will accept.

Wants to Stay In Congress

Auburn, N. Y., April 6.—Sereno E. Payne, dean of the Republicans in the lower house of congress, announced that he is a candidate for re-election. He has served fifteen terms.

It Was In His Head.

Balzac once promised Lirieux, the manager of the Odeon theater in Paris, a five act drama, "The Springs of Quinola." He was so busy with other work, however, that not till he had been long and urgently importuned did he promise to read his piece to the company the next week. The company gathered about him on the day appointed, and he read his five act play fluently through to the end. Lirieux was enthusiastic, ran up to shake hands with the great writer and turned over the pages of the manuscript, whose contents had pleased him mightily. But what was this? There were only four acts. The last pages of the manuscript were blank. In surprise the manager asked what it all meant. Balzac smiled and admitted that he had not yet written out the fifth act, but declared that he had it as clearly in his head as if it already stood on paper. "And," continued the poet merrily, "I have in the same head two more outcomes of the plot in case the one I just read doesn't please you."

Only a Piker.

Two Pittsburgh men were seated in a dining car the other day, and while they waited for their luncheon to be served one of them said:

"I hear Brown has bought a place up near yours."

"Yes," the other answered.

"What kind of a place is it?"

"Oh, pretty fair. About 3,000 acres."

"Has he been making much money lately?"

"Not that I know of."

"How can he afford to have a place of that kind? Is he keeping it up in any kind of shape?"

"Yes, it looks pretty well. I don't know how he does it."

"How much do you suppose Brown's worth?"

"He hasn't much. Maybe about $250,000. Getting along on his nerve, very largely, I guess."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Birds That Fight Eagles.

In Foula, one of the Shetland islands, the natives make a business of rearing skau gulls in order to rid the island of the eagles that congregate there and commit many depredations. The magnificent red sandstone cliffs that skirt the northwestern coast became a favorite haunt of the eagles, and in this inaccessible spot they increased so rapidly that they became a terror to the farmers and fishermen who dwell on this isolated spot. The skau gulls are also strong and fierce and the inveterate foes of the eagle. In battle the gulls are nearly always victorious, and so the inhabitants of Foula hit upon the novel plan of feeding and caring for the skau gulls, which, though formidable to their feathered enemies, are very peaceful and docile when brought in contact with man.

St. Petersburg and the Neva.

When the river Neva rises St. Petersburg is always in danger of inundation. The city was built upon a swamp, and the land has been laboriously reclaimed and is liable to overflow by the Neva. That river divides and forms a delta, and this delta is embraced within the city limits. Although the main portion of St. Petersburg is situated on the mainland (a peninsula washed on the east by the Neva and on the northwest by the Great Neva), parts of the city stand on islands formed by the arms of the river. The islands, with their gardens and villas, are a pretty feature of the capital. The various parts of the city are connected by over 100 bridges, the longest being the Troitsky bridge, about a third of a mile in length.—Westminster Gazette.

Russia's Famous Choir.

The members of the choir of the cathedral of Alexander Nevski in St. Petersburg are all monks. They are thirty in number and are chosen from the best singers in all the Russian monasteries. When the possessor of a fine voice appears among the novitiates he is sent to the monastery of Alexander Nevski, which adjoins the cathedral, where he is trained as carefully as an opera singer and remains there, doing little beyond assisting at the music at mass in the morning and vespers in the afternoon, until he becomes aged, when he retires on a pension. Many of the voices are of marvelous power and sweetness. The monks are all vegetarians. The rules of the orthodox church forbid them to shave and their hair is worn like a woman's.

Double Barreled.

Margaret and Van were breakfasting together late one morning. Van was hungry and Margaret fractious.

"Van, how can you eat so much?" demanded Margaret irritably.

"Oh, I'm a Van, you know," returned he good humoredly. "I can carry a good deal."

"Yes," retorted Margaret; "you're a regular carry van."—Indianapolis News.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Col. Fell Lectures on the Sons of God Progress

A large audience greeted Col. William E. Fell, C. S., at the Braintree Town hall on Sunday, when he spoke on the "Sons of God progress," under the auspices of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Quincy. Col. Fell is a member of the board of lectureship of the Mother church, the First church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, An abstract follows:

Progress is the keynote of the century, never before in the world's history have the inventions and discoveries of physical science shown a greater advance.

It would be truly deplorable if man's aprehension of the science of being had not shown a corresponding progress. I am here tonight to tell you that mankind has advanced in this understanding of Truth as is evidenced in the better health, better morals, and more harmonious conditions obtaining in the lives of those who are making an earnest study of this science of being or Christian Science. It is a fact of which we as a race have no reason to be proud, that many of the recent inventions of the day, whether the flying machine or the submarine vessel, have been applied to compass the destruction of mankind in time of war. Christian Science, on the other hand, when discovered by Mary Baker Eddy, was applied to the saving of mankind from all that was unlike good. For this purpose today Christian Science exists "to bind up the broken hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison doors to them that are bound." To learn just how to do this is surely the science of all science, the science by which Jesus performed his mighty works in confirmation or demonstration of his mighty words.

GOD DEFINED.

God is described in the Bible as Spirit, as Life, Truth, and Love and these terms whether taken collectively or individually stand for God. It is also universally accepted that God is omnipotent, omniscient and omnipresent, which if it means anything at all must mean that God is all the power there is, all the science or knowledge there is and all the presence there is. This must be so far as you know the Latin word omni signifies all, and we cannot have more than all, so we come to the just conclusion that God, whom John declares to be Love, is all inclusive and can have no opposite called devil or evil; and as one scientific statement quite naturally leads to another we find that God being Life, Life is all the

SKIN ERUPTIONS

Evidence of Impure Blood and a Run-Down Condition.

When the blood becomes thin, poor, devitalized nature cries out through such external evidence for help, and the safest, surest and most helpful remedy we know is Vinol.

This is because it is a combination of the two most world famed tonics—the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil (without the oil) and tonic iron for the blood. Vinol strengthens the digestive organs, creates a hearty appetite, purifies and enriches the blood, creates strength.

Mrs. Helen Wingate, St. Louis, Mo., says "I was in very poor health, nervous and run-down, and nothing in the way of medicine did me any good until the druggist recommended Vinol. It built up my health, restored strength and I feel that I owe my life to Vinol. I cannot praise it too highly."

We say positively there is nothing like Vinol to purify and enrich the blood and build up weak, run-down people. If it should fail in your case we will return your money. Edward T. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

At the Palm Sunday service, Dr. I. W. Sneath took for his text Matthew 21:5, and preached on the "Palm Sunday entry." Never had Christ been more popular, apparently, than on this first Palm Sunday and for the first time he permitted this popularity to take expression in the strewing of palms and flowers before Him. But He knew that ostentatious worship of this sort perhaps indicated but a small amount of lasting devotion; He felt the need of true, firm followers and supporters. And so today as on this first Palm Sunday, and as never in the time between, Christ feels a lack of true devotion and a need for human aid and human service.

This week is observed as the Week of Prayer and the services for the week are as follows:—

Tuesday at 7.45 in the vestry, Young people's night, addresses by Rev. J. Woodburne Sayre and Rev. Stephen C. Lang.

Wednesday at 2.30 in the vestry, meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society. Mrs. Farwell will give an interesting talk on "The Mountain Whites."

Thursday at 7.45 in the vestry, regular Midweek Service conducted by the pastor, and Communion of the Lord's Supper.

Friday at 3.00 in the vestry, a mothers' meeting. Address by Mrs. I. W. Sneath. Solo, chorus and congregational singing at each service. Everybody invited to every service.

Dr. Sneath has accepted the invitation of the University of North Carolina to preach the University Sermon, on April 19. Rev. Edward A. Robinson, a former pastor of this church, will preach here on that Sunday.

Next Sunday, Easter day, we will have special exercises at the morning service, in connection with which our Sunday school will have a part. At 4 P. M., our choir and a chorus choir of 40 voices will render the cantata entitled, "The Resurrection," and Quincy Commandery, Knights Templar, will be present in a body.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The Sunday morning devotional service with its call to worship, exhortation ,responsive reading, prayer, anthems and hymns was a fitting introduction to the sermon by the pastor on "Three views of life." Mr. Horst said "There is but one way of living the life worth while, and that is to welcome Christ to our hearts as the disciples welcomed Him nineteen centuries ago, saying Hosanna to the son of David: Blessed is he that cometh in the name of the Lord; Hosanna in the highest.'"

The preparatory class met with the minister as usual during the noon hour

At the Young People's Religious Union meeting Sunday evening Mrs. William B. Nichols of Quincy gave an instructive address on "Cheerful letter work."

Everyone that was privileged to attend the last in the series of special Lenten services Sunday evening enjoyed the excellent discourse on "The joy of the bridegroom's friend" by the Rev. Frederic Gill of Arlington and the several selections by the Schumann Male Quartet of our city.

The new hymn and tune book with services for Congregational worship has made its appearance. It contains much new matter, especially hymns of social service. The committee's ideal has been a hymn book which should be broad and inclusive in spirit reverent in tone, and yet a prophetic utterance of the forward-looking religious idealism of our time. We are pleased to find in it the hymn, written by the Rev. Edward A. Horton for the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of our church.

The spring meting of the New England Associate Alliance will be held in the First church, Boston, Thursday April 16 at 10.30. Addresses on "Some Alliance opportunities" by Mrs William L. Walsh ofBrookfield and "Our Boys and Girls" by Mr James O. Fagan will be given. In the afternoon Miss Lucy Ellis Allen will speak on "The influence of luxury on the modern child, and Rev. Frank A. Powell of Manchester on "The mission of the modern church."

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Alliance will be held in the vestry Wednesday, April 8, at 2.30 o'clock. Annual reports of the officers and chairmen of committees will be read, and suggestions for next year's program will be in order. Tea will be served.

The annual Easter offering for the good of the church will be received next Sunday morning.

The semi-annual communion service will be held next Sunday morning.

The Choir Guild will be assisted by a mixed quartet at the Easter morning service.

New members will be received into the membership of the church next Sunday morning.

PARK AND DOWNS.

The morning service Sunday was largely attended. The pastor. Rev. William B. Ayers took his text from 5th Chapter of II Corinthians and 11th Chapter of Hebrews, portraying faith in its various aspects—That faith is often the evidence of things not seen.

Evening sermon, text, James IV-14, "For what is your life?" It is a vapor that appeareth for a little while and then vanisheth away. His subject was: "How much is a human life worth" and was of intense interest to the large number who attended this service. The speaker dealt quite extensively with what he called the money standard: the common judgment by which the work of men and their time is standardized into cash values. Then he revealed the evils of this system, how men and the race suffer by it. With many pointed illustrations he brought home to the people the disappointment and the failure attendant with this standard. The real value of life is in moral value not a money value. The money value is not permanent. The moral value is for all time. It is the sun that turns mud into vapor. It is the breath of heaven that transforms the vapor into the drop of dew upon the cheek of the rose. The vapor is dependent upon the sun for existence and value. The power of the celestial universe is behind the change. That is what makes it possible. That is what gives worth to mind. And so life is a vapor—but such a vapor! It is a little or no account save as the power of the celestial universe stands back of it and puts into it that which is above time and circumstance.

The writer would not attempt to answer the above question. All do not accept life at its true value or derive its full worth. It has been said—Each man is a walking coalmine, and it it for him to decide whether it shall send forth heat and light or only soot and smoke. The sculptor prizes the block of marble because of the noble or beautiful form that can be outwrought therefrom. The human soul is a living block in which the thought of the divine artist is outworking a lofty ideal; therefore the value of a human life is not to be estimated merely by what a man is but rather by what he may become.

Special Lenten services will be held Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 7.30 P. M. with sermon by the pastor. Public invited.

Special services Easter Sunday. Morning—Children's choir of 80 voices assisting the regular choir. Evening Easter sermon and Stereopticon views of the life of Christ. Special music.

AT COMMUNION.

One of the most inspiring sights in connection with the Lenten observances of the Catholics was the large number of members of the Holy Name Society of St. Mary's parish that attended holy communion at the eight o'clock mass in St. Mary's church on Sunday morning. Practically the entire membership, 520, approached the altar rail and received the sacred host from Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, celebrant of the mass, and Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy who assisted in giving communion. It is not within the memory of any inhabitant when so many received in a body before.

A breakfast was served in St. Joseph's hall after the mass. Father McCoy was the opening speaker and there were short remarks by President George Reinhalter and vice president Martin A. King, Joseph McPherson, Stephen B. Little , John Joyce, John Kapples, Charles J. McGilvray and Michael F. Riley.

The regular meeting was held Sunday afternoon in the church and Father McCoy gave an address. The next meeting will be on May 10.

Art Critics.

When Orchardson's picture, "Hard Hit," was exhibited at the Academy the artist was strolling through the rooms one day when he saw, to his alarm, an excited little foreigner making toward him with threatening aspect and brandishing a stick as he came. "Ah, sir," he exclaimed, "if I thought that by killing you I could paint a picture like that I would crush your skull this instant!"

David Murray, a Royal Academician, was once painting in Picardy when his stock of canvas became exhausted. Being desirous of securing an "impression" for use later in a more ambitious attempt, the artist did one bit on a handkerchief tacked on a stretcher. Upon his return to London this piece of work was being inspected, with others, by a wealthy old lady, who expressed a desire to purchase it. Murray thought it advisable to tell her that it had been painted on his pocket handkerchief. "On your pocket handkerchief!" exclaimed the old lady. "Then I'm quite sure you've ruined it, Mr. Murray. The paint will never come off!"—London Spectator.

Quaint Little English Church.

Culbone church, which among many others claims to be the smallest church in England, is situated on the coast of north Devon, not far from the picturesque little village of Porlock, and the church is so guarded by hills and woods that the sun's rays reach it only four months of the year. The building is but thirty-three feet long by twelve feet eight inches wide and has a porch, nave, carved oak chancel screen and Norman font, an alabaster altar piece and a quaint high pew near the chancel, used by the family of Lord Lovelace, by whom the property is owned. The slanted chancel is lit by a tiny square headed iron barred window, the oldest feature in the church, being pre-Norman and cut out of a single stone. It is amply large for the population, which is about thirty-five in a parish of only 1,337 acres. In summer the church is crowded owing to the influx of visitors from many parts of the world.

Story of a Novelist.

Mrs. Henry Wood, author of "East Lynne," the "best seller" of its generation, was forty and a wife and mother before she turned her hand to novel writing, and her most famous book seems to have been written to soothe the weariness of a severe illness. Much of it indeed was composed in bed, and the writer scarcely hoped to live to complete it. After running an obscure course in a monthly magazine the story was refused by several publishers and accepted only with considerable misgivings by Richard Bentley. It fell flat until some one reviewed it enthusiastically in the London Times, and then the printers worked night and day to cope with the demand. Within a very short time "East Lynne" was translated into almost every language in Europe, and as book and play its popularity has known no eclipse.—Argonaut.

In on the Ground Floor.

"I have always been suspicious of good things," said a well known New York lawyer, who has a reputation for a large philosophy. "I remember when I was a young man I had an opportunity to get in 'on the ground floor' of what looked to me like a load of easy money.

"I consulted one of the old time conservative men of Wall street. He smiled and said: 'Listen to this story and then decide:

"'A wife arriving home in high spirits tells her husband she has purchased a new bonnet. "And, sweetheart," she said, kissing him, "I got something for you too."

"'"Good!" exclaimed the happy husband. "What is it?"

"'"The bill," she said.' "—New York Sun.

Catacombs of the Druids.

Eleven miles southeast of London, in Kent, not many years ago were discovered the catacombs of the ancient druids, which are now much visited by sightseers and are lighted, for a part at least, by electric lights. Over fifty miles of chambers, cut in the chalk cliffs, have already been explored. The druids lived in these catacombs when attacked by their northern enemies, and here they buried many of their dead. The stone in which the human sacrifices were made is still to be seen, and also the well, from which water is drawn to this day.

DANIELS ISSUES DRASTIC ORDER

Absolute Prohibition In the Navy After July First

"WINE MESS" IS ABOLISHED

Every Ship and Shore Station Affected by Rule Which Overturns Customs of Many Years—Secretary's Decision Follows Report and Recommendation of Surgeon General

Washington, April 6.—Absolute prohibition will prevail in the United States navy after July 1 next. Secretary Daniels made public a sweeping order which not only will abolish the traditional "wine mess" of the officers, but will bar all alcoholic liquors from every ship and shore station of the navy.

This order, constituting one of the most notable victories ever won by the prohibition forces, was issued upon the recommendation of Surgeon General Braisted. It was brief and to the point.

"The use or introduction for drinking purposes of alcoholic liquors on board any naval vessel, or within any navy yard or station, is strictly prohibited, and commanding officers will be held directly responsible for the enforcement of this order."

In a statement issued last night Daniels said:

"I am in hearty agreement with the views expressed by the surgeon general in his paper accompanying the recommendation. There should not be on shipboard, with reference to intoxicants, one rule for officers and another and a different rule for the enlisted personnel.

"The saddest hour in my official life is when an officer or enlisted man must be punished for intoxication. During the past week it has been my painful duty to approve a court martial for dismissal from the service of an officer for intoxication. He told me that he had never tasted intoxicating drink until he did so in the wine mess on his cruises. Others, who have been disciplined for drinking in excess, have made similar statements to me."

The new order will replace that section of the naval instructions which permits the formation of wine messes.

While admitting that the old regulation conforms to the letter of the laws, Braisted in his letter to Secretary Daniels, declared: "It may be an open question how far it fulfils those laws in spirit." Reviewing legislation on the subject he observed:

"As matters stand today an enlisted man is, very properly, subjected to severe disciplinary measures if wine or beer be found in his possession on shipboard, yet the same man is constantly aware of the free use of alcoholic liquors on board ship which is officially permitted to officers, and the too-frequent derelictions which occur among them in consequence. The prohibition of alcohol to the men has rendered alcoholism among them almost a negligible quantity.

"Surely the officers should be in all respects models for the enlisted men in duty, habits and deportment; and the example of officers drinking aboard ship, as fostered by the wine mess, and the numerous courts martial of officers for drunkenness and the effects of alcohol, are destructive of discipline and morals, bad for the enlisted men, and detrimental to the reputation and good name of the service. The navy is comparable in many respects to a great busines organization, but no efficient corporation in civil life would tolerate such a condition of affairs."

Declaring that restrictive measures already enforced meet with public approval and are based upon sound physiological principles, the surgeon general asked the question: "Why, then, are they effective for a part of a personnel, instead of applying with equal force to the whole?"

Discussing the question of entertainment of international visitors, and other like courtesies, the surgeon general said:

"It is probable that upon certain occasions, international courtesy might render it advisable to temporarily modify such a regulation; this could readily be done by department order. At the same time efforts might be made to obtain an appropriation for the entertainment of our foreign guests in a manner which would avoid the possible appearance of criticising their own customs and regulations."

SPORT NEWS

Among the anniversary candidates of Mt. Wolaston lodge, I. O. O. F., on March 10, were several good bowlers who were prompt to challenge the regular team of the lodge. The challenge was accepted and the big match will be bowled this evening at the Coliseum. The challengers include Lee Brooks, Albert Prescott, James Dell, Willard Hodges and Mr. Esau.

The bowling match between the Men's Club of the Wolaston Congregational and Unitarian church will be held Wednesday evening, April 15, in the Coliseum alleys of Quincy.

President Arthur Leary and the new officers of the Copeland Club assumed their office at a meeting in the club rooms on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Leary, whose popularity secured for him the leadership of the best known social organization of the city, enters upon a term of office with the full membership of the club in accord with his ideas of progress. The meeting voted to unanimously endorse the West Quincy base ball league and will put a team on the diamond to contest for the trophy which will be offered. Nine new members were admitted to membership.

Another challenge was received this week for the Quincy Yacht Club challenge cup now held by the Boston Yacht club. The new challenger is the Mosquito yacht club. No boat was named by the Mosquito club, but probably one of the three boats entered by club members for the inter-club sonder class will be selected. The other challengers for the cup thus far are the Corinthian and South Boston clubs. The Quincy Yacht club has not as yet entered its challenge for the cup but probably will do so. Under the deed of trust the first challenge must be entered before the fifteenth of April. After the first challenge other clubs may challenge. It is not necessary to name the challenging yacht until shortly before the date of the first race.

Patrolman Jeremiah Dineen, player-manager of the base ball team of the Quincy police department announces that his colts were due for their first frisking this week, weather conditions permitting. The team is expected to organize within a few days for the election of a captain.

BREAD LINE UNNECESSARY

Conclusion of Inspectors Who Investigated Conditions In Hub

Boston, April 6.—Federal investigators, who have been studying labor conditions in Boston and vicinity for the past three weeks, completed their work yesterday. It is understood they have reported to the department of labor and commerce that while good positions are scarce, there is no occasion for an "army" of unemployed or for bread lines.

Disguised as a typical "bo," Inspector Robbins of Washington has spent two weeks in and around Boston, hob-nobbing with the "down-and-outers." He has visited every charitable institution in the city, eaten free lunches in saloons, and fed at the soup kitchen and the "three-penny" lunch.

With Robbins was Inspector Galvin, and the two tested the so-called "flops" at the Wayfarers' lodge and the 15-cent "hotels."

Through the state free employment bureau, the inspectors had chances of obtaining temporary employment after less than twenty minutes' waiting in line. They also were offered steady work on a farm twenty miles outside of Boston.

IN SECRET QUARANTINE

Leper an Involuntary Prisoner For Nearly Three Years

Muskogee, Okla., April 6.—For nearly three years a leper secretly has been kept in quarantine in Muskogee, it was learned when doctors gathered in convention here brought his case before the meeting for discussion.

The leper is J. Harris, a 40-year-old negro. Three years ago the county physician placed him in a quarantine that has been rigidly maintained.

Harris several times has attempted to break the quarantine, declaring that his plight is not leprosy, but was caused years ago when a negro doctor sprinkled his body with the dust of horn toads, redheaded scorpions and rattlesnakes.

Application to Spleen Cures Gorky of Consumption

St. Petersburg, April 6.—Maxim Gorky, the novelist, declares he has been cured of pulmonary tuberculosis by means of applications of Roentgen rays to his spleen. The treatment was administered as a last resort after an examination which showed both lungs to be affected.

Gorky says the progress of the disease has been arrested and that he is already regaining the weight he lost before the new treatment was applied.

Since the middle of December, when she returned from a strenuous campaign at Washington for national constitutional prohibition, she has been under a physician's care and several days ago she began to fail.

TROOPS COOPED UP IN PARRAS

What Is Left of Velasco's Army Fighting For Life

LAST REVOLUTION IN MEXICO

Declaration of Villa, Who Says There Will Be No Compromise With Enemy—Spanish Residents Expelled From Mexico—Rebels Will Attack Monterey as Soon as Velasco Can Be Captured

Torreon, Mex., April 6.—Cornered by General Villa's pursuing army at Parras, five miles east of San Pedro, General Velasco's disorganized remnant of the federal army that so desperately defended Torreon is fighting for life.

Villa is hurrying reinforcements to his command surrounding Velasco's army, and a final battle is at hand. Even at this moment it may be in progress.

"We will be ready to dictate in Mexico City. There can be no compromise with the enemy," declares Villa. "Madero compromised and his government failed through the treachery of those who did not appreciate him or took advantage of his clemency.

"This revolution must be the last in Mexico, and it must be thorough and conclusive. This we must accomplish by force of arms, so that in the end there will be no questioning of our orders or our laws."

Six hundred Spanish residents of Torreon, ordered expelled from Mexico, began their exodus from this city. Their expulsion is made under an article of the Mexican constitution. It is expected their property will be confiscated by the rebels, as was done at Chihuahua when the Spanish residents of that city were driven from Mexico.

Fearing instant death when Villa and his army entered the city, the Spaniards had been huddled into the Laguna bank under the protection of J. M. Ulmer, the American consular agent, and an American flag was hoisted over the building.

As soon as Villa was certain of his command of the city he visited the Spaniards and warned them to keep out of sight for fear that the rebels, who hate the Dons for the aid they ar ealleged to have given to the federal cause, would kill them before he could interfere.

Included in the number are many wealthy men, merchants and bankers and their wives and children, composing a considerable number of the leaders in the social life of the city.

All Americans in Torreon are safe. All other foreigners have been given guarantees of protection and are free to come and go as they please.

Velasco, now cooped up by the rebel pursuers at Parras, is believed to have about 2500 men under his command, while the rebels who checked his flight eastward at that point numbered at first only 2000 men.

In the last rear guard action before the fleeing federals came to a halt and prepared to make their last fight more than 100 federals were killed and more were taken prisoners.

Details of the fighting which is now in progress at Parras is meagre, as the federals in their frantic flight cut all the telegraph and telephone wires, and the news must come by couriers from General Hernandez, commander of the rebel pursuing column.

The line of the federals' retreat from Torreon shows that hundreds of the fugitives threw away their guns and ammunition, and Villa believes the cornered federals cannot long hold out for lack of ammunition.

When Velasco evacuated Torreon he had about 5000 soldiers in his army, but after leaving the city the army broke into smaller groups and fled in different directions. All were under orders to seek refuge in Saltillo or Monterey as soon as possible.

That Villa intends to attack Monterey as soon as he can capture Velasco, whom he regards as the ablest of the federal generals, was indicated when the rebel commander called upon General Carranza, his chief, for 3000 reinforcements to be held in readiness at Juarez to join Villa's army when he sends for them for the attack upon Monterey.

SCHEME IS SUCCESSFUL

Pastor Increases Congregation by Checking Babies For Mothers

New York, April 6.—Checking babies in the care of a nurse brought a big increase in the size of the congregation of Rev. Fr. Francis P. Duffy of the Church of Our Savious on Palm Sunday.

Duffy believes that many mothers who would otherwise come to church are unable to do so because they have no one to care for their babies at home and do not like to bring them to church with them. The success of his checkroom scheme has convinced him that his view is correct.

Three Convicts Instantly Killed

Sacramento, Cal., April 6.—Three convicts were shot and instantly killed, and two others were wounded, probably fatally, in an attempted break from the incorrigible ward of Folsom prison.

POLICE CHARGE RIOTERS

Agitators Land In Jail When Cry of "Kill the Cops" Is Raised

New York, April 6.—Seven leaders and agitators of the I. W. W. are in jail in default of $500 bail following the riotous scenes when the police stopped a parade, following a meeting in Union square.

Prompt action on the part of Police Commissioner McKay, who hurried every available man to the Union square meeting, brought a swift termination to an ugly movement on the part of the rioters, whose leaders had already been placed under arrest.

When the mounted police charged the mob cries of "kill the cops" came from the rioters, mingled with curses and yells of derision. The policemen continued to drive the crowd into the side streets east and west of the park. More than once it appeared as if the rioters would offer violence.

BOLD DAYLIGHT ROBBERY

Thieves Get Away With $2000 Worth In Worcester Jewelry Store

Worcester, Mass., April 6.—Thieves entered the jewelry store of Joseph Tanlosky at 54 Millbury street in broad daylight, while many persons were passing on their way home from church, and looted a strong-box, from which they obtained jewelry valued at $2000.

Entrance to the store was gained by forcing the rear door. Mrs. Tanlosky was in the store at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Her husband is ill in the city hospital, where he was taken Friday for an operation. They live upstairs over the store.

After looking through the store Mrs. Tanlosky left the building for a time. Two hours later Patrolman Early found the rear door had been forced and the place robbed.

TRAIN WRECKED AS BRIDGE COLLAPSES

Three Persons Killed When Cars Plunge Into River

Attica, Ind., April 6.—Three persons were killed and thirty-five others injured, some of them seriously, when a Wabash passenger train was wrecked, the bridge over the Wabash river, just west of here, giving way. The engine, a baggage car and the day coach dropped into the water.

The railroad's bridge over the Wabash river was weakened when a freight train was wrecked upon the structure. The express train was stopped on the west side of the bridge and a switch engine was sent to determine whether the structure would hold the fast passenger train. Railroad officials believed it safe and the limited was ordered to proceed.

The train crept out on the bridge slowly and when about 100 feet out upon the structure, the bridge gave way beneath the weight of the train.

WILL CONTEST DROPPED

Hackett Will Get Fortune Provided In Testament of His Aunt

New York, April 6.—The cousins of Mrs. Minnie Hackett Trowbridge, who contested her will in an effort to prevent James K. Hackett, the actor, her uncle, from receiving more than two-thirds of her $2,000,000 estate, suddenly withdrew the suit and the will will be probated at once.

The action of the cousins was unexpected. No explanations were forthcoming, but it was understood that the contestants not only found they had no grounds on which to sue but that in event they should be successful Hackett would get the whole estate, as Mrs. Trowbridge would then be declared to have died instestate.

FOUR-YEAR-OLD "GHOST"

He Strays Into an Empty Tenement and Scares the Neighbors

Pawtucket, R. I., April 6.—Ghost stories woven about mysterious noises heard in a supposed "haunted tenement" were dispelled when it became known that Dominic Yazuklewicz, 4 years old, who had been missing two days, had been found in the apartment in a half-starved condition.

The lad had strayed from his home and had sought shelter in the empty apartment, where he remained, without food or drink.

ANANIAS ELOPES

His Tale of Woe

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Ananias Sline had at last made up his mind. Of all the desirable widows and spinsters in Quince Harbor none seemed so attractive as Mrs. Em Bevis, who was the proprietor of the Quince Harbor dry goods store. If any one had remotely suggested to Ananias that the profitable little business had enhanced the charms of the Widow Bevis in his middle aged eyes he would have laughed one to scorn. Still, being half proprietor of a dry goods business was infinitely better than being porter in a village bank. Any one would admit that!

When he put the question to Mrs. Bevis it was noontime and her two rosy cheeked clerks had gone home to dinner. Ananias had assured himself that they two were alone, and he had promptly possessed himself of the widow's generous hand and told her the story of his lonely life and his longing for a home, provided she would preside over it.

"Oh, Ananias," she simpered. "I never dreamed—I never thought—oh!" she shrieked as Ananias imprinted a kiss on her work worn hand.

That evening Ananias called upon her and discussed their early marriage.

"There's only one obstacle to a fancy wedding," said Ananias when Em Bevis had outlined a plan for the ceremony to take place in the Baptist church, with her little niece as flower girl and white satin ribbons festooned from the tops of the pews.

"And that is?" asked Em in a disappointed tone.

"My landlady."

"Hetty Rowell? My land, you ain't engaged to her, be you?" inquired the widow sharply.

"Not if I know it," said Ananias cautiously, "but somehow I never know where I stand with Widow Rowell, Em! I swan I never proposed marriage to her in my life, but half the time she talks like she was engaged to me! I wish we could be married in a few days," added Ananias.

"But what's your hurry?" protested Em. "I'd like a chance to make some wedding clothes and get ready!"

"I know it, my love," cooed Ananias in her ear, "but I am afraid of the Widow Rowell. Great blizzards, I am! I talk in my sleep, you know. What if she should hear me saying something about you! It would be all up in the air!"

By the time Ananias went home he had persuaded his fiancee that she could select a very presentable trousseau from the stock of her own department store; so, relieved of this momentous question, Em agreed to elope with Ananias on the following Thursday, and Ananias wrote a note to the Rev. Josiah Twigg apprising him of the coming event and asking him to consider the matter as entirely confidential.

That night Ananias let himself into his boarding place and tiptoed up to his room with unusual caution. One never knew when the Widow Rowell would pounce out. And one never knew in what part of the house she was seeking a night's repose. She had a pleasantly careless custom of taking prospective guests through her spacious old house and permitting them to choose whatever room suited the moment's fancy, provided it was disengaged. As for herself, she slept around as fancy dictated—one night the west front chamber appealed to her, for she loved to hear the roar of the waves on the beach; the next night it might be a small hall room for the moment unoccupied that would tickle her restless impulse.

What Ananias did not know was that on this particular evening the widow had been approached by the proprietor of the Quince Harbor hotel and asked to accommodate a half dozen guests for whom he could find no room until the following day. Mrs. Rowell sweetly assented and gathered up her own belongings and carried them into a tiny room next to the room of Ananias Sline. Here she dropped her weary limbs upon a most uncomfortable cot and slept.

The sound of the softly closed front door aroused her. If that was Ananias Sline tiptoeing in at such a late hour she would have a serious talk with him in the morning. Either he had been courting—and that was not to be allowed, for Hetty Rowell felt that she had a prior right to the affections of Mr. Sline—or he had been to lodge meeting, and as it wasn't lodge night—why, he must have been courting! So there the widow's logical mind calculated the matter, as we know, quite correctly.

She dozed off to sleep again and awoke to the resounding snores of Mr. Sline in the next room.

"Drat him!" she muttered, turning over. But she could not sleep again. She got to thinking about Ananias and where he had spent the evening, and she decided that it was Em Bevis who had captured him.

She was convinced of it when Ananias ceased snoring and fell to talking, as was his habit when the day had been an exciting one.

"Ahem!" babbled Ananias. "Ahem. next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock! My dear Mr. Twigg, would you perform a most interesting service for me? Of course I shall wear a white flower in my coat—ahem! I'm not afraid—no, siree! I, Ananias, take thee, Em Bevis—no; that's not right. Em—Em—Emma—or Emmaline—ah!" Mr. Sline resorted to snoring once more, and the widow, now thoroughly awake to the perfidy of her star boarder, sat up in bed and fell to planning.

When the Widow Rowell fell to planning—well, things usually happened.

For an entire week she watched and waited and listened and peeked and pried, and when Thursday evening drew around she was possessed in some mysterious manner of most of the details of the approaching elopement. She knew that Hep Riddle's buggy had been engaged and that Hep was to harness the sorrel horse, although Hep Riddle himself didn't know what Ananias Sline wanted to do with a buggy.

By Thursday evening Ananias Sline was shivering with nervous dread. He had a feeling that in some way or other his elopement would be frustrated. Time and again he had found the Widow Rowell's wits could outmatch his own, but so far as he knew not a soul was aware of the approaching marriage save the prospective bride, the minister and himself.

Ananias ate scarcely any supper, although Mrs. Rowell had prepared his favorite dish of oyster stew. She sat opposite him and blinked her eyes at him until he gulped down a huge cup of scalding hot tea and bolted away from the table.

"Little dear!" murmured the widow with a strange smile on her face.

Ananias locked himself into his room and made an elaborate if hasty toilet. After many maneuvers he let himself out and managed to escape by the back hall door. There was no sign of the widow, and he hoped she had gone to call upon one of her cronies. It would be ill luck indeed if she had taken it into her head to call upon Em Bevis, though the two rivals were not the best of friends since Ananias came between them.

Still, the Widow Rowell was apt to do the most baffling things.

Ananias hurried to Riddle's stables and climbed into the buggy which a grinning negro had prepared for him. He drove rapidly out of the yard, nearly losing a wheel in the turn, for he was not a skillful driver.

Quince Harbor folks are inquisitive and prone to mind each other's business to a most annoying degree; therefore it had been decided that Em Bevis was to wait for Ananias in Whippoorwill lane by the brook. He would catch her up into the vehicle, and away they would go to Big Harbor.

Whippoorwill lane was there, and so was Em Bevis, for Ananias recognized the white veil she was to wear about her uncovered head.

He pressed her hand and received a tender pressure in return. After that they rode in silence through the woods toward Big Harbor.

At last they reached the main street of Big Harbor, and the sorrel horse chose to gallop madly until Ananias, sawing at the reins, managed to bring him to a stop before the gate of the parsonage.

"Belay there!" yelled the little ex-sailor angrily just as the minister opened the front door and stepped into the porch to meet them.

The prospective bride got out unaided while Ananias was tying the sorrel horse and she was inside the house by the time Ananias had reached the gate.

When Ananias Sline reached the parlor, where stood the beaming clergyman and his smiling wife and a couple of servants for witnesses, he stood in the doorway aghast at the sight that met his amazed eyes. The bride was there—a bride was there, indeed, but not the one he had so carefully chosen! Standing there in the modest splendor of a gray satin dress hurriedly garnished with white lace and bunches of artificial orange blossoms was the Widow—Rowell!

Em Bevis was nowhere to be seen.

Somehow he had been tricked by the artful widow whom he had at first courted, only to leave when a better chance presented itself. Surely retribution was close upon the heels of Ananias Sline!

"We are waiting, Mr. Sline," reminded Mr. Twigg, smiling benevolently.

"Dear Ananias!" cooed Hetty Rowell, fixing her agate colored eyes upon him.

Ananias moved forward mechanically. There seemed nothing else to do. Things were hideously mixed and a bitter fate seemed to have driven him straight into the arms of the Widow Rowell. He felt that she had outwitted him again—never more would he try to get the best of her. He would admit defeat. As for Em Bevis, what could he do about it now without creating a scandal that would shake the three villages to the core?

Nothing!

So Ananias went forward and was joined in the bonds of holy matrimony to Hetty Rowell. When the ceremony was over Mrs. Twigg congratulated them warmly.

"It's the oddest thing," she babbled, "but Josiah and I really thought the bride—we understood it was to be—another. We are quite surprised!"

"So are we!" smiled Mrs. Ananias Sline as she took her husband's arm and went down to the waiting buggy and the impatient sorrel horse.

Somebody tossed an old shoe after them for luck and it struck Ananias right in the back of the neck, so that he uttered an explosive blast of profanity that caused the minister and his wife to close their front door hurriedly.

But the Widow Rowell—I mean Mrs. Ananias Sline—merely smiled compassionately, as if she knew that her husband had just cause for exasperation.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

presence there is, and death becomes obsolete, real as it may appear to the physical senses. By the same course of reasoning we arrive at the fact that since God is Truth, Truth is the only legitimate knowledge or activity there is or can be. However loudly error may call out in justification of its presence and power, it has neither presence nor power; and grandest and most joyous conclusion of all, we find that there is no power, knowledge, or presence in anything but in Love and its manifestations, for God is Love and God is All.

Christian Science, teaches us to worship God in His allness, in His fulness, in His infinity, not as some grand looking human being on a cloud or a throne, such an one cannot be omnipresent. Only as divine Mind, infinite Principle, Life Truth and Love can God be discerned. These terms refer to one absolute God and express the infinite.

THE REAL MAN.

From a discussion on God in quite natural sequence we come to consider what the real or scientific man is.

The Bible teils us in language quite unmistakable, "that God created man in His own image," to be still more emphatic that statement is repeated "in the image of God created he him."

Christ Jesus exemplified this perfect manhood right here on earth, and the Gospels teach us how to attain to this fulness of the stature of Christ. Surely that was his love-crowned mission, was it not, to show us how to become conscious that we are the sons of God? Not to do this work for us, but forever to lead and show the way, until God, Spirit, Mind and His countless manifestations, shall be found to be All-in all. Poor humanity would never have found its way to the Christ, this perfect manhood, "Forever in the bosom of the Father," had not Jesus appeared in the flesh to be the life-link between God and man, flesh and Spirit. To quote "Science and Health," "It was Christ's purpose to reconcile man to God, not God to man. Love and Truth are not at war with God's image and likeness."

It is the spiritual law that frees from what so-called material law claims to have imposed upon us. Jesus lived his life on earth in studied violation of all material law. From first to last he utterly disregarded it and annulled its decrees. Spiritual law was the law of his existence and he recognized no other. His birth was contrary to material law. Every so-called miracle was in violation of this law, but in strict obedience to spiritual law.

Now if material existence is in the nature of a dream, we are not going to gain anything by placing implicit reliance on the testimony of the physical senses, which are they that testify to the existence of the dream. How often has it been said "do you mean to tell me I am not to believe in the evidence of my senses?" Has it ever occurred to you that by far the greater part of your education is employed in the correction of the evidence of the senses? Let us investigate them for a moment, and see how much credence must be permitted them. Supposing we stand on a railway crossing where the railroad runs straight, physical sense declares that at a certain distant point the lines meet. Your education corrects this and assures you that there is as much space between the lines out yonder, as there is where you stand. The rising "harvest moon" as we call it in England, appears to be about four times as large as usual, whereas education informs you that the size of the moon is constant. You can multiply such instances for yourself quite indefinitely. No, we do not trust our physical senses quite as much as we may think we do.

The most conclusive proof of the unreliability of the physical senses, that is seeing, hearing, tasting, touching, smelling, lies in the fact that these senses can tell us nothing whatever concerning that which is greatest and best.

We cannot see, hear, taste, touch or smell Spirit, the senses can take no cognizance or the spiritual whatever, and so long as we are being guided and governed solely by physical sense we have the door completely closed upon Spirit, and spiritual sense perception. The day will come and has already come when education of the right kind will teach the people how to correct every testimony of physical sense, this sense that tells us that the sun leaps across the heavens every 24 hours and that parallel lines meet, with the right apprehension of spiritual reality.

HEALING.

The healing of disease in Christian Science, naturally enough, is what in the first instance attracts the attention of those becoming interested in the subject. Primarily, however, the Christian Science objective is the healing of sin. All people are ready enough to get rid of suffering or sickness, but all are not quite so ready to part from their sins. There is no pleasure in pain, but there are those who fancy there is pleasure in sin. Never was there a greater mistake, for sin claims its full award both here and hereafter. The healing of Christian Science is the healing of Truth and Love. The most pregnant sentence that perhaps Jesus ever uttered was the words, "ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free." In that short sentence our Saviour epitomized the whole science of healing, not only of sickness and disease, but of sin, poverty and every conceivable discordant condition.

Now what is the truth to be known? You will find numbers of people quite prepared to declare that disease and sin are real. That is true—how then is Truth going to heal, to destroy, that which is true? By "the truth" our Saviour meant the absolute, the eternal, the immutable, in other words the spiritual. We have indeed to know what he knew, if we would cast out the devils of sickness, sin and lust as he cast them out. To know the spiritual fact concerning God and man, that God is spiritual perfection, and that man is His image and likeness, the image of perfection, is the Truth to be known in order to cast out any and every condition that that is not of the Father.

The generality of people believe that God sends sickness in some unexplained way to do us good. That it is sent as a punishment, or to teach us a lesson or to draw us nearer to Himself. If this be the case what then is the attitude of the Christian world at large? If sickness is sent as a punishment, why do Christians promptly try to evade the punishment by sending for a doctor or taking drugs? If sent to teach a lesson, are people justified in refusing to learn the lesson by getting rid of the sickness as soon as possible? If to draw us nearer to Himself, what is the Christian about when he sets up an active resistance to that which is to draw him nearer to God? Surely, if sickness is a good thing, the sicker we are the better. But although this may be the teaching of some today, it is not the teaching of Christ Jesus, who called sickness and disease "devil" or evil and cast them out. He never said they were sent by God to do good to humanity, but he did say of the woman who was bowed together that Satan had bound her. Not God be it understood. If by sin came death, by sin came also the forerunners and procurers of death, sickness and disease. "Then how do you account," we are sometimes asked, "for the fact that some of the most saintly people are the greatest sufferers?" Ignorance of law will not save from the consequences of that ignorance. The spiritual law is there and available to all. We know it to be perfect in its operation, for Jesus has, for all time, proved it to be so. If this saintly invalid will learn the law his saintliness will remain, but his invalidism will go. Error and Truth cannot exist together.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE

far as to enact special legislation limiting and defining the kind and character of products to be used by governmental boards in the erection of public works.

There is a present instance of this character in New York state. The state of New York has no granite within its borders. When the work of rebuilding the capital at Albany was undertaken, a special law was enacted which provided that all granite used in this work should be shipped into the state in the rough.

This law protected the New York granite cutting industry inasmuch as otherwise thousands of carloads of granite purchased in New Hampshire for this particular building would undoubtedly have been cut in the state where it was quarried.

The use of Massachusetts granite in the construction of the new dock at Boston, would be of substantial benefit to a local granite industry and would ensure profitable employment to thousands of men in different parts of the state.

I trust that you may deem it consistent with the public interest to bring this matter directly to the attention of the board of Port Directors.

The issue involved is one of large importance and I can hardly doubt the attitude of the Port Directors once this matter is rightly understood and properly emphasized.

Awaiting your Excellency's action in this matter with very real interest, I am

Very respectfully yours,
JOHN J. MARTIN.
President Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange.
Boston, April 4, 1914.

Secretary John O. Hall of the Quincy Board of Trade writes to the Daily Ledger:

I notice that Mayor Miller has addressed a letter to President John J. Martin of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange regarding the use of granite in the construction of the Dry Dock at Boston in preference to concrete, and that Mr. Martin had addressed a letter to Governor Walsh urging the importance of this matter to Massachusetts and asking his cooperation.

I am glad to see that our city officials are getting waked up on this matter and realizing the need of cooperative labor in the interest of our city.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade in October last the matter was brought up and a committee was appointed to act in conjunction with the Granite Manufacurers Association and the Mayor in presenting this matter to the Directors of the Port, and this committee has had numerous interviews with them regarding it, making especial emphasis of Quincy granite, with the result that while they were at first practically committed to the idea of construction of the dock of concrete I understand that now their ideas are more in favor of granite than concrete.

In addition to this, the Board of Trade have acted in conjunction with other organizations, notably the National Association of Granite Industries and the New England Association of Commercial Executives to promote the use of granite in preference to any other material.

We also have advocated the employment of Massachusetts Labor in this great work.

It gives us a great deal of pleasure to welcome the assistance of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange in this matter which so vitally interests us.

The Quincy Board of Trade is represented in the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and in Massachusetts State Board of Trade and is in close touch with all matters which will result in advantage to Massachusetts and Quincy.

In this connection I wish to say that the officials of the Board are well represented in the all important question of taxation in Massachusetts, which is of the utmost importance to our city, and which is now under consideration before the Committee on Taxation of the Legislature.

RABBI WISE AT WOLLASTON

Discusses the Rights of the Child and Says Reforms are Much Needed

Education Should Form and Reform, Not Simply Inform

The much heralded, thrice announced and twice postponed lecture by Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York was delivered in the Wollaston School hall Monday evening under the auspices of the Parents-Teachers Association.

On the first occasion a trip to Virgina served to prevent the rabbi from coming, and on the second a combination of the elements tied up the train service between New York and Boston.

Weather conditions the third time were propitious and with the exception of being directed by mistake to the Massachusetts Fields school, the rabbi arrived safe and sound.

The publicity the lecture had received coupled with the prominence of the speaker caused an audience assemble that overflowed extra seating arrangements made on the floor and platform. Over 700 were present.

The speaker was introduced by ex-Councilman Albert N. Murray, president of the association and proceeded in a very happy vein to tell a number of stories pertinent to the situation. He stated he had heard of second but never of third Adventists.

Instead of "How to make life worth living" the announced subject, Rabbi Wise proceeded to talk on "The rights of the child."

I will speak he said on the rights of the child unborn, rights of the child in the home, in industry in the class room. What are involved in the rights of the unborn child? This is a wonderful age. No age has so proclaimed the rights of the child.

If we talk of rights are there not some grievous wrongs under which the child labors? If not it would not be necessary to right the wrongs of the child. We must undo the evils done the child by the industrial system in the life of the western labor world. It has been truly paraphrased that "Childhood hath its privileges."

If we would deal wisely, if we would deal in a scientific and preventive fashion with the evils of the day we must get at the child soon and early. The problem of the unemployed does not seem to be related to the child. Why drag it in? The ranks of the unemployed are being filled with children that are being dumped into industry out of school before they have had a chance. It makes for untrained, undisciplined and casual workers.

We are facing two problems, the unemployed and child labor. We must consider the rights of the child. Unless we meet them the child will be revenged upon us. The body politic may never violate moral law. We may deny some rights to the child, but we will pay the toll by bearing a heavy burden. We cannot afford to do it.

Some say we should prevent wrongs to the child because industry would suffer and the nation be hurt. There is danger if we rest our case on any but the highest possible ground. We should never consider if we can afford it. Can we afford under any circumstances to wrong the child?

The unborn child has one supreme, inalienable right: the right to be born to parents—men and women fitted and worthy to be its parents. To deny this is to do the child more wrong than in any other fashion.

I do not believe that all of our problems may be solved by eugenics, but a great deal may be said on the subject. Eugenics does not mean race suicide. It means race culture, race

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Assessor Duggan Ready to Quit When Successor is Named

John A. Duggan is still acting as one of the Board of Assessors, although he is likely to sever his connection with the board at any minute. The condition under which he is remaining on the board is until the Mayor appoints someone as his successor.

When the Daily Ledger stated last week that he had resigned, the report was discredited, yet as stated at the time it was known that he had tendered his resignation to the Mayor, but that the Mayor had not at that time accepted it. However it will be accepted just as soon as the Mayor obtains another man.

His Honor is having a hard time getting just the man he wants for the position, largely beacuse the salary is not large enough to tempt any competent man.

Monday night former Tax Collector A. L. Baker was exhibiting a letter which he had received from the Mayor offering him the position. It is very doubtful, however if he accepts.

The situation in the Board of Assessors is becoming a serious one. In the first place, aside from Mr. Duggan, the board is made up of men who have had no past experience, and the frequent changes in the makeup of the Board upset all policies.

Under the law, the board has the months of April and May in which to complete its field work. The board has now been at work in the field one week and it is understood that they have just completed Squantum; so that the larger part of the city still remains to be assessed.

It seems very doubtful if the Board will be able to complete its field work in the time allowed, which will be liable to delay the announcing of the tax rate later than usual and consequently delay the collection of the 1914 taxes.

Inspector of Buildings Lora C. Merrill has made an investigation of six buildings at Quincy Point in company with State Inspector William McKeever, and this morning completed a list of recommendations relative to their fire exits. The investigations, required by a new law which recently became effective, will continue and should be of great value in fire prevention.

Edward Powers, who has announced himself as a candidate for Mayor next fall, attended the meeting of the City Council Monday evening and after the session held an impromptu reception in the rear of the Council chamber. He was surrounded by several of the younger generation of politicians who questioned him as to his platform and offered some valuable advice on the running of a successful municipal campaign. Mr. Powers was right there with the goods emphatically informed his hearers that he was in the race to stay and that what he proposed to do when he took office the first Monday in January, 1915.

Hospitality of the City Will be Extended to Them

Elaborate arrangements have been made for the entertainment of the ladies attending the annual convention of the Massachusetts Grocers and Provision Dealers in this city on next Wednesday.

They will be taken in charge by a committee of ladies representing the Merchants association and the Board of Trade. Autos will be in readiness to carry them to the historic points of the city and interesting data will be given by Charles H. Johnson.

They are all invited to an informal reception to National Secretary John A. Green, in Hancock hall, from 5.30 to 6 o'clock, which will be followed by a banquet and high class entertainment at Colonial hall.

ALL BECAUSE OF LITTLE DOG

Ex-Mayor Bryant Thought He Had Found Lost Pet

Former Mayor Charles M. Bryant created considerable excitement in City Square about five o'clock Monday evening when he seized the Boston terrier of Agnes E. Wrigley, and claimed it was one which disappeared from his kennel some time ago. The seizure took place opposite the Adams building in full view of many people.

The crowd gathered because of the protests of little Agnes who wanted her "Nig" and attracted Officer Sweeney. Mr. Bryant explained the situation, and despite the assurances of many in the crowd that the canine was the pet of the household of Professor Wrigley, he insisted on showing it to the man in charge of his live stock. After a short examination he told Mr. Bryant that the dog was very much the same, excepting his tail was much longer than the missing terriers, and that he had chased it several times himself, only to learn that he too had been mistaken.

Mr. Bryant admitted the "con," but seeing the dog had no tag on his collar declared it to be unlicensed, and demanded that the officer shoot it. This was refused, but Officer Sweeney said he would take the dog to the police headquarters and have him held for investigation. While they were conferring over the best way to settle the difficulty, the dog slipped away and ran toward the Wrigley home at Washington and Coddington streets with Officer Sweeney in pursuit. Mr. Bryant followed and entered the house Only women were at home, and Mrs. Wrigley found it necessary to remonstrate at length.

Both Mr. Bryant and Prof. Wrigley have appealed to Mayor Miller.

CARPENTER SHOP FIRE.

The alarm from Box 54 at 3.05 Monday afternoon was for a lively blaze in the carpenter's shop of E. H. Sears off Berlin street. The cause of the fire is unknown, but when discovered it was burning fiercely. Flames were coming out of the roof and sides of the building by the time the department arrived, threatening to ruin a number of Monday washings that were out drying on lines near by.

The women folks lost no time in taking in their clothes and none of the washings were injured. In the building aside from a quantity of lumber was a buggy, which was ruined and several boxes of carpenter's tools, all of which were more or less damaged, also a quantity of tar paper, duck, etc. One hydrant stream and a chemical stream soon got the fire under control. The loss will be several hundred dollars.

CITY CLEAN UP IS PROPOSED

Indoors As Well As Outdoors Says Board of Health

The Board of Health earnestly solicits the citizens to aid in the city cleaning campaign. They urge that everybody see to it that all rubbish is removed from cellars and back yards and have it placed in suitable receptacles for the Health department to easily remove it.

They also urge that all hallways be cleared of obstructions; that all carpets and hangings be removed for the summer; that floors be scrubbed also hallways and unvarnished woodwork, and that plenty of soap and hot water be used; that all windows be cleaned and kept open to frseh air and sunlight; that damp cellars be ventilated.

They also request that all neighborhood nuisances be reported, such as stagnant pools and ill-smelling refuse piles, and that water not be allowed to gather in cans or other receptacles. Use a little kerosene in them and notice the improvement.

Ask your landlord to repair leaky roofs and plumbing, and to repair broken walls and ceilings. If there is a vacant lot adjoining see that it is cleaned of all decaying and refuse matter.

The public are urged to remember that during the past year and at the present time there has been considerable contagious disease, and that every effort is being made by the Board to stamp it out. Last of all remember that a cheerful compliance with the above suggestions, will with the efforts of the Board of Health, help make the City of Quincy a more healthful place to live in, and every citizen should be glad to co-operate.

WEYMOUTH CAR JUMPS TRACK

A trolley car jumped the track on the hill near New Downer Landing on Monday afternoon, turned at right angles, and buried its nose in an embankment. The passengers in the car were shaken up considerably but none were injured seriously. Traffic was tied up until the car was replaced on the tracks, a matter of only a few minutes.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A very enjoyable birthday party was given by Miss Mildred Martin at her home on Water street, Monday evening to a few of her most intimate friends.

The evening was pleasantly spent in games, music and dancing. Solos were rendered by William Martin, Jr., and John Andrews accompanied at the piano by Miss C. E. Curtis and Miss Ingrie Jacobson. The gathering was also favored with vocal selections by the Misses Mildred Martin, Agnes Frolund and Mary O'Connell. The feature of the evening was a selection on the graphophone giving "When twilight fades," as sung by Philip Martin.

While the guests were busy playing games, a great noise was heard and two Indians appeared who were supposed to be magicians. One young lady was their victim, and by initiating them created much amusement for all. Prizes were awarded in the games.

A bountiful table was spread with all sorts of goodies, prepared and served by Mrs. William Martin and included a huge birthday cake. This collation was enjoyed by all present.

Miss Martin was the recipient of many handsome gifts among which was a dainty article which caused much laughter. Guests were present from Weymouth, Braintree and Quincy.

Patrick Murphy was arraigned for drunkenness and for assault on his wife at Quincy. Cases continued until April 15.

MORE FIREMEN ARE FAVORED

City Council Have Long Debate As to How Many City Can Afford

Big Sum Wanted for Sewer Extensions-Water Loan Passed

The main debate at Monday nights meeting of the City Council came on the order increasing the number of permanent firemen. The original order called for an increase of five men. The Committee on Fire Department, however, reported an amendment making the number three men. A minority report signed by Councilmen Williams, Barrows and O'Dowd reported that the order ought to pass in its original form. After a short sharp discussion the minority report was rejected, and the amendment adopted and the order sent to the Finance Committee.

Councilman Gelotte started the ball rolling when he said that the City of Quincy had the best fire record of any city of the Commonwealth as far as fire losses was concerned. While Quincy's loss was 6 percent, places like Braintree had a loss of 50 or 60 percent. He considered in view of the high tax rate that a large increase was not justified at the present time.

Council Williams in support of the minority report said that he could not see where the city would lose by having men enough to man the apparatus. Twice during the day there were only men enough to drive the apparatus The one day off in five left the department handicapped. Quincy has been lucky in the past, but it will catch it some day.

Councilman Barrows said that Chief Billings asked for fifteen men and Mayor Miller cut that recommendation down to five. He has stated that at certain hours there is but one man to each piece of apparatus. The committee had put considerable time into the investigation of the order.

Councilman Gelotte said that if we are now short at meal times, and the force is increased five men, we will have too many at other times during the day.

Councilman Beeman said that five men were added last year. In his opinion three were all that should be added to the amount for current expenses. Three a year is all that the city can afford with its present high tax.

Councilman Richards said that the question had been thoroughly threshed out in the committee. With the present high tax and the talk about economy here was a good place to economize.

In reply to questions of Councilman Griffin, Chief Billings said that the men added last year did not increase the department any, it simply covered up.

Councilman Gilliatt said that there is an order pending for an auto pump and we should wait to see what becomes of that order before we increase the department.

Councilman Ross said that the Mayor felt that only five men should be added this year. Personally he had given the matter much attention. While in other cities on business he had made it a practice to drop into fire houses and he had often seen apparatus respond to alarms. They all go out with three and four men each. He had told Chiefs what we had in Quincy, and they replied that Quincy was simply lucky. He felt that five men were needed. He spoke of the fire at Hibernian hall where there was a lack of men, for it took half a dozen or more men to look after the horses. He believed that there were three departments which should be upheld, the Police, Fire and School departments. By adding five men last year the department was not increased any.

Councilman Craig believed that there should be five more men, but did not see how it could be done with the present high tax. He can not give any of the departments all they need. If the Street committee should pass all of the matters pending the tax rate would be $35.

Councilman Little said that three men was all the city could afford, and that five men were not needed.

Councilman O'Dowd said that the committee took two evenings to discuss this order. When we consider that if we give the Chief five men it only means four, as one is off duty every day it did not seem much. We should give the Chief what he asked for.

Councilman Little said that he was a member of the special committee of last year that investigated the Fire department. When the committee visited the Atlantic station he found the present chief the only man on duty, and he said that the other two men had gone to bed, although he had later heard that they were down in the coal hole listening. The committee asked the Chief a number of questions, and if he had any suggestions to make. He replied that he

QUINCY GRANITE.

With the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and Governor Walsh interested, the granite for the dry dock to be built by Massachusetts at Boston may come from Quincy, Rockport or Milford. When granite was wanted for Bunker Hill monument, men of Quincy arose to the occasion and built a railroad. Why not build another railroad now from the quarries to tide water. Shall it be said that our men of 1914 are not as enterprising as the men of 1826?

Here is a chapter of Quincy history by the late William S. Pattee which may be of interest at this time:

"During the construction of the canal to Washington street a more important and bolder enterprise was started for the building of a railway for the transportation of stone, as in January, 1826, a petition was presented to the Legislature for an act of incorporation to construct a railway in Quincy, from the stone quarries to Neponset river. The following is the form of the petition:—

"The undersigned petitioners represent, that it would be of great public utility to establish a railway from certain quarries in the town of Quincy to the tide waters, for the carrying of stone to be used in building. That your petitioners are disposed to establish the same, or to aid in effecting it; but that it will require a voluntary subscription, and employment of a large sum of money, and such sum can only be obtained by extending the subscription among many persons, and that it would greatly facilitate the enterprise if those who are engaged in it should act under corporate powers."

This petition was signed by Thomas Handeyside Perkins, William Sullivan, Amos Lawrence, Solomon Willard, David Moody and Gridley Bryant, all of Boston with the exception of Solomon Willard.

This, like other great experiments of internal improvement could not be projected and carried on without opposition from zealous and interested parties, who thought their selfish interests should be paramount to the public good, as was the case in this instance.

Many of the inhabitants of Quincy, as well as individual owners of quarries, desired that the railway should run through the town to Brackett's wharf or the Point. This route they endeavored to make appear more feasible, as its construction would be attended with much less cost, and would be more favorable to the interests of those who were in possession of valuable quarries in the North Commons, where stone had been taken for years. They anticipated that this enterprise might enable the railway company to absorb all the business by their greater facilities in cheapening transportation of stone, and they would have to give up their business or construct a railway at their own expense, which, with their limited means, was too great an undertaking for them to accomplish.

This, like all other imaginary troubles, soon came to an end. Those who have carried on the stone business in the North Commons, have been as successful as those who have transacted the same business at the railway.

The only official action of the town we have been enabled to find, was, that at a public meeting held January 25, 1826, a committee of fifteen of the most influential citizens was chosen to confer with the Legislative Committee, and instructed to favor or oppose this project, if in their judgment it would prove favorable or unfavorable to the interest of the town. The following gentlemen were chosen the committee, viz: Hon. Thomas Greenleaf, Edward Miller, Esq., Josiah Bass, Isaac Riddle, Esq., Hon. Thomas B. Adams, George W. Beale, Elisha Marsh Noah Curtis, Josiah Adams, Josiah Brigham, Frederick Hardwick, Daniel Greenleaf, John Souther, Henry Wood and Edmund Billings.

The opposition to this important object did not seem to have been very successful, as an act of incorporation was granted it by the Legislature, and was approved on the fourth of March, 1826. The company, as soon as sufficient capital could be procured, was organized by making choice of Col. Thomas H. Perkins, President.

The railroad was built during this year, but not without much delay; the estimated cost was one hundred thousand dollars. This was the first incorporated railroad in America. It was not until the twenty-seventh of March, 1827, that the contract for the transportation of stone was made. By this contract the company agreed to carry, during the year 1827, three thousand tons of hewn granite.

This great internal improvement grew out of a project of constructing a monument on Bunker Hill in commemoration of a great historic battle fought on this eminence at the c ing of the American Revolution.

WELLESLEY NEEDS HELP.

The appeal that is now being made to those interested in higher education for women all over the country in behalf of Wellesley College ought to meet with an immediate and satisfying response says the Providence Journal. Wellesley has endeared herself to the people of New England and of many other communities as an institution of learning for young women, always standing in the front rank and invariably sane, intelligent and progressive in her methods.

It is a time of great need, and prompt and generous giving is vitally necessary in order to allow the college to continue its great work.

A benefit performance is to be given at Quincy Music hall April 24, under the auspices of former students of the college. It is is to be a vaudeville and dance. The long list of patronesses augurs well for its financial success.

Fred S. Gore, penal institutions head whose salary was recently cut by Mayor Curley of Boston, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. His liabilities are $48,245 and his assets $17,400.

FEEDING BABY CHICKS.

Improper feeding kills more chicks than disease. A baby chick is a baby inside as well as outside. They cannot thrive on the same food as older fowls and it is foolish to expect it.

The demands of a chick's system are different from those of an adult. Chicks eat in order to grow bone and muscle, to develop and strengthen inside and out. Old fowls use food to produce feathers, eggs and energy. A hen knows this. Bugs, seeds, worms, a bit of tender green and a piece of sparkling grit for the chicks; for herself, a gorging on grain and mash. For the chicks, variety, for herself quantity.

Lack of vitality due to inbreeding, imperfect artificial incubation or brooding, and the spread of such chick diseases as "white diarrhea" cause great losses; but we must emphatically state that improper feeding has been a greater cause of loss than any of the foregoing.

Investigation of the feeding question reveals two great faults, the first of which is lack of quality. Mouldy and musty grain, finely ground to hinder examination; screenings and cleanings lacking in nourishment and unfit for food; both have been sold as "chick foods." The result death. The remedy—buy reliable products from reliable dealers. There are plenty of them.

The second fault, selling goods improperly compounded is just as serious, perhaps more so. Here knowledge means success. Improper feeds make chicks of low vitality, slow development, useless breeders. For variety we copy nature; grains, corn, wheat and oats to furnish proteins, carbo-hydrates and fats; shell meal and bone meal to secure bone development; for tonic, gentian, ginger, pepper, simulate bits of nature's pungent barks and herbs; serving to tone up and prepare the growing internal organs; millet, rape and caraway take the place of seeds of field and wood. The feeding experiments at the Pratt Experiment Station, where thousands of chicks are annually raised, have resulted in the production of Pratts Baby Chick Food, an article which is about 75 per cent mechanically predigested, is sterile, and composed only of ingredients of the very highest quality, and on the lines laid down above. As a result, "Chick Mortality" has been cut down tremendously, and those dreaded enemies of the poultry-man, the various chick diseases are no longer troubling the poultry raiser who is taking advantage of Pratt's Baby Chick Food for baby chicks produced by the Pratt Food Company as a result of the work done at the Pratt Experiment Station.—J. W. Keller.

ALABAMA PRIMARIES

Early Returns Give Underwood Slight Majority Over Hobson

Birmingham, Ala., April 7.—Returns from the Democratic primaries are coming in slowly. According to scattering unofficial returns Congressman Underwood is leading Congressman Hobson for the long term in the United States senate by a few votes in the precincts heard from.

The three-cornered contest for the Alabama short term in the United States senate will probably rest betweeen Ray Rushton and Frank S. White, who have out-distanced Watt T. Brown.

Former Governor Comer is leading in the gubernatorial contest. His nearest opponent is Charles Henderson. R. F. Kolb is running third.

Mrs. Eddy, Wanted In Siegel Case, Marries Again and Disappears

Boston, April 7.—Mrs. James S. Brown, formerly Mrs. Diana E. Eddy, wanted as a witness in the Siegel case, for whom District Attorney Pelletier is prosecuting a vigorous search, with the assistance of the Boston and Providence police and Pinkerton detectives, has made her second clean getaway from summons servers.

Not only that, but Mrs. Eddy secured a husband during the time that police and detectives were on her trail and got a two days' start for "somewhere" before the searchers were aware that she contemplated leaving them behind. All that they know is that she slipped out of Providence for a honeymoon, accompanied by her husband.

Mrs. Eddy was married in Providence at noon Saturday, by Rev. George E. Hathaway, at his home, to James S. Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, for both of whom summonses have been issued in Boston, are supposed to be now on their way to Europe or on a trip to the South Atlantic.

DECLINES TARIFF OFFER

Canada Against Free Admission of Wheat to United States

Ottawa, April 7.—An increase of import duty on a number of iron and steel schedules was announced by Finance Minister White in his annual budget speech to the Canadian house of commons.

The offer of the Underwood tariff, now in force in the United States, for the free admission of Canadian wheat, was refused. The present American tariff gives free admission to the wheat and flour of any country that admits free of duty these articles from the United States.

White announced that his government believed in protection for the farmer and would therefore continue the Canadian duties in these schedules.

FORE RIVER CHANNEL

Mayor Curley Interested in Its Improvement

A dispatch from New York says that Mayor Curley, has been in that city several days conferring with army engineers concerning the proposed improvement of the Weymouth Fore river and main ship channel in Boston harbor.

In an interview with Mayor Curley, he said that he had obtained from Col. Frederick V. Abbott of the engineer corps, before whom must come all waterway projects on the eastern coast, his approval of a plan for using a portion of the $60,000,000 unexpended appropriation allowed by the last Congress for the improvement of waterways in dredging and widening the Weymouth Fore river channel.

The Rivadavia, the Argentine battleship built by the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation at Quincy, had great difficulty in getting from the shipyard to the lower harbor, according to Mayor Curley, on account of the channel's shallowness.

"Col. Abbott," said Mayor Curley, "has consented to regard with favor a plan for using a part of that unexpended appropriation to clean up the bed of the channel. I also took up the subject of obtaining an appropriation sufficient, in the light of the commercial development of Boston, to improve the channel connecting with the main ship channel into Boston Harbor.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR SERVICE.

Quincy commandery will attend Easter services at the Wollaston Congregational church next Sunday afternoon, by invitation of Rev. Dr. Sneath, chaplain of Wollaston Masonic lodge. Wollaston lodge has also been invited. Quincy commandery will take a special car from City Square at 3.30 for Wollaston and lines will be formed at the corner of Beale street and Newport avenue, from which point Wollaston lodge will be escorted to the church. The service will be held at 4 o'clock.

FOR ELEPHANT FUND.

The party held at the home of Mr. Leavitt on Ocean street, Atlantic by Frank Leavitt, Jr., and Alton Westhaver, proved to be most enjoyable to the children attending and very successful in its object, to raise money for the Elephant Fund in Boston. The entertainment was provided by Alton Westhaver who operated the moving picture lantern assisted by Harry L. Damon. The ushers were Frank Leavitt and Arthur Hayford, and the matrons Mrs. Frank Leavitt Mrs. Charles H. Grocott and Mrs. H. J. Bahe. Quite a sum was raised from the sale of fudge and pop corn and the morning was one which will be remembered, long by the little folks who now own part of the elephants which will soon be in Franklin Park.

CHURCH AND CHOIR

HALL PLACE M. E.

Sunday was a red letter day at the Hall Place M. E. church. At the morning service, seven persons were received into the church in full membership, and nine were received on probation. In addressing these persons the pastor gave to them the watchword "First," emphasizing to those being received into full membership, that they must put the Kingdom of God first, in questions which come up, as their course of action, they are to "seek first the Kingdom of God." His advice to the probationary class contained the same watchword "First" taken from the words of Paul, "they first gave themselves." The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was observed after the reception of members.

Miss Bessie Nichols led a very impressive League service at 6.15, subject: "Being glad in God himself."

At the evening service the choir repeated some of the music at the "Old Folks' concert." The pastor spoke on the text, "And Pilate said, What shall I do with Him which is called Christ?"

Prayer meeting Friday evening at 7.30.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The musical program at the Sunday morning service was most appropriate for Palm Sunday, inasmuch as it consisted of Mozart's "Theme," Schneckers "Postlude on D," Faure's "Palms" upon the organ, and Faure's "Palm Branches" by the chorus choir. "The guest chamber" was the subject of the sermon, based on the question in Mark 14:14, "Where is my guest chamber?" The idea emphasized was that, as in the Jewish household the guest room was the best in the house, so Christ wants our lives, our hearts in which to live as an honored and invited guest.

Interest in the Juniors is still keen, although the contest is closed. The date for the Junior banquet is not yet announced. At the consecration meeting of the senior Young People's Society was held at 6 in the chapel. The leader was Miss Marion Porter.

"A question which concerns the whole family" was the subject of the evening sermon. There was music by the chorus choir, and duets by Mrs. Walther and Mrs. Drew.

Tuesday evening at 7.45 a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Forsyth, 25 Rawson road, Norfolk Downs.

Thursday evening, at 7.45, the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony will be held in the chapel. Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott will give an address. The pastor will speak at Bethany Congregational church.

Friday evening, the annual business meeting and guests' night of the Nearer and Farther Lights Society will be held in the chapel.

Friday evening, at 7.45 a praise and preaching service will be held in Community hall, Montclair.

Baptisms will take place Easter Sunday evening at 7 o'clock.

TALKING AT DINNER.

A Chinese Suggestion That One Person Should Do It All.

As a rule, a dinner conversation is seldom worth remembering, which is a pity. Man, the most sensible of all animals, more readily leans to nonsense than to rational discourse. Perhaps the flow of words may be as steady as the eastward flow of the Yangtzekiang in my own country, but the memory remains only a recollection of a vague, undefined—what? The conversation, like the flavors provided by the cooks, has been evanescent.

Why should not hostesses make as much effort to stimulate the minds of their guests as they do to gratify their palates? What a boon it would be to many a bashful man sitting next to a woman with whom he has nothing in common if some public entertainer during the dinner relieved him from the necessity of always thinking as to what he should say next! How much more he could enjoy the fine dinners his hostess has provided—and as for the woman, what a number of suppressed yawns she might avoid!

To take great pains and spend large sums to provide tasty food for people who cannot enjoy it because they have to talk to one another seems a pity. Let one man talk to the crowd and leave them leisure to eat is my suggestion.—Wu Ting Fang, Late Chinese Minister to United States, in Harper's Monthly.

CLOVE APPLES.

Spicy Odored Ornaments That Were Once Quite Common.

The manufacture of clove apples, common in the days of our grandmothers, is very simple. You can take an apple, the rounder and sounder and bigger the better, and into it stick cloves as thickly as possible, with only the heads showing and forming a close continuous surface all over. Put it in a drawer or on a mantelpiece or whatnot, and time will do the rest.

The clove apple becomes dry and curiously hard, maintains its form perfectly and acquires an approximation of immortality—if carefully protected, of course, from accidents and children. The latter, if memory serves, were wont to annoy the grandmothers of clove apple days by decapitating the cloves or, if especially mischievous, by working at one of them till it came out whole. Either achievement, when discovered, as it always was soon, caused indignant oratory always and "wrong stories" not infrequently.

The exact purpose of the clove apple, whether it was valued as a curio or as the source of a pleasant, spicy odor, the present commentator does not remember, if he ever knew. In value, however, it ranked well up with the shells brought from foreign strands by seafaring husbands and sons, and both were about equally durable.—New York Times.

A Busy Man.

A customer of a large downtown tailoring establishment was getting service out of a suit of clothes he had not paid for. Statement after statement was sent to the customer and finally a letter informing the man that unless he paid his bill the matter would be put in the hands of the company's attorney. That awakened the customer. He hastened to the store and demanded to see the head of the company. He asserted the only reason for not paying the bill was that he had been so busy with other affairs that he had overlooked his debt to the tailoring company.

"Why, see here," he emphatically told the president of the company, "just to show you how busy I have been I brought this telegram along. I got that telegram day before yesterday, but I haven't had time to open it yet."—Minneapolis News.

Domitian Swatted Flies.

The original "swat the fly" man was Domitian, Roman emperor from 81 to 96 A. D. History records little good of Domitian, but it does say that he anticipated the anti-fly movement by more than 1,800 years. Maltreating the buzzing pests was his favorite amusement, it is recorded, but he was not animated by a desire to save babies' lives or avert epidemics.

One biographer says of the old Roman that "one of his favorite pastimes was hunting and killing flies," and Suetonius, the famous historian, wrote thus of Domitian: "In the beginning of his reign he used to spend daily an hour by himself in private, during which time he did nothing else but catch flies and stick them through the body with a sharp pin."—New York Tribune.

Rail Splitting.

Finished splitting the winter's rails—about sixty. Have never been able to determine whether they split best from top or butt. Sometimes one succeeds, sometimes the other. In splitting posts the usual plan is for the men to face each other, one slowly advancing while the other backs away and the blow of each into the cleft loosening his partner's ax.—From "A Farmer's Note Book."

Curious Water Supply.

RABBI WISE AT WOLLASTON

betterment, race improvement. Eugenics means simply that no child ought to be born save such born into a home of parents fit to be parents, and able to maintain it decently and adequately.

You live in Utopia here, but in New York today any two persons, male and female, may be married if together they are possessed of a dollar to secure a marriage license. They do not even have to have enough to pay the minister. The only indispensible thing is the dollar. I often wonder if there in any reason for them to be married, except that they are unmarried.

Eugenics will mean ethical and spiritual consideration of all problems involved before couples are married and become parents. I do not believe in the magic and mystery of eugenic law, but in 50 years a great many persons will be forbidden that are allowed to be married today.

It will mean the development of a eugenic conscience that will effect a tremendous gain on the human race. First must come the eugenic conscience. Then we will not ask, What has he got? What is he worth? But what is his worth?

Eugenics will help the approach of one great common inviolable moral standard. That is the greatest gain. However tolerant and lax we my be in some things we owe a future to the unborn child. Moses was right when he said "The sins of the fathers will be visited on the children even unto the third and fourth generation."

CHILD IN LABOR.

Referring to the child in industry Rabbi Wise said: There is no virtue in having passed fine child labor laws here, if through northern capital and money power the Southern States are debauched. "Wireless sin" as called by Professor Ross, may be committed a thousand miles from the physical being. He is morally as guilty as if the wrong were done in his actual presence.

Child labor may be sectional, but the right of the child not to work is national. The term child worker is a paradox. It is the first right of the child not to work, just as the first right of man is to work.

Some say we musn't paternalize the state. I want to see the state maternalized. The state must safeguard the lives of its children. I do not care that we rival England in super-dreadnoughts and fighting armament, so long as no nation is ahead of us in a social program for the deepest welfare of the nation.

SOCIAL PROGRAM.

It was Jane Addams that said we were 45 years behind England in our social program. We have got to change it. We must keep children out of industry. We must stop dumping them into that blind alley from which is filled over and over the vast army of the unemployed. For the sake of the child, we must not fling it into the maws of industry in youth, That is reason enough.

We are in America. We are in a democracy, and democracy means that every life counts. The business of a democracy is to magnify the life of every man, woman and child within it.

All parents and all teachers agree that teaching is a simple matter. The requirements are simple. They are preparation and consecration. What is preparation? It is the never ceasing task of fitting oneself for the ever increasing task of teaching. Consecration is a sense of the sacredness of the teachers calling. There is no calling more sacred than that of the teacher. That of the minister is not a whit more sacred. Henry Van Dyke said "the teacher is the worst paid and best rewarded."

SOCIAL SERVICE.

The vast field of social service should be carried into the soul where it belongs. The teacher should be the social servant of the state and the republic.

I want more for the teacher. I want more from the teacher. In New York teachers are not treated half decently. Men and women begin on $240 or $280 less than the policeman, and it has been faintly intimated that there are sources of income available to the policeman that are not to the teacher.

We have no right to treat the teacher badly. Thousands do not receive their entitled worth for service and ability.

I ask more for teachers than an increase in salary. I ask for a new attitude of reverence for the teacher. Among my people, no one is so prized and reverenced as the teacher. They are called the builders—the upbuilders of the life of the child.

What we ask of the teachers, is that they emancipate the child—liberate him. That they efficacize the life of the child. That they set the child on the high road of moral self discipline.

To the teacher I would say, insist on tse child. Desist from thyself. The office of teacher is to magnify the personality of the child. Don't repress the child. Help the child to express himself. I would rather see a first rate Tommy Jones than a seventh rate imitation of Abraham Lincoln. Remember that the class room is a democracy, not a despotism.

Parents ask of the teachers too much. In a short time they cannot counteract the influences of the home and the outside world. The school and the home, the school and the city, the school and the nation, must co-operate. It is not fair to charge the public schools with a failure that is the rseult of the whole of American life.

A WARNING.

Some say the sequel will be, to take it out of the hands of civic authority and turn it over to religious bodies I warn you that if the public school passes out of civic into religious authority, the fundamental institution of our American republic will be ruined. (Applause.) The American republic rests on the altar of the public school. (Applause.)

The school must become more and more in moralizinz the life of the child. There should be a system of ethical instruction. Education should form and reform, not simply inform. We should not keep out of the schools all that makes for the aggressive and moral force of the nation.

If I were to name the faults of this broad land of ours, I would say intellectually we were gregarious, and ethically not sufficiently gregarious.

We think together in hundreds of thousands. We can't think together in morals. It means loss of the power of reason. We have got to think for ourselves. We have got to help our children to think for themselves. It is more important for us to help them work out their own salvation, than to try and save them. We can't save them.

Gregariousness is emphasized. We are Ishmalites morally. Ethically we must stand alone. Educationally and morally together are two things we must learn. If teachers and parents work together we will have it so.

IN CONCLUSION

Teachers, yours is the task to mould, stimulate, to moralize and spiritualize the child of today that is to be the man and woman of tomorrow. Said Oliver Wendell Holmes "Teachers of teachers, yours the task. The noblest of noble minds may ask."

Teachers! Alone you may do much! Teachers and parents together may do everything!

Rabbi Wise was loudly applauded on his conclusion, and an opportunity for questions was given, which was not taken advantage of.

Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham the secretary announced a Mother's meeting in the school at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of April 24 in the interests of the free kindergarten.

Principal Goodspeed announced the decision of the playground committee. A supervised playground will be put in force afternoons from 3.30 to 5.30 between May and July first. During July and August it would be operated full time.

This will call for $200 for expenses, and $150 to $200 for apparatus. An active campaign will be inaugurated immediately to rise the necessary $400.

A nominating committee to bring in a list of officers at the annual meeting was elected, composed of Charles E. Goodspeed, H. B. L. Dimmick and Mrs. Robert E. Park.

SWEDISH REPUBLICAN CLUB.

Oscar S. Sandberg former, tax collector, was elected treasurer of the Swedish American Republican Club on Saturday night. Congressman Sidney Anderson of Minnesota, the speaker of the evening, asserted that the South rules Congress and through its caucus of 291 Demorrats nearly dictates the present legislation. He said that 14 Southern states have 38 of the 59 important chairmanships, and closed by asking for a merger of of the Republican and Progressive parties which differ only on personal questions he said.

AN APPEAL FOR "THIRD CLASS"

The Associated Charities Doing a Great Work

Editor Daily Ledger:

The spring is with us, and we start in with fresh resolutions to make the coming year, for each one of us, a shade better than the last.

We should carefully consider our line of conduct in all directions, especially in relation to our expenditures for the benefit of others, rather than ourselves. It is an excellent motto that, "Every Little Bit Helps", but in these times it is wise to give that little here and there with all possible prudence. So, that being the case, we cannot expect any large contribution from any single individual in forwarding so worthy a cause as is that of the Associated Charities of Quincy.

This letter is written to urge upon the thoughtful, a proper consideration of its worth and its place as a dispenser of our little charitable fund.

Society is split into three or more divisions in our city, i.e.—those that are well to do; those that are struggling to maintain a certain standing in the community; and those that are falling into the third rank are those that need help.

We are everlastingly hearing about those matters that will bring success: "Everlastingly at it", "Concentration", "Efficiency", "No waste effort". Many philosophers declare that these things, one or all of them, will bring success, but against all of this it can be said, that chance or luck, or circumstances beyond your control, and poor mental and physical equipment, may come in to cause failure; so that it can be said of a multitude that come into the third class, that they are largely preordained to lack success.

Now here is the chance for the benevolent, through the able Secretary of this Association, to dispense some money in real charitable work. Work that will bring comfort of body and mind to those that today are certainly sufferers. That "It is more blessed to give than to receive" has been said before, and the reactionary effect upon the individual who gives something for this cause will increase his self-respect and give him at least the feeling that the world is a little better for his having lived in it.

It is to be hoped that those who take the trouble to read this letter will have their impulses quickened a little, to lend a hand at this time, when funds are especially needed to lay out the work for the ensuing year.

Treasurer.

Giles and Erickson are leaders in the pinfall, having 561 to 554 by Sturgis and Lemon.

The first steps in formation of the Manufacturers base ball league were taken Saturday night when representatives of nine firms met at Boston to complete the preliminaries for the fastest semi-professional league in Massachusetts.

The teams represented were Fore River shipbuilding Corporation of this city, General Electric Co. of Lynn, United Shoe Machinery Co. of Beverly Norwood Press of Norwood, C. H. Bird & Sons of Walpole, T. Carter & Co. of Needham, N. E. T. & T. Co. of Boston, Thomas G. Plant & Co. of Jamaica Plain and the Gilette Safety Razor Co. of South Boston. L. A. Kirkman of the General Electric was temporary chairman and W. C. Hogardg temporary secretary.

Th promoters of the league believe that by starting May 9, playing Saturdays and holidays, the maximum number of games that can be played will be 24.

The General Electrics of Lynn have secured the New England league grounds at Ocean park for the season. The Fore River team expect to play either on Merrymount Park or the Old Colony grounds.

The league has the backing of the firms represented, and it is intended to present a good article of base ball. No league in which out of town teams compete has existed in this city for several years.

A valuable trophy will be given the winner, and Joseph M. Larkin, director of the Fore River team, has called practice for Tuesday night to look over the prospects of the cup coming to this city.

Permanent organization of the league will be effected at a meeting in the rooms of the N. E. T. & T. Co. on Oliver street, Boston, next Sunday.

ODD FELLOWS CAN BOWL SOME

Anniversary Candidates Must Take More Degrees

The Anniversary candidates of Mt. Wollaston lodge I. O. O. F. were defeated by the "Regulars" in a close and exciting bowling match at the Coliseum alleys on Monday night.

The spectacular finish of Hallquist gave the Regulars the nine pins needed for victory. The Regulars opened up a lead of eight in the first single, and then the Anniversary men took the lead. The third string was nip and tuck, up to the last man, when Hallquist shot a strike and got pins enough on his drop to jump his score and the game. His first single of 110 was high string in the match and he had the high total with 293.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

"A Leap of Despair" is the name of the most thrilling and sensational picture ever shown at this popular playhouse and the big audience last night was immensely pleased with the production. It is an Italian picture in four powerful parts and deals with a daring young woman who rides a fiery steed in the circus. Many scenes of breathless interest are shown as the picture progresses but the thrill of thrills is near the end of the photo play, where the young lady, unnerved by jealousy, falls with her horse during her mid-air exhibition. She is not fatally injured however, and the accident serves to bring back the erring husband and so the picture ends happily. The two comedy pictures were very amusing and created no end of laughter. Vaudeville attractions were first class, as usual. This show will continue afternoons and evenings today and Wednesday. In the new show coming Thursday a fetching feature will be the second section of the American's great $25,000 continued story in pictures "The Perils of Pauline."

LANSING'S JOB STIRS COMMENT

Washington Is Wondering If Some One "Put One Over"

TALK OF FORMER POSITIONS

Bryan's New Adviser Said to Have Been Counsel For Huerta Government and Figured In Boxer Indemnity Claims, Receiving, With His Father-In-Law, the Sum of $180,000

Washington, April 7.—The discovery that Robert Lansing, newly appointed counsellor for the department of state, was until recently attorney in Washington for the Huerta government, and that his father-in-law, former Secretary of State John W. Foster, at present holds that position, has been made and is causing considerable interest in Washington.

Under the law, Lansing, as counsellor for the department, becomes acting secretary of state in the absence of Bryan, and would naturally handle the Mexican problem on behalf of the United States.

All Washington is asking whether some one has not "put one over" on the secretary of state and President Wilson.

Lansing's name was sent to the senate on March 20 and confirmed last week. His connection with the Huerta government was not disclosed.

Nor was it brought out that Lansing and his father-in-law, with whom he was engaged in a law business, received $180,000 from the Chinese government in the settlement of the Boxer indemnity claims of the United States against China, a transaction which was sharply criticised at the time.

Lansing was also counsel for private interests in the Venzuelan asphalt dispute some years ago, on affairs which developed into an international scandal and led to the downfall of Castro.

Lansing has resided in Washington for years, and has been employed in many international negotiations, both by private interests and the United States government. In 1890 he married Miss Eleanor Foster, daughter of the former secretary of state, who had been minister to Mexico and Russia, and at the time was special plenipotentiary to negotiate reciprocity treaties with certain nations.

In 1892 his father-in-law was appointed secretary of state, and Lansing was appointed associate counsel for the United States in the fur seal arbitration. He was counsel for the Mexican and Chinese embassies in 1900-1901.

UNION OFFICIALS HELD

Must Answer to Indictments Charging Them With Murder

New York, April 7.—The arrest of Morris Strupnicker, secretary and treasurer of the Cloak and Shirt Makers' union, revealed the fact that he and two other officers of the union had been indicted for murder in the first degree.

Max Sigman, first vice president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' union and president of Local 35 of the Cloak and Shirt Makers' union, was arrested under these indictments. A third arrest is expected shortly.

It is charged that Strupnicker, Sigman and a third man caused the death of Herman Liebowitz during a cloak makers' strike in this city.

HOPE ABANDONED

Now Appears Almost Certain That Southern Cross Has Been Lost

St. John's, April 7.—Although the steamship Kyle searched a long time for some traces of the missing sealer Southern Cross, no sign of her has been found and it is now believed certain the vessel foundered with her crew of 170 men.

The belief is growing here that the Southern Cross may have rounded Cape Race before the storm of last week reached its height and was dashed upon the rocks in that vicinity. A search of that part of the coast has been ordered.

CLEAN-UPS BY BURGLARS

Get Away With Substantial Sums In Boston and Cambridge

Boston, April 7.—Three burglars overpowered the two watchmen in the dry goods store of Timothy Smith & Co. in the Roxbury district, blew open the safe and secured a large sum of money in bills. There was about $200 in silver in the safe, but the burglars overlooked this.

Burglars got into the 5 and 10-cent store of the F. W. Woolworth company, Cambridge, and, smashing the safe, carried away between $1000 and $1500 in money.

REBEL PURSUIT IS CHECKED

Next Fight In Mexico Is Scheduled For San Pedro

PLACE IS WELL FORTIFIED

Small Federal Force Left to Defend It While Velasco's Main Body of Troops Moves to Saltillo—Officials at Mexico City Say Huerta Troops Still Possess Torreon

Torreon, Mex., April 7.—Rebel pursuit of the federal army of General Velasco and of the large number of federal sympathizers who accompanied the army from Torreon has ceased at San Pedro, twenty-eight miles from Torreon.

The federal force, with the exception of a small command sent back by Velasco to check the rebel pursuit, has moved on toward Saltillo.

Velasco, it is believed, had left San Pedro, but, finding the route difficult, adopted the plan of sending back a force to hold the rebels in check until he could put greater distance between his main force and General Hernandez's rebel cavalry.

General Villa ordered reinforcements to San Pedro, and unless the garrison left there by Velasco surrenders, the rebels will attempt to exterminate it.

The town is well fortified and the small federal garrison probably could hold out for a time against such force.

A big task still confronts Villa in Torreon, where conditions are desperate. The city must be made sanitary at once, or wholesale deaths will result, epidemics already having started as the result of the many bodies left in the sun.

Food, too, is scarce in Torreon and among the thousands of townspeople there is acute suffering.

Prominent people are doing heroic work among the sick and wounded and while there is a scarcity of surgeons others are enroute.

General Carranza has endorsed appointments made in Torreon by Villa. These are Andreas Ferrias, to be president municipal, and Jesus Acuna, to supervise the appointment of minor officials there.

Ferrias was the chief witness, it is said, before the Carranza commission in the Benton case and his testimony was largely responsible for the exoneration of Villa by the commission.

TELEGRAM SEIZED

Consul's Report to Bryan Declared to Have Been Untrue

Mexico City, April 7.—The Mexican foreign minister, Senor Rojas, says the Mexican government intercepted a telegram from George C. Carothers, the American consular agent at Torreon, to Secretary of State Bryan, declaring "it advisable to persist in the statement that Torreon had fallen, though such was not the case, in order to prevent the government from getting reinforcements to the aid of Velasco."

This, said the foreign minister, was the reason for the withdrawal of Carothers' exequatur.

In making this announcement the minister appeared to be fully convinced that the federals were still holding Torreon. He said President Huerta had told him so, which information he did not doubt.

The war department announced the receipt of dispatches from the customs agent at Piedras Negras, reporting that Generals De Moure and Maas, at the head of their forces, had entered Torreon. These generals were recently reported to be at San Pedro, where they were meeting with strong opposition from the rebels.

POLICEWOMEN VALUABLE

Can Handle Certain Cases Better Than Men, Says Woman Judge

Philadelphia, April 7.—Women police are necessary in large cities for the protection of women and girls, according to Mary L. Bartleme of Chicago's juvenile court, the first woman judge in the United States, who spoke before the Civic club here.

The women police in Chicago, said Judge Bartelme, have greatly aided the work of the juvenile court there, because most of the girls are brought in for offenses against morality, which cases a woman can handle better than a man.

THE KISS STEALER

He Was Very Adroit In His Thefts

By F. A. MITCHEL

The railroad, like everything else, is a development. The first rails were strap iron on wooden beams. The first car was a stagecoach, then several stagecoaches together mounted on wheels. Then came the passenger car of the present day, only much smaller. When these cars were pulled through a tunnel the passengers were left in total darkness. Indeed, the lighting of railway cars passing through tunnels is a feature of recent years.

When Tom Arnold was about to return to college for his sophomore year he was asked if he would escort a little girl who was going in the same direction to boarding school. Tom didn't like being burdened with the care of a "little girl," but he couldn't very well decline. When he saw his charge he didn't mind taking care of her so much as he had thought he would. Lucy Atwood was fourteen years old, but tall enough for a girl of sixteen. She was very demure and appeared to be utterly devoid of conversational powers. Her protector, having reached the advanced age (to her) of eighteen, probably filled her with such awe as to prevent conversation with him.

But if Miss Atwood was tongue tied she was very pretty. There is nothing more delicate, to a young man especially, than a pair of pink coral lips. Lucy's complexion was as soft and downy as a peach, and her lips were a combination of beautiful curves. Tom couldn't keep his eyes off them. He was young and a sophomore in college, a combination that can occur but once in a man's life. His thoughts, his arguments, therefore were sophomoric:

"I have been burdened with the care of a tongue tied kid without recompense. It behooves me to look out for my own reward. I don't know any payment that would suit me better than just one kiss of those lips. In half an hour we'll get to the tunnel. It requires three minutes for a train to go through it, and one can do a great deal in three minutes."

This was the basis of a plan Tom formed. Before reaching the tunnel he would go into another car, first noting the exact position of his charge. As soon as the train plunged into darkness he would re-enter, make his way to where Lucy sat, take the kiss and retire. Some time after the train had emerged into the light he would go back to his seat, yawn, take up a newspaper and begin to read as if unconscious of anything eventful having happened.

It was a very pretty scheme, but more tempting to a youngster of eighteen than to a full fledged man. There was one thing about it, however, that Tom didn't like. The kid had been placed in his care, and he didn't consider it quite honorable to avail himself of the situation to take what didn't belong to him. But the more criminal the act, the more horror attached to being found out, the more attractive the scheme.

Tom sat looking sideways at those lips, before which every vestige of honor faded. Nevertheless as the train approached the tunnel his courage began to fail him. What an awful thing for him to do! But how nice! Suppose the girl should scream and some one should grab him! The very thought gave him the shivers. But he was at an age when the greater the risk the greater the temptation. He fell, and great was the fall thereof.

He had often been through the tunnel and knew the approaches well. Some ten minutes before the train reached it he told his charge that he would go into the smoking car for a while if she didn't mind sitting alone. She said she didn't, and Tom, having noted that the seat was the third one from the door on the right, left the car. He didn't smoke, fearing that the odor of tobacco would give him away. He sat looking out through a window, a prey to numerous emotions.

When the train entered the tunnel, summoning all his resolution, he hurried into the car he had left and counted the seats on the right by putting a hand on each till he came to the seat required. Folding Lucy in his arms, he took the desired kiss. There was a smothered cry, followed in a few moments by the sound of an opening and closing door, then no other than the rattling of the train.

When daylight came again several passengers who sat near Lucy looked in her direction for an explanation of the cry they had heard. She gave no indication of anything unusual. She was wiping the dust from her face with her handkerchief. She would remove a portion of it, look at the smudge it had made on her handkerchief, then rub off some more, scrutinizing it also, especially in one corner.

Some twenty minutes after the train had left the tunnel Tom Arnold came back and sat down beside his charge. Had Lucy looked him in the face she would surely have seen signs of guilt which, despite his efforts, he was unable to conceal, but she was looking out through the window and did not give him a glance.

Tom was delighted with the success of his scheme. It was not the kiss that pleased him, for to have enjoyed that he should have been intent upon it rather than on committing a robbery. It was the fact that he had carried out his scheme without having been detected. He wondered that Lucy made no mention of the stolen kiss, but a very young and delicate miss might feel abashed at communicating such a thing to a young man.

When the journey was ended and Tom left his charge at the door of her school he looked scrutinizingly into her eyes to see if he could detect any evidence of her suspecting him. She returned his gaze with a childlike simplicity that reassured him, and he left her feeling very comfortable.

* * * * * * *

One June morning, when the trees, the flowers and especially the roses were in bloom, a young man who had been invited to spend a week end at the country place of a friend sauntered out on the veranda in negligee summer costume, plucked a rose, sniffed it, put it in the buttonhole of his flannel coat, descended the steps and strolled about the grounds. Having examined the tennis court, the stables and other features of the place, he sauntered toward a hedge, which was just the height to enable him to look over it. In the adjoining grounds was a pagoda, in the pagoda a hammock and in the hammock a feminine figure. But whether the lady was old, middle aged or young he could not see. He thought he would like to satisfy himself on this point. Walking back and forth along the hedge, he looked for an opening. At length, finding a place where the hedge was thinner than at others and stooping, he wormed his way through, though when he reached the other side his costume was somewhat disarranged.

Brushing off the dirt and straightening the hang of his clothing, he sauntered toward the pagoda. There was no movement of the figure in the hammock, and, the morning being warm, he fancied the occupant might be asleep. He had no business in the grounds, but he was a venturesome fellow, with no end of resource and assurance, and had an excuse ready in case he met any one. Drawing gradually nearer to the pagoda, he finally reached a point near enough for him to see a lady asleep in the hammock.

She was young—about twenty—and fair to look upon. She seemed to be sleeping so soundly that the young man drew nearer, even to the steps of the pagoda. There was something in the face of the sleeper that seemed familiar to him. He thought that he had seen her before, then that he had not, vibrating between these two opinions, at last deciding that he had not. One feature especially charmed him—the lady had a very kissable mouth.

For a young man to stand looking at a young lady asleep with a kissable mouth is dangerous—not so dangerous to the young lady as the young man, for there is certainly no harm in one being kissed who doesn't know of the fact. But the young man taking that which does not belong to him is liable to the consequences of his rash act. Then suppose the lady is awakened by the process! Such a contingency would naturally strike terror into any sensitive man.

The watcher drew nearer and nearer on tiptoe till he reached the hammock, then, bending over the sleeper, in one of the alternate risings and bendings finally lightly touched the lips with his. The sleeper slumbered on. Not a muscle twitched. The young man was tempted to take another, but suddenly the abyss on which he stood occurred to him, and, turning, he tiptoed away to the opening of the hedge and passed through. Then he began to wonder at the recklessness, the folly, the awfulness of what he had done.

When he untied his scarf at dressing for dinner that same evening he missed a stickpin surmounted with a horseshoe that he had worn during the day. He wondered how and where he had lost it. Then he remembered working his way through the hedge. He must have dropped it there. He was tempted to go out and look for it, but he had barely time to dress for dinner, so he must needs put off the search till morning.

When he went down to dinner whom should he see but the girl he had kissed in the hammock. He was seized with a terrible fright, but on being presented to her she gave no evidence whatever of ever having seen, met or heard of him before. He was assigned to her for a dinner companion, and by the time they were seated at table he had regained enough of his equanimity to remark that it had been a very hot day, that he hoped it would be cooler tomorrow and that he feared the summer would be an oppressive one.

However, the lady made it easy for him by being agreeable, and he gradually forgot that if she knew how he had robbed her she would despise him. After dinner the company strolled out on to the veranda and spent the evening under the moonlight amid the fragrance of roses. The thief of the kiss quite recovered from any qualms of conscience and was glad he had done it, especially since the girl had not awakened.

On Monday the young man took an early train to the city. When the postman arrived during the afternoon he brought a small package addressed to Thomas Arnold, Esq. Opening it, the recipient took out a handkerchief, in one corner of which were his initials and a stickpin with a horseshoe mounting.

Arnold sank down in a chair, with a moan.

He saw it all. When he had kissed the girl in the tunnel she had snatched his handkerchief from his pocket. She had since grown to be a young lady, and after he had kissed her a second time she had found his stickpin under the hedge.

Her Last Words a Battle Cry For the Cause She Represented For Several Years—Head of National W. C. T. U. and Vice President of World Organization

Portland, Me., April 7.—Mrs. Lillian M. N. Stevens, national president of the Women's Christian Temperance union, and vice president of the World W. C. T. U., died at her home here after an illness of several weeks with kidney trouble.

Mrs. Stevens' last public words were the following comment when told of Secretary Daniels' sweeping order for prohibition in the navy:

"It is splendid," she said. "It is another step forward toward nation-wide prohibition for which we are so earnestly working."

Mrs. Stevens, who was born in Dover, Me., seventy years ago, continued to the last the temperance work to which she had devoted most of her life. Her mind remained clear, and late last week she was able to dictate correspondence in connection with the work of her office. With her when the end came were her husband, Michael Stevens; her daughter, Gertrude S. Leavitt; and Miss Anna Gordon of Evanston, Ills., vice president of the National W. C. T. U.

At conventions of the World's Christian Temperance union at Geneva, New York and Boston, Mrs. Stevens, as vice president at large, presided in the absence of the president. Her ability as a speaker and worker for temperance first became widely recognized in the campaign of 1884, which placed the prohibitory amendment in the Maine constitution. She had been president of the National W. C. T. U. since 1898.

Several years ago she was awarded the honorary degree of master of arts by Bates college.

Mrs. Stevens' last active work was a trip to Washington last December in the interests of the movement for a prohibitory amendment to the federal constitution.

Mrs. Stevens taught school in early life and married in 1867. She assisted in organizing the Maine W. C. T. U. in 1874, and was its treasurer from 1874 until 1877, and has ever since the latter date been its president.

Mrs. Stevens acted as vice president of the National W. C. T. U. from 1894 until 1899, and on the death of Miss Willard became acting president of the national organization.

OLD VETERANS CONVENE

Bay State Grand Army Men Are In Session at Boston

Boston, April 7.—The forty-eighth annual encampment of the Massachusetts Grand Army of the Republic opened this morning in Faneuil hall.

While the Grand Army were convening, the Massachusetts Woman's Relief Corps encamped in Shawmut church and the Sons of Veterans met in Tremont Temple.

There will be no contest in the election of a state commander. Senior Vice Commander Edward O. Skelton, it is expected, will be unanimously elected.

"RAILROADED TO PRISON"

Plea In Behalf of Dynamiters Who Are Seeking Pardon

Chicago, April 7.—Blank petitions charging that the officials of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' union, convicted of dynamiting, were railroaded to prison" were circulated by labor men here.

They will be forwarded to President Wilson in the hope that he will pardon them. The movement is expected to spread throughout the country.

MYSTERIOUSLY MISSING

Timberman Had Much Money With Him When Last Seen Alive

Keene, N. H., April 7.—Local authorities express the conviction that John W. Bush, a well-to-do timberman of Hillsboro, who disappeared March 24, met with foul play.

Bush on the day mentioned left his home to visit some of his timber land to show it to a prospective buyer, who was a stranger here. At the time, his family says, he had between $1200 and $1500 on his person.

PASSES SECOND READING

Motion to Reject Home Rule Bill Is Lost by Eighty Majority

London, April 7.—By a majority of eighty, an amendment for the rejection of the home rule bill was defeated in the house of commons last night, and without division the bill was given for the third time its second reading in the house.

The speeches were generally much more conciliatory in tone than those which marked the bill's earlier passages.

At two previous sessions of the present parliament the bill was passed through all its stages, and now it only requires the formal third reading in the present session to make it the law of the land in accordance with the provisions of the parliament act which stipulated that the bill, in order to escape the veto power of the house of lords, must be passed in three successive sessions of parliament.

DANIELS' "DRY" ORDER

It Is Not Pleasantly Welcomed by Officers In the Navy

Washington, April 7.—Secretary Daniels' order barring the use of alcoholic liquors in the navy, effective after July 1 next, was generally discussed in naval and other circles here.

While declining to discuss for publication the effect of the order, naval officers privately expressed the belief it may fail of its purpose—to prevent or decrease drunkenness within the navy. In effect, the order does no more than abolish the wine mess.

When asked to comment on the order, President Wilson said it was strictly a department matter. It is understood the president was not consulted by Daniels before he issued the order.

GABRIEL A WITNESS TO GUILTLESS LIFE

Pastor Price Calls Upon Angel to Testify For Him

New York, April 7.—Declaring that charges made by women of his congregation of improper approaches by him are untrue, Dr. Jacob E. Price, pastor of the Washington Heights Methodist Episcopal church here, took the stand in his own defense before an ecclesiastical court in the Methodist Temple.

Price, discussing his case, called upon the angel Gabriel to witness to a guiltless life. He declared he had never in his thirty-eight years of ministry done anything of which he was ashamed.

The committee trying Price will report its findings to a Methodist conference, now in session here.

LINEMEN SHOCKED

One Is Killed and One Revives While In Undertaker's Rooms

Hartford, April 7.—David Horan, a lineman, was instantly killed near Southport, while working on the Stamford to New Haven extension of the New Haven road's electrification system and his body was terribly burned.

In Portland, a short time afterward, Carl Lundell of Silver Lane got a dose of 2300 volts through his body and some time later, when his body had been taken to an undertaker's rooms for an examination, he revived, sat up and soon afterward walked home.

His fellow workmen were so overcome by the afternoon's rapid developments that they quit for the day.

AMENDMENTS TO COMPENSATION ACT

Committee of Legislature Will Report Several Changes Favorable to Employees

Maximum Compensation for Death Is Increased

(Special from State House.)

Representative George P. Drury of Waltham, chairman of the sub-committee that was appointed to draft a new bill embracing the amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act submitted this bill to the general committee on Tuesday.

In executive session, the general committee accepted the redrafted bill with the exception of a clause relative to the designation of physicians by the injured employees. The committee finds that under the new bill of every one dollar paid in insurance premiums, sixty cents will go to the employee and forty cents to the company. Under the bill now in effect but 32 cents is paid to the employee as a result of accidents. The insurance companies protest that the adoption of the clause relative to physicians will incur a much heavier expense. Because of that protestation, the committee will give further consideration to this feature of the new bill.

The following extracts indicate the important features of the new bill.

"If death results from injury, the association to pay the dependents of the employee a weekly payment equal to 66 2-3 per cent. of his average weekly wages, but not more than $10 or less than $4 a week, for 500 weeks from the date of injury.

"In the event of total incapacity, the compensation shall be 66 2-3 per cent. of his average weekly wages, but not more than $10 or less than $4 a week and in no case shall the period covered by compensation be greater than 500 weeks, nor the amount more than $4,000.

"While the incapacity is partial, the compensation shall be 66 2-3 per cent of the difference between his weekly wages before the injury and the weekly wages he is able to earn thereafter but not more than $10 a week, nor for more than 500 weeks, nor for more than $4,000."

For the loss of both hands or feet damage to vision, or for other injuries to members of the body, the new bill provides the same period for which compensation shall be paid as exists under the present law, but the rate of compensation is increased from 50 per cent. to 66 2-3 per cent. of the average weekly wage.

Provision is made for the appointment by the Industrial Accident impartial physicians to examine the injured employee who makes claim for compensation.

The maximum compensation for death is increased to $4,000. If the employee leaves partially dependent persons, the claims shall be paid in comparison to the assistance that the employee gave those persons. When weekly payments have been made to

CHAS. GANZEL PASSES AWAY

Was Base Ball Player of National Prominence

Charlie Ganzel after one of the most stubborn fights any man ever made against that most dreaded disease, cancer, died about midnight at the home of his daughter at 332 Billings road, Norfolk Downs. His illness has been a long one, and although he underwent several surgical operations seeking relief, it never came. He was a great sufferer but was cheerful until the last.

Last winter when his circumstances became known, his old time base ball friends started a fund for him, and over a thousand dollars was raised.

Charlie Ganzel, who gained a reputation as a catcher in the Boston National club, was born in Waterford, Wis., June 18, 1862, and has been a resident of Quincy for many years and interested in local base ball.

His first professional engagement was with the Minneapolis club in 1884, as first baseman and change catcher While there he caught Carruthers, formerly of Brooklyn.

In 1885 Ganzel signed with the Philadelphia club and made his debut in the National League. Manager Harry Wright engaged him as a catcher and he remained with Philadelphia that season and part of 1886.

In 1886 he was purchased by the Detroit Club. He was not long with Detroit before he showed a marked improvement in his work. He was a fine thrower and had a wonderful reach.

Owing to an injury to Bennett during 1886, which necessitated his retirement, Ganzel caught to the entire satisfaction of the management. He played with Detroit in 1888. In November of that year he, Richardson Dan Brouthers and Bennett were sold to the Boston National Club for $25,000.

That was the largest sum paid up to that time for four ball players and Boston obtained plenty of good advertising as well as four players who became head-liners in the National game.

It was in the Fall of 1888 that they came to Boston. Ganzel remained with Boston for nine years. He then went into business for himself. He continued playing ball with strong independent teams around New England, now and then coaching teams.

When the Players' League took nearly all the star players from the old National League, Ganzel remained with the Nationals. He, like Tom Daly and a few others, acted honorably, however, as he refused to sign an agreement to go with the Brotherhood.

Ganzel did his full share of his catching on the Boston team, often filling in at first base. He was also a sure man in the outfield. He was a deliberate and accurate thrower to bases, a rangy backstop with a sure pair of hands.

He was always a great lover of the National game, and after making his home in Quincy he became interested in the local ball teams, particularly the Makaria and he did much to make the sport clean. To his advice and assistance the team owes much of its success on the diamond. He also, several years ago, with several others helped form a base ball league in which Quincy teams were represented, but the venture was never a financial success.

He married Miss Alice M. Carter of Dubuque, Iowa, Feb. 8, 1885, in Minneapolis, and a daughter and five sons survive him, four of his sons have made enviable records as ball players.

He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and of the Makaria class of Bethany Congregational church.

WOLLASTON TRUST COMPANY

Prominent Men Appear in Favor of New Bank

A hearing on the proposed Norfolk Trust Co. at Wollaston was held at the State House this morning before the Bank Commissioners. Charles H. McIntire appeared for the petitioners. No one appeared in opposition.

Mr. McIntire said it was a mivement primarily of the business men and citizens of Wollaston and that it was intended to have a capital of $100,000 with a surplus of $20,000. He said he stock would be sold at $120. He spoke of the rapid growth in population in Wollaston and of the increase in Ward five and six property values. He said Ward five had $6,550,000 and Ward Six had $4,474,000, out of the some $30,000,000 assessed real estate valuation of the city. If the personal property value was added he said the sum would reach about $12,500,000.

He said Quincy's two banks were the same that existed 24 years ago when the assessed valuation of the city was $7,000,000 as against that of today. He said the bank could depend on a deposit of from $75,000 to $100,000 and that $60,000 would represent business and $40,00 personal deposits.

He also read the various endorsements of the Board of Trade, Wollaston Citizens' Association, and local business men favoring the project.

Mr. McIntire read a letter from Herbert E. Curtis, connected with the Mount Wollaston bank, in which he stated that he would act as treasurer, which contained his endorsement as a man conversant with business conditions.

George Taylor of Wollaston, a member of a Boston contracting concern, said the bank would receive the business of the section and was sure of success.

Charles W. Bailey, vice president of the Boylston National Bank, said he favored it and that the people organizing it were not a "fly by night promoters," but permanent residents and business men and that a reason for the need of a trust company in Wollaston was because they do business in Boston and would give a portion of their banking to the new company.

Chester I. Campbell said he thought it would be of great help to the citizens of Wollaston and Atlantic.

Charles L. Gilliatt, president of the Norfolk Iron Works, called attention to the high class of residences in Wollaston and Norfolk Downs, and said there were but few three deckers. Many personal accounts, he said, went to Boston that could be attracted to the new enterprise, and numerous stores and contractors would take advantage of the banking convenience.

Albert N. Murray of the firm of Murray & Emery of Boston, said he was at first skeptical, but had since decided it would be a most successful proposition. He instanced the fact that a physician had told him that nine out of ten checks tendered in payment by patients were drawn on Boston banks, and he felt sure the deposits within a year would put the institution on a profitable basis.

HOW THE ASSESSORS VALUE ADAMS STREET

Many Estates Taxed by the Acre, and Some Land Valued at Less Than One Cent Per Foot

Only Two Lot West of Railroad Valued at 20 Cents; Much Below 10 Cents

It is said that the Mayor and Assessors of 1914 propose to increase the assessed value of the large estates of the city, particularly the undeveloped lots which are available for residences or business. The letters of G. B. Bates before the city election called attention to the water frontage, the railroad property, the granite quarries, the shipyard and other corporations. Attention was also called to the "white plague" or the large white spots on the map of Quincy, like those on Adams street and in the Furnace Brook parkway between Wards One and Five.

The Daily Ledger has been requested to itemize the land values on Adams street, and presents below the assessed value of every lot on the street from Hancock street near the Adams Academy to the Milton line, as made by the Asessors of 1912 and published in the Valuation book.

As far as possible the Daily Ledger presents the facts and figures without comment. Often times there are reasons why adjoining estates should be assessed at different rates. Some land is high, well drained and attractive; while other land is low and perhaps swampy. It is not for the Daily Ledger to say that the assessments are too high or too low, but all are referred to the taxpayers generally to compare with their own assessed values.

The Porter estate at the junction of Hancock street is the highest per foot, 24 cents; while the next highest is a lot owned by the Citizens' Gas Company at the Milton line which is assessed at 23 cents. Between the Adams Academy and the Presidents bridge there are seven estates valued at 20 cents or over, but west of the railroad there are only two estates valued as high as 20 cents, one the estate of Mrs. Helen B. Emery at 20 cents and the other the Gas Company lot at 23 cents.

On the southerly side of Adams street, 18 of the 25 estates are valued at less than ten cents, and three of these less than one cent per square foot.

On the northerly side of Adams street, there are only three estates valued as high as ten cents, while many acres are assessed as low as two cents.

It should be kept in mind in studying the summary below, that the assessed values of 1912 are given, and that the price per square foot has not been carried out to decimals; that the fraction if any may be a little over or under. Ie represents considerable patient work on the part of the Daily Ledger which taxpayers should appreciate. Correspondence for publication is invited.

Wonder at what hour of the evening Father Wilson closes up the White House courting parlor?

"Tuberculosis Sunday" is a good idea, but a tuberculosis jail day for some of these fellows that spit on the sidewalk would be still better.

With whole libraries of spring poems, and bacon at fancy prices, many of our versifiers are still blind to the romance to be found in raising hogs.

The Mexican people apparently desire constitutional government, provided the right of free and unlimited murder is sacredly preserved.

The New York Sun is to move out of its 103 years old building, but of course they will still continue to write the editorials on Mr. Dana's kitchen table.

Many newspapers will soon be getting personal interviews with Mr. Roosevelt on his trip, by giving some smart reporter copies of "The strenuous life," "African game trails," and a guide book to South America.

WHERE ARE THE DOCTORS?

Management of medical schools are expressing some alarm as to where the future supply of physicians is to come from. It is a profession that was formerly regarded as overcrowded. Yet figures just made up show only 17,015 medical students in this country now, against 27,615 ten years ago.

The financial outlook is not very encouraging to the young doctor. He can go back in some country town, in which there happens to be a gap, and work up a practice in the arduous life of driving about the country roads. Or if he goes to a city of some size, he may have to sit around his office many years until he attains a recognized standing. He may get the business in less time if he has social gifts which give him prominence. But it is a ticklish thing to turn social relations into business ties.

Apparently a great many young men of scientific habit of mind, who used to become doctors, are now turning their attention to electricity, engineering, and other technical lines.

HOME RULE.

The English have always spoken slightingly of American statecraft. John Bull has not merely sneered at our political corruption, but he has regarded the United States constitution as an amateurish job.

Nevertheless, the fathers of 1787 did create a political principle which after a lapse of 127 years the statesmen of England seem just waking up to adopt That is the federal system, the combination of state control of local matters with federal control of national matters.

The grandeur of the structure builded by the American fathers appears in sharp contrast with the way England has bungled the Irishquestion Great Britain is a compact group of peoples, subject to about the same climatic, physical, and economic conditions throughout. There are racial differences. Yet these do not begin to be as sharp and antagonistic as those dividing the American people. Yet the English people, who ought therefore to be compact and harmonious, are full of internal hate and bitterness for failure to apply to Ireland the principle of the federated system.

The United States contains the most heterogeneous conglomerate of races and religions ever assembled under one flag. It covers so vast a territory that the economic interests of different sections are often sharply antagonistic. In some particulars, the social systems of the various sections differ widely in their origins. A cruel civil war and a badly bungled reconstruction created bitterness.

Yet in spite of all, our people live in as great a degree of peace and quiet as is possible under the limitations of human life. And all because the fathers were wise enough to let each locality solve its own problems. All this has been going on under the eyes of England's lordly rulers for 127 years. They are today just beginning to see the application, and to talk about a federal system to quiet Ireland and Ulster!

ALL OUT SOUNDED TWICE

Fortunately Real Fire Was Not Serious

There was a little mixup in the sounding of the fire alarm at 12.18 this morning, due to two boxes being pulled about the same time and the miscounting of the box by the Houghs Neck apparatus. Box 39 was the first pulled and about the same time Box 138 was pulled. The two boxes came in all right, but the driver of the apparatus at Houghs Neck counted the box at 116 located on Centre road and Darrow street and responded to that box. On his arrival he found no fire but the door of the box open. Thinking that it had been a false alarm he sounded two blows, the recall. This confused the firemen at the fire somewhat.

The fire was in the barn of Edward J. Lennon, the Board of Health Inspector, on Liberty Square, South Quincy. The fire started from some unknown cause in a bundle of hay, and was quickly extinguished by the firemen with a chemical stream. The loss will not exceed $10. The recall for this fire sounded shortly after 12.30.

NEW LOT FOR CLUBHOUSE

Town River Yacht to Purchase on Mound Street

The first steps in the proposed expansion of the Town River Yacht club was taken at a meeting at the clubhouse Tuesday night at which it was voted to purchase a lot of land on which to erect a clubhouse.

The lot contains 53,600 feet and is on Mound street. Its dimensions are 100 feet by 536 feet and it offers full opportunity for the erection of a suitable clubhouse. Plans and specifications will be submitted to the members as soon as possible, so that there will be no unnecessary delay in commencing building.

It was also voted to recognize the power boat squadron, which action makes official the record marks made in the annual races against time and for the Mellen cup.

CHILDREN MUST ATTEND SCHOOL

Truant Officer Charles H. Johnson is getting sharp after parents who persist in neglecting to send their children to school, and four were in court this morning. Luigi Fella was fined $20 for repeatedly refusing to send his child to school. Peter Haggertu had his case continued until June 27, promising to comply with the order. INFLUENCED HIS WIFE

Caillaux May Be Tried as Accessory In Calmette Murder

Paris, April 8.—The question whether Joseph Caillaux, former minister of finance, may be charged as an accessory of his wife in the assassination of Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro, is the subject of general discussion in the newspapers.

The publication of the testimony of President Poincare, indicating that Caillaux had at least influenced his wife's action, has given rise to the suggestion that he may be brought into the investigation as an accomplice.

SENT TO FEDERAL PRISON

Sterling Company Officers Guilty of Using Mails to Defraud

New York, April 8.—Seven former officers and agents of the Sterling Debenture company received prison sentences of from three to six years for using the United States mails to defraud investors in the stock of enterprises promoted by their corporation.

The heaviest sentences, six years, were imposed upon George H. Middlebrook, first vice president of the company; Frank Schumaker, a former president, and Henry H. H. Platt, a minor officer.

Benjamin C. Mudge, president of the Oxford Linen mills of North Brookfield, Mass., received a four-year term. Three-year sentences were imposed upon Wilbur M. Stone, Elwyn A. Barron and W. S. Edwards.

The seven defendants were found guilty by a jury in the federal district court, after a long trial, at which they tried to prove that Mudge's process to make flax yarn from flax straw at an enormous profit was all they claimed for it, and that they were engaged in a bona fide stock-selling campaign.

CHANDLER ARRESTED

"Million-Dollar-Kid" Defendant In Wife's Suit For Separation

New York, April 8.—Byron Chandler, the Million-Dollar Kid, did not attend a theatrical performance last night, as he intended. Instead, Chandler acted as host of Philip McDonnel and Louis Zeltner, deputy sheriffs, at the Waldorf-Astoria.

The deputy sheriffs made the acquaintance of Chandler through the order of arrest which they served on him in a suit for separation which Mrs. Grace L. Chandler, known on the stage as Grace La Rue, brought against him. After McDonnel and Zeltner placed Chandler under arrest he was unable to obtain the $25,000 bail required, and Sheriff Grifenhagen permitted the prisoner to go to the Waldorf on assurance that Chandler's mother in Manchester, N. H., would arrange for the bail today.

COURT DISMISSES FEDERAL COAL SUIT

Will Probably Be Carried to the Supreme Court

Trenton, April 8.—The United States court filed an opinion here dismissing the suit of the United States government against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway company, and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Coal company, for alleged violation of the commodities clause and the Sherman anti-trust law.

The court holds there is no United States law or decision prohibiting the same set of individuals holding stock in two distinct corporations, even though they may be engaged in kindred business.

The case is considered of the highest importance by the government, as it is one of the steps planned by the department of justice in its efforts to break the anthracite coal trade. The case in all probability will go direct to the supreme court of the United States.

HEAVY LOSS IN TEN MONTHS

Quincy lodge, Loyal Order of Moose, will hold a memorial service in memory of their departed brothers in Electa hall on the afternoon of April 19, and a committee appointed at a lodge meeting in Electa hall on Tuesday night is completing the arrangements.

Quincy lodge, probably, more than any other in the city, has been visited oftener by the grim reaper, for in the past ten months their charter has not been undraped, 17 having passed away.

The lodge has extended invitations to the Junior Order of Moose and Ladies' Circle to attend the service.

The installation of officers will take place in Electa hall on April 21 and preparations are being made for a large attendance.

Not Triplets.

My little grandson was told by his mother to run across the street and inquire of a lady who was going by with three little babes in a cart if they were triplets. He soon came back, looking much disappointed, and said: "No, they are not triplets. They were born the same day, but two of them are girls and the other one is a boy." —Exchange

MOTHER TELLS

How Her Little Girl Was Restored to Health.

Mrs. Charles Schriefer of 139 Himrod street, Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "My little girl was frail, sickly and all run down after having had the grippe. I was advised to give her Vinol and after the first bottle noticed an improvement. She has taken four bottles and has picked up rapidly, having gained six pounds in three weeks."

The reason Vinol builds up weak, ailing children so quickly is because it contains in a delicious combination the two most world famed tonics—i. e., the strength creating, body building elements of cod liver oil, with all the useless grease eliminated, and tonic iron for the blood added. If you have a weak, punny, ailing child, try Vinol on our offer to return your money if it fails to benefit your little one. Edward J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

TAKE YOUR SHOPPING SERIOUSLY

It takes judgment to make the family purse do its full measure of service in these days of high prices.

The wise woman takes her shopping seriously and spends her money carefully.

She seeks the best advice she can get, and nine times out of ten she finds it in the advertising columns of live newspapers like The Quincy Daily Ledger.

She reads the advertising daily and keeps posted on what the stores are showing. If some fortunate turn in the market presents an unusual opportunity she is ready to take advantage of it.

She markets as carefully and with as much knowledge of the situation as her husband would show if he were buying a piece of real estate.

Advertising is a business education to the modern woman. It is her ready reference book.

She verifies the statements made in print from time to time and she soon becomes an expert on What's What and Who's Who.

CHILDREN'S GARDENS.

The Civics committee of the Quincy Women's Club has started upon the work of children's gardens. Fifteen hundred envelopes containing the seeds ordered for the children have been distributed through the various schools in the city. Last year there were 900 children's gardens and the prospects are for a larger number this year.

What did those 900 gardens mean to Quincy people? This! That, there were 900 children at work during the last summer vacation at some healthy helpful, happy occupation. Instead of playing all through the summer they were doing something useful, something which would make them better fitted for life. They were producers. They were helping their fathers and mothers and they were helping the city. Many of these gardens supplied the family table with peas, string beans, lettuce, radishes, corn, tomatoes, and other garden stuff. Besides the vegetables the children had pretty flower gardens which made their homes attractive.

FOR WELLESLEY COLLEGE.

An appeal in behalf of Wellesley college as follows appeared in a recent issue of the College News:

"On March 17, 1914, College hall, the centre of college activities was destroyed by fire. At a meeting of the board of trustees, held March 30, to consider the whole situation, it was finally voted to appeal to the friends of Wellesley college, and to the friends of education throughout the country for a fund of $1,800,000 to replace facilities afforded by College hall."

In response to this appeal Quincy young women who call Wellesley their Alma Mater are to give an entertainment at Music hall Friday evening, April 24, in aid of the "Wellesley college building fund for which they hope to have the loyal support and patronage of the people of Quincy and surounding towns. Miss Irene Dasha, 372 Washington street and a long list of patronesses are receiving subscriptions, and there promises to be a large attendance.

PLAN SUMMER OUTING.

Clubwomen all over the country are planning a summer outing which shall take in the biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs at Chicago, from June 9 to 19. The fact that women from California and the other Pacific States, from Texas, Florida and the New England States, are to make this journey to the middle West, shows that the inducements must be very great. Two years ago Illinois sent nearly 100 delegates to San Francisco, and now California is trying to do even better than that and send more than 100.

Mrs. James W. Orr, president of the California federation, is very energetic, and under her direction the clubs are working to introduce vocational guidance and training in the public school system, She is an ardent advocate of the federation, believing that the self-centered club has no relation to the great movements of the day which mold and determine collective activities of clubwomen.

Mrs. Harry L. Keefe of Nebraska, recording secretary of the general federation, hopes to take a large delegation with her to the biennial. She is especially interested in village and country, and she says that the greatest task she sees before the clubs today is to learn to use wisely and constructively the great power that has been created out of the scattered atoms of force all over the country.

By indefinitely postponing prohibition of shows in Memorial hall, the Dedham town meeting favored "movies" Tuesday night. The objection is principally in the use of the hall for a private business enterprise.

SPORT NEWS

"Putt" Kelly, known to Quincy fans because of his connection with the champ Quincy A. A. basket ball team, has signed with the Lansing, Mich., team in the Western league and leaves in a few days. He will play an infield position. Last season he played in the Provinces and attained a fine record. His brother "June" has practically retired from base ball and is now a member of the Boston fire department.

"Bull Moose" Brown has recovered from the effects of a broken nose and is ready to play base ball. It is probable that he will again play the outer garden for the Orients, one of the fastest amateur teams in the city. Brown arrived this winter as a basket ball player and is rapidly developing into a fast base ball player.

Paul Poehler, in a 10-string match against Brennan the Ipswich champ. rolled a single of 155 at Ipswich Tuesday night. He beat Brennan 1152 to 1075. Poehler's last string of 95 was the only one less than 100. His next opponent will be Harry Cole who lost to Archie Walsh, Poehlers partner in tandem matches, 1076 to 1008 Tuesday night.

GAS MEN HIT THE PINS

Office Force Win from the Gas Fitters

The Citizens Gas Light Service Club met at the office of the company Tuesday night, and after an interesting talk on gas stoves and a lecture on cooking by Mrs. Herzig, the company's demonstrator, they adjourned to the Coliseum alleys for the first of the bowling matches in the triple series for an elaborate trophy in the form of a large silver cup, upheld by three ten pins, set on a mahogany base.

This cup is a donation from the Citizens Gas Light Co., to the Service Club to be contested for between the office force and the gas fitters. Asst. Gen. Manager William B. Nichols, whose interest in the welfare of the club is reciprocated by the employees, manifests much enthusiasm in the series.

The office corps opened by taking the first of the series, 1235 to 1170, a margin of 65 pins. Muir of the winners had high single 105 and best total of 277.

POST OFFICE CARRIERS WIN

The Post Office Clerks, although defeated 3 to 1 by the Carriers at the City Square alleys on Tuesday night, need but one more point to take the title of champion in the Federal league. The standing now is 20 points for the Clerks, and 16 for the Carriers. A clean-up of all four points in the final match next Tuesday night by the Carriers will tie the teams.

The match was very interesting to a large gallery of fans. The first two singles of the Carriers were 425 each, margin enough ahead of the Clerks to allow them the third single without forfeiting the total.

The rivalry for high string honors between Devlin of the Carriers and Joyce of the Clerks resulted in a feather for Joyce's cap, since he was the only man on both teams to pass a century. High record single made by Superintendent Hammond early in the season remains unbroken, likewise the 303 total mark made by Devlin last week.

FUNERAL OF T. A. MEAD.

The funeral of Tilson Anderson Mead, a former principal at the Adams school of this city, and the 32 years connected with the Boston public schools, was held Tuesday afternoon at 74 Elm Hill avenue. William R. Knoz, C. S. B., officiated at the burial services in the Hingham Cemetery chapel.

In the assembly hall of the Chapman school where Mr. Mead was master for 20 years, memorial services were held. A large portrait of Mr. Mead, draped with an American flag was on the platform and the exercises were directed by William A. Read, a former master of the Lincoln school of Quincy, now acting master at the Chapman school, and a former pupils of the Mr. Mead.

All referred to him as an excellent companion and spoke of his qualities as an educator, friend and citizen. Taps were sounded after the services closed with the singing of "America."

MICHAELS WIN FROM O'NEILS

But Latter Continue in First Place in League

The O'Neils and the Michaels teams that have jockeyed all season for first place in the Clan MacGregor league clashed in the regular matches at the Coliseum alleys Tuesday night, and the latter gave the former an unmerciful trouncing, taking the totals by 114 pins. The good showing of the O'Neils in their first team single gave them the point which prevented Michael's quintette from tieing them for first place. The finals will be rolled Tuesday night.

Dell, in keeping with a custom, inaugurated a month ago, of smashing a record in every rolloff secured a three string total of 350. He missed cracking O'Neil's single string record of 144 by seven pins. Dell's third single was 128. Had he rolled as brilliantly in his second as the first and third, he would have put a record on the shelf for many moons.

Peter Morton, the veteran bowler, closely pursued Dell, but stopped on 340. Peters' high was 127 and followed a single of 120. His first was 93.

McKenzie also started a mild flirtation with a giant score, but he only reached 311, which nevertheless was far ahead of the majority of scores made by the other bowlers. The standing is;

GUNMEN'S DAYS ARE NUMBERED

Death Sentence Will Be Carried Out Next Week

NO DOUBT OF THEIR GUILT

Declaration of Court Officials Influences Governor In Refusing to Grant Commutation or Reprieve of Men Convicted of Slaying Rosenthal Concerning the Becker Case

Albany, April 8.—Governor Glynn last night refused to either commute the death sentence of the four gunmen who were convicted of slaying Herman Rosenthal or to grant them a reprieve until after the second trial of former Police Lieutenant Becker. They now must die by electrocution in Sing Sing prison some time next week, probably Monday.

The court of appeals, in denying their motion for a new trial, set the week of April 13 as the time for their execution. The exact date is fixed by the warden to suit the convenience of himself and his assistants.

It would have been a miscarriage of justice to have granted commutation and an improper exercise of executive power to have granted a reprieve, the governor said in a statement. The case of the four gunmen does not depend in the least on the result of the Becker case, he continued, and no evidence has been offered him tending to show that there is any reasonable probability of anything developing in the second Becker trial which would change the result reached in the gunmen's cases.

The full names and nicknames of the condemned men are: Frank Cirofici, "Dago Frank;" Harry Horrowitz, "Gyp the Blood;" Louis Rosenberg, "Lefty Louie;" Jacob Seidenshener, "Whitey Lewis."

Included in the governor's statement were the texts of letters he received from Supreme Court Justice Goff and District Attorney Whitman, who acted in the case. Both men strongly opposed the granting of a reprieve.

The district attorney declared that "to delay or prevent the execution of the just judgment of the law against them would, in my opinion, tend to destroy the sense of security which every law-abiding citizen should feel."

The justice declared there was no doubt as to the prisoners' guilt.

More than 1000 persons have been made destitute by the loss of fathers, brothers and sons in the disaster.

BOXING AT FAXON HALL

The Quincy A. A. held another amateur boxing tourney for members only in Faxon hall Tuesday night. Harry McLathey of Cambridge beat John Reynolds of this city in the 115-pound class, and James Flynn of Everett beat Joseph McDonald of Cambridge in the 135-pound class.

The final in the 125-pound class between Martin Zeolie of Clapp Memorial of Weymouth and Leslie Mack of Boston was declared to be no contest by the referee, because both men were stalling.

The special between Johnny Noonan and J. J. Sullivan, who took the place of Howard McRae because an injury to his ear prevented him from competing, was the event of the evening. Although Noonan outclassed his opponent he found him a game boy. Sullivan left the ring amid an outburst of applause such as is seldom tendered a boxer.

The officials were John Norton, Forest Hills, referee; William Prout, Irish American A. C. and Charles J. McHugh, Quincy A. A., judges; James Brogan, Quincy A. A., timer; J. Webster McDonald, Quincy A. A., announcer.

GALLIVAN WINS AT BOSTON

Carries Every Ward In District In Congressional Contest — Wilson's Choice In New Jersey Defeated by Republican—Alabama Fight Won by Underwood by 25,000 Majority

Chicago, April 8.—Early estimates indicate that between 75,000 and 100,000 of the 217,614 women voters eligible to vote here went to the polls for the first time and cast their ballots in the aldermanic election.

The male voters, of whom 455,283 were registered, voted in about the same proportion.

None of the nine women aldermanic candidates was elected.

Except in the First ward, where Miss Marion Drake had made a spectacular campaign against John ("Bathhouse") Coughlin, the women candidates polled only a small fraction of the women votes. The indications are that Coughlin won by about four to one.

Numerous charges of irregularities in voting were made to the election commission by Miss Drake's campaign managers.

GALLIVAN'S VICTORY

He Easily Defeats His Two Congressional Opponents In Hub

Boston, April 8.—Street Commissioner James A. Gallivan swept all before him in the special election held to fill the vacancy in congress from the Twelfth district caused by Mayor Curley's resignation.

He carried every one of the seven wards in the district, polling 1143 votes more than the vote of his two opponents, James B. Connolly, Progressive, and Frank L. Brier, Republican, combined.

The vote was extremely light, the weather and the fact that it was a bye-election combining to keep the electorate away from the polls. Two years ago 70 percent of the registered vote went to the polls. This year about 40 percent of the registered voters took the trouble to cross a ballot.

Gallivan had attacked the Wilson administration stand for the repeal of the free tolls on the Panama canal for American coastwise shipping.

WILSON'S CHOICE BEATEN

Next Congressman Fom New Jersey Will Be a Republican

Paterson, N. J., April 8.—The Republicans gained and the Democrats lost a seat in the house of representatives as a result of a special election in the Seventh New Jersey district.

Dow H. Drukker of Passaic was elected congressman to succeed the late Robert L. Bremner, by more than two to one over James J. O'Byrne, a Democrat, personally endorsed by President Wilson and aided by some of the foremost campaign speakers at the call of the national administration.

Drukker made his fight on a platform opposed to the legislation wrought by the Wilson administration, while O'Byrne called upon the voters of the district to send him to congress as a token of their approval of the president's policies.

UNDERWOOD FOR SENATE

Defeats Hobson by About 25,000 In the Alabama Primaries

Birmingham, Ala., April 8.—Oscar W. Underwood won the senatorial nomination over Richmond P. Hobson in the Democratic primary by approximately 25,000 majority. Official figures are lacking, as the count is very slow owing to the long ballot.

Both Hobson and Underwood will retire from the house March 4 next, Underwood entering the United States senate and Hobson retiring to private life.

Frank S. White was nominated as the short-term senator to succeed the late Joseph F. Johnston.

Former Governor Comer, anti-railroad man and prohibitionist, received a plurality over his three opponents for the gubernatorial nomination.

KITCHIN'S AMBITION

Wants to Be Leader of House Upon the Retirement of Underwood

Washington, April 8.—Oscar W. Underwood's election to the senate will not change the Democratic house leadership before March 4, 1915.

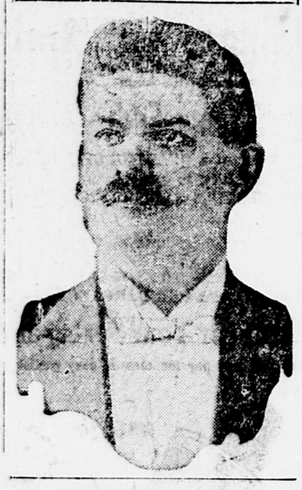

Meantime, Representative Kitchin of North Carolina has secured what he says are more than enough pledges to assure him the Democratic leadership in succession to Underwood and the chairmanship of the ways and means committee, if the Democrats retain control of the house in the next congress.

Aged Pastor Resigns

Medford, Mass., April 8.—After serving forty-five years as pastor of the First Unitarian church, Rev. Henry C. DeLong resigned last night and was elected pastor emeritus. He is 80 years old.

DUMB FOR MONTHS

Fright Unexpectedly Restores Voice to a Young Woman

Rockport, Mass., April 8.—The unexpected sight of a strange man in the house frightened Miss Sophronia Lowe into the recovery of her voice, which she had lost as the result of a heavy cold last Thanksgiving day.

Miss Lowe, who is 15 years of age, occupies half of a large house. She had not seen the tenant of the other half and when she met him on her way to the attic, she screamed.

As she had been unable to articulate a sound for nearly five months, her scream was even more surprising to her than to the man. She has had no difficulty in talking since her fright.

CONFERENCE FINDS PRICE IMPRUDENT

Pastor Sentenced to "Be and Hereby Is Admonished"

New York, April 8.—"Guilty of imprudent and unministerial conduct," was the verdict of the court of the New York conference of the Methodist Episcopal church against Rev. Dr. Jacob Price, defendant on charges made by women members of the congregation.

It was the judgment of the elect committee that "Dr. Price should be and hereby is admonished," as a result of his conviction.

The court did not find Price guilty of acts sufficiently flagrant to demand a change of pastorate, for in the list of changes for the ensuing year Price retains his Washington Heights pulpit.

TWO BANDITS KILLED

Four Pals Get Away With $1000 After Robbing a Bank

New Hazleton, B. C., April 8.—Two bandits were killed here in a battle between a band of robbers and a large posse of citizens after the robbery of the Union bank of Canada branch. Six men held up the bank and four took $1000 in cash. A posse is pursuing them.

The shooting alarmed the town, and several cowboys got their pistols into play at once. Within a few minutes the fusillade was general. Shooting from cover, the cowboys shot two of the robbers dead in their tracks as they ran toward the bush.

HELD FOR WIFE MURDER

Starratt Hacked Woman to Death as She Lay In Bed

Malden, Mass., April 8.—Charles F. Starratt, 45 years old, who killed his wife, Elizabeth, with an axe, razor and jackknife as she lay in bed at the family home in Everett, was held without bail for the grand jury by Judge Bruce.

Starratt did not seem to take any interest in what was going on about him. The two oldest of his eight children, Ethel, 15, and Howard, 14, were sworn as state witnesses, but were not called.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Le Fave Arraigned For Killing Miss Frost and Her Employer

Peabody, Mass., April 8.—George W. Le Fave, who killed Pearl M. Frost, his 20-year-old sweetheart, and Walter P. Hills, her employer, was arraigned in the local court.

He pleaded not guilty and was held without bail for the grand jury. He pleaded in a calm manner and appeared unmoved.

Life Term For Slayers

St. Albans, Vt., April 8.—William Dennis and Elmer Rushlow, who killed Chin Kim, while robbing his store, were sentenced to life imprisonment. They pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree.

Bryan's Cold Is Better

Washington, April 8.—The condition of Secretary of State Bryan, who is suffering from a severe cold, is much improved. He remains indoors, however.

GUITIERREZ IS AFTER REVENGE

Rebel Chief Prepares Machine For Decapitating Federals

CAROTHERS AGAIN IN JUAREZ

Disputes Velasco's Excuse For Evacuation of Torreon—Says Huerta's Troops Held Every Position In City Up to Time They Were Loaded on Trains—Caring For Spaniards

Juarez, Mex., April 8.—The guillotine has made its appearance in Mexico, and a new form of execution confronts the enemies of the constitutionalists in San Luis Potosi.

At Concepcion del Oro a home-made guillotine has been erected. It was built by rebel machanics in the corps commanded by General Guitierrez, who is now in this city conferring with General Carranza.

Already the new instrument has been tested and, as the general says, "it works splendidly." The test was made with a lamb as the victim.

Desire for revenge is responsible for the appearance of the guillotine in Mexico. Guitierrez' brother-in-law, Jose Morales, was killed some time ago in battle against the federals near Saltillo. The family of Morales, including an infant daughter and Guitierrez' sister, were living in Saltillo. The federal commander arrested the relatives of Guitierrez, placed them aboard a troop train and sent them to San Luis Potosi. The baby died of exposure on the way and nothing is known of the fate of other members of the family.

From stories told by rebels, this is only one of the many instances where the women and children of rebel officers have been taken from Saltillo by the federals and sent to other cities and to supposedly horrible fates.

George C. Carothers, special representative of the state department, who has been through the Torreon engagement with General Villa, has returned here to assist in negotiations looking to the welfare of the 600 Spaniards ordered out of Torreon by the rebels. He brought with him the first non-partisan eyewitness' account of the battle.

"The rebel loss," said Carothers, "was 600 killed and 1400 wounded. We don't know the federals' loss accurately, except that Villa found in the hospitals 805 of the wounded." Asked why Velasco, the federal commander, evacuated the city, Carothers said the federal leader's one excuse was that he had run out of small arm ammunition.

Carothers added that he was convinced that the real reason was that Villa's tireless hammering wore down his men until they could no longer fight. They had been on the scantiest of rations of both food and water and were "all in."

"The evacuation was accomplished in an orderly manner, with soldiers and Huertista refugees loaded on trains," said Carothers. "Villa has 8000 men pursuing them, and, while they are supposed to be making for Saltillo, their exact whereabouts was not known when I left Torreon. At San Pedro there is a federal garrison, and a battle is expected there at any moment.

"Torreon fell on the night of April 2. The evacuation began at 7 o'clock on the moning of April 2, and at that time, and, indeed, until the evacuation was complete, the federals held every position in the city of Torreon which they originally possessed.

"It was not until after the evacuation that the rebels permanently occupied any position in the city. Villa attacked repeatedly from the outside. His men would rush into the town, making desperate assaults with their hand grenades, but they never retained a position until after the flight of the federal troops. Fighting continued almost to the last minute. Villa was always optimistic that each new day would see the city in his hands, but he was repeately disappointed. There was no basis for the report that the city fell, or than any part of it fell, on the preceding Tuesday. It was all federal until Velasco withdrew."

A TIP TO CARRANZA

Washington Protests Against the Expulsion of Spaniards

Washington, April 8.—Vigorous representations went from the American government to General Carranza urging that he modify the order of General Villa expelling Spaniards from Torreon.

The United States has undertaken to obtain for Spaniards in Mexico the same protection it affords Americans resident there, and Ambassador Riano has been assured that nothing will be left undone to assure for the unfortunates at Torreon every right to which they are entitled under international law and usage.

That Spain proposes to exhaust every resource to protect her people in the revolution-torn republic was made plain when Rear Admiral Mayo, at Tampico, cabled the navy department that the commanding officer of the British cruiser Hermoine had been instructed to care for Spaniards at this besieged federal port. Officials here did not comment on this development.

FALSE ALARM BOYS ARRESTED

Were Near Box 153 When Pulled This Afternoon

The alarm from Box 12.46 this noon, followed almost immediately by the recall, was a false alarm.

When the department arrived at the box a gang of seven boys was found near by, but most of them skipped when they saw an officer approaching. Two boys however were apprehended and sent to the police station. They gave their names as Carl Denby, aged 13 years, of 10 Ronsey street, and Francis A'Hern aged 14 years, of 24 Taft street, Dorchester. The boys claim that they were not the ones who pulled the alarm, but say that it was some of the others. The boys parents have been notified.

Forty or more friends and relatives pleasantly surprised Miss Esther Bergfors at her home on Pleasant street Tuesday evening, the ocasion being her 18th birthday. Fred Bergfors in behalf of those present presented her with an emerald ring. She also received many other gifts from the members of the family among which was a gold watch from her father.

The evening opened with a piano duet by Miss Esther Bergfors and Hazel Johnson, after which a chorus consisting of Mabel Peterson, Runghill Johnson, Clarence Manson, Fred Bergfors and Carl Johnson, rendered many of the popular songs.

The feature of the evening was a large birthday cake on which eighteen candles burned. Games and refreshments were enjoyed. Guests were present from Quincy, Braintree, South Boston and West Somerville.

HEALTH TOUR AT POINT

Some of the Conditions As to Beds and Dirt

Shortly before 11 o'clock Tuesday night, two automobiles containing the Board of Health and Chief of Police Burrell left City Hall for a tour of inspection of the boarding houses in the Quincy Point district. Later on they were joined by Perry Green, Overseer of the Poor, who acted as official guide at some of the places near his own residence.

The first place visited was the old Federhen house on Washington street, where it had been reported there were 24 men. The visitors however found 13 men when they called. The conditions as far as the number of persons in each room were not bad, but the conditions as far as dirt are concerned were bad.

At the house of J. Kauffmann on East Howard street 11 men were found sleeping in the basement. In one small room there were five men in two beds. The conditions here were also rather dirty.

At another house they found a man and his wife and two children sleeping in a room not much larger than a closet. The woman and two children were in one bed and across the foot of this bed was a cot-like bed on which the man slept. The conditions as to filth were bad.

Two places of David George on Winter street were visited, conditions were not bad as far as the number of occupants of rooms was concerned. It was evident that the occupants had got wise to the fact that the Board of Health was about and had skipped.

It was intended to visit some of the places about Sumner street, but realizing that the parties had evidently been notified of what was doing by runners, this was given up.

Chairman Murray said this morning that after having the places cleaned up the Board of Health intended to post the buildings giving the number of persons that would be allowed to live in the house, the number of beds in a room, and the number of occupants.

After this was done, he said that Chief Burrell had agreed to co-operate with the Board of Health by having the officers on duty in this district nights drop into the houses at various times to see that the orders of the board were being carried out.

Every year for several years the Board of Health has had to visit these boarding houses in the Point district, and it is planned by Chairman Murray this year to give them a cleaning such as they never had before. In some of the places visited Tuesday night, meat and bread was found on a table near the bed, so that it would be handy in case one of the men woke up in the night hungry to reach over and get a lunch. Not a window in any of the places were open, and the occupants seemed to be as much in fear of fresh air as they would of deadly poison. Dirt of all kinds was scattered about the rooms. Should an epidemic of any serious nature break out in this district it would sweep through the places like a whirlwind.

Charles M. Bryant said it was no new project but had been under consideration for five or six years. He said the situation is much different in Wollaston now than ten years ago, and that there are now 1200 voters compared to 300 then. He said the same was true in Atlantic, and he thought the trust company one of the best things that could hapen to Wollaston. He spoke of his wife being treasurer of the Wollaston Women's club, and said that of 250 checks received for dues but 10 per cent. were drawn on local banks.

Joseph A. Sedgewick, treasurer of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, stated that additional banking facilities were needed in Quincy, and that this was especially true in Wollaston. He said he expected to give some business to the bank. He said it would not be a one-man bank, but would be made up of Wollaston citizens. Much money now goes to Boston banks, and building operations can be helped and the reemdy is to bring the funds now on deposit in Boston to Quincy, to help develop the local situation. He said the present banking interest could have no objection because of the large amount of money invested outside of the city.

Mr. Coulson of Atlantic, of the concern of Fuller & Co. of Boston, said that the Atlantic people favored the location of the trust company in Wollaston and that much Atlantic money would be deposited there.

Walter S. Pinkham, appearing in a private capacity, said there was plenty of money to make the deposits satisfactory, and that a trust company in Wollaston would not interfere with the Wollaston Co-operative Bank and that both would supplement one another.

John L. Hamilton, president of the Board of Trade, said the slogan of the board was the "greatest good for the greatest number," and that the board favored the proposition. He said the saying in Quincy was "if you want money from Quincy banks the thing to do was to build a house in Milton." It was difficult to get loans on local property.

Mr. McIntire was questioned at length relative to the banking situation in the city.

NEW ASSESSOR WOLLASTON MAN

Charles R. Sherman Accepts Appointments and Qualifies for Office

A Former Assessor And Has Served in City Council

Today will be Assessor Duggan's last day of duty as such for this morning, Mayor Miller appointed his successor, who immediately qualified as such and entered upon the duties of the office. The new assessor is Charles R. Sherman of Wollaston, adding another city plum to the fifth ward. Mr. Sherman was one of the Assistant Assessors appointed a month ago by the Mayor, and has been busily at work since the first of the month assessing polls, etc.

Mr. Sherman came to City Hall this morning and was ushered into the sanctum sanctorum, otherwise known as the Mayor's office. Shortly after he and the Mayor came out together and entered the City Clerk's office where Mr. Sherman was introduced to City Clerk Crane as the new assessor.

The City Clerk immediately got out his little acceptance book, and telling Mr. Sherman to hold up his right hand, administered the oath of office.

The Mayor then ducked out of the front door and entering the automobile of Commissioner Brown started for a trip about the city to see some of the work in progress and contemplated.

Charles R. Sherman, the new assessor, is almost too well known, especially to Wollaston people, to need any introduction. He has had many years of service in the city, having been a member of the City Council in the years 1890, 1891, 1892 and 1893, during which time he served on all of the important standing committees. He was one of the original advocates for municipal ownership of the water works. He also advocated strenuously the sewerage system both of which ideas he saw carried out.

He has also served for several year as an assistant assessor, and has served for many years as an election officer in Ward Five. His business is real estate and insurance, and many years of experience in these lines should mke him a valued member of the Board of Assessors, especially at this time.

Mr. Sherman was born in Fall River in 1845, where he obtained his early education. In early life he followed various occupations, such as tailoring, telegraphing, post office and drug clerk. From 1870 up to the early nineties he was a member of the firm of John H. Pray, Sons & Co.

He then became resident manager of the Wollaston Land Company and has been largely instrumental in the development of Wollaston; coming to that ward in 1871.

He was one of the authors of Quincy's city charter, considered at the time to be the model city charter of the state, and was one of the early movers for the adoption of the city form of government.

He is a member of Masonic fraternity, Wollaston lodge Knights of Honor and Ladies of Honor, Royal Arcanum and other fraternal orders.

Mr. Duggan went out with the Assessors this morning, who are still at ward Six, and he will sever his connection with the office tonight.

UNDER COMPENSATION ACT.

Before making a finding as to the cause of the death of John F. Murphy of this city, who was found dying in the Angier Mills, the Industria Accident Board will secure opinions from celebrated Washingtonians. The case is brought against the mill by his widow under the Compensation Act. It is claimed that Murphy's death resulted from the inhalation of gases and from the effects of the gases generated in the manufacture of non-inflammable and non-combustible film at the mill.

The petition of the American Federation of Labor to prohibit the firing of boilers except by licensed firemen found its own death Wednesday afternoon in the House of Representatives.

WHITAKER PLEADS GUILTY

Was Indicted By Grand Jury For Setting Fires

The Norfolk Grand Jury which has been in session all the week reported to Judge Raymond Wednesday. The jury reported 23 true bills and three no bills.

Among the indictments returned was one against Herbert Whittaker of Quincy in seven counts for setting fires in Quincy. Whittaker is the young man who kept residents of the Atlantic and Squantum districts on uneasy seats until arrested. Beginning at Wollaston beach, houses were fired practically every night. Then not satisfied with night work the young man started in during the early day one morning at Squantum, setting fire to several places, and on one occasion starting a fire and after seeing the department get at work there, going a short distance away and starting a second fire. Whittaker was finally captured at a fire on the outskirts of Atlantic through the detective instinct of George W. Baker. He was brought into court at Quincy and held for the grand jury.

The buildings which he was charged with setting fire to, were Dec. 22, house of George F. Sawyer, Harvey Bottomy and John L. Johnson; Dec. 23, houses of Paul J. Lovering, Lotta Crabtree, and Mary L. Morey and Dec. 24, the house of J. Walter Foster.

While the fire scare was at its heighth, people in the fire bug district had begun to organize patrols and were going about nights armed.

Whittaker when captured was on Metropolitan Park property and was arrested by the Park police. At the same time Quincy officers were watching his home to which he was expected to return at any minute, to place him under arrest. It was thought at first that he had an accomplice, and a young man was arrested but later discharged. Whittaker on Wednesday pleaded guilty to all seven counts.

Another indictment returned in which Quincy is interested was against M. Parcheco, who had a number of aliases, who was arrested charged with breaking and entering the house of James H. Stetson last August, from which goods to the value of several thousands of dollars was taken.

Parcheco was charged with taking a fur coat valued at $1,000, a tea gown valued at $100 and a quantity of silverware and cut glass. It was through selling the silver that he was eventually captured. Some of the silver was sold to a second hand dealer at Brockton where it was identified by circulars that had been sent out as part of the property stolen from the Stetson home. From this the fellow was traced to New Bedford where he had been arrested and sentenced for larceny.

The police always believed that there was a second man concerned in the break but have never been able to apprehend him. All attempts to get any information from Parcheco were unsuccessful, and he would give no information as to where any of the remaining articles missing could be found, or if he had any accomplice.

JAMES FOSTELLO DEAD.

James Fostello, one of the earliest of the Italian residents of this city, and a pioneer fruit dealer, died this morning at his home at 35 Newcomb street. He was 65 years of age and is survived by two daughters and three sons.

Mr. Fostello for many years conducted a fruit store on Granite street, where the Faxon block is now located, and people from all parts of the South Shore were numbered among his patrons.

When the building on Granite street was dismantled, Mr. Fostello opened up a small store on Washington street, in Keating's block, but the past few years has not been very active. He had the reputation of being honest and upright in his dealings and enjoyed the friendship of many residents of the city.

The George W. Bennetts of Arlington street have bought a house on Pond street, South Weymouth and will soon take possession.

FIRST DRIVER OF PATROL

Daily Ledger Asked to Settle An Argument

A correspondent writes "In order to settle a dispute will you please insert in your paper who is right in regards to the first driver of the police patrol wagon in Quincy and when it was first installed. A says Officer Cahill, B says Officer Holloran C says officer McCarty, who is right?"

Neither A, B, or C is right, for the first patrol wagon driver in Quincy was Officer Timothy J. Golden. The first patrol wagon in Quincy was the horse drawn wagon with rubber tires, which the late Henry H. Faxon called "folly on wheels." This wagon was installed at the time the police signal system was put in. This system was put in commission in 1902 and the patrol wagon went into commission in May 1902, with Timothy J. Golden as driver. Officer Golden continued as driver for about a year, and was succeeded by Officer Cahill who has since held the position. Officer Holloran has been what is known as "wagon officer" from the first. The new automobile patrol wagon was received in Quincy the day previous to Labor day 1910, and went into commission on Labor day at the Aviation meet at Squantum.

$15,000 OVER SUBSCRIBED

New Clubhouse at Wollaston Now Assured

At a meeting of the Sachem club directors Monday evening not only was the $15,000 mark reached, but the amount went soaring well over $16,000.

Up to the previous meeting $13,900 had been secured; since that time $2300 has been raised bringing the grand total up to $16,200.

At their regular meeting on Tuesday the Wollaston Woman's club voted to purchase $500 in bonds. When this subscription is turned in the grand total will be brought to nearly $17,000.

All of the subscriptions reported have been actually secured, and are down in black and white. With numbers of promises still floating around the hopes of the directors run high.

It is hoped by some that the entire $25,000 may be raised at the start by subscription, doing away with the necessity of a mortgage. Others not so sanguine are convinced that $20,000 may be raised and only $5000 taken for a mortgage. With a view to raising all possible a spirited campaign is still on.

With a number of promised subscriptions ready to drop, and three weeks to work in, it is expected the results at the next meeting will cause surprise.

The next meeting which is called for Monday evening, April 27, will be a general roundup at which the directors and all club members will be invited to be present. The plans will be gone over for the last time and at this meeting it will probably be voted to submit them for bids.

At the meeting Monday informal committees were appointed to consider minor changes in the plans and look into the matter of loans.

EASTER SALE AT ATLANTIC

A Farce Entitled "A Paper Match" Presented

The Easter sale given by the Ladies' Benevolent society in the vestry of the Atlantic Memorial church Wednesday afternoon and evening was quite a success in spite of the weather.

There were seven tables arranged in the ladies' parlor, the fancy, apron, bakery, peanut, candy, punch and ice cream.

Mrs. B. F. Thomas was chairman of the bakery, assisted by Mrs. Gorham Damon, Mrs. Lyndon Gurney, Mrs. C. A. Stearns and Mrs. John Welsh; fancy, Mrs. T. W. Davison, assisted by Mrs. Welcome Young, Mrs. John La Tour, Mrs. Andrew Robertson, Mrs. Sarah Butler, Mrs. John Abbott, Mrs. John Beal, Mrs. Charles Letteny and Mrs. Charles Newcomb; plant, Mrs. William Cummings and Mrs. Robert Harding.

Mrs. Harry Reed was chairman of the apron committee, assisted by Mrs. Frank Boman, Mrs. M. F. Baker and Mrs. Sarah Butler. The candy was in charge of Miss Ada Harding, Miss Winnie Harding and Miss Margaret Read. Miss Margaret Read, Miss Winnie Cole, Miss Clara Von Emden and Miss Nettie Coombs had charge of the punch. The ice cream was in charge of Frank Damon, assisted by several members of the Christian Endeavor.

The rooms were very prettily decorated with purple and white streamers of crepe paper. The entertainment given in the evening consisted of duets by Mrs. Harvey Holt and Miss Maud Read, and a farce entitled: "A Paper Match," the cast of which included Miss Hazel Davison as aunt Sophrony, a maiden lady; Miss Margaret Read as Rose, her niece; Arthur Hall as Sam Hunt, in love with Rose, and Ralph Knapp, as Hezikiah Jehoshaphat Brown, a soldier. This play brought forth a loud applause from the audience.

WOLLASTON GLEE CLUB CONCERT

Large Audience Enthusiastic Over Numbers by A. J. Harpin and Miss Cole

Club Made a Fine Showing in Its Chorus Numbers

Music lovers from all parts of the city attended in large numbers the spring concert of the Wollaston Glee club held Wednesday evening in the Wollaston School hall.

Assisting the club were A. J. Harpin, basso, an artist of national reputation; Miss Catherine Cole, reader, who appears with the Meisteasingers; and William Ellis Weston, as accompanist.

The special feature of the concert was the marked show of appreciation the audience extended the contributing artists, calling them back again and again with hearty rounds of applause.

As usual the club made a fine showing under direction of their conductor John A. Crowley produced vocal effects which demonstrated that the reputation of the club as a musical organization had not been over rated.

Since the club has used the school hall for its concerts it has been noted that the audiences have been consistently growing. That of Wednesday evening nearly reached the seating capacity of the hall.

"Nottingham hunt" a descriptive chorus by Bullard opened the evening Mr. Harpin followed with "Lorraine, Lorraine, Lorree" by Spross. He was loudly encored and replied with "Caution".

"Rockin' time" a plaintive southern melody by Gertrude L. Knox was sung with such success by the club that it was necessary to repeat it.

A scene from "Paolo and Francesca" by Stephen Phillips was read by Miss Cole. The Italian atmosphere of the piece contributed to the dramatic possibilities of the reading and Miss Cole lost no opportunity in portraying the varying characters and emotions.

This was not Miss Cole's first appearance with the Glee Club and her reception was extremely cordial. She was forced to give many encores. Among them were "Dot dog" by Charles Follen Adams and "The license."

"Suomi's song" by Franz Mair sung by the club closed part one. Then followed the usual social period during which the club members visited with their friends in the audience.

The club opened part second with "The cattle rustlers" a care free ditty by Rauffner. "The windmill" by Tockerman, "When I get to Heaven" by Liza Lehman and "The ringers" by Hermann Lohr were offered by Mr. Harpin.

Robinson's "Pharisee and Saducee" by the club was followed by a number of readings by Miss Cole. They included "The silver wedding" "Me and kip" and "Mrs. O."

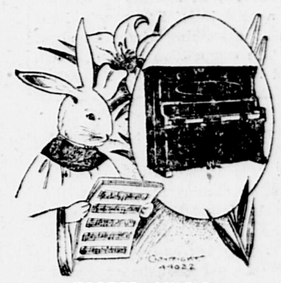

"To horse! To horse!" by Ward Stephens, "His lullaby" by Bond and "Rolling down to Rio" by German were sung by Mr. Harpin. "I met her on the stairs" was sung as the encore.

Mr. Harpin has a deep bass voice and a sense of dramatic action. These were evident in his selections and were duly appreciated by the audience.

Mr. Weston's ability as an accompanist was especially noticeable. A peculiarly difficult accompaniment was "To horse! To horse" which he performed with great finesse. The soloist manifested his appreciation with a hearty handshake during the applause which followed.

"The long day closes" by Sullivan was the offering of the club that brought the program to a close.

The club has inaugurated the custom of quotations o nits program. come one and all." from Holmes began it and "A thousand times goodnight" from Romeno and Juliet was found on the final page.

TELEPHONE: QUINCY 425.

The king of Albania is going to war a shirt of mail, but that fashion will never be popular among the girls unless it is made quite openwork.

Those burned out Wellesley college girls propose to keep right on with the higher education, in spite of the fact that they have lost all their tango gowns.

It will be good news to the pupils of the Massachusetts Fields school to learn that the City Council has passed the order to purchase land adjoining the school building for a playground. This school has never rejoiced in having a playground of its own but the scholars have been in the habit of using vacant land adjoining, and that without asking permission of the owners. It was not long ago that these same owners requested that they be rebated their tax assessment on the property as it had been used free of charge by the school children for a playground.

TREES BEING CARED FOR.

The Forestry committee of the Quincy Woman's club has certainly succeeded in arousing interest in the condition of the trees in our city. They simply showed the citizens that it was imperative that the work of preserving the trees should be undertaken at once, and they have met with most hearty response.

At present there are eight men working upon the trees in our city. These men are experts. They doctor the trees and leave them healthly and free from pests. Where the trees need to be pruned or grafted it is done, where decay has set in, it is removed and filled with cement.

With healthy trees around us during the summer months, we shall have plenty of friendly birds to help keep down the pest and more moisture to help us through the dry spells.

"SHORT PANTS" BASEBALL.

If your boy at the age of 10 can't catch a good long fly, watch him! There is something abnormal about him. The competitive instinct, which is still the mainspring of civilization is not as strong in him as it ought to be.

The normal human being cherishes the ideals of his own natural associates. The boy of 10 whose heart is set first on earning money, is following ideals too old for his age. On the other hand, the boy of 10 who merely likes to play tag and tumble in the dirt, is not old enough for his age. At that period he should have emerged from the unorganized play of the kid-let age. He should have a desire to excel his own mates in the pursuits that their minds are best able to appreciate.

Every American boy ought to be encouraged by his parents to become a good ball player. The school teaches him valuable facts, and order under extraneous authority. The ball field teaches him alertness of thought, and order under his own individual self-control. In many lights the latter elements seem quite as important as the former.

"DECENT WORK."

The New York State Bureau of labor has been planning to find work for the "unemployed" on farms. Said one of the leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World, in response to this effort, "In reply I tell the governor to go hoe the ground himself. We want none of it." The speaker concluded by demanding "decent work."

In all the industrial depressions of the past twelve years, there has been a persistent and unsatisfied demand for farm labor. In the older parts of the country, many a farmer lets fertile land grow up to ragged brush, simply because he cannot get men who will hoe and plough and reap. In the great grain fields of the West, the frost annually brings the harvest to premature end, because the help is not available.

Meanwhile Stanislaus Szczwicz and his relation from Poland and Austria and the Balkans are taking the fields deserted by decadent Anglo-Saxons. Their wives wheel their $2.49 baby-carts on the field, and hoe and reap beside their husbands. In a few years they are land owners and taxpayers. Meanwhile the "unemployed" will still be ostentatiously hanging around factories that are known not to want any more help.

There are few "movies" in the country to lure the small change from the farm hand's pocket. A $10 Sunday suit at a bargain sale will supply all needs of cross roads society for several years.

The cash wage may not be large, but it is mostly to the good. In a few years, if the farm hand has the same spirit that animates any man who makes a success out of life, he too should have his little exclusive corner of the earth, subject to the easy conditions of a farm mortgage. He can't spend his Sundays circulating nickels and dimes at Steeplechase parks. But when he falls sick, the neighbors will come in and split up his woodpile.

SPRING CLEANING.

Thirty-five thousand men and women and pupils in the public and parochial schools, or half of the population of Edmonton, Alta, will take part in the annual spring cleaning and city beautification week, beginning May 4. The association, which is composed of 609 active business and professional men, co-operate with the public works department in cleaning several hundred miles of paved and graded streets and lanes, and the ground on vacant properties will be ploughed and seeded to grains, grasses root crops, and flowers and shrubbery adapted to this part of the country. The horticultural society also will assist. The committee having charge of the work will encourage the painting of houses and the repairing of walks and fences wherever necessary and assist residents in all parts of the city in beautifying their places.

WHY SMOKING CARS?

The time-honored right of men to smoke on street cars has been challenged in Chicago and there are those who urge railroads to abolish smoking cars as one expedient to get full value for rolling stock investments. The tobacco trust has shown enough alarm to organize the opposition—of which there was plenty ready to be organized. The reasons for and against the plan were interesting. For the ordinance: Smoking on cars menace to health; unfair to motormen; indirect cause of accidents. It results in indignities to women. It delays traffic. It makes enforcement of anti-spitting ordinance impossible. It constitutes a special privilege, as only a small per cent of car patrons smoke.

Against the ordinance: Smoking on cars is not a menace to the public health (United Societies and Cigar Manufacturers' Association.) It is not a public nuisance. (United Societies and Cigar Manufacturers' Association.) The ordinance would injure the tobacco business. (Cigar Manufacturers' Association).

Delegations from scores of civic, political, religious and medical organizations urge the enactment of the ordinance. The Chicago Record-Herald has marshaled the foes of smoke in a crusade that is said to be the beginning of the end of unquestioned privileges to the men with the pipe.

SUCCESSFUL SALES.

"The older we grow and the more experiences we acquire, the more certain we are that the use of fewer newspapers, in which to advertise our sales, rather than the promiscuous use of the many, is the most sensible policy to pursue."

This statement was made by R. S. Bernhard, advertising manager of Espenhain's, at Milwaukee, in commenting upon the success of the shoe sale now in force.

"In the first place the buying of newspaper advertising space is an economic question," he said. "One should buy newspaper space with as much care to price, quality and quantity as one buys any sort of merchandise. Simply because there are many newspapers in a town is no good reason why one should buy space in each.

"We have determined upon the use of newspapers that are proven business bringers, newspapers that have a wide distribution among persons interested or likely to be interested in our offerings and trade events.

"Of course, the store's proposition must be right or no medium of advertising could hope to make good."

MANN SCORES THE PRESIDENT

Much Pleased Over Election Results In Two States

VOTES OF WOMEN IN ILLINOIS

They Close Eleven Hundred Saloons, Add Nineteen Counties to Dry Column, and Add Strength to Non-Partisan and Progressive Movement In Chicago

Washington, April 9.—President Wilson came in for a hot verbal lashing at the hands of Republican Leader Mann in the course of a free-for-all house discussion of the recent elections. He denounced the president for dubbing Representative Knowland's reference to a "deal" in the tolls matter a "crowning insult."

"If the president said that he forgot his position," Mann declared. "It is not the business of the president to comment on house debate and make criticisms thereon."

Mann read the president's letter to O'Byrne, the New Jersey candidate for election to congress, which declared his election would show the judgment of the people regarding this administration.

"And it did," yelled Mann gleefully. "I give thanks that there have been some Democrats who have placed allegiance to country ahead of personal bowing to a boss—bowing to the will of one man without reason."

Mann said he "didn't know what excuse the New Jersey candidate made, but he was loyal to his president and said: 'To hades with the platform and the country.'"

Mann referred to Representative-elect Gallivan in Boston as a Democrat who stood "against the administration on the tolls issue and won, hands down."

BLACK EYE FOR SALOONS

Other Changes Wrought by Women Voters In Illinois

Chicago, April 9.—Women's first use of the ballot as a weapon in Illinois worked radical changes. Nearly complete returns show that suffrage votes drove 1100 saloons out of Illinois and added great strength to the non-partisan movement in Chicago politics.

"Votes for women" added nineteen counties to the dry column, now numbering forty-nine, in Illinois, and several large cities will close their saloons. With few exceptions, the male vote alone in these cities and townships favored the "wets," the women voting heavily against the saloons. In a few cities, however, women helped swell the majority in favor of retaining the saloon. This was true in Springfield, the capital of the state, where a majority of the women voters cast "wet" ballots.

Analysis of the women's vote in Chicago shows that while as a general rule women balloted about as their male relatives, the Progressive party and the non-partisan movement received more than their proportionate share of the suffrage vote. Women's votes elected two of the three Progressives.

The Democratic majority in the new city council as the result of the election was reduced from nineteen to six. The Republicans more than broke even, electing twelve new members to take the place of the eleven who went out. The Progressives doubled their strength, electing three new aldermen to join the three holdovers now in council. The non-partisans, supported by the women, tripled their strength, adding three new members to the one holdover.

NO OBSTACLES IN PATH OF ASQUITH

Premier Is Returned to Parliament Without Opposition

London, April 9.—Premier Asquith, who resigned from the house of commons in order to make his acceptance of the portfolio of the secretary of war legal, was returned to parliament unopposed, from his constituency in East Fife in Scotland.

Asquith has represented this district in commons since 1886. The unopposed return of the premier has greatly strengthened the position of the Liberal ministry, and the fight for home rule for Ireland is once more in the hands of the prime minister. Asquith will assume the leadership of the fight in person in commons.

WILL CONTEST BEGUN

Widow Cut Off Relatives and Left Estate to Young Chauffeur

East Kingston, N. H., April 9.—The discovery that 48-year-old Mrs. Alice E. French, a widow, left practically her whole estate, consisting of valuable real estate and $13,000 in cash in the savings bank, to Albert Gagnon, her 24-year-old chauffeur, has stirred up this town.

Charles Dow of Newburyport, Mass., a brother of Mrs. French, and Joseph F. and Eva M. Lawrence, her half-brother and half-sister, who live here, all of whom were cut off in the will with $50 each, have opened fight in the probate court, charging the chauffeur with exercising undue influence over his mistress during her last illness.

NEWS ITEMS FROM MILTON

There was a large number of women present at the meeting of the Agenda class, of the First Baptist church, Tuesday evening, when Mrs. W. W. Churchill and Mrs. John Palch spoke on: "Anti-Suffrage." After the business and talk refreshments were served under the direction of the social committee.

Frank O'Heron and Horace Marchant of Penn State University are spending the Easter holidays at the homes of their parents at East Milton.

Among the East Milton boys out for the High School base ball team are: P. Crowell, C. Whittemore, H. Robertson and Axel Gustafson.

The second in the series of base ball games between the Junior teams of East Milton was played off Wednesday morning at Pratt's field. The features of the game, which was between the Eagle A. C. and the East Milton Naps, were in the three base hit of K. Hecker and the excellent pitching of L. Parsons, who struck out 16 men. It was another victory for the Eagle A. C. the score being 15 to 1 in their favor.

BILL MAY BE WORTHLESS

Mrs. Lizzie Hokinen of 105 Garfield street took a $10 bill to the police station Wednesday afternoon which she says was passed upon her earlier in the day by a man, who desired it changed. She became suspicious after changing the bill and took it to the police station believing it to be an old Confederate bill. Mrs. Hokinen believes the man who passed the bill is the same that presented a similar bill to Mrs. Christine McDonald on Chestnut street a few weeks ago for a $2 room rent account.

Examination of the bill at the police station brought out the fact that is was not a Confederate bill, but a bill on a North Carolina National bank which went out of busines sometime ago. It is a question whether anything can be recovered on the bill from the government.

The man is believed to be the stranger who stopped the night at 56 Smith street. They have a good description of him.

SIDEWALKS IN LYNN.

Commissioned McPhetres of Lynn recommends substitution of granolithic walks for all tar and brick walks in center fo the city. He reports.

Thirteen miles of cinder walks have been laid in the past year.

Average cost of concrete has been $1.204 per yard this year as against $1.75 formerly paid to paving companies, the saving due to the city doing its own work, instead of letting it out to contractors.

Installation of turbine driven centrifugal pump at Walnut street station will save the city about $7000 a year in operation, over a triple expansion pump.

During the past year 16,229 square yards of granolithic walk have been laid together with 29,396.4 feet of concrete curb and 5,6627 feet of granite curb.

One very touching incident in the "movies" of the photo-drama of "Creation," now playing at the Boston Theatre, Sundays, is the death of the Shunammite woman's cherished only son. Later, when brought back to life by the Prophet Elisha mourning is turned to joy, and scarcely a dry eye prevails in the audiences, which are now capacity ones.

The management, realizing that many who live at a distance would like to see the production but are hindered by fear of not being able to get a seat, announce that a portion of the house has been set apart for that very purpose. PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

Exhibited this week in the Art Gallery are some interesting mythological pictures. These include conceptions of the seven planets, painted by Giovanni da Udine and Pierino del Vaga, disciples of Raphael, on the ceiling of the Hall of the popes, the ante-chamber of the Borgia apartment in the Vatican, Rome. Among others are Endymion asleep, watched by Diana, goddess of the moon, from painting by Guercino in the Uffizi gallery, Florence; Perseus rescuing Andromeda, by Guido Reni; The Cumaean Sibyl by Domenichino; a detail from the burning of the Borgo, by Raphael, the group being suggested by Virgil's narrative of the burning of Troy.

Reproductions from Botticelli's Primavera or Spring include Spring and The three Graces. "The robe of 'Spring' is adorned with countless flowers, a thick wreath of field flowers surrounds her neck and a beautiful diadem of white primulas and blue cornflowers is entwined in her hair." Each detail is shown with great clearness.

Other painters represented include Titian, Paolo Veronese, Tintoretto, etc. A brief text accompanies each picture, giving the explanation, painter's name and gallery of the original. For those interested both in art and mythology the exhibit should prove pleasing.

GOOD FRIDAY.

Tomorrow being Good Friday, there will be no session of any of the common schools, day or evening. The Industrial School, however, which does not conform to the public school schedule on account of its connection with the industrial establishments, will be in session as usual. The Industrial School, by the way will soon be equipped for the full time department which will open in September. It is planned ultimately to give the entire lower floor of the old Adams school over to machinery, and the machines for the woodworking and electrical department will be installed this summer. In addition there will be three new teachers; one to teach joinery, one to teach electrical work, and a third to take the shop mathematics and academic subjects. All three will be journeymen workmen taken from these respective trades.

MASS. FIELDS PLAYGROUND.

The action of the City Council in securing the tract of land adjacent to the Massachusetts Field school for a playground is most commendable. This school is located on one of the smallest school lots in the city and has for years been using the land in question for all recess and play purposes. Its purchase now insures for all time ample playground facilities for all the children of that particular part of Wollaston and is very pleasing to the residents of that section.

The entertainment given by the Massachusetts Fields school children last week to raise money for the association and for base ball was a great success netting over $70.

The next meeting of the association will be held this evening in the school corridor. The attractions include a stereopticon lecture on "Panama," by J. L. Hamilton, president Quincy Board of Trade; "Good Habits" by D. H. Goodspeed. Singing by the children of Grade VII.

CODDINGTON SCHOOL.

The annual meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Coddington school will be held in the Assembly hall of the school on Wednesday evening, April 15 at 8 o'clock. Supt. Barbour will speak on "What opportunities the Schools Offer." Master Leon Biganess will favor the association with several instrumental selections. This is to be a most interesting meeting and a large attendance of parents and friends is desired. Light refreshments will be served.

The class of 1914 has presented the school the bas-relief, "Girls playing on lyres." This is the second panel which adorns the walls of the corridor on the first floor. In time the entire Cantoria Frieze of ten panels will be placed on the walls.

The members of the pre-vocational class, under the supervision of Miss Elizabeth Pope, visited the Boston Trade School for Girls last week. The afternoon was spent in a most profitable manner. Several of the girls are intending to enter this school next fall.

WOLLASTON SCHOOL.

Next week is to be "Campaign Week" with the pupils of the Wollaston school to raise money to supervise the playground. The committee in charge wish to have it supervised during the months of May and June from 3.30 to 5.30 P. M., and during July and August, from 9 A. M. to 5 P. M. Pledge cards will be distributed by the children of the school and from apparent interest a large sum will be realized.

During the past week the school authorities have accepted a generous offer from a parent of a tract of land plowed and fertilized for a school garden.

NON-ATTENDANCE.

Attendance Officer Charles H. Johnson had a busy day in court on Wednesday and the sentences wisely meted out by Judge Avery will no doubt have a salutary effect. There is at all times a considerable amount of non-attendance, especially among the foreign element of the city, for which the parents are entirely to blame, and these parents are of the type who openly express disregard and defiance of the law and its officers even at the doors of the courthouse.

When this defiance however costs them money in the shape of a fine, the effect is most wholesome and the children are apt to return to school.

The report of Supt. Barbour for March shows 18 cases of truancy, eight of the cases being at the High school. There were 287 cases of tardinesses; about one-fourth being at the High school, while the Atherton Hough school had a perfect record. There were 269 cases of dismissals.

The whole number enrolled in the schools is 6173. The average daily attendance for March is shown in comparison with 1913, also the percentage of daily attendance:

	1914	1913	P.C.
High	776.3	715.4	94.5
Adams	317.8	331.3	92.4

HIGH SCHOOL GRADUATION.

The Senior class of Quincy High school will not follow out the time honored custom of holding a class party as their last event of the High school period, but will hold instead a banquet. The change when first proposed met with some opposition but now has the enthusiastic backing of all members of the class.

The reading of the class prophecy and others contributions which go to make up a class party program will not be eliminated, for it is planned to make these the feature of the post prandial exercises.

The class recently voted not to issue engraved invitations to the graduation reception and the money that will be saved will be added to the banquet fund.

The Senior class at High school this year is a popular one and during its course has contributed liberally toward the success of the school in social affairs and athletics. Many of its members have been bright spots in sports since their entrance day.

The Senior dramatics will be given in High school hall on the evening of April 17th. "A Pair of Crackerjacks" is the vehicle chosen on which to carry an audience to realms of pleasure and rehearsals indicate that the presentation will be one of merit. The cast was chosen after a demonstration of elocutionary power by many members, and is being coached by the teachers at the school. An extensive committee is disposing of the tickets.

HOLY WEEK AND EASTER.

A special musical service has been arranged for Holy Thursday at 8 o'clock tonight at the Washington Street church, in which there will be an organ recital by the organist of the church, Irving N. Hayden, and bass solos by James Whyte.

On Good Friday at 7.45 P. M. there will be a communion service. This will be a most worshipful and helpful service in entire keeping with the day. The Rev. Isaiah W. Sneath, Ph. D., pastor of the Wollaston Congregational church, will preach the sermon.

On Easter Sunday at 10.45 there will be a special Easter service with appropriate music and sermon by the pastor, Rev. Stephen C. Lang, on the subject: "The spiritual triumphant." At 4 P. M. on Sunday the Bible school will give the Easter concert. The public is invited to all of these services.

PARCEL POST VICTORY.

"Parcel Post Victory" is the heading which a contemporary gives to a news item, to the effect that the United States Express Company has been driven out of business as the result of government competition, and an order of the interstate commerce commission compelling a 16 per cent. reduction in express charges.

In other words, there appears to be a virtual trust co-operation between the government and this commission to drive express companies out of business.

Is there anything to rejoice over in this? It is true that certain articles may be transported more cheaply than formerly by the individual shipper. It is quite natural that such shippers shoud be glad to take advantage of these lower rates, but should not we ask the reason for such a reduction in the carrying charge?

If the rates adopted by government are fair rates, and the express business must meet only fair competition, then surely there is reason for rejoicing.

But is it a healthy condition when government establishes a rate so low that it must do the business at a loss, and when in addition to this a government commission, with arbitrary power, forces a rate upon established carrying companies so low that they are compelled to go out of business, or continue their business at a loss?

Why not have commissions, working with the government, to compel other business to go to the wall?

With the great labor trusts on the one hand, and the government trusts on the other, the serious question confronts us, "What is to be the effect upon private or corporate business interests?"

Is there not all the centralization of power in the national government that is conducive to the well-being of a free people?—Boston Times.

MRS. LORING BROWN.

The funeral of Minnie C. Brown, wife of Loring P. Brown, who died at the Quincy City Hospital, took place this morning from her late residence at 325 Washington street at 9 o'clock. Services were held in St. John's church at 10 o'clock, Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy officiating. The attendance was large and there were many floral remembrances. The bearers were Arthur F. Dorley, John A. Silva, Paul R. Dorley, Paul E. Avery, William A. Dorley, Angus M. McDonald. Burial was in the family lot in St. Mary's cemetery.

$25,000,000 TO COLOMBIA

Price to Be Paid by United States For the Panama Claim

Washington, April 9.—Twenty-five million dollars is the amount the United States agrees to pay to Colombia for the partition of Panama and the acquisition of the Canal Zone, in the treaty signed in Bogota by American Minister Thompson and the Colombian authorities.

No rights for a new interoceanic canal arcoss Colombia by the Atrato river route and no coaling privileges on San Andreas and Providencia islands off the Colombia coast were contained in the treaty.

One important demand which the South American republic had been insisting on, the free passage of her merchant vessels through the canal, was given up because of President Wilson's attitude in favor of repeal of the tolls exemption. That had been a stumbling-block in the way of final agreement.

The Colombian congress will be called in special session to pass on the treaty before it is submitted to the United States senate.

STEAMER HITS A LEDGE

Fruiter Grounds During Heavy Fog and Is Floated by Tugs

Boston, April 9.—The British steamer American, engaged in the fruit carrying trade between the tropics and Boston, grounded on a ledge near Boston light in a heavy fog and was floated later by five tugs. She was then assisted back to Boston harbor, whence she had sailed for a Cuban port.

A rift in the fog disclosed the America's predicament to lifesavers at Hull and also to Captain Page of the steamer Grecian. The lifesavers hastened to the vessel's assistance, and tugs were dispatched from Boston. They managed to pull her clear of the ledge while the tide served. After being floated the American listed sharply to port.

LABOR PREPARED TO FIGHT MONEY

Not Disconcerted by the Statement of Rockefeller

New York, April 9.—Union labor is willing to fight John D. Rockefeller's millions at any time, Ernest Bohm, secretary of the Central Federation union, said here.

His statement was provoked by Rockefeller's testimony at Washington in which the oil king's son declared his father was willing to spend his $34,000,000 investments in Colorado coal mines to maintain an open field for laborers.

"We are going to maintain the labor unions," said Bohm, "no matter how many millions of dollars Rockefeller and those associated with him spend in trying to destroy them. Money is a powerful weapon, but it is not omnipotent."

SPEED RECORDS BROKEN

Two German Army Aviators Fly 160 Miles In One Hour

Berlin, April 9.—All speed records for aeroplanes were broken when two army aviators, Captain Fiegel and Lieutenant Hesse, arrived here from Hanover, flying with the wind, in one hour. The distance is 160 miles.

The previous record for speed, under similar conditions, was made by the French aviator, Jules Vedrines, in June, 1911, when, during one stage of the Paris-Rome flight, he flew at the rate of 155 miles an hour for thirty minutes.

SLAUGHTER IN ALBANIA

Christians Reported to Have Been Massacred by Mussulmans

Athens, April 9.—An official communication says that Mussulman Albanians entered Koritsa in the vilayet of Monastir and, with the aid of gendarmerie, who had previously disarmed the inhabitants, began a massacre of the Christians.

A Vienna dispatch says it is reported from Aviona that Greek irregular forces fiercely attacked Koritsa, but were reported by the Albanians.

SPORT NEWS

Fifteen clubs have entered for the Williamson cup soccer series, the biggest number in the history of the competition, and games will be played in most cases on or before April 25.

The Fore River team of this city will meet the Brockton team. Up to the time the local team disbanded this city was one of the hot beds of soccer, the Fore Rivers not only having been winners of the New England championship, but were a team of national importance. Its reorganization has been rumored during the past winter, but it was not until Marty Moran picked up the reins that the talk was directed in the right direction. It is expected that he will manage the team and all the former players have given assurance that they will be on the line in the competition.

M. Dexter Hyland of Weymouth, who has been rowing No. 4 in the Cornell varsity crew, is ill at the university infirmary and what was at first thought to be a slight attack of measles has developed into scarlet fever. It will be at least six weeks before he will be able to participate in the water sports and then only in a mild way. He rowed with the junior varsity last year and was one of the most powerful oarsmen of this years eight.

NEW GOLF CLUB.

The Winnetka Course, Near Chicago, Nearing Completion.

A new outlet for the enthusiasm of north shore (Chicago) golfers will be afforded next season. Vice President Robert Stevenson, Jr., has announced that the scenic course of the Winnetka Country club, lying midway between Kenilworth and Winnetka, will be completed and thrown open for play on July 1. This is a welcome addition to the list of popular links bordering the lake on the north side because of the congested conditions that prevailed last season, when overflow membership rosters prevailed.

Directors of the new Winnetka club are already forming plans for their formal bow in Chicago golfing circles in July. President Douglas Smith has recommended that an invitation tournament be staged from the 1st to the 4th, together with several special events for women golfers and the usual holiday attractions on July 4.

High "Death Rate."

Last year was surely a hoodoo for the champion English fighters, as five of them were defeated. Bombardier Wells was knocked out twice by Georges Carpentier, Johnny Summers lost two decisions in Australia to Harry Stone, the American fighter; Jack Harrison was defeated by one of his countrymen; Bill Beynon was knocked out by Charley Ledoux, the French bantamweight, and Jack Ladbury was stopped in ten rounds by Jim Berry, an Englishman.

ALL SOULS MENS CLUB

Frank P. Rhoades Elected President

The last meeting of the season of the Men's Club of All Souls' church, Braintree, was held Wednesday evening, there being nearly 200 gentlemen present. From 6 to 6.30 there was an informal social, followed by a bountiful supper. The young men who serve as waiters handled in a very creditable manner the hot roast lamb and baked potatoes, right from the ovens, creamed turnip, cabbage, slaw, jelly, rolls, squash pie with cheese and coffee.

The nominating committee presented to the club the same list of officers who have served so faithfully the past year, their only chan ing Mr. E. A. Haskell in place of Mr. G. H. Hamblett resigned. Report was accepted and the ballot resulted in their election as follows:

President—Frank P. Rhoades.
Vice President—George H. Wetherbee.
Secretary—Harry W. Bond.
Treasurer—Gordon M. Keating.
Executive committee—Edwin L. Emerson, Harold M. Gage, Moreton F. Swallow, Frank H. Waters and Edward H. askell.

The speaker of the evening was Sherman L. Whipple of Brookline of the firm of Whipple, Sears & Ogden, lawyers, Tremont building, Boston. is subject was "Needed Reformers in Judicial Procedure."

To apreciate in full the address, court experiences—such as serving on the jury, or being involved in a case—were quite a help. Mr. Whipple said that popular feeling is that court proceedings are not efficient. Very much law hit little justice. That the present system or rules are intolerable and to prove it the speaker pointed out several serious dangers which exist. Any old procedure should not keep the truth from coming out. Mr. Whipple wil be content if some reforms are brought about.

At present rules are in force which will not permit of the truth being given in evidence. That the laws seem to be made to protect the crooks and the shady fellows. They give protection to the man who has committed crime.

Mr. Whiple is for revolution of it is necessary to abolish rules to get the truth. Proceedings in court should disclose the truth. He is strongly in favor of abolishing some of the old court rules, the rules of 200 years ago.

The address was listened to with great interest and Mr. Whipple closed with a round of applause. Several questions wese asked which Mr. Whiple answered to the satisfaction ol all.

GUNMEN'S LAST HOPE IS GONE

Dramatic Plea For Clemency Is of No Avail

GOVERNOR IS DEEPLY MOVED

So Unnerved That He Has to Retire to Private Office After Listening to Jewish Clergymen—Says He Had to Choose Between Sentiment and Justice and Chose the Latter

Albany, April 9.—An impassioned and dramatic appeal made by five Jewish clergymen of New York for a stay of the execution of the four gunmen who were convicted of killing Herman Rosenthal was denied by Governor Glynn. The convicted men must now die in the electric chair at Sing Sing next Monday.

The plea was made in the executive chamber and was based on the possibility of new evidence developing in the second trial of former Police Lieutenant Becker.

It so completely unnerved the governor that he had to retire to his private office for a time before he could continue his duties.

"That was the most difficult experience of my life," he said later.

It originally was planned that the mother, brother and sister of Seidensner and the sister and mother of Cirofici should accompany the clergymen and plead for executive interference. This plan was not carried out, however, as the clergymen declined to permit the governor to be submitted to the ordeal of conversing with relatives of the condemned men.

The clergymen, all officers or members of the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, were accompanied by H. L. Kringle, one of the attorneys for the gunmen. He did not appeal to the governor, but each one of the clergymen was permitted to talk.

The governor, meanwhile, stood nervously twitching his watch chain. His face was drawn and white. At times he interrupted the speakers to say that the evidence before him did not warrant a change of his decision not to grant the prisoners' plea for executive clemency.

"If it were my heart alone that was considering this case," he said, "you know what I would do. I have spent many sleepless nights because I realized that I alone stood between these boys and death; but I have made up my mind. It was a choice between sentiment and justice and I had to side with justice.

"I would have given every cent I possess not to have had to pass upon this case finally. But it was my duty, and I have performed that duty as I saw it."

CONFESSION IS EXPECTED

Gunman May Tell of the Assassination of Rosenthal

Ossining, N. Y., April 9.—A complete confession from one of the four gunmen convicted of the murder of Herman Rosenthal and doomed to die next Monday is expected before they walk to the electric chair.

The prisoners have abandoned hope as a result of Governor Glynn's refusal to grant them a reprieve pending the second trial of former Police Lieutenant Becker.

It is said that several times "Dago Frank" has been on the verge of a complete confession, being deterred only by the arguments of his accomplices.

MAY BE EXTENDED

"Honor" Convict System Appears to Be Working Well In Texas

Lindale, Tex., April 9.—The honor system among Texas convicts has worked so well that Governor Colquit came here to pay in person the wages of fifty, the pioneer band in the system who work unguarded on roads in this section.

There has been but one attempt at escape in the two months the experiment has been under way and even then the two runaways were captured by the other convicts, who wrote the governor apologizing for the broken promise of their fellows.

The governor is considernig extending the system to other roads in the state. The convicts are paid 50 cents a day for road work.

ERRED IN JUDGMENT

Captain Not to Blame For Loss of Steamer City of Sydney

Sydney, C. B., April 9.—The wreck of the steamer City of Sydney at the entrance of Halifax harbor several weeks ago was not the fault of Captain McDonald, according to the report of an investigation made by Captain Lindsay, the Dominion wreck commissioner.

It was found that although the captain made an error of judgment in not allowing sufficiently for the set of currents, he was without blame and he was exonerated of any negligence or carelessness in the navigation of his vessel.

Robbers Get Away With $1080

Boston, April 9.—Edmund Trotter was robbed of $1080 in broad daylight at Roxbury Crossing by four young men who knocked the roll from his hand, picked it up and escaped.

HUB OFFICIALS RAPPED

Finance Commission Disapproves of Recent Salary Advances

Boston, April 9.—Ex-Mayor Fitzgerald, Police Commissioner O'Meara, former Fire Commissioner Cole and Penal Commissioner Gore were all rapped in a report which the finance commission submitted to Mayor Curley upon its investigation of the salary increases in the police, fire and penal institutions departments under the Fitzgerald administration.

The commission upheld Mayor Curley in his fight with O'Meara to get the increases in police salaries in question revoked.

In the report the commission condemned the practice of permitting attorneys to be hired and paid big fees by city employes seeking salary increases.

The report states that over $25,000 in attorneys' fees had been contracted for by members of the three departments in question to get their salaries increased. This practice has a demoralizing effect and should be stopped, the commission stated.

WILL RETURN TO BOSTON

Mrs. Eddy-Brown to Give Testimony In the Siegel Investigation

Boston, April 9.—Mrs. Diana E. Eddy-Brown, who has been the object of a vigorous search by police and detectives, acting in behalf of District Attorney Pelletier, who wants her to testify in the Henry Siegel bankruptcy investigation by the Suffolk county grand jury, is supposed to be in New London, Conn., on her honeymoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown, after their flight from Providence, while summons servers were awaiting an opportunity to serve papers on the woman, appear to have realized that further effort to evade accepting summonses would make them appear as fugitives from the law, and they agreed to set aside their honeymoon plans to come back to Boston.

SAYS SLAYER WAS MORALLY ABNORMAL

Result of Burns' Investigation of Phagan Murder

Atlanta, April 9.—Mary Phagan, the factory girl mysteriously murdered here nearly a year ago, was killed by a morally abnormal man, in the opinion of Detective William J. Burns, who has investigated the case.

Burns made this statement after a conference with Solicitor General Dorsey, at which the two went over all physical evidence presented at the trial of Leo M. Frank, under sentence of death for the murder.

Burns previously had repeatedly declared that Frank, in his opinion, is perfectly normal. Asked whether his statement, however, meant that his report would show the condemned factory superintendent innocent, the detective declined to commit himself.

James Conley, negro factory sweeper, testified at the trial of Frank that Frank was a moral pervert.

HOUSE PASSES CAT BILL

Means Death For Unlicensed Felines In the Bay State

Boston, April 9.—The bill to license cats went through the house. This is the first victory ever won by the cat bill at the state house, although it has been in the legislature for many years.

The cat bill had been killed, but reconsideration prevailed. The bill was then substituted by a vote of 79 to 41.

The bill provides that all unlicensed cats may be killed. But a farmer may have one unlicensed cat. The bill is favored for the protection of song birds.

CLERGYMAN IN HOSPITAL

Authorities Unable to Locate Men Who Beat Him Up

Denver, April 9.—Every effort to find and punish the men who kidnapped and severely beat Rev. Otis L. Spurgeon because of his attack upon the Catholic priesthood in a lecture here failed.

District Attorney Johnson said he regarded the case as one for the Denver authorities to handle, but that he would begin prosecutions if given adequate information of violation of the laws in Adams county. Spurgeon, who is confined in a hospital, shows improvement.

COLD WAVE ON THE WAY

Winter Expected to Take Heavy Drop Into Lap of Spring

Washington, April 9.—An ice chilled wave direct from the frozen fields of Alaska is bearing down upon the southern and eastern states, bringing what promises to be a record-breaking fall in temperatures. Weather bureau experts are inclined to think furs and overcoats will be exceedingly popular in Easter parades Sunday.

The eastern states are expected to feel a decided diifference in temperature.

Finding Out the Truth

An Engaged Couple Try to Impose on Each Other's Relatives

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

When Edith Lambert and I became engaged, on comparing notes we found that Edith had an uncle whose fortune she expected to inherit, while I had an aunt whose heir I was to be. Edith gave me the impression that her uncle was a very dignified old gentleman, whose ideas concerning the man she should marry were that he should walk a chalk line. This did not indicate that my chances for pleasing the old man were very good, for, if ever a youngster was full of Old Nick, I was that youngster.

Per contra, my aunt had been in her youth a society girl, a flirt, fond of horse racing, yachting, and had even been so vicious as to play cards for money. Edith was just the reverse of this; a young woman of reserve and dignity and, withal, very religious.

Naturally it was essential that I should be acceptable to Edith's uncle and that Edith should please my aunt, for neither Edith nor I had any fortune and had both been brought up in luxury. Edith's uncle was worth $500,000 in 6 per cent bonds, while my aunt had something more than this in well rented real estate. The problem before me and my fiancee was to make her uncle believe that I was a very steady and well behaved young man, and to make my aunt think that Edith was a woman of the world.

After a long conference in which various plans were discussed we decided that we would begin with my aunt. I was to introduce Edith to her, and Edith was to put on as much sportiness as she could, though I had misgivings as to her deceiving my aunt, for it was born in Edith to be dignified, and she had no sympathy whatever with that license which pertains to people of the gay world. However, it was arranged that my aunt was to call on my fiancee, after which we three were to pass an evening together at my aunt's house.

The evening after this call I went to see Edith and found her in a very distressed state of mind.

"Why did you tell me that Miss Martindale was a woman of the world?" she said. "I commenced soon after she appeared to talk freely and kept it up, while she listened to me without betraying any sympathy with the ideas I expressed, and she finally arose, evidently very much disgusted with me, and took her departure."

"What did you say?"

"Why, I began by cracking jokes about our forthcoming marriage, saying that I hoped when you were out late at poker parties your companions wouldn't have to set you up against the front door and ring the bell."

"What did she say to that?"

"Why, she scowled."

"What else did you say?"

"I said I had lost $500 on the last race and expected to make it up at the meet next week. Then I said I hoped you wouldn't feel that you must be tied down to me all the while. You were welcome to flirt with other women and get yourself talked about all you liked, provided there was nothing criminal in it. 'As for me, while I could get on with one husband, I must have attention from other men.' She looked at me as if she would bite my head off and whisked away without even saying goodby."

"Perhaps it was because you said it all instead of doing it. Aunt Kate was probably shocked at the bare statement, while she would not have minded the acts mentioned."

"I am afraid you don't understand your aunt. At any rate, I have antagonized her, and I think you'll find that if you marry me she will not leave you a cent of her money."

I went straight to my aunt to hear what she had to say about the matter, but she locked her tongue and would give me no satisfaction. I judged, however, that she had not been overpleased with my fiancee. Doubtless Edith had overdone the matter.

The next thing to be done was for me to make the acquaintance of Mr. Springer, Edith's wealthy uncle. He wrote Edith that I was to stay with him at his house and desired her to inform him what train I would come on, that he might send his car to the station for me. She gave him the desired information, and one bright morning I boarded the train, resolved to make a better impression on Edith's uncle than she had made on my aunt. One thing I determined to guard against—that was, overdoing it.

I had not been long on the train when a gentleman asked me if I would make one of four to play whist. Glad to while away the time, I consented. I was the partner of the gentleman who invited me to play, and the stake, beginning at a quarter a corner, was gradually increased to a dollar. But our antagonists got the idea that I and my partner were a pair of professional gamblers who were intending to "do" them and soon retired from the game.

This threw my partner and myself together, he assuming considerable bonhomie. He had a flask with him and invited me to join him in emptying it. I hesitated, fearing that when I met Mr. Springer in the evening he would smell my breath. But my new found friend was so urgent that I at last consented. Then he brought out some fine Havana cigars and proposed that we go into the smoking compartment of the car for a smoke. Again I objected, for if a whisky breath is bad a whisky and tobacco breath is worse. But a smoke after a drink is especially enjoyable, so again I yielded.

After our smoke my companion proposed a game of vingt et un, to which I assented, and the luck, being on my side, when the train rolled into the station where we were to alight I had taken $76 from my antagonist. He didn't complain, nor did he ask me to meet him again for his revenge, being just as cheery at the parting as he had been at the meeting.

I found Mr. Springer's car at the station and, getting in, was whisked to his home. When I arrived I was told that he was not at home, but was expected soon. I was shown to a room, where I made a toilet, taking care to use some aromatic tooth powder I had with me to destroy the odor of whisky and tobacco on my breath. I also divested myself of my traveling suit, which was saturated with tobacco smoke. Having got as well rid as possible of these telltales, I went down into the library, where I found an evening paper.

I was engrossed in the paper when, hearing a footstep, I looked up, and great was my astonishment. A man stood before me with a benign smile on his face, and who should he be but the person who had sought my acquaintance on the train and whom I had relieved of $76. He offered his hand and said:

"I'm glad to see you, my dear boy. I can tell you at once that I heartily approve of you. We can't trust one another in this world when we are warned, so I concluded to take you unawares."

"B-b-b-ut I thought you were—were a"—

"So I am in business and among women and children, but I know what a young man is, for I've been one myself. So I concluded to go back to the days of my wild oats and see you as you are, not as you would pretend to be. I'm very fond of my niece and wish her to marry a man, not a sniveling, driveling fellow who pretends to goodness while his inclinations are otherwise. I have found you perfectly honorable and you played a fair game. I'll say this, even if you did relieve me of my money. Come in to dinner."

Mr. Springer did not let me go for several days. He was not the man he had been on the train, but was no prude. He was much engrossed in business, and this did not give him time for dissipation even if he was inclined that way, and he was not so inclined. I went back to Edith with a far better report of my status with her uncle than she had given me of her status with my aunt.

I found that Aunt Kate had been called away for a few days, and I was obliged to go to Edith to be informed as to the situation. She told me that my aunt had written her a brief note, saying that on her return and mine she would be pleased to see us at her house to spend an evening. I gave Edith an account of my meeting with her uncle, at which she was much surprised.

"You men are very queer," she said.

A few days after my return I received a telephone message from Aunt Kate that I was to fetch Edith to her house for dinner and to spend the evening. On the evening in question I called for Edith, and she said that she would try to undo the impression she had made upon my aunt. I told her that she would better act herself and not try to appear to be any one else. Aunt Kate was very shrewd and not to be fooled.

We found our hostess got up in her finest costume, extremely decollete and with plenty of adornment. She gave Edith a smack and warmly pressed my hand. Curious to know why she had been so different with Edith during her call, I entered upon the subject at once.

"Edith told me she had shocked you, Aunt Kate," I said.

"Shocked me! She was trying to fool me. Do you suppose I don't know a woman of the world? Why, my dear, you could never be bad even if you tried ever so hard. Come in to dinner."

What a relief, both to me and to Edith! And how happy we were at having so successfully passed the ordeal required. But we had done nothing to further the issue. Edith's uncle and my aunt had taken pains to prevent our imposing on them to see us as we were and not as we would have pretended.

Our dinner was a most enjoyable one, but Edith and I agreed that it would have been far more delightful if we could have had her uncle with us. My aunt, who had the faculty of adapting herself to the person she was with, behaved herself remarkably well. Indeed, so circumspect was she that Edith conceived the idea that we were trying to impose upon her; that Aunt Kate had maligned herself and I had borne her out in the deception.

Another dinner we enjoyed quite as well—that was with Edith's uncle. We threatened to make a match between the two, but they had passed too far into bachelorhood and spinsterhood, so we were obliged to be content with the match between ourselves.

It appeared later that Mr. Springer had a double motive for taking the trouble to travel with me incognito. He was getting old and wished to retire. Since he had no son to succeed him and Edith was like a daughter to him he conceived the idea of working me into the management of his business. The result was that in time I became its head.

UNDER FLAG OF UNITED STATES

Spanish Colony of Torreon Comes Across the Border

EXPULSION A SETTLED POLICY

No Assurance That Their Property Will Not Be Confiscated—American Request to Protect Spaniards In Mexico Turned Down by Carranza, Presenting a Grave Problem

El Paso, Tex., April 9.—Eight hundred members of the Spanish colony of Torreon expelled from Mexico by General Villa after having passed through the recent battle that resulted in the capture of Torreon by the rebels, entered the United States here. They had been stripped of their property, temporarily at least, but supplied with funds. They expressed relief as they crossed the wooden bridge over the Rio Grande to American soil.

They had refused to leave the train in which they and their baggage had come from Torreon to Juarez until George C. Carothers, special agent of the department of state, arrived to advise them.

Carothers was unable to assure any that they would be restored to their homes, his interviews with General Carranza having met with the flat statement that expulsion of Spaniards from Mexico was a settled policy of the rebels and would be modified only in the case of individuals who might be found innocent of mixing in politics.

"We have money enough for the present," said Joaquin Fernandez, an exile. "Some of us will return to Spain; many will go to Mexico City, and others will visit friends and relatives in the United States and Europe."

"Did Villa tell you specifically that Spanish property would be confiscated?" he was asked.

"Not specifically," he replied, "but that is pretty well-taken for granted in Mexico. I have personal knowledge that no one in this party did anything inimical to the rebel cause. We are not rebels or Huertistas. Mexico is our home, and we cannot but hope that some day we will be left to dwell in peace and security there."

All sorts of vehicles—donkey carts, automobiles, street cars, wheelbarrows and toy wagons—were called into service to transport the refugees and their belongings from Juarez to El Paso.

All the refugees were provided with food and shelter soon after their arrival.

Refuses to Protect Spaniards

Washington, April 9.—General Carranza has refused the unofficial request of this country to protect the Spaniards in Mexico and to rescind General Villa's order deporting Spanish subjects from Torreon.

The American state department announced that one of its representatives at Juarez made the unofficial representation to Carranza. The supreme chief of the constitutionalists replied that he could not interfere with Villa's orders.

The status of American efforts to prevent expulsion of Spaniards from Mexico was set forth in this statement given out by the state department:

"Unofficial representations made to General Carranza by the representatives of the department of state have developed that Carranza is not disposed to interfere with orders given by General Villa as to the deportation of Spanish subjects in territory occupied by the constitutionalists."

It was said that the terms of the decree of expulsion have not yet been received.

Most officials take the view that there is no alternative for the United States except to receive and care for the exiles as international law provides. Spaniards driven out of Chihuahua declined offers of assistance in El Paso and set about maintaining themselves by every means at hand. The ultimate disposition of the refugees, as well as the hundreds of others who, in all probability, will cross into the United States, will furnish a grave problem for the state department and immigration authorities.

Sharp fighting at Tampico was reported to the navy department in a wireless dispatch from Rear Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz. The skirmish, however, was not believed by Rear Admiral Mayo at Tampico to be a contemplated serious attack on the oil port.

The pleasant weather which followed the storm Wednesday afternoon did not remain long, for it began to rain again in the early evening and continued to rain hard until late into the night. Shortly before midnight, when the fire alarm sounded, the rain was coming down good and hard. This morning it looked as though it might clear, but the weather was rather uncertain. Pleasant weather with a rising temperature is promised for tomorrow.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The City Council Committee on Fire Department, who have under consideration the order for an auto combination pump, are on a tour of inspection this afternoon, and are being accompanied by Mayor Miller. Today however they are not looking at auto pumps but at tractor apparatus. According to the statement made at the last Council meeting by Councilman Ross, chairman of this committee, it is very doubtful if the committee reports in favor of expending anything like $10,000 for an auto combination pump. The general impression is that the committee favors a tractor engine to be attached to the present steamer.

VITAL MUSIC IS NOT BOUGHT

Says W. P. Tryon at Woman's Clubhouse

Addressing the conference of the music department of the State Federation of Women's clubs at the Quincy Woman's clubhouse, this afternoon, Winthrop P. Tryon of Cambridge took for his subject "Music as a social regenerating force." He told the women of the conference that if they would broaden their definition of music, and allow it to include all sound that is organized to artistic ends, taking in that which has the indefinite rhythm and melody of speaking as well as the mathematical rhythm, melody and harmony of singing and instrument playing, America could be counted one of the foremost musical nations. He declared that the main point to be asked is whether Americans have ever been a listening people. For he contended that it is a desire to listen, a public interest in organized sound, that makes interpretation of life through tone possible. Under this free definition of music the speaker noted that America had its Beethoven in Daniel Webster.

Commenting on social life in New England two generations and a half ago, Mr. Tyron showed that at that time people were seriously interested also in music of the stricter definition. They liked the sound of singing as well as of speaking. And he recalled how the music master used to bring the folks of the town together at the district school house in the evening and teach them part singing.

Discussing the present situation, the lecturer deplored the dependence of Americans on the music of European nations. "What we need," he said, "is to have the manners of our very day and locality pictured in music. If the singing and instrumental branches of the tone art are to give us the sociti regeneration they are capable of, they will have to do it in the same way that the speaking branch of the art did it for our grandfathers and grandmothers. The forms of expression must be original, not borrowed."

The lecturer further said that organized sound is not a commodity to be imported and paid for out of our surplus farm and factory products. It it something that proceeds from within us. "Vital music," he went on, "is not bought. It is exerted into being by community aspiration. We in the United States of America can not find the truth about ourselves by hearing the organized tone of Europe any more than we can find it by reading the political constitutions of Europe. In refusing to write our own music we are in as absurd a situation as if we refused to build our own court houses and asked the German, French and Italian governments to ship us over some of theirs. In a correct view of human affairs, listening to music is just as practical a process as going to law."

Quincy Loans Favored By Quincy Savings Bank

Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

At the hearing at the State House held on the 8th inst., in regard to the establishment of a Trust Company at Wollaston, it was said by Mr. John L. Hamilton, president of the Board of Trade, to the committee having the proper consideration of the matter as reported in your paper, that—"The saying in Quincy was, 'If you want money from Quincy banks the thing to do was to build a house in Milton.' It was difficult to get loans on local property."

The truth of the above may be judged from a brief statement of the loans now held by the Quincy Savings Bank, and we therefore give the following facts,—

Loans on real estate in Quincy	$2,370,864.34
Loans on real estate in Milton	81,560.00
All other loans on real estate outside of Quincy	405,414.00
Total of loans on real estate	$2,858,238.34

John Edward Schofield of 55 Pleasant street and Miss Mary Anna Morrison of 148 Munroe road were married at the presbytery of the First Presbyterian church on Wednesday evening. EASTER PROGRAMS.

Pastors and musical directors of all churches in Quincy are requested to send their Easter programs to the Daily Ledger, for publication on Friday or Saturday.

Speaks At April Meeting of Bethany Union

The regular meeting of Bethany Women's Union was held Wednesday from 11 to 5. There was an executive meeting at 11.30 and lunch was served at 12.30.

At 2.30 Rev. B. A. Willmott gave the fourth talk in a series of lenten lectures speaking on "The rest day in Bethany." His message was very helpful and especially adapted to Holy Week. A vocal selection was given by Miss Minnie Hardwick sung with much sweetness and expression.

At the business meeting that followed the nominating committee for officers for ensuing year were elected as follows: Mrs. George Macfarland by the Executive committee, Miss Esther U. Sidelinger by the president and Mrs. Frank Crane by the Union. Mrs. George Badger and Mrs. Victor E. Miller were appointed to serve on the church council to represent the union.

The final arrangements for the May luncheon were placed in the hands of the following committee:—Mrs. B. A. Willmott, Mrs. George Badger and Mrs. H. Everett Crane.

At the conclusion of the business meeting the president, Mrs. H. E. Crane introduced Mrs. Ida Vose Woodbury who spoke on the "Mountain Whites of the Cumberland region—the people decended from pure old Anglo Saxon stock." The customs and characteristics of these folks were described and pictures of their homes were drawn in a most vivid manner. One can certainly realize in what isolation some of the families live, when stories were told of children who had never seen a train or even looked upon their country's flag. Mrs. Woodbury told many humorous stories in the mountain dialect which by the way seems to be a cross between the English of Chaucer and Spencer.

The speaker also cited many of the mountain proverbs, crude in a way, but always right to the point. The good work being carried on in the school in Grandview, Tenn., was spoken of and instances given where ministers, doctors and lawyers evolved from the little mountain boy.

Mrs. Woodbury proved to be a very instructive as well as brilliant speaker and her address was thoroughly appreciated by every one present.

There was a sale of cake in charge of Mrs. Abbott Melcher. Tea was served Miss Esther U. Sidelinger pouring, assisted by several members of the Union.

MIDNIGHT ALARM BOX 7

Salamander Stove Set Fire to New House

Fire was discovered in the incompleted house of George Williams of 4 Ring avenue, situated on Alden street at midnight and before extinguished a damage estimated at $300 resulted. The fire is thought to have started from overheated salamander stoves with which plaster was being dried.

The crackling of the flames as they ate their way along the second floor awakened William Nash who lives in the next house. He telephoned the Central fire station, and as they got under way an alarm was sounded from Box 7 by Charles Hodgkinson.

The fire originated in the bath room and when the department arrived, the flames were shooting out of an open window. Two lines of hose were laid and it was speedily extinguished.

The house was built by Mr. Williams in his spare time and he intended to take possession within a week.

ATTENDANCE WILL BE LARGE

All Massachusetts Has Heard of Quincy Hospitality

While no general plan has been outlined in the way of decorations for Grocers' day in Quincy, April 15, it is more than probable that local members of the association will decorate more or less. All stores in the city will keep open house during the day of the convention, and as Quincy has some model grocery and provision stores, they will be able to give some of the visitors points.

Many wholesale dealers, and dealers in specialties in the canned goods and cartoon goods, will also be in town that day, and the delegates attending the convention should be able to carry home samples enough to last them a week.

Quincy with its many places of historical interest, affords an exceptionally fine city for conventions, and on such occasions, the latch string is always out, and hospitality is seen on every hand.

The Board of Trade, through its various committees will do all possible to make the visit of the grocers to Quincy a memorable one. Their rooms will be open all day and the delegates will be furnished with a lunch in the rooms at noon. The delegates will be taken on automobile rides during the morning including a visit to the shipyard, and in the afternoon, while the delegates are busy wrestling with the business of the convention, the ladies will be entertained by the Board of Trade. They will be given automobile rides about the city, and will be accompanied by Charles H. Johnson who will tell them of Quincy's many attractions and points of historical interest. Later in the afternoon on invitation of Col. Kincaide, they will be given an opportunity to attend the performance at Kincaide theatre.

The rooms of the Granite City club, which are located in the Savings Bank building in City Square will also be open all day, and visiting delegates will find the outer door open and will be given a welcome.

These with the regular and special features, arranged by the committee in charge of the day, assure the convention of being one of the most successful for many years.

Replies received from members all over the state indicate that the attendance will be unusually large. Street cars and frequent train service to and from Boston make the city readily accessible for those coming from a distance.

To sum up, all that is needed to make the day a success is for the weather clerk, to hand out some seasonable and pleasant weather, next Wednesday, April 15.

BOYS RELEASED.

The two boys taken to the police station Wednesday noon, on suspicion of having sounded the false alarm from Box 153, were released later in the afternoon and given in charge of their parents. As stated in Wednesday's Ledger there were seven or eight boys in the bunch and the police have their names. All of the boys will probably be brought before the juvenile session of the court next week.

EAGLES ASKED TO CO-OPERATE

Dr. John T. Reynolds while attending a meeting of John Adams aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, in Electa hall on Wednesday night, was requested by the members to give a talk on Board of Health matters, and at its conclusion the aerie adopted a resolution heartily endorsing the efforts of the board.

Dr. Reynolds spoke of the duties of the board, and of the necessity of making night and day investigations to determine to what extent the law was being violated. He asked for the co-operation of the members in bettering sanitary and hygienic conditions of the city.

President Frank J. Duffy announced that a series of lectures on American history and civil government, for the benefit of the members and their friends, would be given this spring by men prominent in the order and in public life.

Applications to the number of 25 were acted upon at the meeting. The second class initiation of this spring will be in Electa hall on May 29.

EASTER SERVICES.

A number of new members will unite with the Wollaston Unitarian church, Easter Sunday and receive the right hand of feilowship. As is customary a special Easter offering for the good of the church will be received. The communion service will be held at high noon.

The floral decorations are in charge of a competent committee of which Mrs. William E. Rowe is chairman. The girls' choir will be assisted by a mixed quartet.

The members of the Kindergarten and Sunday School will bring their annual contribution for the Children's Mission in Boston.

As is customary, Easter gifts of lants or flowers in memory of those who have passed on to higher service are solicited to add their fragrance to the hour of worship.

ALL INVITED TO CO-OPERATE

That Grocers Will Want to Come to Quincy Again

One of the prime objects of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers' association, whose convention is to be held in Quincy next Wednesday, is to advance the welfare of the consumers as well as the dealers, to correct trade abuses, improve business methods and disseminate trade information.

At the convention a number of prominent men in the grocery and provision trade will make addresses and several ten minute papers are to be read at the afternoon session. For instance there will be a short talk on weights and measures, by the state commissioner Thure Hanson. "What does the Massachusetts or any retail grocers' association owe to me and what duty do I owe to my association" by Mr. Clements of Melrose. "What relation does the travelling man bear toward the success of the retail merchant" by W. R. Ferry of Newton, and "Of what value is the Massachusetts and other retail grocers' associations to the individual merchant, and what can be accomplished by co-operation."

As has been previously stated, the ladies will have no small part in the day's program for many of the delegates are planning to bring their wives and families to Quincy with them. Immediately upon their arrival Charles H. Johnson, the well known historic lecturer, will be on hand and will give interesting data about Quincy. After the auto rides and visit to Kincaide's theatre they will attend the informal reception to John A. Green, national secretary at Hancock hall.

The banquet will be furnished by Westover & Foss and after the feast there will be an entertainment. Among the artists who will appear will be: Prof. Yarrick, the modern miracle worker, who has on previous occasions mystified Quincy audiences with his tricks of magic; Erastus Osgood, Quincy's well known impersonator and monologist; and Provost's orchestra.

The evening program includes an invocation by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany church, an address of welcome by the president of the association, brief remarks by John A. Green the national secretary, and five minute talks by legislators and others present.

Quincy merchants in general are cordially invited to co-operate with the Board of Trade in extending the hospitality of the city to the delegates and others who will be in the city on the day of the convention so that they may be so well pleased with the reception that they will want to come again.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

A Quincy car, in charge of Charles Dunlap, Boston Elevated motorman, struck Mildred Sweeney, 4 years, of 3 Dunn court, Dorchester, on Thursday evening about 6 o'clock and caused her death. The little girl was returning to her home after buying a piece of candy when struck. She died on the way to the hospital. Dunlap was scheduled for arraignment in the Dorchester court today charged with manslaughter, but is said to have been a careful motorman.

THE AFTERNOON ALARM.

Sparks from a brush fire set the roof of the dwelling house at 10 Spring lane on fire today. Box 221 was sounded at 1.30 and the blaze extinguished by a stream from the car of Chief Billings. The damage was very slight.

Granite Conclave, Independent Order of Heptasophs met in Protection hall Thursday night and made preparations for the initiation of members at the next regular meeting on April 23. Among those who attended was William Provost, the well known musician, who is convaleseent after a long and serious illness. He was given a fine reception by his brother members.

FIRE DEPARTMENT IS APPRECIATED

Not Only Thanked But Presented With Check for $100 for Good Work

Fire Was at Residence of Moreton Swallow on Goffe Street

Chief Billings of the Fire Department is in receipt of the following letter from Moreton T. Swallow, enclosing a check for $100 for the good work of the department at the fire at his home on March 28.

To the Chief and members of Quincy Fire Department—An appreciation:

Allow me to express my heartfelt gratitude to the Quincy Fire department for the quick stop made at the fire at my home on Goffe street on Saturday morning, March 28.

For the prompt arrival of the department, the excellent judgment shown by the Chief, and the hearty and valliant response of the men, I have only the highest praise. It was grand good team work. In a half hour the blaze was practically out. It was confined to the oil where it started, no damage resulting to the body of the house or its contents.

In view of the fine showing of the department I take great pleasure in enclosing my check for $100 to the Firemens' Relief Association. I am Very truly yours, Moreton T. Swallow

Moreton T. Swallow
105 Goffe street, Quincy, Mass., April 8

This morning Chief Billings acknowledged the receipt of the check, his letter being as follows:

Quincy, Mass., April 10, 1914
Mr. Moreton T. Swallow:

Dear Sir—Kindly allow me in behalf of the members of the Quincy Firemens' Relief association to thank you for your most generous gift to their relief fund, and for your words of appreciation of the work of the men of the department.

I have always found the members of the Fire department of the City of Quincy ever ready, and when duty calls them no matter at what hour of the day or night to promptly respond to all alarms of fire, and to work faithfully for the best interests of the Chief and citizens of Quincy, regardless of their own personal danger, and I assure you that it is indeed a pleasure to them to know that their efforts are appreciated. Again thanking you for your most generous gift, I remain yours respectfully,

FAXON BILLINGS,
Chief Quincy Fire Department

ONLY A SMOKING STOVE.

The alarm from Box 42 this morning was for fire in papers in an old stove in the cellar of a house at 15 Copeland street. The fire was set by boys and when the smoke filled the cellar and puffed out an open cellar window an alarm was sounded. There was no damage.

NEXT SUNDAY is Easter, and yet there are men in this town who are still clinging to clothes of last winter's edition.

But they still have a few more hours of grace, and that is plenty when you consider that choosing Spring clothes at the Live Store is the pleasant task of a very few minutes.

We've done beforehand all the work necessary to a quick selection. Here is a full range of weaves and designs from the

The men are unwilling to start gardens in the back yards, as their wives indolently refuse to cultivate them.

The cost of removing snow in New York city has been cut down from 55 to 43 cents a yard. It is strange that the people will be so indifferent to the welfare of the politicians.

Probably the reason why the sharpshooters did not kill Gen. Villa at Torreon is that they aimed directly at him.

Harvard, Yale, Princeton, and other colleges have enormous stadiums built or building, but it is hoped they don't do anything so rash as to enlarge their class rooms.

It is not true that the Interstate Commerce Commission has adjourned the railroad rate decision six months on the ground that several persons in Alaska haven't testified yet.

The people of Quincy have new cause to feel proud of their senior U. S. senator, no matter how much some of them may have disagreed with his views and acts in the past. His speech in the Senate Thursday advocating the repeal of the canal toll bill was a masterly piece of oratory, breathing the spirit of true American statesmanship. Without doubt it will find its way into many a scrap-book. It will be quoted, cited and declaimed in years to come as an American classic.

Mr. Lodge pointed out very clearly that the existence of a right and the right to insist upon that right do not always by any means go together. He also defined the duty all citizens, particularly public men, owe the President in matters affecting our relations with other nations. After that clarion call for honorable conduct, there isn't much danger that the august body of which he is such an important part will commit itself to a policy which, if adopted would brand Uncle Sam as "an outlaw among the nations."

The constituents of Henry Cabot Lodge may well overlook differences of opinion on questions pertaining to the tariff and with one accord say to him "Well done, good and faithful servant."

EASTER MUSIC.

The weeks previous to the Easter festival are a busy time in most church choirs. In the old intolerant days in some communions, the observance of Easter was considered to savor of "popery." The choirs could search through their tattered anthem books in vain for any compositions commemorating this great Christian festival.

There are few religious societies today that do not demand a more or less elaborate display of their musical powers for this occasion. Among all the devices adopted to lure the indifferent public inside the sanctuary, probably none is more continuously effective, year in and year out, than good music.

It is commonly felt that in order to provide a good choir, much money must be spent. If a church demands a quartet music, satisfying the educated ears of music specialists, this is usually correct. But there are a great many churches that provide excellent chorus music at very little cost. It all depends on getting a competent leader, who has enthusiasm enough for his art to drill hopeful amateurs.

Christmas music is poetic, imaginative, romantic; Easter music is enthusiastic, triumphant, virile. It should be masculine, militant, expressing the victory of the spirit over the coarse decay of the flesh. It need not possess difficulties that will daunt the amateur choir. Trills and roulades do not always make a composition beautiful, nor do they necessarily interpret human emotion.

Many musicians are writing songs and anthems, and trying to sell them, who should have spent their time drilling little children in five finger exercises, or in farming. This power of musical creation is a gift shared by but few. The chorister who is to draw and hold his audiences year after year, must be able to discriminate between tawdry fustian and the essential elements of original harmony and melody.

PRISONER AT LIBRARY

Braintree Boy Goes To Sleep and Is Locked In

Max Gordon, a pupil at the Braintree High school had a peculiar experience one night recently. Max had gone to the Thayer Public Library to secure a book; he went into the reading room and fell asleep over his book, and at closing time was not noticed. When he awoke he found himself in the dark. He had hard work to remember where he was. Finally his wits came to him. Using the telephone he called up C. M. Lothrop, at the street car waiting room, who got in communication with the library authorities, and Max was liberated from his two hours' confinement.

D. A. R. TABLET IS MISSING

Several years ago the Daughters of the American Revolution placed a tablet on Commercial street, East Braintree, just over the Quincy line on Penn's hill, marking the old Plymouth stage road to Boston. It was a copper tablet inserted in a granite boulder. Recently the tablet mysteriously disappeared, and was probably stolen for the copper. The good work being done by our patriotic societies doesn't seem to be appreciated by some.

K. OF C. BALL.

There will be no tango dancing at the annual Easter Monday ball of Quincy Council, No. 96, Knights of Columbus, which is to be held next Monday night in Quincy Music Hall. All other modern dances have been placed on the blacklist, by the committee of arrangements, which has voted unanimously on the question. Especial attention has been given this year to decorations, which will be more elaborate than any seen at a K. of C. ball in the Granite City in recent years.

EASTER AT REMICKS.

Remick's store in the Music Hall block has undergone a transformation and in the midst of attractive Easter decorations there is a splendid display of spring clothes with many varities of patterns. All arrangements have been made so that a quick selection can be made in the few remaining hours of grace. A full range of weaves from the House of Kuppenheimer, listed at prices that will fit all purses are offered and all other accessories of dress,—hats, cravats, shirts and hosiery—that well dressed men will be wearing on the Easter morn are purchaseable at Remicks in the Music Hall block.

DECREE PLAN EXPLAINED

City Officials Before Wollaston Improvement Association

A strenuous campaign against the posters and circulars that litter the trees and telegraph poles and the public highways will be waged if the members of the Wollaston Park Improvement association have their way.

At the monthly meeting in Progressive hall, Thursday evening, it was voted to ask other organizations of Wollaston for co-operation. A partial remedy being favorably considered is the placing of public bulletin boards at proper places through the district where placards may be posted.

A protest was offered against the six-cent Sunday newspaper, and it was voted to urge other associations to join in an effort to bring the price down to the five cent charge that pertains in more distant towns.

A committee was appointed to co-operate with the Wollaston Citizens' Association in an attempt to secure lower lighting rates in the city of Quincy.

Joseph K. Barber and Russell T. Anthony were appointed a committee to assist the Parents and Teachers Association of the Massachusetts Fields school in its movement for new school facilities.

The speakers of the evening were City Solicitor Walter S. Pinkham and City Engineer E. C. Sargent, who spoke on "The grade crossing problem."

Mr. Pinkham clearly traced the course of legal procedure taken, and emphasized the fact that the "decree plan" would not change the track a particle at the Quincy depot.

Regarding conditions at Water street he asked which was worse to have a "Chinese wall" north and south in line with the tendency of building construction, or a "Chinese wall," fully as high and long west to east which would require changing adjacent streets.

In view of the other excellent features of the "decree plan," he asked, is it worth spending half a million dollars to avoid closing Saville street and the conditions at School street.

Mr. Sargent spoke of the opportunity afforded by the decree plan for amplifying the station grounds and platform. By this plan Water street would be widened from 45 to 60 feet. Quincy was fortunate to secure permanent street improvements in connection with the change. The work at Water street would cost $265,000 and that at Saville street $70,000. Perhaps the decree plan is not the one we like to see, but it is the best one we could get.

Mr. Sargent had several maps with him making clear what is with most citizens, a greatly misunderstood subject.

SENTENCED FOR LARCENY

John Febbi was arrested in Boston on Thursday by Capt. McKay on a warrant issued two years ago for the larceny of $100 from Joseph Mardone, an Italian baker at West Quincy. It appears that at that time Febbi was employed as a driver of one of Mardone's baker wagons and it is alluged that he neglected to turn in nearly $$100 which he had collected. Shortly after Febbi left Quincy, and the next heard from him he was in Italy. Some weeks ago he returned to America but gave Quincy a wide berth. He was however located in Boston and his arrest followed. In court after hearing the case the court imposed a sentence of six months in the house of correction. An appeal was taken.

LADY MOOSE INVITED.

Quincy circle, No. 26, Loyal Order of Lady Moose, were the recipients of an invitation Thursday night from the Quincy lodge, No. 413 to attend the annual memorial service of the latter which will be given in Electa hall on the afternoon of April 19. The invitation was extended by a committee at the regular meeting in Electa hall. Other matters of a routine business nature were discussed and it was nearly 11 o'clock before an adjournment was taken.

Birds Foreshadowed Battle.

It is said that in the tower of King Charles VIII. of France, the battle that was fought between the French and the Britons, in which the Britons were defeated, was foreshadowed by a skirmish between magpies and jackdaws.

FIREMEN'S DAY IN FEW WEEKS

To Witness Trial of Fore River Apparatus

The special committee of the City Council, appointed some weeks ago to arrange for the try out of the new piece of auto fire apparatus now building at the Fore River shipyard, met in the Mayor's office at City Hall, Thursday night, to talk over the plans. The City Council has appropriated the sum of $100 for the entertainment of visiting firemen on that date.

Mr. Hurlburt, the manager of the fire apparatus department at the shipyard, was present at the meeting, and stated that the apparatus was nearly ready to be tried out, probably by the latter part of the month. Many fire chiefs from other cities of the Commonwealth had visited the Fore River plant to see the piece of apparatus and there was considerable interest being manifested in it, and the chances are that when it is ready for its try out that there will be many visiting fire chiefs in the city to see it.

The company are planning to give the apparatus one of the hardest tests that can be imagined. That is, it will be given a long run over streets in Massachusetts, even going into New Hampshire where some of the most difficult pieces of road can be found. The roads of New Hampshire are very sandy as a rule, and a more severe test could hardly be found than to run an auto fire engine at high speed over sandy roads.

No definite plans were made by the committee, for this would be impossible until the exact date of the tryout has been determined. The special committee however talked the matter over in a general way and another meeting will be held in the near future.

FEEBLE OLD PEOPLE

Are Told How to Regain Strength and Vigor.

As one grows old the waste of the system becomes more rapid than repair, the organs act more slowly and less effectively than in youth, the circulation is poor, the blood thin and digestion weak.

Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil is the ideal strengthener and body-builder for old folks, for it contains the very elements needed to rebuild wasting tissues and replace weakness with strength. Vinol also fortifies the system against colds and thus prevents pneumonia.

Mrs. Mary Ivey, of Columbus, Ga., says: "If people only knew the good Vinol does old people, I am sure you would be unable to supply the demand. I never took anything before that did me so much good as Vinol. It is the finest tonic and strength creator I ever used in my life."

NATION'S HONOR IS INVOLVED

Lodge Backs Wilson In the Canal Tolls Controversy

RIGHT TO REMIT IS ADMITTED

Compares Alleged Patriots to Ajax Defying Lightning Which Does Not Exist—Urges That Distrust Be Not Further Aggravated—Speaks of Slaughter of Americans In Mexico

Washington, April 10.—Comparing the outbursts of those who have been opposing the "surrender" of canal rights to Ajax defying the lightning that did not exist, Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the "scholar of the senate," eloquently pleaded for support for President Wilson's repeal plan.

Lodge said he could not deal in a partisan political spirit with treaty questions. He told of opposing a number of Republican presidents on treaties and of supporting Cleveland.

"But Cleveland's policy in regard to Venezuela involved serious issues and grave possibilities," he said; "it was not mere posturing and declamation against another country, importing no danger and adapted only to raise the temperature around our polling booths.

"There is no particular courage required to insist upon passing our own ships through the canal without the payment of tolls," the senator declared. "We incur no physical danger in doing so, and to hurl defiance at the rest of the world under these conditions is no doubt a very agreeable pastime to those who engage in it, more especially as it has the added attraction of being a perfectly safe amusement, but it seems not wholly satisfying as an argument.

"The attitude of Ajax defying the lightning is not a very inspiring one if there is no lightning to be feared. The outcry about exhibiting subserviency to Great Britain or any other country because we see fit to repeal the tolls seems to me hardly worthy of serious consideration. The United States is altogether too great and too powerful to be subservient to any one.

"As I have listened to some recent stirring declarations of our readiness to face a world in arms in defense of toll exemption, about which noble cause no country would think of fighting, there have been moments when I have marveled as I thought of the coolness and indifference with which we have contemplated the murder of more than 150 Americans not many miles from our own border. The violated rights, the unavenged, the almost unnoticed deaths of those innocent people have seemed to make heroics about canal tolls, where there is no peril to anyone, particularly out of place.

"We obtained by the passage of the toll exemption clause no legal rights which we did not already possess; we waive none in its repeal. All we have we retain, for the law is merely our own statute for the regulation of the terms upon which the canal shall be used."

Lodge took the position that tolls exemption, either for coastwise or foreign trading ships, would not be a violation of the treaties in a strict legal sense. He pointed out that from the high pinnacle of international esteem reached by this country in 1909, the United States had become distrusted, due to a number of reasons. He urged that this distrust be not further aggravated by doing a thing "so useless as to subsidize a class of ships which do not need a subsidy."

Lodge spoke without a single interruption, and at the conclusion of his address the galleries broke into applause. The vice president's gavel pounded several minutes before order could be restored. Lodge was given the strictest attention by his colleagues on both sides, without respect to their announced views on the repeal struggle.

WOOD SCENTS WAR

Army Leader Says He Hopes It Won't but Feels It Will Come

New Haven, April 10.—"Of course, we must all work for arbitration," said Major General Leonard Wood, addressing Yale students on "War Camps." "But everyone knows there are certain vital questions that cannot be arbitrated. Every soldier works for arbitration, just as every life-saver on the beach works for any apparatus or device which will minimize the risk of bathers.

"We want you to take hold of this camp idea seriously. It is the preparation of this country for possible war which we hope won't come, but which thinking men feel will come."

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Bowling Contests Athletic Leagues
Illustrated Lectures Banquets
Basket Ball Conferences

An incident which has attracted considerable attention in Y. M. C. A. circles was a visit paid the London Y. M. C. A. by the King and Queen and Prince George of England. Lord Kinnaird, president of the Association, conducted the royal party through the building showing them the French and Danish rooms, the typewriting rooms and kitchen, the gymnasium where a gymnastic exhibition was in progress, and the lecture hall where a stereopticon talk was being given on the production of a modern morning newspaper. The Association parliament was having a warm debate in another room where the Conservatives were haranguing against the modern socialistic ideas. The King was very much interested in the rifle range for he is himself an expert marksman. In concluding the tour of inspection the King and his party were taken to the big reception hall where he was greeted by round after round of applause. Lord Kinnaird announced that the King had consented to having the hall named King George's hall. The visit lasted from 8.45 to 10 o'clock.

A new telephone booth has been placed in the alcove off the billiard room in the Association and its arrival has been hailed with great delight by the members.

The Junior Bible class is to have its last supper of the season this evening in connection with the lesson. The committee in charge consists of Joe Beal, Frank Morrison and Herbert Hendry.

Mr. and Mrs. LaRose are to entertain the second basketball team and their friends at their home next Wednesday evening. On the following Wednesday, April 22, the first team will be entertained in a like manner.

Quincy Y. M. C. A. will be represented at the State Indoor championshi, in the Boston Y. M. C. A. Saturday evening. Glover, Trask, Djerf Kingsbury and Brooks are to go in and four of them will make up the relay team. Cambridge Y. M. C. A. will be Quincy's opponent.

The Junior class is to meet at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday morning, and after donning their Gym suits will start for the Adams Academy grounds for a baseball game. The small indoor baseball will be used. If the weather is permissible the boys will strip down to their gym suits and sweaters Otherwise they will keep their citizens clothes on and doff them after returning to the Gym for basketball. The standing of the new Junior teams are as follows: Giants, 11; Tigers, 6.8; Red Sox, 2.8; Athletics, 1.9.

In the Employed Boys class the Braves team is in the lead with 8.9 points. The Giants are second with 6; Red Sox third with 5.6, and the Athletics last with 2.6.

The next Fireside talk will be given by Mr. Lick, secretary of the Exploitation division of the Panama-Pacific exposition. Mr. Lick is to bring a set of beautiful colored slides with him depicting the buildings and grounds of the exposition. This talk will be given in Association hall on Friday evening, April 17. On the following Wednesday, Theophilus King will be the speaker at the Fireside meeting and will have as his subject, "How to get rich."

The Men's meetings are over for this season, but plans are already on foot for a series to be given next year and there is no doubt but that they will be even more successful than this year's.

The first rehearsal of the Minstrel show brought out about 25 fellows and others have promised to attend next week. Mr. Dinegan, the coach, has suggested that twelve girls might be added to the circle with good effect and they will be on hand at the next rehearsal, Tuesday evening, April 14. Practice was started on the opening chorus last rehearsal, and the group was enthusiastic in rendering the songs.

The regular schedule of the Sunday School basketball league will be finished Saturday afternoon. Three games are to be played as follows: Sacred Heart vs United Presbyterian, Christ church vs. Wollaston Cong.; K. O. K. A. 2nd, vs. Swedish Lutheran. The play off in the two classes will take place on Saturday evening, April 18. The winner in Class A, Div. 2, will play K. O. K. A. 1st; and the winner in Class B, Div. 1, will play First Presbyterian.

RAILROAD CASE IN COURT

Brockton Man Arranged on Several Complaints

The continued case of W. P. O'Brien of Brockton, a traveling man charged with drunkenness, assault and battery evading a fine and disorderly conduct on a train was heard this morning before Judge Avery. The defendant was a passenger on the 10.34 train on Saturday night and as a result of an argument he was turned over to Officer Olson at Quincy station. William Blackman represented the railroad and Arthur L. Thomas, the defendant.

William Chase testified that while O'Brien was passing through the car the ticket collector asked him for the ticket, and he said I am going through to the smoker and am not going to give you a ticket. The collector then said he must have a cash fare, and O'Brien answered no, not until I get a seat.

As O'Brien went to pass, the collector tried to push him back, and O'Brien took him by the wrist. When he could not break his hold the ticket collector said he would hit him, and O'Brien said "go ahead," and finally the ticket collector hit him and broke the hold.

In answer to questions, he said O'Brien spoke in a rather loud voice but used no profane language. He said he knew O'Brien was under the influence of liquor because of his actions.

The case was on trial when the Daily Ledger went to press.

NEW ROOMS FOR SAMOSET CLUB

Will Be Ready For Occupancy About May 1

Extensive plans are being made for the Samoset club of Wollaston for moving into new and larger quarters. The change will be made on May 1 and after that date the club will occupy the entire second floor of the Wollaston Co-operative Bank building.

Already men are at work under direction of Contractor Robert S. Comins, a club officer, renovating and refinishing the rooms. The capacity is nearly double that of the present quarters and will satisfy the necessity for more space created by recent increases in membership.

When alterations are completed the new club rooms will comprise a living room, music room, billiard room and committee room.

The arrangement is such that several of the rooms may be turned into one large one, and many meetings, social dances and other gatherings are being planned for the coming season.

Everything is being finished in most modern style, electric lights are being installed and draperies and other furnishings will make the quarters most comfortable.

The club has an active membership of 38 and with its acquisition of new club rooms prospects for a large increase are good.

Much of the aggressive policy, pursued by the club during the current year has been due to the activity of the president Lucien H. Thayer, and the vice president Robert S. Comins. Other officers are Raymond Hall secretary and Clarence Armstrong treasurer.

To institute the proposed changes a general committee consisting of Robert S. Comins, Max O. Pinkham and Charles H. Sayward, Jr., was appointed; also a fiance committee consisting of Charles K. Hogan, Clarence S. Armstrong and Albert C. Armstrong.

Four firemen, including Chief George A. Nason, were overcome by smoke at a fire in the home of Tax Collector Frank W. Holbrook of Holbrook on Wednesday morning. They were resuscitated by physicians.

HIGH SCHOOL BASE BALL

Squad of Candidates Nearly Cut in Half

The High School baseball squad has been cut nearly in half during the past week, and now numbers thirty-one candidates. Of these, twelve are battery men, several of whom will probably be dropped during the coming week, says Coach Mansur.

The biggest problem seems to be at first base. Twelve candidates came out for the place and six survive. Among these six, however, there is little good material, every one of them being green at the position and very weak so far at the bat. The rest of the infield will probably be filled by Creedon, Capt. Larkin and Bates, last year's veterans, with Martin as utility, the latter being able to fill any one of the places acceptably. Powers, fields well, but hasn't hit much as yet.

In the outfield Ford, Catler and Dolan have the call. O'Connor, the pitcher can also play one of these places in a pinch.

There seems to be a scarcity of material from the Senior class, and it is doubtful if there is a senior as a regular on the team when the season starts. This will be a handicap to the team as far as size is concerned, but on the other hand it means that graduation will harm the team but little, and that this year should see the beginning of one of the best baseball teams that ever represented the school.

A list of those on the squad follows:

Infielders:—Larkin, Martin, Creedon Bates, Powers.

First basemen;—Hultin, Arthur, Jenkins, Burrill, Crosscup, McDonald.

Outfielders;—Ford, Catler, Torrey, Davis, Welsford, Reardon, Dolan, Browne.

Catchers:—Hamlin, Young, Stedman, DeSenson, O'Donnell.

Pitchers;—Sawyer, Anderson, O'Connor, Murphy, Crocker, Favreau, Safford.

PARALYSIS ENDS DRAPER'S LIFE

Ex-Governor of Massachusetts Dies In South Carolina

HE WAS ON HIS WAY HOME

Amassed Fortune as Manufacturer of Textile Machinery and Had Long Been Active In Politics, Serving Two Terms as State's Chief Executive—Family at His Deathbed

Greenville, S. C., April 10.—Eben S. Draper, former governor of Massachusetts, died here last evening.

Draper was stricken with paralysis here Tuesday. He was 56 years old, and a prominent manufacturer of textile machinery in New England.

The condition of Draper had been serious from the time of the attack. His entire left side was affected by the paralytic stroke. In addition to physicians here and from Atlanta, who were called on the case, two doctors from Boston were summoned.

Draper was stricken at a hotel here a few hours after his arrival on his way home from a trip to Florida and Cuba. As soon as his condition was noted by the physicians telegrams were sent to members of his family in Massachusetts, summoning them to his bedside. They arrived before his death.

Eben Sumner Draper was a man of many qualities. Born in that part of Milford now known as Hopedale, on June 17, 1858, he went first to the public schools, then to Allen's school at West Newton, and at 16 took the mechanical engineering course at the institute of technology to fit himself for the business of a manufacturer and seller of cotton mill machinery.

He was graduated from the institute in 1880, and then spent three years in the hardest kind of toil in the machine shops of his father at Hopedale, that he minght learn at first hand about the product he was to sell.

Later he entered several cotton mills of the New England textile centres, studying every phase of the business. In all he put in three years learning the practical end of the industry which was to be his life work, and with the knowledge thus acquired he became selling agent for the several Hopedale concerns in introducing new machinery.

During the early part of his life Mr. Draper confined his interests solely to business and it was not until 1892 that he became a conspicuous figure in the political life of the state.

In 1892 he was chosen chairman of the Republican state committee. He went as a delegate from Massachusetts in 1896 to the Republican national convention at St. Louis. Four years later he was Republican presidential elector for the Eleventh congressional district.

In 1905 the Republican state convention unanimously nominated him for lieutenant governor and he was elected and was inaugurated in January, 1906. He was twice re-elected.

In 1908 he was nominated for governor and was elected. He served two terms—1909 and 1910. He ran for a third term but was defeated by Eugene N. Foss, the Democratic candidate.

Draper always had large business interests under his care. Despite his many business and political interests, however, he always devoted much time to his home life. He was married in 1883 to Miss Nannie Bristow, the daughter of General Bristow of Kentucky, secretary of the treasury in the cabinet of President Grant and a candidate for president against Rutherford B. Hayes in 1876.

Draper's chief recreations were golf and yachting. His stables were noted, and he kept many thoroughbreds.

Draper's wife died suddenly from heart disease Sept. 24, 1913. From that time on the ex-governor failed rapidly, never reconciling himself to his loss.

A Unitarian in religion, Draper was some years ago elected vice president of the American Unitarian association. He was a member of several prominent clubs.

PANAMA ILLUSTRATED

At Meeting of Massachusetts Fields Association

An interesting stereopticon lecture on "Panama" was delivered by President John L. Hamilton of the Quincy Board of Trade before the Parents and Teachers' association of the Massachusetts Fields school at its monthly meeting, Thursday evening.

The speaker touched on Jamaica and the cities of Colon and Panama, as well as describing in detail the marvellous feats of engineering construction accomplished at the isthmus.

The system of sanitation in force in the Canal Zone, and an interesting digression on banana raising were features of the talk.

Over one hundred views were shown which were taken by the party and contained many scenes out of the ordinary run. Numerous personal anecdotes were related and William E. Hingston, a local resident, who made the trip with the speaker, was seen in not a few of the slides.

David H. Goodspeed, principal of the school was the other speaker and took for his subject "Good habits." Among those to be desired were obedience, truthfulness, concentration and free initiative.

"Oh, light bearing star" and "Lily of the valley" were two songs contributed by Grade Seven.

President Ripley reported the favorable action of the city council regarding the purchase of land for a playground, which now awaits the Mayor's signature.

Principal Goodspeed reported the layout of school children to be equally distributed throughout the district. There was no congestion in any one portion.

The question of an addition to the school was again agitated but no action taken. Next month being the annual meeting the following were appointed a nominating committee: Nicholas Kapler, Mrs. Payne, Miss Ruth Taylor.

Corruption.

Men are not corrupted by the exercise of power or debased by the habit of obedience; but by the exercise of a power which they believe to be illegitimate and by obedience to a rule which they consider to be usurped and oppressive.

SPORT NEWS

The grammar school base ball league will have an early opening this year, and the project is now being considered by teachers and children. As in past years the schedule will be divided into two divisions, the winners of each to play for the city championship in a post season series. The boys have been out practicing since the snow disappeared. Many of last year's boys are candidates for the High school team and while they are hardly expected to make the nine they have so far demonstrated a material that should be a valuable reserve in succeeding years.

The United Presbyterian Sunday School basketball team defeated Wollaston Congregational Thursday afternoon by a score of 62 to 6. Dave Morrison and Joe Robertson were the stars for the winners scoring respectively 13 and 12 baskets. By winning this game the U. P. team is tied with Sacred Heart for first place in their division, and the final contest between the two Saturday afternoons should be a spirited one. The winner of that game will play K. O. K. A. for the championship of Class A.

Enthusiastic interest in one's occupation is always an advantage, but, on the other hand, it is not well for a woman in business to talk of her work at all times and places. The Footlights Glare

QUINCY MUSIC HALL.

The great feature at Quincy Music hall Saturday matinee and night will be "Treasure Island," a powerful version of Robert Louis Stevenson's well known book of adventure. Buried treasure is one of the very foundations of romance. This thrilling Warner's Feature follows Stevenson's original story closely, and the result is a stirring production depicting the merry life of a pirate crew and their hunt for buried treasure. Billy Bones dies of apoplexy at Mrs. Hawkins' inn, leaving a sea chest which contains a map of Treasure Island. John Silver and his pirate band endeavor to get possession of the map but fail. Mrs. Hawkins and her son Jim, set sail with Squire Trelawney and Doctor Livesey, to reclaim the treasure. Silver and all of Flint's old pirate crew manage to get aboard the ship as sailors. Jim Hawkins, the cabin boy, concealed in an apple barrel, overhears Silver plotting to seize the ship and kill the owner. The treasure hunters escape by a small boat to the old stockade and there repel the pirates in a fierce battle. Later, Jim, wandering about the island, comes across Ben Gunn, half-crazed, who had been left on the island three years before by the pirates. Gunn has found the gold and piled it up in his cave. For a piece of cheese, he reveals it to Doctor Livesey, who then saves Jim's life by offering the useless map to the pirates.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

Shakespeare will once again hold the Castle Square stage. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be given next week, and it will be an elaborate spectacular production with stage settings, lighting effects from designs by Livingston Platt, whose work has already been favorably received at the Castle Square. The cast will include the entire company, with Mr. Craig as Lysander, Mr. Carleton as Demetrius, Mr. Walker as Bottom, Miss Olsson as Helena, Miss Gill as Hermia and Miss Mary Young as Puck. "A Midsummer Night's Dream" will be given for only one week.

TREMONT TEMPLE.

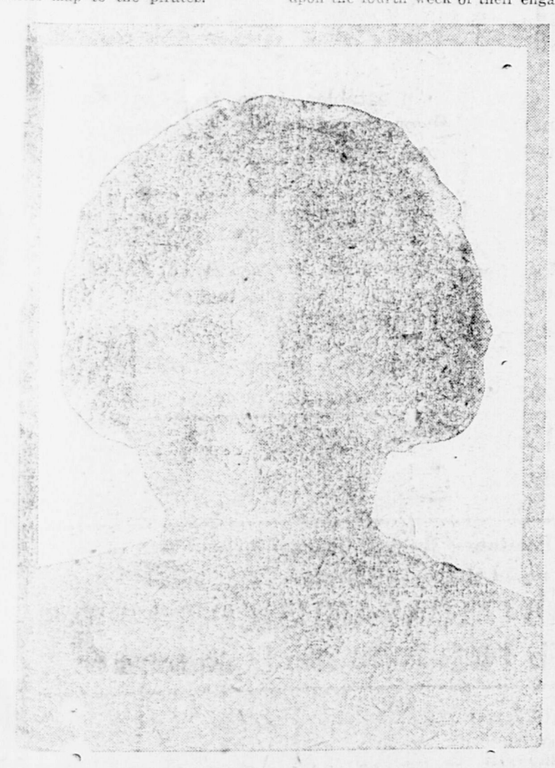

Only another week remains for the engagement of "David Copperfield," a photo-play, at the Tremont Temple, Boston. The production is an adaptation of Charles Dickens' famous novel and rings true to the story. It is one of the best literary treats of the season. As an added attraction Mme. Claire Dorva, a Parisian coloratura soprano, renders operatic selections between reels. Her program, which is usually made up from familiar opera is changed weekly.

Monday afternoon April 20, George Kleine's photo-drama "Quo Vadis" will begin a limited engagement. This remarkable production, which is adapted from the novel of the same name, is presented in eight parts, and is the most stupendous photo-production ever made. There will be daily matinees.

CORT THEATRE.

Amidst gales of laughter, melody, beauty of femininity and scenic embellishments, Kitty Gordon and her perfect supporting company have entered upon the fourth week of their engagement at the Cort Theatre.

Here is a comedy with music that to the busy business man can tersely be described as:—"A Laugh or a Song Hit Every Minute." This merry entertainment is a classic as regards "Novelty" as it is entirely different from anything you have ever seen. The play tells a most charming, intensely interesting and highly amusing story, and likewise fairly revels in an Aladdin-like series of musical surprises all of which is topped with an excellence of cast which includes in addition to the lustrous Kitty Gordon, Charlotte Greenwood and Sydney Grant who have likewise registered their hit of their careers, Harrison Hunter who was last seen in Boston as leading man for Helen Ware; Roy Atwell who created the leading comedy role in Emma Trentini's "The Firefly;" Edward Mertindel formerly leading man of "The Naughty Marietta" company; Lillian Tucker of "Madam Sherry" fame, James Gleason and the California double qaurtet.

Blanche Ring in "When Claudia Smiles", Shubert Theatre, Beginning Apr. 13.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

The great crowds that have attended the performances of "Under Cover" which enters upon the seventeenth week of its engagement at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, during the Lenten season is conclusive evidence of the immense popularity of the piece and adds to the great number of tributes paid to this remarkable play. In spite of the fact that the play will soon step into its fifth month there is as much, if not more, interest just now than ever before. There is every reason to believe that the play will achieve a record run that in all likelihood will remain unbroken for years to come. One has only to witness it to readily understand why it is the most talked of play in years. Roi Cooper Megrue, the author, has succeeded in constructing a play unusual in its charm and interest. "Under Cover" represents the highest phase of New York society life and would-be smugglers. It is replete with thrills, mystery and surprises, that keeps you intensely interested from start to finish. There is plenty of action in each act and the charm of the play lies in a delightful love story that runs as an undercurrent. There will be an extra matinee April 20, Patriots Day, in addition to the regular Thursday and Saturday matinees.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Jane Cowl, the talented and beautiful young actress of undisputed charm, heads the excellent cast for "Within the Law," the stirring drama of modern metropolitan life which is now in the ninth big week at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, where it is playing to crowded houses at each performance, portrays the role of a girl, who, after spending three years in prison for a crime of which she is innocent, attempts to reestablish herself among reputable people but is persecuted by the police, hounded out of honest employment and forced into a life of crime. From a timid, shrinking girl she develops into a brilliant, daring woman of cleverness and ingenuity, becoming the leader of a band of crooks who prey upon society at will and manage to avoid the clutches of the police by remaining always "Within the law," although they employ the artificialties and technicalities of the law to safeguard their illegitimate pursuits. She also avenges herself upon the man who unjustly sent her to prison almost breaking his heart, through his son and heir. Eventually she falls in love with the young man, and is restorred to her rightful position. Wednesday and Saturdays, the usual matinees are given.

COLONIAL THEATRE.

The latest of the German light operatic successes to be made over into a form to fit the American dramatic palate is Thomas W. Ryley's "The Queen of the Movies," which will appear at the Colonial Theatre, Boston, Monday night for a three weeks engagement. In its original form it was called "Die Kino Koenigen." From the joint pens of Julius Freund and George Okonowski it had instantaneous welcome wherever German is spoken. It is still playing in a half a score of cities in Germany, Austria and Switzerland. The plot deals with an eccentric scientist, whose young wife is bitterly opposed to moving pictures. To effect the campaign which the scientist's wife is waging, Cecilia Gill, the leading moving picture actress of Washington, manages to entice the "professor" to her apartments where he is caught by the cinematograph. When the pictures of the scientist are shown at a moving-picture theatre his family makes ludicrously frantic attempts to suppress them. The situations lend themselves to comedy. Music is one of the strong features. It is by Jean Gilbert, a young composer who has sprung to fame and popularity in Germany almost overnight. He has three operettas playing in Berlin—Die Kino-Koenigen —Puohen —and The Tango Princess. The last named has scored such success that a dozen "road companies" have been scattered over the German and Austrian empires.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

Blanche Ring, that delightfully unusual comedienne who not only sings songs in a way that is all her own, but who makes her audience sing with her whether they can sing or not, comes to the Shubert Theatre, Boston, for a limited engagement, beginning Easter Monday night, following an engagement at the Thirty-ninth Street and Lyric Theatres, New York, where the new song play with girls, "When Claudia Smiles" was pronounced "a typical Broadway show." Anne Caldwell, author of "The Lady of the Slipper" is responsible for the bright lines and amusing situations with which the piece abound, and Buck and Stamper provided most of the tuneful melodies that are scattered through the three acts. The curtain rises on the foyer of the famous Ritz-Carlton Hotel, New York, and the play proceeds without the "opening chorus" of the typical musical comedy. It is not, in fact, until the appearance of Claudia Rogers, a fascinating and extremely well dressed show girl, that the beauty chorus get their opportunity to become prominent. Act second shows Claudia's daintily furnished and very attractive boudoir. It is a busy day for Claudia who is interrupted by all sorts of persons from the two admirers each of whom thinks the other her papa, to a jealous wife accompanied by the police and most of the principals in the cast. Peace is restored, however, in the third act where everyone is back at the Ritz-Carlton, and a "tea-dansante" is in progress.

ASSESSORS BILL REPORTED

May Put Appointment Under Civil Service

Because of the fact that Quincy has had eight different Assessors thus far in 1914, only four months, it may be interested in a bill reported in the Legislature this week by the committee on cities, which provides that the mayor, or the officer or board having the powers of mayor, shall hereafter appoint the assessors in every city of the Commonwealth, subject to the civil service laws and rules. Assessors in office at the time of the passage of this act shall not be required to undergo the civil service examination, but shall continue to hold office subject to civil service rules. A similar provision is contained in the bill relating to assistant assessors.

The question of the method of the appointment of assessors has been before the Legislature for a great many years. At the last session of the Legislature, the recess committee on municipal finance recommended drastic legislation with the end in view to removing this character of public employees from outside political influence. Such vigorous opposition to the bill was presented, however, that the bill was killed in its early stages.

The bill has been reported in the Senate this year. It was killed by a voice vote, but, on motion of Senator Doyle ,it will be reconsidered. It is expected that the bill will receive the favorable consideration of the Legislature.

INSPECT LYNN APPARATUS

Mayor and Council Pleased With the Tractor

The City Council Committee on Fire Department, accompanied by Mayor Miller, went to Lynn on Thursday afternoon to look over some of the fire apparatus in that city. What they were particularly interested in was the work of a tractor, connected with a steam fire engine. They also saw an auto pump and had the pleasure of seeing it work. The committee were not particularly impressed with the working of the auto pump. They were, however, very much impressed with the working of the tractor in use.

The tractor engine was run out for a trial trip and the Mayor and members of the committee were given an opportunity to ride on the apparatus about the city. It was the first time the Mayor ever rode on a fire apparatus, and it was quite a sensation for him to be rushed through the streets.

The tractor is an auto apparatus that can readily be attached to Quincy's present steam fire engine, which is acknowledged to be one of the best pieces of steam fire engine in the state. All that would be necessary to attach the tractor would be to take off the front wheels of the steamer and drop the front part of the apparatus onto the tractor and it would be ready for use.

With this attachment it would be possible to make fully as good time in responding to alarms as if it was a motor pump. Best of all is the expense. While a motor pump would cost in the vicinity of $10,000, the tractor can be purchased for several thousand dollars less, and as far as the committee can see the results obtained would be equally as good as could be obtained with an auto pump.

MUSICAL CONFERENCE

Many Clubs Represented at Quincy Yesterday

By invitation of the Quincy Women's club a local conference of the Music department of the State Federation was held Thursday afternoon at the club house. Mrs. Chandler W. Smith president of the Quincy club, after extending a warm welcome to guests introduced Mrs. Edward R. Newton, chairman of the Music department of the State Federation who presided over the conference.

Mrs. Newton spoke of the importance of music in home life and briefly outlined the objects of the Music Department of the Federation. She defined the place of folk songs in developing an interest in music. She then introduced Julia Ritter McCormick of the Boston Opera Company who spoke on "The modern development of folk song," illustrating her subject with songs.

Mrs. McCormick said that folk songs are as old as man. That the folk songs of different nations are governed by the temperament of the people; thus Russia, with its burden-bearing people, has sad music; Italy and Spain, light and gay. Mrs. McCormick illustrated with a Bohemian folk song.

She then spoke of narrative songs, especially dealing with the historical songs of northern Europe. She illustrated with an English folk song and then sang a Scotch song, "Farewell to Loch Harbor," to illustrate the evolution from the simpler songs. Mrs. McCormick traced this evolution of music to the present time, illustrating further with an old English lullaby, set to a modern accompaniment, and lastly with a real art sang, "When the Sun went Down," composed by Delius (English) one of our most modern composers.

Mrs. William J. Reilly, of the Medford Women's club, a member of the music committee of the State Federation, was the next speaker. She gave outline No. 2, prepared by the State Feedration music department, "A Study of growth and advancement of Music." Mrs. Reilly said that for a long time the only artistic music was the church music, the old Catholic music. Mrs. McCormick illustrated with one of the oldest of the Gregorian chants and afterward sang Stabat Mater.

Mrs. Reilly showed how Luther adapted the music to tse Lutheran church, the choral becoming to that chhurch what the Gregorian chant was to the Catholic church.

Mrs. Reilly then spoke of the ballad, Mrs. MCormick singing "On the banks of Allan Water."

Instrumental music introduced with the voice was the next step traced by Mrs. Reilly and she showed how the Cantata was developed.

Mrs. McCormick sang Aria from Don Giovanni and a selection from Taunhauser. "In 1600 the first oratorio was produced," said Mrs. Reilly "and later in the 18th Century came the demand for instrumental music," and Mrs. Reilly traced the evolution of stringed instruments which led up to the orchestra, and finally culminated in the piano.

Mrs. McCormick's wonderful voice delighted her hearers, and aided greatly the understanding of the valuable outline as given so ably by Mrs. Reilly. Mrs. Reilly accompanied Mrs. McCormick.

Winthrop P. Tryon of Cambridge, Music Critic of the Christian Science Monitor, was the last speaker of the afternoon. His subject was,—"Music as a social regenerating force."

During the social hour which followed refreshments were served. Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, president of the Wollaston Women's Club, and Mrs. Laurance Sturtevant were the pourers. Each guest was given a jonquil.

The committee having the afternoon in charge was composed of Mrs. Frank A. Moore, chairman Music Committee Quincy Women's Club," Mrs. James Milne, Mrs. Carroll E. Bates, Mrs. Spencer Appollonio, and Miss Laura E. Coles.

Among the clubs represented were; Clifton Literary Club, Monday Club of Weymouth, Cantabrigia Club of Cambridge, Norwood Women's Club Frankiln Women's Club Wellesley Women's Club, Arlington Women's Club, Fortnightly Club, Winchester, Medford Women's Club, Women's Professional Club of Boston Dorchester Women's Club, Whitman Women's Club, Philergians of Braintree, Squantum Women's Club, Wollaston Women's Club.

Among those present were Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, vice president of the State Federation; Mrs. Gilson, second vice president State Federation; Mrs. Frank B. Hawley, director State Federation; Mrs. Blakley, State Federation Music Commitee, Mrs. William J. Reilly, State Federation Music Committee, Mrs. Gorham H. CITY HALL NOTES.

The City Council committee on Licenses met Thursday evening and passed upon a number of applications for minor licenses that had been referred to them.

The Assessors are out in quite a stylish rig this year, a three seated open carriage drawn by a handsome pair owned by Mr. Buckley, the principal assessor.

Charles R. Sherman who was on Thursday appointed as Assessor to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John A. Duggan, began his duties as such this morning.

The question has been asked by interested parties, whether or not Mr. Sherman is qualified to serve as Assessor in the City of Quincy. Mr. Sherman was assessed a real estate and poll tax in Quincy in 1913, but it has been reported that since that time he has taken up his residence with his daughter in East Milton.

CHURCH DEBT REDUCED

Water Streat Church in Good Financial Condition

The annual meeting of the Water Street Presbyterian church was held on Thursday evening and was attended by a large number of members who were very enthusiastic in the work of the church.

The officers of the different departments of the church work gave very encouraging reports. The church treasurer reported all bills paid on the running expenses of the church and the largest cash balance for a number of years.

The treasurer of the Church Improvement fund reported that a good slice had been taken off the debt during the past year.

The Ladies' Aid Society and the Christian Endeavor Society also reported good progress and a good sized cash balance in their treasuries.

The report of the Bible School showed excellent progress and a goodly sum in the treasury.

The Rev. J. A. Matheson gave a very encouraging report of his pastoral work and the progress being made in all branches of the church work.

A very enjoyable business meeting was brought to a close by refreshments served by the Ladies' Aid Society and some pleasant remarks by Councilman Charles A. Ross and others.

The officers elected are: Alex. M. Smart, president A. Wendell Clark, clerk; John MacKay, treasurer; John J. McLennan, John Rashleigh, Charles W. Clark, Alex. Mundie, D. J. McLennan and Alex Clark, trustees.

John D. Cobb, Esq., recently the Register of Probate for this county, will be one of the guests of the Norfolk Bar Association at its annual banquet which takes place next Wednesday evening at Young's hotel.

ON TOUR OF INSPECTION

City Council Committee Visit Ward Two Junk Men

Although today is the Jewish Sunday, in addition to Easter, it did not prevent unusual excitement in the Hebrew junk district in Ward Two, early this afternoon, when the police patrol wagon drove up, and out piled the City Council Committee on Licenses to whom have been referred an unusually large number of applications for licenses to collect junk.

In addition to the members of the Committee there were Chief of Police Burrell and Chairman Murray of the Board of Health. Chairman Murray has been carrying on a little cleaning up campaign in the so-called junk zone, and was able to show the committee some things that they perhaps would not have found had they gone on the trip alone.

Last year's License committee started the ball rolling by visiting the junk district before acting on the applications for junk licenses, with the result that quite a number of applicants were cut off, some being those who had held licenses for several years.

The appearance of the police patrol wagon with its load of councilmen created quite an excitement throughout the district, and it was but a few minutes after their arrival when every junk collector for miles around was aware of what was doing.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Pneumatic Scale Company Secure First Class Permit

The high wind this morning was blowing the dust in the streets about in great clouds that fill the eyes with blinding dust. Commissioner Brown got out his street sprinkling carts late in the morning and sprinkled the streets in City Square, but even then the high wind quickly evaporated the water. Nothing but oil will keep the dust down. The street watering order passed by the City Council, March 30, calls for the street watering schedule to go into effect on April 20.

Miss Mildred Tyler, clerk in the City Treasurer's office, who has been confined to her home for the past seven weeks with scarlet fever has so far recovered as to be able to be out, and this morning she paid a short visit to City Hall, where she was warmly welcomed and congratulated on her recovery. It is expected that she will return to duty after the holiday.

Among the building permits issued this week was one to the Pneumatic Scale Company of Wollaston for an addition to its plant. The new building is to be 90 by 130 feet, and is to be of concrete and will be one of the few of what is known, as first class buildings. The estimated cost of the building is $35,000. This building is the first of a series of unit buildings that this company intends to erect at its Wollaston plant. It is the intention of the company eventually to replace all of its present buildings with concrete buildings of first class construction.

LICENSES EXPIRE MAY 1

City Council To Act April 26 on Petitions

Monday night will be an off night with the City Council, for no meeting is scheduled for that evening. The next meeting will be held on Monday evening, April 26, and might well be known as license night. All licenses issued by the City Council last year expire on April 30, and unless new licenses are granted before that time, places holding victuallers, Sunday fruit, pool table, junk collectors licenses and permits to transport liquor can not legally do business.

In the case of most of these however, it has been the custom, when the parties have applied for licenses, to allow them to remain open for a few days after the first of May until the committee has had time to act. This however does not apply to liquor transportation permits, where expressmen are held strictly to the law, so that if no liquor permits have been granted by the first of May, no expressmen will be allowed to transport liquor into or in the City of Quincy, and any violation of this law would mean a liability of a fine of $50.

The liquor permits passed by the City Council at the meeting of April 26, will reach the Mayor's office on the following morning and he will have three days in which to make up his mind which, if any, he will approve.

It is also probable that junk collectors will, in view of the many complaints of the untidiness of their places be held strictly to the law, and if the City Council should grant all of the junk licenses applied for, the Mayor would be liable to have the writers' cramp before he had them all signed.

ONLY A BRUSH FIRE.

The alarm from Box 41 at 8.09 Friday night, followed almost immediately by the all out signal, was for a brush fire near the corner of School and Granite streets.

MAYOR MILLER MISSES AUTOMOBILE

Criticises City Council for Cutting Out Appropriation Which He Recommended

Efforts to Get Mayor to Fill Up Quarry Hole Futile

Mayor Miller was a guest at a largely attended mass meeting in the Wollaston Yacht club hall Friday evening, listened to the wants and needs of the citizens of Wollaston Park and Norfolk Downs, and was told how to run the city government.

T. L. A. Musgrave presided, and told the Mayor of reason for the meeting. Certain streets should be accepted, but the streets we now have should be taken care of before any more streets were accepted. One of the principal reasons of the meeting was to see what could be done about filling up the Apthorp street quarry hole.

The Mayor stated that he had gone over the district that afternoon. He had seen some things and considered them serious, and others not so serious. Phillips street ought to pass the Council, and they had practically received the playground. There was no doubt about the playground site, as he fully approved of it.

"The quarry hole must wait," said His Honor. "That $10,900 order would be but a drop in the bucket. There is no material to fill with. You might as well bring orders to fill all the granite quarries as that big hole down there.

"If you put an engineer on the job it would cost $50,000 to fill the big hole alone. But it is an ideal place for ashes, and with the use of street cleanings and using it as an ash dump it could be filled to the water level.

After going into the finances of the city and showing the need for an economical administration, the Mayor criticised the cuts made in appropriations he advocated.

"The Mayor did want a cheap buzz wagon" he said, "but they cut that out. He wanted another $700 buzz wagon for the inspector of buildings but they cut that out.

"This is one of the most serious cuts the finance committee ever made in the city. There were 700 building permits last year. The ordinance says the inspector shall inspect each building four times which makes 2800 calls.

"I am not here to make laws but to see them enforced, but when you see what some builders are trying to pass off and how they are trying to dodge the law, you realize how serious the situation is.

"When the city council backed by the carpenters cut out the buzz wagons, it was the most serious thing they ever did. The number of new fire horses was also cut.

CHEAP POLITICS.

"It looks like cheap politics, or why cut out three things the Mayor wanted. I can't see any other way.

"I have taken up the question of Elm avenue with the electric road. They were waiting for material, but work will be started next week or the week after."

Mayor Miller's address was followed by a literal avalanche of wants, protests and advice. The first on the list was E. E Palmer, spokesman of the meeting, who spoke very forcibly on the quarry hole matter and before the evening was over had contratdicted the Mayor several times, and taken issue with him on questions of operation and law.

"If a child falls in the quarry the city is liable" said Palmer," and God help the city if it is my child. The hole is an unwise thing from a disease standpoint. With a contour engineer it would cost $4,500 to fill the quarry."

He wanted Apthorp street accepted and agreed the building inspector should have a "buzz wagon."

The officers of the United States navy must now make the acquaintance of a hitherto unfamiliar drink known as ice-water.

As 2,000,000 base balls are made in this country annually, all will be well even if the corn crop does fail again.

There is no doubt that a "help wanted ad" can fill any situation, except perhaps that of ambassador to Russia.

Much hostility to the financial influence of New York is manifested, particularly when Amalgamated or "Katy" go the wrong way.

The railroad presidents are neglectfully spending their time running trains, when they should be out counting ties and spikes for the forthcoming physical valuation.

Many cities are starting clean-up movements, but they can't interfere with the satisfaction the householder finds in a cluttery back yard.

SAVINGS BANK LOANS.

The first duty of a savings bank is fidelity to the people, usually men and women of small means, who entrust to it their savings. In discharging its sacred trust it must close its eyes to the convenience of those who wish to borrow. If real estate in Milton, or that matter away up in the Berkshires affords better security than real estate in Quincy, it is the duty of the investment committee to govern themselves accordingly. Geographical lines and personal preferences must be disregarded in selecting the properties in which the funds are to be invested. It is because this policy has been steadily pursued that the Quincy Savings Bank is today in such healthy condition.

Doubtless the bank people, like all other public spirited citizens, would like to see building and other forms of enterprise encouraged in Quincy, but they should not and do not allow any such consideration to influence them in seeking desirable investments. Moreover, it happens that by far the greater part of the mortgages held by this bank are on Quincy realty. Therefore no just cause of criticism exists.

SKILL IN TYPEWRITING.

Some wonderful records in skillful typewriting are being made nowadays. Miss Bessie Friedman of New York broke the world's amateur record the past week at a Business Efficiency exposition at Boston. She wrote at the rate of 127 words a minute. Miss Sarah Rosenberg of Brooklyn did what seems even more wonderful in the accuracy contest. She wrote 2569 words in a half hour, or 85 per minute making only one error in the entire work.

It is a problem of general interest how the average person can acquire even a fraction of the skill suggested by the above records. Young people who are learning to typewrite must anticipate that business men will demand a higher rate of efficiency than formerly. Methods are being systematized, and large offices in particular hold their typists down to a certain minimum of accurate production.

Many young people attend schools that make glowing promises of what can be acquired in a few weeks. They are taught slovenly short cuts and incorrect methods that in the end work against high degrees of accuracy and speed.

A typist needs to be not merely quick in motion, but it is not a calling fitted to very nervous and high strung people. Their muscular control goes wrong as soon as physical weariness begins to assert itself.

Many newspaper workers and professional and business men learn to operate typewriters for themselves. The product is variegated in alignment and spelling.

But business and professional men who have to write a good deal can increase their output three times by learning the typewriter. The objection is made that when the amateur's mind is taken up by hunting for the keys, it interferes with the flow of ideas and hurts his style of composition. But if at the start he will take some pains to learn correct fingering, he should in a few years think as little of his keys as the bicyclist thinks of his balance.

COLLAR FOR SAM WOOD

Manet Encampment Proud of His Advancement

Sam Wood, Jr., past grand patriarch of the Grand Encampment, I. O. O. F., of Massachusetts, and past grand representative of the Sovereign Grand Lodge was "collared" Friday evening by Manet encampment of which he has long been a member. There are several ways of a man being "collared," that of Friday evening being most agreeable, as it took the form of the presentation to him by his home encampment, a handsome combination Past Grand Patriarch and Past Grand Representatives collar, which is an insigna of the important offices which he has held in the order.

The presentation came at the regular meeting of Manet encampment, the presentation speech in behalf of the encampment being made by Past Chief Patriarch Frank W. Flowers, who spoke of the many honors in Odd Fellowship that had come to their fellow patriarch, and of the high regard in which he was held in Odd Fellow circles throughout the Commonwealth.

In receiving the gift the Past Grand Patriarch expressed his thanks for the most loyal support that Manet encampment had always given him, and of the great interest he had always taken in the order.

At the business session several applications for membership were received. A collation was served.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

A very pretty party was held Friday when Marjorie Dame entertained her friends at her home on Botolph street the occasion being her tenth birthday. The guests assembled at 5 o'clock and games were enjoyed until they were invited to partake of what the dining room had in store for them. This consisted of cold lamb, lettuce, pickles ham, peanut butter, bread and butter sandwiches, strawberries and cream, ice cream, cake, candy and cocoa.

Again games were enjoyed and songs sung, Miss Emma Walker, entertaining on the piano. When 8 o'clock arrived all declared they had had a most enjoyable time and wished their hostess many more birthdays. Marjorie was the recipient of many pretty gifts.

Those present were: Katharine Whittier of Wollaston, Hope Duesbury of Providence, R. I., and Marion Gurney, Helen Cherrington, Constance Stecher, Ruth Beeman, Olive Fuller, Marietta Luke, Barbara Hobbs and Mildred Newman of Atlantic.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING.

The Old Colony Memorial says: The Plymouth Advertising Club is making itself known by an increased interest among the business men who are members of that organization, and it well deserves the co-operation of all residents of the town. The club stands for "truth in advertising," and readers of the Memorial when they see an advertisement signed by "A member of the Plymouth advertising club," can have confidence that any statements therein are reliable. Probably this careful regard for the highest ethics in advertising is not so necessary in Plymouth as in some places, notably cities, where extravagant claims and untruthful statements are more often in evidence. Plymouth merchants are little open to the charge of untruthful advertising, but the motto of the club is a good one to bear in mind.

The funeral of Charlie W. Ganzel, the old time base ball player was held Friday afternoon from the home of his son, 232 Billings road. CHANNEL APPROPRIATION

Good Work by Commissioner Crane at Washington

Dock and Water Front Commissioner Frank Fessenden Crane returned from Washington on Friday where he had been in the interest of an appropriation for the dredging of the channel near the Fore River bridge.

Under the act of 1911, an appropriation of $140,000 for improvements was due to the opportune demand of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts for filling material for the new pier at South Boston. At that time a dredging contract was let by the United States at a price for a little more than half the usual price for dredging in this vicinity was secured. The improvement was finished and an unexpended balance of $60,000 was left.

On July 13, 1913, Commissioner Crane appeared before the River and Harbors committee in Washington and asked what the unexpended balance be used for dredging the east side of the Quincy Point draw, and also for a survey for an expenditure for a 24 foot channel.

The survey was granted and the United States District office recommended the expenditure of $21,000 for the improvement requested, but did not recommend the $309,00 for the 24 foot channel.

The interests of the City of Quincy, the Port of Boston, and the United States government now building war vessels here, demanded that there should be ample draft to take such vessels to and from the works of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation.

For this reason last Friday with letters from the Mayor of Quincy, the Board of Trade, Maritime Committee of the Boston Chamber of Commerce and Mayor Curley of Boston, and accompanied by Mayor Curley, Commissioner Crane went to New York and appeared before Division Officer Lieut. Col. Francis V. Abbott and asked that the matter be re-opened and received his advice as to how to proceed.

Commissioner Crane then went to Washington and interviewed the army officers of the Board of Engineers, Senators Lodge and Weeks and Chairman Sparkman of the River and Harbors committee, and acting under their advice Senator Weeks introduced an amendment for a 24 foot deeper water way from Hingham bay to the Quincy Point bridge.

Senator Weeks also introduced an amendment to the Rivers and Harbors bill of the 63d Congress providing that $21,000 of the unexpended balance of the appropriation made in the Rivers and Harbors bill approved Feb. 27, 1911, is hereby made available for widening the channel at the Quincy Point bridge.

The most important matter accomplished however was the amendment offered by Senator Weeks for a 24-foot channel from Hingham bay to the Quincy Point bridge.

G. B. BATES TO TOUR CITY

It is said that G. B. Bates will make a speaking tour of the city to give the people his views on the grade crossing problem. He is announced as a guest of the Squantum Improvement association next Tuesday, when his subject will be:—"Abolition of grade crossings, and what is the matter with Quincy." He will also be a guest of the Wollaston Citizens Association on Friday evening, April 24.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

Quincy Lodge, Order of Universal Brotherhood met at the church parlor Wednesday evening. This is the organized young men's Bible class taught by the pastor. The meetings have been interesting and the attendance good. The order is known as the O. U. B. It was instituted about four years ago at Malden, and now numbers over 20 lodges, the Quincy Lodge being No. 20. It was instituted Jan. 14 at the home of the pastor, by the Grand President, W. D. Sprague principal of the Dedham High school. The Lodge attended the large convention and banquet at Cambridge in January. It has paid a visit to the Brookline Lodge, and last Tuesday, despite the rain, all the members of the Quincy Lodge attended a meeting at Cambridge. They witnessed the first production of an original play by the grand secretary. The play was voted a great success. Quincy Lodge has voted to hold its meetings twice a month hereafter, on the second and fourth Wednesdays. The Jamaica Plain Lodge is invited for the next meeting, April 22.

EASTER PREDICTION.

The weather indications for Easter Sunday are for increasing cloudiness and warmer. The promise of possible showers holds, but little encouragement for those who are planning a display of Eastery finery. Generally cloudy weather with showers probably in the afternoon or night and colder at night make it appear that Easter millinery may be in for a wetting; and is none too cheering for those who have purchased expensive hats. Perhaps the weather man may be way off.

Sweeney and is doing well this morning.

EARLY RUMORS POLITICALLY

Representative Sullivan May Be Mayoralty Candidate

Friends of John D. Mackay are urging him to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for representative from the Fifth Norfolk district, and if they prevail upon him there will be a three cornered contest for the nomination. Already Daniel Scouler, Jr., and Col. Albert H. Whitman have declared their intention of running.

Speculation is rife concerning the attitude of Representative Sullivan toward another term. In some parts of the city a strong impression prevails that he will seek mayoralty honors while men that interested themselves in his behalf say that his record as a legislator is one of merit and that he will be returned to Beacon Hill as the Democratic representative. No Democrats have announced as yet that they seek the office.

SUPERIOR COURT.

The trial list for the present term of Superior criminal court at Dedham is out, and although quite long there are few felony cases on it compared with former lists, disproving the old theory that a hard winter promotes crime. Judge Raymond will preside.

The jail cases will be taken up Monday and disposed of first. On Wednesday morning there will be a general calling of the list at which time all defendants must answer personally or by counsel, or be defaulted.

The cases against Mrs. E. Grace Reynolds of the "Cedarcrest Club" of Braintree will probably be disposed of at this sitting.

The case of Harry Stone with alias, is on this list, being a suit brought several years ago on a recogizance, the defendant, who was charged with attempted larceny from the person in Quincy, having defaulted when his case was reached.

The delay in pushing this case was discussed from the stump last fall by one of the candidates for the office of district attorney and pertinent questions were asked in connection with it. It looks as if the suit would be pressed this time.

It should be understood that Capt. Daniel R. McKay of the Quincy police who had charge of the original case, has always been anxious that the suit on recognizance be pushed and payment of the money insisted upon.

BRIEFS

Rabbi Fleischer of Boston will speak under the auspices of a Boston civic association in Wollaston within three weeks if the hall of the Wollaston grammar school can be procured.

The funeral of James Fostello was held this morning from his home at 35 Newcomb street, and was well attended. Services were conducted in the St. John's church by Rev. Fr. John J. Coan and interment was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

The funeral of Elizabeth D. C., widow of Benjamin F. Linton, who died in Chelsea on Wednesday, was held this afternoon from the home of her son George Linton of 37 Ritchie road. Services were conducted by Rev. Merrill C. Ward of the Universalist church and burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

Congressman Gilmore says he will recommend the erection of three federal buildings and that Rockland is one of the towns favored.

MAYOR MILLER

Then followed a tilt between Palmer and Mayor Miller concerning blasting and the merits of having a quarry filled up.

The Mayor denied the hole was the worst nuisance in the city. "There are some places at Quincy Point," he said "that would make your quarry look fit for the Queen of Sheba."

Mr. Palmer called for a vote of those in favor of filling up the quarry and a large number stood.

Mr. McDonald claimed this was taking an unfair advantage, as all those present were not familiar with conditions.

"Nothing would please me better," said Mayor Miller, "than to fill the hole. But we haven't the money. We cannot stand the rate increase and are trying hard to reduce it.

Mr. Palmer tried to make the Mayor promise to have the ashes collected in the vicinity dumped into the quarry.

Others present immediately got up and said if there were any ashes available they would like some put on their muddy streets.

Ex-Commodore E. A. Bean criticised giving one a cinder sidewalk free and making another pay half for a permanent sidewalk.

TOWN MEETING STYLE.

Others spoke on various subjects making wants known and giving criticism and advice in true town meeting style. Through all the controversy Mayor Miller sat calmly, joining in whenever there seemed a need.

In an extra speech the Mayor stated one department expense of $2600 had gotten by under the head of "miscellaneous." The other day he discovered two department officials were about to buy an auto truck with $2000 of this. He reprimanded them and will go before the City Council on the matter at the next meeting. They were penny wise on the building inspectors auto, but pound foolish on another matter they did not dig into at all, he said.

President Kelley of the Wollaston Park Improvement Association spoke a word for cooperation, and after further discussion the meeting adjourned, after passing a vote in favor of a "buzz wagon" for the building inspector.

SPORT NEWS

Enthusiastic bowlers who have watched the score sheet all season have noticed that Jenner of the Wollaston Tennis Club is one of the most consistent performers in the city and they are desirous of seeing a special 10 string match between him and Herb Smith to determine who is the best man. Jenners ball is a perfetcly straight one, seldom hooking, and then only when directly on the bunch. His speed never varies and single pins and spares are to him not difficult. Smith gets a slight curve on his ball and has it down so fine that he rolls it at all times. His single pin hitting is high class. If the members of the Wollaston Tennis Club are as interested in seeing Jenner in action as the fans are, they will lose no time in arranging the match, and from past experience we know that Herb Smith is always willing to consider a special match for fun, money or marbles.

The Brockton bowling team won from the Pond Street A. A. quintet at the Kennwood alleys last night. The visitors taking two out of the three strings and the Pond Streets the three string total 1197 pins. Brockton had a three string total of 1194 pins, Gaffney of the shoe city team had a single of 94 pins and a three string total of 264. Candle pins were used.

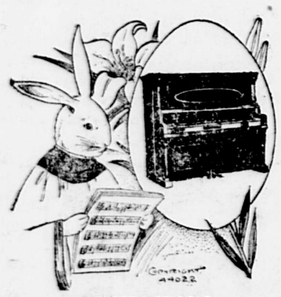

Our genial friend Mr. W. H. Cobb says his business is good. It should be with him for this is the month to buy farming tools and seed.

The bowling at the Cochato club up to and including last night for the week was as follows: Team No. 4 a single of 494 pins and a three string total of 1476 pins. E. C. Currier had a single of 126 pins and E. R. Olin a three string total of 334. The ladies will bowl their series Monday evening.

BOARD BALKED IN ITS INQUIRY

Commission Gets No Light on New Haven Deals

PROBE OF BILLARD COMPANY

Witness After Witness Refuses to Testify and Mandamus Proceedings Will Be Instituted—Attorney Tells of Removing $10,400,000 In Bonds From Vaults of the New Haven

Washington, April 11.—Attempts by the interstate commerce commission, at a public hearing, to learn the details of the financial relations between the New Haven railroad and its subsidiary, the New England Navigation company, on the one hand, and the so-called Billard company on the other, were blocked by the refusal of witnesses to assist the investigation.

Attorneys for the commission declare that, by unique transactions between the New Haven and the Billard companies, millions of dollars were improperly diverted from the New Haven, and that certain individuals officially connected with the two companies made huge profits.

Witness after witness absolutely refused to testify to the affairs of the Billard company, or to produce any of the books, records or agreements said to be in existence concerning its financial transactions.

Proceedings in mandamus to compel the recalcitrant witnesses to answer questions and to produce the books, records and contracts called for by the subpoenas of the commission will be instituted in the supreme court of the District of Columbia next week. Joseph W. Folk, chief counsel for the commission, made this announcement after a day of practically fruitless questioning.

Further proceedings by the commission were postponed until April 29, when, it is hoped, the courts may have passed on the mandamus proceeding.

The hearing was conducted by the commission by direction of the senate, for the purpose of disclosing whether the financial transactions of the New Haven, under the management of Charles S. Mellen, with the Billard company were legal, and whether any sums improperly diverted from the New Haven could be recovered.

The only witness of the day to admit any connection with the Billard company was Samuel Morehouse of New Haven, who said he was attorney for the company. He admitted he had removed from the vaults of the New Haven bonds and debentures of the New England Investment and Securities company amounting to $10,400,000.

"Did you leave anything in the vault?" he was asked.

"No," he replied, laughingly, "I cleaned it out."

Morehouse said, however, that he knew of no contracts between the New Haven and the Billard company, and he declined point blank to tell anything else about the company.

SAILS OFF ON PLANK

Escaped Patient From Insane Hospital Drowns In Kennebec

Augusta, Me., April 11.—"Leave me alone. Hurrah! I'm going home," shouted Henry Brackett of Biddeford when he escaped from an attendant at the state hospital for the insane and started down the Kennebec river on a plank.

He reached the Hallowell ferry, nearly a mile down river, when, apparently believing he was to be intercepted, he calmly slid off the plank and was drowned. He was committed last October and was 38 years old.

Another of the insane patients at the hospital committed suicide. Mrs. Georgie Lord, aged 52, of Fryeburg, who was brought here two weeks ago, hanged herself by means of a pillowcase which she tore into strips.

MAY SMOKE AFTER MEALS

Privilege Extended to Tombs Prisoners In War on Drugs

New York, April 11.—Dr. Katherine B. Davis, commissioner of corrections, issued an order permitting Tombs prisoners to smoke after meals.

Dr. Davis said the order was intended to prevent the smuggling of drugs into the prison. Smoking was stopped some time ago. She will discourage cigaret smoking.

Quartered by Sand Sucker

Newark, N. J., April 11.—Captain John Hanson was knocked into Newark bay and drawn into a sand sucking dredge and then cast through a fourteen-inch pipe, 2000 feet long, into the Newark meadows. In passing through the dredge the body was cut into four pieces.

Killed by Live Wire

Richford, Vt., April 11.—A highly charged electric wire, which had been broken by the wind, killed M. H. Derby, a railroad construction foreman, when it blew against him.

Arbitration Pact Signed

Washington, April 11.—Secretary Bryan and Sir Cecil Spring-Rice exchanged ratifications of the British arbitration treaty, which will continue for another five years.

LOANS LARGELY IN QUINCY

Wollaston Co-operative Bank Gives the Figures

Editor Quincy Daily Ledger:

As treasurer of the Wollaston Co-operative Bank, I wish to refute the statement of John L. Hamilton, which he made before the committee at the hearing in regard to the new Trust Company at Wollaston last Wednesday.

I appreciate the fact that he did not mean to include the Co-operative banks of Quincy, when he said "the banks were not loaning their money in Quincy, as they should, but were going outside of the city limits," for he so informed me after the hearing, but the public does not know that fact.

The Wollaston Co-operative Bank has $904,900.00 loaned on real estate and of this amount, $781,350.00 is secured by mortgages on real estate within the city of Quincy.

I was very glad to see the statement from Clarence Burgin in your paper as to the loans held by the Quincy Savings Bank, for it was entirely out of place for the President of the Quincy Board of Trade to "knock" the institutions in our city, which are helping us to be a city of homes and not a city of tenants.

Respectfully yours,

HERBERT W. PINKHAM.

Quincy, April 10, 1914.

O'BRIEN FINED.

William P. O'Brien of Brockton, charged with being drunk and disorderly conduct on a public conveyance took the stand in his own behalf at the resumed session of court Friday afternoon and gave a detailed account of what occured previous to his being removed from a train Saturday night on the complaint of a ticket collector for the railroad.

After the testimony was finished Judge Avery dismissed the charge of drunkenness and fined him $5 for disorderly conduct. In making the finding Judge Avery said that disorderly conduct in the broad sense of the charge had not prevailed, but that it was his own obstinacy that caused the situation. Sentence was suspended until July 29. William Blackman represented the railroad and Arthur L. Thomas the defendant.

CAPITAL IS IN BAD POSITION

Mexico City Menaced by Series of Rebel Victories

HUERTA IS GATHERING TROOPS

Important State of Guerrero Evacuated by Federals, Who Thereby Lose Strength In South—Surrounded In North by Rebels, According to Report From Villa

Mexico City, April 11.—With rebel victories reported from all points where constitutionalists have met government troops, and the withdrawal of the federals from the state of Guerrero, the position of Mexico City is becoming serious.

Troops are being gathered into the capital from points nearby. Preparations for defense are going on under cover. The number of troops now in the city is scarcely 4000, and it is reported that the real reason for keeping the fall of Torreon secret was to give the government an opportunity to bring additional forces into the capital.

Only rumors of the fighting at Torreon continue to reach Mexico City.

A federal loss which is as important strategically in the south as was the fall of Torreon in the north was the evacuation of Guerrero. The federals originally held Chilpancingo, capital of the state. The city was evacuated and Iguala was occupied and made the provisional capital.

Reports reaching here from Tampico declare that during the fighting there the customs office and storehouse were fired by rebel shells and destroyed.

The only point of importance now held by the federals in Guerrero is the seaport of Acapulco.

Reports Federals Surrounded

Juarez, Mex., April 11.—That desperate fighting has been in progress for the past several days at an Pedro between the rebel forces commanded by Generals Benavides, Ortega and Hernandez, and the federal troops of Generals Maas and De Moure was the substance of an official report made to General Carranza by General Villa.

Villa's dispatch stated that the federals were completely surrounded, and that the constitutionalists hoped to exhaust their ammunition and capture them. The dispatch added that all railway lines in the vicinity of San Pedro had been cut, thereby preventing any reinforcements reaching the federal army by rail from the direction of Saltillo.

Constitutionalist officials are elated over the visit of British Consul Myles of El Paso to Carranza to ask protection of the constitutionalists for British properties in Tampico.

As this is the first time that British representatives have dealt directly with the constitutionalist government, Carranza regards the visit of Myles, who acted under instructions from the British ambassador at Washington, as formal recognition of the constitutionalist government by Great Britain.

The protection asked for by Myles was promptly promised by the constitutionalist officials.

Mexicans Arrest Americans

Mexico City, April 11.—Several officers from the United States gunboat Dolphin at Tampico were arrested by the Mexican authorities, according to news reaching here. This brought from Rear Admiral Fletcher an immediate demand for an explanation by the Mexican government.

The affair was reported to Fletcher, who is at Vera Cruz, by Rear Admiral Mayo, in command of the warships at Tampico. Upon the demand of Mayo, the American officers were released after being held for several hours. Their detention is said to have been on the ground of alleged violation of neutrality by going ashore carrying sidearms.

Fletcher is said to have demanded the arrest of the Mexican officials who were responsible for the arrest of the American officers.

McCarrick Kidnapping Letters Are Believed to Be Hoaxes

Philadelphia, April 11.—Several weeks' search for a German farmer, the supposed author of two letters which stated that Warren McCarrick had been kicked to death by a horse and his body buried by the frightened owner of the animal, having proved futile, detectives working on the case are inclined to regard the letters as hoaxes.

The 7-year-old boy has been missing from his home for thirty days. Many clues have recently come to light, but when run down all have proved without foundation.

Fine Sleighing In Maine

Dexter, Me., April 11.—The best sleighing of the year is reported between Dexter and Guilford and Dover. Not a sign of bare ground exists on these two roads, and there is two feet or more of snow on a level.

EASTPORT SKIPPER HAVING GOOD TIME

Has Sailed 6280 Miles In a Twelve-Foot Sailboat

Galveston, April 11.—Coming from Eastport, Me., in a twelve-foot sailboat, Captain Anderson arrived in Galveston and passed the day here.

Anderson is 50 years of age, and is an "old salt" of the type now seldom seen. He left Eastport intending to travel by water around the entire coast of the United States. He has skirted the Atlantic and Gulf coast from the Canadian line to Galveston, and will continue to the Rio Grande. He will then proceed southward, go through the Panama canal and up the Pacific coast to Seattle. To date he has traveled 6280 miles.

He is hale and hearty and says he is having a good time on his novel trip.

DRAPER'S BODY IN BOSTON

Legislature Will Be Represented at Funeral of Ex-Governor

Boston, April 11.—The body of former Governor Eben S. Draper arrived in Boston this morning on board a special car from Greenville, S. C. Members of the family who rushed south when they learned of Draper's paralytic stroke came in this special coach.

As soon as the train reached Boston the body was taken to the Draper residence on Beacon street. The funeral services will be held Monday noon at King's chapel, this city, and at the Memorial church in Hopedale the same afternoon.

Governor Walsh sent a special message to the legislature on Draper's death. A committee was appointed to represent the general court at the funeral services.

C. F. ADAMS PRESIDENT

Twentieth Year At Head of Historical Society

Charles Francis Adams, president of the Massachusetts Historical Society, after a few months absence, presided Thursday at the annual meeting of the society and gave a paper on the "Lancashire Cotton Famine, 1861-1864," He said the story had never been told of the unexpected combination of circumstances which practically destroyed the cotton campaign of the Confederate States. By the beginning of the war in 1861 the British cotton production had been far ahead of the demand. In Lancashire a large stock of cotton goods was stored and also much had been sent to the East. The mills had a three years' supply on hand, and the credit of the capitalists was nearly exhausted. The withholding of Southern cotton, by which the Confederate States hoped to win the aid of England by bringing her to the necessity of using it, was destined to fail of its object. The stopping of this supply was the great relief which the English capitalists needed through the next three years to regain their solid financial conditions. The consequent rise in the price of cotton goods was an important factor in their relief. Cutting off the American supply did not affect the famine in Lincolnshire, which existed independently of it. Cotton, which had been counted as the great engine of destruction in the purpose of the Confederate States, failed to bring the result desired.

Mr. Adams was re-elected president and has entered upon his twentieth year in that office, which he had held a longer time than that of any of his predecessors, except the late Hon. Robert C. Winthrop. He gave a brief review of some of the problems that had arisen during his term of office and expressed his opinion as to their satisfactory solution and as to the important work which the society has before it.

Grenville H. Norcross, as cabinet keeper, presented his annual report, in which he called attention to the important gifts of the year. Among them is the collection of coins and medals made by John Quincy Adams and Charles Francis Adams, Sr., given to the society by Henry Adams, an honorary member.

MISS MOLLIE CRONIN.

Miss Mollie Cronin, who made her home on Grove street, West Quincy, for many years, died in New York city on April 10. She was the daughter of Hannah and the late John Cronin and was well known in this city. The body will be brought here, and on Monday morning there will be a high mass of requiem at St. Mary's church at 10 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery. Several years ago she went to New York to live with her mother and her death followed a long illness.

RAILROAD TAKES LAND

At Location Where South Quincy Needs Crossing

Announcement was made Friday that the railroad had taken the land of Louis Grossman off Federal avenue bordering on the railroad tracks in connection with the abolishing of the grade crossings. This is the land for the purchase of which there is an order before the City Council, for a foot way over or a subway beneath the tracks from Federal avenue to Penn street. The original plan called for the taking of the whole lot of forty feet in width, but later Mr. Grossman started to erect a building on the site, and it was desired that the city take a strip but sixteen feet wide. Now, however, that the railroad has taken the land by right of eminent domain, the order before the Council is of no use. It is believed that later some arrangement can be made with the railroad for a subway.

There is a fence beside the track at this point now, but that does not prevent hundreds of men, women and children using it as a crossing every day. It is a most dangerous crossing as it is now, and has been the scene of several fatal accidents. It means quite a saving in steps for many residing south of Water street, in the vicinity of Independence avenue and a crossing of some kind is needed badly.

The taking of this land by the railroad makes it look as though the grade crossing question was settled and that the railroad were getting ready to begin work at an early date.

BOWLING ALLEYS BURGLARIZED.

The office of Clayburn and Forbes proprietors of the Summer street bowling alleys in Boston was burglarized between midnight and dawn Friday morning and nearly $300 in cash taken from the safe. The firm also conducts the Coliseum alleys in this city. No explosives were used, the expert safe workers finding it unnecessary as they met with no trouble in ripping off the big iron door, so-called burglar proof money box and breaking into the little iron box containing the coin. It is suspected that the thieves concealed themselves in a vacant office until after the building was locked for the night. Police headquarters found it difficult to take photographs, because before working on the safe, a cloth with an acid was rubbed all over it so that imprints would not remain. Several tools were found in the office.

MANY GROCERS ARE COMING

Banquet in Evening Will Be Great Feature

Practically all details for the convention of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers association, to be held in Quincy next Wednesday, have been completed, and nothing remains but to carry out plans.

There is but little to add to what has already been said, in regard to the convention, other than that the applications for tickets to the banquet, would indicate that the attendance at this years convention will exceed in numbers any convention held for years.

The easy accessability of Quincy, both by steam cars from Boston and by street cars from all of the surrounding towns within twenty miles, will in a great measure act as an inducement for the grocers and provision dealers to take a day off from business and come and talk shop, with those in a similar line of business as well as to hear helpful talks from men, who may be called experts in this line of trade. Everybody get busy therefor and extend the right hand of fellowship to the visitors.

IN DAZED CONDITION.

A man giving the name of William J. Durant was found early this morning wandering about in a dazed condition on the Weymouth side of the Quincy Point bridge by Officer Nash. The man was brought into court, and his condition indicated that he had been doped. He was in no condition to be arraigned in court and could tell but little about himself. He was later sent to the Quincy police station where he will be examined and kept until Monday morning, when if his condition warrants he will be brought into court.

Mrs. Charles H. Burrell of Quincy avenue returned from a Boston hospital Saturday where she went for an operation. She is much improved in health.

Raymond McCabe, 15 years of age, employed at Stevens & Willis Co. tack works, fell into the pond Wednesday noon and was rescued by John Johnson, another employee.

The next meeting of the Hollis School Association will be held in the school hall, Tuesday evening, April 14, at 8 o'clock. Winthrop Packard, secretary of the Massachusetts Audubon Society, will speak, taking for his subject, "An Evening with our Birds" illustrated by an electric stereopticon. There will be music and a candy sale. All parents, teachers, pupils above the fifth grade, and friends of the school are cordially invited to be present.

Marcus L. Urann of Vine street was elected a director of the New England Cranberry Sales Company and also chosen a delegate to the American Cranberry Exchange at a meeting of the Sales Co. at Middleboro Thursday.

George W. Hanson, formerly of Shaw avenue, Braintree, died at Second Falls, N. B., on Monday, April 6, after a long illness. The funeral on Thursday was at St. Stephens, N. B. Mr. Hanson, when in good health was a reliable carpenter and was employed for over twelve years by George H. Holbrook. He leaves a devoted wife and three children, Estella, Charles and Arthur. The first born son, George, died in Braintree and is buried here in Blue Hill cemetery. Mr. Hanson was a member of the Knights of Pythias of Callais, Maine.

Mrs. Carrie Loring has been appointed department inspector of the Massachusetts W. R. C. on the staff of Mrs. Laura I. Smith.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES.

With unlighted altars and sanctuaries bared of all their ornamentations, and the door of the tabernacle thrown ajar, solemn and impressive services were held in the Catholic church on Good Friday. The mass of the presanctified was celebrated by the priests and was attended by a congregation that filled the edifices.

In the afternoon Stations of the Cross were said, and at the service the congregations were large. Adoration of the Cross continued throughout the day and evening.

In the evening all the churches of the city were taxed to their utmost capacity, many being obliged to take part in the services by kneeling on the outer steps of the churches.

In the evening at the St. Frances church at Houghs Neck where there was a canonical erection the new Stations of the Cross several weeks ago Rev. Fr. John J. Coan officiated.

At St. John's church the Stations of the Cross were officiated at by Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy and there was a sermon by Rev. Fr. Walter R. Quinlan.

SPECIAL SERVICE FOR KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

Sermon by Rev. Dr. Sneath at the Wollaston Congregational Church

Quincy Commandery Parades With About 75 Swords

In accordance with its annual custom on Easter Sunday, Quincy commandery, Knights Templars, attended services Sunday afternoon at the Wollaston Congregational church, at the invitation of Rev. Dr. I. W. Sneath. The commandery took a special electric car in City Square at 3.30 for Wollaston alighting at the corner of Beale street and Newport avenue where a line was formed and a march taken to the church on Lincoln avenue The commandery paraded about 75 swords and made an imposing appearance. The services were very largely attended, the edifice being filled to its capacity, and it was necessary to bring in chairs and even then, many had to stand.

The services opened with a prayer by the Associate Prelate, Rev. Rufus B. Tobey, who also read a lesson from the Holy Evangelist, closing with prayer.

Following this there was a forty-minute musical service by the choir, assisted by Miss Ruth Louise Hardy, soprano; Mrs. Minetta Dyer Long, contralto; Harry G. Rogers, tenor; and Charles H. Everett, bass. The music was under the direction of Miss Laura L. Archambault, organist and was of very high order, the cantata "The Resurrection" being rendered.

In opening his address, Dr. Sneath expressed his gratitude that the commandery were the guests of the church on this Easter Sunday. There are some things, he said, of which as yet we have light but partially. You are sympathetic with the story of this day and the fundamental truth the day recalls. The theme of his address was immortality and the future life. He spoke of the belief of the agnostic and the materialist, yet we are assured that we shall live again, and it was a universal belief. There is another life after death. The lines of every poet, every part of the beautiful music we have just listened to, affirms that man shall live again, and that we shall meet again in that other land.

The speaker at this point then quoted lines from the poet Whittier and Tennyson, showing that they looked forward to a future life. Shakespeare was equally as positive, said Dr. Sneath, as he quoted from Plato, Richard II and King John. There is a life beyond the river for the yearning of the human soul.

In the light of this knowledge it is for you and I to eliminate the question of doubt and put our trust in God. We want to encourage the principle of faith and have faith in God who will bring us at last into His presence.

Each of us therefore should go forward with life's duties day by day, ever trusting in God and with a conviction that life does not end here. He believed that everyone with courage would not yield to discouragement but take the duties of life as they come to us day by day, and live a life worth living and which is to be perpetuated.

The service closed with the audience uniting in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" and benediction by Dr. Sneath.

The audience remained seated until the commandery marched out. The lines were again formed and a march taken to the corner of Beale street and Newport avenue, where the special car was taken for Quincy.

PECULIAR CASE.

William J. Durant, who was found wandering in a dazed condition near the Weymouth side of the Quincy Point bridge early Saturday morning by Officer Nash, was not much better this morning. All day Sunday he was in a bad condition, and at times became so violent that he had to be strapped to his cot at the police station. The City Physician who was called gave it as his opinion that the man was suffering from alcoholism. He was brought to court this morning but his condition was such that he was not arraigned, but the court ordered that he be examined, and physicians were notified to come to the court and examine him.

THE SUNDAY ALARM.

The alarm from Box 153 at 1.50 Sunday afternoon was for a fire in the peat bog near the Norfolk Downs depot.

CRUSHED IN QUARRY

Fatal Accident at Granite Railway Plant

Michael O'Neil of Bates avenue was crushed to death by a block of granite weighing several tons at the bottom of the quarry of the Granite Railway Co. in West Quincy on Saturday afternoon. He lived about five minutes.

Mattie Keezer, a fellow-workman, who was beside O'Neil when the huge block suddenly loosened and slid, saved himself from meeting a similar fate by jumping into the air and catching a chain hanging to the pulley of the hoisting ropes.

O'Neil with other workmen was getting ready to hoist the rock to the top of the quarry and while setting the dogs the rock tilted a little. When the chains were adjusted it caught and while looking for the cause O'Neil walked to the side of the stone.

It was suddenly released and the lower edge which was almost as low as O'Neil's shoulders slid and crushed him. Chains were again adjusted and the stone lifted off the man by the derrick, and medical aid was summoned.

O'Neil lived less than five minutes. His body was taken to the surface of the quarry in the boat where it was examined by Dr. Fred E. Jones, medical examiner. He found that practically every bone below the chest was broken.

The funeral of Mr. O'Neil was held from his home this morning with a large attendance, among them being members of Div. 22, A. O. H., with which he was affiliated. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. Thomas R. McCoy. The musical portion of the mass the Gregorian chant by the regular choir under the direction of Mrs. Mary McKay Reardon, organist. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Mr. O'Neil leaves a widow, one son, John and three daughters, May, Annie and Dorothy.

AT MERCY OF THE WAVES

Houghs Neck Boys in a Row Boat Rescued

Edward Powers, the candidate for mayor, assumed the role of rescuer Sunday afternoon when he went to the assistance of three boys who had become exhausted while trying to make the Houghs Neck shore against a heavy west wind that swept Quincy bay. The boys had taken a row boat earlier in the day and experienced no difficulty until they reached Pigs Rock beacon. Becoming alarmed at the heavy sea they attempted to turn and head for the shore but were repeatedly beaten back. While their row boat was being tossed about at the mercy of the waves and being swiftly carried to sea their plight was seen by Mr. Powers. He and Edward Jarvis ran up and down the shore some distance before they found a boat and when they reached the boys they were in an exhausted state. The oldest boy gave his name as William Tyler, 12 years, of Rock Island. The names of his two younger companions were not learned. Mr. Powers in speaking of the rescue afterward said that the absence of boats for rescuing purposes on the Houghs Neck shore was deplorable and if elected he will have one placed there for this purpose.

ALL INVITED TO BANQUET

But Accommodations Are Limited to 200

Secretary Hall of the Quincy Board of Trade said this morning that anyone desiring to attend the banquet of the Massachusetts Grocery and Provision Dealers association Wednesday evening should notify him not later than Tuesday morning, and he would secure tickets for them.

From returns that have already been received, it is expected that there will be from 150 to 175 delegates and ladies at the Grocers convention.

One party of twenty will arrive about 10 o'clock. This will comprise those who resire to visit the shipyard, and arrangements are being made for automobiles to take them there.

Promptly at 1 o'clock parties of ladies will be made up for auto trips about the city, after which they will visit Kincaides theatre.

The convention of the association will open promptly at 1.30 in the afternoon. It will be held in the rooms of the Granite Manufacturers association in the Adams building.

The banquet in the evening will be served in Colonial hall and accommodations can be provided for about 200. Over 100 tickets for the banquet have already been sold, which with the invited guests who include then National officers, will swell the number to nearly 150 so that there will not be much room left. It is imperative that those who intend to participate in the banquet and entertainment should notify the secretary on or before Tuesday morning, and any outside of the association should, as noted above apply to Secretary Hall of the Board of TTrade who will arrange to secure tickets for them.

AN OLD OFFENDER.

Fred G. Oliver who was brought into court March 25, by Officer Avery on a default warrant, for taking an automobile at Wollaston three years ago without permission of the owner, paid another visit to the court this morning with Chief Bates of Cohasset as his sponser. Chief Bates charge against him was breaking and entering a summer cotage at Cohasset and the larceny of silver and clothing to the value of more than $100. He is also wanted by the police of Scituate on a similar charge. On the complaint he was given one year in the house of correction.

After leaving Quincy three years ago Oliver went to New oYrk where he made a record for himself with the police of that city. On the case March 25, he was fined $50 and was given time to pay up. Now that he has violated his probation he will probably have to serve out his fine of $50 in addition to the sentence of one year imposed.

Oliver was arrested at 4 o'clock this morning by Chief Bates and Officers Anton and Flemming as a suspicious character. He first gave the name of Vincent Oliver but was later identified as Fred G. Oliver. At the police station the bundle which he carried was found to contain clothing, jewelry and silverware, the latter bearing the name of John P. Mahoney of Sand Hills, Cohasset. The silverware was later claimed by Mr. Mahoney who claimed that his house had been burglarized, and that entrance had been gained through a window. A diamond and pearl ring found in Oliver's possession were also claimed by him as his property.

MISS CORLEW'S CLASSES

Close Season With Party at Alpha Hall

There was a large gathering of parents and friends at Alpha hall Saturday evening for the closing party of Miss Elizabeth Corlew's Wollaston and Atlantic classes in dancing.

At the head of the hall in front of a Miss Corlew and two little maids of honor Winnifred Barnes aged four and Doris Ricker aged five, received the pupils as they marched in, after which they were presented to the matrons Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Mrs. Herbert S. Childs, Mrs. Charles A. Stecher, Mrs. Frederick L. Cheever, Mrs. William H. Nickerson and Mrs. Russell Anthony.

Miss Corlew was assisted by her niece Miss Juliette Corlew, Miss Haynes of Dorchester was at the piano and Mr. Richardson of Brookline at the drum and their music was an inspiration to the little dancers who were remarkably proficient, several of the dances calling forth approving applause. The hesitation and Castle waltz were gracefully and prettily done.

There were several German figures for which thre were pretty favors, the boys being given Easter lily wands, and the girls flower crowns, which added a pretty touch to their dainty light gowns.

At the close of the party at nine o'clock ices and cake were served by caterers, bringing to an end this season's dancing classes.

Miss Corlew was presented with a large bouquet of violets by the Atlantic pupils and the matrons also gave her a dozen cut glass frappe glasses.

She expects to open her next season's classes early in October in the new clubhouse to be erected this summer on Beale street.

DISTRICT COURT.

The almshouses of Quincy and Randolph furnished two of the cases before the district court this morning. From the Quincy Home came John R. Wren who was arrested Sunday for drunkenness. He was sentenced to the state farm, his sentence was suspended and he was told to go back to the home and go to work. Randolph furnished Michael O'Connell who was also sentenced to the state farm for drunkenness.

Fred G. Oliver was sentenced to one year in the house of correction for larceny at Cohasset.

John Walkama was arraigned for assault on Matti Walkaman at Quincy. Case continued until April 22.

CROWDED CHURCHES AT EASTER SERVICES

An Overflow Reported at Some Churches of City and All Were Largely Attended

Music Prominent in the Programs and Children Take Part

FIRST PARISH CHURCH.

There was an unusually large congregation at the morning service Sunday at the First church. The music was especially fine at the service the church quartette being assisted by a chorus of young people from the Sunday School. At the opening of the morning service a class of twelve young people united with the church, this impressive service being conducted by the minister, Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson.

The minister's sermon was on "Faith in immortality" and was the concluding sermon in the series on "The great affirmations of Unitarian faith." It was a most able address and emphasized the fact that there was a hereafter, and that in the life beyond we should meet those whom we had known and loved on this plane, who had gone before.

At the close of the morning service there was a communion service to which many of those present remained.

The regular session of the Sunday school was omitted and at 4 o'clock there was a vesper service which was also largely attended. At this as at the morning service the Sunday School occupied seats in the gallery and assisted the quartette, the quartette and chorus being accompanied by the organ and Miss Jessie Hatch Symonds of Salem, violinist.

The floral decorations included Easter lillies which were placed about the pulpit while on one side of the pulpit was a large bank of geraniums.

At the morning service the minister announced that at the conclusion of the morning service next Sunday he woud have an important annoucement to make.

Rev. Mr. Hudson left this morning for Ellsworth, Me., and will be absent from the city for three or four days.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL.

Many were turned away at the morning services at Bethany church on Sunday, while others were content to sit in the chapel out of sight of pastor and choir. Over 2,000 attended the four Easter services, there being over 700 in the morning and 579 at the concert of the Bible school at noon.

The decorations were simple but beautiful, including palms and Easter lilies. All the ladies in the choir were gowned in white without hats; also the girls in the Junior choir, led by Mrs. Daisy Bemis Sampson, who contributed an Easter carol as response to the prayer. At both services the choirs were assisted by Miss Edith Roubound, violinist, and in the evening the vested choir was assisted by Mr. Anderson, Mr. Hayden, Mrs. Milne and Mrs. Moore in vestment, who rendered quartet parts. Miss Agnes E. Ruggles gave an organ recital from 7.15 to 7.30.

Rev. B. A. Willmott, the pastor preached an Easter message both morning and evening. The Easter message, he said was one of life not death. It was essentially a gospel that inspires a man to live worthily. It should not be cheapened by Easter sales, or Easter socials, for it had nothing whatever to do with what one wears. Jesus Christ puts on the soul the dignity of immortality. Live worthily.

At the Sunday School concert conducted by Supt. Hayward, a double quartette from the Junior choir sang the response, and the Cecilian quartette of young ladies sang the offertory. Different classes gave Scripture readings, and there was a song by the primary department. Mr. Willmott illustrated his talk to the young people with a beautiful Easter lily.

Bethany Brotherhood will hold its April meeting on Wednesday evening

Many gifted solo singers are preparing for the Easter music by getting stylish new spring millinery.

There is such bitter feeling in Congress over the tolls row, that the members occasionally drop into the hall for a few moments to hear the debates.

Since Ulster blew up, there are off days when the English newspapers fail to issue full instructions to Uncle Sam about Mexico.

Some hard-hearted men decline to give their wives money for one of those bargain Easter hats marked down to $37.50.

This big chewing gum corporation will do lots of business with the girls, but the men consider that tobacco is superior for ornamenting the sidewalks.

As usual in Mexico, the contending armies routed the innocent bystanders with great loss.

The principal duties of an English army officer appear to be to wear the uniform and issue orders to his superiors.

Miss Eleanor Wilson is shopping for her trousseau. If she wants to stand well in society, she must have many more ball gowns than working aprons.

Theatrical companies report a hard season, but perhaps if the matter was judiciously presented to Congress, they would make stage money legal tender.

Few restaurants advertise that they prohibit tipping, as they don't want to bother to put on an addition to accommodate the crowds that would come in.

Although the fighting down in Mexico does seem rather deadly, the natives consider it a pleasanter occupation than agriculture.

There is a good deal of criticism of the way the congressmen use the free mailing privilege. Pretty soon these refractory and contumacious postmasters will be claiming that it is not their business to help re-elect the congressmen.

Probably by next Christmas Mexico City will be permitted to know that Torreon has been captured.

It seems certain that England will exhibit at Panama, in spite of the fact that this valuable advertising will cost John Bull several dollars.

THE GIFT FOR SPEAKING.

Harvard, Yale and Princeton, have just had their annual triangular debating contest. The newspapers gave it about as much space as would be allotted to an inter-class baseball game. Nevertheless, this is a kind of contest that comes home very closely to a college student's future.

A debating contest is no matter of pale faced and anaemic scholarship. It is a real battle, where quickness of wit tells just as it does on the ball field. It is not the extent of a man's knowledge that counts. It is his ability to make his knowledge available for instant use.

Years ago, public speaking was taught much more widely. Every Friday afternoon the High school boys were lined up on the platform. They had their speeches by Burke or Patrick Henry to deliver. The girls gaped at their fervid oratory. Occasional delegations of parents saw visions of their darlings in the Legislature.

It is considered nowadays almost a public disgrace to have a son grow up into a successful politician. Comparatively little attention is given to training young folks in the art of public speech. Still of recent years many colleges have done what they could in these debating contests. Some High schools have debating societies.

Ability to think on one's feet and to express his views coherently is a gift of enormous value. The business man who can state a case concisely is greatly helped in attaining his ends.

The young aspirant for success gets more recognition in this way in a single evening than would otherwise come to him in a decade. The fellow who can address a public hearing, welcome distinguished visitors lead sentiment at mass meetings, is an asset to any community. The schools should value this gift higher and develop it.

THE ROYAL ROAD.

Ways and means of stimulating trade in Quincy are being constantly devised by the Merchants' Association and the Board of Trade. Doubtless some of the plans suggested have merit and, if acted upon vigorously and unitedly, would produce the desired results to some degree. But the only royal road to the desired end lies not so much through united effort,—although that should not by any means be decried,—as through the earnest endeavor of each business man to make his own business succeed.

Two things are indispensible in this connection, namely, the carrying of reliable wares at reasonable prices, and the bringing home to the knowledge of the people the fact that those goods can be purchased as cheaply at home as in the great city to the North of us. For the quality and the price the dealer alone is responsible. No amount of advertising can bring business to a local house and keep it there unless the goods are reliable and the prices right. In both respects they must bear favorable comparison with the prices charged in Boston. It is undeniable that in these two respects the merchants of Quincy have nothing to fear. The goods are reliable and the prices reasonable. If some of our local business men are not receiving the patronage that they deserve the secret is found in the inadequacy of their advertising.

The sage of Concord was wide of the mark when he wrote that the man who made a better mouse trap, wrote a better book or painted a better picture than the other fellow would find the public making a path to his door even if he lived in the forest. The experience of many business men have proved that Emerson was wrong. Merit alone will not suffice. Publicity is necessary. It is a noticeable fact that the advertising space taken in the Ledger by the local merchants is a fair barometer of their success. The more they advertise, the more goods they sell; and the more they sell the more they advertise. Those who are succeeding pronouncedly keep generous advertisements in our columns. Those who are not getting along well are those who rely too much on the dictum of Emerson and don't proclaim their wares to the public. A study of the advertising columns of the Ledger in the light of known conditions will amply bear out these assertions. Moral: ADVERTISE.

MEXICO'S ARMIES.

The irritation felt in this country over the sordid squabble in Mexico, so upsetting to business relations on this side of the line, does not lend itself to a perception of the humor of the situation. But the day will come when the Mexican revolution will be seen from its more grotesque points of view.

The attention of our whole nation has been concentrated for some weeks on the "armies" concentrating at Torreon. Neither one of the contending forces would look impressive near to. In the days of ex-President Diaz, the forces at his command were on paper a fine organization. Actually he could not put more than 12,000 soldiers in the field.

In the fighting in the city of Mexico in the last revolution, the rebels shot at the Palace, and the government forces fired at the Citadel. A constant fusillade was kept up for days. Afterward neither buildings showed much effect. Their occupants were scarcely touched. Meanwhile the private homes of the neighborhood were riddled. Many innocent country people, who had driven in their pathetic little carts to sell flowers or vegetables, were slaughtered.

The trouble has not usually been lack of modern equipment. And many of the officers of both Federals and Constitutionalists have had good military training. But in their haphazard, fiery way, they never bother about such minor details as target practice.

It is a common experience for some inoffensive countryman to be impressed into the service of one army, without the slightest knowledge of military life. At the first opportunity he will desert, only perhaps to be seized and clothed with the uniform of the opposing faction.

At close quarters the Mexican soldiers show themselves brave, and fight with reckless and deadly desperation. But they aim their guns from 10 to 30 feet too high even at close range, and are dangerous mostly to the innocent by-standers.

GRANITE CITY CLUB ANNUAL

President MacQuarrie and other Officers Re-elected

The annual meeting of the Granite City club was held Saturday evening in the club rooms in the Savings Bank building. The reports of the various officers showed the club to be in a most excellent condition in every way. Financially the club was never in better condition than at the present time. The membership is full and there is a waiting list. The officers of last year were unanimously re-elected. They are as follows:

President—Samuel T. MacQuarrie.

Vice President—Nathan Ames.

Clerk and Collector—Wellington W. Mitchell.

Treasurer—John Q. Cudworth.

Finance Committee—James H. Penniman, Henry F. Tilden and Russell T. Anthony.

House Committee—Mark L. Read, Jr.

Membership committee—James H. Lalley, George P. Meade, Warren H. Rideout, Ernest L. Saunders and Charles W. Garey.

Entertainment committee—Thomas G. Smith, James H. Lalley and Rollin H. Newcomb.

Trustees—J. Warren Nightingale, Henry McGrath and George H. Field.

Announcement was made of the annual banquet and entertainment to be held at Alpha hall, Tuesday evening, April 28.

PLEASANT EASTER.

The weather predictions of Saturday, that Easter Sunday would be stormy, were not fulfilled, for a more beautiful Easter day could not have been wished for. To be sure there was rather a high wind which at times blew the dust in great clouds about some of the streets, but this was not minded as long as the sky was clear.

The air was sharp and clear, but rather cool for light garments although many were out in spring finery. It was not so windy in the morning, but soon after noon the wind began to freshen and by sun down it was blowing almost a gale. The air at that time was also damp and it felt somewhat like rain, but none came. Later in the evening, the wind died down somewhat and the stars came out bright and clear.

The pleasant weather in the morning resulted in very large congregations at all of the churches, which indeed must have been very gratifying to the pastors.

The high wind of Sunday evening did some damage about Quincy but none that was as serious as in some places. At the Fore River shipyard the chimney of the brass foundry was blown down, and some of the glass in the greenhouses of Perry Green was broken. At Houghs Neck the wind tore off the shingles on the buildings of William Hanrahan on Sea street. It lifted the shingles for a space of about six feet square and scattered them all over the street.

AFTER GRIPPE

Made Strong by Vinol.

John C. Furnham, of Clarion, Pa., says: "After a very severe attack of the grippe my system was in a weakened, nervous and run-down condition. I had no appetite at all. I was obliged to continue with my work, and nothing seemed to help me until a friend induced me to take Vinol. I began to note good results from the first bottle. I continued its use and am now sound and well as ever.

In health one cannot realize how depressed a person may become after trying one remedy after another without benefit for such a condition as Mr. Furman was in, or what a relief it is to find help and be restored to health and strength.

It is the combined action of the medicinal curative element of cods' livers without the greasy oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron, that makes Vinol so efficient in building up the weakened run-down system.

We guarantee Vinol to give you perfect satisfaction. E. J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

OWE SOMETHING TO COLOMBIA

Claim of Friends of Repeal of Panama Tolls

SIGNING OF A NEW TREATY

Country From Which We Purchased Canal Zone Has Moral, If Not Legal, Right to Special Treatment, According to Root—President Expects to Win Despite Debate

Washington, April 13.—All the big administration oratorical "guns" will be brought to bear in the senate to neutralize the argument which the negotiation of the treaty with Colombia has unintentionally placed in the hands of the advocates of "free tolls" in the Panama canal controversy.

The debate on the question of "free tolls" for American coastwise vessels through the canal is expected to overshadow everything else in the senate for some time to come.

President Wilson and his supporters believe they will be able to successfully combat the anti-repeal argument being urged as a result of the new treaty with Colombia.

Senator Root is expected to show the United States has not a "fee simple" to the Panama Canal Zone; that it purchased it and the right to build the great waterway under restrictions laid down both in the Hay-Pauncefote treaty with Great Britain and in the treaty with Panama subsequently.

Root is expected to take the stand that this country, holding a limited title, is in effect a trustee executing a trust for the benefit of the world, while, on the other hand, Colombia, for many years the legal owner of the Canal Zone, has, if no longer a legal right to special treatment, at least a moral right.

Senator Owen, a leading supporter of the president in the repeal movement, taking his cue from Root, declared that free passage of Colombia's war vessels through the canal was part of the "purchase price."

This, of course, makes necessary the contention that this country, although purchasing the Canal Zone from Panama after that country became independent of Colombia, nevertheless owes Colombia something for it also, which is specifically denied by Theodore Roosevelt, who obtained the zone for the United States.

Secretary Bryan, in a statement made public, reviews the Panama tolls question at length, and in the course of the statement declares that the repeal of the tolls exemption in the Panama canal act "cannot be construed to be a construction of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty," but is "simply a refusal on the part of the United States to raise the question in that way."

Bryan discusses various features of the subject—the limiting of debate in the house of representatives, the Baltimore platform and the effect of repeal on the treaty.

Claiming that the opponents of the repeal had seized upon the charge that the president was "surrendering to England," Bryan declared that the opposition to the repeal had attempted to appeal "to prejudice rather than to reason."

First returns from a poll which Senator Gore is making of delegates to the Democratic national convention at Baltimore on the canal tolls issue were announced last night by the Democratic national committee.

They showed 338 in favor of repealing the clause of the canal act exempting American coastwise shipping from tolls, 69 against repeal and 11 non-committal.

NOT A JUDICIAL ACT

Marriages by Chicago Justices of the Peace Declared Legal

Chicago, April 13.—Marriages in Chicago by justices of the peace were held legal by Municipal Judge Martin, who discharged Edmund H. Polk, a justice of Lyons township, charged with illegally performing a marriage ceremony.

The validity of thousands of marriages in Chicago by justices had been attacked on the ground that the municipal court law depriving justices of judicial power had taken away their right to perform the ceremony. Martin ruled that uniting in marriage was a ministerial act, not judicial.

and the speaker will be John G. Faxon, formerly of Quincy, whose subject will be "Prominent men I have interviewed. He was for years the Fitchburg representative of a Boston daily.

CALVARY BAPTIST.

Rev. C. C. Tilley addressed one of the largest Congregations that has ever graced the church. He must have been inspired thereby, for he preached with great fervor and earnestness from the second Corinthians 15:17—"If Christ be not risen your preaching is in vain." To imagine religion without Christ is like life with out sunshine he said.

He pictured Christ to things religious like a key stone to an arch. Take away the keystone and the arch would crumble to dust, so it was necessary that he would come and suffer and die that we might have a right to eternal life.

The altar was beautifully decorated with ferns, cut flowers and Easter lilies.

On Tuesday evening at 7.30 in the church Mrs. Johnson of 205 Kendrick avenue will entertain the Ladies Sewing circle.

Regular prayer meeting on Thursday evening.

CATHOLIC CHURCHES.

With services of splendor and beauty, Easter, one of the most glorious of Catholic feast days, was observed in the Catholic churches of the city. Augmented choirs rendered special musical programs and decorations of Easter lilies and potted plants at the altars and artistically arranged candles which when lighted sparkled like myriad stars gave the interior of the churches a most significant and inviting aspect.

Crowds thronged the edifice at all the masses and in the evening at the vesper services many participated by kneeling on the outer steps of the church, during the prayer, and standing in respectful silence during the sermons.

Many non-Catholics were present at the masses Sunday morning, and at St. John's there was an unusual number, most of them attending in company with Catholics of the parish.

The solemn high mass at St. John's church at 10.30 o'clock was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Walter A. Quinlan, with Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, as deacon and Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy as subdeacon At the 8 o'clock mass Easter anthems were sung by the children of the parish school. In the evening there was a vesper service at which Rev. Fr. John J. Coan officiated. The sermon was by Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy. The services closed with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

At St. Mary's church, the high mass was celebrated by Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy who also preached the sermon. At this church the musical portion of the mass was rendered by the choir augmented to fifty voices. In the evening at the vespers, Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy officiated and the sermon was by Rev. Fr. Joseph Murphy, D. D. of St. John's seminary of Brighton. The Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament also closed the services.

Rev. Fr. Robert McCoy of Tewksbury assisted Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe at the services at the Church of the Sacred Heart. He celebrated the high mass, and the sermon was delivered by Father Cuffe, who also gave vespers and Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament in the evening. A special musical program was given by the choir and in the evening there was a violin solo by Miss Violet Costello and a vocal solo by William Biganess.

SWEDISH BAPTIST.

Easter Sunday at the Swedish Baptist church was most enjoyable to those who attended both the morning service and the concert in the evening.

In the morning the pastor, Rev. Paul Hallin, gave an eloquent sermon on "The Resurrection of Christ," and the choir sang two beautiful Easter anthems. The service was exceedingly impressive as two young girls and two boys united with the church by baptism. These young people were given a hearty welcome into the church at the communion service which followed.

The Sunday School gave their concert in the eevning which was indeed a very commendable one, and which pleased the audience immensely. There were recitations and songs by a few of the classes, and a recitation by five little girls entitled "How we spend Easter day" was worthy of mention.

A cantata "The Pilgrim's Vision" was a pretty feature of the program. It was given by The Gleaners and Baracas who took their parts well. The seven symbol-bearers, carrying the lily, cross, Bible, anchor, shield, crown and star were dressed in white with different colored sashes. The Bible and crown bearers carried their symbols on pretty white cushions trimmed with gold cord. The recitations by the Pilgrim and the seven others were interspersed with singing by the chorus, and the cantata, though an attraction new to Easter concerts of the church, proved very interesting.

Lilies, palms and potted plants added greatly to the attractiveness of the service. At the conclusion of the exercises potted Easter lilies were sent to a deaf and aged member of the church, and to some of the sick.

SWEDISH METHODIST CHURCH.

Large crowds filled the church at all the services on Sunday. The pastor, Rev. A. E. Hillman, preached at the morning service on "The Empty Tomb," from Math. 28:6. The choir sang several beautiful Easter selections and a ladies' sextette, assisted. The church was beautifully decorated with Easter lilies and greens.

At the evening service the message centered about "The Beloved Disciple" from John 21: 20. The offerings during the day were more than generous.

Thursday evening at 8 o'clock there Epworth League will give a concert. A first class musical program has been provided and refreshments will also be served. Rev. N. B. AAkerman of Natick will give several recitations in English and other well known talent will render Swedish seelctions.

HALL M. E. E.

Easter Sunday was celebrated at the Hall Place M. E. church with special music by the choir at the morning service. The choir sang "He is risen," "Calvary," "Now is Christ risen." J. Lawrence was the soloist and rendered "I know that my Redeemer liveth."

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Webster was baptized.

The pastor preached from the text "Except a corn of wheat fall into the ground and die it abideth alone."

Sunday School followed the morning service.

At 7 P. M. the Sunday School gave their annual Easter concert. The program consisted of special music by the school and choir, scripture reading and prayer, recitations and exercises by Harrison Loud, Charles Hazel, Stanley Trask, Philip Trask, Nellie Keyes, William Trask, Rena Piola, Edith Trask, Ethel Newcomb, Bessie Nichols, Florence Manhire, Maud Nichols, Hilda Francis, Horace Noyes, Miss Burke's class, Miss Bessie Nichol's class, Miss Francis' class, a song by Carrie Keyes and an exercise by the Superintendent and teachers of the Sunday school.

A special meeting of the Epworth League was called at 9 P. M. The annual meeting of the Epworth League has been postponed to April 23.

A meeting of the Sunday School Board followed the League meeting. A meeting of the finance committee is called at 9 o'clock this evening and will be followed by a meeting of the official board.

Junior League Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Tuesday evening, April 14, will be Epworth League night at the annual conference of New England to be held at the Malden Centre M. E. church. A fine program has been arranged.

WOLLASTON METHODIST CHURCH

The Rev. F. H. Morgan occupied the pulpit on Sunday morning in the absence of the pastor because of illness, the theme of the sermon being "This is King Jesus." The following were received into full membership from probation. Mr. Ridder, Mr. Bent Mr. Geddes, Edward Taylor, Bertha Goodwin and Ruth Parker. Also Warren Cottrell, Alice Cottrell and Clement Ewertz were received upon probation.

The choir under the direction of Mrs. F. G. Bennett, the organist rendered excellent music assisted by Mr. Noyes, violinist and Mr. Critchley, cornetist, as follows:

The decorations of the church were in charge of Mr. Raquet's class of young men and were very attractive with quantities of evergreen, lilies, geraniums and tulips.

At six o'clock the Sunday School rendered an interesting program conducted by Miss Beulah Collett. Recitations were given by Robert Townsend, Thomas Blackford, Milla Smith Richard Crosscup, William Cooper, Edwin Perkins, Allan Hinxman, Florence Ferguson, Harriet Palmer, Ruth Proud, Effie Palmer, Richard Scott, Myron Lane, Doris Miller, Stanley Sutermeister, Gordon Ewertz. PARK AND DOWNS.

An ideal Sunday, 600 persons crowded into the Park and Downs church for the Easter morning service. Others were turned away for want of room as even the aisles and entrances were filled with standing people.

The decorations were appropriate and elaborate. A committee headed by James A. Boone, at considerable expense arrayed a floral and symbolized display surprisingly beautiful. The altar was hidden by flowers. The chancel was massed with Easter lilies, white hyacinths, ferns and perriwinkles. The color scheme was green and white. In the midst of flowers stood a huge arch with gates ajar and beyond that, as up a path through the gates, a large cross in green and white illuminated from within.

The service opened with the processional of the large adult choir. Following the doxology and the invocation came the processional of the infant choir, composed of members of the Kindergarten, or primary department, all in vestments and each was carrying a white lily. These children in double line the length of the entire church, marched down the center aisle to the altar, through the "Gates Ajar" and up to the cross. Upon the cross each child fastened his lily. Then the processional continued down the side aisle and up into the gallery, the children singing. From the gallery the children's choir sang two Easter anthems. The church choir sang three or four times very beautifully.

One exceptional feature of the service was the appearance in the chancel of large Easter lilies, which came to life when six golden heads lifted themselves up in the hearts of the flowers. In each lily was a child who sang the Easter flower song. It was a most striking scene.

When the Easter offering was taken a little member of the primary department walked up the aisle with the primary department's Easter offering of $32.00 in a basket. Several infants were baptized and a number of children and adults.

Sixteen members were received into full membership in the church.

The minister spoke extemporaneously for about fifteen minutes on "Why was the Resurrection necessary?"

The evening service was a musical service. "The story of the life of Christ" was given with stereopticon slides, and the pastor spoke briefly on "The Meaning of this Christ to us."

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

Services at the Wollaston Congregational church started early Easter morning with a Christian Endeavor meeting, led by Miss Lucy Waite, at 7.30 on the eastern slope of Third hill. Forty-seven entered into the spirit of the topic, "A long look ahead," and joined in the singing which Mr. Critchley led with his cornet.

At the morning service, the seating capacity of the church was taxed to its utmost. The decorations were Easter lilies, pink azaleas, pinks and ferns in a bank at the back of the pulpit. The quartette rendered beautifully "Open to Me the Gates," "Hark Hark, My Soul," "Where Hast Thou laid Him," and Miss Hardy sang Granier's "Hosanna,"

The following persons were received into church membership—by letter: Mrs. E. Elsford Prior; upon confession of faith: Mrs. Sarah E. Ring, Mr. William Nickerson, Mr. Stacey Minor Nickerson, Newton Dodge, Elmer Ruben Johnson, Jr., Wallace Trumper, Elizabeth Trumper.

The subject of the sermon by Rev. Dr. Sneath was "New values through the resurrection." First, the resurrection has brought a new value to life itself. When Christ died and rose, immortality became a fact. The fundamental mission in life is to grow souls. The inspiration is that we shall grow a soul that the frosts of death shall never kill. Again, death is not what we have always conceived it, a cruel robber. The resurrection gives us the side of death from Him who has died. Finally, the resurrection gives a new value to the suggestion that life is spiritual rather than material. It is for us to see to it persistently that we change this grovelling, selfish, nature of ours into the golden life of God. Christ is our guarantee that life will last forever.

The Junior Christian Endeavor meeting was held at 3.15, topic: "Why I am glad to be alive"; leader, Virginia Follett.

At the vesper service at 4 o'clock, the Quincy commandery Knights Templar were guests. Rev. Rufus B. Tobey, Prelate of the commandery, assisted in the service.

The Little Lights Mission Band will meet this afternoon at 3.45.

Tuesday evening the spring concert by the quartette of the church will be given.

The regular midweek service will be conducted by Charles P. Hutchins; topic: "Father and Son." Address by Secretary A. Fitch Bromley of Quincy Y. M. C. A.

Friday evening the Christian Endeavor business meeting and annual election of officers, followed by a social.

Rev. Edward A. Robinson of Chelmsford, a former pastor of this church will occupy our pulpit next Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. Sneath will visit their son and wife at Chapel Hill, North Carolina, this week. Dr. Sneath will preach the University sermon at the University of North Carolina on Sunday.

ST. CHRYSOSTOMS.

To celebrate the feast of Easter the most glorious in the ecclesiastic year, expressing the joy of the church over the resurrection of Christ, was fittingly observed at St. Chrysostoms Sunday with the usual impressive services. At the 7 A. M. celebration nearly a hundred came to pay their devotions and receive holy communion. On the altar were Easter lilies in large brass vases.

The Altar was beautiful with its appropriately embroidered white silk hangings and large vases filled with Easter lilies, and around the steps leading to the chancel were the usual potted plants.

Every seat was taken and chairs brought in at the 10.30 service Rev. Frederick H. Steenstra delivered a forceful sermon, his text being: "Go quickly and tell his disciples that He is risen from the dead."—St. Matthew 28:7.

Let us analyze these words spoken to the women at the sepulchre. First, a fact is stated: He is risen. Secondly, there is command; go quickly and tell. Here is the very heart of Christ's religion. Thus Easter resolves itself into a message of the resurrection, concerning which all men desire assurance.

God choose this method of revealing immortality to man because it is the method that involves Jesus Christ, his character and his personality. This has given man all that is best and truest in life. Again, God choose this method of revelation because it makes man the fellow worker of Christ in delivering the Easter message. The command is given to go and tell to all peoples and nations. First we must acquire confidence in the message itself. This is obtained by learning to know Christ intimately. Then in the strength of conviction derived from knowing Christ tell the message of his resurrection abroad.

How? All men cannot be missionaries. How then shall ordinary men and women obey the command to tell the fact of Christ risen from the dead? By speaking the resurrection, acting it, living it, in daily life. Thus shall we seek those things above being risen with Christ.

Look well to the daily life therefore, that in act and word, it be made as nearly as possible, in love, faith hope, charity, like unto Him who was given unto us both a sacrifice for sin and an ensample of godly life.

The special musical program by the vested choir was under the direction of Herbert Y. Follett. Miss Louisa Allison Ross was the organist. It was well rendered and in keeping with the occasion. During the offertory the anthem, "Break forth into joy" was rendered. Mrs. William H. Spooner soloist.

The children of the Sunday School had their carol service at 4 P. M. Lenten mite boxes were brought to this service which was in charge of Herbert F. Price the superintendent. The rector Mr. Steenstra gave the names of those on the honor roll for attendance during the six Lenten children's services which was remarkable. A short talk on the meaning of Easter morning followed. After singing an Easter hymn each child received a flowering geranium.

At the 7.30 evening prayer Rev. Warner F. Gookin of Episcopal Theological School preached from the text, "What is born of the flesh is flesh and what is born of the spirit is spirit." He showed very clearly the eternal life of the spirit and the necessary destruction of the flesh, and made an earnest appeal to develop the Spiritual in us.

The practice of the Easter Even Baptism began early in the history of the church and this beautiful custom was observed at St. Chrysostom's Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The fine weather, the beautiful decorations of the chancel; the anthems and Easter carols by the Girl's choir and quartet; the rich Easter service with its well chosen scriptual passages, chants, responsive readings from the Psalms, and prayer; the most impressive service admitting five new members to the joys, privileges and responsibilities of churchmembership; the communion service in which the entire congregation participated—all helped to make this year's Easter service most helpful and most memorable in the annals of the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The pastor preached an inspiring sermon on the "Meaning of Easter" from the text "Life and Immortality brought to light through the gospel." II Timothy 1,10.

The regular Girls' choir was assisted by a mixed quartet—Mrs. Frank A. Page, soprano; Mrs. Royal L. Turner, alto; A. R. Moulton, tenor; and Louis Weston, bass.

The new members received into the church are Miss Anna Worth Weston, Miss Priscilla Robinson, Miss Dorothy Kingsbury, Miss Martha Robinson, and Roy Brackett.

As usual, the annual Easter offering to increase the "Memorial fund" was received at the morning service.

For the beautiful decorations the color scheme being, gold and white. all were indebted to Mrs. William E. Rowe, who had full charge.

There were not a few Easter gifts of plants and cut flowers in memory of those "who have passed on to higher service," that added their fragrance and beauty to the hour of worship.

The members of the Sunday School and the Kindergarten made their annual contribution for the Children's Mission to the Children of the Destitute in Boston.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

The spirit of Easter pervaded all the services of Sunday from the early prayermeeting through the evening baptisms. The musical program in the morning was unusually fine, the choir sang "Awake, thou that sleepest" and "Now all the bells are ringing."—Mrs. George K. Drew, the organist played Johnson's "Resurrection Morn" and Wach's "Hosanna" as prelude and postlude, and Guilmant's "Pastorale" as a duet with Mrs. Walther at the piano for the offertory.

The sermon brought the Easter thought that when we are through with this life we shall go to be present with the Lord, a state which is far better than the best on earth. The subject was "Future destiny of believers."

A baptismal service was held at 7 o'clock in the auditorium, there being eight candidates, Miss Marion Clayton Porter, Mrs. Florence D. Jackson, Mrs. Nellie Merrill, Carlton N. Merrill, Harry Van Horn Dresser, George Quincy Cobb, Philip Stokes Wood, and Arthur Harold Axberg. An appropriate sermon preceded the rite. There was Easter music by the chorus choir, and a solo by Miss Ruth L. Hardy.

Songs were given by the school and primary class. The opening prayer was by Rev. Thomas W. Davison, pastor.

FIRST UNIVERSALIST.

The Universalist church was well filled for the Easter service at three o'clock. The lattice work decorations and Easter flowers in charge of Bartlett Spooner were arranged with exquisite taste. The musical numbers announced last week were well rendered by the soloists, and a large chorus of young people.

Rev. Merrill C. Ward preached from the text, Matt. 28:6 "He is risen." "We are gathered to celebrate the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. We know that Jesus arose, not only from the unbroken observance of Easter since then by those who saw him, but by the effect his resurrection had on human history. Just as disturbances in the orbit of Uranus led Le-Verrier to discover the planet Neptune so the changing trend of human life and dispositions in history shows the influence of the Resurrection. After Jesus death the disciples were dismayed but after he rose from the dead they were full of faith and courage.

If we have the vision of immortality we will plan large, build our best. and trust fully.

HOUGHS NECK CHAPEL.

H. P. Gleason of Boston addressed the congregation of the Houghs Neck chapel and their friends Sunday afternoon on the "Two Salvations." Rev. William B. Sayre, pastor, officiated at the services.

SPORT NEWS

The finals in the Clan MacGregor league at the Coliseum alleys on Tuesday evening will create enough excitement to carry the superenthusiastic along for several weeks. The O'Neils are in first place and the Michaels in second place. One lone point separates them. If the former takes three points from the Mavers boys and the latter whitewashes the Thomsons, they will be tied for first place. Both are primed for the contest, the rivalry between the quintettes having been intense all season. The McKenzies are assured to third place but there is a scramble for fourth place since the Mavers and McLeans are tied. The Thomsons bring up the rear with no chance. Great smashing may result for the prizes which are: league winners $20; second team $15; third team $10; high three string team $5; high single team $5; individual single string $5; individual high average $5; second individual high average $5; high individual average on each team $2.50.

The championship of the Federal league hangs by one pin and there is much speculation among employees at the Quincy post office as to the winners. The Clerks have 20 points to 16 for the Carriers. One point decides the contest for this season and if the clerks fail to net it, both teams will be tied. Most of the men are suffering from Federalitis and eagerly look forward to the match. Even Charles C. Hammond, superintendent, is interested as he holds the single string record of 114 which may be broken. Likewise there is intense rivalry between William Joyce of the Clerks and Carrier Devlin for the total, the latter being credited with 303.

The first game of the Quincy High school base ball schedule will be played at Merrymount park on Tuesday afternoon with Rindge, and unless the visitors display unusual class the game should be a victory for the local team. In a way the game will be a "melting pot" since it will be up to the coaches to try out the most promising of the 35 aspirants for the team under fire for the first time. The Park Commissioners are improving the diamond.

The formal organization of the Manufacturers base ball league took place at a meeting Saturday afternoon of representatives of the firms interested. L. A. Kirkman of the General Electric Co. of Lynn was elected president, and Joseph M. Larkin of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation was elected secretary-treasurer. Rules and regulations relative to the operation of the league were adopted, and a schedule is being prepared. The local team will be under the direction of Mr. Larkin, and the calibre of the players that have responded to the call for practice indicate that it will be one of the fastest semi-professional teams the city has seen for many years. There will be eight teams in the league.

FRIGHTENED TO DEATH

Fate of Two Little Brothers Who Had Swallowed Marbles

Lynn, Mass., April 10.—The two little boys, Veryl, aged 5, and Sherman, 3½, of Mrs. Harry O. Russ of Swampscott, tried to put all their marbles in their mouths to see how many each little mouth would hold.

Their mother discovered them, almost unconscious, and choking from marbles that had slipped down their throats. She extracted the toys.

But within a few moments both children died from fright, even though they could breathe after the prompt action of their mother, for, according to physicians who were hurriedly called, the undue rush of blood to the heads of the children killed them, and they had actually been frightened to death.

Two doctors made every effort possible to save the children, hurriedly applying the pulmotor, but could do nothing.

Charge Against Premier Before New Brunswick Legislature

Fredericton, N. B., April 10.—The New Brunswick legislature began the consideration of charges lodged by Louis A. Dugal, a member of the provincial legislature, against Premier Fleming and other government members.

Dugal alleges that Fleming extorted from lessees of crown timber limits $100,000, no part of which reached the provincial treasury, and that bidders on the St. John and Quebec railway work had paid large sums to government members as the price of obtaining contracts.

He charges also that a large amount of the money resulting from the sale of bonds guaranteed by the government for the railway construction was diverted from its proper channel.

The dowager empress had been suffering for a considerable period from angina pectoris, but the official diagnosis declared the direct cause of her death to be Bright's disease. She was 64 years old. Her husband, Emperor Mutsuhito, died July 30, 1912.

QUINCY WINS RELAY RACE

Up Against Cambridge at the State Meet

The Y. M. C. A. relay team defeated the Cambridge team at the big Boston Y. M. C. A. State Meet on Saturday night. Over 75 men took part in the various events and three relay races were scheduled. Newton however forfeited their race to Boston, and Somerville agreed to run in Newtons place. The race was won by Boston but Somerville pushed them to the limit up to the last man, the time being the best that has been made on the new track, 1 minute 8 3-5 seconds.

In the Quincy-Cambridge race the Cambridge boys won the toss for position and naturally choose the pole or inside position. Djerf ran for Quincy and touched off Brooks about even with his man. Brooks ran a very good race and made several attempts to pass his opponent who persistently ran high on the track in order to block his attempts. Kingsbury took up the third relay on even terms with his man and held his own so when the final runners were touched-off they were on equal terms. Glover who ran last lost a few yards in getting his stride and Davis, who is a former Bates College man, was hitting the "high spots only." It did not seem possible for the Quincy runner to catch his man, but when they turned into the final stretch it was seen that Glover had a lead of about five yards which advantage he held to the tape. The time of the race was 1 minute 9 2-5 seconds. Bronze medals were given to the winners.

Batteries—Langford and Fraher for Weymouth High—Hanson and Cate for Thayer Academy. Hits—Weymouth 9; Thayer 5. Errors—Weymouth 3; Thayer 3.

POINTS THE WAY

The Statement of This Wollaston Resident Will Interest Our Readers.

Our neighboring town, Wollaston points the way in the words of one of its most respected residents:

A. T. Preston, 33 Park street, Wollaston, Mass., says: "Jumping on and off a wagon a good deal weakened my back and caused kidney trouble. Some years ago I had to give up that business and was in pretty bad shape. The kidney secretions were discolored and caused much pain in passage. I tried remedy after remedy, but got no relief. I was discouraged; suffered awfully at times and did not know what to do. Finally, I read in the Quincy paper an advertisement for Doan's Kidney Pills, telling of what they had done for a man I knew. I got a box and began taking them. I noticed a change at once. The passages of the kidney secretions became less frequent at night and caused less pain. I passed two gravel stones; one of them as large as a pea. I kept on taking Doan's Kidney Pills and I can now sleep better at night and am improved in every way."

DEATH CHAIR CLAIMS FOUR

Gunmen Who Killed Gambler Electrocuted at Sing Sing

DECLARE THEIR INNOCENCE

Final Message to Boys on East Side of New York Is to Keep Away From Bad Company—Easter Sunday a Day of Almost Continuous Prayer In Death House—Condemned Men Receive Final Vists From Relatives—Story of Crime For Which Extreme Penalty Was Paid

Ossining, N. Y., April 13.—Harry Horowitz, Louis Rosenberg, Frank Cirofici and Frank Seidenshner, whose picturesque aliases were flung across the continent after the murder of the New York gambler, Herman Rosenthal, died at dawn today in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison, convicted of that murder.

To relatives who bade them goodbye and to their spiritual advisers the four condemned men again declared their innocence.

At 3 o'clock in the morning the final prayers were said. Father Chasin knelt with "Dago Frank" and received his final confession. Rabbis Goldstein and Kofstein prepared the other gunmen for the end.

Easter Sunday and the night that followed was almost one of continuous prayer for the condemned. They were on their knees practically all the time that they were not talking with relatives.

Of the scenes in the death house corridors that which stood out boldest concerned the visit of two nuns.

As Rev. Father Cashin, the Catholic prison chaplain, led the four gunmen in prayer two Italian Franciscan sisters who had come from New York to see Cirofici, whom they had taught in his boyhood, knelt outside his cell. Raised curtains disclosed the four gunmen also kneeling.

Suddenly the spirit of devotion spread to the whole death chamber. Every one of the sixteen condemned, among them three Chinamen and Hans Schmidt, slayer of Anna Aumuller, joined in the Lord's Prayer, which concluded the services.

To the boys of the East Side in New York the Jewish trio of the gunmen sent a final message through Rabbi Goldstein. Seidenschner wrote:

"There are many boys who are well brought up and have good parents, who do not look out for the company they get into. Bad company is the cause of their fall. They get a bad record, and then, no matter whether guilty or not, they would be framed up. 'Keep away from bad company,' is the best message I can send."

Rosenberg said: "Add what I said the other day about bad company. A fellow who honestly earns $6 a week is better off than he who gets $1000 a week if he does not get it straight.

"We were supposed to have as many friends as any fellow that was on the East Side, but when it came to a show-down, it was only the 'school' (synagogue) that stood by us, outside of our parents. Stick to the 'school' and to your parents. If I had life to life over again, I would surely follow this advice."

Horowitz said he had nothing to add to what had been said.

Mrs. Rosenberg, "Lefty Louie's" wife; Mrs. Horowitz, wife of "Gyp the Blood;" Mr. and Mrs. John Cirofici and Paul Cirofici, relatives of "Dago Frank;" Morris and Joseph Seidenschner, brothers of "Whitey Lewis," all spent part of the afternoon in a last visit to the death chamber.

"I must die some time," Rosenberg told his wife. "If it pleases God that I die now, I am ready."

Seidenschner asked his brothers to tell their mother that she was not the mother of a murderer. "I have never been more than a little wild," he said.

The prisoners were not left alone for a single instant during the day or night. Until the moment of the electrocution they were under the observation of Dr. Farr and Dr. Mereemo, the prison physicians, in addition to the guards.

Of the four gunmen Rosenberg and Horowitz were married. Their young wives sought in vain for an audience with Governor Glynn to plead for the lives of the gunmen.

STORY OF THEIR CRIME

Gunmen Convicted of Killing Rosenthal In a Gambling Feud

The four products of the Manhattan East Side who paid the penalty of their crimes were convicted on Nov. 19, 1912, of firing the shots which killed Herman Rosenthal as he stepped from the Hotel Metropole into Forty-Third street, just off Broadway.

Rosenthal had caused the gambling world of the metropolis to quake with terror by his conference with District Attorney Whitman. His promised confessions were a sequel to a gambling war in which the other underworld interests had tried to drive him from the fat field of the upper Tenderloin. Bomb outrages, slayings and assaults had marked this conflict.

Believing he was to be deserted by Charles Becker, police lieutenant in charge of a "strong arm squad" and a partner in the Rosenthal gambling house, the desperate man was now about to expose the whole illegal conspiracy of police and crime.

The gambler was sitting in the Metropole about 2 o'clock in the morning of July 16, 1912. A man entered and asked him to come outside. Lurking in the shadows were "Bridgey" Weber, "Bald Jack" Rose and Harry Vallon. Nearby stood a motorcar with engine running. The policeman supposed to be on station nearby had been lured away.

In the glare of bright lights four young men shot Rosenthal to death and leaped into the motorcar. A fifth man also entered, it is said by some, and urged the driver onward by holding a revolver to his head and striking him.

The next day New York was in a turmoil. There were ugly rumors of police attempts to cover the murderers' trail. It was recalled that Rosenthal was to tell a complete story to Whitman the very day of his death. The motive of the murder could not have been more clear.

Not for several days were the names of the four put to death in the chair mentioned. The "murder car" was found, and the two owners, one of whom had driven that night, were arrested. A general alarm was sent out for "Jack" Rose, who lay in hiding in a fine Riverside apartment. On July 18 he strolled into police headquarters nonchalantly and was locked up. On July 20 a newspaper published the names of "Lefty Louie" and "Whitey Lewis" as two of the four gunmen.

Then Sam Paul, head of an organization of gamblers, "Bridgey" Weber and "Jack" Sullivan, who had been with Becker the night of the murder, were locked up.

On July 22 Harry Vallon was taken into custody, and Becker was transferred from his headquarters squad to Bronx desk duty. Only now were "Gyp the Blood" and "Dago Frank" brought into the case as suspected principals.

There began a countrywide search for the four gunmen and Sam Schepps, a hanger-on of the gamblers who had arranged the murder.

"Dago Frank," stupid with opium, was found in Harlem on July 25, the day Alderman Curran demanded a special police investigation.

Whitman strengthened the case against Rose, Weber and Vallon until they turned state's evidence and named Becker as the prime instigator of the crime. Becker was thrown into the Tombs without bail.

Rose also named the four actual murderers of Rosenthal. They were members of "Big Jack" Zelig's East Side gang. Rose also exposed New York's police graft, which he figured at $2,400,000 a year. He said Becker, a civilian in the police department and two inspectors handled this.

"Whitey" Lewis fled to the Catskills where he was arrested Aug. 2. "Gyp" and "Lefty" were found hiding in Glendale, Queens borough.

In the meantime Governor Dix had appointed Justice Goff to try Becker for murder. Sam Schepps had been caught at Hot Spirngs, Ark., and brought back to New York. On Oct. 24 Becker was found guilty! Two weeks before "Big Jack" Zelig had been murdered in a street car.

The four gunmen came to trial Nov. 6. They elected to be tried together. Eleven days later the jury, after only a short deliberation, found them guilty.

They were taken to Sing Sing and lodged in the death house, whither Becker had preceded them. All five cases were carefully argued on appeal. The highest court in the state found that Becker was entitled to a new trial, but the four gunmen had been justly convicted.

HURRY ORDER TO TRANSPORT

Hancock Must Proceed Immediately to Tampico

SHORE LEAVE IS CURTAILED

Crew of Hospital Ship Solace Must Cut Their Vacation at New Orleans —Lind's Report on Situation In Mexico to Be Heard by Wilson In Washington This Week

New Orleans, April 13.—The United States transport Hancock last night received imperative orders to proceed immediately to Tampico.

It is understood here that the vessel will take aboard refugees from Tampico, where heavy fighting between Mexican constitutionalists and federals has been reported.

The Hancock will sail this afternoon. The transport arrived here two months ago, bringing 950 marines from the first advance base regiment. The marines will remain at the naval station here, it is said.

When the transport steams south today she probably will be accompanied by the United States hospital ship Solace, under orders to hasten her departure for Tampico.

The Solace arrived here early last week, and the crew was given shore leave for eleven days. Two days later the ship was ordered to proceed immediately to Tampico, but was delayed by coaling and by necessary repairs.

Lind Coming With Report

Washington, April 13.—Washington officials and diplomats are speculating upon the outcome of two conferences to be held during this week, one in this city between President Wilson and his personal representative in Mexico, John Lind, and the other at Torreon between General Carranza, first chief of the constitutionalists, and General Villa, victorious leader of the Mexican rebels in the field.

President Wilson returned to the capital today from his week-end trip to West Virginia. Lind is coming up the coast from Vera Cruz aboard the yacht Mayflower. Officials here think that a face-to-face talk between Carranza and Villa will result in a clearer understanding concerning the rghts of foreigners in Mexico, and especially of their privilege of pressing claims through American consular officers.

The navy department is without a final report from Rear Admiral Mayo on the outcome of his demand that the Mexican federal commander at Tampico salute the Stars and Stripes, as part of his apology for the affront to America in the arrest of a detachment of United States marines from the Dolphin.

Fifteen Persons Injured In New Haven Wreck Are Recovering

Newington, Conn., April 13.—Fifteen persons injured in the wreck of a New Haven railroad train here are recovering. Henry Carroll, the fireman, who was thrown 100 feet from his locomotive, died in a hospital.

The official cause of the wreck has not been determined. It is believed, however that frost thawing out of the ground caused the rails to spread.

A Diabolical Plot

By MARGARET C. DEVEREAUX

A lady and a gentleman stood on the deck of an ocean liner about to depart for the Mediterranean.

"Upon my word," said the latter, "if there isn't my old chum Dick Thurston coming aboard loaded down with hand baggage. I haven't seen him in four years. He's going across, sure. I wish I were going."

"Introduce him. He'll serve to lighten the ennui during the voyage."

"I'll do it on one condition."

"What condition?"

"That you go for him. I'll let him think you're my wife instead of my cousin, and you must keep up the deception. He's always prating about honor in not making love to a friend's wife and all that sort of thing, while I claim that if a woman can get a man in love with her she can turn him over to Satan, body and soul. Do you agree?"

Miss Katherine Maryweather in her heart snapped at the idea, but she occupied the few minutes to spare in declaring that she would do no such abominable thing. Thurston was brought up and introduced to her, Frank Waters having given him the impression that he had been married since they had met and he wished him to take charge of his wife for the voyage.

"Remember," said Dick, giving his cousin a parting kiss, much to the envy of Thurston.

"I'll remember nothing," was the reply.

Miss Maryweather was an unconscionable flirt, and this request of her cousin especially appealed to her. She had brought many a man to her feet, as Waters well knew, but she had not experienced the zest attending making a man a traitor to an intimate friend. As to deliberately stating to Thurston that she was Waters' wife, she repelled such a sin with horror: she would merely suffer him to suppose she was.

The voyage consumed twelve days, during which the weather was delightful, the sea smooth, and all were on deck every day and moonlight nights from start to finish. Before the vessel reached the Azores Thurston's conscience was troubling him dreadfully. At Gibraltar he made a weak effort to leave the ship and do the rest of the journey by land. The night before reaching Naples he seriously contemplated jumping overboard. He had not offended, indeed, against his old friend, but he had been criminal in word and thought up to his chin. Miss Maryweather had bewitched him.

Once ashore, he righted himself and fled—fled to Rome, where he had intended to remain a month. But, fearing that the supposed Mrs. Waters would be coming up that way, he lit out for Florence. Indeed, he never stopped till he reached Lucerne.

Frank Waters had made arrangements to join his cousin at a summer resort on Lake Thun, and they met there in July.

"Well?" said Frank inquiringly.

"Well what?"

"Did you break down Thurston's self respect?"

"Certainly not. Mr. Thurston is a very honorable man."

"Since you don't seem disposed to tell me what happened I'll ask Dick."

"He'll tell you nothing."

"Won't he? Do you mean that he will lie about it?"

"He needn't lie. He can simply refuse to talk."

"I won't ask him. I'll charge him with all sorts of dishonorable things, and he won't deny them."

"Such as"—

"I'll say, 'Dick, you've been making love to my wife?'"

"What else?"

"'In a moment of weakness you proposed to her to leave me and take up with you.'"

"If you accuse him of such a thing I'll never speak to you again."

"I won't do it if you assure me he didn't."

"You had no business to introduce him to me, letting him suppose I was your wife."

"Why didn't you disabuse him?"

"Why didn't I? Why, because"—

He looked at her with an amused smile, then continued:

"Dick Thurston is a mighty good friend of mine. When I saw him going aboard the ship in which you sailed I knew you would expect an introduction; that you would flirt him all the way over and send him off with the rest of them on reaching Italy. What I did I did for his protection."

"How for his protection?"

"In the first place, if he believed you to be my wife it might help him to resist you. In the second, if you succeeded you would be so tangled up in your deceptions that you could be managed. I'm going to confess the matter to him—my past and yours."

"You'll do no such thing!"

"What shall I say to him? He is at Lucerne, and I'm going to run down there tomorrow to see him."

"What shall you do? Why, let him discover that I'm not your wife without saying anything about your detestable plot."

"Or yours."

This thrust was received in silence.

"If I do as you say will you treat him honorably in future?"

"Yes, I will."

The former Miss Maryweather is now Mrs. Thurston.

HELD WITHOUT BAIL

Thorpe Pleads Not Guilty as Wife's Body Goes Into the Grave

Holyoke, Mass., April 11.—A plea of not guilty was entered for James Thorpe, 23, when he was arraigned for the murder of his wife while she lay helpless beside her 10-day-old baby.

As the clerk was reading the complaint charging Thorpe with killing his wife by cutting her throat with a razor, the body of the murdered woman was being lowered into a grave.

The prisoner appeared dazed, and gazed absently about the courtroom. District Attorney O'Shea, who entered the not guilty plea for the accused man, does not think there is any question of his sanity, and he was held without bail for a preliminary examination next Wednesday.

The Thorpes had been married since last July. The husband, a papermaker, had been out of employment since the wedding.

UP TO THE PRESIDENT

Must Pass on Secretary of Navy's Order Abolishing Drink

Washington, April 11.—Secretary Daniels' recent order prohibiting wine messes on board warships and at naval stations is squarely up to President Wilson, without whose approval it cannot be enforced; according to the authorities on naval law.

It is pointed out that there is a law of congress which expressely provides that all naval "orders, regulations and instructions" issued by the secretary of the navy must be approved by the chief executive before they become effective.

This is an embarrassing position for President Wilson, who is certain to gain the condemnation of the Prohibitionists if he fails to approve the order of his secretary of the navy, but who, on the other hand, will incur serious criticism from the opposing forces, which include some of his stanchest supporters, if he does approve it.

THEFT OF LIFE-SIZE STATUE FROM GRAVE

Thieves Abandon Booty When They Become Frightened

Cleveland, April 11.—Police have begun search for a band of thieves who tried to steal the life-size bronze statue of Luke Senior from his grave in Riverside cemetery.

Under cover of night several men with a horse and wagon entered the cemetery and pulled the statue from its pedestal. They loaded it into the wagon and started to leave the cemetery, but were frightened and threw it out.

"They must have wanted the statue to sell," said Mrs. V. C. Lucas, Senior's only daughter.

IN FAVOR OF BLACKS

Court Says They Cannot Be Segregated In North Carolina

Raleigh, N. C., April 11.—The first effort to segregate whites and negroes in North Carolina was unanimously overthrown by a decision of the supreme court, when the town of Winston-Salem lost its case against William Darnell, a negro, who occupied a house in a neighborhood of mostly white residents.

Chief Justice Clark, writing the opinion, declared the aldermen had no right to pass such an ordinance, which forbids property owners to rent or lease buildings to whoever they please and sanctions taking property without due legal process.

Judge Clark holds that such a principle might result in such restrictions as would drive out Republicans, Roman Catholics or Jews.

CHICAGO'S SHARE IN CAR EARNINGS

City Will Get $3,299,000 From Various Trolley Lines

Chicago, April 10.—The city of Chicago will receive $3,299,000 as its share of the net earnings last year of the surface street railways, according to the annual reports of the companies just made public.

Under the terms of a franchise granted the surface lines some eight years ago the city receives 55 percent of the net earnings.

The traction fund which has accumulated since the franchise became effective and which is now in the city treasury amounts to about $14,000,000.

WELLESLEY SCHOLARSHIP.

Scholarship awards for seniors and juniors at Wellesley were announced Saturday, when President Pendleton read in the chapel the names of the girls who are on the list of winners. The standard for the list is absolute and not competitive but in order to be listed a very high average must be obtained. Included in the list is Elizabeth Atwood of this city. She is the daughter of Eugene F. Atwood of 154 Putnam street.

THE NOON ALARM.

The alarm from Box 431 at 1.10 this noon was for a brush fire in the woods back of the Methodist church on Hall place.

BELIEVES DAUGHTER DEAD

Dorothy Arnold's Father Disproves Story of Her Being at Home

New York, April 13.—Assertions made by District Attorney Jackson of Pittsburg that Dorothy Arnold was at her home in this city, a mental and physical wreck, were disproved following a search of the Arnold home, 308 East Seventy-first street, made at the invitation of Francis R. Arnold, father of the long missing girl.

With John R. Keith, the family attorney, Arnold escorted several reporters throughout the entire house.

"There is," he said, "no better way for me to show to you and to the public how untrue is the statement of Jackson. I would to God it were true. But Dorothy will never return. She is dead."

Every facility was given by Arnold for investigating the premises, a four-story, brown stone dwelling.

CAUSE OF MANY TRAGEDIES

Startling Number of Fires In Hotels of the United States

New York, April 13.—One person killed or injured every twenty-four hours and a hotel fire, more or less disastrous, every thirteen and a half hours, is the fire record for hotels in this country for the past ninety-two days.

Panics were recorded in almost every case of the 162 hotels that have been partially or entirely burned, and thousands of guests have been awakened every night, to rush out, frightened, scantily clad, into the cold night air, often running the risk of pneumonia, which has followed on the trail of the fires.

These startling figures have been kept by Safety Engineering of New York, which makes a plea for better fire protection in the hotels of the country.

ARDOR DAMPENED BY POLICE DISPLAY

Tame Demonstration by I. W. W. In New York City

New York, April 13.—While fifty policemen in plain clothes, fifteen inspectors and several personal representatives of Police Commissioner Woods mingled with the crowds, Alexander Berkman started the fireworks at the I. W. W. demonstration at Union square by calling the New York police "hirelings of a czar."

"Wild Joe" O'Carroll was wildly cheered five minutes when he began speaking. The police kept the 4000 persons in the square in check and there were no repetitions of the disturbance of a week ago.

PLEASED WITH HIS SUCCESS

Roosevelt Has a Curucui Among His Fifteen Hundred Trophies

Manaos, Brazil, April 13.—Colonel Roosevelt has a curucui. This was the word which reached here and scientists are explaining that the curucui is a very rare bird even in South America.

The curucui shot by the colonel is only one of about 1500 specimens which his expedition will have when Roosevelt reaches here April 27, the date on which it is now declared he will probably arrive.

Captain Emilcar, secretary of the expedition, has arrived here and brought word that Roosevelt was highly pleased with the results of his trip.

OBEYS IN SILENCE

Dewey's Comment on Navy's Treatment of Daniels' Order

Washington, April 13.—"There has been no drunkenness in the navy in recent years," Admiral Dewey said in discussing Secretary Daniels' order abolishing the wine mess.

"The United States naval officers are the most obedient men on the globe. Not a word may be expected from any of them about the abolition of the wine mess. They will comply in silence."

Lighting of Cigar Causes Disaster to War Dirigible

Milan, April 11.—The dirigible balloon, Citta di Milano, which was built by public subscription and presented to the army, landed outside of Milan owing to a mishap to her motor.

A crowd gathered, and, notwithstanding the warnings of the officers aboard, some one imprudently lighted a cigar. A tremendous explosion resulted, and fifty persons suffered injuries of various kinds, two of them being dangerously wounded. An outburst of flames completed the damage done by the explosion.

This is the first accident that has happened to any Italian dirigible. The Citta di Milano had a capacity of 12,000 cubic meters.

A DOROTHY ARNOLD CLUE?.

District Attorney Thinks Girl Died In a Pittsburg Hospital

Pittsburg, April 11.—District Attorney Jackson made it plain that he was personally convinced that Dorothy Arnold died in the private maternity hospital conducted by Dr. C. C. Meredith at Bellevue, which was raided by county officials and detectives.

Jackson declared that while it was obviously impossible to state definitely that further disclosures will establish the fact beyond doubt, he hoped and believed that they would.

The evidence contained in an affidavit by Dr. Lutz, close associate of Meredith and self-confessed "feeder" of the institution, is only a part of the evidence in hand that Miss Arnold was a patient of Meredith's, Jackson said.

TALK UP QUINCY

BACKED UP BY FACTS

The Grocers of Massachusetts Are Interested

AS A RESIDENTIAL CITY

Rev. A. L. Hudson says—"Of all the cities of the country, Boston stands easily the FIRST in the beauty and variety of its many suburbs; and among them all NONE has so many attractions to offer to the home seeker as OUR OWN QUINCY. Its diversified area, sloping from wooded hill tops with their ocean view over rol ng parks and level downs to sweeping shore line of the bay, gives mple scope for each man, according to his taste, to possess the one most desirable building site in ALL THE WORLD."

A WEALTHY CITY

In 1870 Quincy had an assessed valuation of $4,449,500, representing a per capita valuation of $597.89. In 1880 the per capita had increased to $712.21; in 1890 to $817.73; in 1900 to $844.54; in 1910 to $994.33. In 1913 the assessed valuation was $36,716,260, a per capita valuation of OVER $1,000.00. Note the BIG increase in valuation, and the fact that the per capita valuation is nearly TWICE as large. Quincy is 20th in valuation in Massachusetts as well as 20th in population.

RESERVATIONS AND PLAYGROUNDS

Quincy has within its borders MORE in Reservations, Parks and Playgrounds than any other city of Massachusetts. Over 2,600 acres in Metropolitan reservations are in this city, also Merrymount park of 91 acres with a shore front, Faxon park of 27 acres and several ward playgrounds. Dr. Eliot says, "Cities with the most exempt property are the best to live in."

AN EDUCATIONAL CITY

Quincy one of the first to employ a Superintendent of Schools. Under Col. Francis W. Parker our schools obtained a National renown. In 1909 celebrated the 25th anniversary of Col. Parker's election. In 1914 all public school buildings are of brick. Quincy is 8th among the 33 cities in number of grammar school graduates, and 14th in High school graduates when Woodward Institute is included. May honestly be compared with other cities in the Metropolitan district.

QUINCY AN HONORED NAME

It was Rev. Daniel Munro Wilson, a former pastor of the First Parish church, who said:—"Quincy seems the one name congenial to the spirit and history of this locality. Deeprooted in chivalrous Norman life, transplanted here with the first settlers, associated with so much that is fine and high in many who here bore it, and in utterance full and dignified, it tastes of the soil, it seems almost the natural product of environment, and not a title fixed by formal vote. Honored at home, abroad revered, it is a distinction to be called OF QUINCY."

NAMED FOR COL. JOHN QUINCY

"The more the name of Col. John Quincy is scrutinized the more he is exalted. For 21 successive years, that is from 1719 to 1740, he was returned to the House of Representatives with unfailing regularity. His personality, his character and judgment, and his sturdy provincial patriotism so impressed his fellow representatives that they elected him Speaker of the House from 1727 to 1741, a period of 14 years. A tribute from town and Province that stamps him as no common man."

THE CITY BEAUTIFUL

Many neighborhoods where each one takes a personal pride in the appearance of his own home, and co-operates with others.

AS AN INDUSTRIAL CITY

The last census showed Quincy to have more industries per capita than Boston. Quincy has 151—one for every 202 people, while Boston has 2,747, one for every 244 people. The industries of Quincy are large industries and employ 5,371—one out of every six of population—while the industries of Boston employ one out of eleven. The value of Quincy products is unusually high,—$8,082,446 annually, or $273.92 per capita; while the Boston value is $274.89 per capita.

SHIPYARD OF WORLD-WIDE FAME

Builders of battleships New Jersey, Rhode Island, Vermont, North Dakota and Nevada for the United States government; battleship Rivadavia for the Argentine Republic; submarines for the United States and Japanese navies; also other warships, passenger steamers and freight steamers. Employs about 4000. Has entertained many notables of the United States and foreign countries.

QUARRIES OF QUINCY GRANITE

The standard for excellence among Granites—Increased demand—Quality improving—Inexhaustible rock ribbed mountains—Takes the best polish. Extensively used for memorials both large and small, to be found in all the large cemeteries of the country, the battlefield at Gettysburg, and other battlefields of the Civil War. Bunker Hill Monument is built of Quincy granite; also the First Parish church, Quincy City Hall, and other public buildings.

A POPULAR SEASIDE RESORT

Quincy with its 23 miles of sea-coast has several attractive summer resorts, many now occupied by all-the-year residents. Houghs Neck and Squantum are both parts of Quincy, and all along the shore of Quincy bay between these two peninsulars are resorts of different names—Atlantic beach, Wollaston beach, Quincy Shore reservation, Merrymount, Adams Shore, Post Island, Manet Beach and Great Hill,—also Rock Island, Bethel Beach, Germantown and Quincy Point, all popular for yachting, bathing and cool breezes. The fact that Quincy has four large yacht clubs shows the interest taken in yachting; all these clubs have clubhouses and many yachts enrolled.

MODERN CONVENIENCES

Reference might also be made to our public conveniences:—abundance of Metropolitan water, Metropolitan sewer system, auto fire department, permanent police department, electric lights and gas in all parts of the city, nine electric car routes, good train service, excellent banking facilities, daily and weekly newspapers; city hospital, public library, etc. etc.

A PATRIOTIC CITY

With Adams and Hancock as Revolutionary statesmen Quincy early became distinguished. She sent to the Civil war one of the FIRST companies of MINUTE MEN. The first call of Lincoln was issued unexpectedly April 15, and the next day Co. H, Fourth Massachusetts Volunteers, reported in Boston and left for Fortress Munroe, and was mustered into service April 22. FIRST soldier killed in engagement was from Quincy. Sent 954 men to Civil war although population of town was then only 6,800. Erected a Soldiers Monument as early as 1868. In the war with Spain, a majority of the members of Co. K, Fifth regiment M. V. M., were from Quincy. Flag today honored and revered.

BECAUSE OF ITS REMARKABLE GROWTH

In 1875 Quincy was a small town with a population of less than 10,000. We have not only made rapid gains but we have PASSED SEVERAL OTHER TOWNS AND CITIES in the race. A good index of progress. In 1880 Quincy was 29th in population in Massachusetts; in 1885 we had moved up to 27th place; in 1890 we had jumped to 23d; in 1895 to 22d; in 1905 to 21st; and the last census in 1910 showed us No. 20, with a population of 32,642, which has since been increased to nearly 40,000. A rapidly growing city is always a good place for business.

WOMEN'S CLUBS FLOURISH

Prominent in the civic work and social life of Quincy are its Women's Clubs of earnest, able, self sacrificing women, who esteem it a pleasure to work for the uplift of the city and its people. These include the Quincy Women's Club, Wollaston Women's Club, Squantum Women's Club, Riverside Women's Club, Lady Association of Houghs Neck, Young Women's Club, King's Daughters, Women's Relief Corp, Quincy Catholic Club, Hospital Aid Association, Day Nursery Association, and many others.

A CITY OF CHURCHES

The number of churches in the city is a surprise to everyone, but with two or three exceptions all are flourishing and doing the work of the Master. There are seven Congregational, including one Swedish and one Finnish; four Catholic; four Methodist, including one Swedish; three Baptists including one Swedish; three Episcopal, including a Swedish Lutheran; two Unitarian, two Presbyterian, two Hebrew, one Universalist, one Christian Science, and other mission churches. Many of these churches are free from debt and constantly making improvements.

MANY GENEROUS BENEFACTORS

Few cities have been so favored as Quincy in endowments which are almost without limit, and meet many requirements: an institute for the education of girls, a City Hospital, including the Rice pavilion and a Nurses' home, two large public parks, a beautiful Public Library building, and funds for schools, charity, etc.

JUST A FEW WORDS HISTORICALLY

While Quincy has so much to talk up without delving in history, she has much in history to make her proud, being the birthplace, home and burial place of two Presidents of the United States; the birthplace of the FIRST Vice President; the birthplace of John Hancock, the bold signer of the Declaration of Independence, who was the FIRST Governor of Massachusetts under the Constitution; the site of the FIRST incorporated Railroad in the United States. The birthplaces of the Presidents are preserved today as show houses, also the Quincy mansion owned by the Colonial Dames, and the Church of the Presidents now known as the First Parish church.

ITS MEN AND WOMEN

High average in personal character of those who make up the population—industrious, ambitious, generous, loyal, patriotic and God fearing.

MODERN "EFFICIENCY."

Every period, every year, has its own pet watchword. "Efficiency" is the slogan now. Few periodicals and few public speakers feel their arguments in tune with the keynote of the times unless they dwell on this word.

In New York city for the past week, they have been holding an "Efficiency exposition." Every one that has a machine or a device by which to systematize and eliminate work is there in his little booth, arguing, gesticulating, demonstrating. The question sometimes arises if the machine or the system does not create more work than it saves.

"Efficiency" is not wholly a new word. Any man who ever worked at a trade will recall many arguments between old time workmen as to the most efficient methods. Certain methods were always handed down as the most efficient. But there was always a debatable borderland. A roomful of workmen would waste the boss's time, while they were arguing which of two methods was the more efficient.

There is now a tendency to hold oneself down, and to hold others down, to certain fixed standards of production. The old time workman sat down to his bench with a comfortably indefinite idea of the amount of work that he was going to turn out. He disliked the fettering grasp of timetables. He often stopped to play by the wayside. If a neighbor dropped in, they began to talk politics. If the day's work did not show up well at 6 P. M., he consoled himself by thinking that there had been unusual difficulties to surmount.

Now well conducted newspapers have a certain hour at which every page must go to press. The factory employe has a normal standard production. The good business man consults his timetable hourly. It all involves nervous strain. But it is a part of the great industrial advance, whoch larger comforts of life and more play-time are being secured.

REUNION OF MINUTE MEN

Quincy Has a Few Survivors of Old Co. H.

One or two of the Quincy survivors of Co. H. of the Fourth regiment, Massachusetts Volunteers, may attend on Wednesday, the 53rd anniversary of the first call of Gov. Andrews for troops in 1861 to rush to Washington for the defense of the National captial. The survivors are asked to assemble at the Revere House Wednesday at 11 o'clock, where they will hold their annual meeting and election of officers, and at the conclusion of the business meeting will hold a reception and banquet.

This unique organization is rapidly diminishing in numbers, but the remaining members are enthusiastic and all are looking forward to an enjoyable reunion.

This organization is made up of men who fought in the 1st Battery, 3d Battallion, 3d, 4th, 5th, 6th and 8th Regiments, and today there is not a half dozen men under the age of 70.

It has been the usual custom for the organization to meet in some hall and after the business meeting to march to Faneuil Hall for the banquet, passing in review before the Governor and Mayor en route. But on account of the infirmity of its members it has been decided this year to cut out the parade.

SOUTH SHORE AND COUNTY

Charles G. Hathaway, president of the Old Colony National bank at Plymouth and a prominent citizen died on Saturday in his 69th year.

Miss Florence Hepworth and Charles Fall of Canton were married Saturday afternoon in the Canton Congregational church. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Isaac Fleming. The matron was Mrs. Rita Smith of Readville and Miss Ruth Fall was the flower girl. Thomas Fall of Laconia N. H., a brother of the groom was best man.

Motorman Chipman who was operating the Quincy-Dudley street car that struck and killed four-year old Mildred Sweeney at Dorchester Thursday evening was freed from a charge of manslaughter when Judge Joseph E. Chamberlain refused to grant a warrant on Friday.

Louis Kuschner, aged 8, of the West End, Boston, was found without a cent in Weymouth and sent to his home by police officials, who learned that this was the boys fifth trip without expense money in his possession.

The bill of the town of Stoughton asking exemption from expense incurred in dredging Neponset river was rejected by the House of Representatives on Wednesday. Mr. Stone of Canton contended the town contributed to the pollution of the river and Representative Proctor said it was two miles away and did not add enough to the pollution to make up the amount levied.

HARRISON—MacNAMEE.

At the parochial residence of St. John's church at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon, Miss Bridget MacNamee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick MacNamee of Quincy Point, became the bride of James Harrison of this city. Rev. J. J. Coan officiated at the ceremony. The bride looked lovely in white satin gown and large white picture hat. Her only attendant was her sister Miss Annie MacNamee, who was gowned in pink crepe de chine with cap to match. Both carried shower bouquets of roses. Cornelius Quinn acted as best man.

A reception to immediate relatives followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, after which the newlyweds left for a wedding trip to New York and Washington D. C. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Harrison will make their home on Main street. The bride is a well known singer. She was employed at Tubular Rivet factory. Mr. Harrison works at shipyard and has a host of friends in football circles throughout the city.

WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Judiciary Committee Favor Physician's Amendment

(Special from State House)

The crowning triumph in the victory of the proponents of that legislation which favored a more liberal Workmen's Compensation Act was achieved Monday before the committee on judiciary. That committee, in executive session, voted to report a compromise which will allow the designation of private physicians by the injured employees. This employment of private physicians will be allowed in the discretion of the Industrial Accident Board.

The provisions agreed to by the members of the committee on judiciary, with respect to the engaging of family physicians is as follows:—

"During the first two weeks after the injury, if the employee is not immediately incapacitated thereby from earning full wages, then from the time of such incapacity and in unusual cases, in the discretion of the board, for a longer period, the association shall furnish reasonable medical and hospital services, and medicines when they are needed. Where, in a case of emergency or when in the opinion of the Industrial Accident Board there is justifiable cause, a physician other than the one provided by the association is called in to treat the injured employee, the reasonable cost of his services shall be paid by the association subject to the approval of the Industrial Accident Board."

ADAMS STREET DEVELOPMENT

The Joseph W. Robertson farm on Adams street has been sold to a promoter from Lynn who is arranging to put the property on the market. For some days past surveyors have been at work on the estate laying it out into streets and house lots and the probabilities are that lots will be on sale early this spring.

The Robertson estate is situated on Adams street near the Milton line. The homestead so called embraces 22.55 acres while there is 10 acres of meadow land. The homestead was assessed in 1912 for $29,000, or at the rate of 3 cents per square foot, while the meadow land the same year was assessed for $1,500 or one-third cents per square foot.

WAS RESULT OF GAMBLERS' ROW

Cirofici's Story of the Shooting of Herman Rosenthal

CONFESSES TO WARDEN CLANCY

Declares He Was Five Miles Away From Scene of Tragedy and Absolves Becker From Blame—Names Three Men Who Fired Fatal Shots —Statement Was Voluntary

Albany, April 14.—Shortly before Frank Cirofici went to the death chair in Sing Sing prison he told Warden Clancy that "Gyp the Blood" Horowitz, "Lefty Louie" Rosenberg and Harry Vallon, an informer, fired the shots which killed Herman Rosenthal, for which crime the four gunmen paid their lives.

"So far as I know, Becker had nothing to do with this case," the gunman also declared. "It was a gamblers' fight."

Cirofici averred he was five miles away at the time the crime was committed, and that Seidenshner, although present at the scene of the shooting, did not fire any of the shots.

Cirofici made no attempt, however, to deny that he was included in the original plot to slay Rosenthal, even admitting that two nights before the gambler was slain he went with other gangsters to look for their intended victim. They were frightened away from Rosenthal by men whom they thought to be detectives, on that occasion.

The condemned man also admitted that early on the night of the actual killing he was in the gray "murder car" with the gunmen, but he insisted that he left them before they shot the gambler.

He did not explain precisely why he left the other gunmen just prior to the shooting, but two reasons are advanced. One is that he became frightened, and the other that he deserted in order to bail out his sweetheart, Jean Gordon, who had been arrested.

The statement, which was made verbally in the principal keeper's office, was the result of the insistent plea on the part of Cirofici's mother and his sister for the truth. They had been here and made an unsuccessful appeal to the governor to save the prisoner's life. Returning to the prison near dawn, they were met by the warden and taken to the office, where they met Cirofici.

Clancy came to Albany and told his story to Superintendent Riley of the state prison department and Governor Glynn. The warden first issued a formal statement rehearsing part of what Cirofici told him, and later added details which included Cirofici's admission that he and other gangsters had sought Rosenthal two nights before the slaying.

According to Clancy, virtually everything that Cirofici said after he started to make his final statement was voluntary. His defense of Becker came without suggestion from anyone, the warden maintained.

Cirofici's statement was not wholly unexpected. It was rumored last Thursday that he might talk and this caused the governor to send Riley to Sing Sing. The prisoner gave Riley a statement which contradicted the later one in some minor details, but it contained little more information than had been previously brought out.

After making his statement to Clancy, Cirofici almost collapsed, and this was the cause of the sudden change in the warden's plans which sent "Dago Frank" to the chair first, instead of "Gyp the Blood."

At no time, according to the warden, did any of the gunmen, except Cirofici, insist that they were innocent of the crime of killing Rosenthal. "Whitey Lewis" always declared that he did not fire a shot and it is the warden's opinion that his dying words were: "I didn't shoot at Rosenthal."

Stage Hanging Comes Very Near to Being the Real Thing

Washington, April 14.—Charles F. Weston is at his home nursing a badly bruised neck as the result of having been actually hanged in the Belasco theatre here.

Weston, cast for the lead in Preston Gibbs' new play, "Suicides," is supposed to hang from an improvised gallows in full view of the audience. But the wires which are relied upon to keep the near tragedy from becoming an actual one became disarranged. Physicians had to revive Weston.

Washington, April 14.—E. P. Holcombe, chief supervisor of the Indian bureau, shot and killed himself in a room of a down-town hotel here.

Officials of the interior department, with whom Holcombe had been associated for twenty years, said the affairs of his office were in perfect shape.

ROYALISTS SEEK FOREIGN SUPPORT

Well Organized Plot In Portugal Is Revealed

Lisbon, April 14.—A well organized Royalist conspiracy has been discovered, according to semi-official reports. It appears that the Royalists, disheartened by the lack of support they had received from the members of the house of Braganza, decided to find foreign support and to place a foreign prince at the head of the monarchy.

The plan was carefully matured, but opinions were divided as to the person to be asked to accept the throne. One faction wanted a British prince, while another preferred an Italian ruler. The dissension at last grew so bitter that the plot leaked out.

SUPPER TO CAROL CHOIR

Services of Young Ladies Are Appreciated

The Ladies Aid Society of the Washington Street Congregational church, Quincy Point entertained the members of the "Carol Choir" on Easter Monday night in recognition of the faithful service performed by each and every member, for a period extending over one year. The Easter Sunday service by the members as well as that of the adult choir were greatly appreciated and Easter Sunday of 1914 will long be remembered by many among the large congregation in attendance.

Supper was served to twenty-eight girls and as additional guests the following named were present, each having aided materially in the success of the work for the year: Rev. Stephen C. Lang, pastor; T. B. Pollard, chorister; Irving Hayden, organist; Mrs. John F. Roache and Mrs. James Gibb, choir mothers; Miss Helen M. Lincoln, accompanist; Mrs. Arthur B. Foster, chairman of the music committee, and Miss Clara Bushnell.

The tables, spread in the vestry, presented a most attractive appearance, being decorated with Easter lilies and Easter favors. The supper was excellent, going a little beyond the good suppers for which the society is famous. The crowning glory of the table was in the place cards; these were hand painted, by Miss Bushnell, each card being decorated with a drawing of a surpliced choir girl. Mr. Pollard's card was a large one and all will be treasured by the recipients as a memento of the occasion.

The committee in charge of the supper consisted of Mrs. Daniel Scouler, Jr., Mrs. Wade Shorter, Mrs. J. Peterson, Mrs. C. W. Newcomb, Mrs. T. B. Pollard and Mrs M. S. Wight.

The Carol Choir includes: Mildred Jones, Mary Wilson, Doris Peterson, Ruth Kinsman, Jessie Kerr, Dorothy E. Hammond, Ina Sherriff, Bessie Oliver, Svea Wester, Laura Wight, Jennie M. Gibb, Mable Roache, Florence E. Tobin, Marion Bailey, Edith Metcalf, Mary Carruthers, May MacKenzie, Marion Peterson, Ruth Barnard, Marion Barr, Violet Tucker, May Breat, Alice Cook, Catherine McKenzie, Helen Jones, Selma Thayer, Effie Waddell and Mehitable Knight.

The after dinner speakers were Rev. S. C. Lang, T. B. Pollard and Mrs. T. B. Pollard, who at the close of her remarks presented the bachelor pastor with a cake.

The evening passed all too quickly. Mr. Hayden gave several piano selections, games were played and songs were sung by the girls. The choir will long remember the occasion, and yet supper was only a slight recognition of the great addition to the morning services that the surpliced choir has rendered throughout the year.

GREETINGS TO THE GROCERS

Keys of City to be Given Them Tomorrow

The grocers will be with us tomorrow, and it is up to every individual to do his best, to see that their visit is a pleasant one. Every delegate to the tenth annual convention will wear a badge and whenever a badge is seen give its wearer a pleasant word of welcome. In this way, as in no other, can the citizens show their hospitality, and make it known that we are glad that Quincy was selected for their convention, and make them feel that their committee made no mistake when the City of Presidents was chosen.

The first of the visitors are due to arrive on the train which reaches Quincy about 10 A. M. From twenty to thirty are expected in the vanguard who are coming early that they may accept the invitation of the Board of Trade to visit the immense shipbuilding plant of the Fore River Corporation, where they may see the largest battleship in the world, the Rivadavia, which was built for the Argentine navy, receiving her final touches, as well as to see on the stocks one of Uncle Sams fighters that is about ready for launching—the Nevada.

The Secretary of the Board of Trade informs the Daily Ledger that four or five more automobiles will be needed at 10 A. M. tomorrow to convey delegates to the shipyard, as several today signified their desire to see the battleships.

Most of those who will be present tomorrow would have been glad of the opportunity to visit the shipyard, but business will prevent their arriving until later in the morning when there will not be sufficient time to visit the shipyard.

The convention will open promptly at 1.30 in the rooms of the Granite Manufacturers association in the Adams building, and with the election of officers and other business to transact it will be 5.30 before an adjournment is reached.

Of course no convention would be complete without the ladies, and they will be with us tomorrow. The indications are that the wives, daughters and sweethearts of the delegates will outnumber the delegates. While the men are debating the weighty questions the ladies will accept Quincy hospitality. During the first part of the afternoon they will be taken for an auto ride about the city and will be accompanied by guides who will point out the several places of interest. Returning from the ride they will be the guests of the management at Kincaides theatre where an unusually good bill is being presented this week.

Immediately after the afternoon convention there will be a reception to the president and National officers at Hancock hall from 5.30 to 6.30. At the latter hour an adjournment will be made to Colonial hall where the annual banquet and entertainment which closes the convention will be held.

The banquet promises to be one of the features of the convention, for aside from several prominent men who are scheduled to speak, a pleasing entertainment has been provided which will include Prof. Yarrick the famous magician, and Erastus Osgood the well known humorist and monologist. Provost's orchestra will furnish music during the entire evening.

The evening affair will close shortly after 10 o'clock in ample season for those living out of town to reach their homes by street cars or train.

THROWN OUT OF EMPLOYMENT

Editor Daily Ledger:

As one of the older citizens in this city, I ask the privilege to use your columns, to bring forth a few facts, that the citizens and taxpayers of the city of Quincy are entitled to know.

It is with great unhappiness and a restless frame of mind that I am writing to you of some of the mistakes, which some of our citizens have caused to be done, and therefore am writing about some of them here that all may know, and that one or all citizens may come to realize the state of affairs in a certain working department in our city.

For instance, all citizens know, that in all city departments, men as laborers are employed, and hired if needed from the ranks of citizens. But, a few weeks ago, a change was made in many departments, which also affected the Board of Health Department to which a new chairman was chosen. Well ever since then have affairs been rather gloomy to some workers. For some of the older working citizens have been discharged, many of whom are in entire idleness, and have no hopes of work other than the city, to whom even during their unemployment the taxes are payable, they having work or not. And in the places of these citizens, men have been taken on many of whom are entirely foreigners though having good positions elsewhere and not a mite dependent upon the city for their liveliness, and still young men many of them. And I ask you, the leaders in this, do these men pay taxes?

And as one of the discharged men in this movement, I am writing this that some kind eye may catch this and adjust matters satisfactorily.

TEN ACRES BURNED OVER

Braintree Building in Danger of Grass Fire

The Braintree firemen had a hard battle Monday in extinguishing a woods and grass fire that burned over nearly ten acres. The fire started on Quincy avenue on the estate of Thomas A. Watson and worked along to the old Kendall farm now owned by the Moody Land company. There was a large barn on this estate and it was only by hard work that this building was saved, at one time the fire being within a few feet of it when it was checked. The flames from the fire could be seen from the Quincy Point bridge and gave the impression that a fierce woods fire was in progress. It was not until late in the afternoon that the fire was extinguished.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert F. Price will occupy their new home within the next ten days. They are just completing the erection of a fine two apartment house located on Billings road, almost at the corner of Pierce street, adjoining the extensive property owned by his father-in-law, Charles Hayes.

It is some fifteen years since Mr. Price has resided in this community, but both he and his amiable wife have been desirous of settling once more in this part of Quincy, where they were married some twenty years ago, and their friends are glad to have them return as property holders, and build a house which will help to beautify that locality of the Downs.

Since leaving Quincy they have been residents of Dorchester, and for six years Mr. Price was a commissioner for the City of Boston, acting as a trustee and secretary of the Consumptives' Hospital. Two years ago he went to Richmond, Va., as publicity director and sales manager of one of the largest Southern stores, and while there negotiated for the land upon which he returned last August to build his present home.

AFTERNOON TEA.

Mrs. Maurice P. Spillane gave an afternoon tea at her home 55 Elm street in honor of Mrs. Stanley Bone, who is leaving in May for her new home in Alberta. The invited guests were members of the Home Economics committee of the Quincy Women's Club, of which Mrs. Spillane is chairman, and Mrs. Bone an active member. Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, president of the club, was also a guest. It was a very pretty affair and most enjoyable.

FIRST AID FOR FIREMEN

Fifteen of the firemen attached to the Central Fire Station received their first lecture Monday on what to do in emergencies. The lecture was given by Dr. Harold Diehl who comes at the instance of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. At Monday's lecture the men were instructed in the different veins and arteries of the body and also on what to do in case of persons having been overcome by smoke. In fact they are what might be called first aid lectures and they will be given every Monday.

In addition to these lectures Chief Billings announces that hereafter he will carry a supply of bandages and splints on his car, so that they will be handy in case of accidents at fires which are likely to happen at any time.

HOUSES OFF FOUNDATIONS

One Blown Ten Feet in Gale on Monday

Two houses were blown from their foundations by the high wind which swept Houghs Neck on Monday and considerable other damage is known to have been done to property in that section, although it has not been reported.

The frame dwelling at 265 Sea street under construction for Mrs. Bridget McKeowan of the Hotel Brunswick, Boston, was blown from the brick piers on which it rested, about five feet above the ground, and deposited on a spot about 10 feet away. The house was just boarded in and is badly twisted.

The house of Charles Scrivens, at 5 Winthrop street, which was built in sections and then pieced together on the foundation, is again in sections as the result of the severe buffeting from the wind which ended only when the house was picked off its foundation and thrown to one side.

Other houses lost shingles and windows and several chimneys were snapped off close to the roof by the wind, which at times attained a velocity of about 55 miles an hour.

DISTRICT COURT.

Dennis Curran was fined $10 and Andrew Peterson $10 for drunkenness at Quincy.

Everett M. Barker, who was in court April 3 and sentenced to one month in the house of correction for drunkenness at Quincy and had his sentence suspended, was brought in again this morning, having fallen from grace. This morning the case was placed on file and the suspension on the old sentence recalled and he will be committed.

Nathaniel M. Barclay was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued until April 21 that he might make restitution to the railroad conductor for damage to his clothing.

SENT TO TAUNTON.

William J. Durant, the man who was found wandering aimlessly about the streets near the Weymouth side of the Quincy Point bridge early Saturday morning, was examined by physicians at the Court House on Monday, after which he was committed to the insane asylum at Taunton for observation. If it is found that his trouble was caused by over indulgence in liquor and that if he comes out of it all right he will probably be released. Monday he was in no condition to be allowed to wander about the streets.

CUSTER'S LAST FIGHT.

Capt. John Ryan of Newton will address the members of Col. Abner Packard camp, No. 95, Sons of Veterans, at their fifth anniversary which will be celebrated in Grand Army hall on Friday night. He will tell the story of Custer's last fight. Capt. Ryan's information was obtained first hand as he was a member of the 7th cavalry and participated in the engagement between the troops and the Redskins.

SPORT NEWS

All of the athletes of Quincy favor the erection of a small building, with a shower bath connection, on Merrymount oval that will allow them some privacy in preparing for a race. Their views vary and range from a municipal gym to a small square building. All are enthusiastic in their declarations however that something should be erected to put an end to the "Joe Knowles" impersonation that follows and precedes each meet. A committee is preparing data to submit to the Park Commissioners which will set forth their reasons why they want the building.

Many clubs are planning athletic meets for the summer. The attitude of the Fourth of July committee toward one is not yet decisive. The committee this year will probably have the meet sanctioned because those of the past always resulted in a suspension from the N. E. A. A. A. of practically every registered man who competed. Unless sanctioned there will be a dearth of good athletes at a meet this year all having learned their lesson through experience.

MERELY LEGISLATIVE ACT

Wilson Says Tolls Repeal Will Not Be Treaty Interpretation

Washington, April 14.—President Wilson declared that the repeal of the Panama canal tolls exemption could not be regarded as an interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty because it would be a legislative act. He held that no amendment setting forth the rights of the United States under the treaty was necessary.

The president took the same view as Secretary Bryan, that by repealing the exemption the United States merely showed a disinclination to raise the question of discrimination, but did not by its act limit any future policy of the government.

The president incidentally declined to discuss the reported exemption of Colombian war vessels from the payment of tolls, saying that when the new treaty was made public that phase of it would be clarified. He said the tolls situation in the senate was constantly improving and apparently that people who had been asked to appear in the hearings were getting "cold feet."

SHOOTS AND KILLS WIFE

Drink-Crazed Man Wanted Possession of His Baby

Boston, April 14.—With her 16-months-old baby clasped to her breast, Mrs. John A. Collins of Jamaica Plain was shot to death by her drink-crazed husband last night. He was captured after a short struggle and arrested.

Mrs. Collins, who was but 22 years old, separated from her husband last November because of his drinking habits. During the past week the husband had often gone to her parents' home, where the tragedy was committed, insisting that she give over to him the baby, Cyril, the younger of their two children. His wife refused.

Last night he went again to the house, where Mrs. Collins was alone with the two children, and repeated his demands. When he attempted to take Cyril from his crib, Mrs. Collins herself caught up the child and the shooting followed.

LAWYER'S WHISKERS VALUED AT $50,000

Price Set by Man Who Lost Them Cannot Be Recovered

Washington, April 14.—Value of whiskers lost in an election fight—$50,000 worth of hair, as alleged by the plaintiff—was a question passed upon by the supreme court.

It affirmed a decree of Louisiana federal courts which dismissed the damage suit of E. A. O'Sullivan, an attorney of Kenner, La., who charged that Justice of the Peace Felix and Deputy Sheriff Stiles clipped off his whiskers during an election fight at the polls in 1908. O'Sullivan also charged that he was severely beaten.

That the Louisiana statute of limitations barred his suit was the decision of the lower courts.

TO QUIT THE STAGE

Decision Reached by Sothern Because of Breakdown of Wife

Detroit, April 14.—Denied the companionship and co-operation of his wife, Julia Marlowe, because of her breakdown, E. H. Sothern announced that he has made arrangements to retire from the stage.

Sothern declared the inability of his wife to continue as the co-star in his Shakespearian plays made it impossible for him to produce that sort of drama, and that rather than be separated from her while he was on tour, he would give up acting entirely.

AGREES WITH KIPLING

Aviator Ovington Predicts Great Feats With the Aeroplane

Boston, April 14.—Earl L. Ovington declared here that he agreed with the prediction of Rudyard Kipling that in a few years it would be possible to reach the remote spaces on the globe by aeroplane in a week.

The aeroplane of the future, he declared, would be a light, steel affair, with small wing surfaces and capable of a sustained speed of 500 miles per hour.

FARE FIGHT DROPPED

Case Brought by Kansas Railroads Years Ago Was Never Tried

Topeka, April 14.—The Kansas 2-cent passenger fare case, brought by thirteen railroads seven years ago, was dismissed by agreement in the federal court here.

The railroads sought to enjoin the enforcement of the 2-cent fare order of the state board, but it was never tried nor the injunction granted.

Worried Over Family Cares

Boston, April 14.—Despondent because he could not care for his family of nine and was unable to find work, William H. Thomas, 48, a paperhanger, shot himself through the head, killing himself instantly. His wife and eight children survive him.

Typhus Fever on Liner

New York, April 14.—All the steerage passengers on the White Star steamship Celtic, from Alexandria and Naples, were transferred to Hoffman island when the vessel arrived, because four cases of typhus fever had been found among them.

COMPLY WITH MAYO'S DEMAND

Federals Must Salute American Flag at Tampico

STAND OF MEXICAN GENERAL

No Insult Offered and Apology Is Considered Ample—Huerta Gives Rich Men a Shock, Then Lets Them Down With Plea For Clothing For the Poor

Washington, April 14.—Immediate developments in the Mexican situation depend upon whether the commander of the Huerta forces at Tampico salutes the American flag in apology for the arrest of American marines.

President Wilson declared, unofficially, that he expected the federal commander at Tampico to fire a salute to the Stars and Stripes, as demanded by Rear Admiral Mayo, and he spoke with a confidence that implied insistence.

It is understood that instructions have been sent to Charge O'Shaughnessy to represent to the Huerta government the feeling of the administration here over the affront, but there has been no announcement on the subject.

The presence in Washington of John Lind, President Wilson's personal representative in Mexico for the last eight months, gave the Washington government an adviser with special knowledge of the military situation at Tampico. Lind reached here from Vera Cruz aboard the presidential yacht Mayflower and spent several hours with Secretary Bryan.

It is stated that Lind's reports on the general situation were so comprehensive and complete that he really did not have to come to Washington to supplement them.

Lind himself was uncommunicative, saying that he merely had sought a vacation and was at the orders of the government.

Salute Not Yet Fired

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 14.—General Maas, the federal commander at Vera Cruz, speaking with reference to the arrest of an American detachment from the Dolphin at Tampico and the demand by the American admiral for satisfaction for the insult to the American flag, had this to say:

"The Mexican government ordered General Zaragoza not to accede to Admiral Mayo's demand—which was that the American flag should be saluted within twenty-four hours—considering such a step would be highly derogatory to national dignity, and was also uncalled for, as absolutely no insult had been offered to the American flag.

"For the unfortunate mistake made in arresting the Americans," Maas added, "General Zaragoza had by his apology made ample compensation."

Private advices from Tampico report that the rebel forces have withdrawn a considerable distance from the outskirts of the town, it is presumed for the purpose of reorganization.

Plea to Rich Men

Mexico City, April 14.—One hundred and sixty members of the Jockey club, Mexico's most aristocratic organization, stood before President Huerta and listened to his earnest appeal for their support in the great uplift movement he is about to inaugurate in behalf of the poor.

"You men are millionaires—most of you," began the president. The members of the Jockey club began to show signs of nervousness, which was allayed, however, when they learned that he did not want money for war, but for pants—pants of the ordinary cotton variety worn by the Indian laboring man.

"When the world thinks of Mexicans," said Huerta, "it does not think of men dressed like you and me, but of those poor, ragged, dirty, cotton-trousered men. Now I want you to help me. Please keep your eyes open for each of these poor men needing trousers, and somehow, contrive to provide him with a pair."

Spain Assured by Bryan

Madrid, April 14.—Protection for Spaniards in Mexico was pledged to the Spanish government by the government of the United States in reply to representations made by the foreign office through Ambassador Willard.

A telegram was received from Secretary Bryan promising protection and saying that General Carranza would not confiscate the property of the expelled Spaniards.

STRIKERS GIVE UP STRUGGLE

No Concessions on Part of Copper Mine Owners

A SEVERE INDUSTRIAL CONTEST

Only About 5000 of Original 18,000 Who Struck Almost a Year Ago Continued Battle to the End—Troops and Hundreds of Deputy Sheriffs Were on Duty

Calumet, Mich., April 14.—The strike of the Michigan copper miners has been officially called off. Announcement at the headquarters of the Western Federation of Miners here said that the strikers voted at a referendum to waive their demands for higher wages, better working conditions and recognition of the union, and will seek work in the mines under practically the same conditions that prevailed before the strike was called last June.

It was reported that the men voted two to one to return to the mines.

The surrender of the strikers marked the end of the most bitter labor war ever waged in Michigan. Approximately 18,000 men went out on strike when it was first called. Of these thousands left the copper country to seek work in other districts. Some others deserted the strikers and joined the non-union strikebreakers who were imported from Chicago and New York. Only about 5000 miners continued the battle until the time of the official surrender.

Mine owners say that only a very small portion of the strikers will be able to get employment in the mines now.

During the first days of the strike there was much rioting when strikers attempted to interfere with non-union men going to work.

The sheriff of Houghton county called on Governor Ferris for troops; the governor complied and the soldiers began to arrive on July 25. Within two days the entire national guard of the state, over 2600 men, had arrived and encamped at the mines. In addition to the militia, there were during the strike about 1700 deputy sheriffs on duty.

After the first two weeks of the strike there was little more disorder until the middle of August, when work was resumed at some of the mines by one of the companies. Many strikers were arrested for interfering with workers. A striker was shot, a soldier was beaten, and then two strikers were killed.

In September an injunction was issued which restrained the strikers from interfering with men going to work and several hundred strikers were arrested for violation of the injunction.

Attempts to bring abobut arbitration, made by the governor and by the United States department of labor, failed, the companies refusing arbitration proposals because of their determination not to recognize the Western Federation of Miners.

Fresh fires of animosity were aroused by a panic created by a cry of fire in a public hall where children of the strikers were holding a Christmas Eve celebration.

Seventy-two lives were lost on this occasion and although a properly constituted body absolved anyone from blame there was much bitter feeling. This was not decreased by the subsequent deportation of Charles H. Moyer and Charles H. Tanner of the federation from Houghton on Dec. 26.

SULZER AT THE HEAD

New Political Organization Is Incorporated In New York

Albany, April 14.—What was regarded in political circles as possibly William Sulzer's initial step towards a race for the governorship next fall was the incorporation of "The American Party."

Some of the purposes of the party, as set forth in the incorporation papers, are to "drive out corrupt politicians, advocate election reforms, promote progressive legislation, bring about greater constitutional powers for the government to fight corrupt practices, and to make peace between capital and labor."

INTERPRETS OLD LAWS

New Hampshire Court Upholds Boston and Maine Increase

Concord, N. H., April 14.—The New Hampshire supreme court divided three to two in its interpretation of railroad rate legislation of 1883 and 1889, by which statutes railroad consolidation in New Hampshire was permitted on condition that rates should not be raised above those then in effect.

E. D. Clough, a lumberman of this city, sought to recover from the Boston and Maine railroad for freight rates paid in excess of those in effect at the time of the consolidation and the case has been in the courts for several years.

An opinion just handed down Chief Justice Parsons and Justices Walker and Young decide in favor of the railroaad's contention that the intent of the statutes was to fix a general or average maximum rate, rather than to establish a maximum rate in each individual case. Justices Peaslee and Plummer dissent from this conclusion.

MRS. BROWN COLLAPSES

Result of Grill Concerning Certain Affairs of Henry Siegel

Boston, April 14.—Mrs. Diana E. Brown collapsed in the outer office of the grand jury room after she had been given a severe grilling by District Attorney Pelletier before the members of the grand jury which is looking into the Henry Siegel company failure.

Mrs. Brown, when she entered the grand jury room, was in a defiant mood. Immediately after her entrance she was given the oath. Fifteen minutes later she had, under the grilling of Pelletier, admitted, it is said, that she was very friendly with Henry Siegel, and that she had secured every article of wearing apparel and finery that she wished at the Siegel store and had it charged to her account.

The examination of the accounts of Mrs. Brown by Auditor Hall, it is alleged, has failed to show that any payments had been made on this account.

SHOULD OWN RAIL AND WATER LINES

They Are Put In Uncle Sam's Hands In the Lewis Bill

Washington, April 14.—Characterizing three bills which he introduced in the senate as "the trinity of his labors while in the senate," Senator Lewis submitted three bills of unusual character.

One is a measure to empower the United States to take over and lease to private interests all interstate railroads; another to authorize the government to build 100 ships in American waters, to be chartered to any part of the world as government merchant marines and be an adjunct to the navy in time of war, and a third, to abolish the interstate commerce commission and create a new commission for interstate commerce and industry of twenty-one members, divided into three branches.

Captain Winsor of the steamer Bloodhound, which arrived from the northern sealing fields, reported that a member of the Kite's crew had been found on an ice floe. There was no trace of any other men from the Kite, which is now nearly a week overdue.

The Head of The House

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

"Susie," said Tom Atherton in a serious tone of voice, "I've been doing a job of thinking on our future."

"Why, Tom, what have you been thinking about?"

"Well, when we're married there's got to be a head to our partnership. There's always a head to every business firm."

"Do tell!"

"Now, what's marriage but a co-partnership? There'll be you and I, and some day"—

"You'll be manager, of course."

"What a sensible girl you are! Do you know what first attracted me to you? It was your good sense. You catch on to anything so quick. We'll be just as happy as two doves, won't we?"

And he drew her to him and gave her a couple of dozen prematrimonial kisses. He is content with one now, and sometimes when he's thinking on other matters even that is perfunctory.

Tom's salary was not large, and the couple had no income except what he earned. The husband had not been an expert on economy, but the wife was a good manager. "I'll just turn over to you," he said, "my salary check each week, and you do all the planning. I shall need very little for my personal expenses, and I can take that as I want it. That's the way they do in business. One man attends to getting the business, another to doing it, while a third looks out for the finances."

"The finance man of the company, isn't he?"

"Well, yes, usually."

"In our case you make the income on which we live, and I attend to its expenditure. In other words, you are head of the firm, and I'm the junior partner."

"I suppose that's the way to look at it."

So Tom turned over the checks each Saturday night to his wife, and, since she was a splendid manager, all went very well. There were no outstanding bills, nothing absolutely needful that was not forthcoming, while a percentage of each week's salary was put away regularly for emergencies, such as doctor's bills, and another amount for a nest egg.

"My dear," said the happy husband "when I run a big business I'll want you for my financial manager. I could make money in any enterprise with you to handle the cash."

"And isn't it nice," replied the wife, "that you can feel that you're the head of the house?"

"I'll admit," said Tom thoughtfully, "that it is. No man likes to feel that he must be obedient to a woman."

It was a few days after this remark that Tom needed a pair of gloves. Susie told him to go to her box, where she kept the household moneys, and get what he needed. There was nothing smaller than a five dollar bill. He took it, expecting to return the change. Unfortunately, during the day an old chum that he hadn't seen for years came in to see him. Tom took him out to lunch and when he went home returned $3 to the cash box instead of $4. The result was that when Tom gave his wife the marital kiss she smelled beer. She said nothing, but after he had deposited the balance of the cash she went to the drawer and found it a dollar short.

"Tom," she said, "how much did you take from the box this morning?"

"A fiver. There was nothing smaller."

"How much did your gloves cost?"

"A dollar."

"That leaves $4 to go back. Have you put it all in?"

"All, except a dollar."

"What became of that?"

"Well, you see, Pete Hathaway came to town today, and I took him out to lunch with me."

The look on Mrs. Atherton's face was lowering, but she said nothing. There was a silent dinner between them, after which Tom said:

"Susie, I wish you'd get that look off your face. It's all because I spent a dollar today—a miserable, single dollar—and that entertaining an old friend I haven't seen for several years."

"Who authorized you to spend a dollar for such a purpose?"

"Who authorized me? Am I accountable to you for the money I spend?"

"I thought I was to be the financial member of our firm."

"So you are, so you are, but am I not the head of the concern?"

"Of course you are! But that dollar you spent today I intended for another purpose."

"What purpose?"

"I had just enough with it to buy our Sunday provisions. Now we'll have to eat canned salmon for Sunday dinner."

That was the beginning, a new light breaking in on Tom's brain. His wife's management of their affairs was so excellent, produced such beneficial results, that he became more of a slave to her every day. True, there was a profit in it all, but Tom was a slave all the same. "Somebody once declared," he says, "that he didn't care who made a nation's laws so long as he could write its songs. My wife doesn't care who makes the money for the family so long as she disburses it. Head of the house be hanged! I have to account to her for every penny I spend."

CAR RAIL AT WHITE HEAT

One of the rails on the car line to Quincy Point was discovered at white heat near Wharf street on Monday night by several auto parties passing through that district. They reported the occurrance to the car barn and an emergency crew was sent to the place. When they arrived they found the rail dead but rather warm. They made an examination but could not locate the cause. It is thought that the rail completed an arc long enough to heat the track to a high degree, and that an auto truck passing jarred the arc and broke the connection. Several men who witnessed the freaky incident said that under certain conditions it might have been very dangerous.

Carry Flint.

The Norfolk peasants always regard pointed flints as thunderbolts. So consistent are the simple folks that they will often assure you that they picked them up red hot. They carry flints and stone arrow heads about with them in the belief that this custom will prevent them being struck by lightning.

BRILLIANT BALL OF QUINCY COUNCIL

South Shore Towns Well Represented at Annual Event of Knights of Columbus

Very Pretty Decorations at Music Hall Last Evening

The annual Easter Monday ball of Quincy council Knights of Columbus, in Music hall last night was one of the most successful ever held under the auspices of the organization and gave the post Lenten season a most brilliant opening. The attendance included people from all parts of the South Shore and numbered among the guests were men prominent in public life and in the order.

Special guests of the evening were: Hon. John L. Miller, mayor of Quincy; Rev. Fr. John J. Coan, chaplain of the organization; Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy; Rev. Fr. John P. Cuffe; Rev. Fr. James J. The hall, under the magic touch of a decorator had been transformed into a monster booth of bunting and flags. Flag bunting reaching from each point in the hall festooned about the centre chandelier, gold and white bunting draped the wall, broken at intervals with panels of flower scenes and insignia of the organization. The stage was a mass of cut flowers and potted plants and the orchestra rendered dance music from a miniature garden. At the rear end of the hall the Knights of Columbus insignia was set on a foundation of golden and white colors and at each point a colored electric light glowed and sparkled throughout the evening.

From eight until nine o'clock, during the arrival of the guests, an orchestral concert was given by Wilson's seven piece orchestra. It consisted of the "Gallant Knights" march by Losey, Suppe's "Pique Dame" overture, the "Drops of Dew" concert waltz of Waldtenfel, Remick's popular song hit, "Good-bye boys" and the finale was "The military girl" by Cecil.

At 9.15 the grand march formed with Grand Knight William A. Carey and Miss Helen Coughlin, Deputy Grand Knight Peter M. Sullivan and Miss Eulalie O'Toole as the head couples. Following were State Deputy Watson and Miss Mary Carey, District Deputy Gallagher and Mrs. Daniel J. Gallagher, Deputy Grand Knight James Geary and Miss Alicia Elcock, Grand Knight and Mrs. Lucien A. Gaudreau, Grand Knight Edward Butler of Weymouth and lady, Recording Secretary Dennis S. Sweeney and lady, District Deputy and Mrs. Edward D. Barrett, and 100 other couples.

SWAPPED COATS.

Some person unknown forced an entrance into the carriage shop of Simeon Scammell on Quincy avenue on Monday night, took an old suit of clothes and left an older one in exchange, and a part of a harness. The jacket left behind had a large stain on the right shoulder which may be a blood stain. It is now in the possession of the police.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

And Some Things That Are Liable to Happen

There was nothing doing at the Mayor's office this morning relative to the alleged statement that a civil service man in the Water department was to be removed. When asked about the matter ,the Mayor said that there was nothing doing yet, that he was considering the matter. He further said that there was some call for criticism in that department. He went on further to say that he did not like any underhanded business on the part of the City Council or any one else.

While the Mayor did not state just what he meant by underhand business. it is presumed he referred to the much discussed subject of an automobile truck for the Water department.

While there is not much doubt but what the Mayor would like to use the sum of $2,000, which has been named, to purchase buzz wagons for his own use and for the Inspector of Buildings, there is some question as to how the City Council, who will have to make the transfer, will view the proposition.

There has been considerable talk over the critisism of the City Council by the Mayor at the meeting at the Wollaston Yacht club house last week, and perhaps the members of the City Council may have something to say about it at the next meeting.

Aside from this little ripple of excitement, things are very quiet at City Hall. No one is saying anything, but some are wondering where the axe will strike next.

Commissioner Brown is keeping the watering cart busy in City Square for which the business men are thankful, for otherwise the high wind would blow clouds of dust about, making it very disagreeable.

GOING TO WASHINGTON

Woodward Pupils to be Escorted by Mr. and Mrs. Rice

Principal Rice of the Woodward Institute, with Mrs. Rice as chaperon, is to take a party of Woodward girls to Washington during the spring vacation. The following are the members of the party to date: Alice Ash, Charlotte Barstow, Alice Beal, Isidora Beal, Helen Bishop, Dorothy Doble, Anna Dinegan, Hilder Ellison, Louise Emery, Susie Flahive, Ruth MacLeod, Elsie McLennan, Louise McDonnell, Lorine McDonnell, Helen Moulton, Laurice Penniman, Mildred Podbury, Miriam Priest, Agnes Reardon, Edna Shay and Margaret Taylor.

A stop of several hours will be made at Philadelphia, during which a visit will be made to the United States mint and to Independence Hall.

The girls anticipate a glorious time as Mr. Rice has several times taken school parties to Washington, and is well acquainted with the city and the interesting sights that appeal most strongly to the visitor. Among these points of interest will be the Capitol, Congress in session, Supreme Court, Monument, Bureau of Engraving and Printing, where the printing of paper money and postage stamps will be seen, White House, Treasury, Congressional Library, National Museum, Smithsonian Institution, Dead Letter Office, Corcoran Art Gallery, National Soldiers' Cemetery at Arlington and a trip down the Potomac to Mt. Vernon.

The party will be quartered at "The Winston" a new family hotel located on First Street just off Pennsylvania avenue and overlooking the grounds of the Capitol.

WHIST PARTY.

The first of a series or entertainments for the benefit of Maple lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor, given by Mrs. Sarah C. Williams, was in Protection hall on Monday afternoon and consisted of a whist party at which eleven tables were in play. The winners were Mrs. Mary Phelan, Mrs. T. Donohue, Mrs. Loretta Crane, Mrs. Emma E. Marnock and Mrs. D. Remick.

Reynold McDonald of Hull has resigned as the driver of the Atlantic Hill auto fire engine and keeper of the town lockup. George Collins succeeds him.

DINED ON JACKALS.

But There Was Other Food the Arabs Simply Would Not Eat.

Describing the Mohammedans of Algeria in his book, "The Barbary Coast," Albert Edwards says he discovered that with the exception of the obvious difference in clothing they seemed to be very much like other men, although "they do not care for the same things—at least not for the same reasons." Of this he had a striking example during his first winter in Algeria:

"I had asked my host about the jackals which howled the night through in the brousse about his home. I was curious to know how much they resembled the coyotes of our western plains. A few days later he called me from my desk with the news that some of his Arab workmen had trapped a jackal. I followed him out into the patio and found a half dozen natives squatted about an earthen pot. Two of them were holding the animal while another skinned it. A jackal looks like nothing but a very sick and mangy dog. I can not imagine anything less appetizing. I was surprised and rather nauseated to see that the men were preparing the beast for cooking.

"'Do the natives eat these things?' I disgustedly asked my host in French.

"The man who seemed to be the chief cook understood the language of the conquerors. He looked up surlily.

"'Yes,' he growled, 'but we don't eat pig.'

"I thought of our slaughter house scandals and the doubtful cleanliness of our food supply and felt very much like the owner of a glass house who had thoughtlessly begun to throw stones."

IVORY CARVING IN CHINA.

Only Six Expert Workers In Forty Shops In Canton.

There are in Canton about forty shops which make and sell ivory articles. Each store is small, consisting usually of a showroom open to the street and a back room, where the cutting is done. Members of the store also usually work in the showroom The industry may be divided into two stages, cutting and carving. Tusks imported from Siam constitute the raw material. These are first cut with a saw to the shape capable of being worked up by carving. The cutting apparatus consists of a wooden block or vise, a saw and a tub of water. The ivory is secured firmly by the vise, moistened with water and cut to the required shape.

Perfectly flat pieces of ivory nearly as thin as paper were shown in evidence of the skill of the cutter. The cutting finished, the blocks are then carved into shape with knives of many different shapes. These have a short blade and a long handle made of bamboo, like a penholder. Other instruments noted to be in use by the carvers were wire saws and a gimlet worked by a leather twirling apparatus.

The number of expert workers in Canton is far less than the number of stores, being only about six in number. An expert carver seldom works in the shop which employs him. He generally works in his own house and can earn about $30 Canton currency a month.—Consular Reports.

Lapping Up the Land.

Aldeburgh, which annually holds its feast of sprats, has run considerable risk in recent years of providing a feast for the sprats themselves. Fierce gales in the eighties and nineties did very great damage and almost completed the ruin begun by the sea that swallowed up ancient Dunwich. At one time the land went a quarter of a mile farther out to sea, and an old map preserved in the venerable Moot hall shows that the church had at least ten times more land toward the sea than it has now. The market place and the cross are among the trifles which the sea has stolen, while in 1799 eleven houses disappeared. The arms of the borough were selected with some sense of humor, "A ship in the waves of the sea, all sayles bearinge."—London Chronicle.

Police In Old Glasgow.

In the eighteenth century the whole safety and order of Glasgow, Scotland, were intrusted to the unpaid and reluctant burghers. Every citizen who was between the years of eighteen and sixty and paid a yearly rent amounting to $15 had to take his turn at guarding the city. "On touch of drum," says the writer, "the gentleman was at his post at 10 at night and strolled with weary tread and yawning gait along the Trongate and High street and up the pitch dark lanes of winter nights till 4 in the morning. After that hour the city was without a police."

Man and the Office.

"The office ought to seek the man," said the patriot.

"Perhaps," replied Senator Sorghum, "but when an office has to seek the man the salary is generally so small that it makes the office look like a downright mendicant."—Washington Star.

Poor Method.

"He seems to be always chasing rainbows."

"Yes, that appears to be his method of providing for a rainy day."—Judge.

CHURCH BELL FOR ATLANTIC

Will Be Located on the Methodist Church

Twenty-four were received into the church at the Easter service at the Atlantic Methodist church Easter Sunday. In the evening there was an Easter concert by the Sunday School which was given before a full house. At the conclusion of the concert 150 of the audience voted to accept an offer of the city government to put bell on the church to be used not only for church services but as a city fire alarm, the city paying all expense. The pastor then raised $90 to pay all the church bills and to settle in full the pastor's claim. It was a happy Easter day to the church and to all in attendance.

DANCE AT ALPHA HALL.

A private dancing party, at which the modern dances prevailed, was held in Alpha hall Monday night with a large attendance of the younger folks of the city. Dancing was enjoyed until midnight, music being furnished by Hayden's orchestra. Refreshments were served in Union hall. The committee was James Morrison, Herbert Smith, Daniel DiBona, Arthur Little, Charles and Louis French and Reginald Randall.

Today is Grocers day. That is the Massachusetts Grocers and Provision Dealers association is holding its annual convention in Quincy today, and are guests of the city. There has been no general attempt at decoration although the rooms of the Board of Trade, and several of the stores in the Adams building have done a little.

The first vanguard of the delegates and ladies arrived in Quincy shortly after 10 o'clock and were met at the depot by John L. Hamilton, president of the Board of Trade, and escorted to the rooms of the Board which will be the headquarters during the day.

Among the first arrivals were Frank W. Mendum, president of the association, and Mrs. Mendum of Roxbury; H. W. Mansfield secretary and treasurer, and Mrs. Mansfield of Braintree; Walter K. Hutchinson, vice president, and Mrs. Hutchinson of Arlington; W. C. Walker, director, and Mrs. Walker of Wakefield; Alanson Gray, director, and Mrs. Gray of Lowell; Thure Hanson, commissioner of weights and measures, of Worcester; Aaron C. Dowse of Sharon, and others.

Arriving at the rooms of the Board of Trade they were welcomed by Secretary John O. Hall, A. L. Whitman, T. L. Williams, William H. Teasdale, Robert E. Foy, Oscar S. Sandberg and other members of the Board.

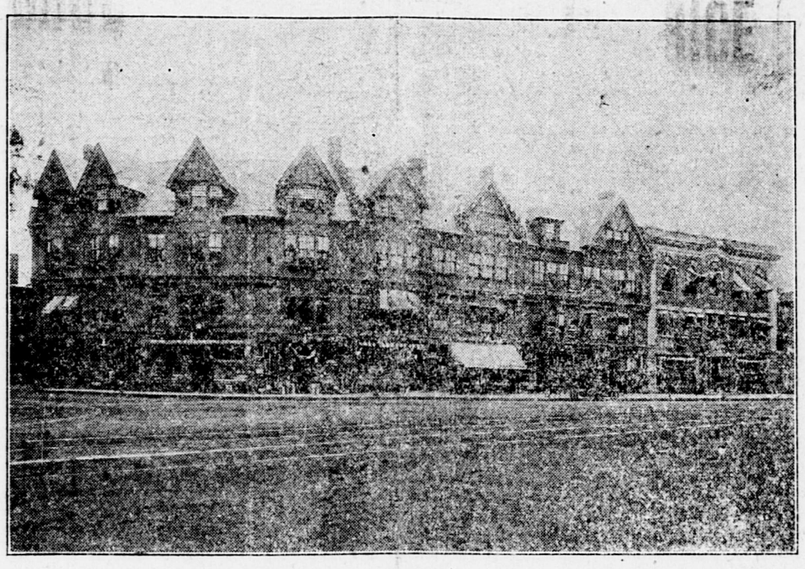

The rooms of the Board looked rather attractive, large vases of jonquils from the greenhouses of William Patterson, being used in decoration.

A TRIBUTE TO QUINCY

William Ralph Ferry of Newton, who will read a paper at the Grocers' banquet this evening, has also written the following verses for Grocers' Day at Quincy :

The Board of Trade who's guests we are
Are courteous to us from afar;
The towns and cities we represent
Are enough to please our President.

On convention day we meet you here
Your civic pride should give you cheer,
Your men of Quincy town are near
To show us sights that are so dear.

Your granite we find is all around
Which makes your city so well renowned;
Your ship building industry of world wide fame
Gives your city of Quincy a very great name.

The men at the helm of your Trade Board are earnest
To bring business to Quincy which is of the firmest;
The beach and the cottages are of such attraction
They should be able to please any faction.

As grocers we come to you on this day,
Right here and now our respects to pay,
And all of us so earnestly pray
That your city may prosper more every day.

This fifteenth of April will well be remembered
By the hosts of grocers which are here assembled.
Our tribute we pay to your home merchants today
For their kindness in making this so pleasant a stay.

QUINCY HIGH OPENS SEASON

Shut Out at Merrymount Park By Rindge Tech of Cambridge 9 to 0.

Local Team Work in Box and Strongly Handicapped

Quincy High lost its opening game of the season to Rindge Tech school of Cambridge at Merrymount park Tuesday afternoon 9 to 0. At no time did the local aggregation display base ball class.

The game was played under very disagreeable weather conditions, but a large body of students remained until the finish although the chilly wind that swept the field was strong enough at times to turn outfield drive into infield flies.

Quincy opened its season strongly handicapped. In the first place they faced a team of veterans, and secondly they lacked the services of a veteran pitcher and had two freshmen and a sophomore in the outer garden. Murphy performed for Quincy until relieved by Sawyer in the seventh inning but neither demonstrated class enough for the season's team. The infield was fairly good but performed in hap-hazard manner and the outfield offers a splendid opportunity for development.

The stick work was weak and eight succumbed to Messenger's pitching, while only three touched him for hits. Of these Larkin was the one player to get as far as second base, but he was left there when the side was retired.

A drive to right field by Portras which was sent off its course by the wind, beyond the reach of Art DiSen-

Congressmen may be pretty well stirred up over the tolls question, but it is not necessary for the orators to holler so loud that they can be heard half a mile down Pennsylvania avenue.

Is the country on the brink of a bloody revolution, or can it be averted by finding a comfortable little clerkship for "Gen." Coxey?

It is not clear how the administration expects to get any votes in Jayville, when it failed to locate a federal reserve bank there.

It is claimed that only by the most rigid economy can a congressman live on $7500 a year. If their pay is advanced, they may be able to visit Washington once in a while.

The city men who go back on the farm to make a living usually start in by buying some comfortable piazza chairs.

Many people dance to all kinds of late hours the week after Easter, but they can always snooze the next day at the office.

Sunday deliveries of beer have had to stop in Cleveland. Many citizens will no longer be in doubt as to the destination of their Sunday afternoon stroll.

A man's views on the new currency law will undergo very considerable revision after he has been turned down for a loan by the federal reserve bank.

The lower the price on the Easter hat the more enthusiastically its beauties are praised by the husbands.

A good day's work for peace was done when they killed off 10,000 Mexicans of the various factions at Torreon.

The men are not much interested in the style parade Easter, but most of them usually put on a clean collar.

The Mexican congress has met again. They can easily keep out of jail by passing the laws President Huerta wants.

The new skirts for women seem to have all the ugliness of trousers without any of their advantages.

The farmers seem to consider that the government bulletins on scientific agriculture are nearly as good as the information they learned from their fathers.

The terrors of spring house-cleaning are upon us, but most editors find consolation in their disorderly desks at the office.

An automobile was assembled, painted, varnished, and put into running order in 38 minutes the other day. A good joy rider can scrap it though in 38 seconds.

SPRING HIGHWAY WORK.

Road supervisors and engineers are now getting ready for the annual spring campaign. How many of them study the subject scientifically?

In many sections it has always been customary to scrape or shovel the dirt, mud, or dust from the gutters into the middle of the road. In the first heavy rain or wind storm, it would be washed or blown back.

The United States government and many of the states issue valuable bulletins prescribing the kind of treatment desirable for every kind of road. Every available scrap of such literature should be studied by road builders.

In many places road men persist in putting on a type of gravel that has no binding qualities and soon turns to sand. In others, short and costly stretches of stone road are built, when gravel or sand clay combinations would serve all purposes at vastly less cost. Every road is an individual problem, and should be so studied in the light of the best scientific information.

HALL PLACE M. E. CHURCH

Has Had Prosperous Year Under Rev. T. C. Martin

At the meeting of the official board of the Hall Place M. E. church Monday evening, it was found that through the tireless energies of the church treasurer, Charles E. Jose, that sufficient money had been secured to pay all bills to date, except the sewer tax and for this, $25 is already pledged. This is the best showing the church has made for several years.

The benevolences and interests outside of the local church equal one-sixth of the entire amount of money raised for the year, and is the largest for fourteen years.

REV. T. C. MARTIN.

The membership has increased 12 per cent. The Sunday School is much advanced over recent years, there being 14 in the cradle roll, 50 in the home department and 116 in the main school. The latter averaged 80 in attendance the last quarter. The Epworth League is the largest in its history, numbering 47 members. Fifteen persons were received into the church on Palm Sunday.

Through the efforts of Robert Newcomb and Daniel McNeil, the sidewalk assessment by the city of $80 is raised.

Rev. T. C. Martin, the pastor closes his pastorate in Quincy, and will be assigned elsewhere on the adjournment of the 118th annual session of the New England Conference Monday, April 20.

The Conference opened today at the Centre church, Malden, and many of the Methodist people attended.

The Hall Place pulpit will be supplied next Sunday morning by Robert Farquhar. This with the Sunday School following will be the only services for the day.

Since Mr. Martin came here, three years ago, there have been many improvements in the church property costing in labor, material and money over $2,000. A seven year old floating debt has been removed. During the past year, Mr. Martin has, without expense to the society, painted the interior of the parsonage, papered and whitewashed four rooms and made one entire new room 12x15 ft, on the third floor.

Mr. Martin in the Quincy Ministers' Association was chairman of the committee on new Americans, also of hospitals and charities. He instigated and was chairman of the committee which arranged the simultaneous exchange of pulpits when on a recent Sunday morning, seventeen pulpits in Quincy were occupied by preachers of other denominations.

The church has voted to inaugurate the "every-member canvass." It will use the duplex envelopes as in the past three years, and has placed the Bishops' fund and Retired Ministers' claim in the budget of the church for the coming year. These will no longer be considered benevolences but a part of the current expenses of the church as the discipline requires. The church feels very grateful to the friends outside of its membership that have generously assisted in the work.

QUINCY ELKS INSTALLATION

Presentation to P. H. S llivan the Retiring Ruler

Philip H. Sullivan, who retired Tuesday evening as exalted ruler of Quincy lodge of Elks, was presented by the lodge with a solid gold lodge card case in appreciation of his services as exalted ruler from 1912 to 1914. The presentation came at the conclusion of the installation of the newly elected officers of the lodge, the presentation speech being made in behalf of the lodge by P. E. R. Horace C. Twigg of Waltham lodge, acting district deputy grand exalted ruler.

Phill is usually equal to most any occasion, but the presentation was an entire surprise, and he was for a few minutes at loss for words. He thanked the brothers for their handsome and unexpected gift and assured them that although retiring from the office of exalted ruler his interest in the welfare of the lodge would continue, and that he should work for its interest.

The card case was a very handsome affair and made to fold, so that it may be worn as a watch charm. On one face of the outside was the monogram "P. H. S.," while on the reverse side was a tiny Elk, the antlers of which supported a five pointed blue star, in the centre of which was a clock dial with the hands pointing to the mystic hour of 11. Around this were the words "Quincy lodge, B. P. O. E. 943."

On the inside on the border of the frame holding the card was the following inscription: "Presented to Philip H. Sullivan by Quincy lodge, B. P. O. E., 943, April 14, 1914, in appreciation of his services as exalted ruler 1912-1914."

It was a little after 8.30 when the presence of the deputy and suite was announced in the ante room, and they were immediately escorted to the lodge room by the esquire, and received with due honors. On the suite with Deputy Twiggs were: John J. Mooney of Waltham, acting grand esquire; Robert Johnson of Waltham acting grand leading knight; William Chase of Waltham, acting grand lecturing knight; H. S. Kaulback of Quincy lodge acting grand loyal knight; A. H. Remick of Quincy lodge, as acting grand secretary; Henry P. Kittredge of Quincy lodge as acting grand treasurer; Robert Kelley of Quincy lodge as acting grand chaplain; William Thomas of Quincy lodge, as acting grand inner guard; Walter Cummings of Quincy lodge as acting grand trustee.

The officers installed are:

Exalted Ruler, John Hilderbrand.

Esteemed Leading Knight, Edward D. Larkin.

Esteemed Loyal Knight, Dr. James H. Maloney.

Esteemed Lecturing Knight, John R. S. Ross.

Secretary, William S. George.

Treasurer, Charles R. O'Connor.

Tyler, John W. Reveney.

Trustee for three years, John W. Sweeney.

Delegate to annual convention, Philip H. Sullivan.

Alternate delegate, Robert J. Williams, Jr.

After the installation and presentation there was some little speechmaking, after which an adjournment was made to the clubhouse on Foster street, where Anthony Thompson served a banquet; which was followed by vocal and instrumental music, and chorus singing.

BANQUET AND INSTALLATION

Happy Time for Christian Endeavor Society

Such a beautiful sight was never seen by the members and invited guests of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church as that which greeted them upon entering their meeting room Tuesday evening. The occasion was their annual banquet and installation of officers which was atended by eighty young people, and surpassed anything that has gone before.

The room was decorated in a most artistic manner with red and white streamers and C. E. monograms, under the direction of Miss Jessie Sherley, the chairman of the social committee.

The menu was given entirely by the members of the society under the direction of Miss Mary Morrison and consisted of roast spring lamb, dressing, mashed potatoes, green peas, cranberry sauce, mixed pickles, rolls, coffee, ice cream and cake.

With the banquet over, and the tables cleaned of what little remained, remarks were made by Rev. Mr. Matheson, Alfred Bishop and Alexander Clark.

The annual reports of the officers and committee chairmen were then given and showed the society to be in a flourishing condition. The retiring president, A. Wendell Clark, spoke briefly regarding the work of the past year and urged the co-operation of everyone with the nw officrs.

Rev. Mr. Matheson took charge of the installation service and installed the following officers:

President—George McDonald.

Vice President—Louis Marini.

Recording Secretary—Margaret McLeod.

Corresponding Secretary — Flora Thomson.

Treasurer—Wallace Kemp.

Pianist—Mabel Dixon.

I. Shirley.

The committee chairmen are:

Lookoue—Thomas MacLay.

Prayer Meeting,—Lillian McIntosh.

Social,—James Jenkins.

Missionary,—Mrs. Matheson.

Flower,—Edith Elrick.

Good iLterature,—Jean Crammond.

Music,—Louis Marini.

The new president conducted a short business session after which an entertainment was given, consisting of readings by Margaret McLennan, solos by Louis Marini and songs by a trio composed of William Cumming, William Falconer and James Matheson.

Mrs. aMtheson was presented with a beautiful bouquet of carnations, in recognition of her faithful interest in the society and the retiring president was presented with a similar bouquet in recognition of his work during the past year.

A most delightful evening was brought to a close by all joining hands in a circle and singing "Blest be the tie that binds, our hearts in Christian love," closing with the Mizbenediction.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CLUB

Elect Dr. Charles E. Monroe as New President

At the final meeting of the season held by the Wollaston Unitarian club Tuesday evening the following officers were elected:

President—Dr. Charles E. Monroe.

Vice President—William M. Chase.

Secretary—John E. Simmons.

Treasurer—Charles P. Loring.

Executive committee—Albert R. Moulton, Rev. Carl G. Horst, E. Tyler Brigham.

The meeting brought to a close the fourteenth year of the club. Reports by the treasurer and secretary showed the club to be in sound financial condition with a full membership and a waiting list.

The club voted to increase its membership from 100 to not over 150. William E. Rowe in bringing in the report of the nominating committee stated with regret that Vice President Arthur W. Rohn who was slated for the presidency was obliged to leave town.

Preceding the lecture of the evening President Louis F. R. Langelier called on William M. Chase to give a five minute talk on his trip around the world. Mr. Chase responded with a poem entitled "The joy of getting back."

Dr. E. H. Nichols, associate professor of surgery at Harvard University delivered a very vital lecture on "Sex hygiene" taking the subject from purely a medical aspect and dealing in detail with the many sided phases of the subject.

He considered his subject under four heads: the rights of other individuals, rights of the community at large, social conventions, and the physical and mental well being of the individual.

There are three fundamental appetites said the speaker, hunger, thirst and the sex appetite. Hunger and thirst are a necessity. The sex instinct is natural and normal but is not necessary for the mental and physical well being of the individual.

The results of illicit intercourse are disastrous and terrible for the physical, mental and social state of the individual. Leaving out entirely the moral and social side of the question, physical chastity pays.

Professor Nichols decried putting off the questions of the child regarding sexual matters and making a mystery of perfectly natural function.

Sex matters should not be taught in the schools. They cannot be taught in mixed classes. The salvation of the problem, lies in the individual instruction of the child by the parent or someone supremely fitted for the task, said the speaker.

Superintendent Barbour who was present agreed absolutely with Professor Nichols. A good many schoolmen he said, have been rather inclined to lose their heads on the subject. Most of them are getting their heads back however and agree that salvation lies through the general education of the parents through lectures rather than instruction in the public schools.

Many questions were asked Professor Nichols and a vote of thanks were extended the retiring president and the young men who had been waiters during the year.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Quincy Women's club met Tuesday afternoon in Alpha hall, the president Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, presiding. Reports were given by the clerk and treasurer.

The treasurer also announced that members who have not contributed toward the endowment fund of the National Federation of Women's clubs could do so if they desired. Chairmen of committees were asked to make up their financial statements preparatory to the closing meeting May 12, and all those having bills against club were requested to send them in.

Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop, Mrs. John B. Worster and Mrs. Eben W. Sheppard were elected delegates to the biennial at Chicago in June. Club women arriving in Chicago are requested to wear a bow of blue ribbon and the receiving women would be decorated with yellow ribbon. Club members planning to attend the biennial should write for rooms at the hotel to insure accommodations.

The president called attention to the Federation magazine published monthly and urged members to subscribe for it as it contained much useful information.

The Education committee asked and received the endorsement of the club of its petition to the city council for a censorship of the moving picture shows in Quincy.

Announcement was made of a statue to be erected to Ann Hutchinson in the Boston Public library through the courtesy of her descendants and club women. If any member of the club was a descendant of hers, a contribution would be welcomed by the committee. Mrs. Willard E. Dow said that Ann Hutchinson was undoubtedly the mother of the women's clubs as meetings were held at her home in Boston to discuss vital questions. This woman was of special interest to Quincy as she came here to live when giving up her home in Boston, a bronze tablet marking the spot in Wollaston.

Chairman of committees reported as follows: Mrs. Tenney of the Art committee said this was art week with the club with the afternoon's lecture and the art study meeting Friday afternoon at the clubhouse. A few tickets could be secured for Friday and an interesting afternoon was promised with Frederick Whitney as the lecturer.

Mrs. Mackay for the Civic committee said 1500 envelopes of seeds had been secured for the children and it was hoped there would be 1500 children's gardens this summer. She had sent a letter to our senator at Washington, Hon. Edward Gilmore asking for information regarding the distribution of free seeds by the government receiving a large sack of seeds and the following letter from him:

"I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter of recent date requesting seeds. It is a pleasure to hear from you. I will be glad to have seeds sent to you or to any source you wish. If it is possible to give somewhere near the number you would like to have sent or the names of those whom you would like to have receive them, I would be pleased to see they were forwarded as you direct. However, if you feel that you could give the time and take upon yourself the work of distributing them, I would be mighty pleased to send you all you wish."

Mrs. Mackay also presented the following resolution to the club which was almost unanimously adopted: "That the Quincy Women's club, without regard to party preferences, commend and approve the support given in Congress by the Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge and the Hon. Edward Gilmore to the President of the United States in his endeavor to secure the repeal of the Panama Canal tolls act and thereby save the honor of the nation.

Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham for the Education committee told of preparations for the annual children's May festival to be held May day afternoon at two o'clock at Quincy Music hall. There would be a pageant in which over a hundred children would take part, also a May queen and maypole dance, followed by general dancing. No tickets would be sold at the door so must be obtained of the Education committee before May 1st.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh called attention to three matters of interest to the Philanthropy committee; the question of a home and school visitor in Quincy; the play "A scrap of paper" to be given by members of the Quincy Teachers' Association at Alpha hall, May 8 for the benefit of the Associated Charities and a reception to be given by the Associated Charities to Miss Jenny Purchase secretary, who was completing two years of service. The reception would be from three 'til five o'clock Saturday afternoon, April 18 at the clubhouse, Presidents hill and any interested would be welcome to attend.

The Quincy Young Women's club is to give a play May 8 at Alpha hall, followed by dancing, in observance of gentlemen's night and co-operation in making it a success was asked.

The Wellesley benefit performance April 24 at Quincy Music hall was announced and patronage asked for.

The annual party for children would be held at the clubhouse April 25 for which further details would be announced later by the Program committee.

Mrs. Hunting for the Visiting Nurse committee gave the monthly report of the nurses and spoke of the illness of the head nurse Miss McEwan who was at the Quincy Hospital.

For the musical program following the business session the club had the pleasure of listening to a group of songs by Mrs. E. Clifford Bates, a club member, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. William Ennis. Mrs. Bates has a rich contralto voice. She sang "Request," "Beloved it is morn," and "The leaves and the wind" receiving a hearty encore.

The afternoon's program was in charge of the Art committee and Mrs. Tenney in introducing the lecturer Henry Warren Poor of the Boston Normal Art school said the club had for two years had fine loan exhibits but this afternoon were to go farther afield and see some of the great paintings shown by one who was an artist well received on this side of the water also abroad.

Mr. Poor in opening said one could travel the world over for the beautiful but must carry it with them to enjoy and appreciate what they had seen.

Mr. Poor first showed on the screen pictures in the Boston Museum of Fine Arts and the Metropolitan museum of New York showing us to be the possessors of many fine paintings by our own celebrated artists as well as those of Europe. After which he took the club across the water for brief visits to the leading galleries of Europe, visiting London, Edinburgh, Paris, The Hague, Amsterdam, Munich and Florence showing the gems in each. Mr. Poor was handicapped in showing his colored slides to advantage because the hall could not be sufficiently darkened to bring out clearly some of the lighter and more delicate paintings. Most of them were good, however and his stories of paintings and artists were interesting.

The next meeting will also be held at Alpha hall, a magazine afternoon arranged by the Literature committee.

WOLLASTON WOMAN'S CLUB.

Tuesday evening, April 21, the Wollaston Woman's club has its gentlemen's night. The entertainers will be the Grieg Trio: Marguerite Pearson Moss, violin; E. Thompson Hall, 'cello Minnie G. Del Castello, piano; Margaret Louden Shepherd, contralto; Jennie Hocking Hunt, accompanist.

Under the auspices of the Wollaston Woman's club the Boston Civics Society invite the ladies of Wollaston to a lecture by Dr. Fleischer on "The Civic Woman." Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes president of the club will preside and it is hoped that as many as possible may be present at the lecture which will be on Wednesday afternoon, April 22 at 3.45 o'clock in the Wollaston school hall, Beale street. Admission will be free.

The Boston Civics Society is a branch of the National Civics Society of Chicago. Their object is the education of women on civic matters. All the evils in any community exist because of the indifference of the majority of people to them. The Civics Society feels that it is not so much the vote women need to correct these evils as an intelligent realization of the reasons for them. If they understand how public officials are chosen, who the contracts for street cleaning and water supply are given to, how the fire hazard is controlled, the government of their state, town and community and household efficiency, the evils will be materially lessened.

The Civics Society brings to all women the opportunity which hitherto has been open to college women alone. It is the hope of the Society to arouse an interest in every New England community in this large housekeeping.

WOLLASTON W. C. T. U.

The Wollaston W. C. T. U. was held April 10th at the home of Mrs. Frederick R. Morgan, Brook street. After the usual business the president Mrs. George Crothers spoke on "Health and Heredity" pointing out among other things the protection given to the public by the pure food law.

A Wollaston branch of the Loyal Temperance Legion has recently been organized and owes its inception to the President Mrs. Crothers who found a sympathetic ally in the master of the Wollaston school Mr. David Goodspeed. March 12th the school closed one half hour before the usual time and the scholars gathered in the school hall, where after a brief address by the State L. T. L. secretary Mrs. Helen G. Rice a Legion was organized and the following plan for its continuance was adopted at the suggestion of Mr. Goodspeed. The second Monday of each month at 9 o'clock the entire school of all grades will assemble in the hall; the L. T. L. juvenile president will be called to the front and with Mrs. Ada B. Frisbee in charge, a brief L. T. L. program will be carried out.

D. A. R. OF WOLLASTON.

A large number of the members of the Abigail Phillips Quincy chapter D A. R. of Wollaston were present at the April meeting held with Mrs. Charles Chase, Upland road, Quincy, the regent, Mrs. E. E. Jameson, presiding. After the usual opening exercises, a letter was read from Miss Sayward which assured us that Mrs. William Sayward was slowly but surely recovering from her late accident. Letters of thanks for gifts were also read from the International college at Springfield, from the Morgan Memorial of Boston, and from the Associated Charities of Quincy.

It was voted that the contribution toward Continental Memorial hall in Washington be used for a guest book suitably inscribed, in accordance with the suggestion of Mrs. George O. Jenkins, state regent. Several minor amendments were made to the by-laws so as to have them in proper shape for printing during the summer.

Mrs. W. F. Jones presented a request from the Founders Society that the chapter send a protest to the state officials against any changes being made in the proposed addition to the State House that will alter or mar the present Bulfinch front. The chapter unanimously voted to send such a protest.

The report of the nominating committee was read by the chairman Mrs. C. A. Pinkham as follows: Regent—Mrs. I. F. Waterhouse; vice regent—Mrs. W. F. Jones; recording secretary—Mrs. C. M. Chase; corresponding secretary—Mrs. E. O. Woodward; treasurer—Mrs. F. Burgess; registrar—Mrs. S. Crocker; historian—Mrs. G. E. Healey; custodian—Mrs. G. B. Damon; auditor—Mrs. B. Sargent; chaplain—Mrs. G. T. Taylor; librarian—Mrs. A. S. Paige.

The paper of the day was of unusual excellence. In it Mrs. Antoinette Paige followed the highway from Quincy square to Gov. Dudley square pointing out the landmarks which remain of the early settlers and describing many of the notable houses of persons who lived along the route in colonial days. We were told that from farms in this locality came the Clapp's Favorite and the Bartlett pear, and the Williams and the Roxbury-Russet apple. A rising vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Paige both for the paper and for her very able work during the last two years as chairman of the program committee.

The social hour followed, refreshments being served by Mrs. Chase.

BIENNIAL AT CHICAGO.

As the time draws near for the biennial convention of the General Federation, to be held in Chicago, June 9-19, women all over the country are planning a summer outing which shall take in this second city in the United States. It means a great deal that women of California and the other Pacific States, of Florida, Texas and Maine, should make the long journey to the Middle West, and the inducements must be great to warrant such a venture. To the San Francisco biennial two years ago Illinois sent ninety-seven delegates and eight alternates. California is trying to do even better than that, and hopes to have at least a hundred delegates at the Chicago convention. Such friendly rivalry is interesting and bodes well for the Federation.

Mrs. James W. Orr, president of the California federation, in talking of club and Federation affairs recently said: "The California State Federation is working for the introduction and establishment of vocational guidance and training in the public school system of the State, to encourage the study of political science, and to make permanent a woman's council which shall unify, dignify and direct the power of organized women in our State. Equal political privileges have strengthened club work among us, bestowing upon the individual woman the power of direct action; they have deepened our sense of the responsibility of organization and compelled careful consideration of all public questions." Mrs. Orr agrees with all the others who have been questioned on the subject that club life tends to make women more democratic, membership in a club being a covenant of mutual interest. She insists upon the importance of federation. "The self-centered club has no relation to the great movements of the day which mould and determine the collective activities of club women."

Mrs. Harry L. Keefe of Nebraska, the recording secretary of the General Federation, is especially interested in village and country clubs. "I believe the great awakening of men and women to the duty of the individual to the State has been largely the outgrowth of the new acquaintance of women with that part of their home which is outside of their own immediate house and household. So strong a feeling on the part of the women of our country cannot help having an influence on the men. It is true that more men are awake to civic responsibility, aside from any mere business interest, than a few years ago, and I firmly believe that the General Federation has had no small share in effecting this change."

P. O. CLERKS WIN THE CUP

Took Three Points from Clerks Totals 1293 to 1226

The Federal league closed its season at the City Square alleys Tuesday night in a blaze of glory, and all existing records were smashed. The Clerks took three points necessary to clinch the championship and were awarded the cup. The final standing was 23 points for the Clerks and 17 for the Carriers.

Devlin, holder the three string record, was pitted against Joyce, and the latter punctured his standing by topping his record total of 303 by seven pins and jumping the single string of Superintendent Hammond from 114 to 116.

The point needed to win the cup was taken in the second string. The rooters of both teams lined the alleys and their rooting lifted the roof.

Quincy's one flash of real base ball was in the seventh inning when Paul Larkin threw out a man at home in chain lightning style.

SPORT NEWS

The proposition that Jenner of the Wollaston Tennis club and Herb Smith of the Fore River league roll a 10 string match has been kindly received by Jenner, and this morning several of his co-members phoned the Daily Ledger that he will be one of the principals. Nothing has as yet been heard from Herb Smith, but the fans anticipate that he will meet Jenner half way. The match can be arranged only as a "sporting proposition." The season average of both men is slightly over 100 and if Smith is willing to compete one of the most interesting matches in the city will result.

The opening game of Quincy attracted nearly 300 members of the student body, among them many of the girl students. They added their cheering to that of the boys when the oportunity offered.

Ford and DiSenso, two freshmen, and Dolan, a sophomore, comprise the High school outfield. Not in years have the coaches been so handicapped by the lack of veterans. When the season gets underway they will be showing speed.

The Park Commissioners have made the necessary improvements to the infield diamond at Merrymount park and their early response to the students appeal is deserving of notice. In the past, seasons have often opened with the previous season's holes large enough to be the cause of broken legs.

In preparation for the base ball season the Red Men of South Quincy will hold a dancing party and the proceeds will apply to the early expenses of putting a team on the field. Last fall the Reds measured up to a high standard of amateur base ball and expect to better their showing this season.

The standing of the Junior base ball teams of Milton is as follows:

	Won	Lost
Eagle A. C.	3	0
East Milton Naps	4	1

The next game will be Monday between the Porter A. C. of Boston and the Naps.

In a closely contested game, United Presbyterian defeated Sacred Heart in a Sunday School basketball game Tuesday evening by a score of 21 to 13 The Sacred Heart boys sprang a surprise on their opponents and finished ahead of them in the first half. The U. P. boys came up strong at the finish and baskets by Robertson and Morrison clinched the victory. As a result of this game the U. P. team meets Christ church tonight to settle the championship of Division 2, Class A. The winner in the contest tonight will play Bethany K. O. K. A. on Saturday evening for the championship of the class.

Will Remain In Custody Until Case Goes to Supreme Court

Concord, N. H., April 15.—Harry K. Thaw's petition for a writ of habeas corpus was granted by Judge Aldrich of the United States district court in an opinion filed with the clerk of the court here.

Aldrich said, however, that no order would be issued for Thaw's discharge from custody until arrangements have been completed for taking the case to the United States supreme court on appeal.

Thaw's petition for admission to bail Aldrich left undetermined, taking the ground that it would be more appropriate for it to be passed upon by the supreme court.

The result of the decision is that Thaw remains in his present guardianship and condition for the present; but that his petition for a writ of habeas corpus goes to the highest court in the land with a decision of the lower court in his favor.

SHAY GETS OUT OF BECKER CASE

Action Due to Attitude of the Prisoner's Brother.

GIROFICI'S DYING STATEMENT

Welcomed by District Attorney as Clinching Case Against Former Police Lieutenant—Says It Almost Absolutely Confirms Story of Alleged Go-Between

New York, April 15.—Joseph A. Shay withdrew as chief of counsel for Charles A. Becker, the former police lieutenant who will soon face trial for the second time for the murder of Herman Rosenthal.

Shay announced his withdrawal after he had held a two and a half hours' conference with Becker in the Tombs. The lawyer declared his withdrawal was due to the attitude of John Becker, brother of the accused man, and his "lack of tact in dealing with every Tom, Dick and Harry who comes along."

"Dago Frank" Cirofici's dying confession as to the sensational murder of Rosenthal will aid materially in sending Becker to the chair as the master mind in the slaughter plot, according to the view expressed by District Attorney Whitman.

Whitman declared that in no essential detail had Cirofici's antemortem statement contradicted the stories of Weber, Vallon and the other informers, and he said it had almost absolutely confirmed the story of the tragedy told by "Bald Jack" Rose, the principal alleged go-between for Becker and the gunmen who slew.

As to Cirofici's statement aiding Becker, the district attorney's office pointed out that at no time was it believed the band of gunmen who died in the chair had any direct dealings with Becker. The former Czar of the Tenderloin, it was said, dealt only with Rose, Weber and Vallon, and the four actual killers simply went forth to slay on the request of the men to whom Whitman alleges Becker had given the word that Rosenthal must die.

Becker, in the Tombs, so far absolutely has refused to discuss the gunmen or their fate. He is busy on the evidence adduced at the final hearing in their behalf before Justice Goff, searching it in the hope that some shred of aid for himself may be found.

DEATH CHARGE DROPPED

Mellen Will Not Be Prosecuted For Wreck at Westport

Bridgeport, Conn., April 15.—Judge Tuttle noll prossed the charge of manslaughter brought against Charles S. Mellen, former president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, as a result of the wreck in Westport, Oct. 3, 1912.

Mellen was arrested on a bench warrant, together with four other officers of the New Haven road. The complaints against the latter were withdrawn about two months ago.

Now that the case against Mellen has been dismissed there remain only two criminal prosecutions pending as the result of several serious wrecks on the New Haven road in Connecticut during the past three years, these being of an engineer and conductor held criminally responsible for the White Mountain-Bar Harbor express wreck at North Haven on Sept. 2 last, in which twenty-one lives were lost.

The game was witnessed by 24,471 fans. Mayor Curley threw the first ball of the game to Manager Carrigan of the Red Sox.

NEW TRIAL GIVEN TO JACK JOHNSON

Pugilist Safe From Arrest Should He Return From Europe

Chicago, April 15.—Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, was granted a new trial on the Mann act charges under which he was sentenced to a year in the penitentiary and $1000 fine.

The United States court of appeals reversed the decision of the lower court on certain of the counts in Johnson's indictment.

Johnson, who is now in France, will be able to return to the United States without fear of being arrested, it is claimed. After his conviction and while his appeal was still pending, Johnson jumped his bail and fled to Europe.

Augusta, Ga., April 15.—Masons from the Temple-Noyes lodge from Washington and citizens of Augusta united in paying tribute to the memory of the late Major Archie Willingham Butt, aide-de-camp to two presidents of the United States, who lost his life in the Titanic disaster.

The occasion was a barbecue in connection with the dedication of the Butt memorial bridge, which spans the first level of the city canal at Fifteenth and Greene streets.

Albany, April 15.—Physicians convicted of a felony and subsequently pardoned may resume the practice of their profession upon the sanction of the state board of regents, under the terms of the Seely bill, which was signed by Governor Glynn.

The measure was drawn primarily in the interest of Dr. William J. Morton, who was convicted with Julian Hawthorne for using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of mining stock.

SALUTE TO FLAG TO BE ENFORCED

United States Naval Fleet Is Ordered to Mexico

TO BACK UP MAYO'S DEMAND

Warships All In Readiness to Carry Out Their Mission—President Insists on National Honor Being Safeguarded—Important Action Taken at Conclusion of Cabinet Meeting

Washington, April 15.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels directed Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, to proceed at once with all the ships under his command to Tampico. Badger is now at Hampton Roads.

At the same time the transport Hancock was directed to sail from New Orleans for Tampico with 800 marines.

The battleship South Carolina, which is sailing north from Santo Domingo, has been intercepted and ordered to Tampico. The cruiser Nashville at Santo Domingo is ordered to Tampico, as is the Tacoma, now at Boston.

The entire Atlantic torpedo fleet, now at Pensacola, was ordered to stand by for orders preparatory to being sent to Tampico.

The general order assembling the Atlantic fleet at Tampico was issued by Daniels at the conclusion of a cabinet meeting at which President Wilson laid before his cabinet the necessity of backing up the demand made by Rear Admiral Mayo that the American flag be saluted by the Huerta commander.

No explanation of the order to the American fleet was forthcoming. Daniels, in issuing the statement telling of the movement, said:

"I am making public a most important announcement. It is self-explanatory, and I must not be interrogated about it. The statement will speak for itself."

Only one interpretation was placed upon the action by administration officials fully cognizant of what was going on behind the scenes. This was that Huerta must salute the American flag as reparation for the indignity suffered in the arrest of American marines last week.

All of the warships in the Atlantic fleet have been coaled and ready to move for a considerable time. They will set forth on their mission at once.

The navy department stated that the trip of the squadron from Philadelphia and Norfolk to Tampico will require about eight days, even under the forced draught orders.

President Wilson was asked for a statement in explanation of the action of the navy department. He said there was nothing to say at this time.

It developed that this will be the attitude of the administration until it is ascertained whether the news of the contemplated demonstration in force will result in Huerta backing down. Many officials of the government are inclined to believe that this is what will happen. They base this belief on their knowledge of Mexican character and say that, the president having called Huerta's bluff, the Mexican dictator will probably back down and order the salute to be fired.

There is no question that the president hopes this will be the outcome, but he is prepared to insist on the national honor being safeguarded, no matter to what lengths it is necessary to utilize the united services for this purpose.

The army is ready to strike. The provisional division at Texas City, Tex., has field supplies and munitions sufficient for sixty days and can be entrained and rushed to any point necessary on an hour's notice. The coast artillery on both coasts is already equipped so that it can be utilized as infantry.

The quartermaster's department has been working for weeks on the question of transports and, it is said, is in shape to establish a record if necessary.

Administration officials declared that temporizing so far as Huerta is concerned is at an end. Huerta is to be given a demonstration of force. Whether in the face of the overwhelming armament which will confront him within the next few days he will assume a conciliatory attitude, no one here is prepared to say.

It developed that John Lind assured President Wilson and Secretary Bryan there could not be any further temporizing. And it was his counsel, fresh from the scene, that resulted in the sending the entire Atlantic fleet south.

THREE THOUSAND FALL

Federals Overwhelmed by Rebels In a Nine Days' Battle

Juarez, Mex., April 15.—A nine-days' battle, possibly more desperate than that at Gomez Palacio and Torreon, has resulted in a victory for the rebels under General Villa at San Pedras, according to an official report made public here.

The combined rebel forces came upon the united federals, said in the last days of the battle to have numbered 15,000, at San Pedro, forty miles east of Torreon. On both sides the killed and wounded, it is said, will number in the neighborhood of 3000.

The rebels claimed to have taken 700 prisoners. The federal army is said to have included the Torreon garrison, led by General Velasco on April 2, and the forces of Generals Maas, Hidalgo, De Moure and two others.

Maas, Hidalgo and De Moure were on their way to Torreon with reinforcements, but Velasco retired before their arrival. Since then until the concentration at San Pedro and environs the federal columns, their routes determined by the presence of scattered supplies of water, have been maneuvering in an endeavor to mobilize in force, while rebel detachments have scurried hither and thither to prevent the concentration.

When the general engagement was brought on, it is reported, the battle line measured twenty miles in a semicircle about the city.

AMERICAN INTERVENTION

London Paper Finds It Difficult to See How It Can Be Avoided

London, April 15.—The Daily Mail, in an editorial this morning, considers that the United States "is on the very edge of armed intervention in Mexico, with all its incalculable consequences."

The Post, asking whether President Wilson has lost faith in his policy of watchful waiting, thinks it more than likely that the naval demonstration is intended as a warning to the constitutionalists as well as to Huerta, but that even if Huerta yields and the constitutionalists desist from destruction of foreign property, the general problem will be no nearer solution.

"It is difficult to see," The Post adds, "how intervention can be avoided."

AVIATOR LANDS IN PARK

He Is Promptly Arrested and Asks a Pertinent Question

New York, April 15.—J. C. Kilpatric, an aviator, must explain in a police magistrate's court why he descended in his monoplane in Central park.

"What would you have me do?" said Kilpatric to the policeman who served him with a summons as he alighted from his machine. Did you want the machine to fall, and you to pick up the remains?"

Kilpatric left Garden City, L. I., to circle the city. He ran out of oil and, glancing down, saw that Central park was the only available open place for him to land. It was a choice of descending on city property or falling 3500 feet into a street or onto a roof, the aviator said.

WHY WOMEN ARE BARRED

Only Voters Can Become Members of Providence Police Force

Providence, April 15.—The fact that women do not enjoy the right of suffrage in this state will prevent any of them becoming members of the Providence police force, although the police commissioners would like to have two women police officers.

The commissioners decided that the department would be improved by the addition of two women officers, but later found that the law requires that members of the force must be voters. No woman, therefore, can be appointed until they obtain the right to vote.

VINCENT ASTOR ILL

New York, April 15.—Vincent Astor is seriously ill at Hopeland House, Staatsburg, N. Y., the country home of the parents of Miss Helen D. Huntington, whose marriage to Astor has been set for April 30.

He is suffering from congestion of the lungs and for a time his condition caused much alarm, but he has experienced a change for the better.

Bar and Bottle Repeal Beaten

Boston, April 15.—The proposal to repeal the bar and bottle bill came up in the house and provoked a hot debate before, by a vote of 115 to 105, it was defeated. Reconsideration will be asked.

HOW BANKS LOOK US OVER

Character, Capacity and Capital Necessary for Credit

Of late there has been some criticism of our local banks, some people claiming that they were unable to borrow money for development. Perhaps there is a reason and it is not the banks which are to be censured. A writer in the bulletin of the United Typothetae says:

The chief requisites for credit in order of their importance are:

First, Character.
Second, Capacity.
Third, Capital.

The foregoing are the three measuring sticks to be used by the credit man in estimating credit ability. Before granting a man credit, one should go into an analysis of the character and condition of the prospect. Ascertain what kind of company he keeps; whether his domestic relations are harmonious; whether he provides well for his family; whether he spends an equal amount on his family as on himself; does he fulfill his contract? is he careful in his business methods? is he prompt with his appointments? does he keep his office or place of business in an orderly condition? what are his moral aspirations? what are his social relations? and many other conditions that may surround his immediate position in life, the answer to which reflects the character of the man.

If he is able to pass an examination on the question of character, the next important question is to carefully analyze his capacity or ability. In this connection, ascertain whether or not he is an educated man in this line. Does he, thoroughly understand the principles controlling his business or profession? is he conversant with governmental questions? is he a student of his business? what are his habits? does he know the cost of his products or service? what are his ideas as to profit? does he believe in small margins of profit and large volume of business or a good profit on a smaller volume of business? does his belief in this regard, when compared with his business, harmonize with the scientific laws of commercialism when applied to his business? what are his ideas of salesmanship? what are his ideas of service? has he executive ability? can he control his temper? is he optimistic or pessimistic?—these and many other things which space does not permit me to mention, reflect the capacity of the man in his business. A man is no greater than his works.

Next in order, consider whether or not he has sufficient capital to finance his project or business. What are his ideas of credit relative to a business of his size or volume? Compare the volume of business he does with the total expense to produce it; measure this comparison with the scientific laws of business management.

Does he know how to invest his capital? Is he using too much capital in his business? Is he able to measure the strength of capital so that he will not undertake more than his capital can carry? The foregoing are a few of the fundamental rules directly affecting credit analysis. There are so many things for a credit man to consider that it is impossible to outline them all in a short article of this kind.

HOW TO KEEP ACTIVE

When Old Age Overtakes Us.

Mrs. John Widmayer of Jackson, Mich., says: "Although 69 years of age, and naturally, because of my advanced age, in an enfeebled condition, I can truthfully say that Vinol has done wonders to keep me as active as I am. It is the best medicine to create strength that I ever saw. This spring I was very much run down and worn out but I took Vinol and soon felt stronger and able to work about the house. I can recommend Vinol as a very invigorating tonic."

Should the system get run down—digestive organs weak—the blood thin and sluggish—take Vinol, which is a delicious combination of the medicinal—body-building properties of cods' livers, with the useless grease eliminated and tonic iron added. We regard Vinol as one of the greatest body-builders and strength creators in the world for aged people.

We wish every feeble old person in this vicinity would try Vinol on our agreement to return their money if it fails to give satisfaction. E. J. Murphy, druggist, Quincy, Mass.

SURPRISE SOCIAL
PARK AND DOWNS

A surprise social was held with great success in the vestry of the Park and Downs church Tuesday evening by the Women's Guild. A large number attended and joined in making the evening a jolly one. The opening amusement was an animal hunt. Animal crackers had been placed around the vestry in out of the way places. Fred Robinson was awarded the prize. Next came a grand march with four color bearers. The standards were passed from one to the other and the four holding flags at the conclusion of the music were each awarded a pie. A rarebit lunch served from the chafing dish was next in order and the evening closed with a drawing contest won by Fred Robinson. Mrs. William Dixon received the booby prize. The committee in charge included Mrs. B. Herbert Wiley, Mrs. Charles A. Richardson, Mrs. Thomas H. Irving, Mrs. Coombs and Mrs. Victor Harrie.

HOME TRADE WILL HELP QUINCY

SQUANTUM
ON MAIN LINE
Messrs. Bates and Swithin Speak at Squantum

G. B. Bates and John Swithin told the Squantum Improvement association Tuesday night at its regular meeting "What is the matter with Quincy" and painted in rosy colors a plan to put Squantum on the main line of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, sidetracking all that territory from Savin hill to Atlantic on the present line of the railroad. "And the best of it all," said Mr. Swithin "It is going to save the railroad $500,000 a year."

His plan is to have the main line of the New Haven cross Dorchester bay from Crescent avenue to Squantum and take in the 650 acres of land which the railroad owns at New Squantum. He will drop four or five stations along this route between Crescent avenue and Atlantic and make this the railroads new line His project also includes a branch line from Wollaston to Houghs Neck so as to open up the entire waterfront of the Town river to business enterprises and also a new railroad line to the quarries.

If Mr. Swithin's figures are correct there seems little doubt but that Chairman Elliott of the New Haven will grasp the Quincy gentleman to his bosom, as at this time the New Haven is pretty anxious to reap a $500,000 a year saving in its operating expenses. But Mr. Swithin's plan, while rather idealistic for the present generation, may be adopted in the future.

Mr. Bates handled Mayor Miller without gloves when he spoke for an hour on the depression plan for the elimination of grade crossings in Quincy. His address on this subject and his attitude toward the Mayor are familiar to Quincy people. Mr. Bates admitted that he was "fired" as principal assessor of Quincy because the Mayor had "flopped" over the grade crossing proposition.

Mr. Bates still believes there is a big chance for winning the depression fight which is now in the Legislature, and in reply to questions of Councilman Carlson denied that the depression plan is "dead" and cannot be revived. He said there was still a good chance of depression winning in the Legislature.

Both Mr. Bates and Mr. Swithin were enthusiastically received and an unanimous vote of thanks were given them for coming to Squantum.

It was also voted unanimously that the Squantum Improvement association endorse the depression plan now before the Legislature

It was voted by the association to hold a minstrel show on June 15, 16 and 17.

GROCERS HERE

Kincaides theatre, was one of the early arrivals and announced that he had arranged to have a moving picture taken of the delegates just after lunch this noon.

TOUR OF THE CITY.

At 10.30 several automobiles drew up in front of the rooms, and immediately the party left for an automobile trip which included a visit to the granite quarries and then to the Fore River shipyard.

The party returned to the rooms of the Board of Trade at noon at which time the Board served a lunch. By this time those who were to attend the convention this afternoon had arrived and the scene about City Square was a lively one.

NOON ARRIVALS

The noon arrivals included National President John A. Green of Cleveland O., L. H. Washburn and Mrs. Washburn of Bridgewater; Barabus H. Bain of Wollaston, N. C. Clement of Melrose, C. W. Willis of eBdford, Edwin B. Pillsbury of the Grocers Magazine, Boston, Fred Humphrey of East Weymouth, John W. Nash of Wollaston, Charles H. Atwood of Haverhill, W. R. Ferry of Newton, Charles H. Fasgate of Cambridge, J. H. Fairey of Brookline, Frank F. Hill of Dorchester, Charles G. Giles and Mrs. Giles of Somerville, Harry G. Phelps and Mrs. Phelps, John Masterson,, Albert E Jewell of Worcester, George H. Sallaway and Mrs. Sallaway of Boston and J. Joseph Griffin of Providence, R. I

They were joined by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith, president of the Quincy Womens Club; Mrs. Charles R. Safford, Secretary Bromley of the Y. M. C. A. Manager Wardwell of Kincaides Theatre and others.

As soon as an opportunity had been had to lay aside wraps President Hamilton briefly welcomed those present and introduced Mayor Miller.

CITY HOSPITALITY.

The Mayor said that it gave him great pleasure to welcome the members of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers and Provision Dealers association in Quincy, and he only hoped that they would have a happy and profitable time. He had intended to present the key of the city to the association, but the City Messenger had gone home to dinner and had taken it with him. However they would find the city open, and if perchance they should happen to trespass all that was necessary was to say that they were delegates to the Grocers association and it would be all right.

He had no doubt but what they would have a good time while in Quincy. There were many places of historic interest worthy of a visit, and he hoped that time would be offered for a visit to them. He also said that when they looked out of the window and saw the old burying ground that it would not give them the blues. In closing he hoped all would have a good time and in behalf of the City of Quincy he welcomed them.

President Mendum briefly accepted the hospitality of the city and Board of Trade, and said that a few had already had an opportunity during the morning to taste the hospitality of the city.

THE NOON LUNCH.

The lunch consisting of sandwiches salads of various kinds, hot coffee furnished by the Chase & Sanborn Co. pickles furnished by the Heintz Co., and ice cream were served.

The party then posed before a moving picture machine.

THE CONVENTION.

The convention was called to order at 1.30 and was held in the rooms of the Granite Manufacturers association.

At the same time a number of automobiles drew up in front of the Adams building. Shortly after, the ladies left for an automobile trip about the city. They were accompanied by Charles H. Johnson who explained the points of interest along the route.

Among the ladies on the reception committee were Mrs. John L. Hamilton, Mrs. T. L. Williams, Mrs. Charles C. Hearn, Mrs. Robert E. Foy, Miss Mildred G. Huston and Miss Trott.

Returning from the auto trip the party was deposited at Kincaide's theatre where an exceptionally fine program was presented.

The convention will adjourn about 5.30 at which time the delegates and ladies will repair to Hancock hall where an half hours reception will be held, after which they will enter Colonial hall where the banquet will be served at 6.30. There will be addresses and an entertainment.

Welsh Gold Mines Still Worked.

Welsh gold mines, in one of which a rich vein is reported to have been struck, have been systematically worked for over sixty years. Gold was first discovered in the principality in 1845, in a lode, on the Clogan mountain.

MUSICALE AT WOLLASTON
Big Quartette of the Congregational Church

A delightful musical treat was given Tuesday evening at the Wollaston Congregational church under the auspices of the church quartet.

Composing the quartet are Miss Ruth Louise Hardy, soprano; Mrs. Minetta Dyer Long, contralto; Harry R. Rogers, tenor and Charles H. Everett, basso.

Assisting were Miss Laura L. Archambault, accompanist and Miss Maude H. Benjamin, reader. The proceeds will go toward the parish house fund.

"My love is like the red red rose" by Hadley, a selection by the quartet opened the program and was followed by two tenor solos by Mr. Rogers, "O fair, O sweet and holy" by Cantor, and "My dream sweetheart" by Vanderpool.

Miss Benjamin found great favor and her readings included "When Lady Company comes," "Pauline Pavalo," "Mrs. O'Toole's pictures" and "The new arrival."

Among the solos of Mrs. Long were "The rosary" by Nevin, "The Florian song" by Godard and "At dawning" by Cadman.

Piano solos "Murmuring breezes," by Jensen, "Second Mazurka" by Godard and "Witches' dance" by MacDowell were enjoyed and Miss Hardy sang "Aria di Margherita" from Gounod's "Faust" with fine effect.

A bass solo "Border ballad" by Cowen, sung by Mr. Everett and a folk song by the quartet brought the evening to a successful close.

The quartet proved conclusively that their ability lay in other directions besides church music and many were the remarks of appreciation heard after the concert.

PLAYS FOR CHILDREN.

The efforts of the Women's Educational and Industrial Union of Boston to stimulate the production of plays for children is again brought to the public notice by the offering of a $100 prize for a suitable drama. Under the union's auspices three such plays have been given in the last three years, by a non-professional company of young men and women—the Children's Players. No one who attended any of the performances and noted the hushed expectancy and rapt attention of the child audience but believes that the efforts of the sponsors were fully justified.

The performances of "The Forest Ring," "The Naughty Little Princess" and of "The Merry Fiddle," the first two written by professional playwrights, the last work of a local amateur of talent, Miss Louise Burleigh have emphasized the great lack of plays suitable for children. "Little Lord Fauntleroy" and "The Prince and the Pauper" are the historic exceptions. Of late "Peter Pan" and "The Blue-Bird" have been added, though both appeal to the adult fully as much. Economic considerations are largely responsible for the scarcity. The tremendous educational and stimulative powers of the drama are largely lost to the child at his most impressionable age, when their benefit would be incalculable.

The undertaking is thoroughly democratic. Paid admission performances have been given only to the extent of defraying the costs. After that tickets were distributed to school children through their teachers. It is hoped this year to enlarge this plan, to sell a great many seats at purely nominal prices, and to give away many more. And while the movement may seem to embody the elements of luxury rather than of necessity, it is more worth while than appears at first, in the field it opens and possibilities it uncovers.

This is said to be the "century of the child," and the effort to give clean, bright, intelligible plays to the youngsters is good and commendable evidence of the spirit of the times.—Boston Herald.

A woman decides to make an omelet—she trots gracefully to the left to the icebox, removes the eggs and flits hastily twenty feet across the room to the kitchen table. Here, after the proper pause, during which time she beats the eggs, she advances carefully (carrying the bowl) to the kitchen stove. Another pause at the stove and she reverses twenty feet back to the pantry to get a platter, makes one more trip of twenty feet back to the table, makes another last slide to the stove. This is the kitchen waltz.

Four our part we prefer to be a spectator of the kitchen waltz rather than a lookeron at the phantasies produced at the dansant. Think of the omelet!—Richmond Virginian.

TO BE KNOWN AS SAGAMORE BANK
Bright Prospects for Co-operative Bank at Atlantic

The members of the Atlantic Improvement Association have much reason for congratulations over the sentiment the association has stirred up as to the need and advisability of a co-operative bank in Atlantic.

At a meeting of citizens Tuesday evening about eighty of the leading citizens voted unanimously to organize the bank, and that the name of the bank be called The Sagamore Co-operative bank of Atlantic, Quincy.

While last night's meeting was entirely independent of the Improvement association, the members of the association can justly be proud that the inception of the need of a co-operative bank was started in their meeting about six weeks ago, and seems to have grown daily since that time.

William N. Swain of Swain, Carpenter & Nay, law firm, guided the business action of the evening according to the legal requirements.

Rev. T. W. Davison reported for the committee chosen two weeks ago to find the needs and sentiment of the community in regard to the co-operative bank. Mr. Davison stated that many would be willing to go into the bank, but it was necessary to organize and elect a board of directors and officers that would be the most substantial business men that could be found in the community, and that would inspire confidence in the citizens.

The meeting was conducted in a way that showed the men had been thinking and that there was a determination if the bank was to be organized, it would be carried on in the safest and sanest way possible.

The committee chosen to bring in a set of by-laws are Charles A. Hall, Henry B. Barham and O. A. Kenyon.

The committee on publicity are Messrs. Spencer, Horton, C. F. Prescott, Cusick and Nyler.

The committee on nominations are Rev. T. W. Davison, W. G. Hersey, A. H. Hall, S. H. Edwards, L. T. Gurney, W. G. Young and William Coulson.

The headquarters of the bank will probably be at the periodical store of Branscheid & Martens, as the firm has donated office room free for one year.

Adjourned until Tuesday, April 28.

MANY CALLS FOR FIREMEN
Only Box Alarm and Several Still Alarms

The dry weather and high wind were two elements that kept the fire department on the jump Tuesday. Although there was but one bell alarm during the day there were several still alarms which kept the men busy.

The first call came at 11.30 in the morning when the Wollaston apparatus was called to 181 Arlington street for a grass fire.

At 3.30 Central station auto went to Faxon park for a woods fire. Hardly had they returned to quarters when they were called out again for the same fire which had started up again. This time the firemen made sure that it was out.

At 3.56 an alarm was sounded from Box 173. This was for a fire among a lot of old barrels filled with bottles on a junk dealers premises on Cryil street The fire started among a lot of old excelsior in a barrel and at one time the fence nearby was on fire and a large barn was threatened.

A 8 o'clock the Central station apparatus was called out on a still alarm for a lively woods fire at Quincy Neck near the ice houses of the Meadow Brook Ice Co. The fire was burning over a large territory and it required an hour and a half hard work to get it out.

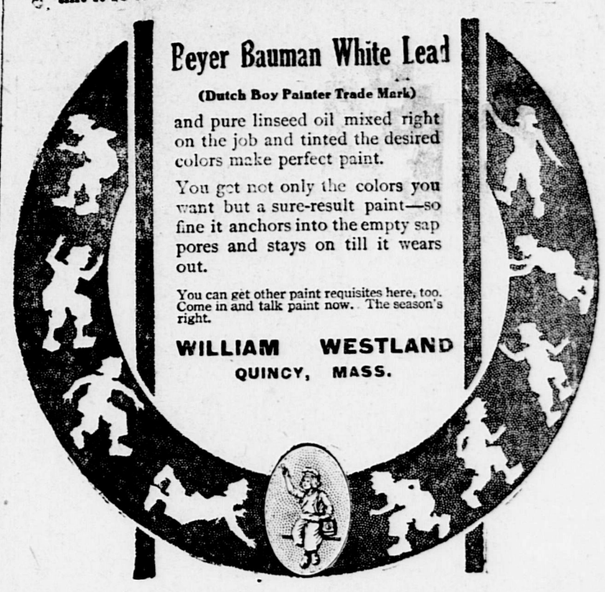

At 11 o'clock the Atlantic auto chemical was called out for a fire in the barn of Daniel M. Twohey at 13 Safford street. The fire started among a lot of oily rags but was discovered in good season and the firemen were able to extinguish it with a chemical stream

MASSACHUSETTS GROCERS SAY QUINCY IS MODEL CITY

DELIGHTED WITH OUR HOSPITALITY

Compliments For Quincy Business Houses, Homes, Boulevards and Business Men

Quincy Grocers Fortunate In Having So Many to Feed

The grocers have come, held their annual meeting, and have gone taking with them the feeling that Quincy's hospitality is unbounded, and that the tenth annual convention was the most successful the association has ever held. Much of the credit for the good time, that each individual said they had, was due in a large measure to the Board of Trade, which if never before justified its organization.

An efficient committee of the Board, headed by President Hamilton, Secretary Hall, and Col. Whitman, as his title now reads, were on duty all day and saw to it that nothing was left undone that would add to the comfort and pleasure of the delegates and their ladies.

The business meeting was held in the afternoon, in the rooms of the Granite Manufacturers association, and it was but a few minutes after the appointed hour when President Mendum called the session to order. Owing to the large amount of business on the program the President said that he would not inflict any speech on the members but would get right down to business .

DIRECTORATE OF NINE.

The first matter therefore was the proposed amendment to the by-laws which provided for a directorate of nine members who should include at least one member from their trade organizations in Boston, Worcester, Haverhill, Lowell, and the Old Colony. This amendment was adopted without discussion.

A nominating committee was then appointed.

ANNUAL REPORTS.

The report of the treasurer, H. W. Mansfield, showed the receipts of the year to have been $1,520.78, and the expenditures $1,502.28, leaving a balance on hand of $18.50. This did not include the receipts from this years program.

The report of the secretary spoke of the purposes of the organization and of the work of the secretary during the past year, which included an almost daily attendance at the State House. He emphasized the need of making the association more powerful, and the benefits that would be derived from becoming members. He also urged those of the trade not now affiliated to become so.

The secretary's report was accepted and that of the treasurer will be accepted as soon as passed upon by the auditing committee.

PURE FOOD LEGISLATION.

C. H. Atwood of Haverhill, for the committee on pure food, spoke of the proposed pure food legislation, and said that some of the bills that were not of benefit to either the grocer or consumer had been opposed. He also spoke of the work of the vigilance committee in looking after fake advertisements. He also spoke of the screening of goods offered for sale which was now compulsory, and in closing urged the members to sell nothing that they would not eat themselves.

H. G. Phelps of Worcester for the committee on progress spoke of the interest in the association which although increased was not what it should be. Much more good work could be accomplished if all in the trade would become affiliated. If they would affiliate we should be able to get things we are able to now.

Alanson Gray of Lowell, for the committee on grievances, said that his committee had not been overworked this year, either because there were no grievances or because the grocers

WEDDING AT WOLLASTON

Miss Abbie B. Penley Bride of Earl M. Thomas

Wollaston Unitarian church looked very attractive Wednesday evening for the wedding of Miss Abbie Bartlett Penley, only daughter of Mrs. Clara A. Penley of 77 South Central avenue and Earl Mountain Thomas of 114 South Central avenue, son of Mrs. S. E. Thomas of Pottstown, Penn. Yellow and white was the color scheme, jonquils and narcissus being the flowers used.

The guests were seated by the ushers, Theodore T. Penley and Louis B. Weston of Wollaston, William Steers of Melrose and August Vatter of Cambridge while Miss Florence Olney at the organ played continuously until the arrival of the wedding party at eight o'clock when to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding march the ushers preceded the party to the altar. The maid of honor Miss Julia Thurlow of Dorchester; the flower girl, Ena R. Ripley, the ring bearers, Clara B. Barney of Whitman and Louise Ripley of Bridgewater and the bride accompanied by her brother Theodore T. Penley were met at the altar by the groom and his best man August Vatter and Rev. Carl G. Horst, pastor of the church, who solemnized the vows, the double ring service being used. The bride was given in marriage by her brother.

With the exception of the maid of honor who was gowned in nile green charmeuse, the bridal party wore white, the bride's gown being of white satin and chantilly lace with pearl trimmings and the ring bearers and flower girl in white mousseline de soie

Following the ceremony there was a reception from 8.30 until 9.30 in the church vestry which gave the friends of the young people opportunity to extend congratulations which were most sincere and hearty. The bride's mother, and the groom's mother and sister, Miss Evelyn Thomas assisted in receiving.

After May first Mr. and Mrs. Thomas are to reside at 75 South Central avenue, Wollaston, where they will be at home to their friends after June first.

BERRY—McLAUGHLIN.

Miss Mary E. McLaughlin, daughter of Mrs. Margaret and the late James McLaughlin and J. Edward Berry, son of Mrs. Mary and the late James Berry were married in the parish house of St. Mary's parish on Wednesday evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor.

The bridesmaid was Miss Louise McLaughlin, a sister of the bride and George W. Berry, brother of the groom, was the best man. After the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother at 54 Bates avenue which was attended only by the immediate members of the families.

Mr. Berry is a Metropolitan Park Police officer and at present is doing duty on the Wollaston boulevard. His bride is one of the most popular young ladies in West Quincy.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry left on a short trip after which they will make their home on Euclid avenue, Quincy.

CLUBHOUSE BURNED.

The "Homemade" headquarters of a boys' club of Atlantic was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday afternoon before the department arrived in answer to an alarm from box 615 at 4.54 P. M. The building was built of lighht wood and was an easy prey for the flames, the origin of which is unknown. Its money value was nominal, but as a club room it offered an opportunity for its eight-year old members to gather. The boys are not cast down because of their loss and are planning to rebuild.

EXTENT OF CREDIT RUINS THE GROCERS

Says National Secretary Green at Evening Banquet at Colonial Hall

Greatest Enemy of the Retailer is the Retailer Himself

The evening program of the Massachusetts Grocers' Association was at Colonial and Hancock halls. An impromptu reception was held from 5.30 to 6.30 in Hancock hall, during which Provost's orchestra rendered a concert program. The delegates were pleased to meet Mayor and Mrs. Miller and the other guests of the evening.

At 6.30 all marched to Colonial hall for the grand banquet, which taxed the hall to its full capacity. President and Mrs. Mendum were at the head table and on their right and left National Secretary John A. Green of Cleveland Ohio; Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of Bethany Congregational church; National Director Charles R. Fuller of Boston, Commissioner Thure Hanson of Worcester; Senator L. F. R. Langelier of Quincy; Representatives E. J. Sandberg and M. T. Sullivan of Quincy, Mayor Miller, President Hamilton and Secretary Hall of the Board of Trade and others, with ladies.

The blessing was asked by Rev. Mr. Willmott, and all united in singing "America." While the guests enjoyed the menu of Westover & Foss, Provost's orchestra rendered popular airs. Adolph Restelli contributed songs and also led the chorus singing of popular airs, the audience making their own selections from a song sheet.

The principal speaker of the evening was the National Secretary, who is a live wire and the right man for the position.

NATIONAL SECRETARY GREEN.

National Secretary Green was received with applause when presented. He said he looked into expectant faces and imagined how badly they would be fooled. (Laughter and applause.) He said I bring the greetings of the grocers of the United States, and the fact of your being in convention is known in every large city and town. For your encouragement, so that you may go on to greater achievements, I want to say that having been with you ten years ago in Boston, and being with you today, and seeing the development of the association, is something which seems to me most remarkable. It tells me we begin to realize a closer union is necessary. The manufacturer, jobber and retailer are three big factors in business, and none can advance individually without advancing the entire trade. The past year's conventions have been a study of business, the elimination of overdue accounts and a seeking for a thorough knowledge so that we may be able to secure our shares in the distribution of the necessities of life.

We have seen our craft rise from obscurity to one of the most prominent in the United States and our position is equal in prominence to any in the country. The world is moving at a rapid pace and unless we keep up we will be pushed behind. Today millions of capital is lying idle, looking for an outlet and the minute we cannot supply goods at a reasonable cost we will be pushed aside. We must educate ourselves in the ethics of business to hold our place.

I have studied conditions abroad and the great development in business has been due to initiative integrity and intense earnestness. They are the pillars on which enterprises are built and attain ultimate success. Initiative is the power to foresee and carry into expansion ideas, integrity is that which marks you distinctive from other men, and intense earnestness is that unknown force which prompts you to grow.

In speaking of credits, Mr. Green said when anyone resented notice of an overdue account it is good proof that it is no longer good to credit him. Irregardless of what a man's income may be, there is no living man that can pay two weeks grocers' bill on one week's salary. Usually the man with the large income is the slowest payer, and his business is not worth a picayune if it cannot be collected any day it is due.

It is the unlimited extent of credit that ruins the business. When a man finds he needs money he cuts the price. Mr. Green spoke of seeing staple products, selling at different prices in this city while going about on convention day, and said "there is room for a rattling good Board of Trade here and for the coming together of the merchants so they can realize the ideal methods of doing business, so all can live and secure a fair profit and the consumer get that which is paid for.

A little elasticity may be used in credit in setting the due date at the time of the sale, but not in the matter of collections. When a man's credit is overdue and a determined effort is not made to collect, you are in a little way helping to make a thief. Many a man would not have escaped if it were not for the loose methods of business men in trusting him and letting him pay his bills at overdue dates.

I have been told, said Mr. Green, that everyone apparently liked me and when pressed for the reason, I always say "because no one owes me anything." Twenty-five years in business is my experience, and only $500 lost and that in the first five years of my business. You hold the most important position of any business man in the United States. Through it we often cheapen the standard of the service and lower the commercial dignity and now let us assist our brothers in avoiding his mistakes in which we must share results.

In touching on costs, Mr. Green said it was necessary to know the cost of goods and the expenses. Did it ever occur to you that there is no bargains in groceries, he asked? Isn't a can of tomatoes always a can of tomatoes? The retail business man is the only one that pretends to be a philanthropist, and the business is in disrepute it is because he is contented to be one. It is an honorable, necessary and one of the most important businesses of the world.

The greatest enemy to the retailer is the retailer himself, and he must be protected against himself. Competition is relentless and watching to steal your customer. There is no room for a pessimist. His soul does not possess the good contained in a crab apple, and I question if its half as big.

I have come all the way from Cleveland to tell you what I told the Senate committee in Washington, that grocers do not receive enough money, and their prices are not high enough for sugar, flour and the other commodities of life.

There is nothing in the outlook that is discouraging, and every act should be an incentive to accomplish the results you seek. It is worth while to be a member, if only for the privilege of rubbing shoulders with your fellow man. It means much to see success written on every page of our annual report. It always comes by co-operation, unity and harmony.

Turning to the American flag he said there is no one loves it better that I, and its strength lies in the confident loyalty of the men that live under it, and our success as an association depends on what we give the association in confidence and loyalty.

PEN PRESENTED.

Mrs. Hutchins in behalf of the women of the association here presented Mr. Green with a solid gold fountain pen. Its acceptance was touching, the surprise having a most unusual effect on him, and after a long pause during which just the trace of tears dimmed his eyes, he said "I trust I shall be spared long to you and use it always in the interests of the retail grocers of the United States."

OTHER SPEAKERS.

Other speakers were Representative Sullivan and Senator Langelier, who referred to legislation at the State House.

The addresses were interspersed with feats in legerdemain by Prof. Yarhick, and concluded with an original monologue by Erastus Osgood of this city, who repeated a conversation overheard at a production of Hamlet.

During the evening, samples from several manufacturers were generously distributed. It was 9.30 when the convention adjourned and many were the expressions of appreciation of the hospitality of Quincy and its Board of Trade.

It is claimed that some of the New York school teachers can't spell simple words. Probably the trouble is that they have attended college.

Gen. Carranza came north to Juarez during the fighting at Torreon, though he would have been safer still had he come as far away as Washington.

So far Mexico has shown no disposition to intervene in order to restore order in England.

Mrs. Inez Milholland Boissevain has thrown her wedding ring into the sea to show her independence of man. It would have made it still more emphatic if she had made her husband jump in and recover it for her.

The tango craze helps the silk business. With dancing gowns to be bought, few women are wasting their money on kitchen dresses.

Some aviators are only getting $2.50 a flight now. If they would guarantee to break a leg or an arm, probably a small bonus would be offered.

The difficulty of worshipping God Easter Sunday in a last year's hat is never truly appreciated by the dull masculine mind.

The British army officers are always willing to obey orders if they approve of them.

POLITICAL AGITATION.

While two militant suffragettes were being tried at Belfast, Ireland, the other day, their supporters made such a din that the presiding judge could not make himself heard. One of the defendants hurled a grip sack at the judge's head.

Over in this country, no suit cases have been thrown at any judges. Nor has even a pebble been cast into any politician's front window so far as this newspaper knows. No blood has been spilled, though an enormous quantity of printer's ink has been shed.

In England the suffragists go on hunger strikes and refuse to eat. Over here they attack their opponents at afternoon teas with lavish and more or less indigestible supplies of cookies, candy, wafers, and punch.

It all goes to show how much more effective printer's ink is than assault and arson. The suffrage cause is making practically no advance in England. In this country it has gained rapidly and more accessions are confidently claimed.

Some of our readers will say the advance is due to the merit of the cause. Others will allege that it is like the case of the unjust judge in the parable, who granted the petition because he was tired of the continual pleading. But in any event, the rapid progress of the campaign in this country shows the power of public debate lawfully conducted.

It takes a lot of resolution to promote any successful kind of public agitation. A whole brood of new causes are started every year. Many of them are worthy of success. Their promoters speak and write enthusiastically for a few months or years. Then they get tired of public indifference or hostility and quit.

The advance of the suffrage cause shows what can be done by determined people, who are not afraid of speaking their convictions, and who persistently keep hammering away in the newspapers and in public debate.

TIME.

[Written the night before his execution.]

E'en such is time, which takes on trust
Our youth, our joys, our all we have,
And pays us but with earth and dust,
Which in the dark and silent grave,
When we have wandered all our ways,
Shuts up the story of our days.
But from this earth, this grave, this dust,
My God shall raise me up, I trust.

—Sir Walter Raleigh.

"I've just killed your brother upstairs," said Fowler, "and I'm going to kill you too."

"I've always been kind to you, Frank," pleaded the woman, "and you have no reason for harming us."

"That's right," answered Fowler. "I guess I won't kill you, but I'll go away." And he walked out of the house, leaving the axe behind him.

The police believe Fowler is insane. They are searching for him.

Y. M. C. A. WORK ILLUSTRATED

What Is Being Done Among the Industrial Workers

Today it is a well recognized fact that the surest way to fix a fact in a persons mind is through the eye. For that reason the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association has secured forty charts illustrating the work that is being done among the industrial workers of the country.

People get so familiar with a local institution, that they either think it is larger that it really is, or of less importance than they should. These charts broaden ones prospective of the work that is being done for young men and boys employed in the industries.

It may not be widely known in Quincy that the men in the various colleges of the country, and particularly technical schools, are doing a large piece of work in the teaching of English to the foreign born. A number of the charts are devoted to this phase of the work. One of the charts contains a number of letters from college men who have done this work. The one that attracts particular interest was written by the famous "Tad" Jones of Yale fame. He taught classes of Italians. The contact with these men made Jones a larger and more useful man to the community. He gives expression to it in his letter.

While it is of course thoroughly understood that many of the lines of work cannot be undertaken by the Quincy Association, yet there are some things that could, and the time is very close at hand when they ought to be done by this Association. It can only be brought about by informing the people interested in seeing the field occupied to the best advantage.

Come in and see the charts, be convinced and then help when some of the lines are undertaken.

Probably no better example could be cited that the theatre meetings that were held this winter. There were people who said it could not be done. But it was done so that is all there is to it.

Now some other lines would come under this same condition. But they can be done if they ought to be done.

ADAMS SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

Add ess by John Chandler on Moving Pictures

John Chandler of the Twentieth Century Club of Boston, speaking before the Parent-Teachers' Association of the Adams school on Tuesday evening said the evil effects of moving pictures and their attributes could not be counteracted until a more cultured class of people attended and strongly protested to the management against the programs as given in most theatres.

His address on "Moving pictures" followed the business meeting at which the attendance was not as large as expected. President Alfred J. Pinel presided. Considerable dissatisfaction was expressed because the grading of the school grounds had not been attended to, and Councilman Charles R. Ross, reported that the planning of the work had been left to the discretion of the Mayor, and that he understood that the work would be under way within a few weeks. The dues were set at 25 cents annually by amending the constitution.

An art committee was appointed to make a choice of colored prints of Viviere landscapes for the lower corridor. During the evening, piano selections were given by Miss Maud Craig, and vocal solos were rendered by James White, accompanied by Dr. Pratt. Refreshments were served by Mrs. John Robertson, Mrs. Roderick McLellan and Miss Mary Egan.

Mr. Chandler said he considered the chief evil to be the vaudeville attached to moving pictures. He has decided that "Vaudeville is anything that anyone can do or say that anyone can and will look at."

It is dangerous, asserted Mr. Chandler, to say that moving pictures do not appeal to people because there is astounding evidence to the contrary, and to many it is their only means of recreation. Their educational value has been overestimated since generally people are educated through what they do. Their recreational value is worth some thought, but after all it is like education, you get the most fun out of the things done by yourself.

Mr. Chandler pins but little faith in the statement that children tried to reproduce scenes taken from the "movies."

He found, he said that vaudeville artists find their work as demoralizing to themselves as to their audience, and the only remedy needed is the expression of public opinion, and that eventually the people who considered themselves of the better class, and have some culture, will not stay away but will attend and object strongly to that which is not good.

MARRIAGE ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard N. Tinney (nee Costa) observed the first anniversary of their marriage at their home, 30 Quincy street on Tuesday evening. Supper was served at nine o'clock and during the evening piano solos were rendered by W. Clements.

Among those present were Mrs. Louisa Tinney, Miss M. Tinney, Joseph Tinney, Mrs. Catherine Costa and family, Mrs. Mary E. Birmingham and son William, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. J. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. R. McQueen, Mr. and Mrs. C. Johnson Enos Costa, C. Taylor and W. Clements.

W. R. C. SUPPER.

Merciful Wife.

A Cincinnati man who attempted to dictate what his wife should wear is now defendant in a divorce suit. It is a wonder he isn't the central attraction in a jam-up funeral.—Houston Post.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

"That's the finest thing in Moving Pictures" said a man who has made moving pictures his life business and knows every part of it from the taking of the views, manufacture of the films, distribution and lease of the reels, to the final production of the picture on the screen. 'Twas a New York man who had witnessed "The Squaw Man" at Quincy's Pretty Playhouse. And large audiences Monday and Tuesday have been delighted with it also.

If Quincy people realized what a wonderful opportunity they have right here at home to see this great production, there wouldn't be an empty seat in Kincaide Theatre. It's thrilling, exciting, wonderful in all six parts.

Beginning Thursday matinee, Manager Wardwell will offer a great variety show which is told about in the theatre ad in another column. Just look it up.

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

The Library has been the recipient the past week of two large folio volumes entitled "The soldier in our Civil War:" a pictorial history of the conflict, 1861-1865. This work, the property of the late Isaac M. Holt, a veteran of the Civil War, and a former commander of Paul Revere Post, is presented by his widow, "feeling," as she said, "that the Public Library is the place where the volumes may be enjoyed and appreciated by the many, especially the youths to whom the war is an unknown story." The illustrations are from sketches drawn by numerous eye witnesses to the strife; the volumes are edited by Paul F. Mottelay and published by the J. H. Brown Pub. Co., N. Y., 1884-85.

Vol. 1 contains an outline of the origin, organization, etc., of the Sons of Veterans. Vol. 2 contains a chronological list of events, with index. The illustrations, well indexed, are many of them double page incidents of battles, picturing the soldier-heroes as well as their commanders. In the words of the preface, the aim is "to record only facts as demonstrated and proven by twenty years historical research. We give no cause, no excuse, no apology for defeat, and no reason for victory. We only care to illustrate the valor, patriotism, and bravery of the soldier as developed by and illustrated in the war." The volumes are too large and heavy for circulation, but may be seen upon application at the desk.

Our Italian readers, both in the Centre and at West Quincy, seem to appreciate the opportunity afforded by the loan to this library for a limited period, of fifty books in their language given to the Mass. Free Public Library Commission by the Dante Alighieri Society of Rome, Italy.

CODDINGTON ASSOCIATION.

Notwithstanding the inclement weather a goodly number of parents and friends were present at the annual meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association held Wednesday evening in the school hall.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Franklin P. Horton. The report of the nominating committee was read and accepted and the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Albert A. Hayden.

Vice President—George E. Adams.

Secretary and treasurer—Mrs. Joseph Prout.

Executive Committee—Mrs. George H. Brown, Mrs. Proctor Sabean and Mrs. Charles Barron.

At the conclusion of the business, the president introduced Supt. Barbour who gave a most instructive and interesting talk on "What opportunities the schools offer."

Leon K. Biganess favored the Association with several piano selections in a most delightful and artistic manner. Light refreshments were served by the girls of the prevocational class and a social hour was enjoyed by all.

QUINCY HIGH SCHOOL.

The honor list for third quarter includes the following pupils:

1914.—Ruth Jones, Marion Nilsen, Martha Robinson and Clara Walther.

1915.—Margaret Atwood, Charlotte Barstow, Gladys DuPlessis, Edward Gibson, Edna Gray, Frances Hibbert, Jennie Kerr, Ethel Livingston, William MacMahon, Rose Meda, Margaret Park, Frederic Reache, Beatrice Rogers, Marion Simpson, Gustaf VonColln, and Florence Wetmore.

1916—Olive Axberg, Leon Biganess, Valerie Clifford, Alfred Clough, Warren Crane, Samuel Drew, Frances Greenleaf, Mildred Harrison, Townsend Hingston, Mehitable Knights, Hilton Marr, Roger Nelson, Annie Schlenker and Herbert Smith.

1917—Noemi Abbiatti, Emma Bestgen, Margaret Collins, Cecilia Devine, Harry Diamond, Gertrude Driscoll, Hildegarde Ducey, Katherine Gesmer, James Greenhalgh, Ruth Higgins, Theodore Higgins, Charles Houghton, Russell Carl Johnson, Mary McCue, Jessie Marr, Henry Peterson, Florence Tobin, Isaac Wainionpaa, Isabel Wragg and Priscilla White.

The pupils of the Industrial History classes of the High school have recently been greatly aided in their study of the granite industry in our city by some excellent photographs of the quarrying and transportation of Quincy granite. These, together with several booklets on the same subject, were very kindly loaned by L. S. Anderson of the Granite Railway Company and proved of much interest to the students.

EVENING SCHOOL.

The Adams evening school closes this week after the longest term and the most successful session ever held in the city. For eighty nights the school has been in session and even at the close the attendance has been well above 100. The aggregate number of nights attendance at this school for the recent year has exceeded most of all the evening schools combined in any previous year, while the combined attendance for the past winter has been almost double that of the previous year. Plans are already on foot to make the next evening school term better attended and more efficient than the one just closed, for it is felt that the city is so far only at the beginning of solving its evening school problems, especially so far as they concern the immigrants.

ELEMENTARY TEACHERS.

An interesting and largely attended meeting of the Quincy Elementary Teachers Association was held in Coddington hall, Tuesday evening. Miss Amy Watkins of Boston gave a practical talk on story telling in the grades. Vocal solos by Miss Sigrid Lindquist. Readings by Miss Ada James. Music by double quartet of teachers.

Refreshments were served and a most enjoyable social hour followed.

MR. HUBBARDS TALKS.

The first of three opera talks by Havrah W. L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera house, under the auspices of the Wollaston Woman's Club, was given Wednesday afternoon in the Wollaston Methodist vestry with a large attendance. Mr. Hubbard took for his subject: "Jewels of Madonna," one of the best and most wonderfully entertaining of his series. He had the closest attention and frequent approving applause. His talk next week Friday afternoon will be on "Lohengrin," and for the closing lecture, the evening of April 30, will give two operas, "The love of Three Kings," and the "Secret of Susanne." The proceeds of these talks are to be used for civic work in Wollaston, more particularly the play grounds of the Wollaston school and the Massachusetts Fields school, so that those who subscribe to the lectures not only enjoy a rare treat themselves but contribute toward something of benefit to the community.

CHOIR ENTERTAINED.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Gilbert of Chestnut street entertained the members of the Water Street Presbyterian church choir Wednesday evening at their home. Besides the choir was Mr. Matheson, pastor of the church and other friends. The evening's entertainment was given in appreciation of the choir's work at the recent cantata given in the church, Mr. Gilbert being the organist. Refreshments were served and music enjoyed, and all expressed their pleasure and appreciation of the evenings entertainment.

GROCERS DELIGHTED

had been so busy they kept their troubles to themselves. He also spoke briefly of the misleading advertisements as one of the things that had to be contended with. The advertising vigilance committee are taking these cases up.

BILLS IN LEGISLATURE.

W. K. Hutchinson of Arlington, for the legislative committee, said that there had been 150 bills affecting the association, but as his report had been printed in the program he would not repeat it.

Secretary Mansfield, however, who was the legislative agent, was called upon, and he went into detail of his work at the State House, and told of some of the things he had to contend with. He also spoke of some of the important bills before the legislature this year, and of the fights he was constantly having with paid counsel of so-called chain stores who had represented himself as representing the retailer. He had had several combats with this man and he had got the best of him on several matters.

Secretary Mansfield went into detail on some of the matters just to show what he had to contend with.

V. Harry Fairy of Brockton for the committee on press simply reported progress and his report with great solemnity was received and placed on file.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

At this point the committee on nominations reported the following list of officers for the ensuing year, and the secretary was instructed to cast one ballot for the list as read and they were declared elected.

President.—F. W. Mendum of Roxbury.

Vice Presidents.—W. K. Hutchinson of Arlington, A. E. Jewell of Worcester, F. G. Taylor of Marlboro, R. E. Foy of Quincy, George Salloway of Boston, John Boyle of Fitchburg, C. L. Keon of North Abington, S. P. Finnegan of Stoneham, Arthur Fitts of South Framingham, W. N. Curtis of Medford, W. Hampton of Fall River, C. H. Woodbury of Needham.

Directors.—W. K. Hutchinson of Arlington, H. G. Phelps of Worcester, Alanson Gray of Lowell, W. C. Walker, of Wakefield, Frederick Humphrey of East Weymouth, C. H. Atwood of Haverhill, V. Harry Fairy of Brockton, Charles F. Giles of Somerville, H. A. Spinney of Dorchester.

QUINCY A MODEL CITY.

Frederick Humphrey of East Weymouth, for the committee on resolutions read the preamble of the association and pointed with pride to the record of the past year. He also told what had been accomplished. He referred to the proposed new dry measure bill, and said that the double measure bill, meaning the Federal and the proposed State bill, was a menace to the dealer and to the consumer. He believed that the Federal bill should be universally used.

The organization was formed ten years ago and had long since passed the experimental stage. He spoke briefly of Quincy and its many places of historic interest not the least of which was its being the birthplace and burial place of two Presidents. Quincy was a model city with its business houses, homes and boulevards and the thriftiness of its business men, and he believed that all who are present today would agree with him. He spoke briefly of the Old Colony Grocers association, as the first organization of the trade, and it was there that they got their first inspiration.

MANY TO FEED.

The President was down on the program at this point for an address but he omitted any set talk, but made a few rambling remarks of the meeting and the hospitality that had been extended to the delegates. He said that one of the ladies in the party while at the Fore River shipyard, on learning that there were 4,000 men there remarked "What a lot of people the Quincy grocers have to feed."

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

Thure Hanson, state commissioner of weights and measures, gave a most interesting talk on the work of his department, and incidentally informed the grocers they were not the only ones whose weights were being looked after. The subject was a large one he said, and it had been his policy not to prosecute unless necessary. He recognized the fact that there were apt to be technical violations of the law, and his idea was to correct these. If one of his agents found that a store clerk was making a technical violation he was not summoned into court, but was obliged to sign a paper on which it was stated what the technical violation was. These are kept on file. If the technicality is remedied that is all there is to it, but if it continues there was no resource but to bring the offender into court.

His was not a plan of persecution. He spoke of the silk twist question, where 8, 10 and 12 ounce pounds were being used. These had been corrected so that now all were of the standard. He also referred to the matter of tacks and showed how when a man buys a package for some cents lower than other dealers are selling, that he is not getting his full weight. These matters were small in themselves but in the aggregate they amounted to much. All goods should be sold by net weight.

Another class that his department were after, were the druggists, and he said that his hearers would be astounded if he should tell of some of the things he had found in drug stores The jewelers were also coming in for investigation and among this class he had from 20 to 25 percent of the jewelers' scales wrong.

A matter that was now being investigated was the railroad mileage. Much of the freight now came on the mileage basis and this was to be determined.

City scales was another thing he had looked into, and he had found that out of 270 cities and towns, but 76 had public scales. He believed that every city and town should have public scales. Then again there was now no accurate way of testing these city scales to see if they were correct as no sealers department carried weights enough to test out an 80,000 or 100,000 pound scale. He hoped that the state would provide him with a powerful auto truck, so that it could go about the state with weights enough to test out these city scales.

Loud applause greeted Mr. Hanson as he completed his talk.

DRY MEASURE BILL.

At this point Mr. Mansfield offered a resolution looking to the defeat of House Bill 2467, a dry measure bill, and that the members urge their representatives at the State House to kill the bill. The resolution was adopted.

C. H. Fosgate of Cambridge spoke on of what value the Grocers association is to the individual merchant, and what can be accomplished by co-operation. He said that a man who does not join an association gets narrow and selfish. If he does join he broadens out and finds that his neighbor is not so bad a fellow after all. The reason that the association was not able to maintain a standard price was because of those who will not join an association of this kind. He believed there should be a trade clearing house, which would stop the man who refuses to pay his just bill from getting credit at another store. He also said he did not believe that the grocers should be called upon to pay for sealing their scales. This was for the benefit of the general public, and the city or town government should pay for it. Then we should have more grocers in the legislature. As it is today a grocer has not got a fighting chance unless he joins an association.

W. H. Ferry of Newton said that 95 per cent of the business now was done through travelling salesmen, and the retailer should have confidence in them, as they are able to impart all the market information. A travelling salesman should also watch the market so as to impart information to the retailer as to when was the best time to buy. A real successful salesman tells the truth. He also brought the greetings of the travelling salesmen to the association and wished it success.

ASSOCIATION WORK.

Mr. Clements of Melrose was down for a ten minute paper on what the association does for him, and what he owed the association. His remarks were brimful of wit and he kept the delegates in laughter most of the time. Many can help one, yet one is not often able to help many, was one of his chief reasons why all dealers should join the association. Everybody thinks a grocer is a robber but he is doing all he can to live up to the law.

NATIONAL SECRETARY.

John A. Green the National Secretary said that he wished every wholesaler was here today, and he hoped that they would be some time. Speaking of sealing retailers' scales, he said, that the great trouble was that while the retailers scales might be absolutely correct, that the family scales at home were off, and because they were so was the cause of many complaints. He wished there was some way so that the family scales could be tested and corrected. He also believed that grocers should not pay for sealing scales. All the grocer wants is a fair chance.

He also spoke of the Federal law of weights and measures, and that he wanted to see every state have a law that conformed with it. Every town should have a credit rating bureau. Customers seeking credit should have confidence enough in his grocer to tell him all the facts about himself as to name, place of residence and ability to pay his grocery bill. It was the grocers' fault if he did not send men to the legislature who would represent him. You who trust the people have a great power.

GREETINGS.

J. J. Grofton, president of the Rhode Island Grocers Association, brought the greetings of his association and spoke of the work which it was doing; also touching upon the sealing of weights and measures question.

F. F. Hill president of Boston Association brought the greetings of his association, and also congratulated the grocers on the rapid strides the state association had made in the past two years.

PLEASURE TO QUINCY.

At this point the ladies were invited in to hear President Hamilton, Secretary Hall and Col. Whitman of the Board of Trade speak. All three gentlemen spoke briefly expressing the pleasure it had given them to help entertain the grocers and inviting them to come again.

THANKS VOTED.

A resolution was offered at this point by Secretary Mansfield conveying the thanks of the association to the Quincy Board of Trade and all who had in any way helped to make the convention a success, especially the Quincy Daily Ledger for the large amount of publicity it had given the convention. The resolution was adopted by a rising vote.

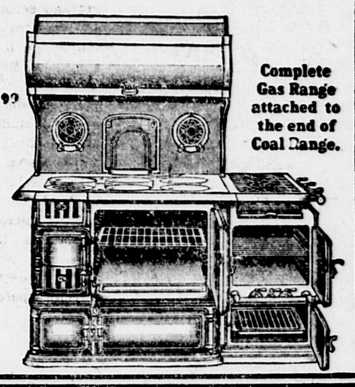

Under new business one delegate spoke of the Sunday closing of fruit stores which sold groceries, but no action was taken. Another spoke of the shipment of pork which while marked net weight did not contain net weight, and there was no way to get after them on account of the interstate law.

National Secretary Green in reply stated that this question was being taken up by the national association.

The business meeting adjourned at 5.30. A report of the banquet in the evening will be found on the first page.

FOY'S MEN PLAY BALL

Frank Foy's home run in the fourth inning scored two men and gave the Adams Market a lead of 4 to 3 over the Water street market in the first of the series between the stores of R. E. Foy played Wednesday afternoon on the Water street grounds. The Adams boys increased their lead steadily and took the game 9 to 5. Leo Hurley, the losing pitcher, performed well in the box but was unable to hold down the swatters of the Adams team Tinney, the winning pitcher, had things pretty much his own way. Most of the players are today suffering from the effects of their first game, many having gone into the contest without any training.

The Adams team included Taylor c, Tinney p, Guston 1b, C. Mattson 2b, P. Avery 3b, D. Berry ss, F. Foy lf, B. Johnson cf, A. Nightingale rf.

The Water street team was W. Caddy c, L. Hurley p, E. Dennehy 1b, E. Foy 2b, W. Cain 3b, D. Littlewood ss, Dermott lf, A. McEacheran, lf, G. Ackerstrom, rf. The score by innings:

Wistaria and Wisteria.

Ernest H. Wilson, the distinguished naturalist, has a good laugh on the botanical stickiers. Incidentally he has put in the wrong no end of writers in books, newspapers and periodicals, not to mention the creator of one of the most fashionable colors of recent years for women's apparel. It is all on account of one of the most gorgeous of flowers which Japan and China have ever sent to this country—the wisteria. Before I am snapped up on my spelling of a word we are in the habit of pronouncing that way, but spelling wistaria, I will say that right here is where Mr. Wilson has caught the botanists and the rest of the world napping. Although the magnificent vine whose long purple or white racemes are one of the glories of springtime in the northeastern part of the United States was named after Dr. Wistar of the old Philadelphia family, there was a slip up in the spelling. Christened wisteria when it was introduced it must so stand for ever according to inviolable botanical law. The same is true of the stewartia—it should be properly stuartia.—Spur.

Playing Cricket by Sound.

Pupils of a school for the blind in England play cricket by sound.

With a wicker ball, in which is contained a bell, the bowler prepares to attack the wicket. When a reporter visited the school the boys were practicing their game. "Play!" shouted the bowler, and in reply came the batsman's "Right ho." On hearing this the bowler knew in which direction to send the ball. His fast underhand went straight for the wicket, and the batsman, judging by the tinkling bell, knew when to hit.

"I know exactly how far to run," he said afterward, "because there is a mat at the bowler's end which I 'feel' with my bat."

"The fielders," said the head master of the school, "have the most difficult part to play. But if the ball touches their chests the batsman may as well consider himself out, for immediately a fielder feels the touch of the ball his arms fold around it with amazing rapidity."—London Cor. New York Times.

Verse Mistaken For Poetry.

It is curious how persistent the belief is that rime constitutes poetry. J. A. Steuart quotes a stanza from a battle hymn by Burns and inquires whether it is mediocre and how much of it depends on dialect. It does not depend on dialect, and it is not mediocre, but it is not poetry; it is rhetorical verse. The lines

A fig for those by laws protected;
Liberty's a glorious feast;
Courts for cowards were erected.
Churches built to please the priest, have not the faintest suggestion of poetry; they merely make a terse statement in rime.

To most people everything that rimes is a "piece of poetry," even to "Thirty days has September" and other jingles of the kind. No definition of poetry will help. The only true knowledge of the matter comes by instinct.—London Chronicle.

SPORT NEWS

The difference in Murphy and Sawyer, the High school pitchers, is marked. The former works very slow and the latter very fast, but neither of them have the calibre that will carry the team through a really successful season. The situation is serious and means that the coaches will have to go up and down the line in search of a dark horse, for box work and the fans hope their search will not be in vain.

With the West Quincy league ready for the opening game, old time base ball friendships between the loyal rooters of that section of the city should be renewed. Not for several years has there been any attempt made to make the game pay in that section and the league should stimulate the fans to liberal support.

"Wes" Ganzel umpired the Quincy-Rindge game at Merrymount Park Tuesday afternoon, and "Link" Elcock was in the bleachers. Both are members of the Newburg, N. Y., team. "Wes" may be delayed in reporting to the management because he has not fully recovered from the effects of a fractured wrist, but "Link" is fit for the fray. Their season opens at an early date.

George Barry left or Easter Sunday for Lowell and during the past few days has made a good impression with the players who will be his associates this season. Barry is gaining in weight and possesses confidence equal to that of a major league. As a catcher he has a brilliant future.

The Holy Name base ball team of St. John's parish have organized and are booking games for the season. They are desirous of playing the Wampatucks in their opener.

Frank Bruce who was expected to get a place in the Cathedral 10-mile run Saturday was unable to finish because of a slight attack of appendicitis. He is now under the care of a physician. It is probable that he may have to undergo an operation at an early date.

The Quincy Adams A. A., organized to promote the development of local athletics have a meet under consideration.

By defeating Christ Church 31 to 6 Wednesday evening the United Presbyterian team earned the right to meet K. O. K. A., 1st in the final contest of the league which takes place Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. The game for the younger boys will be between First Presbyterian and K. O. K. A. 2nd. Morrison scored ten points with five baskets. Robertson also scored ten getting four baskets and two fouls McKenzie caged four baskets. For the losers Cleveland did good defensive work and McDonald scored two of the three baskets, Greenhalge getting the third.

—Wellesley college, whose main building was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, has received a gift of $700,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation and needs a total of $2,000,000 for the erection of adequate buildings. That being the case, they might wind up the clock and get to work. They already have a splendid donation to start the campaign and the clock ought to tick right rapidly under such an impetus. Wellesley college has friends enough to raise the total amount desired.—Barre, Vermont Times.

STATE TROOPS AT TULSA FAIR

Governor of Oklahoma Declares Martial Law

VOLLEY FIRED OVER JOCKEYS

Report That Anti-Gambling Laws Were Being Violated Causes Executive to Spurn Injunction Issued by Superior Court and Act In Decisive Manner—Several Arrests Made

Tulsa, Okla., April 16.—Disregarding a restraining order issued by Judge M. A. Breckinridge of the superior court, state troops took possession of the Tulsa fair grounds, proclaimed martial law by Governor Lee Cruce and, when an attempt was made to run the races carded for the afternoon, fired a volley over the heads of the jockeys.

With this show of force and the declaration of Frank M. Canton, adjutant general, who was in personal command of the troops, that if another race were started the militiamen would fire to kill the horses, officials of the Tulsa Jockey club ordered the spring race meeting, which began Monday, abandoned, at least, temporarily.

Yesterday's action culminated a contest over the right of "bookmakers" to operate at the track. Open betting was permitted Monday, and that night application was filed by county officials before District Judge Poe asking that an injunction be issued prohibiting the placing of wagers. Tuesday, report was made to the governor that violation of the state's anti-gambling laws continued, and the proclamation declaring the track under martial law was issued.

The next move will be the hearing of habeas corpus proceedings instituted in behalf of several men arrested by the state troops. Application for the writs was filed late yesterday before the court of commonwealth appeals in Oklahoma City. The date of hearing has not yet been set.

Two companies of militia were employed in stopping the races. First the stands were cleared of spectators and the races ordered discontinued. Ten horses entered in the first race, however, were sent to the post. The starter lost no time in dropping the barrier, and as the horses entered the stretch the militiamen fired over the heads of the jockeys.

J. M. Stewart, a private detective, a stable boy, who attempted to lead a horse from the track, and a spectator, who tried to force his way through the guard lines, were arrested.

The lad was taking a fresh breath with the tube part of the balloon in his mouth, when it slipped down his throat. A physician failed to locate it, and ordered his immediate removal to a hospital, but the lad died on the way.

DROWNED IN TANK

Hudson Boy's Body Recovered After Hour's Immersion

Hudson, Mass., April 16.—John Mikulus, 5-year-old son of Andrew Mikulus, 18 Walnut street, was drowned in a settling tank in the yard of the Hudson worsted mill. His brother Joseph, 3 years old, went home and told his mother John had fallen into the water.

Mrs. Mikulus told of John's absence to the father, and the parents after hearing Joseph's story again hastened to the mill. Their actions attracted the attention of Henry Veo, a teamster, and he lowered a garden rake to the bottom of the tank, five feet deep. On his first attempt Veo brought the boy's cap to the surface and then the body. The boy had been in the tank an hour.

Dr. Breen viewed the body and ordered its removal.

Norway, Me., April 16.—Instead of accepting a theory of suicide which had been advanced, a coroner's jury reported that Mrs. Ethel M. Cummings, 17 years of age, a bride of only fifteen months, met her death at the hands of an unknown person. Mrs. Cummings died from a gun shot wound at her father's house in Albany, near here.

When her mother, Mrs. William Adams, called neighbors to the house, saying that the young woman had committed suicide, they found the body on the floor of the sitting room with a shotgun beside it. The gun was one which had been kept in the house.

GOVERNMENT IS TO BEGIN SUIT

Billard Witnesses Must Testify at Hearing

GIVES WARNING TO COUNSEL

Men Who Refused to Answer Questions Before Interstate Commerce Commission Must Change Attitude at Once—Heavy Punishment For Those Guilty of Offense

Washington, April 16.—Unless there is an immediate change in the attitude of witnesses in the New Haven railroad investigation, who refused to tell the interstate commerce commission about the operations of the Billard company, to which millions of dollars worth of New Haven securities are alleged to have been illegally diverted, proceedings under the criminal statutes will be instituted here by the government to compel them to testify. This was announced by Joseph W. Folk, chief counsel of the interstate commerce commission.

Mr. Folk wired Homer S. Cummings of Stamford, Conn., counsel for the recalcitrant witnesses, that arrangements had been made with the district attorney's office here to begin proceedings before the grand jury today. Cummings had asked that the matter be postponed, but he was advised that if his clients desired to change their attitude and testify he should inform the commission.

Under the federal statutes cited by Folk any person who refuses to testify or answer lawful inquiry shall be guilty of an offense and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than $100 or more than $5000 by imprisonment of not more than one year, or by both fine and imprisonment.

If the proceedings are begun it is said the Billard company, the several recalcitrant witnesses supposed to be connected with the Billard company, the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company and the latter's subsidiary, the New England Navigation company, will be made the defendants.

The witnesses who appeared before the commission last week and from whom virtually no information was obtained, were Harry V. Whipple, president of the Merchants' National bank of New Haven; Samuel Hemingway, president of the Second National bank of New Haven; A. S. May, treasurer of the New Haven; Walker D. Hines, counsel for the New Haven; A. F. Clark, secretary of the New Haven; Arthur W. Bowen, assistant treasurer of the New Haven; Edward I. Field of New Haven, and Samuel Morehouse of New Haven, counsel for the Billard company.

MARINES WERE SEIZED IN BOAT

Action of Mexicans at Tampico "Nearly Act of War"

WILSON'S OFFICIAL STATEMENT

Americans Subjected to Numerous Indignities While Engaged In Official Business and but Slight Apology Made—Future Events In Mexican Situation Up to Huerta

Washington, April 16.—Huerta will salute the American flag or the Atlantic fleet will seize Vera Cruz and Tampico. What happens afterward depends on Huerta.

That is President Wilson's determination. Leaders in congress with whom he conferred agreed there was ample precedent for such action.

Not only the Tampico incident, but a long series of indignities offered to the United States to the conspicuous exemption of other foreign nations represented in Mexico, have convinced the president and his advisers that the United States has been singled out for "manifestations of ill will and contempt," displayed "against the rights and dignity of the United States."

One new fact brought out at the White House conference with leading congressmen was that two of the American bluejackets arrested at Tampico actually were taken from the Dolphin's boat.

The bluejackets arrested had gone to the Tampico wharf to load gasoline. Two of the men were in the boat. The Mexican soldiers, after seizing the men on the wharf, boarded the American boat and took the two bluejackets forcibly into custody.

"If it is not actually an act of war," said a senator, in discussing the incident, "it comes very near it."

The incident, in any event, disposes of Huerta's claim that there is no ground for reparation because the men arrested were on Mexican soil, where, it is maintained, they had no right to be.

President Wilson told his advisers he stands for peace, but is determined to force Huerta to recognize the honor and dignity of the United States.

While these developments were taking place in Washington, the ships of the Atlantic fleet were beginning to move toward Tampico. The first of the big fighters cleared from Hampton Roads and others in the Atlantic navy yards were ready to sail before night.

The following statement was issued as officially representing the views of President Wilson and the administration:

"In discussions in official circles in Washington of the present Mexican situation, the following points have been very much dwelt upon:

"It has been pointed out, in considering the present somewhat delicate situation in Mexico, the unpleasant incident at Tampico must not be thought of alone. For some time past the de facto government of Mexico has seemed to think mere apologies sufficient when the rights of American citizens or the dignity of the government of the United States were involved, and has apparently made no attempt at either reparation or the effective correction of the serious derelictions of its civil and military officers.

"Immediately after the incident at Tampico an orderly from one of the ships of the United States in the harbor of Vera Cruz, who had been sent ashore to the postoffice for the ship's mail and who was in uniform, and who had the official mail bag on his back, was arrested and put in jail by the local authorities.

"He was subsequently released and a nominal punishment was inflicted upon the officer who had arrested him; but it was significant that an orderly from the fleet of the United States was picked out from the many persons constantly going ashore on various errands from the various ships in the harbor, representing several nations.

"Most serious of all, the officials in charge of the telegraph office at Mexico City presumed to withhold an official dispatch of the government of the United States to its embassy at Mexico City, until it should have been sent to the censor and his permission received to deliver it, and gave the dispatch into the hands of the charge d'affaires of the United States only upon his personal and emphatic demand, he having, in the meantime, learned through other channels that a dispatch had been sent him which he had not received.

"These repeated offenses against the rights and dignity of the United States, offenses not duplicated with regard to the representatives of other governments, have necessarily made the impression that the government of the United States was singled out for manifestations of ill-will and contempt.

"The authorities of the state department feel confident that when the seriousness of the cumulative effect of these incidents is made evident to the government of Mexico, that government will see the propriety and the necessity of giving such evidences of its desire to repudiate and correct these things as will be not only satisfactory to the government of the United States, but also an evidence to the rest of the world of an entire change of attitude.

"There can be no loss to the dignity of the de facto government in Mexico in recognizing in the fullest degree the claims of a great sovereign government to its respect."

Cruiser Ordered to Proceed With All Speed to Tampico

Boston, April 16.—The United States cruiser Tacoma sailed from this port yesterday afternoon and was given a royal send-off by the vessels in the harbor. She went to sea with the shrill tooting of whistles, dipping of colors in salute and fluttering signals from the navy yard wishing the captain and crew good luck on their voyage.

It was learned from an official source that Commander Nathan C. Twining, U. S. N., has orders from the navy deparment to proceed as speedily as possible to Newport, where a number of coal passers will be taken aboard, to be distributed to the battleships of the fleet, and also to take on board a quanity of torpedoes, to be distributed among the fleet. The captain has orders to proceed from Newport to Tampico, Mex., with all dispatch.

TWO DROWN WHEN TUG IS SWAMPED

Barge, Veered by Wind, Drags Steel Boat Under

New York, April 16.—The strange submersion of the steel tugboat Aries by being dragged under by the barge she was towing caused the death by drowning of two of her crew. The tug was owned by Frank Chappell of New London, Conn., and was commanded by Captain George Halebut.

The two men drowned were a fireman and deckhand. There were nine persons on the tug. The survivors were rescued by the opportune arrival of an oyster dredge.

The tug, with the barge Pequot in tow, was just swinging around the Great Beds light when the barge, which was on a short hawser, was struck by a sharp wind and veered to one side, dragging the tug under water. As the boat sank the boiler exploded. William Griswold of New London, chief engineer, was scalded about the back and legs.

Ninetieth Annual Conference In Session at Portland

Portland, Me., April 16.—The ninetieth annual session of the Maine conference of Methodist churches, which was opened in the Pine Street church, is in charge of Rev. John W. Hamilton, the resident bishop of New England. This is the second time he has presided over the sessions of the Maine conference, the first being six years ago at Augusta.

The efficiency convenion on Saturday is expected to be a notable gathering. It will bring together the representative laymen of the Methodist churches in the western part of the state.

Astor Has Restful Night

New York, April 16.—Vincent Astor had a restful night and is much improved, according to announcement made at the country home of his fiancee, Miss Helen D. Huntington.

Real Ability.

"What is the secret of success?" asked the fool.

"The ability to conceal your lack of ability," replied the sage.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FIFTH AVENUE EASTER STYLES.

Fussy Suits—Tip-Tilted Hats—Fancy Footwear And Necklaces Galore.

The dominant note of Spring attire is fussiness, and all sorts of freakish get-ups are so common that they attract little attention, though some of them would seem to have strayed from one of the three rings at the Garden. People with dress sense recognize the difference between fussiness and mussiness, and that a certain trimness of line is especially desirable as a basis when draperies rule the mode.

MILLINERY.

With a little care in selection, every woman can find a hat that is not only fashionable but becoming. Hats poised above the coiffure at just the righth height and angle to suit a young piquante face are eminently picturesque and pretty, but "Shepherdess" models are trying to ordinary wearers. Plateaux tilted up in the back and drooping at the side, which afford a little complimentary shading of the eyes are more generally successful. Black hats are vastly in the majority, but in very many instances color is introduced in their trimmings. Ostrich is more in evidence than for several seasons, but it is used with a decided difference. Straight fringe-like flues are the proper caper, and single feathers are tied up and twisted in shapes that the original birds would never recognize.

Ribbon, especially the new waxed finished moire is exceptionally chic, and the best trimmings are extremely simple. A little sailor shape of the new Belgian straw, showed four stiff pump bows of three-inch waxed ribbon. At centre-front, centre-back and at either side, placed exactly opposite one another. Topping the side bows were high sprays of black paradise feathers. This posing of wings, bows pompons or flower clusters in pairs directly opposite one another, is a notable fancy of the seasons trimmings.

BEAD GARNITURES.

Jet beads are extensively employed for hats. They encircle the crown, outline the high flaring rims of some of the most fetching shapes and are used in almost any way that suggests itself with good effect provided they are not overdone. It is overdoing in every direction that spoils many otherwise admirable toilets, changing dainty elaboration into hopeless dowdiness.

Bead necklaces, for instance, are valuable for their touch of style and color but too many girls overdo them, suggesting that the Indians attached to the Hippodrome show have come out for promenade on the Avenue. Many of the prettiest necklaces are a combination of velvet or satin ribbon with beads, for all sorts of combinations are in order for neck wear. Oblong amber beads separated by small jets are effective, and almost any arrangement is permissible if it accords with the wearer and her dress.

NEW COTTONS.

All the counters where new cottons are displayed possess a special fascination these days, for the right kind of cotton frocks go "cheek by jowl" with materials at many times their cost, if only the cotton possess style and quality and is suitably made up.

Voiles, ratinees, eponges and poplin weaves are all reproduced in cotton, and there are innumerable silk and cotton mixtures that make pretty, fussy clothes.

5776 Hat

5776 Hat

The above designs are by The McCall Company, New York, Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

For children's wear and for women's smart run-about suits, skirts and frocks, nothing at once so stylish and practical is shown as Renfrew Devonshire clothh.h This is a little firmer, than ginghahm and closely resembles an ihmported linen in its finish, but does not crush and muss as linen does. It comes in most up-to-date stripes, checks and solid colorings and the colors are yarn-dyed and guaranteed tub-proof and sun-proof under all conditions. Being thirty-two inches in width, it cuts to great advantage.

SILK COMBINATIONS.

More than half the dressy woolen suits one sees worn have trimmings of silk—in fact one is often puzzled whether to describe a costume as wool silk-trimmed, or the other way round. Dark blue is very much in the running and combinations of blue and black are reckoned especially smart. A suit of powder blue Gabardine had a short draped tunic of black taffeta ending in sash ends at the back, the girdle vest was of the blue wool. The upper waist which was of blue chiffon cloth over white net, had a collar of black lace, and jet buttons were used on the girdle. With this was worn an oddly shaped short coat of black taffetta having a Jap collar of the blue ending in black tassels and ornamented with jet buttons. Moire makes a great many stylish separate skirts, extra coats, and, in ribbon form, is the leading material for hat garnitures.

FANCY FOOTWEAR.

It would seem that all shoe manufacturers must be coining money when fashion is doing everything possible to bring the prettily shod foot into prominence. Even when there is no slit at the foot of the skirt its peg-top" lines call attention to the shoe. Where a woman formerly got along with two pairs of street boots she now wants as many as her dress allowance will compass. Light uppers, with dark foxings are the rule for dressy wear, whether the shoe is high or low, and the hosiery generally matches the upper in tone. Low shoes worn on the street are apt to be some of the various Colonial models, with high tongues and buckles. Many strapped styles are being worn in types formerly seen only in the house or ballroom. Now, however, when people dance everywhere except on the sidewalk, dancing pump, and slipper footwear is very generally worn.

A smoke talk is to be held on April 30 at Clan MacGregor hall, the proceeds of which are for the benefit of members of Quincy branch who are sick or in distress.

Shop stewards reports indicated that the granite business is getting busier and that a large number of men have been put to work within the last week or two, and that indications point to a busy spring and summer.

Resolutions were adopted unanimously endorsing the action of the government in equipping the Boston navy yard to build warships.

NEWSPAPER MAN'S EXPERIENCE

The April meeting of the Bethany Brotherhood was held Wednesday evening, President Frank W. Crane presiding. Cards of thanks were received from Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Sidelinger, Mrs. Edward Southworth and Mrs. W. H. Fay for flowers. A vote of thanks was extended to H. Everett Crane for the March entertainment, given by the Weber quartette.

It was voted to endorse the proposed amendment to the constitution, providing against the use of public funds for sectarian purposes.

An invitation was received from Secretary Bromley of the Y. M. C. A., inviting the men to attend a stereopticon talk at the association building Friday evening on San Francisco exposition.

Two were elected to membership. The chair was authorized to appoint a committee to nominate officers to be voted for at the annual meeting in May. Messrs. Melcher, Muirhead and Bishop were appointed.

The next meeting will be ladies night and will be held on May 6, instead of May 13.

The speaker of the evening was John G. Faxon of Fitchburg, a former resident of Quincy. His subject was "Men whom I have interviewed." He spoke for an hour and a half in a most interesting manner, telling of his newspaper experience of two decades, which included the vital events of the Presidential convention at St. Louis on 1896, where McKinley was nominated, and the great fight for the declaration of the gold standard in the Republican platform which kept the delegates and reporters on the anxious seat for many days. At this convention he met an unusual assemblage of national figures such as Mark Hanna, Addicks, Lodge, Thurston, Fairbanks, Sam Fessenden, and others of lesser degree.

He told of the return of Admiral Dewey to the native hills of Vermont which was an interesting chapter, for Mr. Faxon was sent to New York to accompany him to Montpelier and thence to Boston. Capt. Clark, Lieut. Brumby were among others in the party.

He also told of assignments that covered trips to New England and of the prominent men who were in the presidential party on the occasion of President McKinleys visit, as the guest of Mr. Plunkett at Adams. Also of the Hawaiian commissioners when they came to tell of conditions in the Pacific. He also touched upon Gov. Boutwell, President Roosevelt, Harriman, Choate, President Hadley and other men whom he had seen at close range. He also spoke of the other side that was seen for many years at Ashfield where the famous Ashfield dinners with their gathering of great men of letters. His description of his interview with Rudyard Kipling, the first and only one he ever gave closed his talk.

$350 MISSING AT BRAINTREE

The police of Braintree have a kind of Sherlock Holmes case on their hands to solve. The case concerns a mysterious disappearance of $350 from the house of Edward F. Truford, Wednesday morning. The Truford family are to move to New Hampshire and Tuesday they drew what money they had in the bank and putting it in two pocketbooks placed it beneath the mattress of the bed for safe keeping. Wednesday morning Harrison Glover, Frank Messino and Guisseppe LaConi came to move the furniture to the railroad to load onto a car. Mrs. Truford went down stairs with the baby, and while there saw her mattress disappear out of the door. Thinking of her money she rushed up stairs to find the two pocketbooks on the bureau but empty. There was a great commotion very soon. Each of the men denied taking the money and on search none was found. One said that this man went to the room, and the other said that man went. The result was that Chief Hunt placed all three under arrest and they were arraigned in court. Their cases were continued until April 21.

JUVENILE COURT UPHELD

Talk By Rev. A. P. Watson at Mens Club

The regular monthly meeting of the Congregational Men's club at South Braintree was held in the chapel, Wednesday evening of this week. An appetizing supper was served consisting of hot roast beef, baked potatoes, gravy, boiled onions, stewed corn, coffee and rolls, also pies and cake of various kinds.

After supper, cigars were lighted, and there was a short business meeting during which it was voted that the club hold a ladies' night at the next meeting and that the executive committee have full charge of the arrangements.

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Albert P. Watson, pastor of the Union Congregational church, Braintree and Weymouth. Mr. Watson gave a very interesting address on "The juvenile court and its workings."

The speaker stated that the first juvenile or children's court was in existence in Boston as far back as 1874, long before the world had heard of Judge Lindsay's famous court in Denver.

Mr. Watson considers such a court of great benefit, not only to the children but to the community as well. The law breakers of tender years do not come in contact with older and more hardened criminals, and are dealt with in a more paternal manner than is in vogue in the ordinary police court. The parents are held responsible in large measure for the behavior of their children and may be summoned into the court if they are found to be neglecting their duties toward them.

The speaker considers the court to be one of the greatest factors for reform that has ever been known and thinks that it accomplishes an immense amount of good.

Mr. Watson was accorded a rising vote of thanks for his able address.

The committee in charge of the supper consisted of Rev. Tyler E. Gale, Moses Marsh, Frederick A. Adams and George S. Parker. These gentlemen were ably assisted by Mrs. Gale, Mrs. Marsh, Mrs. Adams and Mrs. Parker.

SQUANTUM TO HAVE CHURCH

Plans Call for Building to Cost Abou $34,000

Squantum is to have a church and plans now being perfected are carried out it will be dedicated during the first week in August. The credit for this achievement goes to the Rev. T. W. Davison of the Atlantic Memorial Congregational church, who has secured a large donation from the Congregational Church union of Boston and the Old South Church corporation of Boston toward the building of the Squantum church. The amount of these two donations is such that the church project is assured.

A campaign to raise money in Squantum and Quincy in addition to the Boston fund will be started at a meeting Thursday night at the home of Councilman John R. Nelson. Squantum people will try to raise $1,000 toward the church building.

Plans have been drawn for a $4000 church. It is to be of a bungalow type and will be located on Huckins avenue on a lot donated for a church site by Councilmen John R. Nelson and C. E. Carlson, who set aside this lot when they first opened land operations in Squantum. The lot is ideally situated on the north side of Huckins avenue. It has a southern and western exposure. An additional lot will be added making a plot of 7200 feet for the church site.

The plans call for a church building 0 feet long and 31 feet wide. There will be a main auditorium on the street floor and a basement vestry with a kitchen, toilets, assembly hall, stage and heating plant. On the main floor will be a committee room 12 feet square, which will be an attractive addition to the building. The structure will be built of cement with a stucco finish and will have asbestos or slate roofing.

It is now planned to raise $1000 by the first of May when work on the building starts. The builder will be given three months to complete the work making the time for the dedication of the building placed about the first week of August.

Rev. Mr. Davison came to Squantum four years ago and opened services in a tent. For two summers he worked against the most distressing conditions. He found that when there was low tide and the residents were not in bathing he secured a fairly good attendance at his meetings. When the tide was high the attendance was low. But he worked with great courage and energy, gradually increasing the attendance at his meetings which during the past year he has held in the Vacation House. His Sunday School now has an average attendance of nearly 60 children.

Several weeks ago a meeting was called and a church society formed. Much enthusiasm is being shown, as the need of a church in Squantum is clearly recognized by all the residents.

The committees at work in raising funds and securing plans for a church building are:

Finance committee:—James H. Foster, chairman; John R. Nelson, C. E. Carlson, J. H. Sumner and John Holmes.

Building committee:—Herbert A. Smith, chairman; Mr. Currie, Roger Mason, Joseph Uppling and Peter Olson.

IMPORTANT CHANGES AT SHIPYARD

PRESIDENT BOWLES WILL RETIRE

Will Continue on Board of Shipyard Directors---Election Held Today

Several Changes in Department Foremen and Among Employees

It will be a surprise to the general public to learn that Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, who has been president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation since 1903, has tendered his resignation to take effect July 1, 1914.

The resignation was tendered at the annual meeting of the corporation which was held at the Fore River plant this morning. Just who will succeed President Bowles, is not publicly known and will not be decided until the directors meet at a later date. Although Admiral Bowles will retire as president of the corporation he will still remain on the board of directors.

At the meeting this morning the directors elected were as follows: Francis T. Bowles, Harry Brown, H. Gerrish Smith, Joseph A. Sedgwick, F. A. Shick, H. S. Snyder and Charles M. Schwab.

Joseph A. Sedgwick was re-elected as treasurer and Samuel T. MacQuarrie as clerk.

It was on May 2, 1903, that Admiral Bowles accepted the presidency of the company. At that time the company was reported to be in bad straits financially and with but little work on hand. Under his presidency an immediate change in affairs at the plant became apparent and for most of the time since his coming the yard has been busy. One of the most noted accomplishments of President Bowles was the securing of the contracts from the Argentine Republic for the building of two dreadnaughts, and it was necessary for him to go across the water to secure the contract.

On his return from abroad with the contract he was given a welcome home by the citizens of Quincy at a banquet which was tendered him at Music hall and which was attended to the full capacity of the hall.

He has also been instrumental in securing many other large contracts for the company, among which might be mentioned the contracts for the steam trawler fleet, the steam colliers for the New England Coal and Coke Co., the pleasure yacht Commodore James of the New York Yacht club, the molasses and sulphur steamships and various other large contracts.

There have been rumors for several days that Mr. Bowles was to retire as president of the company, but the rumor did not become a fact until the annual meeting this morning.

There are also many rumors of other changes at the plant and it is announced that Ralph L. Lovell of the engineering department and Mr. Clifford also of the engineering department are to sever their connection with the company within a few days. Also James M. Gibb.

There have also been rumors of a wholesale discharge of employees at the yard but nothing definite has been given out in relation to this.

Many of the recent changes in employees at the yard are said to be due to the work of what is known as the efficiency men, whose particular work is to discover any leaks and report them to the directorate. In every case their recommendations have been followed and a large saving in small leaks is said to have resulted.

Open Friday until 9 P. M. Saturday until 10 P. M.

"From today I retire from the active management of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation.

HAPPY FAMILY REUNION

Edmonstons of Scotland Reunited in Quincy

A very happy reunion in the Edmonston family was held Thursday. In the morning Mrs. George Gregor of Braintree returned from Scotland with her father, John Edmonston, arriving on the S.S. Hesperian. At the wharf in Boston, Mr. Edmonston was greeted by sons from Quincy, Brockton, Rochester, N. Y. and other relatives. William M. Edmonston of Quincy is a twin brother of Mrs. Gregor. Later, there was an enjoyable family gathering at the home of A. M. Smart, at 22 Pleasant street, Quincy, it being the first time for many years that members of the family had met. Another son, the Rev. John Edmonston of Scotland, sent greetings by wire. Reminiscences were the main attraction of the evening, but there was a supper, music and other entertainment. The aged father will make his home with his daughter, Mrs. Gregor on Holbrook avenue, South Braintree.

QUINCY CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

Frank Fessenden Crane in Field for the Republican Nomination Next Fall

Now Well Known Among Congressmen and Men of Affairs in Nation

Frank Fessenden Crane, Quincy's energetic, Commissioner of Water Front, Waterways and Navigation, announces today that he is a candidate for the Republican nomination for congress from the Fourteenth district.

DOCK COMMISSIONER CRANE.

In his announcement he says that he is a Republican, always has been and is a thorough believer in the principles of the Republican party.

There is probably no better known waterways man in the state, or New England, than Mr. Crane. It is a subject in which he has always taken a deep interest and he has been a tireless worker for the development of waterways. In addition to being Vice President of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways association, a director of the North Atlantic Seaboard of the National River and Harbors Congress, Chairman of the Waterways Committee of the Massachusetts Real Estate Exchange and Chairman of the Waterways Committee of the Quincy Board of Trade, he is the first and only Dock and Water Front Commissioner which the City of Quincy has ever had. His interest in waterways has taken him to Washington frequently, and to all the large ports on the Atlantic seaboard, and he has today a wide acquaintance among Congressmen and men prominent in National affairs.

He has been an advocate for water front development for many years and was one of the first to see the great commercial value of Quincy's water front. It was through his efforts that the Fore River Ship Building Corp. was brought to Quincy 14 years ago, when great efforts were being made to have the company locate in Rhode Island or Connecticut. The bringing of this plant to Quincy meant an asset to the state of $4,000,000, that is $2,000,000 in salaries and $2,000,000 in supplies. He was also instrumental in having Hanley the famous yacht builder, locate in Quincy as well as the Baker Yacht Basin Co. and purchased the land for the American Tube Co.

Among the other things that Mr. Crane has accomplished is the securing from Congress an appropriation of $140,000 for Weymouth Fore river, and is now assured of an appropriation of $21,000 for deepening the channel near the Quincy Point bridge, and is asking for an appropriation from Congress of $309,000 for further improvements in the Weymouth Fore river.

It is very doubtful if any one man ever secured more for the direct benefit of the City of Quincy than Mr. Crane has done, and now that he has announced himself as a candidate the city should rally to his support and prove to him that what he has done for the city is appreciated. The announcement was made at the earnest solicitation of a large number of friends and was made in a letter to the Republican committee.

Commissioner Cranes connection with the Quincy Yacht club which he served as commodore for several years is well known for he has always been a live wire in that organization. It has been his dream for years to see a public dock established in Quincy and while it has been a long hard up-hill fight it is now only a question of time when this dream will become a realization.

There are many other things that Commissioner Crane has accomplished in Quincy which would take too much space to enumerate. It can be said without reservation however that he is a hustler and a worker first, last and always for Quincy and the good old Bay State. As a real estate dealer and auctioneer he is well known throughout the South Shore district which extends from Quincy to Brockton, and takes in the most of Norfolk county.

GUILTY OF STETSON BREAK

M. Parcheco Will Be Sentenced This Afternoon

In the superior court at Dedham on Thursday, M. Parcheco, who was arrested on the charge of breaking and entering the house of James H. Stetson last August and the larceny therefrom of a fur coat valued at $1,000, a tea gown valued at $100, and a large quantity of silverware and cut glass, was found guilty and will be senteced this afternoon. It was through selling some of the silver to a second hand dealer in Brockton that he was arrested. The silver was identified by description sent out on circulars. He was traced from place to place being finally located at New Bedford where he had been arrested and sentenced for larceny.

FIRST PARISH CLUB.

MINSTRELS AT WEST QUINCY

Many Novel Features and Well Balanced Chorus

St. Mary's C. T. A. & M. R. Society successfully presented a high class blackface minstrel show in St. Mary's hall Thursday night before an enthusiastic audience which included many children. The program was right up to the minute and the individual parts were well taken. It will be repeated tonight and followed by dancing.

The feature of the performance was the step dancing and singing of little Irene Pitts, a ten year old girl who did jig and reel, Highland fling and buck and wing dancing with a grace and finish exceptional in a child of such tender years. Her applause was deafening.

On the ends were the long time favorites, Andy Dinegan, Fred McDonell and Joe Daley and with them were William McDonnell, James Donovan, Joseph Fitzgerald, James McDonald and Thomas Hinchon.

The chorus consisted of thirty of the best singers in that section. The girls were attired in hunt costumes and the males wore the proverbial black face, stiff shirt and bright colored suits.

President Thomas F. O'Brien was interlocutor and through him witty jests were sprung on prominent people of the ward and city. They were also the butt of numerous and catchy parodies.

Thomas Joyce was director of the show and the pianist was Miss Rose Du Temple. The program opened with "My Old Kentucy Home" by the chorus, "Old Black Joe" by the end men and an opening chorus of popular song hits of the day.

The soloists were Miss Annie Sullivan who sang "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm" and Miss Nora Reardon who rendered "Dreaming Sweet Dreams" and "Where is my Girl tonight."

A song and dance, "We'll wander in the bright moonlight" was given by Miss Florence Connelly, Miss Julia Corcoran, John Leary and Thomas Buckley and John Mezzarasee, a talented accordion soloist had a conspicuous part in the program.

The end men and their songs were Thomas Hinchon, "On her Veranda;" James McDonald, "Within the Law;" Joe Daley, "Do you take this woman for your lawful wife;" James Donovan, "Ragtime dream;" Andy Dinegan "Not me, never;" Fred McDonnell, "He'd push it along;" Joseph Fitzgerald, "He's off his noodle;" William McDonnell, "I'm saving up coupons."

There was buck and wing dancing by Archie Shannon and a demonstration of tambo work by the end men which surpassed any ever given in the city.

The grand finale closed with a patriotic setting of Uncle Sam as John Duggan, Irene Pitts as the child citizen and Sunny DeCoste and Frank Kelly as the singers of "Old Glory and the U. S. A."

Applause followed each number and during some parts of the program the children nearly lost control of themselves through laughter and the adults generously applauded.

APRIL SNOW STORM.

It is not often that we have a snow storm in the middle of April, but that is what happened Thursday. It was cold and raw all day with the wind from the northeast quarter, and at times the rain swept through the streets which being driven with the strong wind was cutting. This condition continued throughout the day and evening. Early in the evening the rain turned to snow and for a time it fell thick and fast. However it did not make much and the warm morning sun soon carried it off.

ENDORSED BY CLUB WOMEN.

The passage of Mrs. John D. Mackay's resolution by the Quincy Women's Club Tuesday commending the stand taken by Senator Lodge and Congressman Gilmore shows that, in Quincy at least, the women keep informed on what is going on at the national seat of government. It also shows that they are interested in public affairs.

In just such ways, women everywhere can do a lot of good in politics, even if they do not care to vote at elections.

Our senior Senator and Congressman are to be congratulated on having earned and secured the approval of such a large body of thoughtful, well informed women as the ladies who compose the Quincy Women's Club.

SEX INSTRUCTION.

With all due respect to the judgment and sincerity of those who want instruction in sex questions given in the public schools, it would seem to be the part of wisdom not to attempt anything of the kind. Superintendent Barbour at Wollaston Tuesday evening agreed absolutely with Dr. Nichols of Harvard who said that the subject was not one that could be safely discussed before classes in schools. In this they are supported by Dr. Cabot of Boston, who has given considerable attention to the matter.

Indeed, the propriety of having so much discussion of so delicate a subject even in the press is open to grave question.

RECKLESS DRIVING.

Some one remarks that if pedestrians showed as bad manners as motorists do toward each other, the public highway would be a scene of continuous fisticuffs.

It does little good to vent your wrath on the man in the other car. You may be a Sandow and he may be a pygmy. But you can't get at him, and he knows it. Life is too short to hunt up his number and trail him to the courts.

There are a great many automobilists who on getting home do not exchange views on the beauty of the scenery. The only question that attracts their interest is the time taken, and how many miles it figures out per hour. They are as proud of a satisfactory performance as if one's boy had taken a prize at college. A poor showing is apologized for as if it revealed some startling moral defect.

The majority of motorists are not of this type. The roads are full of cautious and conservative people, who display the same good manners in a machine that they do in their own homes. But there are far too many of the other kind.

There are a great many men to whom a motor trip means little unless it is punctuated and elevated by refreshments at the various inns along the route. In the emulation of good fellowship, this tends to produce mental elation. A driver becomes confident of his ability to take chances that in sober moments would be passed up. Hence many wrecks.

The line separating cautious from reckless driving is a very vague and indefinite one. It varies with the hour, the place, and the man, and is given identical interpretation by no two courts.

A law so intangible is almost impossible to enforce. The mere imposition of fines amounts to little. The true sport considers the fun of joy riding cheap at the price. The one thing he is afraid of is the loss of his license. This is the one effective weapon to use against the reckless driver.

SPANISH PROVERBS.

After praising the wine they sell us vinegar.

The wearer best knows where the shoe pinches.

From poor cloth you cannot make a good coat.

The wise hand doeth not all the foolish tongue speaketh.

A handful of common sense is worth more than a bushel of learning.

Never sign a paper you have not read nor drink water you have not examined.

When ill luck falls asleep let nobody wake her.

Suffer that you may be wise and labor that you may have.

HUNT MURDERER OF MAINE BRIDE

Mrs. Cummings' Death Is Being Investigated

MARRIED BUT FIFTEEN MONTHS

Body Found by Mother as She Was Packing Trunk to Join Husband In Bethel—Tragedy Has Created Sensation In Countryside—Officials Refuse to Discuss Action of Jury

Norway, Me., April 17.—Search for the slayer of Mrs. Ethel M. Cummings and a rigid investigation of the circumstances leading up to her death were started after a coroner's jury had rejected the theory of suicide and reported a finding of murder.

Mrs. Cummings was only 17 and a bride of fifteen months. She was found dead in the sitting room of her father's house in Albany, near here, with a gunshot wound in her head. A shotgun, which had been kept in the house, was found near the body.

The girl's body is said to have been found by her mother, Mrs. William Adams. Neighbors were called in and Mrs. Adams said she thought her daughter had committed suicide. She also said she believed Mrs. Cummings' mind had been unbalanced, thinking of the suicide of a neighbor a year ago.

Mrs. Cummings was married to Sherman Cummings of Groveton, Vt., in January, 1913, but had been living with her parents. She was to have joined her husband at Bethel, Me., and her trunk was found partially packed.

The theory of suicide was sent broadcast and accepted, but when a coroner's jury had been empanelled, evidence is said to have been introduced which showed that the young woman could not have ended her life in the manner stated and the jury reported she had met her death at the hands of some person unknown.

The girl's husband is expected to come here to assist in the investigation. It is thought he will be able to throw some light on the mystery. The police are looking to him to furnish a possible motive for the crime.

Coroner Bassett and the medical examiner refused to discuss the action of the coroner's jury. It is believed, however, they suspect who is responsible for the girl's death and a warrant was issued by Judge W. S. Jones of the Norway municipal court, and immediately forwarded to Deputy Sheriff W. H. Kilgore of Albany, who is expected to serve it immediately.

The gun with which the shooting was done is said to have been in the Adams household for several years and the tragedy has created a sensation in the countryside.

SERVANTS OF OTHER DAYS.

A Uniform Scheme That Failed and Ugliness as an Asset.

In 1868 the formation was attempted in London of a league of housewives pledged to engage only servants who would undertake to wear a uniform. In the preliminary manifesto it was also proposed to prohibit servants from wearing "superfluities, such as flowers, feathers, brooches, buckles or clasps, earrings, lockets, neck ribbons and velvets, kid gloves, sashes, jackets, Garibaldis, trimmings on dresses, crinolines or steel of any kind." On her Sunday out a servant was to assume "a neat alpaca dress, linen collars and cuffs, black apron, black shawl, straw bonnet bound round with ribbons, thread or cotton gloves, small cotton umbrella to keep off the sun and rain." The costume was to be diversified in cold weather by a linsey dress and a shepherd's plaid shawl. This extraordinary scheme found very few supporters and had to be abandoned.

Some bygone housewives appear to have regarded ugliness as a quality to be desired in their servants. When Eliza Coke, daughter of Coke of Norfolk, was about to marry she wrote to her prospective mother-in-law: "Pray have the goodness to decide as you think best about the pretty housemaid. I wish she were less pretty and less fond of dress, but if her conduct and principles are good neither are really objectionable faults. I think our establishment will be a pattern of morality, particularly if Mr. Stanhope engages the squinting butler and the terrible housemaid he mentioned to me."—Chicago News.

VERY ANCIENT ART.

Rude Paintings That Date Back to Prehistoric Times.

Remains of prehistoric man which are occasionally discovered seem to prove that there was a knowledge of art even in the earliest times. A Spanish nobleman, Marcellino de Sautuola, was industrially digging in a cave on his estate in search of prehistoric stone implements and bones, while his little daughter, who accompanied him, occupied herself in play.

She happened to look up at the vaulted ceiling overhead, and began to shout, "Toros! Toros!" in such excitement that her father paused to investigate. Immediately he forgot his search for stone implements. The little girl had discovered some very remarkable prehistoric paintings.

The paintings were of the bison, which the little girl mistook for bulls, or toros. The colors were red, black and gray. The technique of the drawings and the proportions of the figures were really good and the positions were very lifelike.

In the cavern of Font de Gaume, France, paintings of mammoths, bison and other animals have been found, and most of them show a considerable degree of skill. In the great caverns of Niaux, near Tarascon, France, half a mile from the entrance, the smooth polished walls are covered with outline drawings of animals, drawn in oxide manganese mingled with grease, which gives permanent lithographic effect on the smooth limestone.

"Rats" and Royalty.

In "Random Recollections," by R. Caton Woodville, is a story in which King George (when Duke of York) figures. The duke was examining a new Mauser rifle of the latest pattern—the type then purchased by Kruger—which had been presented to Mr. Woodville:

"I showed him the rifle and its mechanism and expressed an opinion that it was superior to the Lee-Metford and Lee-Enfield rifles. I had a very talkative parrot which did not always use polite language. The duke examined the two rifles carefully and at last expressed an opinion that he thought our rifle better, or, at any rate, as good, when a voice came from behind his back with the rude remark, 'Rats!' It was my parrot. The duke wheeled round. 'Who said that?' he asked, and the bird again repeated, 'Rats, rats!'"

A Frontier of Peace.

With its row of crumbling forts and musty guns the frontier between Canada and the United States stands as an object lesson to all nations. While it is the longest, it is the safest and surest frontier in the world. Three thousand miles and more of it lie between Passamaquoddy bay and Puget sound, and in all that distance not a shotted gun points menacingly from either country toward the other. A few small and comparatively ineffective fishery cruisers guard the water front, none of which would be of much use in time of war.—St. John's Telegraph.

DAILY TRIALS OF AUTO FIRE PUMP

Public Exhibition in City Sq are is Delayed

A meeting was called Thursday night at City Hall of the special committee to arrange for the try out of the new auto fire pump which is building at the shipyard. Owing to some misunderstanding however only Chief Billings and Mr. Houghton of the Fore River Corp. put in an appearance and the meeting was called off.

It was at first thought that the tryout would be held about the middle of the present month, and while she is practically ready for the tryout, it will probably not be held until about May 15. The reason for the postponement is that it has been thought best by the Fore River Corp. to paint the engine before it is put on public exhibition.

As it is now, it looks rather rough, minus paint, and would therefore not look so well at the tryout when a large number of fire department officials will be present.

The pump is being tried out every day in order that her bearings may be worn down so that she will be in perfect order when she has her trials. Those that have seen her working say that she is very powerful. She is stationed at the company's reservoir on DesMoines road and four powerful streams were thrown farther than across the reservoir. She started at 8.30 this morning to pump, and it was announced that her engines would be kept moving all day. Many have visited the plant to see her work and all unite in saying that it is the most powerful engine they ever saw.

BASKET PARTY.

One of the prettiest basket parties of the year was held in Electa hall Thursday night under the auspices of Scandia lodge, Vasa Order. Mrs. Axel Carlson was awarded the prize for the prettiest basket and there were a quantity of them entered in the contest. The sizes ranged from small diminutive fluffy-da-ruffs to containers that will hold several pounds of confectionery and still have room for more. Edward Borgeson was awarded the prize for making the highest bid and Carl Bastin was the auctioneer.

Dancing was enjoyed until the witching hour and music was furnished by the lodge orchestra, consisting of Miss Dagma Nelson, Carl Bonivier, Jr., Carl Bastin and John Mattson. The committee was Mr. and Mrs. Axel Pierson, Andrew Hager, Mrs.Carl Bonivier, Mrs. Ernest Johnson, Olaf Johnson, chairman.

FLAGS PRESENTED.

The regular meeting of the Antieam camp No. 32, Sons of Veterans, was held Tuesday evening and was especially interesting because of being held for the first time in the new G. A. R. hall in the Braintree Town House. During the evening, Alfred E. Jones of the camp, presented to the members, a parade flag and a hall flag purchased with money which he had solicited from the various public spirited gentlemen of Braintree for the purpose. In fact the hall flag was bought with funds contributed by two gentlemen from precinct two, whose names for obvious reasons are not published, but who have received a note of appreciation and thanks from Camp 32. The hall is greatly appreciated and is an inspiration to all who are privileged to use it.

AFTER SICKNESS

Mrs. Gardner Tells How to Restore One's Strength.

So many people are asking how to recover their strength after severe sickness that we are publishing this information for their benefit.

After grippe, pleurisy, pneumonia or any illness yhat you need is new strength and better blood.

The most certain way to get this is by taking Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation.

Mrs. M. T. Gardner, Chicago, Ill., says: "After a very serious operation I was a total invalid for nearly a year and a convalescent for months thereafter, I gave the remedies of a number of eminent specialists a thorough trial but without deriving the slightest benefit. Vinol was recommended. Without the least faith in the merits of the medicine, I took it faithfully, and it seemed to bring back the old color to my cheeks and the elasticity to my step which I had despaired of ever recovering. I can say, conscientiously, that for nervous, run-down people, Vinol is an excellent remedy."

Try a bottle of Vinol. Your money will be returned if it does not restore your vitality and strength. E. J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Within a short time, the Superintendent of Schools will distribute the courses of study and the election blanks, for the High school and the full-time industrial school, among the pupils of the eighth grades and will devote one afternoon to each building explaining to the pupils and their parents, who will be invited to attend, the various choices that are offered, in order to assist them in forming intelligent judgment. It would well be worth while in many instances, if parents would confer with the masters both for the purpose of finding out better the intellectual tastes of the child, and also to get some notion of the various vocational avenues that are open to young folks in and about Boston.

When it has been so clearly demonstrated again and again how great the financial returns of an education are, parents ought not to forego giving their children the opportunity of an education through lack of knowledge as to the way by which that education may be obtained. The vocational opportunities afforded in and about Boston have been carefully tabulated both in chart and book form, and the masters are always glad to be of service to parents in supplying them with this information. That child is heavily handicapped who starts his life work in a "blind-alley" job and it is to avoid this, that so much vocational literature is being made public.

STUDENTS CAMP.

The School department has received for distribution among its High school graduates, pamphlet notices of the Students Military Instruction Camp to be held under the direction of the War department of the United States at Burlington, Vt., from July 6 to Aug. 7. These camps at a surprisingly low cost give a five weeks vacation, combined with military instruction to college and high school students, and are very popular among those who have attended them in past years. The age limit is 18 to 30 years and every detail of management and instruction will be in charge of army officers.

LOYAL TEMPERANCE LEGION.

On Monday, the children of the Wollaston school assembled in the school hall and elected the following officers for the recently organized Loyal Temperance Legion; President—Stuart Dimmick; Secretary—Elizabeth Welsford; Treasurer—Newton Dodge. Mrs. Ada B. Frisbee, the State organizer, gave the newly elected officers a welcome from the platform, after which all stood and repeated the National motto—"Happy is the Nation whose children conquer evil with the sword of truth," and the National rally cry "Pro-hi-bi-ti-on;" also the Massachusetts rally cry. The meeting closed with singing "When we are old enough to vote." This society is to meet regularly on the second Monday morning of each month at nine o'clock in the school hall.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

John Craig will continue Shakespeare's comedy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" at the Castle Square Theatre for a second and last week, beginning Monday. The demand for this play has been large and the public will take early advantage of these final opportunities to see it.

TREMONT TEMPLE.

Monday at Tremont Temple, Boston, George Kleine's "Quo Vadis," adapted from the popular novel of the same name, will begin a limited engagement. The production is identically the same that scored such a phenomenal success last summer at the Tremont Theatre. It is produced in three acts of eight parts, and runs approximately two and one-half hours. The production is made by the famous Cines Company of Italy, who employed a large number of Italian celebrities for the leading characters. The story is laid in Rome during the reign of Nero, the last of the Caesars. The production is one of the most stupendous and spectacular ever produced. There are many thrilling and exciting scenes, notably the lion scene in the Arena, when the Christian martyrs, men, women and children are brutally driven into the open after which the lions are turned in upon them. A specially engaged orchestra in addition to the Temple organ will render appropriate music during the production, while a lecturer of extraordinary oratorical ability will describe the numerous scenes. There will be daily matinees at two and eight.

CORT THEATRE.

Go to the Cort Theatre Boston, some evening, or Wednesday or Saturday afternoon, and see Kitty Gordon in Pretty Mrs. Smith," a comedy with music, every minute of which is crowded with delightful merriment. Miss Gordon and her really brilliant company this tremendously entertaining play have scored one of the biggest hits of the season in Boston which is quite as it should be, for a happier, jollier, breezier, more charming performance it would be hard to imagine. Everybody likes to laugh—or every normal person does—and those who do not should be made to, and "Pretty Mrs. Smith" is a sure laughter-maker. The person who can sit a moment at this play and not laugh is made of something besides flesh and blood. It is a real comedy an out and out play that would be a capital entertainment in itself, without music or any additions, though it has many of these. "Pretty Mrs. Smith" is a play, and a mighty clever one, too. In addition it was music and dancing, merely by way of embellishments. But they are tremendously effective. In short, here is something for everybody who enjoys life and brightness and fun and merriment and music in a play. See it and be glad.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

Blanche Ring began the second week of her limited engagement at the Shubert Theatre Monday night. Miss Ring, who is a Boston girl, a fact that she is very fond of mentioning in all parts of the country, has a couple of lines in her opening song that she says exactly express her feelings regarding being "home again;" they are "I've been all around the track, and I'm glad to be back!" That the many admirers of this magnetic star are equally glad to have her back is evidenced by the size and enthusiasm of the audiences that greet her nightly.

"When Claudia Smiles" is described as a song play, and its happy blending of bright lines, amusing situations and an occasional interruption of beautiful show girls who can sing, has proved to be one of the most refreshingly original of the season's genuine successes. Miss Ring was never before seen to such advantage, and has proved herself to be a comedienne whose performance, even without her famous songs, would furnish a delightful evening's amusement. Harry Connor, who will be remembered for his clever work in "The Blue Mouse" has another role of the same "gay old boy" type. There will be a special Patriots' day matinee Monday.

BOSTON THEATRE.

"In Old Kentucky," one of the greatest American plays ever written, will enter upon the last week of its engagement at the Boston Theatre Monday night. The famous old play is meeting with the same cordial reception that has characterized its previous visits and its appealing story is handled in the same easy, realistic way, by as capable a cast as has ever appeared in the piece. During the past three weeks tremendous audiences have witnessed the great race scene; the wild and rollicking second act with its forty or more singing and dancing pickaninnies; the daring life-saving swing of the mountain heroine-Madge-across the mighty mountain chasm; the heroic rescue of "Queen Bess" the famous Kentucky thoroughbred, from the burning stable and many striking effects never before seen in any other play. Four big special feature performances have been arranged for the last week. Monday, a special patriots' day matinee; Tuesday night, by popular demand, another silk stocking souvenir performance; Wednesday night, Stephen C. Foster night in honor of the author of "My Old Kentucky Home," "Swanee River" and 150 other songs that will live forever. Friday night, will be known as girl jockey's night.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

"Under Cover" will soon enter upon the fifth month of its engagement at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. The play has steadily increased in popularity since its opening last December, that the thousands of playgoers who have witnessed its charms, are eagerly watching its progress. The play has already smashed the season's record, not to mention the fact that it has repeatedly broken the record of weekly gross receipts of the theatre made during the phenomenal run of "Disraeli." No other play produced in recent years has won such admiration. Coming here practically unheralded and upon its own merits the play rose to its present high popularity and prosperity. Roi Cooper Megrue, the author presents a vivid picture of smuggling and smart society, replete with excitement, thrills, surprises and mystery. The play is produced in four acts of unusual rapidity. The auditor is kept on a high nervous tension, and is only relieved by an unexpected and pleasing finish. It makes a strong appeal to all classes of theatregoers and is the sort of a play that may be witnessed a second and third time. The usual Thursday and Saturday matinees are given.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

Five days before his inauguration and while he was still Gov. Wilson, the president occupied a box at the Eltinge Theatre, New York City, and witnessed a performance of "Within the Law." He was accompanied by his friend, Colonel E. M. House and two secret service men and laughed and applauded heartily throughout the entire evening. Between the third and last acts, a young man made his way to where the President sat and the audience realizing that something was afoot, began to applaud vociferously. The object of their interest was so engrossed with his visitor that he did not at first respond. Presently, he rose and bowed, raising his hand for silence. "I wish to present to you," he said, "the author of the play, Mr. Bavard Veiller." The young playwright, however, hung back in the shadow of the box and refused to face the applause. "I was never more thrilled and interested in my life" was President Wilson's observation to Mr. Veiller, as he prepared to leave his box after the performance.

"Within the Law" is the play which ran for an entire year at one theatre in New York City and beginning April 20, will enter into its tenth week at the Majestic Theatre, breaking all records for long runs and box office receipts. The usual matinees are given on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Mrs. Fiske, the most artistically broad and alert of American stage figures, whose indomitable energy demands constant occupation, is now appearing in a revival of "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh," following a two years' country wide tour in "The High Road." The present tour of the merry farce in which she scored such a breath-taking success when produced in New York three years ago, is being confined to the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, for a two weeks' engagement, with matinees Wednesdays and Saturdays, a special matinee, April 17, for the benefit of the Actors' fund, and a special holiday matinee Patriots' Day, April 20.

The play is an American comedy by a Harvard graduate, who, prior to Mrs. Fiske's interest in him, had not been known to the playwriting field. It imposes no burden upon the auditor's mentality but on the contrary is light in texture, original and most amusing. It is said to display distinct elements of novelty in plot and construction, and a freshness in dialogue that keeps the wits of the auditor constantly on the qui vive. Laughter-loving audiences do not as a rule seek the playhouse in which Mrs. Fiske is to appear but they may well do so when "Mrs. Bumpstead-Leigh" is on view, for the play is one to drive dull care to the farthest corner, and Mrs. Fiske's characterization, one that can hardly be contemplated without gasps of astonishment.

NEW WILBUR THEATRE.

The new Wilbur Theatre, located on Tremont street, opposite the Shubert Theatre, under the proprietorship of the Wilbur Theatre Company, and operated by the Shuberts in conjunction with the Shubert and Majestic Theatres, opens Monday evening, with Doris Keane in Edward Sheldon's love drama, "Romance."

The most striking feature of the new theatre is its atmosphere of intimacy, the architect so having designed this delightful playhouse that while having an ample capacity of a little over 1000 the audience and scenes of the stage and the players are brought into close relationship. The style of the architecture and its colonial note in the decorative scheme gives the orchestra, at least, all the effect of a drawing room rather than a theatre. It is the first of the so-called "intimate" theatres, so much in vogue among the newer New York playhouses, to be built in Boston, and its cosy and artistic effects will doubtless be much appreciated. The exterior of the theatre is constructed of dark-burned Harvard brick, with trimmings of white marble, the bricks laid up with old fashioned bond. All of the three main doorways are finished in a style similar to that of the old colonial houses on Beacon Hill, with white marble columns and pilasters and a low pediment.

Appropriately on the evening of Patriot's Day, Monday next, April 20th, the Wilbur Theatre will open to the public presenting America's newest star, Doris Keane, in "Romance" one of the great successes ever written by Edward Sheldon.

Elevated to the dignity of a star, not by the volition of an ambitious manager but by virtue of her brilliant histrionic achievement, as La Cavallini, the heroine of "Romance," Doris Keane has taken rank with the foremost dramatic stars with the full approval of such important centres as New York City, Chicago and Philadelphia, where her art has stood the test of the severest critical analysis. During the Doris Keane engagement there will be matinees on Wednesday and Saturday of each week.

UNIONS MUST SHARE IN EFFICIENCY WORK

Brandeis Says It Is Great Opportunity For Labor

Washington, April 17.—Hearings on so-called scientific shop management systems were closed by the industrial relations commission with the testimony of Louis D. Brandeis of Boston. Brandeis told the commission that if organized labor set itself squarely against the introduction of these systems into industry, instead of demanding a part in them, it would lose the greatest opportunity which has ever presented itself to aid labor.

James Duncan of Quincy, Mass., first vice-president of the American Federation of Labor, and John Golden of Fall River, Mass., general president of the United Textile Workers, also were heard during the day. The former favored a shorter working day, and restriction of immigration to help solve industrial unrest. Golden said he thought efficiency systems could not succeed unless they could change the workers' temperaments.

Motion Made In Case of Leo M. Frank at Atlanta

Atlanta, April 17.—Possible basis for appeal of the case of Leo M. Frank, under death sentence for the murder of Mary Phagan, to the supreme court of the United States was made in a motion for annulment of his sentence, filed in superior court here.

The motion charges that the presiding judge at Frank's trial, L. S. Roan, advised counsel for the defence that in the event their client was found guilty it would be unsafe for him to be in court when the verdict was announced, and that such action was in violation of the federal constitution.

After the presentation of the appeal Judge Hill set the hearing for April 22. This definitely stays the execution of Leo Frank, who was to be hanged today.

ASTOR WEDDING OFF

Mother of Miss Huntington Gives Out Statement

New York, April 17.—Mrs. Robert P. Huntington of Staatsburg announced that the wedding of her daughter, Miss Helen D. Huntington, and Vincent Astor would be postponed indefinitely.

No invitations will be sent out until Astor has fully recovered from his present illness. The wedding had been set for April 30.

The physicians attending Vincent Astor announced that they believed he has passed the crisis of his illness. He is still very ill, however, and every precaution is being taken to prevent any complications. Dr. Herridan of Staatsburg continues to spend each night at the bedside. It was said that while Astor might be regarded as convalescent no arrangements for a trip to the south have been thought of as yet.

AEROPLANE BUILT TO FLY MOTORLESS

New French Machine Expected to Imitate Birds

Paris, April 17.—A new type of flying machine, the object of which is to enable a man to imitate birds in utilizing the wind to the exclusion of other motive power, was described at the Congress of the Society of Savants. The invention is that of Dr. A. Magnan, and its flight is intended to be a continuous volpane.

Like large birds, the apparatus is provided with a spreading tail and two tapering wings, the latter being so placed as to enable it to remain motionless. The control of the machine must be acquired by practice, as in the case of a bicycle, and, it is admitted, this will present great difficulty and even danger.

ROUT CHINESE BANDITS

"White Wolf" and His Gang Slaughtered by Troops

Pekin, April 17.—Regular troops severely defeated "White Wolf" and his brigands, several hundreds of whom were killed.

The regular troops encountered the bandit army at Li Chuan-Hsien, to the northwest of Sian-Fu, capital of Shen-Si province. They were threatening an attack on Sian Fu. Sharp fighing ensued and resulted in the rout of the brigands, who fled to a position twenty miles from Kien-Chow, further to the northwest.

Heavy reinforcements of regulars have been dispatched to the scene and the brigands, who have pillaged many towns and villages and killed the inhabitants, are being gradually surrounded.

Bowling Contests — Athletic Leagues
Illustrated Lectures — Banquets
Basket Ball — Conferences

There is to be a meeting of those interested in the mixed doubles bowling tournament this evening at 7.30. The idea of the committee is to have each couple bowl nine strings, three at a time.

A baseball meeting is called for Tuesday evening at 7.30 before the Minstrel show rehearsal. Those interested in the formation of a team to represent the Association are urged to attend the meeting.

The final games in the Sunday School basketball league will be played Saturday evening beginning at 8 o'clock. The first game will be between K. O. K. A. 2nd and First Presbyterian and the second game between K. O. K. A. 1st and United Presbyterian. Both games will furnish no little amount of excitement and it is very difficult to pick a winner in either contest. A small admission will be charged to help defray the expenses of the league.

Mr. Lick, secretary of the Exploitation division of the Panama Pacific exposition, is to deliver the Fireside talk this evening. This has been looked forward to by many Quincy people and should attract quite a large audience, sufficient to fill the hall to overflowing. The stereopticon views of the great exposition will be well worth seeing, and Mr. Lick can give much interesting and worth while information about the exposition, transportation facilities, etc.

The next rehearsal of the Minstrel show will be held Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock. The date for the show has been set at May 20 and Mr. Dinegan, the coach, expects to put on an excellent production. The circle will include forty men and twelve young ladies. Six end men are to be selected next Tuesday. Among the prominent candidates are Ed. Brown, Let Andrews, Bill Childs, Harry Glover, Alton Avery, Ralph Prout and Mr. LaRose.

The second basket ball team and their friends were royally entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. LaRose on Wednesday evening. The group were kept busy until a late hour with games, refreshments and a general good time. The first team will be likewise entertained next Wednesday evening.

The 1000 members' campaign is in progress and the committee of 50 is optimistic of success. The campaign opened with a banquet Monday evening and will end on Thursday the 16th.

The standing of the Junior gym teams in indoor baseball, basketball and volley ball is as follows:—Giants 19.6; Tigers 13; Athletics 12.3; Red Sox 5.9. In the Employed Boys' class the Braves are in the lead with 12.4, the Red Sox second with 10; Giants third with 6.3 and the Athletics at the bottom with 5 points. Competition will last through this month and part of May.

Theophilus King will give the final Fireside talk next Wednesday evening on a popular subject "How to get rich." This gathering should not fail to attract a large number of young men, especially those who want to start out on the road to success.

The Y. M. C. A. Industrial exhibit is in the Council Chamber of City Hall for the last three days of this week. The exhibit will be open from 3.30 to 5.00 in the afternoon each day. The pictures and charts showing what the Y. M. C. A.'s are doing for young men out of employment, those who never had a chance, those who are ambitious to rise and the non-English speaking immigrants, are well worth the inspection of all.

CONDUCTOR BARNARD.

The funeral of Walter H. Barnard, one the the oldest employees of the Bay State Street Railway Co. in point of service was held Thursday afternoon and was well attended by friends, among them being Supt. Thomas I. Gammons of the Bay State Street Railway Co.

Nearly 60 associates of the deceased were present at the home during the services, which were conducted by Rev. Benjamin A. Willmott of the Bethany Congregational church. They acted as an escort to Washington street where they divided the lines as the funeral procession passed between on its way to the Old North cemetery in Weymouth where burial took place.

The floral remembrances were many and in themselves were a tribute to the deceased who was one of the most popular conductors on the road.

SCHEDULE FOR SCHOOL GAMES

Exceptions to Official Playing Rules Adopted

The candidates for the school teams are having their preliminary tryouts daily in preparation for the opening of the Grammar School league, the schedule of which opens immediately after the April vacation, on May 5, and the base ball enthusiasts, teachers and graduate coaches are devoting extra time to the squads.

The team will play this season according to the "Official 1914 code playing rules of the American League," with the following exceptions:

1. The league shall be divided into two sub-leagues, "The Americans" and "The Nationals," each sub-league playing to a sub-league championship, and these champions playing against each other in a "worlds series" for the championship of all of the grammar schools.

2. Base lines, 80 feet long; home to second 113 feet; pitchers plate 55 feet from home base.

3. Ball—twenty-five cent American league, Jr.

4. No spikes, no boy allowed to catch without a mask.

5. Ground rules; (a) one base on wild throw over first, third and home bases. (b) Umpires duty to see that base lines are clear and when not otherwise to call time and allow no bases run; masters to assist in keeping base lines clear, one from home to first and the other from home to third base.

6. No boy who is or will be sixteen years of age on or before July 1 of the current year will be allowed in play in the league.

7. Each team shall give the umpire just before each game—a new ball—and the winning team shall take both.

8. All games shall begin as near 4 P. M. as possible and no game after 4.30 P. M.

10. Six innings shall constitute a full game. In case of rain ,the umpire may call the game after five innings, said game to count as a regular league game.

10. The schedule of games shall be prepared and sent to each master two weeks previous to the opening of the league games. The fields and umpires shall also be assigned two weeks in advance.

11. It shall be the umpire's duty to get the bases and return them at close of the game.

12. (a) A committee of three masters shall be appointed each year by the Parker Round Table to examine candidates to umpire and shall have the power to discharge said umpires, when work is unsatisfactory.

(b) All complaints shall be referred to this Committee. (c) In case the rules have been infringed upon so as to (in the minds of the committee) make a difference in the final score of the game, the committee may order the game played over.

13. It shall be the duty of the Umpire to order any boy off the team who persists in using profane language and who in any way may question his decisions.

The schedule follows, all games being played at Merrymount park, second field, in May. The letters after the teams indicate whether the game will be played on the first or scond diamond. The letters H and N indicate whether Sturgis Hunt or Leo Noonan will umpire:

Castle Under the Sea.

Among certain of the Japanese there is a belief that somewhere under the sea there is a wonderful castle in which the beautiful queen of the fishes resides. Sometimes they think this castle rises to the surface and is visible to mortal eyes—a belief that probably had its origin in the phenomenon of the mirage. When the castle appears, the superstitious believe, representatives of all the finny tribes hasten to it to pay homage to their ruler. Some time ago, in honor of the "fishy" queen and her subjects, the fishermen of Futami made a number of gigantic fish of canvas and bamboo, painted in gorgeous colors, which were towed in procession through the water, enormous crowds watching the curious spectacle from the shore.—Wide World Magazine.

The Goose.

The goose, which for some unknown reason has become an emblem of idiocy, but which is really a wise bird of good habits and one of the most profitable for the fancier, was probably the first fowl to be domesticated by man. Homer, 1,200 years before the Christian era, speaks of his geese, in which he was greatly interested, and the hieroglyphics of Egypt prove that at his time they had been tamed for centuries.

WILL TESTIFY UNDER PROTEST

Billiard Witnesses Will Tell What They Know

INDICTED BY FEDERAL JURY

Criminal Prosecution Will Be Used as Lever to Open Mouths of New Haven Men Who Dislike to Undergo Stigma of Prosecution by Government For Refusing to Talk

Washington, April 17.—Indictments were voted by the federal grand jury, it is understood, authoritatively, against the four witnesses who refused to testify before the interstate commerce commission last Friday concerning the relations of the Billard company with the New Haven railroad system.

The indictments probably will not be returned for several days, pending final word from the recalcitrant witnesses as to whether they desire to change their attitude.

The men whose names are before the jury are Harry V. Whipple, president of the Merchants' National bank of New Haven; Samuel Hemingway, president of the Second National bank of New Haven; Edward I. Field and Samuel Morehouse, all of New Haven.

All four are supposed to have official connection with the Billard company through which it has been alleged that millions of dollars' worth of New Haven securities have been illegally diverted. It is alleged that huge profits were made by persons officially identified with the New Haven road.

Henry Stoddard, counsel for Whipple and Field, notified Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk of the interstate commerce commission that his clients, under protest, would testify rather than undergo the stigma of an indictment and criminal prosecution.

Mr. Folk telegraphed Judge Stoddard to ascertain whether his clients would be willing to produce the books and papers of the Billard company which were required by the commission. To that inquiry no response has been received.

Homer S. Cummings, counsel for Samuel Hemingway and Samuel Morehouse, through telegrams to Folk sought further delay in the criminal proceedings.

He was notified that his clients must submit their testimony to the commission without further conditions.

MAY ESCAPE DEATH

New Trial Granted Mrs. Wakefield, Convicted of Murder

Hartford, Conn., April 17.—Ruling that a part of the evidence given by Coroner Eli Mix in her trial should have been excluded, the supreme court found error in the conviction of Mrs. Bessie J. Wakefield of murder in the first degree and ordered a new trial for the woman.

Mrs. Wakefield was found guilty in the superior court of New Haven county on Oct. 31,1913. Her trial before Judge Burpee had followed that of her accomplice, James Plew, who was executed for the crime on March 4 at the state prison at Wethersfield.

Mrs. Wakefield and Plew were charged with having killed the woman's husband last June. The Wakefields were living in Bristol at the time.

He was dead before physicians could reach him. His body hung in that position for about one-half hour until it had been viewed by Dr. James J. Goodwin, medical examiner, and permission granted to cut away the floor so as to release him. It is believed that Burke tried to get aboard the elevator while it was in motion.

Burke came to this country a year ago from Ireland. His mother is living in Ireland. Two brothers and two sisters survive him.

BEGIN COURT FIGHT

Officials of Tulsa Fair Grounds Start Habeas Corpus Proceedings

Tulsa, Okla., April 17.—Officials of the Tulsa fair grounds, which Governor Cruss placed under martial law after militiamen fired a volley over the heads of riders in order to break up horse racing, will carry their fight into the court on habeas corpus proceedings instituted in behalf of several men arrested by the state troops. Application for the writs was filed before the court of comonwealth appeals in Oklahoma City.

Two companies of militia were employed in stopping the races. First the stands were cleared of spectators and the races ordered discontinued. Ten horses entered in the first race, however, were sent to the post.

NEW YORK NOW HAS BEST BANKING LAW

It Places Private Bankers Under State Supervision

Albany, April 17.—"In my opinion New York now has the best banking law of any state in the union," said Governor Glynn in announcing his signing of the bill which radically revises the banking laws and for the first time places private bankers under the jurisdiction of the superintendent of banks.

Under the provision of the new statute, state banks and trust companies are enabled to become members of the federal reserve bank to be located in New York; the state laws are made to conform in many respects with recent federal banking legislation; credit unions and a land bank may be formed to assist farmers in obtaining loans; small loan brokers are placed under more strict supervision, and the superintendent of banks is given broader powers to investigate violations of the law.

A. Martin was the only person saved from the Buckley. Battered and bruised, he is in a hospital with a chance to recover.

Takes Long Jump to Death

New York, March 28.—Robert M. Friedman, a civil engineer, ended his life by jumping from the circular stairway on the twenty-fourth floor of the new municipal building. He had been out of work.

Hancock and Gwinnett.

Probably John Hancock is the best known signer of the Declaration of Independence. That is because that patriot was not ignorant of the value of advertising. One has to stand some distance from a framed copy of the Declaration to be unable to read that name, which has passed into our language as a synonym for "signature." There are many signatories of the Declaration who are remembered, many who are forgotten, but Button Gwinnett lingers in our memory. It is not altogether easy to imagine a man named Button by his parents as a patriot and a man of influence. His name was enough to single him out in that sober company. But his fame rests secure on something else. History takes account of men for various reasons, but Button is important because—he was apparently cautious about signing his name. His autographs are more valuable today than Hancock's because so few of them are in existence. Perhaps it was hard work for Button to sign his name.—American Boy.

How Tolstoy Made His Will.

How Tolstoy made his will is told in the annual of the Tolstoy society by Alexej Sergejeno, who was one of the witnesses. On July 22, 1910, he was summoned by a lawyer, who said that Tolstoy wanted to make his will without an hour's delay. They rode away at once to the meeting place, a mile from Tolstoy's home. He met them and led the way into a dense forest. "In the thickest part of all," the narrative continues, "we stopped at a big stump of a tree. Tolstoy sat down on the stump, took a fountain pen from his pocket and asked for a sheet of paper. With feet crossed he began to make the rough sketch of his will." It was completed, signed and witnessed then and there, and then "he rose, and going to his horse said to me, 'How ghastly all this legal business is.' With an activity remarkable in a man of eighty-two, he swung himself into the saddle and vanished quickly in the dark greenery of the undergrowth."

"The Wide and Winding Rhine."

From a guidebook published in Frankfort-on-the-Main the following is taken:

The Rhine, a boundary stone of the German history, is only and solely of its kind. On his banks one meets the vestiges of past civilization, we find there traces of its regeneration and of the modern civilization of which children we are. Various impressions make arise in us so many different sensations, so that a profound enthusiasm gets place in us. On the one hand the works of the hand of art, and on the other the imposing curiosities of nature combine themselves on the banks of the Rhine, crowned by vineyards, to an admirable symphony, in which we are touched all accents shuddering the heart and the powerful accords of the profoundest emotion. Therefore, one cannot be astonished about it, that the Rhine has always given inspirations to many poets to their most celebrated works.

The Cinque Ports.

The lord wardenship of the cinque ports goes back to the Saxon period, when the five ports, Sandwich, Dover, Hythe, Romney and Hastings, constituted an essential part of England's defense against France. The warden was a highly important personage, who exercised civil, military and naval jurisdiction, being at once sheriff, custos rotulorum, lord lieutenant and admiral. Winchester and Rye in later days were added to the five towns, but the name remained cinque ports, as of old. In the days of the first Edward these ports were bound to furnish fifty-seven ships fully equipped and manned at their own cost for fifteen days, in consideration for which they were freed from certain taxes and granted special privileges.—London Standard.

How the End Will Come.

The professor of natural phenomena had acquired a gasoline car.

"The day is coming," he said to his class a few weeks later, "when the tire will sag and punctures pierce the inner tube and the casing blister—and then this old earth of ours will have a blowout that may shake the Dog star from its kennel and hurl the Dipper to kingdom come!" — Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Consenting Silence.

"Do you believe that silence gives consent, Dubbley?" asked Gosling.

"Why, yes. The old saying says so. Why?" said Dubbley.

"Then you may congratulate me on my engagement to Miss Moneybags. I wrote to her asking her to marry me six months ago, and I haven't heard a word from her since."—Judge.

His Disguise.

Miranda—Couldn't you think of a brighter idea, Reggie, than turning up in your ordinary clothes? Reginald—Here, I say, hold on! I've come as a bally waiter.—London Bystander.

North American Fish.

The fishes of America north of the isthmus of Panama embrace three classes, thirty orders, 225 families, 1,113 genera, 335 subgenera, 3,263 species and 133 subspecies.

Sea Horses.

In the Pacific ocean sea horses attain a length of from ten to twelve inches, but seven inches is about the limit of those found in Atlantic waters.

The pity which is not born of experience is always cold—it cannot help being so; it does not understand.

HAS PROMISED TO APOLOGIZE

Huerta Agrees to Fire Required Salute to United States

AMERICAN GUNS TO ANSWER

In Accordance With Naval Practice and According to Precedent—Report of Fierce Battle Near San Pedro—American Newspaper Correspondents Captured by Villa

Washington, April 17.—Huerta has promised Charge O'Shaughnessy to salute the American flag in apology for the arrest of American bluejackets at Tampico.

The only condition attached was that the American ships fire a salute in acknowledgment. Officials close to the president explained this was in accordance with naval practise of nations and according to precedent.

It was stated that the only point remaining to be determined was the number of guns in the salute.

Officials pointed out that on occasions when the American navy had saluted the flag of other nations as a result of difficulties at sea a salute in response had been fired.

The only question involved in Huerta's condition was whether a salute of response would constitute recognition, but it was pointed out that the Washingon government considers recognition a matter of intent in each case and would not so regard an acknowledgment of Huerta's salute.

The news was received at the White House just as Secretary Bryan and Acting Chairman Shivley of the senate foreign relations committee went into conference with President Wilson.

Unless Huerta changes his mind, the crisis promises to pass over within the next twenty-four hours.

It was well understood in diplomatic circles that Count von Bernstorff and Jules J. Jusserand, the German and French ambassadors respectively, had been active through their foreign offices in bringing about a relief of the Mexican crisis.

ANOTHER FIERCE BATTLE

Federal Forces Are Reported to Be Completely Surrounded

San Pedro, Mex., April 17.—With General Villa in personal command of the constitutionalist forces, another fierce battle beween his troops and the remnants of the combined federal columns of Generals Velasco, De Moure and Maas is in progress at Benavides station, east of here. Not only has Villa sent into the struggle all the available rebel troops here, but he has ordered 3000 fresh soldiers up from Torreon.

It is reported that the weary, battle-torn federal army, which was reduced from 12,000 to 6800 as the result of the savage fighting which ended here Monday night with a rebel victory, is completely surrounded.

General Ortega, one of Villa's chief lieutenants, reported that among the prisoners taken by his division at San Pedro were five American newspaper writers who had been traveling with the federals. Villa has given instructions to his officers to give them every consideration. Ortega's prisoners are held in a hacienda on the north side of Lake Maylan, between San Pedro and Benavides. The Americans will be brought here as quickly as possible. The prisoners taken in the battle up to this time will number 1500.

G. A. R. CONVENES

Granite State Veterans Are In Session at Concord

Concord, N. H., April 17.—Commander-in-Chief Gardner of the Grand Army of the Republic attended the annual encampment of the New Hampshire department, which opened here.

In his opening address Department Commander Reys of Claremont reported 106 deaths of veterans during the past year and a present department membership of 1761.

The Women's Relief Corps, Sons of Veterans and Daughters of Veterans also held their annual gatherings and each organization entertained its national head for the first time.

Spencer Is Again Accused

Joliet, Ills., April 17.—A second statement that Harry Spencer, awaiting execution for the murder last fall of Mrs. Mildred Rexroat, was the "Mr. Dove" who killed John W. Bate in Chicago in 1904, was made here by John Murray, a discharged convict.

Quits Norway Cabinet

Chriistiania, April 17.—Johan Castberg, minister of social and industrial affairs in the Norwegian cabinet headed by Premier Knudsen, resigned his portfolio owing to a disagreement with his colleagues on social questions.

Connecticut Hit by Sleet Storm

Winsted, Conn., April 17.—Northwestern Connecticut is in the grip of a sleet storm, ground, trees and buildings being covered with the icy substance. Telephone wires are reported down in Hartland and neighboring sections. At Norfolk there is an inch of sleet on the ground.

LINDSAY'S WIRELESS.

A Scotch Genius Who Anticipated the Work of Marconi.

James Bowman Lindsay, a Scotchman, began experimenting with electricity in 1820. In a few years he produced a "constant stream of light," which was the admiration of scientists. He sent messages over wires and delivered many lectures on an electric telegraph. Then in 1852 he invented a system of wireless telegraphy and submitted it to a public test, regarding which a Dundee paper of April 12, 1853, said: "The experiment removes all doubt of the practicability of Mr. Lindsay's invention, and there is every reason to think that it will soon connect continent with continent, and island with island, in one unbroken line of communication."

Lindsay's lectures were advertised under the tilte of "Telegraphing Without Wires," so that the familiar "wireless" itself was anticipated. But he was more than a scientific experimentalist. He projected a dictionary in fifty languages and labored on it for a quarter of a century. It was too huge a task, and the Pentecontaglossal Dictionary exists in an unfinished state only in manuscript. He also compiled with more success a set of astronomical tables for the use of chronologists.

Yet this astonishing man never enjoyed more than an income of $250 a year as a teacher until the eve of his death, when the prime minister granted him a pension of $500 "in recognition of his great learning and extraordinary attainments."—Exchange.

BRASS ROD MONEY.

Currency That Used to Be Very Popular With African Natives.

The annual "bullion letter" of Messrs. Samuel Montagu & Co. of London suggests that the phrase expressive of wealth, "plenty of brass," was introduced into England by sailors trading with towns at the mouths of the great African rivers, though the brass rods used by the natives are now passing into the limbo of things obsolete.

A brass rod at Momsemb was fifteen inches long and not quite so thick as a slate pencil. Everything had its price in brass rods—one egg equaled one brass rod; a fowl, ten brass rods; two yards of cloth, twenty brass rods; a male slave, 600 brass rods, and a female slave, 2,500 brass rods.

The brass for these rods was originally melted down for their brass ornaments—anklets, necklaces, armlets, leg rings, hafts of spears, paddles and handles of knives, etc. It was using the brass for this purpose that first gave it any real value to them. In 1890 the brass rods still retained their value.

It is quite possible that the rods changed hands in fathom lengths, and those who came into possession of these lengths each cut off a little piece to procure a little bit of brass for nothing, and hence the length was gradually shortened until in 1890 it was fifteen inches. The process of shortening continued, and in 1905 the standard length was only eleven inches.

Is There a "Born Criminal?"

Is it to be wondered that most authorities are inclining more and more to find in a faulty environment rather than in a bad heredity the explanation of the boy who goes wrong? Not that it is as yet possible and perhaps it never will be possible to rule out entirely the idea of the "born criminal." A small proportion of delinquents unquestionably do show almost from infancy an irresistible and seemingly instinctive impulse to evil, but to just what extent this is actually due to inherited and irremediable conditions remains to be ascertained. Medical progress, in fact, is constantly making it clearer that many supposed instances of "innate depravity" are in reality the result of curable physical defects and sometimes of defects that are comparatively slight.—H. Addington Bruce in Century.

Turkish Smoking Pipes.

The "hookah" is a large tobacco pipe much used in Turkey, Persia and other eastern countries. It consists of two bowls, one placed over the other. The upper bowl contains the tobacco and is connected by a tube with the lower, which is partially filled with water. The connecting tube passes down into the water. The stem, which is usually a long flexible tube, is connected with the air space above the water, and thus the smoke must pass through the water before reaching the smoker. In passing through it is cooled and deprived of most of its harmful constituents.

Needless Advice.

"How are you getting on at your new place?" asked a lady of a girl whom she had recommended for a situation.

"Very well, thank you," answered the girl.

"I'm glad to hear it," said the lady. "Your employer is a very nice person, and you cannot do too much for her."

"I don't mean to, ma'am," was the innocent reply.—London Answers.

Out of His Mouth.

His youngest grandchild had managed to get possession of a primer and was trying to eat it.

"Pardon me for taking the words out of your mouth, little one," said the professor, hastily interposing.—Chicago Tribune.

Incivility.

A man has no more right to say an uncivil thing than to act one—no more right to say a rude thing to another than to knock him down.—Johnson.

An Appeal to the Sense of Beauty

By EUNICE BLAKE

Dr. Worthington was the physician of the upper ten thousand—not a physician of the upper ten thousand, but the physician of that class. He was thirty-five years old and considered the handsomest man of the city in which he lived and practiced his profession.

One night a lamp exploded in the home of a young widow, setting fire to the clothes of an old lady, a member of the family, and burning her so severely that she lived but twenty-four hours after the accident. Every doctor in the neighborhood was called in, among them Dr. Worthington. There was little that could be done for the patient, who was known to every doctor there, but there was a great deal to be done in calming those present. As soon as the physician of the upper ten thousand entered practitioners, earning a beggarly $5,000 to $10,000 a year instinctively withdrew into their shells, and when he spoke in his musical baritone voice a few words enjoining quiet a calm fell upon every one in the room.

Mrs. Allandale, the young widow in whose house the accident occurred, was so impressed with Dr. Worthington's aristocratic bearing, his self control and that influence he possessed over his fellow beings, especially women, that she resolved to win him for her second husband. Mrs. Allandale had heard a story about the doctor's having to employ a chaperon at his office and realized that her game must be played with great delicacy in order to be successful.

About a week after the death and burial of the person who was burned Dr. Worthington was called to visit Mrs. Allandale. He responded at once and found the lady reclining in her library, where logs blazed in a gothic fireplace. She had on a pale blue silk negligee—she was a blond—and a lamp shaded in pink was on a little table beside her. The blue was especially becoming, and the pink lamplight on her complexion added to the pleasing effect. Dr. Worthington was perfectly aware from the moment he entered the room that the lady's intentions were those of women from whom his duenna was expected to protect him. But, oh, how different this appeal from the others!

The lady did not extend her finger tips; she did not smile; she simply said:

"Doctor, in the dreadful experience we have had in this house my nerves have been severely strained. I sleep very badly, have no appetite and am subject to a twitching of the muscles, especially when passing into a slumber. I would like you to give me a sedative, a tonic or whatever you think I require."

The doctor placed the tips of his thumb and fingers on the lady's wrist, looked wise, sympathetic and respectful, all in one glance; then, taking out a blank slip, wrote a prescription.

"This is merely a light sedative," he said. "I do not attach much importance to it, for the shock you have received must wear off gradually. I would advise diverting your mind so far as possible—social affairs that are to your liking—nothing that will bore you—amusements and, above all, the company of those with whom you are congenial and who interest you."

"Thank you, doctor. I dare say you are right. I noticed how you quieted us all at the time of the accident, and I rely more on your personal influence than your medicines. I should be glad to have you call as often as your other professional and social engagements will permit, for I feel quieted already. I am quite sure that treatment by influence, such as is practiced by Christian Scientists and other like sects, will do me a world of good. But, of course, I do not mean that you are to give me more of your valuable time than my share."

There was some desultory chat, after which the doctor withdrew, promising to call again in a few days. Mrs. Allandale told him that she required soothing more in the evening than in the daytime and she would be glad when he could find it convenient to call between 8 and 11 o'clock p. m. He promised to do his best in this respect.

A few days later the doctor telephoned Mrs. Allandale that he must visit a patient in her vicinity that evening and would call if she thought he could be of any service. She replied through her maid that she was much depressed and begged that he would surely come.

When the doctor called he found his patient sitting on one end of a sofa, robed this time in a commingling of pink and lace, with a jack rose in her hair, the latter taking the place of the lamp shade that had before given a becoming hue to her complexion. He made bold to sit on the other end of the sofa, and when he felt her pulse he left his fingers on her wrist longer than before.

The doctor's visits became more and more frequent, and every time he called he found Mrs. Allandale in a costume which was a more becoming creation than the last, and at each call there was a different lamplight or screen set near her for heightening or subduing the hue of her complexion or a different flower in her corsage or her hair. What could not be accomplished by ordinary means was brought about by such appeals to the doctor's senses. Her efforts were successful, and in due time he proposed and was accepted.

The play "A Pair of Crackerjacks" is one of the most amusing of the Baker plays and wherever given has met with exceptional welcomes. The cast consists of upper class members who qualified after tryouts in which a large number were entered. The entire membership of the class has spared no effort in preparation and the final rehearsals indicate a roundelay of fun and pleasure.

DOCK DEVELOPMENT.

John Swithin tells the Daily Ledger that he was misreported at the Squantum meeting. He says he did not advocate a relocation of the main line of the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. at Squantum, but a belt line from the Crescent avenue station across Dorchester bay to Squantum and thence to Atlantic to connect with the main line near the Neponset bridge. He would have the railroad develop docks along the Neponset river at Squantum and Atlantic.

BOARD OF HEALTH HEARING

The Board of Health held a largely attended public hearing in the Council Chamber at City Hall, Thursday evening, on the application of Joseph Goldstein to erect a large barn on Douglass street, West Quincy. There was considerable opposition on the site desired. Goldstein now resides on Hall place and it is understood that the land now occupied by him is to be taken for cemetery purposes and he must move at an early date. After hearing the numerous witnesses the board took the matter under advisement.

Those to appear in favor of granting the permission to erect a stable on the Douglass street property were T. King, A. J. Toombs, and John J. Daley. Mr. Goldstein the petitioner was represented by I. Abrahams.

The opposition was out in full force those to speak in remonstrance were John Vogel, Adam Vogel, P. T. McGrath, R. J. Teasdale, J. D. Smith and B. Salvucci.

Inspector Lennon of the Board of Health department made a report of the conditions which he found at the present premises of the petitioner.

K. OF C. NOTES.

The members will receive Holy Communion at St. John's Church at 9 o'clock mass on Sunday.

MANDARIN CRAPE FROCK.

Paquin designed this afternoon frock of mandarin crape, with collar of satin folded about the neck in cowboy fashion and the flounces ultra Parisian of 1914. The back girdle is draped, while the upward flare and the full back of the skirt are also in the mode.

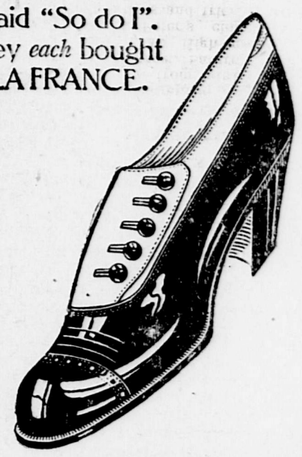

GAY COLORS FOR SPRING.

As it should be with spring fashions, bright colors are popular. This may be due to the craze for futurist innovations, this school of art being the advocate of gayety in attire. Under these circumstances it is likely to be a trying time for the woman who has no eye for color, for some of the combinations are bizarre in the extreme and must be adapted to suit individual requirements.

ANNUAL BALL OF STREET RAILWAY MEN

On Such Occasions Quincy Needs a Much Larger Public Hall

Pretty Decorations and Good Music Add to Success

The twelfth annual concert and ball of Quincy Division, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, No. 253, was held last evening at Music hall, and will go down in the history of the local as the most successful in every way. In point of attendance the number far exceeded that of other years. The music was good, the decorations pretty, and the arrangements perfect in every way, thus forming a combination that could not be other than a success.

WILLIAM H. GOULD.
President.

From a comfortable dancing point of view, there were too many, for it was not until late in the evening when the party had begun to thin out somewhat that dancing became comfortable. Not only was the number of active participants large, but the balcony was filled with hundreds of friends of the local who from preference watched the pretty scene from this vantage point.

The decorations were confined largely to the platform and they were very attractive. In the centre was a massive floral basket. Greenery was extensively used in the formation of the shape of the basket, which was filled with Easter lillies, while the base of the basket was formed of red azalias. Running along the entire front of the platform was a row of yellow jonquils, which heightened the effect. Back of these was McInnis orchestra which furnished music for the promenade concert and dancing.

The front rows of the balcony were reserved seats for the invited guests and among those noted were General Superintendent John Conway, Superintendent of Division 1, Thomas Gammon and Mrs. Gammon; Senator Louis F. R. Langelier, Representatives Michael T. Sullivan and Edward J. Sandberg; President John L. Hamilton of the Board of Trade; Misses Mary and Lizzie McEnro of the Boston office; Frank Yates, superintendent of lines, and Mrs. Yates; Joseph Matherson, foreman of lines; David Toomy, foreman of track; Walter Howley, foreman of the East Weymouth barn; John Noonan, foreman of the South Braintree barn and Mrs. Noonan; Martin Brenan repair foreman, East Weymouth; David Barry, foreman of the Quincy barn; Michael Coughlin, inspector of equipment, and Mr. Schroeder, foreman of the Hyde Park barn. Active participants came from the Brockton and other divisions of the railway.

From 8 to 9 o'clock the orchestra gave a concert among their selections being:

March, "Spirit of Independence"
Overture "Raymond"
Bouquet of popular airs.
Selection "Remicks Hits"
Finale, "Love and Glory"

During this period the guests and active participants were constantly arriving, and their special comfort was carefully looked after by an efficient reception committee headed by J. H. Davey, who was assisted by W. S. Belyea, George Sprague, Herbert Packard, J. F. Ferguson, A. Barteaux, A. M. Stewart, William Field, F. Russell, George F. Slavin, J. F. O'Brien, C Fratt, A. Blanchard, H. Johnson and F. Eldridge.

W. G. FAY.
Vice President.

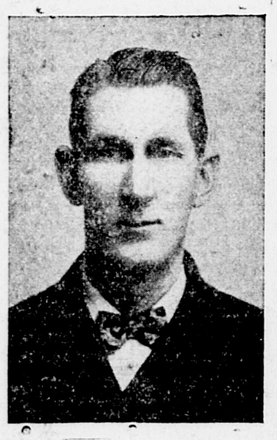

It was but a few minutes after 9 o'clock when the signal, "two bells," was given to "go ahead with the grand march" which was a very pretty affair. The march was led by President William H. Gould, who was also the floor marshal, with Mrs. Alfred Bean, followed by others on the committee and fully 125 couples. They more then encircled the hall, and some of the march evolutions planned had to be eliminated on account of the number of participants. The march over the general program of dances was entered into, and it was 2 o'clock when the waltz, "Welcome to our next" danced to the air, "Home Sweet Home" ended the program. Cars were then found in waiting for all points of the system including Brockton.

The only intermission in the dance program was at midnight when refreshments were served in the annex by a caterer.

The dance program was made up largely of the more modern dances, not the tango, with a sprinkling of the older style square dances.

As noted above President William H. Gould was the floor marshal while Vice President W. G. Fay was the floor director and George Arbuckle, T. Boyle and H. E. Guy were assistants, and A. F. Sandberg chief of aids. The aids were: J. F. Sullivan, J. J. Kelly, R. Kaufman, D. Kearns, M. Hawes, S. Marr, J. E. Casey, J. Delorey, G. C. Dunham, W. Banks, A Trumbull, W. Cowe, J. Murphy, G. W Ford, H. Gould, F. Thiesfeldt, W. Mullen, W. Anderson, R. J. McDonald, E Dillon, and J. Stratton.

Frank W. Sampson was chairman of the committee or arangements, J. J Kelley secretary, and G. W. Arbuckle treasurer. Others on this committee were: J. H. Davey, R. Kaufman, W. S. Belyea, T. Boyle, G. Fay, A. Sandberg, Wm. Gould, H. Guy, P. Caven, Geo. Dunham, J. F. Sullivan, and J. F. Faircloth.

SENIOR DRAMATICS AT HIGH SCHOOL

"A Pair of Cracker Jacks" Proves the Best of All Productions

Parts Exceptionally Well Taken by Class of 1914

"A Pair of Cracker-Jacks" was given by the Class of 1914 at the annual Senior Dramatics in High school hall on Friday evening. Every available seat was taken and the presentation exceeded the fondest anticipations of the entire student body. The cast of characters were:

Andrew Deane as Jack Cracker, a man who retired from the gay white way after his marriage to

Kathleen G. Jones, who has a horror of the stage and prepared for home and mother when she opened a letter from

Winifred Pratt as Estelle Clayton, who wrote Kathleen's husband that his double life would at last be revealed when she called and who is now engaged to

J. Lawrence Martin, as Jack Cracker 2nd, who generously helps his namesake retain his wife's love and affection after a duel is fought and reconciliation brought about in the presence of

Everett Sutermeister as Junius Brutus Bang an actor friend of Jack Cracker who suddenly calls to renew acquaintance and is introduced s the "little Minister" to Jack's wife and at the same time to

Merle Daniels, as Katrina Von Hoot a Dutch servant girl, but in reality Flo Atkins, Jack Cracker's neice, who assumes the servant role to keep in practice for an amateur theatricals and who has the time of her life watching

John Dingwell as Coffee, a colored servant who complicates matters.

During the last act when the reconciliation is effected, Mr. Martin sang parodies on "Sit down, you're rocking the boat" and "On the road to Mandalay," and was loudly applauded and Merle Daniels recited twisty little pieces that were brimful of wit.

The play is given in four scenes, all of which take place in Mr. Jack Cracker's apartments. The parts were well taken individually and collectively and it was the concensus of opinion that it was the best production ever given at the dramatics.

The cast was coached by Miss Sallie Dawes; teacher of English at the school, who was highly complimented on the result of her efforts. The committee was Harry Burr and Ernest Gelotte. Clifton Young was the stage manager and Francis Townsend, assistant. Miss Erlene Hurd was property mistress and Violet Jackson assisted.

Candy was on sale at a table in the corridor of the building by the Misses Viola Jackson '14, Helen Day '15, Beatrice Rogers '15, Bertha Fuller '14, and Marion Wilson '15.

Miss Margaret Magee had charge of the floor ushers and Miss Louise Wilson the balcony ushers. The floor uhers were the Misses Martha Robinson, Mary McGilvray, Sadie Abrams, Jessie Burke, Lylian Oliver, Katherine Reed, Dorothy Brokaw, Ruth Jones, Mildred Hanson and Ramah Baker. The balcony ushers were the Misses Florence Crowell, Jordine Davison, Sarah Tuttle and Flora McPherson.

COUNTY TAX WILL BE HIGHER

Will Require Nearly $1 of Quincy Tax Rate

It was reported some months ago that the Norfolk county tax would be the same as last year, but a resolve reported in the Legislature on Friday places the total at $250,000 which is an increase of $50,000 or 25 per cent. If Quincy's assessment is increased 25 per cent, it will be $32,674 this year, which is $6,535 larger, increasing the tax rate about fifteen or twenty cents. It will require nearly $1 of the tax rate to pay the county assessment.

These amounts are required by the different counties as per report:

Norfolk $250,000; Middlesex $783,500.51 Hampden $220,000; Berkshire $148,939.65; Barnstable, $60,000; Bristol $357,000; Dukes $11,000; Essex, $606,500; Franklin, $73,200; Plymouth, $190,000; Hampshire, $85,072; Worcester, $360,000.

FUNERAL OF MISS DEACON.

Members of several fraternal organizations attended the funeral services of Alice M. Deacon, daughter of William H. Deacon, which took place this afternoon at his home at 230 Franklin street. Rev. Richard E. Armstrong, rector of Christ church, was the officiating clergyman. Services were also held by members of the English Ivy lodge, Daughters of St. George, and there was singing by a choir of members of Quincy chapter, Order of Eastern Star. A delegation from St. Margaret's Guild of Christ church was also present. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

FIRST MASS IN HOME PARISH

Rev. Fr. Thomas W. Buckley celebrates his first public high mass in his home parish when he officiates at the late mass in St. Mary's church on Sunday morning. Assisting him will be Rev. Fr. Thomas R. McCoy, pastor, Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy, and Rev. James Sliney of Brockton. Bennett O'Brien, a seminarian at the Brighton seminary will be master of ceremonies.

Father Buckley was ordained to the priesthood on Jan. 10 by Cardinal O'Connell, several months ahead of the usual time required. For several days he assisted in St. John's parish and then was assigned to St. Columba parish in Lowell as a curate, where Rev. Fr. John Deagan, formerly of St. Gregory's parish of Milton Lower Mills is pastor. He has been a frequent visitor to West Quincy but because of his duties the celebration of mass in his home parish has been delayed.

Father Buckley is the son of Edward and the late Hannah Buckley, and was an altar boy at St. Mary's church for many years. He was graduated from the Gridley Bryant grammar school in 1901, Adams Academy in 1904 and Boston college in 1908. His early ordination was a special tribute to the fine intellectual powers he possesses.

SUCCESSOR NOT NAMED

H. G. Smith Acting President of the Shipyard

No one has as yet been elected to succeed Admiral Bowles, who retired Friday as president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation and it is understood that none will be elected at present, but that vice president H. Gerrish Smith will act in that capacity for the present.

There was a rumor about City Square this morning that Joseph A. Sedgwick, the treasurer of the corporation, had resigned to take effect tonight. Mr. Sedgwick when interviewed in regard to the rumor denied it. He said that he had been re-elected as treasurer of the corporation that he intended to stand by the ship as long as there was a plank left.

President Bowles resignation was presented and accepted at a meeting of the stockholders held Friday morning at 10 o'clock. This morning a meeting of the directors was held and the following officers elected:

Vice president, H. Gerrish Smith.
Vice President, Harry Brown.
Secretary, Joseph A. Sedgwick.
Auditor, E. B. Hill.
Comptroller, F. A. Shick.

All of the above are practically re-elections.

At Fridays stockholders meeting Mr. Sedgwick was elected as treasurer and Samuel T. MacQuarrie as clerk.

There was a rumor this morning that a large number of the Syrians employed in what is known as the S department at the Fore River went out on a strike, but just what grievance they had no one seems to know. Nothing definite could be obtained at the Fore River yard, about the strike if there was any. At the office Mr. Sedgwick it was said that today was pay day and the presence of so large a number outside of the gates were because they were waiting to be paid off. It is reported that the police on duty in that district had to be called to disperse the crowd.

Another rumor was to the effect that they had been informed of the change in the management and that they had misunderstood the information, understanding it to be that the company was going out of business, and they wanted their money.

A PROGRESSIVE CITY.

It is worth something to be advertised as the city of Quincy has been advertised this week. Grocers from all parts of Massachusetts and some from without the state, have been our guests; have been pleased with the little attentions shown them; have found that the city has an active Board of Trade; that local newspapers cooperate with the merchants in booming the city; and that hospitality is one of the keynotes here. Although under ordinary conditions, with a cold wind prevailing, the convention would have been a tame affair, the grocers felt a warmth here, and really, enjoyed their visit to Quincy.

They were told in advance that Quincy would have a warm welcome for all, and none were disappointed. Some members are already planning to come again at an early date to enjoy our seashore, to witness a launching of a big battleship, to visit our sites of historical interest, to see the sights from Third hill, to look into our deep granite quarries, to see granite hammered and polished, to learn the success of Quincy's progress.

Many people of Quincy have thanked the Daily Ledger for issuing such a fine boom edition the day before the convention. "Talk up Quincy, backed up with facts" sounded good to them, and they confessed that they did not realize that so many good things could be said of the city. Surely there should be no pessimists in Quincy. The tax rate is high, and should be reduced, but in Quincy we get something for our money. Each year the city is undertaking new work, all departments are branching out, and the progress is really remarkable if the people will but look about. Unfortunately many expect something for nothing and are slow to give credit.

Since 1886 all the wooden school buildings of the city have been replaced with 14 modern brick buildings at a cost of over a million dollars. Since Quincy became a City a permanent patrol police force has been established and enlarged several times; a police call system established, and also a police wagon, and the force increased. New fire houses have been built, new apparatus added, and changes made to auto trucks. The collections of garbage and ashes have been established, and so in all departments new conveniences have been established and enlarged, and the march of progress has been rapid. Quincy is the most progressive city in New England. Fact!

NAVAL POWER.

God has decided that the people of this country should be a commercial people. * * * Young as we are, our tonnage and commerce surpass those of every nation upon the globe but one, and if not wasted by the deprivations to which they were exposed by their defenseless situation and the more ruinous restrictions to which this government subjected them, it would require not many more years to have made them the greatest in the world. Is this immense wealth always to be exposed as a prey to the rapacity of freebooters? Why will you protect your citizens and their property upon land and leave them defenseless upon the ocean? As your mercantile property increases the prize becomes more tempting to the cupidity of foreign nations. In the course of things the ruins and aggressions which you have experienced will multiply, nor will they be restrained while we have no appearance of a naval force.—James A. Bayard in United States Senate. 1810.

VERSE THOUGHT.

I am glad to think
I am not bound to make the world go right,
But only to discover and to do
With cheerful heart the work that God appoints.
I will trust him
That he can hold his own, and I will take
His will above the work he sendeth me
To be my chiefest good.
The glory is not in the task, but in the doing it for him.
—Jean Ingelow.

STEPFATHER IS UNDER ARREST

William H. Adams Charged With Killing Young Bride

LARGE CROWD AT FUNERAL

Accused Man and Dead Girl's Mother Claim She Committed Suicide—Husband of Victim Deeply Affected at Services Over Body In District Schoolhouse

Norway, Me., April 18.—William H. Adams of Albany, Me., was arrested charged with the murder of his 17-year-old stepdaughter, Mrs. Ethel M. Cummings. Adams had just stepped out of the sleigh in which he had followed the body of the girl to the grave when Arthur B. Bassett, a coroner and state detective, served the warrant.

Anticipating the arrest, a large crowd attended the funeral, which was held in a district schoolhouse at the Albany crossroads. Throughout the service Sherman Cummings of Groveton, Vt., the husband of the dead girl sobbed bitterly. He accompanied the family in the funeral procession over the snowclad hills to the little cemetery between Albany and Bethel, and stood by in silence, when Adams was taken into custody.

Cummings has been employed in Bethel, a neighboring town. For several months recently, his wife had not been with him, having been living at the home of her parents here, but she is said to have been preparing to rejoin her husband when she met her death.

According to the county officials, Adams, who is 45 years old, said that when he went into the parlor he found that the girl's clothing and hair had been ignited by the powder and that he put out the blaze with a bucket of water. He expressed the belief that she had shot herself by pounding the hammer of the gun on the stove.

The gun is a single-barreled one, of an old-fashioned kind, and was generally kept loaded with bird shot. In support of his version of the girl's death, Adams pointed out that no one had been able to cock the hammer of the gun since the girl was shot.

Mrs. Adams, it is said, has told the officers that on the day of the shooting the girl asked her stepfather if he thought the ground was frozen as deeply as it appeared to be. Her father answered in the affirmative. Mrs. Adams later interpreted the girl's question as an indication that she was thinking of killing herself.

MEXICO MUST MEET DEMANDS

United States Will Not Fire "Gun For Gun"

HITCH AT ELEVENTH HOUR

Ships Headed For Southern Waters Prepared to Back Up Demands of American Government—Huerta's Latest Move Made to Preserve His Own Dignity Before Mexicans

Washington, April 18.—"Mexico will salute the way we want them to or there will be war," was the emphatic declaration yesterday afternoon of Senator Shively, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee. "Our ships are now on the way to Mexico and go fully prepared to back up the original demand of this government for a salute in reparation for the insult. No simultaneous salute will be accepted by this government."

Provisional President Huerta has parleyed again. He demands that his salute to the United States flag shall be returned gun for gun, simultaneously. This President Wilson decided not to accept.

This latest hitch at the eleventh hour, when officials here expected the situation was as good as closed up, was disclosed in dispatches from Charge O'Shaughnessy.

President Wilson discussed it with the cabinet. Administration officials said privately Huerta's counter proposition would not be accepted.

The development confirmed the fears of these officials who expected Huerta would equivocate again.

Any intention of recalling any ships of the fleet now bound to Tampico was abandoned, and those close to the administration expected to see President Wilson's demand for an unqualified apology backed up.

Officials here were ready to acknowledge Huerta's salute of twenty-one guns after it had been finished, with a return salute of twenty-one guns, such as is prescribed in naval custom and precedent. That would merely be acknowledging an "amende honorable," they say. But to return Huerta's salute simultaneously, gun for gun, they pointed out, would make the apology valueless.

Officials described Huerta's latest move as an act to preserve his own dignity before the Mexicans of that part of the country under his control.

The feeling in Washington is more tense than it has been at any time since the present revolution in Mexico started.

No word had been received from Mexico City and there are those who believe that Huerta will stand pat with the hope that a break with the United States will bring all the warring factions in Mexico flocking to his standard.

At the same time the feeling is growing in Washington that this government has already been too polite and patient with Huerta. They consider that his quibbling about the manner in which the salute shall be returned is the crowning insult of all the indignities heaped upon the United States and that the time to act quickly has come.

While President Wilson continues in his efforts to prevent open hostilities, it is known that his patience is about exhausted and that he is about ready to give Huerta a lasting lesson. Further, it is known that the administration has been anticipating a break and that all preparations for a quick move have been made.

The countermanding of the order to the Pacific fleet to sail for Mexican waters was again changed after the receipt of the message from Charge O'Shaughnessy transmitting Huerta's new conditions, and all available warships were ordered to provision and assemble a battalion of marines for service in Mexico.

The Atlantic fleet was sighted off Key West yesterday steaming for Tampico, and it was said in Washington that there would be no change for the present in their program.

Orders have been sent to all army posts to prepare for foreign duty and many troops are already moving quietly toward the Mexican border.

Congress is still standing by the president, but there are many who declare that diplomatic courtesy is wasted on Huerta and that the whole incident is simply putting off the evil day. As one senator put it, "Huerta is simply trying to play horse with us."

SQUANTUM WOMEN'S CLUB.

Considering the bad weather Wednesday evening, there was a fair attendance of members of the Squantum Women's club at the home of Mrs. Bessie Kokerda, Bellevue avenue. The president, Mrs. William Reed, presided and reports were read by the clerk and treasurer. Mrs. James Allen and Mrs. George Hersey have tickets for the club whist to be given at Mrs. Hersey's home Monday evening and the ladies are hard at work for the supper, apron and candy sale, and entertainment to be held May 2 at the home of Mrs. James Foster. It is expected that goodly sums will be realized at these affairs so that work may begin on the brick piers of the clubhouse.

Mrs. Hiram Morse, chairman of the building committee reported that things looked very favorable for a new clubhouse, in fact much better than a year ago. She said she was sure of financial aid and thought that she could safely say that a clubhouse was an assured fact this summer. Much enthusiasm was shown by the members over this report for that has been the object of hard work the past year.

After the reading of notices and flower collection the meeting adjourned and the gathering turned into a house warming. The members inspected the attractive new bungalow "Billoubes" of Mrs. Kokerda and were served a dainty lunch, Mrs. T. W. Callahan assisting the hostess. Selection were played on the Victrola and Mrs. Charles Ramsdell in her clever manner gave some interesting impersonations.

All agreed that Mrs. Kokerda had proven herself a delightful hostess and that the meeting would be remembered as one of the most enjoyable gatherings.

At billiards Perry of Cochato defeated Hennessey of Wampatuck 100 to 73.

Refreshments were served and there were vocal solos by Herbert E. Curtis accompanied by F. D. Lawley at the piano. Dancing was enjoyed during the evening. The affair was in charge of the hospitality committee.

—The relative values of a woman and a hog were illustrated in Wisconsin recently, says the Wisconsin Citizen. A woman wrote to the Governor that she had a large family to support and was suffering from tuberculosis and desired State aid. About the same time a letter was received from a man who desired aid for a hog that showed signs of cholera. The Governor sent word to the woman that no appropriation had been made for tuberculosis victims, and at the same time a man was hurriedly dispatched with a supply of cholera serum to the rescue of the hog.—Milford Gazette.

Talking Shop.

Enthusiastic interest in one's occupation is always an advantage, but, on the other hand, it is not well for a woman in business to talk of her work at all times and places. Naturally, the thing that we do constantly is our most absorbing interest, but we must remember that other people have other things to talk about.

THE PHILERGIANS.

Attention of club members is called to article 6, section 2, of the by-laws: "All dues shall be payable on, or before the annual meeting. If not paid by the last of May, the person from whom it is due having been notified, shall cease to be a member." Members will kindly give this matter the required attention.

Owing to the efforts of Mrs. E. L. Webber, chairman of the committee, the entire amount pledged by this club toward the endowment fund of the General Federation of Women's club has been raised and paid.

The class in Modern Literature met at the home of Mrs. A. E. Avery of Commercial street Monday afternoon. Mrs. Gurney read from the writings of Bliss Carmen and Richard Hovey.

The last meeting of the season and one of the most important is the annual meeting which will be held at the Cochato club next Tuesday at 2.30 o'clock. The election of officers will be the business of the meeting. There will be music and tea.

—The New Jersey Legislature has very sensibly passed the resolution to submit a woman's suffrage amendment to the constitution of that State. It will be required to pass another Legislature before it can be voted on by the people, but with the start it has it is likely to go through to that stage. How the people will vote on it is, of course, anybody's guess, but it is fair and proper when any question of such general importance is agitated that the people shall have a chance to decide for themselves.—Philadelphia Telegraph, Rep.

SPORT NEWS

The opening of the Colonial league is May 15, and the first games will be in Brockton, New Bedford and Fall River. Taunton plays at New Bedford, and John Pittipit of West Quincy will be on the receiving end for the former. "Pitti" as he is familiarly known in Braintree, where he has caught some snappy games, has ambitions toward a base ball career and has had several offers from the Provinces under consideration.

Dr. J. Gardiner Smith, who several years ago organized the first grammar school base ball league in the city and directed it through several successful seasons, has once more completed preparations for another string of games and the enthusiasm this year, if the sentiment existing among the pupils counts for anything, is warmer than ever. The league has done more to encourage manly sport than anything ever undertaken in the city and also furnishes well developed material for the High school teams. Assisting Dr. Smith this year as in the past are the masters of the grammar schools. Several changes are made, a board of teachers whose powers are mandatory, deciding the qualifications of umpires, the merit of protests, etc. The parents this year will probably, more than ever, give their boys the support due and attend the games.

BRAINTREE ATHLETIC ASSO.

There are two important affairs coming under the auspices of the Braintree Athletic Association within the next two or three weeks. The first is the base ball game next Monday. One will be played against the White Sox on the Common at 10.30 A. M. This will be the first of a series of five games to be played during the season. In the afternoon the B. A. A. will play the Braintree high school team on the Hollis field at 3.15 and the White Sox will play the Samoset club of Dorchester on the Common at 3.15. The season's schedule for both teams are being arranged and will be announced later.

The other important event will be the May night and May pole party which will be held by the association at Long's hall on Friday evening, May 1st. Invitations for this party have been sent out and a good response is assured.

Miss Louise Abercrombie assisted by about 20 young ladies will have charge of the May pole dance and this feature will be very pretty and unique and those in attendance will greatly enjoy it. A first class six piece orchestra has been secured. Dancing from 8 to 12. Special cars will run for out-of-town guests.

LEFT BOMB UNDER SEAT

Militant Suffragettes Burn Recreation Pier Theatre

Great Yarmouth, Eng., April 18.—The theatre on the great recreation pier here was destroyed by a fire caused by the explosion of a bomb left under a seat by a militant suffragette.

The explosion awoke the inhabitants of Great Yarmouth, and a few moments later the theatre at the end of the pier burst into flames. It was rebuilt recently at a cost of $100,000.

The usual suffrage literature was found strewn along the pier and on the beach, and it was assumed that suffragettes had attended a performance in the theatre and when they left had placed a bomb, with a slow fuse attached, under one of the seats.

ELEVEN LOSE LIVES

New York Rooming House Swept by Fatal Fire

New York, April 18.—Eleven persons lost their lives and four are in the hospital as the result of a fire that swept through the rooming house of Edward Enkes at 741 Eighth avenue.

Chief Kenlon says the blaze was due to gross carelessness, and is holding as material witnesses Enke and his wife Mary. The loss of life was due to the fact that the occupants of the house made a rush for the stairs instead of the fire escapes and found themselves cut off.

To Be Hanged April 30

Hartford, April 18.—The supreme court fixed the date of execution of Joseph Buonomo for Thursday, April 30. He has twice been convicted of the murder of Jennie Cavaglieri of Chicago, in Stratford over a year ago.

S. O. S. From Burning Steamer

Mobile, Ala., April 18.—Wireless calls from Captain Olsen, master of the Norwegian steamer Alm, of the Seaberg line, received here reported the vessel was on fire and asked for aid.

PICTURE AS MEMORIAL

C. Frederick Whitney Gives Talk at Clubhouse

Friday afternoon at the Quincy Women's clubhouse. C. Frederic Whitney gave an illustrated picture talk under the auspices of the arts and crafts committee of the Quincy Women's Club.

A picture of Shakespeare's home at Stratford-on-Avon purchased as a memorial to the late chairman, Mrs. Charles L. Seavey was seen for the first time, and presented to club by Mrs. Tenney for the committee, the president Mrs. Chandler W. Smith accepting it for the club.

Mrs. Tenney said the Club was carrying out the desires of the art department of the State Federation, and also doing what Mrs. Seavey had so much at heart; talks of this kind for self-culture appealing to her. The memorial picture had been selected for its simple, quiet dignity, historic interest; its church spire standing for aspiration rather than ambition, with light and shadows and over all a rosy glow.

Mr. Whitney paid a tribute to the club saying it was like carrying coals to Newcastle, but as a teacher of art in public schools he was always glad to come. Something always sings every thing beautiful and the artist must give it expression. We can not find it unless we take the artist heart in these things. Some one said "In the deep heart of man the artist dwells.

Painting and drawing is the universal language of all ages and he briefly reviewed the history of art. In Egyptian art the religious spirit dominated. Grecian artists were lovers o fthe human form, the classic lines. Roman art showed a freer expression. Byzaantine art is most characteristic in illuminating and symbolic or religion, reflecting the times under which it was produced. It was at this time that an artist realizes perspective and an illustration of this, was shown on black board.

In the Synagogue period nothing was natural. In the Gothic everything was mosaic. Renaissance came as a revival of the classic decoration style, and then came the Freedom, modern so different they cannot be compared. The Japanese art showed them to be lovers of nature, vines, shrubs, trees, flowers, delicacy of the petals study the China, porcelain, the Japanese prints, even the children are given a brush and trained for the beautiful.

Instead of hurrying through galleries one should sit down and let it sink in. Mr. Whitney spoke of the sweet messages in Corot paintings, of his love of nature, to actually see the shimmer of the leaves; of the modern Dutch masters in comparison with old. Get the message, then if you like analyze it. There was dignity of labor, nobility of service in Millet's paintings. Mr. Whitney gave a sketch of his boyhood which proved most entertaining.

Of the Italian masters was Raphael sometimes called Raphael the Divine. He interpreted his Sistine Madonna and spoke of the art flow of line, in the Madonna of the Chair.

Mr. Whitney told some interesting facts in regard to a picture study by his art class and of what Grade I had to say of the same picture. He showed several note books so entirely out of the usual that it was wrong to call them by such a name as they were works of art in the element of design, scale of color, decorative treatment, binding, etc., made by students of the art club of the Normal Art school.

In studying a picture, name it yourself advised Mr. Whitney before looking to see what the artist named it. Decide why is it a great picture. See the beauty, wisdom of color light and shade. God made it all.

There was a large an interested attendance and Mr. Whitney received hearty applause at the close of his talk.

BROCKTON MEN ARE SLASHED IN DUEL

One Is In Hospital and Other In Police Station

Brockton, Mass., April 18.—Peppano Barelli, aged 33, is at the Brockton hospital in a serious condition, and Salvatore Carparotta, 29, is at the police station badly wounded, as a result of a fight in the barber shop of Alphonse Lambiase, a court interpreter, at 73 North Main street.

Barelli is alleged to have attacked Carparotta with a shoe trimming knife with a hook on the end. Carparotta, who was shaving a man, defended himself, according to witnesses, by using his razor on Barelli.

Barelli was sent to the Brockton hospital, where he is in a serious condition from loss of blood. He has a wound starting over the left eye and extending to the left ear, the cut exposing the bone all the way. Physicians took twenty-five stitches to close the wound.

Carparotta received three cuts on his neck, one on his head and the fingers of his left hand were nearly severed when he grabbed Barelli's knife and the latter drew it through Carparotta's closed hand. Both men are under arrest on charges of assault with a dangerous weapon.

No defense was put in by her counsel, Harold F. Hathaway and Albert Fuller.

Some of the testimony was rather sensational, Deputy Chief Cash stating that Mrs. Scudder told him her brother-in-law was a "degenerate and a mean one," and that he had invaded her privacy.

FIRES SHOT AT GOTHAM MAYOR

Mitchel Has Narrow Escape From Assassin's Bullet

MAN IMMEDIATELY ARRESTED

Corporation Counsel Polk Gets Missile Intended For Executive and Is Seriously Wounded—Old Man Is Supposed to Be Mentally Deranged —Says Name Is Joseph Soloschen

New York, April 18.—An assassin's bullet aimed at Mayor Mitchel as he was leaving the city hall in an automobile, missed its mark but badly wounded Frank Polk, corporation counsel. The man who fired the shot was almost instantly overpowered. The name on his clothing is David Rose; his age is nearly 70, and he gave evidences of being mentally unbalanced. He says his name is Joseph Saloschein or Soloschen.

The bullet crashed through Polk's jaw, knocking out nearly all his front teeth and inflicting a serious though not necessarily fatal wound. He was assisted into the city hall, then removed to a hospital.

"Mr. Polk was hit by the bullet, but the bullet was undoubtedly intended for me," was the mayor's comment.

Attaches at the city hall said that Rose or Saloschein had called to see the mayor several times lately, but because of his queer actions had not been permitted to do so.

Rose, questioned while an ambulance surgeon was dressing Polk's wound, by the mayor and detective, refused to answer questions about himself. Two letters addressed to Mayor Mitchel were found in his clothing.

The shooting occurred at the Park row entrance to the city hall plaza. At that time of the day Park row is congested with hundreds of men and women.

Mayor Mitchel, Police Commissioner Arthur H. Woods, formerly of Boston, and Polk had just left the mayor's office in the city hall to go to a downtown restaurant for luncheon. The three crossed the plaza toward Park row, where stood the mayor's automobile, driven by Detective George Neun.

The mayor got in first, Polk and Commissioner Woods following in the order named. As the mayor sat down Rose dodged through the crowd on Park row and, walking up to a point opposite the chauffeur, took quick aim at Mitchel and fired.

H. Duncan of 217 West One Hundred and Twenty-eighth street, passed directly in front of Rose as he approached the auto. The bullet struck Duncan on the arm and glanced upward, hitting Polk in the chin. Mayor Mitchel jumped from his auto, seized the assassin and took him to the city hall police station.

JURY ACQUITS O'BRIEN

Housatonic Railroad Man Charged With Manslaughter

Winsted, Conn., April 18.—Patrick J. O'Brien of Housatonic, Mass., was acquitted of manslaughter by a jury in the criminal superior court here.

O'Brien was a brakeman on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad train which was in collision with a Central New England train at Canaan last June.

In the collision, Mrs. Caroline S. Olin of Falls Village, a passenger on the New Haven train, received injuries from which she died, and O'Brien was held by the coroner criminally responsible, though negligence, for her death. The state's charge of manslaughter was based on this finding.

FREIGHT DEPOT BURNED

Fire Destroys Records and Books at South Framingham

South Framingham, Mass., April 18.—Fire starting in the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad freight depot on Pearl street, caused damage to the building and contents to the extent of $4000. The fire originated in the rest room used by thirty-five freight handlers and others employed in the yards and was confined to the building, largely on account of its slate roof.

Freight records and books for the last ten years were destroyed by the flames, but the only damage to the freight stored in the building was by water.

RICH MAN'S SON HELD

Charged With Murdering and Robbing a Chauffeur

Albany, April 18.—Malcolm Gifford, Jr., the 19-year-old son of a wealthy manufacturer of Hudson, N. Y., is in jail here charged with the murder of Frank J. Clute, a chauffeur.

Clute was killed on April 1, 1913, while driving an unidentified man to Troy from here. The passenger shot Clute in the back of the head, robbed him, threw his body into a ditch and fled.

White Did Not Die In Fire

Addison, Me., April 18.—Joel White, who it was feared perished in the fire that burned his farm house, is alive and well. It was learned that he had been staying at the home of a brother since the fire.

SHOT IN HIS ARM

Lawrence Conductor Says He Was Attacked by Unknown Man

Lawrence, Mass., April 18.—Frank Leahy, a Bay State Street Railway conductor, residing at 54 Bowdoin street, was shot in the fleshy part of his left arm by a bullet from his own revolver, during a scuffle with a man who attacked him in a field near the car barn on Merrimac street.

According to the report received by the police, Leahy, who is a spare conductor, had left his car and was taking a "short cut" through the field to his home, when a man attacked him with a club. Leahy dodged and grappled with his assailant. The conductor reached for his revolver, and during the scrimmage the weapon was discharged.

The shot had the effect of frightening his assailant, who disappeared in the darkness, Leahy claimed. The latter returned to the car barn, whence he was taken to a hospital in an automobile. The affair was reported to the police.

SIX MEN INDICTED

Charged With Being Implicated In Murder of Boston Salesman

Newburyport, Mass., April 18.—An indictment charging murder was returned against Bedros Takdarian of Lawrence by the Essex county grand jury here in connection with the killing of John K. Shamlian, a Boston jewelry salesman, early this year.

Indictments were also returned against Garabad Barbarian, John Oudanian, Bagdasar Yakoolian, Setrak Bororan and Michael Kakoian, Lawrence mill workers, charging them with being accessories after the fact.

The mutilated body of Shamlian, who disappeared from his home in Boston Feb. 9, was found in a lonely field in Frye Village, three miles from Lawrence, the night of March 11, after Takdarian had confessed to a part in the killing.

GOETHALS' OPINION ON TOLLS IS WANTED

Canal Builder to Testify Before Senate Committee

Washington, April 18.—Colonel George W. Goethals has been summoned before the senate canals committee to testify on the economic feature of the Panama tolls exemption for coastwise vessels. He is expected to favor repeal.

The colonel was asked to come at the request of Senator Simmons, but may not reach here before April 24, the day set for the close of the hearings. In that event, Senator Simmons will not ask for an extension of the hearings, but will either request that Colonel Goethals' testimony be incorporated in the record or presented on the floor of the senate.

Sentiment was said to be crystallizing in the committee for an amendment to the Sims repeal bill stipulating that the United States will give up no rights of sovereignty over the canal by the repeal of the exemption. Supporters of that idea hope to win the president to that view.

Chief Counsel Joseph W. Folk of the commission received from Homer S. Cummings, attorney for two of the witnesses, Hemingway and Moorehouse, a telegram saying that his clients would respond to questions.

Another telegram from Henry Stoddard representing Whipple and Field, gave assurance that his clients not only would testify concerning the matter to which, a week ago, they refused to answer, but also would produce books and other documents of the Billard company desired by the commission.

Mrs. Moses H. Brown gave a very novel report for the Social and Benevolent society. She treated the church as a large family and told what the society had done for its help and comfort. There are 108 members.

Miss Marion Rand told in an interesting manner of the efficiency campaign in which the 62 members of the Christian Endeavor are gathered this year.

Reports were received from Mrs. Joseph Walther for the Junior Christian Endeavor, Mrs. J. Arthur Sparrow for the Eliot Home Mission Society, Mrs. Elford L. Durgan for the Women's Foreign Missionary society and Miss Winifred Church for the Nearer and Farther Lights society.

In presenting the budget the board of trustees called attention to the addition, alterations and improvements that have been put in this year, the new part alone costing over $11,000.

Deacon Thomas brought in the report of the nominating committee and on motion of Charles E. Goodspeed it was voted to take action concerning non-resident members, of which there are about 75. The meeting adjourned with a benediction by the pastor.

GRANITE TRADE IMPROVING

Younger Cutters Profit by the Quincy Evening Schools

The Granite Cutters, Polishers and Tool Sharpeners branches of the G. C. I. A. held their regular meetings this week and all reported that trade is improving, in fact, many calls have been had for men in Quincy, and the headquarters of the G. C. I. A. have been issuing ads calling for many men in different sections of the country.

It has been noted that many of the younger granite cutters are becoming proficient in the higher branches of the trade, particularly letter cutting. The feeling among the tradesmen is to the effect the courses taught at the Quincy evening schools during the winter months are bearing fruit, and the men who took advantage of the opportunity to learn free hand drawing and laying out of inscriptions are now getting the benefit of their knowledge in that direction.

Each of the three Quincy branches passed the resolutions endorsing the Government's action in fitting out the Charlestown Navy Yard for the purpose of building Government vessels.

There will be no work in the granite cutting sheds on Monday. It is stated in the agreement that April 19 is a holiday and a definition of the agreement has been made to the effect that where holidays happen on Sunday, the following is to be observed, so that unless there are some extraordinary circumstances there will be no work done in any of the yards. If any work is done the workmen performing same will be paid double time as per agreement now existing between the manufacturers and Quincy branch, G. C. I. A.

CARD OF THANKS.

I hereby express my sincere thanks to the kind friends and neighbors, the L. O. O. M., Bay State St. Ry. Co., the St. Ry. Union and to all who by kind acts and words of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes helped me so much during my late bereavement.

QUINCY WARSHIPS MAY BE PROMINENT

Cruiser Des Moines Has Been Off Tampico Mexico for Several Weeks

Battleships Vermont and New Jersey Are On the Way

The location of Quincy-built fighting ships is of interest at this time:

At Tampico,—Cruiser Des Moines.

On the way to Tampico,—Battleships Vermont and New Jersey.

In readiness for service in Mexico,—Battleship Rhode Island, and the torpedo flotilla.

Under orders to sail,—dreadnaught North Dakota.

Through one of the Argentine naval officers stationed at Quincy it has come to light that the United States government can, in case of war, command the two superdreadnaughts, Rivadavia and Moreno building in this country for the Argentine navy. This official stated that in the contract it was provided that in case of war the United States could command these two vessels, provided they had not been delivered to the Argentine government.

As a matter of fact neither of these two mammoth fighting machines have been delivered. The Rivadavia has had her official trials and is now receiving her finishing touches at the Fore River yards, and in case her services were needed she could be made ready for service in a very short time. In fact all that the Rivadavia would need would be to have her supplies and ammunition to make her ready. The Moreno which is at the New York Shipbuilding yards has not had her trials as yet but is about ready for them.

Both vessels carry a main battery of ten 12-inch guns and ten 6-inch rifles, together with many other guns of smaller calibre.

Residents of Quincy, and particularly those employed at the Fore River shipyard are watching events in Mexican waters with unusual interest from the fact that many of the vessels now in those waters or on their way there were built at Quincy. These include the battleships Vermont and New Jersey, the cruiser Des Moines, the cruiser Birmingham, the dreadnaught North Dakota, the torpedo boat destroyers Henley and Jenkins, the destroyer Lawrence which was built at East Braintree and was the first government vessel built by the company. In addition to these vessels there are the submarines practically all of which were built at Quincy.

There is another war vessel in Mexican waters in which Quincy is somewhat interested. She is the Michigan, which was assigned to Quincy waters for the Fourth of July celebration last year. Many will remember Capt. E. E. Capehart who commanded the Michigan and his officers, for quite a few of them made many friends during the few days they were stationed in Quincy. It will be remembered that while in Quincy the Michigan was painted in her war color, and that when she left this harbor she sailed direct for Mexico where she has been most of the time since.

The submarines K1 and K2, built at the Quincy shipyard are at the Charlestown Navy yard. K5 and K6 have been launched and can be made ready for delivery from Quincy on short notice. The boats are the most up-to-the-minute fighting machines of their type in the world.

The torpedo boat destroyer Duncan built here is also at the Charlestown navy yard and is in trim condition.

EDWARD P. POWERS

The Candidate for Mayor, cordially invites the people of Quincy to call at his Barber Shop, 6 Washington street, and see a four-legged chicken on exhibition.

The Mexican crisis will apparently have no effect on the discharge of workmen prevalent at the Charlestown Navy yard, since Sec. Daniels announces that nine men, including seven wiremen and two electricians helpers, will be dropped April 23. The secretary stated that "it is unfortunate that prospects for work do not justify furloughing these men."

NEW BILL FOR SCHOOL HALLS

After many weeks of deliberation the legislative committee on education of which Senator Langelier is chairman, has at last decided to report a bill which would allow the use of schoolhouses for public entertainments.

This matter was one of the most seriously agitated before this committee during the present session of the legislature. During the past sessions the legislature passed a law which excluded all but school organizations from the use of the school halls. This law was found to militate against social, civic and benevolent organizations devoted to charitable purposes and to the propagation of education. The new bill reads:

"For the purpose of promoting the usefulness of the public school property the school committee of any city or town may conduct such educational, recreational activities in or upon such school property under its control, and shall allow the use thereof by individuals and associations, subject to such regulations as the school committee shall establish, for such educational, recreational, social, civic, philanthropic and similar purposes as the committee may from time to shall not interfere or be inconsistent with the use of the premises for school purposes."

UNION STREET ASSAULT.

Gaetano Erichello and Domenico Rose were arrested on Union street Monday afternoon by Officers Phillips and Taylor charged with mutual assault. The two men were having a dispute between themselves which eventually led to blows. Erichello finally got Rose down on the street and was on top of him pounding his head with a rock when the onlookers becoming frightened ran to the house of Officer Phillips and got him out. The two men were taken to the police station where City Physician Bartlett found it necessary to take a number of stitches in Rose's head. Both men were in court, Rose with his head swathed in bandages. Officer Phillips had the rock with which the pounding is alleged to have been done. It was almost as large as a paving block and was stained with blood.

COUNCIL COMMITTEES.

Several City Council committee meetings are announced for this week. On Thursday evening the Finance Committee and Committees on Licenses and Public Buildings will be in session, and on Friday evening the Committees on Streets and on Water Supply will meet. These meetings give promise of many committee reports at the next Council meeting.

GIVEN A RECEPTION

Good Work Being Done by Associated Charities

Miss Jennie M. Purchase, secretary of the Associated Charities, was given a reception at the annual meeting held at the Woman's Clubhouse on Saturday. In the receiving line was President Thomas Fenno and the presidents of the womens clubs of the city. The ushers were members of the Katharyn Crane Memorial club. Music was by the orchestra and solos were rendered by Mrs. E. Page. The clubhouse was prettily decorated.

Miss Purchase's report was extensive and for the year. Particular mention was made of the city departments, residents, organizations and churches that had assisted. She said an average of 200 calls per month had been made, and that 175 new cases had been referred to the board, with 68 old cases, making 243.

In speaking of the new Mothers Aid law she said that to her knowledge 25 families in Quincy were receiving the benefit of it. During the year the board had secured aid for 108.

She said the Katharyn Crane Memorial Club had been especially helpful in the securing high medical treatment of eyes, ears, etc., and examinations of childrens diseases at the outpatient department of Boston hospitals.

Miss Purchase laid special stress on the extension of conference work and the increase in the volunteer service. She spoke of the care of convalescents, semi-invalids and incurables and of the growth of the fresh air treatment.

Her report was received with great interest.

OIL TRUCK TAKES FIRE

Firemen Feared That It Might Explode

A large auto oil tank truck of the Quincy Oil Co. took fire while passing through the square at Weymouth Landing this noon and for a time an explosion was threatened. The fire department was called out and the fire was extinguished with a chemical stream. One side of the truck was badly damaged. The driver of the truck displayed great courage by remaining on his seat during the fire although there was grave danger of the tank blowing up at any minute.

The Daily Ledger is newsy every day. Are you a regular reader?

WARD THREE IMPROVEMENT

Debate Resolutions Relative to Auto Fire Apparatus

The Ward Three Improvement Association postponed action on a resolution submitted by Edward Brault, opposing the purchase of more auto fire apparatus and a tractor for the steamer, after all those present took part in a discussion at a meeting in Clan MacGregor hall on Saturday evening. Definite action will be taken when a committee consisting of former chief engineer Amos L. Litchfield, George Gauthier and Edward Brault makes a complete report on the situation. President Alfred J. Pinel presided.

The meeting also took a vote instructing the councilmen from the ward to see that the unexpended balance of the Adams school appropriation was not expended for anything until the grading about the building was finished.

HAS OFFERED HIS SERVICES

Ensign James H. McDonough, U. S. N., the hero of the fire room of the battleship North Dakota who was retired from services on account of his injuries in 1912 has offered his services to the government in case of war with Mexico. Ensign McDonough, who married a daughter of Benjamin Johnson, has made his home in Quincy, since his retirement from the navy.

At the time of the accident on board of the North Dakota, McDonough was chief warrant machinist when the oil burning apparatus exploded off the Virginia Capes. He remained in the fire room after the explosion, ordering every man to get out. Helping a boy out he rushed into the flaming room again to shut off the oil. In doing so he was terribly burned about the face and hands, and it was weeks before his face could be seen. Shortly before the burning accident, McDonough's name had been brought to the attention of the navy department by reason of his having saved a man from drowning at Buenos Aires. He had been in the service of the United States navy for 13 years when he retired. His father, who had also served in the navy for 43 years was never reprimanded or had a mark against him.

TRIAL TRIPS.

The powerful auto fire pump building at the Fore River yards was given some trial runs about the city Saturday afternoon. The trial trips included two runs through City Square. The pump is a powerful looking piece of apparatus and was manned by half a dozen men. She made good time on her runs.

The 225 reamers and bolters of the Fore River shipyard who suspended work Friday morning because their union was not recognized and dissatisfaction with their pay met in the and voted to ask the aid of the I. W. Johnson building Monday morning.

A strike committee was elected and it was voted to picket at the shipyard gates to secure the co-operation of other workmen in the yard. Today several delegates from the State headquarters of the I. W. W. came to this city and looked into the situation. They will make their headquarters in Cahill's hall, South Quincy.

Officials of the company this morning said that a few workmen had suspended but they had received nothing official about a strike.

NEIGHBORHOOD MEETING.

The neighborhood meeting of the Quincy branch Alliance was held in the chapel of the First Parish church Wednesday, about twenty visiting branches being represented. At eleven o'clock the president Mrs. Fenno called for informal reports of the work of these branches.

At 12.30 Mrs. E. B. Marsh with a very able committee served a most delicious luncheon.

The afternoon session was spent at two o'clock by vocal solos very beautifully rendered by Mrs. James Perkins of Quincy and a piano solo by Miss Fallon, after which the president introduced Rev. Mr. Spurr of the old North church of Hingham who spoke upon "The Worlds' Religion." The meeting adjourned at four o'clock.

Abner Packard Camp, Sons of Veterans which was observed in G. A. R. hall on Friday night Past Commander Harry E. D. Gould was given a past commander's sword the presentation being made by Charles H. Strattard.

SUNDAY A SUMMER DAY

Sunday was the first real summer day of the season, and again emphasized the fact that New England can hand out a great variety of weather in a very short space of time. It was but a few hours previous to Sunday that the weather was cold and dreary and the ground was covered with a white mantle of snow. Sunday however dawned pleasant and the early hours gave promise of a very warm day, which was verified. It continued to grow warm all the morning and at noon a maximum temperature of 82 degrees was reached. Top coats were quickly discarded and while straw hats did not make their appearance, thin summer suits were the rule.

The pleasant weather brought out large congregations at all of the churches in the morning while in the afternoon the streets were thronged with people. Those fortunate enough to be the owners of automobiles improved the opportunity for a ride though the summer colony, and the beaches were thronged with people and automobiles. Many doubtless went to the beaches to look over their summer homes and to begin to get them in readiness for occupancy in the near future.

Early in the day the street railway company began to pull off its closed cars and during the middle of the day and all the afternoon open cars were the rule, and it was noticed that they carried large crowds. In other words the street railway did a regular summer business. Late in the afternoon a slight breeze sprang up which caused the dust to be blown about the streets in blinding clouds. However it was a rare day and everybody took advantage of it.

NEW PASTOR AT WEST QUINCY

At the close of the New England conference of Methodist Episcopal churches at Malden on Monday Bishop Hughes re-appointed Rev. E. C. Pollard to the Atlantic Methodist church and Rev. P. S. Medlon will be the new pastor of the West Quincy Methodist church. One of the important actions taken by the conference was the fixing of a minimum salary of $850 and a parsonage in small towns and a salary of $1,000 with parsonage in large towns and cities.

Miss Annie E. Gray of Surry, Maine who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. E. G. Gaspar of Ocean street, Atlantic returned Saturday accompanied by her little niece, Miss Marion Gaspar.

It is surprising to see how much more wicked dancing seems after people have become the victims of rheumatism.

The men are promoting the clean-up movement by keeping out of the way while their wives conduct house-cleaning.

Many people were so extravagant this year as to buy Easter cards instead of sending along those received in 1913.

The governors are going to hold their coming annual conference at Madison, Wis., in spite of the fact that the town has no league ball team.

The fighting Mexicans have stopped shelling the oil properties at Tampico, believing it a pity to spoil the material that will make a fine bonfire later.

As new forms of the tango can be manufactured much faster than people can learn them there is no good reason why any dancing teacher need fear getting out of a job.

NOT ALLURING.

According to Mayor Curley, it has cost the taxpayers of Boston $879.94 to publish "Letters and Speeches" of one of his predecessors, and $1162.28 for "The Advance of Boston," consisting mainly of speeches by the same gentleman. And yet there are people in Quincy who really favor the annexation of this city to Boston, unmindful of the fact that we have a Mayor who is so economical with the City's money that he wouldn't stand for having his inaugural address printed at the City's expense for general distribution. No; thank you. Quincy will work out her destiny in her own way and decline any alluring offers to become merged in any other city.

GIVE RAILROAD A CHANCE.

Thomas W. Lawson advises the holders of New Haven stock to dispose of it. His advice might be taken seriously were it not for the fact that he is offering another stock in its place. Attacks on the New Haven road now might well cease and the new management be given a chance to rehabilitate the road, and incidentally restore its stock to the enviable position it once held in the field of investment. This appears to be the sentiment in Quincy at least, where people are more interested in building up than in tearing down.

TREE PLANTING.

Years ago it used to be quite customary for young men to celebrate public holidays and other festivals by planting trees about the public streets and parks or "commons." The present generation enjoys the shade. The women brewed lemonade and root beer or more emphatic concoctions for these occasions, which were made socially pleasant.

Nowadays it is considered the business of park commissioners and highway superintendents to provide such shade trees as are needed. But the appropriation for tree planting is usually meager. City councils and township governments like to spend money where a better showing can be made for their own term of office. The tree lover must wait for a number of years before seeing even a partial fruitage of his effort. That is too distant to help elect officials when their term next expires.

There is too much tendency in community life to give up voluntary effort, and load public improvements on city officials, who are harrassed on every side by the demand for costly improvements. Recognizing this condition, many states have appointed an Arbor day. Governors issue ponderous proclamations. They call on the citizens to suspend their daily tasks and sally forth with spade and watering pot. One suspects that but few places pay much attention.

In some places the schools are organizing the children in tree planting movements. A boy who is old enough to play on a ball team is old enough to plant at least one tree every year. Instead of taking the youngsters out on more or less aimless "nature walks," why not localize and concentrate their interest in the practical task of setting out a tree? A few lessons should make any boy of ten competent to plant a tree and watch over it through the first critical months.

MEMORIAL SERVICES HELD

Memorial services for the thirteen of its members who have passed away during the past year were held by Quincy lodge of Moose Sunday afternoon at Electa hall. So frequent have been the death of members during the past eight months that there has not been a day when the charter of the lodge was not draped in mourning.

The exercises Sunday were in charge of Vice Dictator William Norrie. The oration was delivered by Edward J. Fegan whose subject was "It is a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the living and the dead.

He said in part:

"In these words of Holy Scripture we have our warrant and justification for the exercises held this day in memory of our dearly beloved departed brothers.

"It is indeed a holy and a wholesome thought to pray for the dead, and our world embracing order dedicated this Sunday throughout the length and breadth of the country to the prayerful remembrance of our brothers who are not lost to us but have gone hence and joined the army of the elect, there to prepare a welcome and a place for us who in God's own time must be reunited with them.

"And no more precious time could be selected for these memorial rites than the beautiful octave of Easter, the anniversary of Christ resurrected from the dead, the covenant of our immortality and the eternal pledge of a reunited brotherhood in heaven.

"Today our services are of joy, of song and music and of uplifting, for we can only think of our absent brothers as having attained the goal for which they strove so valiantly while here among us, and we can only picture them in the enjoyment of never ending happiness prepared for us all if we will but merit it.

"And so today we wreath a chaplet of red carnations, we raise a paean of joy and pronounce words of eulogy and remembrance. For today we commemorate, not mourn our dead."

Mr. Fegan then spoke of the spirit of the commemoration of the dead, its origin and religious significance and said "while our order pays tribute and honor to the memory of its brothers it would not have us forgetful of the living.

"The great heart of Moosedom beats as warmly for the members who live and move and have their being in the present. It teaches us to speak the cheering word, to give a warming hand clasp while yet the brothers dwell among us as well as to scatter the roses on his grave or to heap enconiums on his name.

"Moosedom takes for its motto—Purity, aid, progress. Purity it bespeaks in the daily life and conduct of its members, purity in morals, honesty and integrity in all business dealings and purity and civic righteousness in their capacity as citizens.

"A true Moose is a loyal crusader in the cause of honor and probity."

There was also a vocal duet by Miss Marion Litchman and Albert Halter, and vocal solos by Miss Laura Wilding, Miss Irene Howes and Miss Ellen Cummings. Recitations were given by Miss Louise Moyle. The accompanists were Miss Ella Acorn and Mrs. C. H. Greene. There were also selections by a quartet.

JOHN MATTSON.

John Mattson, who came to this city from Sweden about 45 years ago, and who has made his home in Milford, Mass., during the past 20 years, died there Sunday in his 70th year. His funeral was held there today and attended by many of his Quincy friends. Mr. Mattson was a stone cutter by trade, but after leaving here took up farming in Milford. He leaves one daughter, Miss Ida Mattson and two sons, Charles and John Mattson.

MAYOR MILLER IS OPPOSED

Will Revoke Hall Licenses Which Permit Boxing

Mayor John A. Miller has declared that he is unalterably opposed to boxing and that he will, in so far as the law will permit, do all that he can to discourage a continuation of exhibitions in Quincy. When seen this morning he said he would issue official instructions to Frank E. Burrell, chief of police, within a few days.

Mayor Miller said that he was prompted to take the step in view of the many complaints made by prominent men in the community that the sport was being too freely indulged in.

But little encouragement is offered those who favor boxing, because Mayor Miller's sympathies are on entirely with the opposition. No one interested in a continuation of the sport has interviewed him as yet but it is understood that several will call on him within a few days to hear his objections.

The organization most affected will be the Quincy A. A. which recently held two amateur tournaments under the direction of the New England Amateur Athletic Association with which they are affiliated. The club has been named as the one under whose auspices the national championships will be held next year, but the attitude of the executive may require them to postpone the acceptance.

Mayor Miller has chosen the easiest way to prohibit boxing and will revoke the licenses of public halls which are rented for boxing exhibitions.

COMFORT STATION.

Edward Powers, a candidate for Mayor, next fall, is out with a scheme to provide a comfort station in City Square. He will have the station located on the green on the northerly side of City Hall. The station would be below ground, one side being for ladies and the other for men. Over the station he would have a tile house.

MRS. CRAIN TO WHISTLE.

A true whistler, one who can imitate the piping of the birds, their trills and warbles, is rarely heard. Quincy has such a one in Mrs. John J. Crain, who is to contribute the most unique feature of the Wellesley program.

Some years ago, the New York Herald published the following account of Mrs. Crain's success abroad:—"Miss Truax has just returned from Europe where she appeared at entertainments at which royalty was present. Miss Truax was heard by Her Royal Highness, Princess Louise, Duchess of Argyll, at Kensington Palace, the Countess of Warwick, at Brook House and the Countess of Ilchester, at Holland House."

Of this same European visit the Paris Herald wrote—"Miss Truax has made a furore in London by her wonderful gift. King Edward VII expressed himself astonished and charmed at her talent."

Mrs. Crain is a finished musician. She has appeared at music festivals in company with Mme. Schumann-Heink Campanari and other stars. Her notes are sweet and clear as those of a rare musical instrument and her bird notes are marvelous. She is undoubtedly the finest whistler the world has known.

This opportunity to hear so rare an artist is one not to be missed especially, as, on account of Mr. Crain's resignation from the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation, they are soon to leave Quincy.

REILLY—DeYOUNG.

Miss Mary Ellen DeYoung, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis DeYoung of 42 Jersey avenue and John Boyle Reilly, son of Mr. and Mrs. William T. Reilly of 113 Central avenue, Braintree, were united in marriage Sunday afternoon at the parochial residence. The ceremony was performed at 6.30 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Andrew J. Fitzgerald.

The groom was attended by his brother, Francis Reilly and the maid of honor, was the bride's sister, Miss Annie DeYoung. There was a reception at the home of the bride from 7 until 9.30 o'clock, the young people being assisted in receiving by their parents. The rooms were decorated with Easter lilies and pinks.

Mr. and Mrs. Reilly are popular young people of this town and they received a large number of handsome presents. After a short wedding trip they will be at home to their friends after May the fifteenth at 42 Jersey avenue.

WEDDED AT SHORE DEN

Miss Jessie Barber Bride of Dr. F. E. Dawes

Dr. Franklin E. Dawes, a well known dentist, having offices at Boston and Hingham, and one of the best known yachtsmen along the South Shore, was united in marriage Saturday evening to Miss Jessie Barber, head of the economics department of the Brockton High school. The marriage took place at "Shore Den" the home of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Chase, 715 Quincy Shore reservation, who have just returned from the Orient. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Luther W. Atwood of the Universalist church, South Weymouth, and was witnessed by the immediate family friends only.

The couple were unattended, but Misses Helen and Hattie Hayward were flower girls, the ceremony being followed by a musicale.

During the evening the couple were serenaded by a number of members of the Wollaston Yacht club of which the genial doctor is an ex-commodore.

Dr. and Mrs. Dawes will pass their honeymoon at Shore Den and will make their home in Wollaston.

Mrs. Dawes is a graduate of Wittenberg college, Springfield, Onio, and Bridgewater Normal school and has a degree from the University of Columbia. She was formerly associated with the Newton Technical High school, and in addition to her courses at the Brockton High school has been a lecturer at Abbott Academy at Andover.

Dr. Dawes is not only well known as a yachtsman but as a vocalist of note. He is the owner of the yachts Thordis and Wanderer IV, both of which have won many trophies. Aside from being an ex-commodore of the Wollaston Yacht club, he is a member of the Quincy Yacht club, secretary of the Interbay Y. R. A. and the Cape Cat association, the Wampatuck club of Hingham and the Neighborhood club of Wollaston. He is also a member of the Handel and Haydn society. He is a graduate of the Harvard dental school.

Dr. Dawes who is also quite a vocalist is a prominent member of the Quincy Choral society. Mrs. Dawes will be a welcome addition to the literary and social life of Wollaston and Quincy.

Among Our Churches

FIRST UNIVERSALIST.

At Universalist church Rev. Merrill C. Ward spoke on the themes suggested for the day—Patriots Day, Immigration Sunday, and Lord's Day Sunday. He chose the latter theme to conclude the series of Helps to the Christian life with "The right use of Sunday."

A well spent Sunday is vital to the best things in civilization, First to work. Work is not the primeval curse but the means of man's elevation. Work depends upon rest, for clear heads and healthy bodies. Restful Sundays will add about one-third to the length of life. Our best people work too hard, and get too tired. A Sunday rest day is priceless.

Second to health. Christianity was the first to make people value life and care for it. It ministers to health in many ways. Each one should ask, "How do I spend Sunday, am I spending it to get the most help out of it." Worship makes for healthy life.

Third to Law. The administration of law is very human and imperfect. But it is of priceless value to help man do good and keep him from doing wrong. The Sabbath rested man is not inclined to crime but to respect the law.

Fourth to Education. The man who will spend part of every Sunday in study of such books as Ex. Pres. Eliot's "five foot bookshelf" will be a wise and well educated man.

Fifth to the home. Sunday is the father's oportunity with his children. The mother who waits on everyone all the week should be the one waited upon. Elaborate Sunday dinners or much work in entertaining comes not into a well spent Sunday. The family altar and the family at Church will do lasting good.

Sixth to Worship. Sunday should be most of all a day of worship. Sunday should not be holiday but holyday. Not a mere day of recreation but of re-creation. Worship as a faculty needs cultivation. We all need to cultivate the sense of our divine relationships.

BETHANY CHURCH.

The Easter music was repeated on Sunday at Bethany church, and delighted large congregations. But Rev. B. A. Willmott, the pastor, always has something new, and preached earnest messages at both services. The morning message was "Conflict and conquest," and that in the evening "The man who is never right."

The Christian Endeavor society of this church was largely represented on the holiday at the Norfolk County annual convention at Rockland.

The subject for the mid-week meeting is "Springs by the way," and the church committee will meet at 8.45 P. M.

The Bethany Women's Union will hold its annual meeting Wednesday, May 6, and invites the public to a noon lunch.

FIRST PARISH CHURCH.

The service at the First Parish on Sunday was of a patriotic nature. The minister emphasized the loyalty the self sacrificing courage and the sense of responsibility which dominated Captain Parker and his men in the stand they took on Lexington Green 139 years ago, and urged that the same noble spirit must be fostered and maintained today if our nation is to endure. He dwelt especially on the necessity of assuming responsibility for the education, protection and proper guidance of the alien people who are coming to America in such vast numbers. They must be assimilated or they will prove a growing menace.

At the close of the morning service a meeting of the congregation was held and it was unanimously decided to adopt the new hymn and service book published by the American Unitarian Association.

In the afternoon the annual business meeting of the Young People's Religious Union was held, and the following officers were elected for the coming year:

President—Miss Marie Bass.
Vice President—Miss Ella Packard.
Secretary—Frederick M. Atwood.
Treasurer—Richard C. Allen.
Executive Committee:—The above officers and Mrs. A. Isabella Davis, Miss Alice Arnold, Miss Minnie Packard.

Wm. C. Edwards chairman of committees: Entertainment, Miss Minnie Packard; Music, Miss Catherine Saville; Refreshment, Miss Dorothy Edwards. Director of Boston Federation, Mr. Wm. C. Edwards.

Next Sunday afternoon Mr. Wm. E. Weston will give an organ recital.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

Before a large audience Rev. Joseph Walther presented the opposite view of his previous Sunday sermon, the subject being "The future destiny of unbelievers." He feels and quotes Scripture as his authority, that as surely as there is an existence of happiness with God for the believer when he leaves this world, just so surely there is a destiny of pain and misery for the unbeliever after the judgment. The choir repeated the Easter music by request, at both the morning and evening services.

The usual C. E. services were held at 3.30 and 6, respectively. A good attendance made both successful.

The evening was devoted to a stereopticon lecture on China.

Monday evening a cottage prayer meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Forsyth, 25 Rawson road, Norfolk Downs.

Thursday evening at 7.45, the regular meeting for praise, prayer and testimony, will be held in the chapel.

Friday evening at 7.45, a praise and preaching service wil be held in Community hall, Montclair.

Friday evening at 7.45, a business meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society, followed by a "German Social," will be held in the chapel. All young people cordially invited.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL.

The morning service at the Wollaston Congregational church was conducted by Rev. Edward A Robinson of Chelmsford, a former pastor of the church. Mr. Robinson received a cordial welcome from those who remembered him as their pastor.

The text was taken from Genesis 3:24. The first Eden was only a type of others which are equally temporary. Each of us has an Eden of innocence, of irresponsibility, of physical thrill, and of contentment with things as they are. We lose our Edens. But life is not simply a succession of losses. Virtue is better than innocence, "something attempted, something done," than irresponsibility; and the loss of the Eden of contentment is God's way of bringing us to a Paradise. God is not willing that we return to the past Eden, for there is a more glorious one beyond.

At 4 the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting was held, leader Mary Waterman.

At 6 the Senior Christian Endeavor meeting was led by Alfred Clough. Topic: "Consecration of time."

Dr. and Mrs. Sneath are visiting their son at Chapel Hill, North Carolina. On Sunday Dr. Sneath preached the Commencement Address at the University of North Carolina.

Wednesday an all-day meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society will be held in the vestry.

Thursday the regular midweek service will be in charge of S. F. Besse.

Friday afternoon the Ladies' Benevolent Society will hold the next Silver Tea at the home of Mrs. Theodore T. Penley, 114 South Central avenue.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN.

The Rev. Daniel Roy Freeman, minister of All Souls' church, Braintree, preached in exchange with the pastor Sunday. His sermon was much appreciated.

Leon D. Browne conducted the Young People's Religious Union meeting Sunday evening.

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Aid Alliance will be held in the vestry Wednesday at 2.30 o'clock. The Rev. Harold G. Arnold of West Roxbury will speak on "The flowering of Christianity." This is the last meeting of the season.

The Ladies' Aid Alliance will hold a "Food sale" in the vestry on Saturday, April 25, from 2 to 5 o'clock, with Mrs. Charles S. Adams as chairman.

The public is cordially invited to attend the session of the Boston Federation of Young People's Religious Unions in the First Church, Eliot Square, Roxbury, Sunday, April 26, at 7 P. M., when Dr. Charles W. Eliot president emeritus of Harvard will speak on "universal religion."

Wollaston will greatly miss Mr. and Mrs. Arthur W. Rohn from the church. They moved to their new home in Needham last Saturday.

"There comes an hour, when all that any man is worth is the good he has done and the character he has won."

Rev. Charles F. Potter, recently of the Baptist church in Mattapan, has gone to Edmonton, Alberta, to take charge of the Unitarian church, recently organized by Field Secretary Frank W. Pratt, a former pastor of the Wollaston Unitarian church.

The members of our church are invited to attend the spring meeting of the Universalist Old Colony Conference in the Quincy Universalist church, Friday, April 24, at 10.30 A. M. Speakers: Rev. Chas. F. Dole on "The Religion behind all Religions" and Rev. Nelson Lobdell a missionary in Japan.

PARK AND DOWNS.

At the morning service Sunday, Rev. William B. Ayers took for his text, second chapter of Titus, 14th verse. He gave his hearers an informal and a very interesting talk on "The Gift of Self."

"The death of Christ differs from all other deaths in value by the difference in the value of the lives. The sacrifice of a worthless life means little. Christianity has its supreme expression not in death but in life. It puts the value upon the living. It is not a hard thing to die—but it is a difficult thing to live. Christ came to give value to life and to teach us how to live. He does not ask our death but our life."

At the evening service it was noticeable that the seating capacity was fully tested, thereby proving the popularity of these Sunday evening discourses. The text was Isaiah 46-5: "To whom will ye liken me and make me equal and compare me that we may be like." The speaker said—"Since life began men have sought to have equality. It is constituted. The struggles of states and peoples. The wars of history have aimed to enforce this principle. Men have sought land that they may have the opportunities of equality. Governments have been organized on the principle that men shall be equal. Men have never been equal and now and then rebel and cut off their crowned heads and reduce those who are high. Through revolution and social changes, men have sought to reduce the race to a level. The error of this method is that it works from the top by reduction. Christ's purpose was to get underneath the mass of life and lift it up. He works by exaltation and not reduction. He gives value to the lowly life, courage and hope to the despairing."

UNCHRISTIAN AND UNWISE

Milton Church Sends Protest Against War

Senator Lodge in voicing the protests of Massachusetts people against war during a discussion of the resolution adopted by the national house read a telegram from the members of the East Congregational church of East Milton as follows:

"We protest against war with Mexico because of the Tampico incident. The United States should insist upon civilized adjustment of questions of national honor as it has insisted for many years on such adjustment on questions of individual honor. The imminent war is unchristian and unwise.

NO EVIDENCE AGAINST MEN

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of $350 from the house of Edward Trufant at Braintree April 16, still remains a mystery, as no Sherlock Holmes has as yet been able to unravel it. Three men who were engaged in moving the family effects to the railroad depot, and who were arrested at the time, had their cases heard in court this morning but the court found no evidence against them and all three were discharged.

It will be rememberd that the Trufant family were about to remove to New Hampshire and that the day previous had drawn savings from the bank, some $350 in money which had been placed beneath the mattresses for safe keeping. On the morning in question Mrs. Trufant saw the mattresses going down stairs and rushing up stairs found the empty pocketbook on a table and the money missing. The three men were arrested and as noted above they were found not guilty in court and discharged.

WOULD STOP PENNY PAPERS.

The Seattle Sun, a conservative afternoon paper, editorially calls for enactment by congress of a law to compel newspaper publishers to sell their papers at not less than two cents a copy. In a leading editorial entitled "A Senseless Warfare" the Sun says in part:

"The greatest danger that threatens the country today is the rapid spread of the one cent a copy idea among American publishers. By selling papers at one cent a copy publishers are in most cases actually disposing of their produce at a cost less than the cost of the white paper consumed in printing."

The Sun then says that, having failed to make a profit on a one cent paper, publishers make concessions to advertisers to get contracts to make up the loss on actual production and that this is bringing about a situation where "business must control the newspapers." The Sun continues:

"Some persons may say that congress has no such power, but that argument scarcely holds good, in view of its recent proceedings under the newspaper publicity act."

ELM AVENUE TRACKS.

The street railway company began active work this morning in laying its new track in Elm avenue. Under an order passed last year the street railway was granted a double track location in the centre of Elm avenue, the understanding being that one track should be built immediately. The new tracks are to be located in a reserved space, and the street on either side of this space is to be rebuilt. It will be a fine job when completed. The new street railway location is between Hancock street and Huntington Square.

TWO GAMES AT ATLANTIC

The St. Augustines of South Boston, champions of the Boston church league, beat the Atlantics, claimants of the 16 year old championship of the state, 5 to 3 on the morning of the holiday at Atlantic. The last year Quincy High school infield, Donnelly, Creedon, Larkin and Bates were in the game with their old pep. The outfield was covered with Cox, McCarthy, Cullen and Johnson. They exhibited clever team work but were unable to outgeneral the visitors.

In the afternoon, the Atlantics played the Walnuts, last year champions of Ward Six and won 11 to 3. As Whelan came to the bat he was presented with a fine bouquet by the citizens of Montclair. Joe Chaisson starred for the Walnuts and Morally pitched airtight ball. O'Connell, his catcher, had but one base stolen on him.

The feature of the game was the home run of Morally in the first inning which scored two runs. Larkin, Bates, Creedon and O'Donnell played an excellent game for Atlantic infield and Allen, Johnson, Whalen and Cox in the outfield.

The Walnuts played Morton, Pitts, Duggan, Price, Chaisson, Spinney, Joe Chaisson, Murphy and Nelson.

SPORT NEWS

"Dick" Blackmur of Elm street, is playing third with Thayer academy.

Callahan, who will probably pitch for Weymouth High against Quincy on May 19 is working fine and got 14 strikeouts in the South Boston game.

"Bootus" and "Pete" Chapman were at Williston academy today when the final term opened and both are ready for base ball. The former is a candidate for catcher and "Pete" should be the box artist. Last year he did good work. George Findlay of Greenleaf street was also on hand but has not decided to come out for the team.

Dominick St. Paul of the Quincy Y. M. C. A., finished fourth in the 10 mile run of the Reddish Club of Jamaica Plain on Monday, and was awarded a cup. Allen Connor, a brother member, finished thirteenth. It was Connor's first attempt at long distance running and until the ninth mile he was bunched with the leaders. Inexperience prevented him from finishing in the first squad. Both men were in good condition after the race.

REDMEN WIN FROM ORIENTS

Rain interfered with the opening amateur game between the Redmen and the Orients on the Ward Three playground on the holiday, the latter taking the contest 8 to 5, the score at the end of the sixth inning. The large attendance scampered from the field but many were drenched before they reached shelter.

C. Carlson and "Bode" Bradley were the opposing pitchers, and the former was touched for nine and the latter for eight hits. Both allowed two passes, and Carlson fanned four against six for Bradley.

The feature was a double play in which Carlson who ran in to handle a short throw reached instead a pop bunt. He shot the ball to first and caught the runner off. The play spoiled what looked like a rally for the Orients. The best batting was by Summers who got three hits and made two runs.

The Redmen team was R. Kenn, cf; J. Kemp, 2b; T. Carlson, 3b; H Johnson, ss; McIntire, lb; Summers, rf; Spargo, lf; Moorehouse, c; C. Carlson, p.

The Orient lineup was; J. Markham, 3b; D. Bradley, p; E. Ciardi, ss; Brown, cf; McDonnell, c; Patriarca, rf; Cremins, lf; J. Anderson, lb; Mitchell, 2b. The score:

Redmen	0 0 3 2 3 0—8
Orients	3 1 0 1 0 0—5

The Redmen made 9 hits and one error, while the Orients had 8 hits and 5 errors.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BASKET BALL

In the final game of the Sunday School basketball league, United Presbyterian defeated Bethany K. O. K. A. by a score of 32 to 13. Robertson was largely responsible for the victory contributing 16 points with goals from the floor. Granberg and Prout did good work for the losers. McNeil had a good eye for the basket on free tries.

In the second class, Bethany K. O. K. A. defeated First Presbyterian in an exciting overtime period game by a score of 12 to 10. After three minutes of overtime play Prout dropped in a pretty basket and brought the championship to the Bethany boys. Sanderson and McDonald did good work for the losers and also Cumming. The winning team will receive a trophy shield with the names of the players engraved upon it, the players Saturday being—Williams, Bonnivler, Jenkins, Prout, Thompson, Brown and Isaacson.

NO TRACE OF STEAMER

Sealer Southern Cross Not Located by the Kyle

St. Johns, April 21.—After a two weeks' unsuccessful search for the missing sealing steamer Southern Cross, the steamer Kyle returned to port.

Flotsam recently sighted, which was at first believed to have been wreckage, was found to be material carried away by the ice from wharves along the coast. It is supposed that the Southern Cross, deeply laden with seals, bunker coal and provisions, foundered with all her crew of 173 men in the blizzard that killed seventy-seven men of the sealer Newfoundland on the floes.

One of the fifty maimed hunters of the Newfoundland who survived the storm died at the hospital.

Every effort is being made to provide for the victims of the disaster, which has left whole settlements without any breadwinners.

Mr. Ross said after the morning session of his class that he felt no ill consequence of his arduous journey.

HOUSE BACKS UP PRESIDENT

Asks Power to Use Armed Force of United States

SENATE HOLDS UP MEASURE

Chief Executive Appears Before Joint Session and Begs Privilege to Use Army and Navy to Bring Huerta to Terms—Blockade of Vera Cruz Will Probably Be First Move—Merchant Ships Ordered to Leave the Port Immediately

Washington, April 21.—President Wilson appeared before a joint session of the house and senate shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon and explained in detail the situation in Mexico and what he expects to do in bringing about a settlement.

The president asked that he be allowed to use the forces of the army and navy as he found it necessary, in order that he might secure from Huerta full recognition of the rights of the United States.

Controverting previous denials by Huerta, the president declared the Dolphin's boat from which United States bluejackets were taken at Tampico did carry the United States flag, both at bow and stern. He asserted a long series of affronts by Huerta and his followers had given the popular impression "that the Huerta authorities had singled out the United States for slights and affronts in retaliation for refusal to recognize the pretensions of Huerta to be regarded as provisional president of Mexico."

The president, in effect, declared Huerta is a usurper, saying Huerta is in power without right and by unjustifiable methods.

War with Mexico was decried by the president. He asserted "no thought of aggression or selfish aggrandizement" was involved. He did not speak of a Mexican blockade or intervention. He declared this country's quarrel with with General Huerta alone—not with the Mexican people.

It was exactly 3 o'clock when the president entered the house chamber. His face was grim and set. A deathlike silence ensued as he stepped to the rostrum. A thousand people massed in the galleries felt the electric tension of the moment.

It was the first time that a president, in person, had ever asked congress to sanction a warlike demonstration against a sister country. For the first time a president stood beneath the stars and stripes draped over the speaker's rostrum and asked what nearly all believed would result in war. Veteran members also recalled that it was just fifteen years ago, almost to the day, that war was declared by congress against Spain.

Immediate respone to the president's request was made by congress. Machinery to give him a free hand in using the army and navy was started in motion.

Every inch of space in the house chamber was occupied when the president entered. Ambassador Jusserand, the dean of the diplomatic corps, and a score of diplomats were present. Mrs. Wilson occupied a front seat in the president's gallery.

The president did not ask for any appropriation of money at this time, nor for authority to call out the national guard.

The resolution justifying the president's action passed the house last night by a vote of 337 to 37 after a spirited debate.

The senate which had adjourned till 9 o'clock received the resolution shortly after it had passed the house. But instead of immediate action being taken, the resolution upon motion of Senator Lodge, was referred to the committee of foreign relations. Thereupon the senate recessed till 12:10 o'clock this morning. Reconvening, the matter immediately went under debate which is still in progress. The house adjourned for the night, so that even if the original resolution is amended by the senate the lower body will not act upon it till later today.

Vera Cruz Harbor Cleared

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 21.—Commander Charles F. Hughes, chief of staff of the United States Atlantic fleet, called on General Maas, commander of the federal troops at Vera Cruz, and on the commander of the port, and instructed them to order all merchant vessels out of the harbor.

Commander Hughes then went on board the Spanish and the British warships anchored off this port, and informed their commanders of his action.

William W. Canada, the American consul here, is making arrangements to have the foreigners in the city taken on board the merchant vessels, should necessity arise.

All American and other foreign women have been asked by Consul Canada to take refuge on vessels now in the harbor, preferably on board the Mexico, of the Ward line, and the Esperanza, which has been chartered by the United States navy.

Loophole Left For Huerta

Washington, April 21.—General Huerta still has one loophole, a ranking member of the senate foreign relations committee pointed out. He can, and will, this senator thinks, appeal to the British, the French and German ambassadors to act as intermediaries and attempt to adjust the breach between this government and Mexico.

Huerta will base his appeal on the grounds that the vast financial interests of those foreign nations will be still further crippled by armed intervention or a blockade of Mexican ports.

Mexicans Await Next Move

Mexico City, April 21.—The Mexican capital awaited with intense interest the next word from Washington in reply to the refusal of Provisional President Huerta to comply with the demand of the United States that the Stars and Stripes should be unconditionally saluted at Tampico.

All the morning papers published a lengthy statement by the Mexican foreign minister, Senor Portillo y Tojas, outlining the reasons for the position Huerta had taken up—namely, that the American flag was not flying on the boat when the bluejackets were arrested on shore at Tampico and that it had, therefore, not been insulted, and that compliance with the demand for an unconditional salute would be humiliating to Mexico.

Comparative Strength of Opponents

The total naval force already ordered to Mexico numbers 17,950 sailors, 3970 marines and 855 officers.

These include 14 battleships, 13 cruisers, 19 destroyers, 8 hydroaeroplanes, a hospital ship and several gunboats.

At Vera Cruz there are now two battleships with 1820 men, 120 marines and the cruiser Prairie with 260 men and 500 marines.

At Tampico there will be massed 11 battleships, 6 cruisers and 14 destroyers.

On the Pacific coast are three battleships and six cruisers. The torpedo flotilla, consisting of five destroyers, is at San Diego, awaiting orders.

This gives the United States a naval force of 14,170 sailors, 2990 marines and 709 officers, a total of 17,860 on the gulf and 3530 sailors, 980 marines and 140 officers, a total of 4650 on the Pacific. With the 250 men and 15 officers of the torpedo fleet at San Diego, it makes the grand total as above.

The authorized peace strength of the United States army is 95,692 men, and the total strength of the national guard, which the president can call out, is 119,000 officers and men. In the reserve or unorganized militia, the plain citizens who may be called out for service of two years, there are estimated to be 15,000,000.

The fighting strength of the Mexican navy is small, as their navy consists of about half a dozen gunboats, including the Tampico, Vera Cruz, Zaragoza, Bravo and Morales. There are also two armed transports and five torpedo boats.

In the Mexican federal army the figures given out by Huerta are 84,000 men, but unless the rebels come to his aid, it is extremely doubtful if he could muster 50,000 men. Of these about 6200 are officers, besides 107 generals. This does not take account of losses in recent operations in northern Mexico.

The Mexican federal infantry is armed with the Mauser carbine. The reserves have only the Remington rifle of the 1893 pattern.

THE HOODOO A SCREAM

Drama and Dance of the Loyal Ladies

The Loyal Ladies of Clan MacGregor celebrated their 22d anniversary on the evening of the holiday at Quincy Music hall by presenting a three act comedy "The Hodoo."

"The Hoodoo" was an Egyptian scarab which brought bad luck to its possessor unless it had been buried for twenty-four hours. The original possessor Prof. Solomon Spiggot presented it to Mr. Brighton Early as a wedding gift. It brings disaster to Mr. Early and he destroys it, as he thinks. It is found by Aunt Paradise, the colored cook lady, who in turn gives it to Billy Jackson. It is stolen from Mr. Jackson by Dun, the burglar and ultimately finds its way back to the original owner, Professor Spiggot. It brings bad luck and disaster to its various owners.

Everett Clark as "Brighton Early" was fine. He sang "I heard you calling me" with splendid effect and was encored repeatedly.

Thomas A. McLay as "Billy Jackson" was the male flirt to perfection and carried himself well in many trying situations.

Charles E. Bishop was great as "Professor Solomon Spiggot." His make-up was excellent.

William H. Walker played "Mr. Malachi Meek," a lively old gentleman of sixty-nine, and this fine character part was surely in capable hands.

J. Ernest Collins, was "Dun, the burglar," and as usual played a strong part.

Mrs. Florence L. Robbie, as "Miss Amy Lee" was a charming bride.

"Mrs. Perrington-Shine" was well taken care of by Mrs. Mary A. Smith, who played the part with rare good judgement. Miss Mary S. Summers as "Gwendolyn Perrington-Shine" was very good, only doing "what mamma says," and doing that well.

Miss Annie E. Rose as "Dodo De Graft" was a revelation. Miss Rose was equally good in the strong and lighter parts of the character she was presenting.

Miss Margaret E. McIntosh was the fascinating widow, "Mrs. Ima Clinger" and her "angel child, Angelina" played by Miss M. Dorothy Giles was a fine character part.

Miss Ethel M. Schools was the maid of honor, Miss Doris Ruffles," and played the part with a daintiness that was very convincing.

Mrs. Jennie Steinbrenner as "Mrs. Demaramis Spiggot" the mother of seven" had a strenuous part and played it well.

Mrs. Jennie M. Campbell was "Miss Longnecker, the school teacher," and played the school ma'am to perfection.

"Lulu, the flirtatious housemaid" was well taken care of by Mrs. Elizabeth E. Russell.

"Aunt Paradise, The Colored cook lady" was played by Miss Georgie Michael. Miss Michael was exceedingly funny and took advantage of all her opportunities.

C. George MacDonald as "Hemachus Spiggot" had a strong comedy part and did ample justice to it.

Mrs. Catherine Gordon was "Eupepsia Spiggot." The four little Spiggots were Elsie Smart, James Dawson, Stanley Summers and Fred Steinbrenner.

The play was under the direction of Erastus Osgood and it was an excellent production. There was not a weak character in it. The action was fast, the situations were exceedingly humorous and the comedy clean.

As the curtain dropped on the last act, Everett Clark in the name of the cast, presented Mr. Osgood with a large bouquet.

After the play the hall was cleared for dancing. The march was led by Miss Annie E. Rose and Everett Clark, Miss Florence L. Robbie and James Robbie. Dancing was enjoyed until 2.30 A. M.

The entertainment and dance were enjoyed by all present and Mrs. Margaret Ross, president, and her committees deserve great credit for the excellency of both.

BAPTISM AT THE BEACH

Mrs. O. W. Gates, who has just returned from Palm Beach, Florida and is spending a few weeks with her daughter, Mrs. C. W. Morse, took an unexpected bath Sunday afternoon at Wollaston beach in sight of the many strollers who were taking advantage of the beautiful day along the boulevard. Mrs. Gates with a party of friends had been out for a sail in a motor launch and everything went smoothly until the return and landing was about to be made, when in transporting Mrs. Gates from the launch to the shore she stepped hurriedly into a tender that was being used for the purpose. The stern where she was seated began to sink. O. E. Sandell who was managing the boat was instantly poised in mid air with the rising bow which was in direct contrast to the swamped stern where Mrs. Gates was completely submerged in water. A small boy, with a keen sense of humor began to whistle the now popular ditty—"Get out, get out, get out, you're rocking the boat," and to the great amusement of the visitors at the Wollaston Yacht club and other breathless spectators. Mrs. Gates and Mr. Sandell deserted their craft and walked ashore. The whole rapid spectacular ablution took upon itself the nature of a Sunday baptism, but ended, in a merry laugh by all parties concerned.

PRESENTATION.

Frank M. Farren, one of the popular foremen connected with the shoe business has severed his connection with the Williams & Kneeland Shoe Co. at South Braintree, to accept a position as superintendent of the Charles A. Eaton Shoe Co. of Brockton. Saturday being his last day with the Williams & Kneeland Co., Mr. Kneeland, the head of the firm, stopped the power, called the employees to Mr. Farren's room and in their behalf presented him with a beautiful diamond ring. They all wished him the best of luck and felt badly to have him go as he was well liked. Mr. Farren resides at 37 Church street, Weymouth Heights.

WEDDING NOT DELAYED

Astor Nuptials Will Be Held April 30, the Original Date

New York, April 21.—The wedding of Vincent Astor and Helen D. Huntington will, in all probability, take place on April 30, the date originally given out by Mrs. Robert P. Huntington at her residence in Staatsburg.

"Of course," said Mrs. Huntington, "our plans will have to be modified, and the wedding will be much simpler than originally intended. Instead of being a church wedding, it will be held very quietly at our home."

It was added that Astor is much better than he has been since his illness.

Buffalo Prisoner on Hunger Strike Will Go to Hospital

Buffalo, April 21.—Sam Miller's hunger strike is ended. The sheriff and district attorney are preparing to have Miller, who is accused of many burglaries in the fashionable Elmwood district, removed from the Erie county jail to a hospital.

A mixture of beef tea and raw eggs was forced through the prisoner's nostrils.

By his removal to a hospital, where he can be guarded continuously against his suicidal mania, the authorities hope to rehabiliate Miller to a condition which will enable him to stand trial. Alieniss decided that he is not insane, but cannot explain his condition.

Socialist Editor Wins Appeal

Trenton, N. J., April 21.—The New Jersey supreme court reversed the conviction of Alexander Scott, a Socialist editor of Paterson, for encouraging hostility and opposition to the government during the silk strike there some time ago. Scott was sent to state prison for from one to fifteen years.

YOU need the Ledger EVERY DAY.

Can't Afford It?

Let's figure it out and see

How much would you charge to go to the grocer's or the provision dealers?

How much would you give, on a stormy day, to be able to visit a distant friend?

How much would it be worth, in case your child were taken suddenly ill at night, to be able to summon the doctor at once, and, perhaps, by special instructions from him by wire, to be able to give temporary relief pending his arrival or even to save its life?

The expense of a telephone is not figured by what it costs for a whole year, but by how much it saves each time it is used. Therefore, with all these things in mind, ask yourself

Can I Afford to be Without a Telephone?

Quincy Built Battleships Arrive With American Fleet in Mexican Waters

Ready For Action If Called Into Service

It was a Quincy boy, Francis Souther, who was killed in the first battle of the Civil War, and a Quincy boy was among the injured in the first skirmish with the Mexicans on Tuesday when marines from the battleships under command of Rear Admiral Fletcher seized the custom house at Vera Cruz. See telegraphic news for detailed report.

The Quincy boy wounded in this engagement was Edward B. Gisburn, an electrician on board the Florida. Young Gisburn was well known in Quincy. He resided with his grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Allen, at 54 Summer street and for a time was a reporter of the Daily Ledger. While on the Ledger staff he frequently expressed a desire to enlist in the navy and often stated that he intended to do so sometime.

One morning he did not report for work, and although an attempt was made to locate him at his home, nothing could be learned of his whereabouts. It was several days later that information was received that he had fulfilled his long desire and that he had enlisted in the navy as a signal boy. That was about three and a half years ago and but little has been heard from him since that time by his former co-workers in the Ledger office.

Young Gisburn was born in Providence, R. I., and shortly after the death of his parents he came to Quincy to live with his grandmother, thereafter making his home in this city and obtaining his education in the public schools.

Gisburn was a young man with a pleasant address and made many friends. He was doing good work in the newspaper line but the call to enlist was too strong to be put aside.

The American fleet from Hampton Roads, including the battleships Vermont and Rhode Island built at Quincy, arrived in Mexican waters last night ready for action.

AN INTERVIEW

The Post prints the following Washington dispatch:

"Good for him." These three words were uttered in a trembling voice by John R. Gisburn, the oldest employee in point of service in the Navy Department when notified that his grandson Edward A. had been seriously wounded at Vera Cruz.

Mr. Gisburn is 77 years of age and is a veteran of the Civil war.

He still carries a bullet in his back from the engagement at Appotomax.

His grandson Edward, who lives in Quincy and was enlisted from there, is but 20 years of age.

"Four years ago"" said Mr. Gisburn "my boy Ned, after graduating from the Technical High School of this city expressed a desire to see the world.

"I urged him because of his tender age and because I loved him greatly for his companionship to stay with me and go to college. He was the only comfort in my old age.

"'But Dad," he said to me, "you fought for your country yourself. Maybe if I enlist I will see a fight some time."'

"The boy was high spirited and adventurous and I gave him my blessing and told him that his old grandad would always be waiting for him to come back."

At this point in the interview the old man broke down and cried.

"My God don't tell me that my boy is dead, said he.

When he recovered his self possession Mr. Gisburn explained that his grandson had left Washington for Boston, spending some time in that city and in Quincy.

He became an expert electrician and on elisiting from Quincy was assigned to the Florida.

Mr. Gisburn was at the Navy Department at midnight anxiously inquiring for the condition of his grandson.

When informed that his condition was not so serious but that he might recover the old man exclaimed:

"I pray to God that he may live, but if he dies I thank God that it is in the service of his country."

There was considerable speculation about the city this morning concerning young Gisburn, who was one of those wounded at Vera Cruz on Tuesday. It was known that he was a signal boy and many wondered how he happened to be with the marines and blue jackets. A dispatch from Washington, in another column, explains his presence. He was one of the signal men stationed on the terminal building signaling to the war vessels in the harbor and was picked off by a Mexican sharpshooter. The dispatch also states that he was seriously wounded.

ANNIVERSARY DATES.

The Mexican trouble recalls some anniversary dates to local veterans of the Civil war, 54 years ago this month:

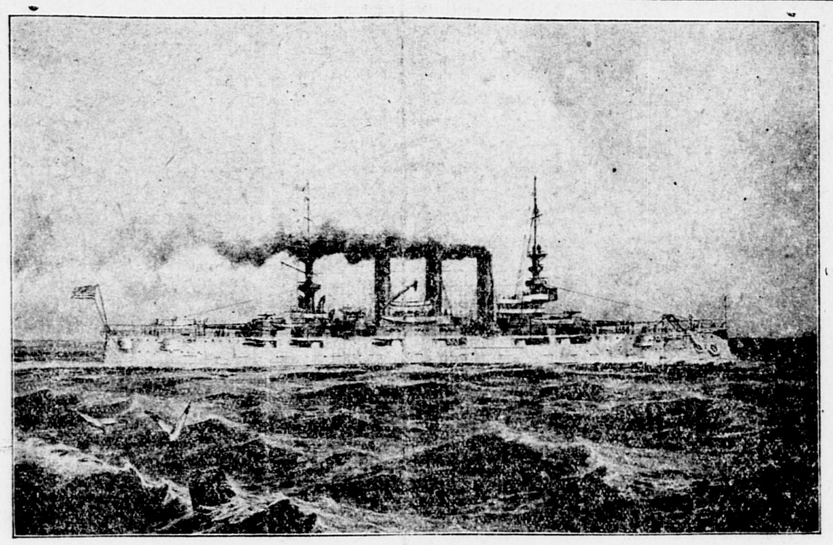

April 15, 1861, Col. Abner B. Packard of Quincy, commander of the Fourth Massachusetts Volunteers, received orders to report in Boston the next day with his command.

April 16, Co. H of Quincy reorganized in Boston and left for Fortress Munroe.

April 20, Co. H. arrived at Fortress Munroe.

April 22, Co. H. mustered into United States service.

June 10, 1861, the Fourth Massachusetts regiment in first engagement at Big Bethel when Francis L. Souther was killed.

SALEM ORDERED TO FRONT.

Philadelphia, Pa., April 22—The scout cruiser Salem has been ordered to proceed from here for Mexican waters with the utmost possible speed. The Salem is a turbine propelled boat and was built at the Fore River shipyards.

GISBURN SERIOUSLY INJURED

Washington, D. C., April 22—Dispatches from the hospital ship Solace contain the news that Edward C. Gisburn of Quincy, one of the first sailors ashore at Vera Cruz on Tuesday afternoon, is seriously injured.

Gisburn was signalling from the top of a high building when he was shot by a Mexican sharpshooter who was stationed on the roof of a nearby house.

ADDITIONAL TROOPS LANDED.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, April 22—The battleships Arkansas, New Hampshire South Carolina, Mississippi, Vermont and New Jersey, (built at Quincy) have arrived, together with the scout Cruiser Chester and the mine depot ship San Francisco.

Admiral Badger landed 3000 additional men this morning. His orders are "Fire only when you are fired upon.

The commander of the German ship carrying arms has announced that he will lay outside the harbor until permission is granted to enter the port.

REPORT UNCONFIRMED.

A report was current this noon that Charge d'affairs Nelson O'Shaughnessey at Mexico City had been assasinated. Up to 2 o'clock however the report had not been confirmed by Washington and it is now believed to have been simply a rumor without foundation.

MENDELSSOHN'S ELIJAH

Presented to Big House by Quincy Choral Society

The Quincy Choral Society sang Mendelssohn's Elijah, for the second time in five years, at its eighth concert, given in Music hall on Tuesday evening and seats were at premium, the only available ones being those which had been sold but not taken. Assisting the chorus of 90 voices, 35 of which were males, were four well known artists.

The soprano Madame Marie Sundelius of Boston, who is rapidly acquiring a reputation throughout New England as a soloist of marked ability, was prominent in recent concerts given by the Wollaston Women's Club and the senior class of the Milton High school. When she arose for her first solo there was much applause.

Bernard Ferguson, the bass, has sung the part of Elijah many times and a few years ago when the composition was dramatized and given in New York he alternated with William Gwiles as the leading man. His voice, of higher range than most basses was pleasing and full of dramatic power.

John E. Daniels, the tenor, although suffering from the effects of a severe attack of laryngitis appeared and gave a graceful interpretation of the parts of Ahab and Obadiah.

Miss Edith Castle, the contralto, is well known to many Quincy people and for several years has been the soloist of the First Universalist church of Boston which was recently destroyed by fire.

The concert was conducted under the direction of George S. Dunham, who has been highly successful since his appointment to that office. The pianist was Miss Florence G. Olney.

The ushers were George E. Adams, Walter E. Burke, Emery L. Crane, Charles H. Hardwick, Charles C. Hearn, Delcevare King, Dr. Cornelius, J. Lynch, Edward E. Miller, John F. Roache, Henry Besten Sheahan, Morton Smith, Frederick G. Thayer, Arthur L. Thomas, L. Brewster Walker and Frederick D. Williams.

The Elijah, because it is a intensely descriptive song poem, offers much opportunity for chorus work, and never before has the society demonstrated its versatility to such unusual lengths. Only for an instant was its attack faltering and that was early in the first part, and its full tonal quality, particularly without orchestral accompaniment was rich and pleasing.

The sopranos outnumbered the altos, but the latter possessed strong voices and could easily be heard in the harmonious responses.

Mme. Sundelius' best solo was the aria which opened the second part. The "O Rest in the Lord," a favorite, by Miss Castle, was sung with tenderness. Mr. Daniels gave a strong interpretation of Obadiah, when he sang the warning to Elijah and Mr. Ferguson demonstrated his dramatic power during his appeal for God to make known his presence.

A more appreciative audience of music lovers never attended a concert in the city and their hearty applause which followed the solos and even the chorus work encouraged those who participated. The attendance was also a record number at choral affairs.

MIDNIGHT MIX-UP

Loss of $2500 at Nicols Granite Works

People who tried to count the fire alarm which commenced sounding at 12.10 this morning thought that the fire alarm circuits had gone on a spree for it was impossible to make head or tail out of the alarm. At the Central station the first round received was 12 then it came in jumbled.

The auto chemical taking the box to have come from Houghs Neck started for the scene. The indicator however showed the first round to have been Box 37 and the chief chased after the auto and turned it back. The circuit from which the alarm came was ascertained and the apparatus started out to follow this circuit until the fire was reached.

The apparatus however had not been long on the way before the sky became brightly illuminated and they had no difficulty in reaching the scene.

The apparatus at Quincy Point took the constant ringing as a general alarm and came to the scene, but was immediately sent back to quarters.

The cause of the mixup in the alarm was that four boxes had been pulled about the same time for the fire. First Box 38 was pulled and then Box 138 and Box 137. While these were striking a wise police officer near the corner of Brooks avenue and Centre street hearing the alarm coming in mixed up thought to straighten out matters by pulling Box 321 and the result was a further mixup in the alarm.

The fire was in the granite sheds of Harry S. Nicol on Centre street. It evidently started in the office from which it communicated to the cutting sheds, and when the apparatus arrived the sheds were on fire from one end to the other.

While they were at the fire a guy of the 10 ton derrick was burnt off and the derrick fell with a crash. Fortunately, however, at the time there were no firemen in the vicinity.

The sheds and office were practically consumed, as the fire had too much of a headway before discovered to save any of the sheds. In the office were a number of valuable drawings of monuments all of which were destroyed. In the sheds in the process of manufacture were a number of blocks of granite, and these were ruined by

It is complained that women read much less than men in the New York public library. Perhaps if the women were not so busy doing things themselves, they would have more time to read about what other people are doing.

In spite of the attention that was diverted by the church services, the Easter parade of fashions was generally considered a success.

THE CROPS AND THE BIRDS.

The spring outlook for crops in the United States is considered quite as good as usual. There is a general report of rather more moisture than common, due partly to heavy snows in many states.

Yet there is one tremendous factor that always arises to block the brighter hopes of a man. That is the tremendous and increasing damage done by insect pests.

Much of this loss is something new, not known to a previous generation. And the reason is that the birds, the natural defenders of the crops, have been killed off.

There is a big demand for birds of all kinds from hotels and restaurants at fancy prices. The flock of birds that would once have saved a grainfield, is now made up for a single supper for some palace of luxury.

The enactment of the migratory bird law will do much to check this senseless waste. But it can be stopped only as public sentiment is powerful in defence of bird life. It must insist that the limit of the law be imposed on all who violate it.

COGENT REASONS.

The editor of the American Press, which goes into nearly every newspaper office in the country, evidently thought the publishers of the Quincy Daily Ledger advanced some good reasons why local merchants should advertise in the local newspapers, for the April 18 issue of the Press reproduces the reasons in full under the heading—"Cogent reasons for advertising." It is pleasing to note that some notice has also been taken by Quincy merchants.

At an expense of several thousand dollars the publishers of the Daily Ledger have established and are maintaining a medium of publicity, and it stands to reason that it covers the field better than any other medium. A newspaper like the Daily Ledger makes it a business to cover the city for news. Any little item about any resident of Quincy is sure to be read by that person and all his neighbors and friends. So with any advertisement, small or large. Some of the wants and other classified "Ads" hidden on one of the inside pages are answered by 10 to 20 or more, and read by thousands. The writer inserted one day a to let "Ad," and the same day two of his neighbors referred to it, and they were not looking for houses either. Store "Ads" are more prominent and have twice as many readers. It is a fact that some Quincy people watch for "Ads" like Foy's market. Live advertising is always attractive.

A few dollars to advertise an entertainment in the Daily Ledger will reach more people than window cards car posters or the same amount expended for flyers. And the people you want to reach, too.

It must require a lot of cheek for some people to go to a job printer or out-of-town for their printing and then ask a newspaper to give them a free puff. Any advance notice of an entertainment is advertising for all publicity is advertising. A dollar expended in newspaper advertising will not only help the newspaper but will increase the net proceeds of an entertainment. Why not let the newspaper help you? Why not help the newspaper?

SENATE NOT YET DECIDED

Lodge Opens Debate on the Mexican Situation

OPPOSES HOUSE RESOLUTION

Says It "Individualizes Huerta," Which Many Senators Object to—Insults on Flag and Uniform of United States Require Strong Measures to Be Taken

Washington, April 22.—No agreement has as yet been reached in the senate for a substitution in the house resolution for words which many opposed for the reason that they "individualized Huerta."

It was immediately after the reconvening that Senator Lodge, ranking Republican member of the foreign relations committee, opened the debate urging a substitution, declaring that in view of the fact that a state of anarchy exists in Mexico it is responsible for that country to discharge its international obligations. He said that the unprovoked insults and indignities inflicted upon the flag and the uniform of the United States by armed forces there required that the strongest measures be taken by this country to compel respect.

Senator Lodge opened the debate in the senate, urging his preamble as a substitute for that of the house resolution.

"In a situation of high seriousness such as now confronts congress, it is well to remember the responsibility of the senate," he began. "The power to declare war rests under the constitution with the congress.

"When the president lays an international controversy before congress he takes the last step that precedes war," continued Lodge. "The president might have taken further steps, but he has come to the body which alone has power to declare war. I think he has done well."

Senator Williams asked how long it took congress to pass the Spanish war resolution.

Senator LaFollette replied that congress took from April 11 to April 19 to pass the resolution in 1898.

Senator Lodge took up the pending resolution.

"This resolution uses the word 'justify' instead of 'authorize,'" he said. "The result will be the same. This resolution does not contemplate the declaration of war. The president in his message disclaimed any hostility toward the Mexican people. But this resolution carries with it armed intervention.

"The consequences of armed intervention are in many respects precisely the same as war. But they present a task less capable of speedy completion, less fertile in speedy glory of victories won and may bring a long period of the exercise of what would be the police power in a foreign country, involving vast expenditures, great loss of life, perhaps, and, after months and possibly years, possibly only the satisfaction of feeling that we had brought back peace and order and liberty to a distracted country.

"I have no desire to criticiize President Wilson for his failure to recognize Huerta. He no doubt proceeded on grounds appearing to him as sufficient. I condemn as strongly as I can the methods of treachery and bloodshed by which Huerta reached his present position.

"But the fact that I condemn his methods does not lead me to put myself in a position which, by distortion of the acts which we take here or of the words which we utter here, would put me behind Villa—Villa, who began his life as a hired assassin and whose pathway has been marked with bloodshed, rapine, plunder, and by unnameable crimes which are a disgrace to the country in which we live.

"It is for that reason that the minority of the committee on foreign relations has presented the substitute for the preamble of the resolution. Not one sentence can be denied. Each is a melancholy truth.

"If we are to intervene in Mexico at any point, I want to lift it up from the level of personal hostilities and place it on the broad ground of great national action taken in the interest and for the protection of American lives in a foreign country and for the purpose, also, of restoring peace and order if we can."

TO SAIL THURSDAY

Nebraska, Virginia and Georgia Rush Preparations For War

Boston, April 22.—At 4 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, the battleships Nebraska, Virginia and Georgia, now being made ready at the navy yard, wi. sail direct for Mexican waters. Definite orders for the ships to be in complete readiness at that time were received from Secretary of the Navy Daniels at Washington.

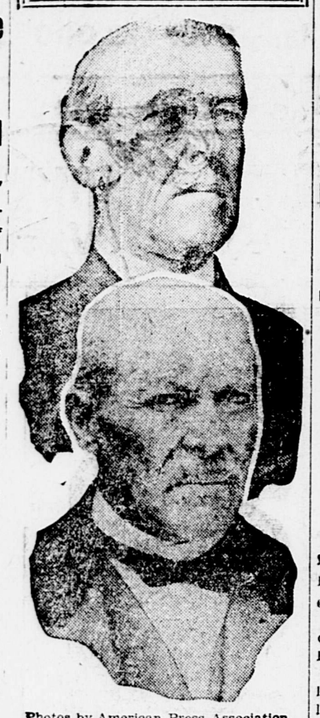

The exact destination of the ships is not known, and instructions on this point will not be received by the commanders until shortly before the hour of sailing.

The ships are now being made ready with all speed. Ammunition is being brought from Hingham and other necessary supplies hurried aboard. The Georgia is now fully coaled, and the other two ships nearly so.

The orders were received by Captain George R. Evans of the flagship Nebraska, who is commander of the third division of the Alantic fleet during the absence at Washington of Rear Admiral Frank E. Beatty.

WHITE HOUSE ACTIVE

News of Fighting at Vera Cruz Causes Hurried Conference

Washington, April 22.—Rear Admiral Fletcher's dispatch came by cable, detailing the fighting at Vera Cruz. A hurried conference was called at the White House. President Wilson summoned Secretaries Bryan, Garrison and Daniels. They were in conference for an hour, emerging serious-faced.

"First blood has been spilled," said one of the officials at the White House.

Secretary Bryan left the White House for the German embassy where he discussed with the German ambassador the consignment of arms for Huerta aboard a German merchant vessel due to be landed in Vera Cruz last night. The capture of the customs house at Vera Cruz was ordered by the American government to prevent the big shipment of ammunition and machine guns from getting into Huerta's hands.

AEROPLANES RUSHED

Burgess Plant Has Two Air-Fighters Ready For Government

Marblehead, Mass., April 22.—Two "foolproof" aeroplanes, ready for shipment, await the arrival of a representative of Secretary Daniels of the navy department at the Burgess plant, Marblehead, before final arrangements are completed and they are sent to Pensacola, Fla., whence ten machines of the Burgess make have already been sent for Mexican service.

Clifford Webster, the 23-year-old Haverhill flier, who has been the only American experimenter with the Lieutenant Dunne type machine, more commonly known as the "foolproof," is expecting to be ordered to the front with the machines at any moment. He is a member of the United States aviation reserves, with headquarters at St. Louis, and if the war becomes very serious will be ordered to the front.

AMERICAN TROOPS TAKEN

Had Wandered Across Border and Were Seized by Rebels

Douglas, Ariz., April 22.—A special to the Douglas, Ariz., National from Tombstone says news reached there that fifteen members of Troop B, Tenth cavalry, were being held by constitutionaiist troops at a point just below the border between Naco and Hereford, Ariz.

The troop, which were on border patrol, wandered across the line without being aware of the fact. It is reported they were surrounded and taken prisoners by a large rebel detachment. Troop A, Tenth cavalry, left Fort Huachuca to investigate.

All Sections Offer Troops

Washington, April 22.—Offers of volunteers for service in Mexico are being received by representatives in congress. Representative Ferris of Oklahoma forwarded to the president a telegram from Hollis, Okla., tendering on behalf of a mass meeting of citizens of two counties a company of 100 picked men, all native Americans, "to help place the Stars and Stripes above the hails of Montezuma."

Representative Igoe of Missouri submitted to the president a telegram announcing the readiness of the Army and Navy club of St. Louis to furnish a regiment of seasoned Spanish war veterans in case of trouble.

Americans Seize Vera Cruz Customs House

MEXICAN DEFENDERS LOSE TWO HUNDRED MEN

Put Up Stubborn Resistance Against Americans Landing Party—Transport Shelling Enemy From Positions on Housetops and In Streets—Prairie Fires First Shot Against Mexicans, Followed Later by Four Shells From Big Guns on Warship—Seizure of City Ordered to Prevent Huerta Getting Arms and Ammunition From German Steamer

Washington, April 22.—Vera Cruz is taken, but at the cost of American lives. Four American marines are dead and twenty wounded.

This was the substance of an official admission made at the White House last night.

More than 200 Mexicans were killed in the fighting that followed the landing of the United States marines, according to information received at the cable office in Galveston.

Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, arrived at Vera Cruz with five battleships.

President Wilson authorized a statement giving the substance of the following dispatch received from Admiral Fetcher:

"Tuesday, in face of approaching norther, landed marines and sailors from Utah, Florida and Prairie and seized customs house.

"The Mexican forces did not oppose landing, but opened fire with rifle and artillery after our seizure of customs house.

"Prairie shelling Mexicans out of their position. Desultory firing from housetops and streets.

"Hold customs house and section of city in vicinity of consulate.

"Casualties four dead and twenty wounded."

Makes Stubborn Resistance

The Mexicans, under General Maas, commandant of Vera Cruz, put up a stubborn resistance. Maas challenged the advance of the Americans almost from the first and made it clear that the Mexicans do not propose a peaceful occupation.

Less than half an hour after leaving the sides of the United States transport Prairie, the marines had landed and the absence of resistance at the waterfront, the failure on the part of the Mexicans to contest the taking of a position somewhat in from the waterfront caused curious spectators in the streets to laugh, and when one Mexican peon ran for cover, having had the temerity to shout at the top of his voice "Viva Mexico!" loud guffaws came from the onlookers.

But the lull was not indicative of compliance. Shots came within a few minutes and later a brief exchange, and the spectators whose curiosity alone brought them into the streets, lingered, thinking it was only a show of resistance. But after another brief interval, fighting in earnest began, and hour after hour the Mexicans continued to oppose the Americans, fiercely in some quarters, although the main body apparently seemed ready to quit.

Most of the firing was done by outpost parties, placed on the roofs of the houses at various points of vantage, whose only choice was to keep on firing or surrender.

The guns of the Prairie assisted the landing party. Towards evening the fighting continued, but it was more of a housetop character than a determined organized resistance. Finally the Mexican soldiers who had not been captured, killed or wounded retreated westward.

Prairie Fires First Shot

The transport Prairie had the honor of being the first ship to open fire on the Mexicans. This was after a big detachment of seamen and marines gathered from the different ships of Admiral Fletcher's squadron had landed from the Prairie for what appeared at the time to be a bloodless invasion. But acting in true Mexican fashion, the federalists waited till the party was well ashore and then the firing began.

From housetops and windows the rain of bullets came down upon the American party, which quickly replied. Then the three-inch guns of the navy transport barked out.

The Mexicans, however, paid scant attention to the guns of the Prairie, although the aim of the American gunners was true to the mark. Fighting continued till finally Rear Admiral Fletcher sent a warning that further resistance on the part of the Mexicans would bring an attack from the big guns of the dreadnoughts.

This warning was evidently taken as another "bluff," for from the housetops the Mexicans continued to shoot at the American detachment in the streets.

But their fire was quickly stopped, for almost simultaneously four great guns, truly aimed, spoke. The big shells reached their mark and the buildings at which they were aimed went toppling to the street, carrying down with them the men who were seeking to defy the authority of the United States. This one volley of the great guns was sufficient. There was no more Mexican firing, and the defenders of Vera Cruz were soon in retreat outside of the city, where they remain.

The American dead and wounded were brought back to the Prairie, while the rest of the force remained in the city.

The seizure of Vera Cruz was ordered by Washington, probably in view of the fact that the German steamer Ypiranga was due at this port soon, carrying an immense amount of rifles and ammunition consigned to Dictator Huerta at Mexico City.

Admiral Fletcher's orders are to allow the steamer to land and to let the cargo be unloaded, but then to seize it and prevent its shipment to the capital.

The Ypiranga is still outside the harbor. She has on board among other supplies 10,000 rifles, 15,000,000 cartridges and 200 of the latest Krupp machine guns, intended to hold the railroad to Mexico City.

President Huera has been making every effort to safeguard this consignment and had given orders that it be unload immediately, placed on a special train drawn by two locomotives and rushed to the capital.

The demand for the surrender of Vera Cruz was made by Rear Admiral Fletcher through Consul Canada at 9 o'clock in the morning. The consul called General Maas, commander of Vera Cruz, by telephone and presented the demands, saying the United States forces were about to occupy and hold the town.

He called upon him to surrender in the name of humanity and assist the Americans in restoring order. General Maas replied that compliance with the demand was impossible and asked the consul for a personal parley.

The consul informed General Maas that he had no instructions to grant a parley, and ended the conversation.

He then called the jere politico and the customs collector by telephone and informed them of the prospective landing and asked for their co-operation in the maintenance of peace.

The customs collector requested time, in order to attend to certain duties, and neither could promise any assistance.

Rear Admiral Fletcher, aboard the flagship Florida, by this time was in communication with Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, who was speeding toward this port with seven warships. Admiral Fletcher decided to take action, and marines began leaving the side of the transport Prairie shortly before 11 o'clock.

They entered ten whaleboats and effected a landing within half an hour at the customs house and No. 4 pier which extends almost from the centre of the shore line into the port and terminal works.

WEARING OF THE ROSE.

The new slogan, "Wear a rose," issues from the headquarters of the Massachusetts anti-suffragists. Everybody who plans to visit Boston on that day and who disapproves of suffrage is urged to wear a rose on May 2d, the day of the suffrage parade. The "antis" declare they will have a big army of rose-wearers on that day.

Thousands of real and artificial roses will be sold at various points throughout the city, to be called "Anti-Suffrage Rose Shops." The roses will be sold for whatever they will bring, and if one cares to give nothing, they will be given away. To conceive the vast scale upon which the rose distribution will take place, it is said that the supply of artificial roses in Boston and New York has already been exhausted, and the organization is sending further south for more.

A display of roses will be a feature also of the anti-suffrage mass-meeting which is to be held in Faneuil Hall on

RECEPTION AND MUSICALE

Wollaston Women's Club Entertain the Gentlemen

The first gentlemen's night of the Wollaston Woman's club was a very successful event in the Wollaston School hall Tuesday evening. A reception followed by a musicale formed the program of the evening.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes, president of the club; Mr. Arthur D. Ropes, Hon. Charles M. Bryant, president of the Sachem club special guest of the evening; Mrs. Charles M. Bryant, treasurer, Mrs. Nathan G. Nickerson, vice president; Miss Fanny L. Johnson recording secretary and Mrs. William Dean Sanford, corresponding secretary.

Many pretty costumes were in evidence especially in the receiving line. Palms, jonquils and other cut flowers lined the stage.

The receiving line formed to the right of the entrance. The ushers were: Mrs. Alfred P. Thompson, Mrs. George Fleming, Mrs. Howard B. Penniman, Mrs. Albert Healey, Mrs. Wallace G. Rood, Mrs. George E. Healey and Mrs. Charles R. Hendrie.

The reception was held from 8 until 8.30 and following it Mrs. Ropes gave a brief word of welcome and several club announcements.

The evenings entertainment was given by the Grieg Trio, assisted by Margaret Louden Shepherd, contralto; Jennie Hocking Hunt, accompanist and Grace Damon Boyson, reader.

The evening opened with a selection from Bohm in three movements played by the trio. Composing the trio were: Marguerite Pearson Moss, violin; Edith A. Soden cello and Mina G. del Castillo, piano.

All of the numbers demanded encores, Miss Shepherd, the soloist being especially popular. Her first song "Mon coeur s'ouvre.a ta voix" from Saint-Saens' "Samson et Dalila" was loudly applauded.

"Miss Huldah's offer" a reading by Miss Boyson was followed by two violin solos by Miss Moss, "Caprice Vienois" by Kreisler and "Serenade" from "Jewels of Madonna" by Wolf-Ferrarii.

Miss Shepherd sang "When the roses bloom" by Reichardt and "What's in the air today" by Eden. Miss Boyson gave "In May" and for her encore those present were surprised to hear "Since mother joined the club" a poem by Arthur D. Ropes.

"Romanza" by Marchmer and "Mazurka" by Walling were played by the trio. "His lullaby" by Bond and "The cry of Rachael" arr. by Salter, sung by Miss Shepherd found great favor.

An original pianologue on "Women" by Miss Boyson made a hit and a postlude on "Men" brought down the house. The evening closed with a trio "Norwegian dance" by Grieg.

The first annual gentlemen's night of the club was an unqualified success and it is predicted as the years go by this event will be looked forward to more and more by the masculine element.

On Friday afternoon at 2.30 the second in the series of "Opera Talks" by Havrah W. L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera House will be given. "Lohengrin" will be the subject.

The final in the series will be held in the Park and Downs church Thursday evening, April 30 when Mr. Hubbard will speak on "Love of the three kings" and "Secret of Suzanne."

The club dramatics will be held in Quincy Music hall on Wednesday afternoon, May 6, at 2.30 when Sheridan's "Rivals" will be presented.

The doors will be open at one and the business meeting commence at two. Unlimited guest tickets may be secured of the custodian Mrs. E. E Jameson and her committee, also Mrs. Charles R. Safford.

MIDNIGHT MIX-UP

the heat and water. The monuments in the yard were not damaged much.

The fire made a spectacular blaze and the sky was brightly illuminated giving the appearance of a conflagration. The loss is estimated at about $2,000.

This morning after making an investigation of the fire at the granite plant of Harry S. Nicol, Chief Billings said that the loss on the building which was total, would amount to $1,500 and that the estimated loss on the contents was $1,000. Neither the sheds or stock were insured and it will therefore be a total loss.

The cause of the fire is somewhat of a mystery although Mr. Nicol believes it to have been of incendiary origin. He says that his office was entered by burglars some three weeks ago.

There was no fire in the office and it is reported that a police officer passed the building at 11 o'clock and there was no sign or indication of a fire. An hour later the office and shed its whole length was a mass of flames.

It is somewhat remarkable that some one was not injured when the big derrick came down with a crash. There were no firemen in the vicinity but there were a number of spectators and as the derrick came down the boom spread out forming the letter V and the sides of the V just missed hitting a number of spectators.

SPORT NEWS

Joseph Larkin, who is managing the Fore River team that will play with the Manufacturers league, is optimistic of real results this season, and the fifteen candidates that are reporting for practice regularly give some indication of speed. The schedule has not been completed but should offer every opportunity for the local fans to see fast semi-pro ball.

Ross, who had things his own way in Braintree last summer, and is now duplicating his performance, has attracted the attention of the Red Sox Scouts and will be given a tryout within a few days. Ross has a record as a strike out pitcher and has good nerve. His victories in Braintree were before rooting, live fans who could easily discourage a nervous boxman but they failed to interfere with his performance.

There are inquiries as to who "young Welch," the boxer, is, and for the information of the fans would say he is a West Quincy boy, the son of Robert Welch of Copeland street. It may be well to note also that he is a chunky lad, with a kick in either hand. His appearance here has been postponed purposely and not because he hesitates facing an audience of friends.

Bowling has not fallen out of favor altogether even though Herb Smith has not formally agreed to bowl Jenner of the Wollaston Tennis Club. The general impression is that he is getting in shape previous to meeting the Wollastonite half way.

And, to add to the interest, the pick of the Clan MacGregor league want to meet the pick of the Wollaston Tennis Club in a special match. Maybe it won't be some match if arranged.

Running in this city is not on par with last season as yet, but the graduation of Allen Connor from the short jaunts to the distance events should be carefully watched. Results only come through experience and he is getting his trials.

The base ball game between Quincy High and Newton High which was scheduled for Thursday at Newtonville will be played on Friday afternoon instead. This gives Quincy one more day to put into practice.

NEW LIFE BOAT.

The new lifeboat for the Point Allerton Life Saving Station arrived at Hull Tuesday afternoon in charge of Capt. Sparrow and surfman. The run from New Jersey was made in 42 hours. On the run from Provincetown to Hull the seaworthiness of the new boat was tested when a heavy northwest gale was encountered which threw the boat out of the water.

The boat is named "Joshua James" after the famous lifesaver and first keeper of the station at Hull. It is built of mahogany for beauty and durability is 36 feet long, has a 12 foot beam, and draws four feet of water. It is self bailing and self righting, and is equipped with a 40-horse power engine, two masts and three sails. The craft cost about $9,000.

WHY ARE YOU SO TIRED?

That Dragged Out Feeling. The Weather Is Not To Blame for

"This weather simply takes the life right out of me, I can hardly drag one foot after the other," said a run-down, tired-out woman, the other day.

We want to say to every such person in this vicinity. Don't blame the weather, it's your condition. You need a strengthening tonic and the very best we know is Vinol which is a combination of the two most world-famed tonics, namely, the medicinal curative elements of cod liver oil and tonic iron, for the blood.

A case has just come to our attention from Milford, Mich. "Mrs. Julia Barber says: "I was run-down and hardly able to drag about; my appetite was poor and I was not able to work. My druggist asked me to try Vinol. The first bottle helped me and after taking the second bottle I was able to work and felt well and strong. Vinol is the best medicine I have ever taken."

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. E. J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy.

SETTLEMENT EXPECTED

The striking reamers and bolters of the Fore River shipyard did not return to work this morning, no adjustment having been reached. Another conference is being held today and it is expected that there will be a speedy settlement.

This morning, bright and early, the 35 pickets chosen from the ranks of the strikers were at the gates. They approached workmen they thought were going to take their places and succeeded in swelling their ranks by a small number. The picketing is peaceful and occasioned no disturbance between the strikers and the regular workmen.

It was announced Tuesday afternoon that a settlement had been reached but the arrangements made were not accepted by the strikers. Representatives of the I. W. W. are attempting to organize a branch of unskilled laborers but so far their efforts have met with but little success.

SUDDEN DEATH AT WEYMOUTH.

Orrin B. Bates, a respected South Weymouth resident, died suddenly while attending the annual meeting of the Union Congregational church of that town on Tuesday evening. He was in his 73rd year, and the father of Walter L. Bates, manager of the A. J. Richards Grain Co. Mr. Bates was stricken during the later part of the meeting. He was carried to the vestibule and a physician summoned, but he died before medical aid reached him. Death was probably due to heart disease. He was a member of Wildley lodge, I. O. O. F., of Weymouth.

PARISH CLUB CLOSES SEASON

The Year 1913-1914 a Most Successful One

The last meeting of the season of the First Parish club was held Tuesday evening, but owing to other attractions the attendance was not as large as usual. The dinner was served at 6.30 the menu consisting of roast beef, mashed potatoes, macaroni, turnip, string beans, coffee, rolls and ice cream. On the platform, aside from the President, Rev. A. L. Hudson and the speaker of the evening Harry V. Bicknell were ex-representative Walter E. Piper, J. S. Swingle, H. A. Day, Frank Fessenden Crane, A. W. Parker, Rupert F. Claflin and Clarence Burgin. Prayer was offered by Rev. Mr. Hudson.

Immediately following the dinner a short business session was held. The secretary's report showed the membership to date to be 207. That seven dinners had been held during the winter months with an average attendance of 148.

The treasurer's report showed the receipts from all sources during the year to have been $1,206.66 and the expenditures $997.25 leaving a balance of $209.41. This did not include the expense of the dinner Tuesday evening, so that the balance at the close of the year would be about $150.

The election of officers followed, the list being as follows:

President—Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson.
Vice President—Russell A. Sears.
Secretary—Henry R. Holden.
Treasurer—George F. Hall.
Executive Committee—Fred H. Smith, Henry L. Kincaide, Samuel T. MacQuarrie, Charles C. Hearn, Joseph B. Groose, William A. Bradford.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to the dinner committee and to the retiring treasurer who declined re-election.

The president spoke of the death during the year of one of the special committee of three, who were appointed to co-operate with the bureau of immigration to look after the aliens in Quincy. He spoke of the great need of work along this line in Quincy in order to assimilate the large foreign population that was now coming here that they might not become a menace to the city.

The president was empowered to increase the number of the committee to five and make the appointments.

The speaker of the evening, Harry V. Bicknell of the publicity department of the New England Telephone Company, was then introduced, and spoke interestingly of the telephone, its operation and gave some history. His talk was illustrated by a large number of lantern slides.

The speaker told of the early conception of the telephone and the rapid strides it had made until today it had become an absolute necessity in business and social life. He also spoke of the advancement of the equipment from the old Deland switchboard formerly used in central offices until the advent of the multiple switchboard used today by which one operator was able from her switchboard to instantly connect with every line entering the office.

He also illustrated the outside connection showing the huge poles loaded down with hundreds of wires as formerly, contrasting it with the present method of enclosing the small wires in cables and in underground conduits.

He went into detail of the method of operating as well as the expense that the company had gone to in order to provide retiring rooms containing every comfort for its operators. He also showed how much quicker connections were had in New England than in London. In the former it was possible to get into telephonic communication with a party in New York or Washington in a few minutes while in London if one wished to talk with Paris he put in his call in the morning and was told to come around at 4.30 in the afternoon and talk with his party.

Figures as to the cost of equipment and of maintenance and to the miles and miles of wire that were in use in the system, in New England and the United States.

The method of operating a switchboard was shown by the lantern slides and was fully explained.

The talk was a most interesting one and was closely followed from beginning to end.

ENGINEER MILLER PLACED ON TRIAL

Charged With Manslaughter In New Haven Wreck

New Haven, April 22.—August B. Miller, an engineer, was placed on trial here, charged with manslaughter arising from the rear-end collision of the White Mountain express with the second section of the Bar Harbor express, Sept. 24 last at North Haven, on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

In that wreck twenty-one persons were killed almost outright, one person has since died and fully a score of persons yet suffer from their injuries.

Miller was engineer of the White Mountain express. The coroner found that he disregarded the rules which required him to bring his train under control in foggy weather, that he was "drifting" by a banjo signal, and because of that his train ran into the Bar Harbor one, which had stopped a few feet over the block limits at this signal.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

Alleged Auto Bandits Arraigned In Providence Court

Providence, April 22.—Charged with assault with intent to kill, Thomas de Palma and Rocco Rosetti, two of the alleged auto bandits who shot three men in a lonely spot between Centredale and Stillwater in attempting to steal $1200, were arraigned in the district court here before Judge Gorham.

The police say they know the other three men who participated in the attempted hold-up and they expect to arrest them soon. They also say they do not believe the story of Rosetti, who drove the bandits' auto. Rosetti declares the hold-up men forced him to drive them.

Boston, April 22.—Recruiting offices were thronged all day yesterday by hundreds of men and boys who wanted to enlist for service in Mexico. A large percentage of the applicants were Italians and Greeks, fresh from service in the Balkan war. Even though a number could scarcely talk English, they professed love for their adopted flag and were enthusiastic about rendering service for the United States.

Washington, April 22.—Captain Berry, commander of the steamer Nantucket, which crashed into and sank the steamer Monroe, off the Virginia coast on January 3, has been found guilty of negligence for running his ship at high speed in a fog and his license has been revoked. The Nantucket-Monroe disaster caused a loss of forty lives.

Cambridge Man First Shot Down

Vera Cruz, April 22.—The first American to be killed in the occupation of Mexican territory by American forces was a Cambridge, Mass., man. Corporal Daniel Haggerty of the U. S. S. Florida, one of the men who embarked from the transport Prairie, was hit by a Mexican bullet fired from a housetop. He died immediately.

BLOODY BATTLE IN LABOR WAR

Thirteen Dead and Twenty Injured in Mine Fight

TENT COLONY IS DESTROYED

Bullets and Flames Sweep Through District and Throw Women and Children Into Panic—Reinforcements Being Sent to Both Strikers and Militiamen In Colorado

Denver, April 22.—Thirteen persons dead, scores injured, the Ludlow tent colony of striking coal miners burned and hundreds of women and children homeless—these are the results of one of the bloodiest battles in labor warfare ever waged in the west.

According to the last dispatches received from Trinidad, the nearest telegraph office to Ludlow, where the battle occurred, 400 miners were entrenched in the hills back of Ludlow waiting for the renewal of the attack by mine guards and militiamen with whom they fought a fourteen-hour battle.

Eleven strikers are "known to have been killed," the dispatches from Trinidad said, but their names were unobtainable.

The injured among the strikers are said to number twenty.

Fifteen hundred armed strikers from southern Colorado camps were said to be rushing toward Ludlow.

For three hours, say miners of Ludlow, the militia swept the hills where union men were entrenched with machine guns. Throughout Monday morning they fired on Ludlow. Bullets rained on the railroad station. Shortly after 6 o'clock flames swept through the tent colony and women and children ran screaming to the depot, where they crouched in terror on the floor. Union men have a report that two women and a child were killed in the dash to the depot, but there is no confirmation.

From Trinidad, Walsenburg, Lamar and other nearby points all the available troops were being rushed to Ludlow.

The last of the militia had been withdrawn from the strike fields last week, but all available companies have been ordered back, Brigadier General Chase received the only direct report from participants in the battle when Major P. J. Henrock, commanding the troops in the field, sent a code message, saying:

"Have been fighting all day. One militiaman killed and three injured. Tent colony is destroyed. Have driven strikers three miles east of Ludlow. Shall want ammunition. Hear reinforcements are being sent strikers."

Chase said the additional reinforcements sent the militia numbered several hundred, and would be sufficient to dislodge the strikers.

FIGHTING IN ECUADOR

Government Troops Suffer Severe Defeat by Rebels

Lima, Peru, April 22.—The Ecuadorian government troops suffered a severe defeat at Camarones Sunday.

Five hundred men were killed or wounded and 200 were taken prisoners by the revolutionaries.

President Plaza is now besieged in Esmeraldas. The rebels are led by General Carlos Concha.

The revolution in Ecuador led by General Concha is an outgrowth of the uprising which followed the death in December, 1911, of President Estrada. Against the wishes of the populace, a number of troops stationed at Guayaquil proclaimed General Pedro Montero, one of their number, president.

ADAMS IS FREED

Now Believed Maine Woman Committed Suicide

Norway, Me., April 22.—Upon being informed that Sherman C. Cummings had a letter of recent date from his young wife, in which she threatened to "blow her head off," the county officials arranged to bring William H. A. Adams into court. He was awaiting a hearing on the charge of murdering Mrs. Cummings, his stepdaughter.

Adams was discharged on motion of County Attorney Dyer, who stated that he believed his stepdaughter committed suicide. This action was taken after five witnesses had been examined, including the husband.

Maine Summer Hotel Burned

Three Liars

A Story For Easter

By F. A. MITCHEL

When our troops came home from Cuba and, nearly all sick, were unloaded from transports on the eastern end of Long Island the camps that held them were thronged with persons who had come to find relatives or friends. One of these, an old lady with an anxious look on her face, stopped at a tent before which sat an officer in a camp chair and asked in a tremulous voice:

"Can you tell me if my boy has come?"

The officer rose, took off his hat respectfully and said:

"What regiment did your boy belong to, madam?"

"He was with the —th Pennsylvania."

"Come with me, and I will see if I can get the information you wish."

He led the way to a tent wherein an officer was writing.

"Make your inquiries here," he said and left her.

"I'm trying to find my boy, Henry Ashurst," said the old lady.

The officer looked serious. He remembered having the name of Henry Ashurst on a list of killed and wounded. He hunted in his desk for a certain paper and when he found it ran his eye over the list of names. His expression became still more serious, but he bent his face down so that it was concealed under the rim of his hat. He had found the name of Henry Ashurst, but had not the heart to tell the mother what list it was in.

"Your son hasn't come up from Cuba yet, madam. He wasn't very well when the last transport sailed."

"Do you know what his trouble was?" asked the old lady, tears starting into her eyes.

"Some of those fevers they have down there, I believe."

"Is he very ill?"

"Well, I couldn't tell you about that. There's the regimental surgeon's tent over there; you might inquire of him."

The old lady walked feebly over to the tent designated, found the surgeon and asked the same questions she had asked the adjutant. The doctor looked down upon the anxious face and turned coward just as the other had done.

"Henry Ashurst?" he said as if trying to recollect. "There was a soldier in the hospital of that name, I think, but I can't exactly recall his case."

"Was he very sick?"

"Oh, no; not very sick. I think it was a simple flesh wound in the leg."

"Do you think he will come on the next transport?"

"No doubt of it, madam; no doubt of it."

The old lady went away. The adjutant saw her go and walked over to the surgeon.

"I couldn't do my duty by that old lady, could you? I found his name on a list of mortally wounded. I told his mother he had a fever."

"I remembered him in the hospital as one for whom there was no hope of recovery. I lied about it too. I told his mother he had a slight flesh wound. I only know what I have told you, so I took the benefit of the doubt."

Every day the old lady visited the camp, and every day the adjutant and surgeon either told her more lies or repeated the old ones. The ship bearing her son never came to Montauk Point, and when the last tent was struck she ceased her visits and her inquiries.

The winter passed and no one had the courage to tell the mother that her boy would not come back to her. They all excused themselves on the ground that no record of the death and burial of Private Henry Ashurst had been found. But when the war closed every one connected with the army was in a hurry to get away from the heat, the sickness, the death attending an army in a tropical climate in summer.

Until some one would assure her that her son was dead the poor mother hoped. She was very religious and prayed fervently that her boy might be restored to her. One morning in April when the sun, shining warm, was opening the leaves typifying the resurrection shortly to be celebrated at Easter the old lady went to her rector and said she had a feeling that Henry would come home on Easter Sunday.

"Do you think," she said, "that this feeling has been sent me by Providence?"

"Quite likely," was the reply. "I believe that Providence often sends us forecasts of what is about to happen."

He had no more doubt that Henry Ashurst's bones were moldering in Cuba than that the earth turned on its axis.

"I'm so glad you think so!" added the mother, moving away, while the clergyman looked after her, not knowing whether to consider himself a liar or one who had done a kindness.

At dawn on Easter morning there was a loud rapping on the door of Mr. Ashurst's house.

"He's come!" she said, getting out of bed, and without stopping to put on a wrapper she went downstairs, opened the door and was clasped in the arms of her son.

"Oh, Harry, where have you been all this time?"

"I was left in Cuba. When I got well I had forgotten who I was. Since then I have been going about as another person. Some time ago a surgeon removed a piece of my skull and here I am."

DORCAS SOCIETY.

The Dorcas society of the Universalist church was delightfully entertained by Miss Mary Blake at her home on Cottage street, Tuesday evening.

It was the ninth anniversary of the re-organization of the society and a most enjoyable social hour followed the regular meeting. Ice cream, cake and fancy crackers were served by the hostess assisted by her mother. The beautifully decorated cake made it seem all the more like a birthday party.

The next meeting scheduled for May 5 will be omitted as on that date the young people of the North Weymouth Universalist church have kindly consented to repeat the four act drama "Home Folks" for the Dorcas society in the Universalist church vestry. Tuesday, May 19, the society meets with Miss Annie Hobart of Pearl street.

JOE KNOWLES IN QUINCY

Tells Old Sailors He Is Going into California Woods

Joe Knowles, who a few months ago demonstrated that a man with his natural resources could enter the woods, without clothing, food or tools of any kind and exist for almost an indefinite period, was the guest Tuesday of Supt. H. A. Whitelow at the National Sailors Home, and in the evening entertained the sailors with an account of his life in the woods. He also showed many pictures of the scenes in which he took part during his voluntary exile, all of which greatly pleased the old sailors. The talk was of particular interest from the fact that Joe was once a sailor himself, and he has been a frequent visitor at the National Sailors Home. He arrived at the Home in time for dinner and remained all night. He told his hearers that he was getting ready to go to the Pacific coast where he plans to enter the woods in California and repeat his episode in the woods of Maine.

CITY HALL NOTES.

Miss Mildred Tyler of the City Treasurers office, who has been confined to her home for several weeks on account of illness returned to her desk Tuesday.

The interior telephone at City Hall which was put out of commission when the recent changes in the offices were made is again in working order.

Some of the young lady clerks at City Hall now ride home at night in style. The Assessors reach City Hall before 5 P. M. and Principal Assessor Buckley is pleased after leaving other members of the board andthe books to have such an array of beauty as passengers. He drives a beautiful pair.

MERRYMOUNT MONTHLY.

The Merrymount Monthly announced as the attraction for the meeting of the Quincy Women's Club Tuesday afternoon at Alpha hall is not a new publication for Quincy but an entertainment presented in the form of the contents of a magazine. There will be a cover design, a frontispiece, art section, short story, a serial story, poems, song and dance sections, also advertisements, editorial and matter in the lighter vein, all the participants being club members and excelling in their original parts. It promises to be an afternoon enjoyed by many guests as well as by a large attendance of members.

Pride of Granite Lodge, Odd Ladies will hold a whist party, Thursday evening, in Clan MacGregor hall.

OIL TRUCK FIRE NOT IN QUINCY

Some mischief maker started a story Tuesday night with the evident intent to cast reflection on the courage of members of the fire department. Readers of Tuesdays Daily Ledger will recall that it recounted the facts of the oil truck of the Quincy Oil Co. taking fire in Weymouth Square and being extinguished by the aid of the fire department of that town. Someone started a story that the oil wagon fire had been in Quincy and that the Central station firemen when called were afraid to approach the burning tank fearing an explosion, and that the driver had to get a hand chemical and extinguish the blaze himself.

The story was evidently started to discredit the courage of the members of the local department. Anyone who has followed fires in Quincy will readily testify that the members are not lacking in courage and the thought that the burning oil tank might explode would not have prevented them from extinguishing the blaze.

LAUNCHING OF THE McDOUGALL

The powerful torpedo boat destroyer McDougall was launched at Bath, Maine, today from the plant of the Bath Iron Works and will have her official trials early in May. Because of the Mexican crisis no time will be lost in putting her into commission.

She is nearly a duplicate of the destroyers Cummings and Cassin, cost $810,000 and is required to make 30 1-2 knots. She burns oil exclusively and is driven by two shaft marine turbines designed to develop a horsepower of 16,000. There are four water tube boilers, two in each fire room. The steel hull is possessed of a tensile strength of 80,000 pounds per square inch and the wireless aerials set on two masts, nearly 100 feet above the keel.

SENTENCED FOR LARCENY.

Capt. McKay arrested Lawrence Phillips in Boston Tuesday on a complaint charging him with the larceny of clothing whom William Galer. It is alleged that Phillips not only took a full suit of clothing including shoes and hat, but that he also purloined a suit case to carry them off in . The goods were recovered by Capt. McKay and the court sentenced Phillips to six months in the house of correction.

CAUGHT WITH SMELTS.

Smelts at $1 each is pretty expensive eating, even more so than beef steak, but that is what it cost William E. Curtin of Weymouth this morning. Chief of Police Butler caught Curtin with the thirty-six smelts in hi spossession and the court assessed him $36. Not having the necessary money his address for the next three months will be Dedham jail unless some kind friend comes forward with the money, which is not likely.

TWO PLAYLETS.

Rebecca Wiswell tent, No. 56, Daughters of Veterans, will entertain their friends in Colonial hall Thursday evening with two playlets, "At Retreat" and "Sylvia's Soldier." Both are patriotic and abound with patriotic sentiments. The dramatics will be the first of a series that will be given. The committee is Mrs. M. Christine Flynn, Mrs. Mary S. Berry, Miss Fannie Grignon, Miss Ella Packard and Mrs. George Ela.

Co's. K and L of the Hyde Park High School Cadets won the drill to determine the representatives in the district schools contest in Boston on May 13.

Wyman R. Lincoln, aged 61, a railroad man 42 years, is dead at his home in Cohasset. He was a member of Kenohasset lodge of Masons and Cohasset lodge, I. O. O. F. He was a member of the Second Parish Congregational church and has sung in the choir ever since he was a boy. He leaves a wife and one daughter.

MILITIA CONFERENCE.

Gov. Walsh has called a conference of militia commanders for Thursday afternoon at the State House, to take steps for putting the militia into service promptly if needed.

The battleships Nebraska, Virginia and Georgia will sail from the Boston navy yard on Thursday at 4 P. M., direct for Mexico. Supplies and ammunition are being rushed on board.

—A French woman who is the mother of twenty-two living children is mentioned as a prospective recipient of the cross of the Legion of Honor. Such recognition of service to a nation whose decreasing population is deplored as a national peril, is entirely fitting. On the same ground suitable recognition should be made of the man, a resident of this country, though perhaps not a native, who at 63 years of age is the father of 35 children, 26 of whom are still living. Under such conditions there is little danger of race suicide.—Milford Gazette.

—While society women are going mad over the tango, the bunny hug, the turkey trot and the sundry other gyrations of varying names into which the dance has degenerated, there are thousands of their humbler sisters who are indulging daily in a dance that is quite as fascinating to the dancer, thought it is a solitaire. It is called the "kitchen waltz," and according to a woman writer in the New York Evening Sun, this is the way it is done;

CRUSHING HUERTA WOULD BE EASY

Campaign as Mapped Out In the Event of Hostilities.

SEE NO NEED OF ARMY AID

Experts Believe Marines and Bluejackets Could Handle Situation Alone. Real Difficulty Would Be In Restoring Order In Mexico—This Might Cost United States $1,000,000 a Day.

The possibility of actual intervention and consequent war in Mexico has resulted in considerable speculation in Washington as to just what such a course is likely to mean in the way of men and money necessary to carry it out. In attempting to form any estimates military men are handicapped at the outset as to whether the so called Constitutionalists would bury their differences with Huerta and join arms with him against the United States or whether they would stand aloof or support this government.

Both army and navy experts agree, however, that the subduing of the Huerta government by superior force would be the least difficult feature of the problem. The real difficulty would come later in the restoration of an orderly and peaceful government and the crushing of general warfare. To accomplish this the United States, it is believed by many, would be obliged to police all Mexico for years.

Some army officers have estimated that a force of 500,000 men at a cost of $1,000,000 a day will be necessary to bring about entire and permanent peace in Mexico. Others give estimates much lower.

Say It Would Be Brief War.

With the precedents of the war with Mexico of 1846 and 1847 to build upon, the assumption is made by American military and naval officers that actual war with the Huerta government would be of short duration and marked by a series of American successes, ending in the repetition of General Winfield Scott's triumphant entry into the capital.

The Army War college has been for some time at work on plans for the military invasion of Mexico. Much information has been acquired regarding the location of camps, water supply, especially dangerous areas where an enemy might be lodged, and so on. It is one of the possibilities of duty devolving upon the administration at Washington to have the army undertake a scheme of pacification similar to that successfully established in Cuba.

The campaign proposed by military experts, it is understood, provides for the taking of Vera Cruz by a combined force of bluejackets and marines. The attacking force would be supported by the fire of large caliber guns from the battleships of the fleet.

Think Army Aid Unnecessary.

It is the anticipation of tacticians that the Mexican force retreating from Vera Cruz would destroy the railroads leading to the capital in their rear as they withdrew.

To the end of correcting such difficulties as the destruction of the railway would create the war plan contemplates the landing of a large force of engineers and mechanics from the battleships to man and repair such locomotive engines as may be found in the yards at Vera Cruz. The same force, assisted by bluejackets and marines serving as section hands and repairmen would be rushed forward repairing the destroyed sections of the railway as rapidly as possible.

There would be a holdup of the march against Mexico City by the naval force pending the arrival of the troop ships from Galveston and other Texan ports bearing the army components of the force which would engage in the capture of the Mexican capital. Only a small garrison would be left at Vera Cruz.

The navy department is confident of the success of this plan without assistance from the army.

STUDENTS' MILITARY CAMPS.

Major General Leonard Wood Indorses Instruction Movement.

Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army, has sent out to school superintendents all over the country a letter indorsing the student military instruction camps to be held in the coming summer. Alluding to the fact that these camps have the hearty indorsement of President Wilson and ex-President Taft as well as leading educators, General Wood says:

"These camps are of great value not only to the student from a physical and educational standpoint, but to the nation, in that it spreads among its citizens a considerable amount of sound military information and increases by just that much the number of partially trained men who would be available and greatly needed in time of emergency."

The camps will be held at Asheville, N. C.; Burlington, Vt., and Ludington, Mich., from July 6 to Aug. 7; at Monterey, Cal., from June 26 to July 31.

MUSICALE AT BRAINTREE.

The Pilgrim quartet assisted by Nina Bearse Wilbur, reader and impersonator, gave a high class entertainment in the parish hall of All Souls' church, Braintree, Tuesday evening. Percy F. Baker of Weymouth, manager, was the baritone, William Gustafson, basso, Robert Fitzgerald, first tenor and Everett S. Glines, second tenor. Their selections for quartet, duet and solos were decidedly interesting, meeting the approval of all.

TO HOLD LADIES NIGHT.

The auto chemical responded on a still alarm shortly before 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon for a fire among the pine trees on the John Quincy Adams estate. The fire was in the rear of the estate toward Wollaston and the apparatus went down Butler road and attacked the fire from that side. It was extinguished with a chemical stream.

ANNIVERSARY OF ODD FELLOWSHIP

Observed by Puritan Lodge of Braintree With Large Gathering

Presentation of Collar to Past Grand Buzzell

The ninety-fifth anniversary of the founding of Odd Fellowship was observed by Puritan lodge, I. O. O. F., in Braintree Town hall Wednesday evening.

The affair took the form of ladies' night, and included the members of various lodges of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs, and also the invited guests. There were fully 600 people present. Seated on the stage were Noble Grand Ernest C. Woodsum and Past Grands John H. Macandrew, Dr. Walter B. Robbins, E. Forrest Watkins, John Kelley and Fred M. Buzzell.

The address of welcome was delivered by Ernest C. Woodsum and then followed a lengthy and enjoyable program. First was a selection by the orchestra from John Hancock lodge of Wollaston. Then came pleasing readings by Miss Johnson and the lady was generous with her encores. Miss Chase rendered some excellent violin selections and she was ably accompanied at the piano by Miss Rust. Charles A. Kohler, the sweet singer was loudly applauded for his beautiful vocal solos. Mrs. Kohler was his accompanist and her playing was excellent.

John Kelley, the genial John, was called upon for a speech and he responded in his usual happy vein. In conclusion, amid thunders of applause, he presented in behalf of Puritan lodge, a past grand's collar to brother F. M. Buzzell, and a cut glass vase holding a beautiful bouquet to Mrs. Buzzell, in recognition of their energetic and untiring labors for the order.

Mr. Buzzell or "Fred" as he is affectionately known was taken quite aback, but expressed the heartfelt thanks of himself and his wife, not only for the gifts but for the spirit which prompted them.

A soul stirring reading, "The night run of the overland," was given in a magnificent manner by Mrs. Cole, an the audience demanded several encores. That popular artiste, Miss Ethel McEwen delighted all by her masterly and appealing rendition of violin selections. An added pleasure was the fine work of her accompanist Miss Hazel Lothrop. The Standish male quartette rendered several numbers in a way that greatly pleased their auditors.

Miss Lydia Schrader needs no introduction to a Braintree audience and her vocal solos as always were gems and as interpreted by her were a feast of melody and a musical treat. Her accompanist, Miss Lida Tupper was most excellent. For an encore, Miss Schrader sang "My Rosary," with Miss Tupper at the piano and the violin obligato played by Miss McEwan. A spirited piano solo followed, played by Mrs. Johnson and the program was concluded by a patriotic selection by the orchestra in which the audience joined.

The floor was cleared and dancing followed until nearly midnight. The affair was greatly enjoyed by all present and will be marked in red letters in the annals of Puritan lodge as one of their most successful affairs. The committee of arrangements to which great credit is due was as follows: F. M. Buzzell, E. C. Woodsum, Dr. W. B. Robbins, Conrad Carlander, E. F. Watkins and H. H Legg.

EAGLES ARE GROWING.

John Adams Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, voted on 35 applications at its regular meeting in Electa hall on Wednesday evening and initiated 15 to membership. The aerie is making arrangements for a class initiation on May 29 at which time it is expected there will be nearly 100 take the degree. The exemplification will be by the local degree staff.

President Frank J. Duffy announced that the contemplated series of lectures on American history and citizenship by prominent men in the community was assured and that the list of speakers would be made known within a few days. Visiting brothers from the Hyde Park and Brockton aeries were present at the meeting.

WAITING FOR HUERTA.

Washington, April 22—The Massachusetts militia, as a part of the National Guard, will not be called upon to mobilize until after President Wilson signs the order instructing the Regular Army to move into Mexico.

This order has been drawn and is on the President's desk, but will not be signed unless Gen. Huerta declares war against the United States. He may make this declaration formally or by delivering passports to Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the Charge d'affairs in Mexico City, or withdrawing the charge of the Mexican embassy in Washington.

O'SHAUGHNESSEY SAFE.

Washington, April 22 — Communication has been established with Mexico City and American Charge D'Affairs O'Shaughnessey is safe and the city is quiet, but business demoralized. The city is completely in the hands of the Federal government. All news matter has been censored so thoroughly that the residents were unaware of the approaching crisis which caused an immediate suspension of business.

ANXIETY ON BORDER.

Washington, April 23—The opposition to the American seizure of Vera Cruz may result in Constitutionalists lying close to the southern United States border becoming hostile.

Rumors of possible restoration of the embargo on arms, current Wednesday, were revived this morning, and has been the subject of a War Department conference... It is understood this has been recommended by the joint Army and Navy Board.

SCOUTING AT VERA CRUZ.

Vera Cruz, April 23—The city is fully invested. Scouting parties have examined the railway connecting with Mexico City and report 18 miles as intact. Engineers aboard boats are ready to make instant repairs. Communication will be established with the city. In all 5060 marines and blue jackets have been landed.

Nearly 100 Mexicans have been taken prisoners and will be placed under guard in a temporary prison at the waters edge. Their arrest followed an obstinate resistance.

The thermometer is 107 in the shade The excessive heat has had some effect on the American troops.

Gen. Gustavea Maas, the commander of the garrison of the city, has fled... The tobacco supply is partially exhausted and it is difficult for remaining Mexicans to obtain food.

GIVEN HIS PASSPORT.

Washington, April 23—A dispatch received at the Navy Department from charge d'affairs O'Shaughnessey states that he has been handed his passport and expects to leave Vera Cruz tonight or tomorrow morning. The impression prevails that Mexico is about to declare war against the United States. The revised list of wounded contains the name of Edward Gisburn of Quincy, slightly wounded.

FARMER'S BALL AT WEST QUINCY

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dinegan Takes First Prizes

A grand street parade, in which many of the adult and younger folks of West Quincy participated, preceded the second annual Farmers' ball of the Harmony Club, which was held in St. Mary's hall Wednesday night in the interests of the summer cottage fund. Nearly 100 marchers followed the "band," all dressed in rube costumes.

The grand entry at the hall was a merry scene and at 9.30 the grand march was formed so that the winners of the prizes could be determined. The judges were William Walsh and Miss Marion Bush of Brockton and Elmer Norris of Braintree.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Dinegan, in typical farmer costumes, were awarded the first gents and ladies prizes. Miss Grace McDonnell, dressed as a boy, was given the second gents prize, and the second ladies prize went to Miss Caroline Creedon.

The heifer which was offered in a popularity contest was won by William R. McDonnell. After the dance he had much difficulty in getting the animal to his home.

The interior of the hall presented a rural aspect and farming implements and other barnyard decorations were profuse. Refreshments were served in the lower hall. Music for the dancing, which was continued until two o'clock, was furnished by Joyce's orchestra.

John J. Joyce was floor director and John Welch was his assistant. The chief of aids was James McDonald, who had as aids Thomas Fahey, Thomas J. O'Brien, Frank O'Rourke, Lawrence Donovan, John Saville, George McDonald, Bartholomew Flaherty, Joseph O'Rourke, Joseph Fitzgerald, Richard Knight, Ambrose Joyce and Robert Fitzgerald.

PRESENTED PURSE OF GOLD

Henry A. Rideout and family who have resided for many years in Wollaston left yesterday to make their future home in Sharon. Members of the Wollaston Baptist Sunday School and Ladies Benevolent society took this occasion to show their appreciation of Miss Rideout's faithful services as secretary of the primary department for over 15 years. Miss Rideout was presented with a purse of gold, and many were the words of good cheer that went with her on her departure. Miss Rideout has left for an extended visit to Chicago and upon her return will make her home in Sharon.

ORGANIZATION AT SHIPYARD

Completed by Naming of Department Heads

Bulletins have been posted at the Fore River shipyard which complete the organization and once more place it upon a good working basis. For the present probably no president will be elected to supersede Admiral Bowles.

The bulletin says Vice President Brown will be in charge of the designs and technical work, with Mr Warriner as his chief engineer, Mr Bennett as naval architect, and Mr. Schulze as estimator.

Vice President H. G. Smith will be general manager, and have charge of operations. Whereas in the past many of the departments in the yard have had superintendents, all heads will now be known as foremen.

In the Y department Mr. Miller has been superseded by D. T. Whiton Another department has been divided and W. R. Haysom is foreman of pipe fitting and John McCullock is foreman of sheet metal. The ship carpenters are under William Donnelly.

A previous bulletin placed the Argentine battleship Rivadavia wholly under Mr. Wellington.

Other departments like the treasurer's office, to which Mr. Sedgwick was re-elected, continue under the directors.

MRS. ELLEN O'HARA.

Tax Collector John J. O'Hara has the sympathy of a large circle of friends in the loss of his mother, Mrs. Ellen O'Hara, who passed away Wednesday evening at her home 39 Newcomb place, after an illness of some duration. Mrs. O'Hara was a woman of rare personality, and of a most kindly disposition and made firm and fast friends of all with whom she came in contact. A more loving wife or kindly mother no one ever had, and her going from this earth leaves a void in a happy home. Besides her husband she leaves two sons and a daughter. Michael J., John J. and Miss Margaret O'Hara. Funeral services will be held from her late home Saturday at 8.15 with a high mass of requiem at St. John's church at 9 o'clock.

THREE ALARMS WITHIN TWO HOURS

Slight Fires at Squantum, South Quincy and at Wollaston

Loss at All Was Only Few Hundred Dollars

The fire department was kept on the jump Wednesday evening between 5 and 7 o'clock in responding to fire alarms. The first alarm was sounded at 5.26 from Box 82 located at Squantum, and was for a fire in a small barn owned by Mrs. Webster. The fire was evidently started from a grass fire with a cigar, the fire working up under the small barn setting it on fire. The barn is a small affair and was used for a kind of a store house. The alarm was pulled by Mr. Peterson who failing to hear the bells sound, pulled the hook up and down. The result was that after the first round of the box no one could have told what box was sounding. Chief Billings and the Central station auto responded as well as the Atlantic auto but the building was beyond saving. The loss will not exceed $100.

Before the department had time to return from this fire, an alarm was sounded from Box 332. This was for a fire in a double house at 111 Federal avenue, occupied in part by Lafayette Gleason and by Forbes Craig, Jr. The fire was on the roof and was started by sparks from a passing locomotive. It burned over a space of six foot square and the loss was confined to the shingles necessary to replace those burned.

The third alarm of the evening sounded from Box 155 at 7.09 and was for a fire on the roof of a house at 25 Old Colony avenue owned by Mr. McDonald and occupied by Jeremiah Lynch. The fire was caused by sparks from a brush fire near by, alighting on the roof, and the loss was confined to a few shingles.

These three alarms kept the department on the jump and the passing of the Chief's auto and auto combination through City Square furnished some little excitement.

It seems as if before Gen. Villa issues an order, he should put Carranza's name on the bottom with a rubber stamp.

The Congressmen will probably be allowed to mail their speeches free, but fortunately there is no law compelling the public to read them.

Gen. Villa can't be expected to feel really good natured in the morning unless he has had a few executions to get up his appetite for breakfast.

HONOR TO OLD GLORY.

Victoriano Huerta is not by any means a grand old man, but one cannot help having a feeling of admiration for his dogged determination not to show too much of the white feather in dealing with Uncle Sam. Nevertheless is in the wrong and President Wilson is in the right and the Mexican band must play the "Star-spangled Banner" while Mexican cannon thunder out a salute of twenty-one guns, as Old Glory is raised to the top of the flag-staff. American guns will be then fired in acknowledgment of the salute and the incident will be closed.

There will be no real humiliation for Huerta involved, for the American nation is only insisting on a vindication of its dignity. The Mexican dictator's humiliation should lie in the fact that he did not apologize promptly and before any demand was made upon him, as any real diplomat would have done.

CARRANZA HINTS WAR ON BORDER

Wants Us to Withdraw Troops From Mexican Soil

SEIZURE OF VERA CRUZ AN ACT OF HOSTILITY

Letter From Rebel Leader Confirms Fears That He May Side With Huerta—Says He Will Soon Triumph Over Huerta and Make Ample Reparation For All Offenses—Huerta Expected to Soon Give O'Shaughnessy His Passports—Americans Under Admiral Fletcher Now Control Whole City of Vera Cruz, Which Is Now Quiet

Washington, April 23.—News that General Carranza, constitutionalist chief, had regarded the seizure of Vera Cruz by the American naval forces as an act of hostility to the Mexican nation fell like a bombshell in official circles. It was taken to mean that war with united Mexico is imminent.

President Wilson had especially disclaimed any act of hostility to the Mexican people, particularizing General Huerta as the object of the American operations to secure reprisal for offenses at Tampico and elsewhere against the American flag.

Consequently the Washington government had hoped the constitutionalists would remain silent and not interject themselves in the imbroglio. The Carranza letter, however, the text of which was communicated to Secretary Bryan, confirmed the fears of many officials that the constitutionalists might side with Huerta.

This was the one possibility which had been discussed in administration circles as the most serious phase in the situation. Should hostility on the part of the constitutionalists crystalize, plans of the army will be changed. There were reports that the joint army and navy board already had recommended the restoration of the embargo on arms.

Carranza, in his letter, pointed out that the seizure of Vera Cruz would be regarded as a hostile act by the Mexican people and that it was advisable for the United States to withdraw its troops from Vera Cruz just as soon as was practicable.

Carranza agreed with President Wilson that Huerta did not represent the Mexican nation, but, on the other hand, feared the Mexican people might be inflamed and drawn into a conflict which would make them sacrifices to the ursurpations of Huerta.

Carranza described the constitutionalist successes, saying Huerta was slowly being crushed, and that the constitutionalists soon would be in possession of the Mexican City government. When they triumped, he pointed out, ample reparation would be made for all offenses. In the meantime, he wished the United States to take no steps which would excite the Mexican populace.

Officials expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the promptness of Rear Admiral Fletcher's forces in taking possession of Vera Cruz and restoring order there.

Further steps are uncertain. The president has determined that his course shall be gradual. No orders have been issued to seize the custom house at Tampico. It is the purpose of the administration to keep order in Vera Cruz and await the full effect upon Huerta of the first act of reprisal by the American government.

There is every reason to believe that the railroad, running inland from Vera Cruz for twenty miles, and a valuable trestle will be policed by American marines and bluejackets. This section of the railroad is of supreme importance should future developments require a movement on Mexico City.

Beyond the holding of Vera Cruz and this railroad the Washington government does not want to act at present, but persons in the confidence of the administration admit that action by Huerta or Carranza at any time may alter completely the plans.

Fears for Americans in Mexico City and other parts of the troubled republic are expressed in many quarters. The house promptly passed a bill appropriating $500,000 to care for refugees.

Secretary Bryan said the status of Charge O'Shaughnessy and Charge Algara was unchanged, so far as he knew. Charge Algara has had, however, notification from his government that he may leave when he deems it advisable. This is regarded as possibly forecasting Huerta's giving passports to O'Shaughnessy.

Though international lawyers and men in congress are not exactly sure what the diplomatic relations of the United States toward Mexico are—whether a "state of war exists" without a declaration to that effect, or whether, as many precedents have shown, the present situation is merely an act of reprisal "short of war"—there is no doubt that relations between the Huerta de facto government and the United States have been broken.

COMMANDER MALPICA

The United States will not withdraw O'Shaughnessy unless he himself reports it advisable to do so, for the Washington government desires to maintain as long as possible a representative in Mexico City to care for American interests there. If necessary, however, arrangements may be made with some of the other foreign legations to look out for the interests of the United States and transmit such communications as may be necessary to the Huerta government.

NOW QUIET AT VERA CRUZ

Mexican Seaport In Possession of United States Naval Forces

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 23.—Six Americans killed and about thirty wounded marked the complete investment of Vera Cruz by the United States forces.

Rear Admiral Fletcher has taken up his headquarters at the Terminal hotel. The entire city is strongly patrolled and quiet prevails. Fletcher is now in command of the land operations, while Rear Admiral Badger, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, has brought his flag into the harbor on the Minnesota.

In the fighting Wednesday the casualties on the American side were R. Percy, marine, fatally wounded; K. Cristy, J. G. Bennett, H. Pulliam, C. C. Nordseck and H. Holhom, wounded.

Fletcher, at 8:30 o'clock in the morning, ordered a general movement for the occupation of all the town. A column of bluejackets advanced and passed the uncompleted market place and naval college.

When they had reached the walls of the college a terrific rifle fire was poured in all directions from the roof and the windows. The bluejackets were helpless to return the fire against the stone walls and scattered.

The Prairie, the Chester and the San Francisco opened with their five and six-inch guns and shattered the walls. The bluejackets re-formed and advanced against the fire, which had diminished greatly.

The number of Mexicans killed Tuesday is estimated at 150, with many wounded. The Mexican loss Wednesday is not known, but is thought to have been heavy.

The machine guns sounded their "tap-tap" in all quarters and American sharpshooters, posted at street corners and other points of vantage, picked off at will any man who appeared to be acting suspiciously.

Proclamations by Badger were posted, calling upon the mayor and other municipal authorities to assist in re-establishing order and providing for the safety of all citizens. The inhabitants were enjoined to maintain peace, not to fire upon the United States sailors or marines nor allow their houses to be used as shelters for sharpshooters under penalty of severe measures.

All fighting ceased and after that the city remained comparatively quiet. The American forces made no attempt to extend their occupation further. Captain Bush, who was in command of the entire invading force, said he had accomplished all he had had been ordered to do.

BIG SHIPS SET SAIL

Three Which Leave Boston Have Supplies For Three Months

Boston, April 23.—Three of Uncle Sam's fighting ships, with colors flying, bands playing and farewells being waved, steamed out of Charlestown navy yard today on the first leg of their trip to the Mexican coast.

Supplies sufficient to last without recharging for three months are on board, practically enough ammunition for the same length of time under normal conditions, and every man of the 3000 men with his kit bag and a double supply of small arms.

Because there was not a sufficient supply of the shells for the larger guns at the Hingham magazine, the Nebraska will go to New York, where she will take on further ammunition.

The Virginia, the flagship of the third division of the Atlantic fleet, which Rear Admiral Beatty commands, was the second to leave, with the Georgia close at her heels.

PRESIDENT IS AMPLY BACKED

House Overwhelmingly Concurs In Senate Resolution

VOTE IS ALMOST UNANIMOUS

Wilson Is Thus In Absolute Charge of Hostilities Against Mexico—No Rollcall Demanded and Measure Is Put Through With Great Rush—Congress Asked For $500,000 to Bring Americans Home From Mexico—Money Grant Not Necessary

Washington, April 23.—Congress placed President Wilson in absolute charge of hostilities against Mexico. The resolution "justifying" his course and giving him unlimited power to use every material force was passed by both the senate and house.

Following passage by the senate by a vote of 72 to 13 of the Mexican resolution, the house took similar action by a viva voce vote.

No rollcall was demanded in the lower legislative body. A feeble chorus of "noes" was drowned in a thunderous volume of "ayes" and the resolution was concurred in by the house and sent post haste to the president, who immediately signed it.

Less than a half-hour was required for the action of the house. The resolution was laid before it and fifteen minutes later it was roared into law.

The senate had talked and disputed and quibbled over the words in the resolution. The house acted at once. There was practically no debate. Chairman Flood of the foreign affairs committee called up the resolution, as amended by the senate.

The text of the resolution as finally passed is as follows:

"In view of the facts presented by the President of the United States in his address to congress in joint session on the 20th of April, 1914, with regard to certain affronts and indignities committed against the United States in Mexico,

"Resolved, That the president is justified in the employment of the armed forces of the United States to enforce his demands for unequivocal amends for the affronts and indignities committed against the United States. Be it futher

"Resolved, That the United States disclaims any hostility to the Mexican people or any purpose to make war upon them."

In addressing the house in support of the substitute for the house resolution of justification, Mr. Flood said that when he introduced the original resolution Monday he believed it was in proper form to carry out the purposes outlined in the address of the president.

"The original resolution made it clear that this country was not hostile to the Mexican people," said Flood, "and did not desire to make war on Mexico.

"The senate amendment states this in so many words. The substance of this resolution is, therefore, unchanged. In this momentous hour, and in the circumstances confronting this country, prompt action justifying and approving the course of the president is of the utmost importance, and it would be childish to quibble over the words of the resolution when the substance is the same; and this is the view of the president.

"I fear an attempt has been made by gentlemen on the other side to make partisan capital of the present unfortunate situation between this country and Mexico. I hope the gentlemen have exhausted their misguided efforts in that direction and that this house will give its approval to the chief executive of this nation without a single dissent."

"I do not believe we ought to engage in a war with Mexico at this time for the reason suggested by the president," said Mr. Mann, who followed Flood.

"Mr. Speaker, if we pass this resolution we have entered on war. Already we have fired on and killed Mexican citizens already involved in war in Mexico. I believe we ought to be patriotic enough to try to recure peace. I have believed 'watchful waiting' policy would involve us in war. I had hoped we might prevent it."

Members of the house military affairs committee, including Chairman Hay, decided not to concur in the senate amendments to the volunteer army bill, but to ask for a conference with the senate. They did this, believing that the need of raising a volunteer army for Mexican service is remote enough to justify delay caused by the conference.

President Wilson later sent to both branches of congress a message asking for an immediate appropriation of $500,000, to be used to bring Americans now in Mexico back to their homes in the United States. The message was referred to the appropriations committee. The president's message to congress follows:

"In view of the exigency created by the existing situation in the republic of Mexico, I recommend the immediate passage by congress of an act appropriating $500,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be placed at the disposal of the president for the purpose of providing means to bring to their homes in the United States American citizens now in Mexico."

Mr. Underwood announced that he did not expect the house to act on any bill appropriating money for war purposes in Mexico at the present time. "We have plenty of money now unless the president expects to march to Mexico City," said Underwood. "As far as I know, the president has no such intention."

Informal discussion was heard on the senate side of the Capitol regarding an emergency appropriation to provide for the national defense, but the leaders contend that the time is not quite ripe for such action. At the outset of the Spanish war, congress rushed through a $50,000,000 appropriation for an emergency fund for unlimited unconditional use in the discretion of President McKinley.

Senator Chamberlain already has introduced a bill to provide a $50,000,000 emergency appropriation. Chairman Martin and Chairman Fitzgerald of the senate and house appropriations committees, respectively, declared that an emergency appropriation was unnecessary yet, as there were plenty of men and vessels and equipment now in Mexican waters. Both, however, said that when the time came there would be no delay in providing the necessary funds.

AN AMPLE WAR FUND

Only Tentative Plans For Financing Mexican Situation Considered

Washington, April 23.—That the United States could finance a war with Mexico and scarcely feel it, is the view authoritatively expressed here.

The government's finances are considered to be in excellent condition—so good in fact, that even the treasury officials who are in closest touch with the situation have given only tentative consideration to the subject of providing a war fund.

It is said no plans for raising money yet have been considered, as current appropriations for the navy and the army in view of the officials will be sufficient for present needs and as it will cost no more to maintain the fleet in Mexican waters than in United States waters.

In the event of extraordinary expenses, which would arise naturally during a state of war, money could be raised, it is pointed out, precisely as it was raised during the Spanish-American war, through extraordinary taxes. It has been estimated that a beer and stamp tax would increase the revenues of the government by at least $100,000,000 a year.

STAND BY THE PRESIDENT

Ex-President Taft Declares It to Be the Duty of Every American

New York, April 23.—William H. Taft received the news of the stirring events at Vera Cruz at the home of his brother, Henry W. Taft. After he had been given the full details of the fighting at Vea Cruz, he was informed that a statement from him would undoubtedly be of public benefit.

"If you think that," said Taft, "I will gladly make it. I deeply deplore the killing of our marines and bluejackets at Vera Cruz. It is unnecessary for me to say with what abhorrence I view war, but I am heartily supporting the president in this matter. It is the duty of every American to stand by Mr. Wilson on an occasion like this, when we have become involved in a quarrel with another country."

WOTHERSPOON HEADS ARMY

Wood, However, Will Retain Chief Command For the Present

Washington, April 23.—Major General Wotherspoon assumed his duties as chief-of-staff of the army, succeeding Major General Wood, who has been selected to be commander-in-chief of the army in the event it is sent into Mexico.

Wood had been formally assigned to command of the Atlantic division, with headquarters at Governor's island, N. Y., but the orders to that effect were cancelled as the result of developments in Mexico.

General Scott, until recently in command of a cavalry brigade at Fort Bliss, Tex., became assistant chief-of-staff of the army, succeeding Wotherspoon.

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY
HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC SCHOOLS
WOODWARD INSTITUTE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

This month, with the coming of spring, the bulletins in the Children's Room have been made attractive with gay-colored pictures of fairies and flowers. Many of the pictures are illustrations of such stories as Mother Goose and Andersen's Fairy tales, with which the children are quite familiar. But the interest is centered not only on the bright-colored bulletins, for over fifty new and attractive books have already been added to the shelves this month. There are twenty-six new copies of Andrew Lang's Fairy tales, so eagerly in demand by the younger children—also several new boarding-school and club stories for girls, as well as corresponding baseball and scout books for boys. Two helpful books on electricity and wireless telegraphy are already in circulation among the scientifically minded children, while new historical stories, and biographies also claim their share of interest. A list of these books is posted on the bulletin in the Children's Room.

SCHOOL NOTES.

The Industrial School was visited today by Robert O. Small, Deputy Commissioner of Education accompanied by C. T. C. Whitcomb of Brockton, who will be in charge of the Massachusetts Educational exhibit at the Panama Exposition in California, and Meyer Bloomfield, lecturer on vocational guidance at Harvard University. The two gentlemen last named came in the interest of their special work. The State Board of Education considers the plan of industrial education as worked out in Quincy and in Beverly, the most efficient now operating in New England, and a chart display will be made at the Panama Exposition illustrating the scope of work in these two cities.

EVENING SCHOOL.

The Adams Evening school closed on Friday evening, April 17, with a musical entertainment arranged from among the pupils of the school. Certificates were awarded to 68 people who had been in attendance for more than 75 per cent of the number of nights in the term. The average attendance proved to be 118, and the aggregate evenings' attendance was 9408. Considered by nationalities there were 2 Greeks, 1 American, 1 Austrian, 1 Chinaman, 226 Italians, 43 Jews, 82 Russians, 34 Spanish, 56 Syrians, 34 Swedes, 1 Welshman and 4 Lettish.

VACATION.

All the schools of the city close Friday for the spring vacation. Following this vacation will come a term of seven weeks for the grades, and eight weeks for the High school. The musical programme for the graduations which occur on June 19 and 24 are already being prepared.

PRE-VOCATIONAL CLASSES.

It is worth while for persons interested in children to visit the Willard school and see the practical work that has been done this year by the special classes for boys in that building. While much of the work has been taken away to other buildings, a large amount of it is ready for inspection at the Willard. The boys are now engaged in constructing the large library table that will be used at the Wollaston school in the school reading room.

SCHOOL BASE BALL.

With the opening of the new term the Grammar School base ball league will start its season. Each year the league has shown increasingly better and cleaner sport and has attracted larger crowds of spectators. With clean sport played under clean conditions as an attraction, the pupils attend the games in ever increasing numbers.

SUMMER SCHOOLS.

The following circular letter by the United States Commissioner of Education has been given wide publicity and deserves consideration.

"In the cities, towns, manufacturing villages, and unincorporated suburban communities of the United States there are approximately 13,000,000 children between the ages of 6 and 20. Of these, more than 9,500,000 are enrolled in the public and private schools. The average daily attendance is about 6,500,000. These children are taught by more than 300,000 teachers, at an annual cost for all purposes of about $200,000,000.

"The city schools are in session about 180 days in the year. The average daily session is 5 hours. Children who attend school regularly and without tardiness have 900 hours of schooling in the year. The average attendance of those enrolled is 120 days, or 600 hours. There are in the year 8,760 hours, 5,110 waking hours for children who sleep 10 hours a day.

"Children who attend school the full time are in the school a little less than one-third of the waking hours of 180 days and not in school at all 185 days. The average attendance is only about one-third of the waking hours of 120 days with no attendance on 245 days. Children who attend all of the school hours of the year are in school 900 hours, and out of school 4,200 waking hours; the average is 600 hours in school and 4,510 waking hours out of school.

"Probably 5 per cent of the school children of the cities and towns and suburban communities go away during the summer to the country and summer resorts; 10 per cent. or less have some useful occupation through the vacation months, and 85 per cent. or more are at home without useful occupation. They spend the time in idleness on the streets and alleys without guidance, on vacant lots, or swelter in crowded houses and on superheated streets. Much that was learned in school at previous sessions is forgotten; many of the children become criminals, and still more form habits of idleness.

"The schools, which are established and maintained for the purpose of educating children into manhood and womanhood, of preparing them for society and citizenship, and of giving them such knowledge and training as will enable them to make an honest living, should provide some kind of instruction for the great mass of these children through what is now, in most cities, a long, wasteful vacation. I believe no one will claim that the addition of 400 or 500 hours to the number now spent in school would be a burden to any child. The addition of three school months of five hours a day would mean only 300 hours to the school year to children attending regularly and promptly, and only 200 hours to the average child on the basis of present attendance. This would give 1,200 hours for children attending the full time and 800 hours for the average child; of course much less than this for many.

"Possibly the school day in the summer session should be not more than 4 hours; that is from 7 or 8 o'clock to 11 or 12 o'clock in the forenoon. School work can be much better done during these hours in the summer than in the present school hours of the winter months. Attendance is easier and buildings do not need to be heated.

"Where such a program is organized, it may be found necessary to change the school work, so as to give more laboratory and shopwork during the summer sessions than in the winter and less of the ordinary bookwork. Children attending the summer session under these conditions would, no doubt, be much happier and healthier than they are turned loose, with nothing to do, on the streets and alleys. It is a mistake to suppose that children do not like to work. All children do like to work at whatever is of real benefit to them until they learn to be idle.

"A number of careful studies made in different parts of the country and in schools of different kinds indicate that children really do not study in school more than an average of 3 hours a day, whatever may be the length of the daily session. For children in the primary grades, the time is less; for the high-school grades, somewhat more. That includes not only the time which children give to their studies out of the class, but the time in which they really attend to their work in class.

"This indicates the desirability of re-organizing school work in such a way as to give 3 hours a day, for intensive school work of the ordinary type, and to provide 4 or 5 hours of productive work suited to the capacity of the child, either at home, in shops under good conditions, in outdoor gardens, or in shops provided by the school.

With this kind of an organization, it would be very easy for children to work at ordinary school work 3 hours a day 6 days in the week, through 11 calendar months in the year, and at the same time contribute largely to their own support by well-directed, productive educational work, either at home or in the school, thus making it possible for the great majority of children to remain in school throughout the high-school period.

"The cost of adding the three months of school would be comparatively little. There would be no cost for fuel, the cost of attendance would be less, and the additional cost for teachers would not be in proportion to the number of days added. Whatever may be the terms of the contract, teachers are in fact employed by the year. Comparatively few of them use the vacation months in any profitable way. An addition of an average of $300 to the annual salary of the teachers would require a total of less than $10,000,000, or about 3 per cent. of the total annual cost of the schools.

"For most teachers the additional months would not be a hardship, especially if the school days were shortened. Certainly this is true if teachers could be relieved of a large amount of unnecessary bookkeeping, report making, and the reading of unnecessary examination papers, with which they are now burdened. It would cost very little more to employ teachers by the year, each teacher teaching three quarters as is now done in many universities and colleges."

—State Highway Commissioner C. W. Gates says he does not remember a year since he has been in his present position when there was so much enthusiasm for good roads in Vermont as at the outset of the present season for road-making. Such an enthusiasm is the evidence of a progressive Vermont, developed after years of prodding. The enthusiasm put into effective work is sure to bring good results to the state. So let it develop.—Barre, Vt. Times.

—Official figures show that Boston's fire loss last year was ten times as large as the average for a dozen of the leading cities of Europe, but one reason for the difference may be that the leading cities of Europe are largely built of stone.—Somerville Journal.

NEW PRESIDENT OF PHILERGIANS

Annual Reports Show Achievements of Year

The third Tuesday in April is the date usually reserved for the annual meeting of the Philergians of Braintree. To those members who are concerned about the club's advancement the meeting has an absorbing interest, and the one on Tuesday was no disappointment to any Philergian. There were many accounts of the years' work rendered by earnest workers who had devoted strength and energy toward a desired goal. Our president, Mrs. Lucy C. Wales graciously presided and after calling for the usual reports of the recording and corresponding secretaries, the reports of the various chairmen were in order.

Mrs. Flora A. McCarter reported for the Simmons scholarship fund, explaining the process by which a girl from the Braintree High school obtained the privilege of taking a course in domestic science at that most excellent college. A letter was read from Miss Mary Salls, thanking the club for assistance and outlining her course of study. It is generally understood that this work was started by the members of the Woman's exchange in 1909.

Mrs. Caroline A. Bill rendered an account of the annual dramatics which were given in Bates hall on the afternoon of March 17. It will be recalled that the play was Sheridan's five act comedy, "The Rivals," and that the cast was composed of twelve club members whose earnestness and faithfulness made the performance an artistic success. The proceeds were most satisfactory, and Mrs. Bill solicited advertisements for the program the proceeds of which were donated to the work of the summer school, the club afterwards voting to increase the sum to $50.

Mrs. Harold Gage gave a most complete idea of the work of the Friendly Aid association, and stated that at present a Braintree patient was occupying the bed at the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston, which has been endowed by the association. The Pond Home for the Aged, a most worthy institution which is managed under the efficient eye of the Kings Daughters and Sons of Norfolk County, has been generously remembered, and the present district nurse, Miss Mary Smith is doing splendid work among the sick, ailing and needy.

The recording secretary who was chairman of the endowment fund committee reported that the money for that purpose had been raised partly by solicitation from club members and partly through the medium of an auction bridge party held at the home of Mrs. E. L. Webber, Hollis avenue.

The annual report of the recording secretary was most complete and gave club members an excellent chance to refresh their memories concerning the year's work. Few realize the arduous duties of our efficient corresponding secretary. The fact that 1299 pieces of mail were handled by her during her past term of office is overwhelming, but is only a part of the valuable service she has rendered.

The treasurer's report and that of the auditor were called for and accepted.

Some facts stated by the custodians are herewith given:

Total attendance,	3272
Total attendance of members,	2020
Total attendance of guests,	1252
Average number of guests	96
Smallest meeting, Mar. 3	98
Largest meeting April 7	659

Mrs. Caroline A. Bill, chairman of the art committee told of the four lectures on Italian art given by Mr. Pietro Isola in the laboratory of Thayer Academy with Dr. William Gallagher assisting. She also reminded the members of their privilege to visit the Museum of Fine Arts, Boston, by applying to the chairman of the art committee for tickets for admission.

Mrs. Mildred W. Bower described the work of the civics and conservative committee. It is estimated that about 400 children will have gardens of flowers and vegetables this year. The little folks show great enthusiasm and the talks on home gardening provided for their benefit during the year have proved helpful.

Many are looking forward to the practical cooking and sewing lessons which were conducted last year under the competent leadership of Mrs. Frances L. Conway, chairman of home economics and her committee. Mrs. Conway outlined the recent season's work, told of possible plans, and succeeded in obtaining an appropriation for the work.

Mrs. Katherine T. Gould, chairman of the music committee reported that most necessary part of the clubs program and showed that many had been generous in contributing to the musical part of the club's program, gratis.

Mrs. Jennie B. Worster, chairman of the social service and education committee, took small credit to herself for work accomplished, she but pushed the button. Her committee did the rest. Her report was refreshing and original.

Mrs. Carolyn A. Gallagher gave a most comprehensive idea of the work of the hospitality committee. The work of this committee is worthy of especial mention as its mission is conducive to club advancement and sociability.

Mrs. Mabel F. Knight spoke of the duties of the legislative committee and proved that the chairman was —That chemicals will entirely take the place of water within the next five years as a means of fighting fire was the prophecy made at a recent convention of fire fighters. In the large cities most of the small fires are now put out with chemicals, and it is not a big step from this to the use of guns for shooting powdered chemicals or chemical bombs into buildings for putting out blazes. As an argument against the use of water, a case was referred to where in a small fire the fire loss was $5,000, while the loss due to the water poured on the flames amounted to no less than about $20,000.

Milton Academy played a ten inning game with the Huntington School of Boston Wednesday afternoon and lost 2 to 1. The features of the game were the three base hit, and excellent fielding of Trainor of Milton. The batteries were, for Milton: Swiget, Felton; for Huntington: Bishop, Ziegler.

Twenty or more men have come out for the base ball team at Cunningham gym and coach "Bill" Eaton expects to get a very fast team. The men practiced Saturday and Monday mornings and the first game is with the Fenway School of Boston on Saturday at home. An important notice is that all games will be played at home.

Weymouth High won its fourth successive victory Wednesday by beating Braintree High 6 to 3.

Milton Academy was defeated by Huntington school, 2 to 1 in a 10 inning game at Milton on Wednesday.

The teams of the West Quincy base ball league have chosen their managers and candidates are reporting regularly for practice. Michael Kiley will manage the St. Mary's team and Richard Barry will have the Copeland team in charge. Joseph McTiernan is the choice of the members of Div. 22, and although Charles J. McHugh has not been named as the Ave Maria manager it is probable that he will be.

Paul Poehler won the three-string prize with 389, and the high average with 111, in the Boston City League which closed on Wednesday night. He is the anchor on the Chauncey team and his final total was 313: The quintette holds the season record of 592 for a team single. Upham of the Hayward team had high single, 156.

POLICE GAMES.

Player-Manager Jeremiah Dineen of the base ball team of the Quincy policemen has issued the call for candidates, and all the men who played last season are available this year, together with several additional men who will strengthen the team. Practice is being held daily.

The Quincy team is in the division of the Massachusetts Police base ball league with Cambridge, Chelsea, Newton, Metropolitan Park and Boston. The winners of this division will play the winner of the other division in a post season series for the championship. The Quincy schedule is:

May 12 Quincy at Newton.
19 Chelsea at Quincy.
26 Met. Park at Quincy.
June 2 Quincy at Boston.
9 Cambridge at Quincy.
16 Newton at Quincy.
23 Quincy at Chelsea.
30 Quincy at Met. Park.
July 7 Boston at Quincy.

THE FOURTH DIMENSION.

It Is an Unprovable Theory, as It Is Based Upon the Unknown.

In answer to the following interesting question, "I understand that a crawling insect knows only two dimensions, length and breadth, all lines being horizontal to it and that it cannot conceive of a perpendicular; do I understand correctly that the fourth dimension is to us as the third is to the insect?" Edgar Lucien Larkin in the New York American says:

"We do not know the mind of the insect and cannot decide whether the third dimension is known to it. And the fourth dimension is not surely known to man.

"To be known geometrically a straight line must be drawn perpendicularly to three others mutually perpendicular—that is, a perpendicular must be constructed to all three sides of a cube. But this is impossible to the geometer.

"Mind as now phasing in man does not know what anything is. Then it does not know what space is, although space is supposed not to be a thing. Yet we say space includes all things. If we know nothing about space we do not know, therefore, whether it is curved or not. But the fourth dimension is a transcendental concept based on the curious theory that space has curvature, all of which is unknown and not proved."

MONEY VALUE OF SMOKE.

Over Half the Heat Energy of Coal Goes Up the Chimney.

To the engineer the smoke rolling and billowing out of the power house chimney is just like so many dollars taking wings from the company's strong box. The smoke escaping from a steam plant is composed of nearly 60 per cent of the heat energy of the coal which is being burned.

This energy is lost in the tiny particles of coal and carbon which escape up the chimney in the various gases which are freed before they are burned in the heated air and in various other ways. So, for every $10 spent for coal $6.50 is lost up the chimney.

Assuming that the energy of coal is 100 per cent, only 2 per cent of this is available in the form of light when you snap on the electric lamps. Nearly 99 per cent of the original coal energy is lost in transmitting this energy into heat, from heat to steam, from steam to electricity and in transmitting the electricity to your home.

The efficiency of the electric lamp is only 5 per cent—in other words, the lamp turns into light 5 per cent of the energy it receives and wastes 95 per cent of it in useless heat.—New York World.

Poetry and Poverty.

Writing of Poets' Corner, W. J. Loftie, in "Westminster Abbey," comments on the frequent and pathetic alliance between poetry and poverty. The first of the poets laid here, Chaucer—who dwelt in a house in the monastery garden known as "The Rose"—"fell into poverty in his old age." Spenser, according to Drummond of Hawthornden, "died for lake of bread" in King's street, Westminster. Ben Jonson "died in great poverty" in a house on the north side of the abbey, near St. Margaret's. Dryden is another immortal to whom the same fate attaches; also Butler of "Hudibras" fame. Chaucer's house was demolished to make way for Henry VII.'s chapel. His gray marble tomb dates only from 1555. Though so late in erection, it is good to recall that the tomb was the gift of a brother poet in happier material circumstances, Nicholas Brigham.

"We, the People of England."

Every one has heard of "the three tailors of Tooley street," but it is not generally known that only two of them were actually tailors. The three men were John Grose, tailor, Tooley street; Thomas Satterly, tailor, Weston street, and George Sandham, grocer, Bermondsey street. They were accustomed to meet after business hours at a public house in Tooley street in Southwark to drink beer, smoke their pipes, talk politics and discuss public affairs. During the movement for Catholic emancipation, when Canning was prime minister, these three worthies determined to petition parliament on the subject, and they commenced the document with these words, "We, the people of England!"—London Express.

Shakespeare's Descendants.

Besides his first child, Susanna, Shakespeare's only other children were a boy and a girl, twins, born in 1585. Susanna married a Dr. Hall, a Stratford physician, in 1607, was left a widow in 1635 and died in 1640. She had only one child, a daughter, who, though twice married, left no children. Of the twins, the boy, named Hamnet, died at the age of eleven, and the girl, Judith, married Thomas Quincy and had three sons, who all died childless.

This Is a Fact.

"When a man loves a girl in a novel he raves about her through forty chapters. In real life he never mentions her name."

"What's the application?"

"Merely that realism in a love story is not possible."—St. Louis Republic.

CHILDREN AND WOMEN KILLED

Many Fall In Labor War In Southern Colorado

MINING CAMPS ARE DESTROYED

Stope of Mine Where Many Had Taken Refuge Is Shattered With Dynamite—Another Mine Sealed and Fired When Manager and Others Seek Refuge From Bullets

Trinidad, Col., April 23.—Eleven children, two women and seven men were dead at the end of the third day of fighting in the southern Colorado labor war.

Dynamite was thrown into the stope of the Empire mine, where between twenty and thirty men, women and children are said to have taken refuge. Three men, two women and a baby are reported to be entombed in a mine that has been fired at the top.

Several mining camps have been destroyed and others riddled with bullets. Less than 200 militiamen and company guards are confronting an army of striking coal miners estimated by strike leaders to include more than 400.

The list of dead on the side of the operators is now believed to include William Waddell, superintendent of the Empire mine of the Southwestern Fuel company; John Church, engineer of the Empire mine; an unidentified miner, killed at the Empire; David Donovan, a carpenter at the Delagua mine of the Victor American Fuel company; Fred Dougherty, a guard at Delagua, found dead in the hills; Carl Johnson, employed at Delagua; Felix Gonzales and Joe Chavez, guards at Delagua, who are missing and are supposed to be dead somewhere in the hills above Hastings Canyon.

It is reported that J. W. Siple, manager of the Empire and Southwestern mines of the Southwestern Fuel company, with Mrs. Waddell and her baby, Mrs. McIntyre, wife of the camp blacksmith, and other men, took refuge in the Empire mine when bullets began to pierce the walls of the company office, and that the mine has been sealed and fired.

State Militia Mobilizes

Denver, April 23.—The entire enlistment of state militia, including all branches of service, was ordered to mobilize at the two armories in Denver to await further orders for service in the Trinidad strike zone.

Officials of the United Mine Workers in Denver are formulating plans for the succor and care of the inhabitants of the Ludlow tent colony, which was destroyed by fire after the armed conflict between members of the state militia and strikers at Ludlow.

It was reported here at union headquarters that 200 of their people were missing. Union officials put the maximum death list as the result of the battle at fifty. Talk of a general strike in sympathy with the miners has been revived.

HIGH SCHOOL ON STRIKE

Students Resent Enforced Resignation of the Principal

Saugus, Mass., April 23.—Virtually every student in the Saugus high school went on strike as a result of the recent enforced resignation of Principal James F. Butterworth. The pupils, headed by a fife and drum corps and carrying transparencies reading "We want Butterworth," paraded through the principal streets of the town and were loudly cheered.

Butterworth had advised against any demonstration of this kind, but the students were determined to take things in their own hands and the strike and consequent parade resulted.

MRS. WAKEFIELD IS TAKEN FROM PRISON

Guilt Must Be Established Independently of Plew's

New Haven, April 23.—Mrs. Bessie J. Wakefield, convicted and sentenced to death on a charge of having been implicated in the murder of her husband, reached New Haven from the state prison to await her new trial. The date of the second trial has not yet been fixed.

The authorities have just received the first official record of the decision of the supreme court granting the accused woman a new trial and found the court held Mrs. Wakefield's guilt must be established independently of James Plew's. The latter was hanged in March for murdering Wakefield.

The court held that silent acquiesence is not a sign of guilt and that if Mrs. Wakefield knew of Plew's plans, but did not participate in the killing, she is not guilty.

BEACH IS SENTENCED

Gem Robber Receives a Term of Four to Five Years In Prison

Portsmouth, N. H., April 23.—Edgar L. Beach, who has many aliases and much fame as an international crook, pleaded guilty to the Studebaker jewel robbery in which gems valued at $15,000 were taken from the summer home of the multimillionaire automobile manufacturer at Rye Beach two summers ago.

Judge Chamberlain sentenced him to a term of four to five years.

Beach posed as a butler at the Studebaker mansion for several weeks before he finally decided to pull off the robbery. When the entire family was away from home he rifled the house.

Detectives captured him in Philadelphia and he was held there for a robbery. After serving a year in the Homesburg county jail, he was brought to Portsmouth to face trial on the charge of committing the Studebaker robbery.

MOST NEEDFUL KIND OF TRAINING

Elementary Schooling Is More Practical Than Specialization.

STRIKING FACTS REVEALED.

Sage Foundation Educators Report Results of Investigation In Twenty-eight American Cities—Find That About Half the Boys Will Leave Home Cities to Earn Livelihoods.

With a view of determining how to fit school courses to the needs of pupils after leaving school, the division of education of the Sage foundation has made a study of all boys of thirteen years of age in the public schools of twenty-eight American cities. One-half of the thirteen-year-old boys in the public schools are in grades of the first six years of the elementary schools, and that age was fixed upon for the purposes of the investigation as being the last year of compulsory school attendance. The results of the investigation are reported by Director Leonard P. Ayres in the Elementary Schoolteacher.

One of the first facts learned about the thirteen-year-old pupils was that they were scattered through all grades of the school course from kindergarten to the last year of high school. More significant still, it was found that half of them were in the sixth grade or below. This fact was regarded as important, since in general the children who drop out of school earliest are those who are retarded seriously and are found in the lower grades at advanced ages. These are the boys who must leave school soon to go to work with an educational preparation inadequate to fit them for the ranks of industry with profit either to themselves or the community.

"Another point brought out by this investigation," says the report, "was that there is a wide range of conditions in the various cities. In those making the poorest showing scarcely one in ten of these thirteen-year-old boys was in the seventh grade or above, while in the cities at the other end of the list eight boys out of every ten were in sight of completing the common school course.

General Schooling More Important.

"The lesson in these figures is that in many cities the problem of securing a reasonably complete elementary schooling for all the children is far more pressing than that of instituting specialized industrial training.

"The next set of data obtained gives the birthplaces of these boys and their fathers. The inquiry showed that only about one father in six is now living in the city of his birth, and that among the boys only a few more than one-half are now living where they were born. These facts are significant because it is often urged that the schools should develop courses of industrial training that will directly prepare the children to enter the local industries. But if present conditions maintain in the future the great majority of adults are not going to work in the same communities in which they receive their schooling."

The occupations of the fathers were studied in the hope that they might furnish a sort of index as to the life work that the young people now in the schools may be expected to choose.

"One surprising fact shown by the returns," the report says, "is that only about one-half of these men are found in the industries of transformation which include the building trades and all classes of manufacturing. This is important, because plans for inaugurating systems of vocational training are commonly based on the proposition that a large majority of the young people in our city schools will find their life work in these industries.

Professional Workers In the Lead.

"More of these men are engaged in professional work than are engaged in unskilled labor. The group of managers, superintendents and proprietors is practically as large as that made up of semiskilled laborers. The mental workers constitute more than one-third of all the workers.

"In American cities of 50,600 population and above there are twenty 'constant occupations' in which the number of workingmen is everywhere at least equal to one for each thousand of population, and seven 'constant occupations' in which the number of women workers is at least equal to one in each 1,000 population.

"Other conditions being equal, vocational education and vocational guidance may well consider favoring 'constant occupations' over localized ones."

BURN SILK BEFORE BUYING.

University Course Tells How to Tell if Fabric Is Pure.

Why did your last year's silk split and crack?

Because it was adulterated.

You might have tested it easily before purchasing and saved both money and worry.

A piece of silk and a match are all you need for the test. Light the match and apply it to the fabric. If it holds its shape the silk is adulterated with some of the various minerals so used. If it runs together in a puffy mass the silk is pure.

This is one of the tests given in the new correspondence course in fabrics offered by the extension division of the University of Wisconsin.

The Mistake of Her Life

It Was Rectified by a Third Party

By MAY C. ETHERIDGE

I am fond of motoring and am considered about as good a driver as any woman in the town in which I live. In summer I make long tours, sometimes extending over several weeks.

One night while touring I stopped at a neat farmhouse, the owner and sole occupant of which was a young woman about twenty-seven and comely, but there was a dissatisfied expression on her face as though she had met with some serious disappointment.

She told me her name was Elizabeth Wilson; her father and mother were dead and had left her the property on which she lived—a dairy farm. She had nothing to complain of except loneliness. I suggested that an attractive young woman with a nice farm should have no trouble in getting a good husband, the best panacea for loneliness. This brought about a confidence which resulted in her giving me the cause of her disappointed look.

"The trouble about men," she said, "is that they don't understand us women."

"And perhaps," I interrupted, "we women don't understand men."

"When I was a girl living here with my parents a man named Warren bought a farm down where the road crosses the creek. He had a son named Abner. I first met Abner Warren at a cornhusking, and he picked me out among all the girls present, dancing with me oftener than with any of the rest of them. He seemed then to be a fine, manly fellow who could look any one straight in the eye. He didn't treat me right afterward, but however he acted he had that same honest pride in his look.

"Two or three of the girls made a dead set for him, and Agnes Walker got him. I thought at the time she must have managed it very adroitly, and I couldn't understand his engaging himself to her when he had—at least on our first acquaintance—favored me. Agnes was not well liked by us girls, and that was another reason why I was surprised at Abner's engaging himself to her.

"I SPOKE OF HER IN VERY HIGH TERMS."

"The engagement between these two didn't last long. I never understood why it was broken, and no one else seemed to know. Abner never said a word about it. As for Agnes, all she would say was that she didn't care. It was whispered about that she didn't confine her lovemaking to Abner, and he objected to having to divide it with some one else. It was the general impression that Agnes was one of that kind of girls who make, or seem to make, easy conquests of men, but who don't seem to have the faculty of holding them after they get them.

"As soon as Abner Warren broke with Agnes he renewed his attentions to me. I was glad enough to get him back, though his affair with her left a scar in me. He was very respectful to me as well as attentive, and it was not long before he proposed to me. Before I accepted him I told him I thought I had a right to know what had passed between him and Agnes. He replied that he didn't think I had any such right. I gave up the point, though I was not satisfied to do so, and we became engaged.

"All went well with us till one day Bettie Underwood came to see me, ostensibly to talk about some church matter, but I've always believed since that she had another object in view. While we were talking she asked me if I'd heard that Agnes Walker and Cyrus Buckley were engaged. I said I had not, remarking at the same time that if it were so Agnes had not been a long while getting over her affair with Abner. Bet replied that Agnes wouldn't marry Abner on any account. Naturally I asked why.

"'You don't know anything about that matter,' she said. 'You've, doubtless, heard Abner's side of the story, but you've never heard Agnes'.'

"'I've never heard either side,' I replied.

"She went on talking about something else, but what she had said left a very unpleasant impression on me. I tried not to think of it, but the more I tried to banish it the more it persisted in coming back to me. At last I could stand it no longer and spoke to Abner about it, telling him what Bettie Underwood had said.

"He seemed ill at ease and tried to turn the matter aside. This made me the more suspicious, and I told him that if he had treated Agnes badly I should know it, for if a man will deal wrongfully with one woman he will do so with another. To this he replied that a girl about to be married had best leave alone her lover's previous affairs with women. Her only concern was his treatment of her.

"I insisted that he should make a clean breast of it, and he refused. Then I took off the engagement ring he had given me and handed it to him. He looked at me for a few moments with a sorrowful expression, then told me that I was making the mistake of my life, and would prove the truth of what he said. He wouldn't treat any woman badly unless she treated him or some one whom he loved badly, and then not for revenge, but for infliction of a just punishment. He left me and has never been to see me since."

My hostess paused in her story, and I saw that what her lover had said to her was true. She, not he, had made the mistake of a life. Doubtless there was something between him and the girl he had broken with that he could not speak of without casting blame upon her. If both were at fault there was all the more reason that whatever it was it should be kept secret. There are many affairs of little or much importance that cannot be unraveled without a regular trial, and even then it is often impossible to extract the truth.

But I said nothing of this to the story teller—at least, not then. I was curious to know what her lover meant by saying that he would prove that she was making a mistake in endeavoring to force him to make a clean breast of his relations with his first fiancee. So I asked her if there was no more to tell.

"Yes," she continued, "there is one very important matter to tell. Soon after Abner's parting with me I heard that he had become attentive to Bettie Underwood. I inquired if Bettie accepted his attentions and was informed that she was very much pleased with them. Can it be, I thought, that she will engage herself to the man against whom she had covertly warned me? I had not long to wait for an answer to my question. It was soon generally understood that Abner and Bettie were engaged. One day I met Bet in the street and asked her if the report was true. She said it was and flounced away from me, evidently desiring to avoid a discussion of what she knew I had on my mind."

Again the narrator paused, and I asked her if she had finished her story.

"There is little more to tell," she said. "The engagement between Abner and Bettie lasted just one month when it was broken off. Since Abner never came to see me after I returned my engagement ring I could not ask him what it all meant. I suppose he engaged himself to Bettie to show me how silly I had been to permit her to make a breach between him and me, and that she did it because she wanted him herself. I doubt if she was a girl of much feeling, for she married some one else within a year after she broke with Abner."

I asked Miss Wyman if Abner Warren had married, and she said he had not. He had since inherited the farm on which he lived and kept house alone. Before leaving I asked to be informed of its location, thinking that I would like to meet him. It happened that my route passed his house, and I made up my mind I would find an excuse to have a word with him.

I bid my hostess a sympathetic goodby, promising to make her a visit on another occasion, then started again on my travels. When I reached the house of Abner Warren I left my car at the gate, and, seeing a man at work, asked him some questions as to the roads I was to traverse. In the course of the conversation I gave him an opportunity to tell me his name and learned that he was the man I sought. Then I asked him for a glass of buttermilk and sat on the porch of his house while he got it for me.

While drinking the buttermilk I told him that I had been entertained by a Miss Elizabeth Wyman, who lived a few miles down the road, and I spoke of her in very high terms. I told him that I wondered that so lovely and attractive a woman had not been appropriated and hinted that I surmised she had experienced a disappointment.

I could not help being amused at the interest he took in the subject, and when I added that Miss Wyman was one of those true women who when they gave their hearts away would never withdraw them I hoped he would give me his confidence, but he did not, proving himself to be the kind of man I supposed him to be from the story I had heard. However, I thought it quite probable from the effect my words produced on him that something would come of my effort. I left him without having given him any reason to suspect that I knew his secret.

What I said to him bore quick fruit, for, returning that way, I stopped at Miss Wyman's and found a great change in her.

"What do you think has happened since you were here?" she asked, her face lighted by a radiant smile.

"What?" I asked.

"Abner Warren has been to see me."

"You don't mean it? And all is made up?"

"Yes, and we are engaged again."

"The Lord be praised!"

GOTHAM FASHION MASQUERADE.

Early Victorian Styles With a Difference—Bandeaued Plateau Hats Trimmed With Field Flowers—Neapolitan Stripes and Figured Taffetas For Vests, Coatees, Sashes and Girdles.

The motifs for smart dress designs this Spring are borrowed from many periods and smack of various nationalities, with Mexican-Spanish influences perhaps in the lead. Some of the rigs having girdles of striped material, where all the primary colors are daringly mingled, with short loose bolero coats, and striking buttons, suggest that if castanets could be supplied by the hotels for the tea-room dancing, nothing would be lacking in the exotic effect, produced by the dancers, their steps and their costumes.

THE OVERHANG.

The part of a boat that projects over and above the water line is known as the "Overhang" and one is tempted to borrow the phrase to describe a notable tendency in present styles. Coats overhang skirts and draperies ripple out and overhang the lower dress, while hats have caught the same note and overhang their bandeaux in true sailor fashion. This projection has brought back the under trimmings beloved of our grandmothers. Tunics are faced with bright colored contrasting hems that show as draperies sway, and flowers and colored strappings relieve the plainness of flat projecting hat crowns in all the ways familiar in Watteau paintings, and the Godey's Lady's Book prints, that show the mode of the 60's. Flounces shingle the hips in stylish skirt models, all with the same tendency to project out and over.

NEWEST TUB-FROCKS.

Ont notices considerable use of patch pockets on smart tub clothes and very little in the way of draperies outside of the simplest sort of fullness gained by a few tucks or pleats in the seams. Shaped, circular cut flounces, or bias bands are considerably employed for the hip trimmings that give the requisite fashionable flare at this point, but these devices are possible only with material of exceptionally firm texture. Renfrew Devonshire cloth which is most attractive in appearance, and comes in a wide range of stylish stripes, checks and plain colors, is used by the best makers here for women's outing frocks and for children's clothes. A little heavier than gingham, with a linen finish, it outwears Galatea and is guaranteed both sun and tub proof, so its vogue is easily accounted for.

NEW COLLARS.

Whatever the style of the dress or suit, and whatever its material it must be set off with one of the fashionable collars of dainty cotton or linen. Every known variety or type is reproduced in the neck fixings of this season. Gladstone, Incroyable and Directoire types are rather in the lead, but anything goes that leaves the neck untrammeled. The collar may be wide or narrow, stand-up or flare out at any desired angle. Some of the smartest of these fixings are of double organdie finished simply with the picot edge, which is a notable trimming detail this season. Many of the collars are attached to vestees or fichus, and such pieces are invaluable for varying the effect of a plain frock or suit.

The above design is by The McCall Company, New York, Designers and Makers of McCall Patterns.

JET BUTTONS AND MOIRE COATS.

Jet buttons are extensively used not only on silk and cloth, but on all the fashionable wash fabrics that will emerge after Easter with the first warm spell, for these materials come in almost exact duplicates of the popular silk and woolen weaves, and make the smartest sort of inexpensive costumes.

Moire coats with jet buttons are an excellent investment for the coat that will top any sort of frock stylishly. These are made in all the fashionable models from natty short boleros, to long-tailed Directoire modes.

Linings are of contrasting tone and flowered materials vie with rich plain colorings for this use. Flounced coats of taffeta in changeable colorings or plain shades, are both dressy and practical and no shape is too whimsical to come out successfully in this style of garment.

PAQUIN CAPES.

Paquin capes of broadcloth and Golfine, the new corduroy weave, come in spark blue, fern, peacock, moss green, powder blue, pearl gray corn and white models, with handsome matching or contrasting linings. All wraps are loose and flaring at the foot.

PROUD OF ITS HISTORY

Wollaston Co-operative Bank Now 25 Years Old

At the annual meeting this week the Wollaston Cooperative bank reelected its board of directors and other officers and committees. The president is Herbert T. Whitman; the vice president, Frederick H. Bishop; and the treasurer Herbert W. Pinkham.

The bank has just issued "A bit of history," which is an artistic gem. The book says that during the 25 years the bank has had but three presidents, W. G. Corthell, Smith B. Harrington and H. T. Whitman, the latter having served since 1902. It was in the vestry of the Wollaston Congregational church April 16, 1889, that the first meeting was held. Six of the original board of directors are still on the board, and eleven of the present directors have served upwards of 20 years. During the 25 years the bank has loaned money on more than 1300 pieces of real estate. Twenty-seven series of shares have matured, and have been paid off.

The bank today has a capital of $958,477.26. Without the new series (No. 51) there are 1865 share holders with 17,661 shares in force, which means that the members of this bank are actually putting aside $17,661 every month, or $211,932 per year. The bank holds today 496 mortgages, averaging $1,824.00 as 332 are $2,000 or less, and only 164 over $2,000. Already about 2000 shares have been sold in the new series which is limited to 3000.

FROM WALES AND INDIA.

This evening at Bethany church at Bethany church at 7.45, at the midweek meeting, and the public is invited to hear Rev. D. Lloyd Jones, B. A., of Aber Cornarvonshire, Wales, and Mr. Watkin R. THE CIVIC WOMAN

Dr. Charles Fleischer Speaks at Wollaston

Dr. Charles Fleischer of Boston, lectured to the Wollaston Women's club in the Wollaston School hall on Wednesday afternoon. He spoke on the "Civic Women." After his address Miss Josselyn of the Boston Civic Society, of which Dr. Fleischer is a member, explained that the purpose of the organization was to form study classes on civic matters. Many enrolled as members.

Dr. Fleicher, in his address, said women should be educated in the matters of larger housekeeping. There are busy women but many are busy about matters that amount to little. In order to have a more intelligent realization of civic matters so that many evils could be corrected, it is not so much the vote that is needed as a better knowledge of the causes of things.

Dr. Fleischer injected his beliefs on dress into his talk and in speaking of the prevailing fashions as being extreme asked what is the use and what does it all amount to after which he told the members he was not scolding.

Mrs. Arthur D. Ropes presided and the platform committee was Mrs. Thomas G. Fenno, Mrs. A. G. Almy, Mrs. Harrison Loud, Mrs. Nathan G. Nickerson, Mrs. W. B. Sandford, Mrs. Charles R. Safford.

MAY CONTEST REMOVAL

Supt. Vaughn of Quincy Home Has Not Resigned

There is some prosepct that a scrap may be on next Monday, the date set for Supt Vaughn of the Quincy Home to sever his connection with the home. A month ago it was announced that Mr. Vaughn had been requested to hand in his resignation to take effect April 27, and rumor had it that he had done so. It is now said that he has not resigned and does not intend to. Supt. Vaughn was appointed under the civil service rules and according to the reports this morning he intends to fight. In that case it will be necessary for the Overseer of the Poor to prefer charges against him, and it may mean a drawn out affair before it is finally settled.

At the time the resignation of Mr. Vaughn was announced it was announced that William Campbell would be appointed as his successor. It was said at the office of the Overseer of the Poor that Mr. Vaughn's resignation had not yet been received as yet.

MICHAEL BURNS PASSES AWAY

He was a member of the Granite Manufacturers' Association and was a former president of the Quincy Branch No. 61 of the United Irish Land League. ARRESTED FOR ASSAULT

Results in Withdrawal of Pickets at Shipyard

The pickets who are operating in the interests of the striking reamers and bolters of the Fore River shipyard withdrew this morning after Joseph Allah, one of the strikers, was arrested charged with assault and battery by Officer Patrick Bradley of the special police of the yard.

Allah is said to have pulled a workman from the line this morning who was about to enter the gates. The workman passed through the gate after he broke away and was not located in time to appear in court.

Allah was represented, when arraigned before Judge Avery, by Caleb F. Howard of this city, a delegate of the I. W. W. which is gradually taking charge of the strike. Accompanying him was John Yannichey, another delegate, who is associated with Mr. Howard in an effort to organize all the unskilled labor in the shipyard under the I. W. W. organization.

A continuance was granted the defendant until Saturday and bail was set at $50 which was immediately furnished by friends.

It was stated in the corridors of the court house this morning that the places of the strikers were being gradually filled with other foreigners.

The arrest of Allah created much excitement but there was no disturdance among those that are out on strike.

Several conferences have been held between the company officials and a committee representing the strikers but the latter have not accepted the offer of the former because it has not been signed. It is understood however that its terms are satisfactory otherwise.

NOVELTIES AT ANNUAL FAIR

The annual fair of the Women's Missionary society of the Park and Downs church was opened Wednesday in the vestry. A large number of attractive booths offered a variety of articles for sale.

One of the features of the fair was the "chimney corner" where Madame Knowlton was seated, in Colonial costume and household articles were on sale.

The corner contained many relics of former days including chairs, tea caddies and other articles of interest. These were grouped around an artificial fireplace. The ladies in charge were appropriately capped and aproned and included: Mrs. F. R. Bussler, Madame Knowlton, Mrs. William Dixon, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. A. W. Dingwell.

In a pagoda, attractively decorated in the centre of the vestry, the candy committee was ensconced, including Mrs. William J. Colby, Mrs. J. A. Podbury, Mrs. Charles L. Gilliatt and Mrs. C. W. Jaycox.

An orchestra consisting of Mrs. William Burrell, Charles A. Richardson, Ernest Pletsch and Miss Emily Bjorkman, rendered pleasing music during the evening.

A very active "Dinah," who was in evidence most of the time, had charge of the grabs. The role was taken by Miss Mabel Doring.

In charge of the tea room were: Mrs. Alonzo V. Bissett and Mrs. Amory Waite, while Mrs. J. A. Zwicker and Mrs. D. J. Breivogel presided at the ice cream booth.

Mrs. Thomas H. Irving and Mrs. B. Herbert Wiley had charge of the May baskets. The following composed the committee at the fancy table; Mrs. Fred Robinson, Mrs. L. I. Mosman, Mrs. Victor Harrie and Miss Ruth Carroll.

Mrs. Charles A. Richardson is president of the society.

awake to the responsibilities of her position.

The literature and library extension committee under the most efficient leadership of the chairman, Mrs. S. Josephine Avery, have had a most delightful year. They had again been most fortunate in securing Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney who has conducted a class in modern literature. The meetings have been held in the homes of the committee and the subjects discussed in connection with the readings have been held at the homes of ture. It is a joy to listen to Mrs. Gurney and a rare privilege to share the treasures of her mind. It is to be hoped that Mrs. Gurney can be induced to prepare a course of readings for our instruction next season.

Mrs. Edith L. French and her committee have fulfilled the various duties of the social committee with ease and earned the approval of those whom they served.

The Woman's exchange under the efficient leadership of Mrs. Julia A. F. Annis has closed a successful year, and handled with credit the portion of the business intrusted to them.

The retiring president spoke most beautifully of her association with the club, of her sincere regret in leaving the activities of the office and of her pleasure in welcoming her successor. Her words were spoken feelingly and found a ready response in the hearts of her hearers. She was presented with a beautiful bouquet of jonquils.

Miss Lucy M. Crane, Mrs. James H Stedman and Mrs. Albert E. Avery were appointed to represent the Philergians at the Twelfth Biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs which will convene at the Chicago auditorium June 9.

Three delegates were appointed to attend the state convention at Worcester May 20 and 21, viz: Mrs. Willard E. Dow, Mrs. E. L. Webber and Mrs. Lucy C. Wales.

There was considerable discussion concerning a series of musical talks to be given next season by Havrah Hubbard of the Boston Opera House.

The matter of the state law which enables the Selectmen to allow the school halls for community usage was spoken of by a wide awake member and various appropriations of money for club committees were voted.

The tellers were appointed by the chair to distribute, collect and count the ballots and the election of officers superceded all unfinished business. The tellers were as follows: Mrs. Harry W. Hall, Mrs. Winthrop T. Case, Mrs. Walter S. Davis, Mrs. Harold M. Gage and Mrs. Frank H. Waters.

There were 146 ballots cast. The result of the voting follows:—

While the tellers were occupied, piano duets were rendered by Miss Mary Dyer and Miss Florence Rogers. The members of the Hospitality committee served ices and cakes.

When it became known that Mrs. Webber had been elected to the position of president, Mrs. Wales with suitable remarks presented the gavel to the new president, who responded saying that she would perform the duties of the office to the best of her ability and asked for the co-operation of every member.

Mrs. Avery announced that the last meeting of the literature class would be held at the home of Mrs. Gallagher Thursday, April 30, instead of April 23 as stated on the program. The author will be William De Morgan. There will be readings from Joseph Vance, Alice for Short and Somehow Good.

CALL EXPECTED IN FEW DAYS

Quincy Physicians Ready to Respond If Fifth Regiment Goes to Front

Company K of Hingham Is In This Regiment

Three Quincy physicians, who hold commissions on the surgeons' staff of the Fifth regiment, Dr. F. E. Jones, Dr. W. H. Blanchard and Dr. Sydney C. Hardwick, are expecting to be called upon any day to accompany the regiment to the Mexican border. All three physicians are ready and anxious to go to the front with the regiment and the indications are that the regiment will be one of the first to be called from New England. Morning papers announced that it was expected that a call for 7,000 New England troops would be issued by President Wilson at any hour, and in anticipation of this call the members of the Fifth, which include a Company K, formerly of Braintree, but now located at Hingham, are ready and anxious to respond to the call.

The New England troops will form the fifth division and will be under the command of Brig. Gen. Frederick Funston. It is probable that the New England troops would be sent first to Galveston to take the place of the regulars dispatched to Vera Cruz. From that point they would be distributed along the border or concentrated at the points in Texas where invasion by the Mexicans was threatened. Thus while the regular army were engaging the troops of Huerta in the south, the members of the National Guard would be employed to resist attacks on Texas cities.

Among the Quincy boys now with the fleet off Vera Cruz in addition to Edward Gisburn are John Igo, Jr., a son of John Igo of 136 Quincy street, who is aboard Admiral Badger's flagship, Arkansas, and William Baxter, a first class gunner on board the dreadnaught North Dakota, now on her way to Mexican waters.

The New England brigade which will be the first to go to the front will probably be the 2d brigade which comprises the 5th, 8th and 9th infantry, Brig. Gen. E. Leroy Sweetster commanding.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Hearing on the Granting of Various Licenses

A midnight session of the City Council Committee on Licenses was held Thursday evening. The prolonged session was due to discussion over the granting of licenses to drive wagons for the collection of junk. A large number of citizens appeared in opposition to the granting of certain licenses outside of what is known as the junk zone in Ward Two, and delegations of citizens appeared in relation to licenses of various kinds in other parts of the city. In addition to the opposition, the applicants themselves were given an opportunity to be heard, and as noted above it was near the hour of midnight before the committee meeting adjourned. As practically all licenses issued by the city expire on the last day of April and the Council meeting of next Monday will be the last before the expiration of the present licenses it means that action will be taken at this meeting on a large number of licenses of various kinds.

The City Council Committee on Fire Department, with Chief Billings of the Fire Department and Mayor Miller, will visit Providence, R. I., Saturday afternoon to inspect some auto fire apparatus. The committee will take the 1.02 train from Boston. Return to Quincy will be made in the late afternoon.

Mayor Miller is to call a meeting of the special committee appointed to arrange for the try out of the new piece of fire apparatus now being completed at the Fore River plant, some evening next week. The new piece of apparatus is now ready for a try out, but it was thought advisable to paint the apparatus first. This part of the work will be completed at an early date.

FOUND AN OPEN GAS JET

Suffering from the early stages of asphyxiation, Hing Kee, who conducts a laundry on Saville street awakened at one o'clock this morning to find his sleeping apartments filled with gas. He roused his three workmen and all escaped to the street and called for help.

Patrolmen Olsen and Canavan ran to the scene and found three Chinese on the street, scantily clad, and in time to prevent the fourth from going upstairs with a lighted lamp. The gas was traced to the barber shop of Paul Gunella.

Finding no window open Patrolman Olsen was taken to Mr. Gunella's home by Lemuel Murray in a taxicab. Gunella returned to the shop with them, and when he opened the door a heavy cloud of gas rolled into the street. An open jet, which had been left burning, was found wide open. It is thought that it had been blown out by a draught.

PLAYLETS AT COLONIAL HALL

Given under Auspices of Rebecca Wiswell Tent

Rebecca Wiswell tent, Daughters of Veterans, gave its first dramatic entertainment in Colonial hall Thursday evening to an audience that included members of the allied patriotic societies of Quincy and their friends. The affair was a grand success financially and socially.

The entertainment consisted of two playlets, "At Retreat," a dramatic fancy of the Civil War in one act, and "Sylvia's Soldier," a two act comedy. The cast was chosen from members of the tent and of Col. Abner B. Backard camp, Sons of Veterans.

"At Retreat" opened with a musical program by Mrs. Samuel D. DeForest, Jr., who played a medley of patriotic airs. The solo was by Annie Amabile and at retreat was sounded by Harriet Pierce. The cast was:

Col. Wilfred Barlow (C. S. A.) Charles F. Strattard
Capt. Philip Barlow (U. S. A.) Frank M. Chubbuck
Pompey (Servant to Col. Barlow) George E. Ela
Corp. Yost (First Georgia Wildcats) Alfred Beaulieu
Mrs. Kate Wainwright (Col. B. sister) Ella F. Packard
Dorothy (Mrs. W. adopted daughter) Bernice G. Stoddard
Henrietta (The maid) M. Christine Flynn

But five made up the cast of "Sylvia's Soldier," and they presented a snappy, amusing production of this well known sketch. The cast was:

Horace Lyford (alias Allen Sanford) Lester A. Porter
Mr. Horton William French
Arthur Horton Alfred Beaulieu
Sylvia (Mr. Horton's daughter) Exelis Nason
Bessie Bray (Mr. Horton's adopted daughter) Edna Grignon

The audience was very appreciative and liberal in their applause. A candy table, at the entrance to the hall was in charge of Mrs. C. Luella Thayer and Miss Nana Fisher. The ushers were Mrs. Mae F. Berry, Miss Fannie Grignon, Mrs. Annie M. Smith Edward Prouty, Irving P. Berry. Mrs. A. E. Grignon and Mrs. M. M. Fisher were matrons, and the ticket committee included Albert G. Farnum and Irving Thayer.

Among the guests were Mrs. Ellen Goodman of Roxbury, the Junior Vice President of the department; Mrs. Mabel H. Gooding of Weymouth, a past department aid; Dr. C. M. Marstin, commander of Paul Revere Post, G. A. R.; Mrs. Idella Savege and Mrs. Richardson of the W. R. C. and Mrs. Alice McNeil president of the Sons of Veterans auxiliary.

COUNTY TAX REMAINS SAME

Quincy's Assessment Will Be About $26,139.00

The Norfolk county tax will be the same as last year, the reported increase being a mistake. The resolve calls for a total of $250,000 which is the same as in 1913. It was in 1912 that the total was $200,000. Quincy's assessment will probably be $26,139.00 the same as in 1913.

CHILD LABOR LAW.

In executive session Thursday the legislative committee on social welfare turned down one and all of the proposed amendments to the child-labor law. By this action, the committee manifested its approval of the existing law. Nevertheless, the proponents of the recommended changes will fight the issue in both the Senate and the House of Representatives and will base their fight on the Achin bill which would provide for the physical test.

MANY PRIZES AWARDED

At Banquet of the Post Office Bowlers

The final event of the Federal bowling league, comprising the employees of the Quincy post office, took the form of a banquet in the Thompson cafe on Thursday evening. The 25 present included members of the Clerks and Carriers teams, the loyal rooters and their friends.

Supt. Charles L. Hammond was toastmaster, and he presented the prizes of the season, in addition to a few that were donated from "unknown sources." A handsome silver cup was awarded to William Joyce, captain of the Carriers team that won the championship by one point in the last match of the schedule. He made a brief speech of acceptance, and received the congratulations of John Cain, captain of the Carriers team, runners up for the title.

Instead of taking a prize for high individual string, Captain Joyce contributed the cigars, and the announcement was followed with much applause.

The prizes to individuals included a paper of safety pins, all sizes, to "Con" Coners; tenpins and balls to Captain John Cain; eye glasses to Thomas Flaherty, so that he could see the foul line and be more respectful; a mirror to Captain Cain, so he could practice his pose and be perfect when in competition; a tin whistle to Arthur Dunham, with the suggestion that he try it occasionally; a cushion to James Devlin, whose feelings were hurt in a match when his two feet went from under and he landed half way down the alley a rubber ball to Joseph Reardon whose terrific delivery of the lignum vitaes endangered the safety of the pin boys.

All made speeches of acceptance, and took the kindly knocks conveyed by the prizes in good fashion. Superintendent Hammond twitted the boys considerably, and in the speech making that followed the presentation had to take a little himself.

Remarks were by William Joyce and John Cain, the winning and defeated captains; Cornelius M. Connors, Joseph Reardon, Charles Keating, Walter H. Cobb, John J. Newcomb, Michael Flaherty, Thomas Flaherty, J. A. Carey, James Devlin, Tobias H. Burke and Timothy J. Collins.

Supt. Hammond and John J. Cunniff gave short speeches on the pensioning of postal employees after the subject was introduced by John Cain. Superintendent Hammond strongly favored pensioning. He said "Boys, the young man of today is the old man of tomorrow, and a kind act, a cheering word, a pleasant greeting to the quickly growing old employee, whether his labors are beside yours or across the room, is more appreciated than you think, for deep in their heart they are grateful and could their wish be granted the person respectful of old age would never be the victim of misfortune. Cherish their friendship, they were once young, for a wholesome full hearted spirit toward the older men in the service radiates on not only them, but on your associates, parents and yourselves."

VISITORS WANTED.

A competitive examination for visitors in the service of the State Board of Charity will be held on May 14, 1914. Classes I, II. and IV. are open to both men and women. Applicants are to elect for examination some one of the classes and will be required to have a knowledge of the chief public and private agencies dealing with the group regarding which they elect to be examined. The salary for men begins at $1,200; for women, at $800.

OLD COLONY CONFERENCE

Several South Shore Towns Represented at Universalist Church, Here Today

Dr. McAllister Speaks on "The Making of Man

The quarterly convention of the Old Colony Universalist association is being held today with the First Universalist church in this city, and is being attended by upwards of 200 delegates representing churches from Weymouth, Braintree, Cohasset, Scituate, Plymouth, Hingham, Canton, Norwell, Brockton, New Bedford, Taunton, Stoughton, Randolph, and Abington.

The various delegates as they arrived were received and made welcome by Mrs. T. A. Addison, and ladies of the First Universalist church, who also served them with a lunch during the noon recess.

The morning session opened at 10.30 with W. W. Rose of South Weymouth presiding. There was a short praise service after which Rev. Merrill C. Ward, pastor of the church, read the scripture lesson from a portion of the 6th chapter of the gospel according to St. Matthew.

Rev. Mr. Ward followed the scripture lesson with a brief talk on the truth as to prayer. He spoke of the experiences of life and the thought that comes from a true understanding of prayer, and the translation of the Bible into real life, every day. Never will there be a great religious awakening until we have a praying church and a praying people.

He also spoke of the divine spirit coming through prayer. If one prays with the sunshine the life will be filled. The churches must do the work which Christ has left ot us to do.

Rev. Mr. Richards of Stoughton offered prayer following which the presiding officer introduced Rev. L. S. McAllester, D. D., dean of the Crane Divinity school at Tufts college as the first speaker. Dr. McAllester spoke of "The making of man."

In prefixing his address Dr. McAllister spoke of having preached from this pulpit some years ago, and that he was glad to be able to be present today, because we all believed in the religious faith, and that the best days of the christian religion was not in the past but in the future. It was a movement which was waxing and not waning. The day of leadership of men is ahead of us and he desired to bring a word of encouragement to the ministers.

All of us, he said, cannot clearly understand the why of anothers life. The duty of mankind is to know all there is to know about man. He argued that it was an important study this getting the history of a man's life his thoughts and aspirations.

He also told how habits are formed and how the mind may be trained to act better than it has acted. There should be a feeling after the life of man, his social being. The lowest types have a taste for the finest things in life. The mystery of man is the real thing. The great industrial problems of the day are not alone as to wage but are the methods of which we are learning of man.

The real problem is to make the young man understand the moral side of life. Mankind should find God and be God's man. There was never an age in which men were studying men, morally and physically, as today. Today we look upon the men and wonder what they think, what they talk, and what they do. What are their hopes and plans? What does life mean to them? What are others doing to help this man to

The indications favor a big wheat crop. Congress will now get busy discussing which party shall have the credit for it.

The Chinese famine victims are having a hard time, no doubt, but just think of the sufferings of the naval officers soon to go on the water wagon!

Wall street's cold feet might be made more comfortable if the street would emit the usual quantity of hot air.

R. P. Hobson did part if his campaigning for the Senate on a motorcycle. Perhaps he would have come out better if he had travelled around in a democrat wagon.

Political bitterness in England has reached the point that it interferes with playing golf. The superiority of American statesmanship is suggested by the fact that congressional sessions rarely affect the attendance at the ball games.

TYPES OF RETAIL MERCHANTS.

One kind of retail merchant buys his goods year after year in the same manner. Such men rarely shop around to improve their line of goods. They do not follow the trade news very closely to find special values.

Merchants of this type are slow to advertise. They have a small regular trade that pays a meager living. They do not seem to know what to say about their goods. They lack confidence in the value of their line to win new trade.

Another type of retail merchant is constantly on the lookout for improvement. The state of the market is eagerly watched. Chances to buy at special advantage are carefully studied and snapped up if they make good.

That type of man is not satisfied to retain the same trade he had last year. He is always looking for something better farther on. He realizes that to build up a business, one must always be making new friends. Also, that the only way to make new friends is to tell the public by advertising about the special values to be had in the stores.

GENIUS VERSUS EDUCATION.

The world pays a high price to conserve every scrape of literary and artistic genius and its product. It tosses its half millions for single Rembrandt pictures. It founds costly colleges to propagate literary talent.

The schools of literature turn out men supposed to be endowed with all the technique of the writing craft. But most of these students are rarely heard from. Possibly they may find their knowledge of the classics valuable in writing advertisements.

Meanwhile there frequently arise from the field and the workshop untutored geniuses with a natural gift for inventive expression. Such was "Cy" Warman, "The poet of the Rockies," who died recently. Mr. Warman got his education as a writer on a Western farm, in mines, smelters, machine shops, and an engine cab. Somehow he had the gift for graphic, imaginative portrayal of details, without which all the refinement of the schools is lost.

The world of daily life is full of unknown "Cy" Warmans. The writer knows a plumber who can write exquisite and imaginative verse. His letters are fragrant with charming sentiment. Another man, a printer, draws with sensitive appreciation of the power of the single strong line. Were not some quality of worldly wisdom absent, and with technical traihing, he could be tripling his pay as cartoonist or illustrator.

There is untold literary power hidden in the everyday world. The newspaper department given to letters from the public may contain better writing than the editors can do.

No doubt the world is the loser in these undeveloped gifts. Still, it is probably a mistake to urge people to write, draw, or paint, unless they possess well rounded gifts. There are too many scribblers and daubers who possess facility, yet lack the flash of genius that would make their work marketable.

April and May

When violets of sunny blue
Their fragrant buds unfurl
My birthday blessing comes to you,
A rainbow April girl.
For radiant hours in life's fair glade
Give me the years nineteen.
I'd rather laugh a bright eyed maid
Than rule a sad eyed queen.
To have again the moment glad
When I heard love's first plea,
Yet answered "No" to that gay lad
Who said, "Will you have me?"
He went his way, and I went mine.
The youthful romance died.
I sent him just a little line
When I became a bride.
And now that laddie's gallant son
Comes to my house each day.
My daughter's happy heart he's won,
And they will wed in May.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

AMAZING SALARIES NOW PAID TO BALL PLAYERS.

The $10,000 Mark Often Passed, Whereas $1,500 Used to Be Big Money.

Says Ed A. Goewey in Leslie's:

As one manager expressed it recently, "The sky's the limit in baseball salaries at the present time as far as the stars are concerned, and even the everyday players are receiving as much or more than the most famous diamond heroes of a few years ago."

"Tris" Speaker's rise in a few seasons from the minors to the highest salaried star in the game is without parallel in baseball or any other sport. He made good from the time he went to Boston, each season being up among the leading sluggers, and it was his bat that had much to do with the Giants' loss of a world's championship pennant. Last season he finished fourth among the American league batsmen with a percentage of .366. He took part in 141 games, made 94 runs, had 190 hits for a total of 278 bases and stole 46 times. In 520 times at bat he struck out but twenty-four times. Speaker's salary with the Bostons will be $18,000 a season for the next two years.

Other players drawing down fancy stipends annually are Mathewson, $15,000; Cobb, $12,500; Tinker, $12,000; Evers, $10,000; Wagner, $10,000, and Walter Johnson, $7,500. And don't overlook the fact that John J. McGraw, the peppery little leader of the Giants, drew a salary of $30,000 in 1913, and he will get the same amount annually until the end of 1917 in accordance with the terms of his present contract. McGraw gets no percentage from the New York club's profits, but he did add $3,500 to his salary last year, the tidy sum being his share of the world's series battles and some exhibition contests.

A ball player receiving from $1,500 to $1,800 in the old days was considered fortunate by most of his fellows. The actual annual salaries of the former kings of the diamond were: John Ward, $4,000; Amos Rusie, $3,200; George Van Haltren, $2,200; Buck Ewing, $2,400; Tim Keefe, $2,400; Rube Waddell, $2,000, and Dan Brouthers, $1,900.

Recently when the Federal league was bidding for the game's best talent Ty Cobb was offered a three year contract calling for $45,000 to desert organized baseball, and Mathewson was promised $65,000 if he would pitch for and manage the Brooklyn "outlaw" team for three seasons. Speaker also was offered a large salary for three years, supposed to be about $20,000 annually.

CHEAPER AUTOMOBILING.

Seasonable Advice That Will Keep Down the Cost of Running a Car.

Motorists will find the following advice from Motor Age of value just now:

With the opening of spring the owner-driver again is confronted with the question of getting his car into commission for the summer season, and if the machine has been in dead storage all winter the advisability of having it completely overhauled will be of first moment. If the car has gone through one or two heavy seasons without overhauling it deserves a good house cleaning this spring. The necessity for a regular overhauling depends largely on the past attention given the car and that owner-driver who has seen to it that his car has been inspected regularly and gone over every 1,000 miles will find little necessity for a general overhauling.

Some of the most successful car drivers follow a policy of a good inspection every 1,000 miles. If a service building is at hand the car is run into it and gone over at a cost of not over $5. Often the bill is not one-half of this.

Frequently an owner will spend over $100 in a spring house cleaning of his car, whereas $25 spent in regular inspections would be much better and a great deal cheaper.

DON'T OVERWORK THE HEART.

English Physician Tells of Enormous Strain Put on Patient Organ.

"To keep your temper is rather a good thing," says Dr. Strickland Goodall of London. "Every time the heart contracts its force would raise a weight of two pounds to the height of one foot, and it does this from 70 to 140 times every minute.

"Running to catch a train increases the heart's work by 228 foot pounds a minute. Ascending a staircase slowly increases the heart's work by 112 foot pounds and ascending quickly by 152 foot pounds.

"A man who is really angry increases the work of his heart by 72 foot pounds. A rest of half an hour daily would save in a year 219,000 foot pounds of work on the heart."

Infantry and Artillery Are Ordered to Vera Cruz

TROOPS WILL BE MASSED ON BORDER

Villa Takes Second Thought and Concludes Not to Enter Conflict With United States—Restoration of Embargo on Arms Officially Announced—Charges at Mexico City and Washington Receive Their Passports—Senate Passes House Bill Appropriating $500,000 to Care For American Refugees—Complete Military Campaign Not Yet Developed

Washington, April 24.—United States troops moved last night to reinforce the American navy at Vera Cruz; the embargo on arms into Mexico was formally restored, and troops were ordered to the Mexican border primarily to relieve uneasiness among border residents, but also as a precaution against hostile military operations along the international line.

Secretary Garrison announced that a brigade of infantry and some artillery under Brigadier General Funston had been ordered to embark at once on the four army transports at Galveston for Vera Cruz, to support the expeditionary forces of marines and bluejackets there.

General Villa, according to reports received at El Paso from Chihuahua, declared that he could land 12,000 men in El Paso in forty-eight hours, and that it might be well to teach the "Gringoes" a lesson at the start. Later, however, Villa informed George C. Carothers, special agent of the state department, that he would decline "to be dragged into a war with the United States by anybody."

General Carranza, in his letter to President Wilson, had said: "The invasion will drag us (Mexico) into an unequal war, which, until today, we desired to avoid."

The chance that General Maas, the federal general, might make a return attack on Vera Cruz with reinforcements, and the possible necessity of a forward movement toward Mexico City to protect fleeing Americans and the Vera Cruz railroad, were the underlying reasons for the military movement.

Three More Americans Killed

Three American sailors were killed and twenty-five wounded in the day's fighting at Vera Cruz. The dead are D. J. Lane, seaman; E. H. Frohlichstein, ordinary seaman, and E. C. Fisher, ordinary seaman.

The restoration of the embargo on arms was officially announced after the pronouncement of Carranza, the constitutionalist chief, that he regarded the seizure of Vera Cruz as a violation of Mexican sovereignty had been considered by the administration. While Mexican constitutionalists here protested that Carranza's real attitude was friendly, the American government decided to take no chances and abruptly stopped the shipment of all arms into Mexico.

President Wilson earlier in the day had issued a statement warning Carranza that the United States was dealing now and would continue to deal with whom Huerta commands and "those who come to his support."

Both Nelson O'Shaughnessy, the American charge of affairs, and Senor Algara, the charge of affairs of the Mexican embassy, have been given their passports. This is not regarded by the Washington government as presaging war, but a declaration of war by Huerta would not be unexpected.

The United States has chosen Brazil to look after its interests in Mexico. Where there are no Brazilian consuls, French consuls will act for the United States.

Exodus of Americans

A special reserve fleet, ranging from dreadnoughts to tiny gunboats, was ordered to the Atlantic coast of Mexico. At Vera Cruz the American land forces pushed their way three miles inland to some important breastworks to make their position secure. Rear Admiral Fletcher and American Consul Canada were occupied a great part of the day in Vera Cruz in handling hundreds of American refugees. British and German vessels took off more than 1200 refugees at Tampico, and a general exodus of Americans from Mexican cities was reported.

The senate in the meantime passed the house bill appropriating $500,000 to take care of American refugees. Senator Borah declared in the debate that a condition of actual war existed between the United States and Mexico. Senators Lodge and Weeks urged that the embargo be replaced along the entire border. Rear Admiral Badger requested permission to capture all Mexican gunboats and vessels carrying troops or ammunition for the aid of the Mexicans around Vera Cruz.

These were the outstanding developments which came in dramatic sequence throughout a day of extreme tension. The national capital was nervous while the diplomatic relations of the Huerta government and the United States were being finally severed, and the army and navy continued to put themselves on a war basis.

Still Watching

Revelation of the purposes of Carranza and Huerta are being awaited before a complete military campaign is developed. The United States intends to take no offensive steps, for the present preferring to hold Vera Cruz until the situation in Mexico City and elsewhere in the southern republic crystalizes.

There were frequent conferences between President Wilson and Secretaries Bryan, Garrison, Daniels, McAdoo and Lane. Secretary McAdoo and the other secretaries were at the White House discussing formal orders to customs officials to hold up shipments of arms, which eventuated later in a formal announcement of the embargo. Also it was believed the subject of financing the military operations was carefully considered.

It was another day of activity at the White House, state, war and navy building, with many tense moments, such as have not been experienced since the Spanish-American war.

The attitude of Carranza, as explained in his note, showing that he regarded the invasion of Vera Cruz as a violation of Mexican sovereignty, was the first development which threw official Washington into a feverish expectation of sensational developments. The possibility that the great body of constitutional forces along the international boundary might take an offensive stand in the situation was everywhere discussed.

Carranza's Note Analyzed

President Wilson and his cabinet officers studied Carranza's note, and within a few hours a statement was issued by the president reiterating the purposes of the American government as friendly to the Mexican people, but emphasized that as Huerta controlled the region where the offenses were committed, the Washington government must "enforce its rightful demands upon those whom the existing authorities at the place where we act do for the time being represent."

After the conference it developed that local representatives of the constitutionalists had criticised the translation of the Carranza note. They declared that several inaccuracies made the note appear less friendly to the United States than was intended. The conference made it clear, however, that the two main points, that Carranza considered the taking of Vera Cruz an act "hostile to the Mexican people," and that he demanded the withdrawal of the American troops, were not affected by any errors in translation.

The news that O'Shaughnessy had been handed his passports was fully discussed at an informal cabinet council held at the White House.

Bryan asked the Brazilian government if it would act for the United States in Mexico and, after a conference with Ambassador De Gama, announced that complete arrangements had been made.

Choice Is Significant

The choice of Brazil instead of a European power was regarded as very significant. Not only has Brazil, like Argentine and Chile, refused to recognize the Huerta government, but the fact that the United States considered as its friend in a crisis a South American nation emphasized Pan-American solidarity.

Algara asked for his passports only a few hours after news reached Washington that O'Shaughnessy had received his safe conduct.

The situation in Mexico City is extremely delicate, it is said. Fears of mob violence and demonstrations against Americans are felt by the Washington government, and if possible no further steps likely to incite the Mexican populace or precipitate American outbreaks will be taken.

Mr. Wilson does not regard the present situation as a state of war and holds that so far as his authority is concerned only acts of reprisals have been undertaken.

The president made it clear that no blockade had been declared, and that before such a step would be taken, foreign governments would be given notice. He pointed out that, for the present, the United States had confined itself solely to operations in the vicinity of Vera Cruz, and that with the end of the fighting there, no forward movement had been made. He said he did not know whether Huerta proposed a declaration of war.

AMERICANS ARE SAFE

Twelve Hundred Refugees on Board Ships In Tampico Harbor

Washington, April 24.—Reports to the navy department declared that American and foreign refugees at Tampico had been taken out of the city, "through the courtesy of British and German cruisers."

Rear Admiral Mayo sent this report to the navy department from Tampico: "By courtesy and energy of the captains of the German and British cruisers, there are now on board our ships about 1200 American refugees. More are expected tomorrow, coming from outside points. Merchant ships taking men on board."

The reference in Mayo's dispatch to the "courtesy and energy of the captains of the German and British cruisers" is explained in another dispatch as meaning that the American ships were lying outside the river, about nine miles from the city of Tampico, and that the officers of the British and German cruisers volunteered to transport refugees to the American warships lying outside.

RAISING OF WAR REVENUE

Matter Considered In Conference Between McAdoo and Osborne

Washington, April 24.—Administration leaders laid plans for raising war revenue in case the army has to go into Mexico. Secretary McAdoo discussed plans for raising revenue with Commissioner of Internal Revenue Osborne.

The first measure planned would impose a stamp tax on checks and legal documents similar to that involved during the Spanish war; another would tax sweet wines and fortified brandies and probably beer. This measure will net the treasury about $116,000,000 a year, and, if the situation demanded, a tax could be imposed on cigarets and tobacco.

It is not the present intention in any way to alter the present tariff law, although such legislation might be found necessary in the future.

The treasury department, under existing law, has authority to issue, without further action by congress, $100,000,000 worth of Panama canal bonds, and it is probable that this means will be taken at once to raise money in case of eventualities. Adoption of this plan would give congress a better opportunity to discuss a war revenue measure carefully before passage.

FOR SERVICE IN MEXICO

War Department Prepared to Enlist 250,000 Volunteers

Washington, April 24.—The war department has completed the draft of a call for 250,000 volunteers. It will not be issued until necessary, but most of the officials believe the necessity will soon arrive.

The president, however, does not take this position and has written a number of senators and representatives who have already tendered their services that he believes the regular forces of the country can successfully cope with any situation that may arise.

The army, however, is going ahead getting ready. The list of retired officers and of the officers who served in the war with Spain has been gone over. The efficiency records of each individual have been completed, so that when the volunteers are called for there will be no delay in naming the officers for the various regiments.

According to an estimate from the war department there are 42,791 federal soldiers in Mexico.

SUGGESTS PEACE TENDER

Liberal Commoner Would Act Under The Hague Convention

London, April 24.—An offer by Great Britain of her good services, in accordance with The Hague convention, "with regard to the war between the United States and Mexico" was suggested by David M. Mason, a Liberal member, in the house of commons.

In reply Premier Asquith asked Mason, in view of the importance of the matter raised, to repeat his question next week, when he said perhaps Foreign Secretary Grey would have returned from France, where he is accompanying the king. Asquith added that the British government was carefully watching the situation in all its aspects.

The prospects of active service has attracted to the American embassy and consulate general a number of retired British officers and soldiers who have offered their services to the American army.

Planned to Blow Up Bridge

Eagle Pass, Tex., April 24.—After destroying machinery and railroad shops, blowing up railroad switches and removing instruments from the telegraph office in Piedras Negras, Mex., opposite this place, a party of Mexican federals was prevented from blowing up the Mexican end of the international bridge when the American border patrol arrived.

Japanese Press Reserved

Tokio, April 24.—Most of the leading newspapers of Japan are moderate in their attitude regarding the Mexican situation. One or two of the less responsible journals, however, suggest that advantage be taken of the present embarrassment in Washington to press the issues outstanding between Japan and the United States.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Bowling Contests — Athletic Leagues
Illustrated Lectures — Banquets
Basket Ball — Conferences

The last Fireside talk of the season was given Wednesday evening in Y. M. C. A. hall by Theophilus King. His subject, "How to get rich" was a popular one, but one on which most of us are not qualified to do very much talking. Mr. King gave an excellent address and made many points which will probably remain in the minds of his hearers for the rest of their lives.

There will be a base ball meeting next Tuesday evening to decide definitely whether the Y. M. C. A. will put a baseball team on the field this year or not. The meeting this week was enthusiastic and augurs well for a still better one on Tuesday.

Work on the Minstrel show is progressing favorably and Mr. Dinegan the coach is rounding the choruses into shape. The schedule of rehearsals for next week is as follows: Monday evening—Chorus and end men; Tuesday evening—Girls and End Men; Friday evening—Circle, end men and girls.

A double bowling tournament is scheduled to start next week. The eligibility rules require that the combined averages of the two men on each team shall not exceed 165 per string. Probably the tournament will be round-robin, each team rolling every other team.

The standing of the Junior gymnasium teams is as follows: Giants—30.2: Athletics—20.8; Tigers—16.5; Red Sox—11.2. The Giants have held the lead all the way so far, but the Athletics are coming up strong and their chances are good to pass the leaders.

In the Employed Boys competition the Braves are in the lead with a total of 12.4 points; Red Sox come second with 10, Giants third with 6.3; and Athletics last with 5.

The committee of fifty which is waging the 1000 members campaign reports fairly good results thus far and are optimistic of success.

A lecture will be delivered in Y. M. C. A. hall next Tuesday evening April 28, by T. Alex Cairns, Ph D., under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon league. The subject of the address will be "Uncle Sam on the water wagon."

The picture of the Junior class will be taken Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The members of the Cadet class will also appear in the picture. Norses will be the photographer.

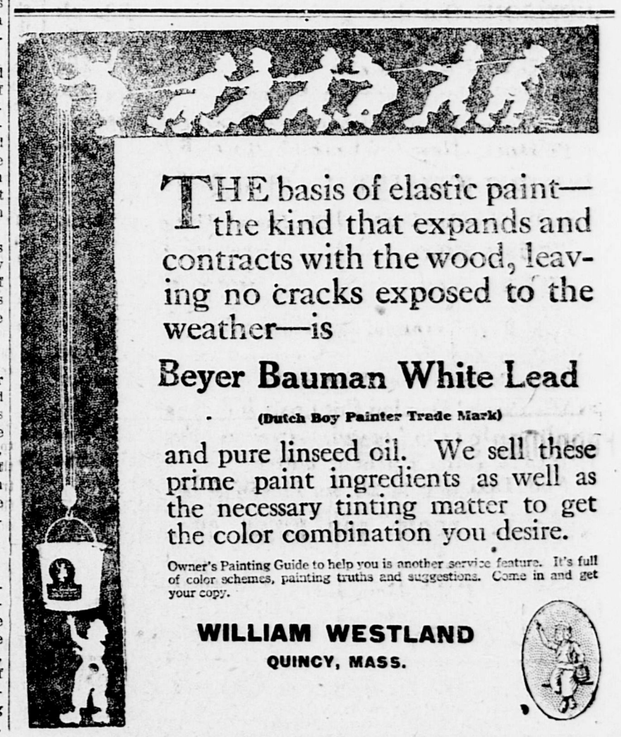

Beginning this week a prize of ten bowling tickets will be awarded weekly to the man getting the highest single during the week. Five tickets will be given to the roller of the second high. At the end of the month the four winners in the weekly competition will roll off for a special prize.

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary will be held Friday afternoon, May 8 at 3 o'clock. The nominating committee is at work drawing up the list of officers for the coming year. The officers will have some fine reports to make of the work done during the past year.

The next meeting of the board of directors will be held Wednesday evening, April 29, at 8 o'clock. The annual meeting will take place in May.

The annual Boston Gear Works night will be celebrated this evening in the Y. M. C. A. building. The program includes athletic events, basket ball, entertainment and refreshments. Mr. Burgess will be on hand to help keep things moving.

The Footlights Glare

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE.

From the very beginning of its first act, "Officer 666," which John Craig will produce at the Castle Square next week, is a whirlwind of laughter. Its plot involves a young millionaire globe-trotter who on returning home from a long journey finds his bachelor quarters occupied by a burglar. This burglar has appropriated his name and much else that belongs to him, and the laughable story of the plot tells how the ingenious millionaire regains his own. Mr. Craig's production of "Officer 666" will be effectively cast, the two leading roles being acted by William P. Carleton and Miss Doris Olsson.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The minimum wage question and recent agitation thereupon play an important part in "Within the Law," which will enter into its 11th week at the Majestic Theatre, Boston, Monday.

The heroine of Bayard Veiller's melodrama is a poor shopgirl, underpaid and underfed, who after serving three years in prison for a crime which she did not commit, and trying vainly to obtain decent employment, becomes the head of a band of "crooks" and with their assistance takes her revenge upon society. As the leader of "Joe Carson," the forger; "English Eddie Griggs," a thief, "Aggie Lynch" an amusing little blackmailer and other confederates, "Mary Turner" obtains enormous sums of money, but manages to keep "Within the Law." She even hires a lawyer to help her evade wrongdoing which is punishable. It is curious to learn, as one does in this play, that there are many forms of crime which are practically legal. Jane Cowl heads the excellent cast. The usual matinee days are Wednesdays and Saturdays.

SHUBERT THEATRE.

Blanche Ring begins the third week of her engagement at the Shubert Theatre Monday night in her amusing and tuneful song play, "When Claudia Smiles." That Blanche Ring has made another hit, and that her play is a jolly, joyous affair full of opportunities for comedy work such as the smiling and always good-natured comedienne has not had before, has been proved by the universal commendation of the press and the size and enthusiasm of the audiences that have greeted this Boston girl who is not without honor in her own country. Harry Conor, also a Bostonian, is a strong support and an admirable foil for the magnetic creator of song hits and versatile actress, and their duet, "Dear Old Pet," as one of our leading critics says, makes the audience shout for sheer joy. "When Claudia Smiles," and she does most of the time through the three acts of Anne Caldwell's clever comedy, the smiles alternate with laughter on the other side of the footlights. There is only one Blanche Ring and she was never seen to better advantage. Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

WILBUR THEATRE.

The second week of Doris Keane in Edward Sheldon's "Romance" at the Wilbur Theatre, Boston, begins Monday night. "Romance" has evidently struck the public fancy in Boston with more than ordinary emphasis, for Miss Keane has played to some remarkable business, showing that the young star has excited considerable interest quite apart from public curiosity to see the new theatre. The Wilbur is Boston's last word in theatre architecture. It is destined to be known as the most beautiful theatre in the country.

The charm of "Romance" is twofold. First, we have the brilliantly original creation of a role new to the stage—a temperamental Italian prima donna raised from a primitive social condition to enjoyment of excessive luxury by the possession of a God-given talent; and second, we have a charming love narrative between two diametrically opposed human beings, whose love is doomed to disappointment even before it has been expressed. The play is distinctly worth while and has certainly created a very deep impression in Boston. Miss Doris Keane has made for herself a permanent place among stars and she will always be welcome whenever she chooses to bring any play of equal merit with "Romance."

PARK THEATRE.

The coming week's attraction at the Park Theatre, should exert a wide appeal among that class of playgoers who relish a real dramatic novelty. Commencing Monday evening Joseph Brooks will present Mabel and Edith Taliaferro in Rachel Crothers' refreshing comedy "Young Wisdom." At least to the present generation of playgoers the idea of two sisters appearing together as co-stars in a dramatic offering is unique. And with a play possessing the wonderfully appealing qualities of "Young Wisdom," the offering at the Park Theatre is exceedingly rich in promise.

Miss Crothers has shown delightful originality in the treatment of this new comedy. From an absolutely new idea she has proceeded along satirical lines to poke a lot of goodnatured fun at those of the feminists who seriously advocate revolutionary ideas in the home life. She shows the effect of these advanced teachings upon two young girls whose minds are in the receptive state and reaching out for knowledge. The play is in three acts and presents a small-town household such as one might find any where. Mabel and Edith Taliaferro appear as sisters in the play. Matinees will be given on Wednesday and Saturday. The engagement will be a limited one.

HOLLIS STREET THEATRE.

Monday night at the Hollis Street Theatre, Robert Graves will present for the first time to a Boston public, "The Reformers," with Donald Meek as the featured member of a selected cast of New York players. "The Reformers" is a new comedy in three acts by Mr. John Cumberland. The scene is laid in a town in New Jersey within commuting distance of New York City, and the action of the play concerns the efforts of an energetic woman, who aspires to the social leadership of the community, to have her husband accept the nomination for mayor by the reform party. Her husband, however, who is known as Archibald Wilkins Wayne, is not at all inclined to fall in with his wife's plans, being a decidedly mild-mannered individual, very small in stature, and whose chief dissipation consist of attending to his pansy beds and keeping his lawn in good order. Mrs. Wayne has the hearty support in her endeavors to have her husband elected, of many of his men friends, mostly members of the country club, who, though representing the conservative and exclusive element of the town, were not averse to indulging in a little gaiety, when away from home.

BOSTON THEATRE.

Dear to the hearts of millions the country over, the grand old play of them all comes back to the Boston Theatre for a limited engagement beginning Monday night, April 27. Year after year tremendous audiences continue to test the capacity of the largest theatres to greet Joshua Whitcomb, Cy Prime, Seth Perkins, Eb Ganzey, Aunt Matilda, Rickety Ann, Happy Jack, and all the other characters in Denman Thompson's famous drama of New England life, "The Old Homestead," and have laughed and wept by turns over the quaint, homely bits of comedy and pathos which constitute its chief charm. Moreover, the atmosphere of "The Old Homestead," at once so peaceful and so bracing, together with the genuine touch of nature which makes the whole world kin, serves to enhance its every feature and to bring the audience into the closest relations with both the player and the production. "The Old Homestead" undoubtedly owes something of its continuous and ever increasing popularity to the fact that it affords one of the strongest and most potent object lessons possible in honesty, sobriety and charity. The sturdy integrity of Uncle Joshua Whitcomb, added to his other shining characteristics of both head and heart; Aunt Matilda's sweet, motherly solicitude for the absent son; the sentile petulance and querulousness of Cy Prime and Seth Perkins; these and other character sketches from life are the kind that appeal most forcibly to an audience and stir the sensibilities and risibilities to the highest pitch. This is the twenty-eighth season of "The Old Homestead." The cast is practically the same as last season.

—If they are to move the engineering force from the Panama canal to Alaska to build that new railroad, as has been proposed, it ought to be something of a wrench to the constitutions of the men to become acclimated to the opposite extreme in temperature from that to which they have been accustomed.—Somerville Journal.

OLD COLONY CONFERENCE

fulfill himself? We need a better planning of human life for the greater masses of men.

These are not theological problems, but the problems of every day. Christians all over the world are becoming more human. The saving of man is not by putting chains about him but by guiding him so that he may find the right solution. This is the new study of humanity for the more man knows about life the less do they pass judgment on any one. We do not know what bad thoughts a good man has or the good thoughts a bad man has. A man should be a son of God whether he is in a Bishop's garb or is digging in the ditch.

At the close of the address it was voted that it be printed in the Leader.

The last speaker of the morning session was Dr. Charles F. Dole of Jamaica Plain who spoke on "The religion behind all religions."

This religion briefly stated was good will and the love of man. The speaker said that he had often thought what it would mean to him to be in some eastern country as a missionary trying to explain to the oriental, the things which he had always been taught to believe.

What we need is a new religion of good will. War with Mexico, would not be possible if we had this religion of good will. Where is there any church that has tried to grapple with this problem?"

The speaker then spoke of the religions of the past, and how they had changed. With this change we can not believe as they believed in Heaven and Hell. We are not satisfied with the position taken in those days How are we to set forth our ideals to make them perfectly clear. Now we have begun to realize that the spirit of love and good will are one another with God. We cannot conceive of an infinite will but God's will. The most happy conception between God and man is good will. This brings us to the conception of what we mean when we say "Thy will be done." The teachings of God means the coming into the world of men and women who are possessed with good will. That is what we are working for.

We should begin the day and carry it through with love and good will. If we find we are wrong we should go back and begin all over again, with a good will.

He then touched upon some of the great problems of the day, particularly Mexico, which was caused by an enormous lack of good will. Good will is the only thing that can settle this and the great labor problems of the day. We do not need to send down ships to terrify the people of Mexico. They have no special reason for loving the United States. We should have taken their explanation of the recent incident at its face value in this trifling matter. If the American admiral was to be backed up they should have been given a little time, if our hearts had been filled with good will. We do not love them when we do as we are doing."

The address of Dr. Dole closed the morning session and a recess was taken until 1.30 during which time lunch was served by the ladies in the vestry.

BRONCHITIS SUFFERER

Takes Druggists' Advice With Splendid Result.

If any one should know the worth of a medicine, it is the retail druggist who sells it every day in the week and is in a position to know what remedy gives the best satisfaction.

Mrs. Frank H. Uline of West Sand Lake, N. Y., says: "For years I was a great sufferer from bronchitis. Last July I had a severe attack and my friends thought I could not recover from it. Then I was advised by my druggist to try Vinol, which I did with wonderful results. My cough has left me; I have gained in weight and appetite and I am as strong as ever I was. I advise all who have bronchitis, chronic coughs, or who are run-down to try Vinol."

It is the combined action of tht medicinal curative elements of the cod's liver, without oil, aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron that makes Vinol so efficient in such cases.

Remember, we guarantee Vinol to do just what we say—we pay back your money if it does not. E. J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

IN COURT FOR THREAT.

Frank H. Brown of Dorchester was arraigned before Judge Avery this morning on a charge of threats, preferred by Miss Annie Dolan of Milton. His case was continued for 30 days with the understanding that he was to cease his attention to the complainant.

The charge was the outcome of a friendship between the parties which was terminated three weeks ago by Miss Dolan. Brown, since then, according to the testimony, has been in the neighborhood of the girls home and acting in a suspicious manner, and is said to have threatened to "choke her wind off." His actions frightened the girl and she reported the affair to Milton police headquarters. Patrolman Chamberlain was detailed to the neighborhood and placed Brown under arrest Thursday night.

Banking In England.

The system of credit in England is different from that in this country, and the mere fact that a man has an account in a bank serves to give him standing. One cannot open an account with a bank in England merely by carrying money to the bank and depositing it. He must have two first class references before a bank will accept his account, and when reference is given it means that the person giving it would indorse or stand for the person to whom it is given. A reference in England means more than a mere phrase. Checks on banks in England cannot be obtained for the mere asking, and a man must have an account in order to get checks from any bank. They cannot be picked up on bank counters or in public places. Private accounts in English banks are not accepted unless they are paid for, the general charge being $50 a year. There are one or two banks in England which discriminate so carefully in the accounts they accept that when a person is fortunate enough to be permitted to open an account with them he can get credit in any city in England or on the continent of Europe.

Word Painting.

Mrs. Bradley, when questioned by a fellow traveler in the Pullman car in regard to her home, launched forth into a rather long and detailed description of its charms. Her little girl, Grace, who had been reading when she began to speak, soon closed her book and listened with great interest.

"It must be very pleasant," remarked the chance acquaintance, somewhat perfunctorily, when Mrs. Bradley finished, and Grace, her eyes gleaming with enthusiasm, said: "Oh, it must be perfectly lovely! What place is it, mamma?"

"Why, our own home, of course," answered the mother, somewhat embarrassed.

"Oh, dear," said Grace, sighing, "how much better it sounds than it looks."—Exchange.

Helped the Glass Man.

She entered the hardware store and said to the clerk:

"I want a pane of window glass ten inches by twelve and I want a man to come right over to my house and set it."

"Very well, ma'am," said the clerk, and calling the proprietor to tend the front of the store, he accompanied the woman around the corner to her house, and around the house to the back porch, where she took the mop, smashed in a perfectly good pane of glass with it, reached through the hole, unlatched the window and said:

"Now go in through the window and unlock the door for me; after that you can put in the new pane and my husband will pay you tomorrow. I left my keys at home when I went calling this afternoon."—Newark News.

Rain Records.

Records of winters in the past bring to light some accounts of excessive rains, for in 1909 a gauge kept at Monumental, in California, registered 153.54 inches. Only at Glenora, Ore., with a record of 167.29 for a single year, has this rainfall record been exceeded in records for the United States. The heaviest rainfall for a single month ever recorded in the United States was at Helen Mine, Cal., in January, 1909, when 71.54 inches fell. Campo has the record for the heaviest downpour ever recorded in California for a single day. This was eleven and a half inches on Aug. 12, 1891, and all of this fell within eighty minutes. This is far below the American record, however, which is held by Alexandria, La., with a record of 21.4 inches in a single day.—Argonaut.

Direct Question.

At a reunion of the Adams family chicken croquettes gave out, so the maids carefully neglected the younger children. After vainly trying to attract the attention of his mother, one of the little boys at the lower end of the table called out in a loud tone of voice, "Mother!"

"What is it, Albert?" she replied.

"Do you think," went on the child, "I should have liked the croquettes if I had had one?"—Lippincott's.

Cannae.

Cannae, where Hannibal won his greatest victory over the Romans, is situated on the opposite side of the peninsula from the city of Rome, on the river Aufidus and about six miles from its mouth. It was from this battlefield that Hannibal sent to Carthage three bushels of gold rings from the fingers of the Roman knights slain in the battle. Cannae is about 200 miles from Rome.

WILL ADVANCE TO MEXICO CITY

Vera Cruz to Be Base of Further American Operations

LIKELY TO MEET OPPOSITION

Bridges Must Be Kept Intact to Insure Our Success—City Prepared For Attack by Mexicans, Who Are Reported to Have Strong Reinforcements Under General Maas

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 24.—General Maas, former Mexican commander at Vera Cruz, is reported to be intending to move against the city with strong reinforcements brought up from Puebla.

Major Butler of the marine corps was dispatched on outpost duty with a detachment of marines to a position a few miles beyond the western limits of the city on the railroad. They took a light field piece with them.

The city was prepared throughout the night for an attack by the Mexicans. Captain Rush, acting under the orders of Rear Admiral Fletcher, continued in immediate command of the garrison. No indications of the proximity of the enemy was given, however, during the night. Within the city the American officers and men waited in instant readiness for an attempt by the Mexican troops to make an attack.

Plans have been made for the early seizure of the railroad from Vera Cruz to Mexico City. A reconnoitering force has reported still intact two bridges on the railroad, one ten miles and one eighteen miles from Vera Cruz. Officers reported that these bridges must be protected if Vera Cruz is to be a base of further operations, because they could not be readily rebuilt if destroyed.

With the exception of the tramping of detachments of sailors and marines there was scarcely a sound in the city, but occasionally a sniping shot was heard. One of the American marines was killed during the night by a young bluejacket. The sailor was on sentry duty and became excited when he saw a figure move towards him out of the darkness. He forgot his instructions to challenge three times, and fired immediately, the marine falling dead.

The first proclamation issued in this city by Americans since the last war between the United States and Mexico ended in 1848 was posted on the walls and read with interest by the Mexican inhabitants.

Fletcher had printed his original statement assuring the citizens that he and his force of bluejackets and marines purposed to assist them in the restoration of civil government. He added that the American armed forces would hold the city, but that Mexican officials were invited and urged to return to their posts. The proclamation concluded by stating that the only place the Americans intended to operate indefinitely and directly was the custom house.

Reports here declare that Huerta has stated he will have 400,000 men in the field within twenty days. He is quoted as having declared that Mexico is "not only defending her national sovereignty, but that of all Latin-America."

The 3000 marines and bluejackets now in the city turned with as much vigor as they showed in fighting to work of peace in directing a cleaning up of that section of the town in which the fighting occurred.

The staff of Fletcher is rapidly organizing all work, and if Maas does not return to make an attack normal conditions may soon be restored. It is the general belief that Maas would hardly venture an attack with a force of only 3000 men. In addition to the support the vessels in the harbor could give the land forces, several thousand more marines and bluejackets could be landed to resist the Mexicans, and they would be hopelessly outnumbered.

IN THE BORDER CITIES

Undercurrent of Bitter Feeling at El Paso and Juarez

El Paso, Tex., April 24.—Despite the letter General Carranza sent to President Wilson, indicating a probability that the United States would be compelled to fight a united Mexico, Juarez and El Paso are unruffled and there is no sign of a disturbance.

There is a strong undercurrent of bitter feeling, however, and the greatest care is being exercised by the authorities in both cities to prevent any clash.

Elfrino M. Franko, editor of El Libre, a radical Huertaista daily, which has been calling upon Mexicans to arm and defend their country against an American invasion, denouncing Villa and Carranza and urging constitutionalist soldiers to desert, was arrested. His printing plant was seized.

Six hundred Spanish Americans, Mexicans by blood, but citizens of the United States, met at the courthouse and adopted resolutions tendering their services to the American government "to do anything whatsoever we may be called upon to do to preserve the peace and dignity of the city and country and to serve the United States in whatever capacity it might require of them."

TWENTY-NINE KNOWN DEAD IN RIOTING

Fighting in Colorado Has Been Continuous Since Monday

Trinidad, Col., April 24.—After the announcement here that all the women and children entombed in the wrecked slope of the Empire mine had been taken out in safety, came news that the Southwestern mine buildings had been razed and twenty more miners, their wives and children, and a number of guards had fled into the mine entrance to escape a hail of lead.

The known death list as a result of the fighting that started Monday and has been almost continuous since is twenty-nine. Twenty-one lives were lost Monday in the Ludlow battle, four men are known to have been killed Wednesday at Delagua and the bodies of four strikers killed during the fighting in and about Aguilar are lying in the morgue at that place.

END OF SCHOOL STRIKE

Pupils In Saugus Institution Claim They Have Won Victory

Saugus, Mass., April 24.—The 250 boys and girls at the Saugus high school returned to their studies on the announcement by the school board that it would grant a hearing to James F. Butterworth, the former principal.

It was the manner in which Butterworth's resignation was forced by the board that caused the pupils' strike.

The pupils returned quietly, but let it be known that if punishment of any or all of their number was attempted they would immediately strike again. The pupils declare their strike a complete victory.

A Daring Ruse

It Was Practiced by One Working For the Russian Revolution

By MARIA FOLDEROVNA

Women are natural educators, especially of children, and a great many of us Russian women have been drawn into revolution through efforts to break down that ignorance which unfits the huge mass of our people for free government. I am the daughter of a Russian country gentleman living on the family estate in the province of Kostroma and began my revolutionary career by teaching the moujiks (peasants) on my father's estate. I taught not only the children, but grown men and women, and when I saw their anxiety to better their condition, which they seemed to know they would do by learning, I felt that I could take any risk in their behalf.

When I was stopped in this work I did not attempt openly to defy the government, because I knew such a course would be futile. I allied myself with one of those secret organizations whose object it was to rid Russia of our autocratic form and replace it with one that would give us liberty to teach the ignorant. This took me to the fountainhead, St. Petersburg. My father endeavored to persuade me to desist, but I could not bear to remain with tied hands among a people who were more like cattle than human beings, yet endowed with a desire to better their condition.

When I began to work secretly in the cause of the revolution I entered upon a life of duplicity. The foundation of a revolution must necessarily involve organization, and that could be achieved only by secret methods, for the government was aware of what was going on and met our secret efforts by secret efforts of its own.

My work in St. Petersburg was that of messenger. Documents, sometimes printed, sometimes written, sometimes in plain language, sometimes in cipher, must be constantly conveyed from one point to another. An ordinary messenger, such as is used at telegraph or other offices, is a mere conveyance, and almost any one will suffice for such a purpose, but to carry that which the whole power of an autocratic government is used to intercept and which, if intercepted, will cause the banishment to the icy regions of Siberia of those implicated, besides doing great harm to the cause, requires coolness, courage and resource.

One night at a secret meeting of the circle of which I was a member I was given a package which I was told contained printed circulars condemning the government and calling on those who loved freedom to enroll themselves for the cause. There was nothing in the circulars in case they fell into the hands of the government to injure any one but the person having them in his or her possession, though such person might be led to implicate others. On account of this possible implication and for my own safety, I was cautioned as usual that if suspicious of being watched to get rid of the package if possible. It contained a hundred circulars, which was all one person would be intrusted with to carry on account of size. I had a pocket made in the skirt of my dress especially adapted to carry concealed articles.

The morning after receiving my instructions, being ready to start out on the duty assigned me, I looked out of my window down on to the street to see if any suspicious person loitered near. People were passing to and fro. A short distance up the street two men were standing talking together. They seemed to be discussing something which I assumed was of no importance to me, for they never once glanced in my direction.

And yet these men were spies of the government. One of them was instructing the other that the house in which I lived was under suspicion and any one issuing from it was to be followed, and if an arrest seemed warranted the person suspected was to be taken before a police officer. But I, not knowing this, went downstairs and pursued my way unconscious of the danger that threatened me.

However, I had noted the two men and, after walking a short distance, stopped at a shop window ostensibly to look at the goods displayed there, but really to glance back at the two men I have mentioned. They had separated, and one of them was coming toward me. He stopped to look up at the signs above him as though looking for some especial place. Had he come right on I might not have been very fearful. As it was I inferred that, seeing me glance back from before the shop window, he had pretended to be looking for some particular address in order to divert my suspicion from him.

My heart leaped up in my throat. However, I would soon know if this man was following me, and I nerved myself to meet the issue if he were. I walked on, turning down a cross street leading away from the point I had started for, and presently, stopping again at a shop where women's hats were displayed, I glanced back. The man I feared was just passing behind a projection of a building.

I now felt assured that he was watching me, but resolved to make one more trial before acting upon the supposition that he was. I walked on and turned down another street, taking a direction toward the point from which I had started. Then, suddenly turning at a right angle so that I could see my shadower without appearing to do so, I caught him coming toward me and looking straight at me.

Owing to the dangerous work in which I was engaged I spent much of my leisure time in thinking up expedients in case I should be caught red handed. I now resolved to put in practice one of the most daring of which I had conceived. I was sure that this man was a police official and that he was following me. At any moment he was liable to have me arrested, though I fancied that unless he believed he had excited my suspicions he would permit me to go where I intended, leaving me to implicate others. As to dropping my package, I carried a knife with which I could slit my pocket and let it drop out. Could I have got far enough away from my shadower I would have done this, but after I turned so quickly as to see him coming for me he drew nearer and I was in great trepidation as to being arrested.

I therefore resolved to put in practice the plan I have referred to. I knew very well every police station in St. Petersburg and directed my steps to the nearest one. On reaching it I turned into the building, my watcher following me to the very door, and in a few minutes I was standing at a desk, behind which sat an official in uniform.

"I have found a package in the street," I said, "wrapped in such fashion as printed matter is usually wrapped to send through the mails. There is no address on it. I was about to tear off the cover when it occurred to me that it might contain something of an illegal character. It seemed to me that I would better turn it over to a representative of the government. If it is ordinary matter no harm is done; if there is anything criminal in it my action in bringing it to you is proof that I am in no way to blame for having it in my possession."

I nerved myself to say this as ingenuously as possible. The official took the package which I handed him and, breaking it open, ran his eye over it. The expression on his face changed at once from one of carelessness to one of intense interest.

"Where did you find this?" he asked.

"I was looking in at a shop window not far from here in which hats were exhibited, and, casting my eyes down to the flagging, saw it lying at my feet."

"Did you see any one moving away who might have dropped it?"

I pretended to ransack my memory, then said:

"After emerging from my home this morning to do some shopping I noticed a man going in the same direction as I. He had been standing at the milliner's window just before I reached it."

"Can you identify him?"

"I could if I were to see him, but he is doubtless far from me now, one of the crowd."

When I said this I believed my shadower was at the door of the police office. And yet on second thought it seemed that seeing me go into the station he would suppose that he had got on to the wrong track and would abandon his chase. But he would likely report it, and then I would not get off so easily.

The officer at the desk took my address and permitted me to go where I liked; but, believing that he would send some one to make sure that I had given him the right one, I left him resolving to go straight home. I was relieved not to see my shadower waiting for me outside the station. As soon as I reached my home I put on a disguise I kept concealed there—that of a decrepit old man—and left the building. At the door I passed my shadower, talking with a man I had seen at the police office.

I made my way to the home of a prominent member of our circle, to whom I told my story. Through the secret machinery by which important news was communicated he flashed it among the members, and that night, dressed as a young man, I was driven to a railway station and furnished with money, a ticket and a passport of a citizen of the United States. I crossed the border, arriving safely in Germany, and for awhile my efforts on behalf of the revolution ceased.

How my friends secured the passport I never learned, but I fancy it was stolen by some one interested in the cause of the revolution.

KEPT CABINET IN THE DARK

Huerta Said Nothing of Sailing of American Fleet

MEXICO MUST QUICKLY YIELD

The Sooner She Does So the Less Blood Will Be Spilled, According to Mexican Diplomat—Neither Huerta, Carranza Nor Villa Will Ever Be Real Ruler of the Country

New York, April 24.—"The Mexican government will sue for peace in two or three months and why not arrange peace terms now and save bloodshed?" asked Dr. Emeterio De La Garza, Huerta's appointee to the Mexican consul-generalship in Paris, as he faced half a dozen of his countrymen in his rooms at the Waldorf. They had gathered to discuss a way to end the threatening trouble by the United States and their own country immediately.

It was finally decided that the influence of disinterested advocates of peace should be sought and that the Mexicans in New York should repeat their offer to Huerta to aid Mexico in any way should peace measures prove futile.

Huerta carefully kept even his ministers and advisers in the dark regarding the action of the United States until three days after the fleet sailed from New York last week, according to De La Garza, who said Huerta could never be the real president of Mexico.

"This is worse than war—it is a gross blunder," said De La Garza. "It is not between two nations, but between two governments. Huerta does not represent Mexico, nor can he ever be the real head of the Mexican nation, but if the United States invades our country, every Mexican will forget his dislike of Huerta and rally to the flag, disregarding the fact that he is fighting to support an intolerable despot.

"Neither Huerta, Carranza nor Villa will ever be the real ruler of Mexico. Such a leader must arise from other than internal strife, for a person satisfying one section of our country will not satisfy another. A war with the United States probably would bring about the rise of a national leader, but that would be the only service it could perform.

"Three months from now Huerta will probably be suing for peace, but the warfare will not end for fifteen years if the United States tries to establish a protectorate. Guerilla fighting will follow and thousands upon thousands of Yankee soldiers will die.

"The only solution of the problem for the United States is after the protectorate is established to proclaim a general amnesty and partition of lands. The Indians want land, and if they become proprietors they will settle down as farmers. That will stop the fighting and a rule of peace will follow."

CHARGED WITH MURDER

Housekeeper Accused of Killing Eight-Year-Old Girl

Gardner, Mass., April 24.—Mrs. Ella Stiles, 40 years old, is under arrest, charged with the murder of Eunice E. Nash, the 8-year-old daughter of Henry N. Nash of Baldwinsville, for whom Mrs. Stiles had been housekeeping during the past three months.

While under the influence of drugs and stimulants, it is charged, Mrs. Stiles hit the little girl on the head with the handle of a hatchet taken from the woodshed, because the little girl could not comb her own hair and prepare herself for the village school.

The girl's skull was fractured at the base of the brain and her death resulted a short time afterwards.

FOREST FIRES AT BRAINTREE

Forest fires at Braintree burned over 400 acres and gave the firemen a hard fight Thursday. The fire started in the night in the woods bordering Great pond, and a force of men under Chief Tenney worked nearly all day. At times the fire seemed to be out, but a fresh breeze would immediately start it again. At times the ice houses about the pond were in great danger but were saved. Later Thursday a fire started back of the Blue Hill cemetery and burned 100 acres of woodland belonging to Peter T. Fallon of Quincy and A. A. Drollett. Julius Heurlin lost 100 valuable nursery trees and three large telephone poles carrying many wires were also burned off.

Two certificates for marriages performed outside of Quincy were returned to City Clerk Crane this morning. On April 6, Kenneth F. Horne of Lynn and Lilly M. Hall of 56 Brooks street, Quincy, were married at Lynn, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Addison B. Lorimer, and on April 22, Rev. Fr. Vigilio Soldi of Boston, solemnized the marriage of Percy Fabiano of Braintree and Jemma Abbta of 134 Cross street Quincy.

SQUANTUM CHURCH FUND

Swedish Sunday School Has Raised over $100

The members of the Sunday School of the Swedish Congregational church, Garfield street, who have been raising funds in aid of a church building fund at Squantum, reported on Thursday evening at a social in the church. They collected $128.30 in cash. Rev. A. G. Sporrong, the pastor, says his church desires to co-operate with the church movement at Squantum if possible. Four years ago, however, a Sunday School was established at Squantum and now has a membership of 40, and had planned to buy a lot and build. Under certain conditions they would favor a union church, and a meeting will be held at Squantum at an early date that the people may decide. At the social an entertainment was given by the pastor's class, including recitations and music.

BOX 21 FOR AWNING FIRE

One of the awnings in front of the Durgin & Merrill block took fire this morning. Box 24 was pulled but before the department arrived a hand chemical extinguished the blaze. The awning was a total loss. It was probably set by a cigar or cigarette thrown from one of the upper windows.

SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crowley celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage at their home Saturday evening, April 18. Guests were present from Worcester, Cambridge, Dorchester and Weymouth. Mr. and Mrs. Crowley were assisted in receiving by their daughter Miss Mildred L. Crowley. During the evening a buffet luncheon was served after which the guests enjoyed many musical numbers. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Crowley were married in 1889 at the First Baptist church, Worcester, by the Rev. George G. Craft. The many friends remembered Mr. and Mrs. Crowley with many beautiful pieces of silver.

SILVER CUP AS TROPHY

Smith and Jenner to Meet on April 29

A ten string special bowling match between Herb Smith of the Fore River league and Jenner of the Wollaston Tennis Club league has been arranged for the evening of April 29 at the Coliseum alleys. Negotiations closed Thursday evening when Jesse Litchfield, representing the Ward Five organization and Joseph M. Larkin, representing the shipbuilders formally accepted the challenges.

A handsome silver cup has been offered, both leagues contributing to its cost. The cup will be the most elaborate trophy of the season.

The match was brought about at the request of the bowlers of the city who wanted Jenner and Smith to meet each other in a special match. Both hold an average of more than 100 in their respective leagues. The contest will probably be witnessed by a record crowd.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

The annual business meeting of the Hall Place M. E. church Epworth League was held Thursday evening. The secretary's report was approved. The treasury shows a balance on hand with all bills paid.

The reports of the four vice presidents show a good increase in membership, attendance and interest and the League to be in good condition.

The following officers elected for the ensuing year:

President—J. M. Francis, re-elected
1st Vice president—Miss Hilda Francis, re-elected.
2nd Vice president—Harold Norris re-elected
3rd Vice president—Miss Jessie Burke
4th Vice president—Miss Edna Burke
Secretary—Edward Newcomb, re-elected
Treasurer—Warren Jordan
Pianist—Miss Edna Miller, re-elected

The president thanked the members for their good work and loyal support in the past and bespoke their hearty co-operation with the officers for the coming year.

At the close of the business, Mrs. J. M. Francis, formerly 4th Vice President, on behalf of the League, presented Mr. and Mrs. Martin with a picture of Hoffman's "Christ in Gethsemane."

The presentation came as a surprise to them. Both thanked the League for their thoughtfulness in giving this token of appreciation and for the help and work of the members during their stay here and said they should never forget the happy times they had here.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed. Ice cream and cake were served by the 4th vice president.

ORGAN RECITAL.

There will be an organ recital at First church, City Square next Sunday afternoon at five o'clock given by William Ellis Weston, the regular organist of the church. The public is most cordially invited and it is hoped that many will avail themselves of this opportunity to hear an interesting program of good music, with such an impressive and uplifting environment, as this historic church offers to those who enter therein. The program follows:

Prelude	Borowski
Andantino	Cesar Franck
Cantilene Nuptiale	Dubois

JOLLY NIGHT FOR GEAR WORKS MEN

Entertained by General Manager Burgess at the Quincy Y. M. C. A.

Athletic Sports Followed by Lunch and Speeches

The annual reception of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. to the employees of the Boston Gear Works was held Friday evening at the association rooms, and was attended by upwards of seventy of the employees including Frank Burgess the proprietor. The guests arrived at the rooms about 8 o'clock and from then until 10.30 there was not an idle minute.

The first place visited was the gymnasium where there was a series of sports, which included base ball and bowling. The result of the several events were as follows:

Potato race, won by Rennie, Henderson, second, Hunter third.

Standing broad jump, won by Bissett, Hunter second and Geddes third distance 8 feet 2 inches.

Base ball game between teams captured by Buckley and Gillis, won by Buckley's nine with a score of 16 to 3.

Bowling between teams captained by Joyce and Simpson, won by Joyce team with a score of 394 to 348.

The sports in the gymnasium closed with an exhibition of ball juggling and Indian club swinging by Mr. Burgess. It is not generally known, perhaps, that Mr. Burgess in his younger days was a physical director in the Detroit Y. M. C. A., and although actively engaged in business he has always kept up his gymnasium work which has been of great help to him in the conducting of his extensive business.

An adjournment was made to the dining room where a lunch was served by Mr. Burgess to the employees. Following the lunch there was an exhibition of drumming by William F. Artis, and several speeches, the director of the so-called "hot air" being Arthur H. Stowers.

Brief remarks were made by Frank Burgess, the general manager, Supt. Charles L. Pratt, Alonzo W. Bissett, and David A. Buckley, captain of the winning base ball team.

The evening closed at 10.30 and the general sentiment of all was that it had been most enjoyable.

Secretary Bromley said that the Y. M. C. A. desired to entertain the employees of all manufacturing concerns in Quincy in the same manner. Some little had been done in this line during the past winter and that another winter it was hoped to make this kind of entertainments more general.

Sunday morning the pastor of Bethany church will exchange with Rev. Harry Grimes of Braintree. In the evening the pastor will lecture on "First aid to the tempted." Young men and women will find the lecture suggestive and encouraging.

What the residents of Houghs Neck want now more than anything is a little warm weather. This is needed to send the summer colony down.

ANXIOUS FOR DAUGHTER

Mrs. Alfred Morcom Was In Mexico City

Members of the family of James R. Qualey of Braintree are much concerned over the plight of their daughter, Mrs. Alfred Morcom who is in Mexico City. No letter has been received for over a week, and the last one dated April 11, told only of the rumors of an approaching crisis.

Affairs since then have become serious, and Walter Morcom, superintendent of the railroad connecting the city and Vera Cruz and father of Alfred Morcom, was one of the four English subjects seized and threatened with execution by the Federals on Friday.

Mrs. Morcom planned to visit her parents this summer, and in her letter stated the arrangements would be carried out "if the rebels did not take her into captivity." Word is being anxiously awaited, but the family is patient, feeling that she will be among those protected by the foreign embassies.

When the government was seized by the Federals under Huerta, Mrs. Morcom was inland at her husband's ranch, and when the mails were suspended she travelled to Vera Cruz and cabled the news of her safety.

Mrs. Morcom is a sister of Miss Helen Qualey, leader of the orchestra at Kincaide theatre.

THE ELOPEMENT OF ELLEN

Presented by Members of the Catholic Club

The Quincy Catholic club entertained many lady friends at its guest night held in Colonial hall on Friday evening. An attractive program was given by the members, the main feature of which was a playlet entitled, "The Elopement of Ellen" with several of the cast taking the part of male impersonators. The cast was:

Richard Ford, a devoted young husband — Elizabeth Duran
Molly, his wife — Margaret P. Brown
Robert Shepard, Molly's brother — Corinne LaBrecque
Max Ten Eyck, a chum of Robert's — Marguerite McCarthy
Dorothy Marck, engaged to Max, a guest of Mrs. Ford — Elizabeth Mahoney
June Haverhill, who is investigating for the Economics course during the summer — Gertrude Hughes
John Hume, rector of St. Agnes' — Elise A. Picard

The playlet, one of the most entertaining comedies of the day, was well given, the impersonations being particularly true to life. The characters in the female parts also gave a fine interpretation of their own sex.

After the performance, Miss Mary R. Lyons, the president, was presented with an enormous basket of pinks in recognition of her endeavors in the interests of the club.

Vocal selections were rendered by Miss Mary DeLaurier, trio selections by the Misses Angela, Josephine and Marguerite McCarthy and Miss Margaret Heaney contributed readings.

The audience was very appreciative and generously applauded the entire program. A social hour followed during which refreshments were served by the entertainment committee, under whose auspices the evening was arranged.

VAUDEVILLE FOR WELLESLY FUND

Popular Program by Local Talent Delights a Large Audience

Wonderful Whistling Solos by Mrs. John J. Crain

A fine vaudeville show was given by the alumnae of Wellesley College in Music hall, Friday evening for the benefit of the Wellesley rebuilding fund. On the program were members of the alumnae and prominent artists of this city.

The performance was staged under the direction of Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis and Emery L. Crane and the use of the hall was given free.

The active committee was Mrs. Ernest L. Collins, Mrs. John T. Roache, and the Misses Mila Bates, Minnie Packard, Irene C. Dasha, Gerna Saville, May Harvey, Ethel G. Hersey, Louise Steele, Carlena Walker, Marian E. Johnson and Harriet Whittaker.

During the performance candy was sold by the Misses Margaret Park, Margaret Atwood and Mildred Harrison. Music for the evening was by Poole's orchestra and dancing was enjoyed after the vaudeville until 11.30.

The applause following the quartette selections of the Misses Ruth, Dorothy, Ella and Minnie Packard, all in pretty costumes, was repeated at the close of a mirth provoking pantomime, "Marinda's Beaux" in which the impersonator of an old maid was John Pfaffmann, with Everett Rhodes as Silas Oatcake, a farmer, who had difficulty in retaining the old maids affection when Curtis Arnold, as M. de La Montmorency, a dashing Frenchman, appeared on the scene.

The Radcliffe six, The Misses Dorothy Brewer, Mildred Clark, Barbara Leighton and Madeline Brewer, with Miss Dorothy Chequer accompanist, gave a dancing sketch, which was encored twice. Emery L. Crane, as a colored monologist, recounted the "doings" of his famous "Bro. Bill" since the Mexican War, opened. Laughter and handclapping was spontaneous and he left the stage with the audience in roars.

Miss Marian E. Johnson, and the Misses Eleanor Whittemore, Florence

In many churches the Easter hats were not quite loud enough to drown out the choir.

The girls who are having dancing gowns made should realize that if they don't have them slit with the scissors, it will be done some other way while present styles last.

Some rapacious tradesmen expect bills for groceries to be settled before the installment payments have been completed on the new automobile.

INFLUENCE FOR GOOD.

The series of talks which have been the main feature of the monthly meetings of the First Parish Club during the winter have contributed greatly to the information and pleasure of those who heard them, and in other ways the Club has done much to justify its existence. It has brought together large numbers of representative citizens of different creeds and enabled them to see how much they had in common.

The activities of the Club have also done much to stimulate interest in the regular work of good old First Church of which the Club's resourceful president is the able pastor. Clubs are sources of great strength to the churches with which they are connected and it is gratifying to see their numbers increase and their influence spread.

WAR RUMORS.

Charge d'affairs O'Shaughnessy was assasinated Wednesday in Mexico—by a telegram. It is one of the evils of war that we must have those wicked and unfounded rumors flashed upon us every now and then and remain in suspense until they are proved false. A conscientious newspaper has a hard time of it in handling such reports. It must publish them for what they are worth lest it fail in its duty to its readers, and nobody regrets having to take a chance on them more than does the publisher. It was a vicious rumor to send out. The only gratifying thing about it was that it turned out to be untrue.

POLICE "BRUTALITY."

There have recently been several near riots in New York and other cities, connected with I. W. W. parades. Nine men were arrested at the last demonstration in New York for alleged disturbance of the peace. Allegations were made that the police brutally struck the heads of the crowd until the blood spurted.

Only an eye witness could say how far these complaints were fair. The general question of the attitude and conduct of the police toward disturbances is worth attention, however, as a source of constant conflict in a great many places.

"A policeman's lot is not a happy one." The street crowd is unfriendly. Even if he is merely trying to arrest a man as a "simple drunk," he feels the hostile atmosphere.

After a policeman gets three or four kicks in the shin, he does not feel quite that benevolent interest in a squirming creature that might be suggested by pure philanthropy. Policemen occasionally get angry like other people. The temptation is strong to hand out a monitory rap with the stick. This quite possibly may be more emphatic than would be called for by the code of rules.

Police work creates contempt for the underworld of drunks, vagrants, and thieves. The incessant conflict with turbulence and disorder may get too much on a man's nerves. Also politics lands many a coarse and cruel man in a policeman's uniform.

But perfection can be expected in no task. It is one thing to gather in a squirming fighter, who is able to deliver some ugly blows, and may have a gun in his pocket. It is another thing to stand outside and criticise.

In these I. W. W. riots, the police perhaps failed to distinguish carefully enough between men who lose self-control from emotional excitement, and the ordinary street rough. But the fact remains that the policeman saves the rest of us from the repulsive job of self-defence. Were it not for him, every one else would have to be rolling in the gutter, defending his own right to peace and quiet.

PREPARED TO PROTECT OUR BORDER

War Department Watching For Signs of Hostility

WASHINGTON GIVES WARNING TO CARRANZA

Advised to Remain Neutral to Save His Own Cause—No Attempt to Interfere With Regular Channels of Commerce—Outbreak at Nuevo Laredo Not Unexpected—Congress Provides Machinery For Raising Volunteer Army—No Harm to Americans In Mexico City—Mexico Not to Be Invaded Under Present Conditions, According to Garrison

Washington, April 25.—While the attention of the American government was concentrated mainly on restoring order at Vera Cruz and expediting the departure of Americans from all parts of Mexico, a sharp watch was kept on the transcontinental boundary between Mexico and United States for any signs of hostility from the Mexican constitutionalists.

President Wilson and his cabinet had a long meeting, after which optimism was conspicuously apparent in their demeanor.

There was no particular development to which could be attributed the feeling of hopefulness that real war would be averted, but General Villa's friendly pronouncement, it was admitted, had impressed many officials here with the possibility that the constitutionalists would remain neutral, while the American government sought reparations from Huerta.

Other officials were not so sanguine, and the army moved with precision and swiftness to protect the American boundary and reinforce the expeditionary force of marines and bluejackets at Vera Cruz.

Conferences at the state department between Secretary Bryan and representatives of the Mexican constitutionalists resulted in the dispatch to General Carranza of a telegram by the latter, strongly advising him to remain neutral and assuring him that the American government intended to withdraw its forces from Mexico as soon as satisfactory reparation had been made for offenses committed by Huerta.

Carranza was told that by assuming a hostile attitude he would draw all Mexico into war; Huerta would be perpetuated, and the constitutional cause would be lost in the melee.

No Mediation Yet

Four countries, including France and Spain, came forward with inquiries about possible means of mediation between the Huerta government and the United States, but Secretary Bryan said these advances could not be described as "overtures" and he was inclined to attach little importance to them. The position of the American government is firm, that an offense against its dignity and national honor has been committed and that reparation must be made.

Signs of uneasiness abroad because the United States, though not having declared a blockade or a state of war, is exercising jurisdiction at Vera Cruz between measures "short of war" and actual war, began to be apparent. Cabinet officials said no attept would be made to interfere with the regular channels of commerce anywhere, cargoes being allowed to land at all points. Munitions of war alone will be held at the Vera Cruz customs house.

Meantime the army and navy continue their plans for the holding of Vera Cruz, the care of refugees, the provisioning of American forces and the maintenance of a strict border patrol, not only to prevent raids and uprisings, but also to keep all factions in Mexico from obtaining arms and ammunitions from the United States.

The war department continued its plan for the mobilization of regulars and volunteers should the president call for them.

The army transports, bearing infantry and artillery, sailed from Galveston to re-enforce the naval force at Vera Cruz.

Outbreak Not Serious

The sporadic outbreak at Nuevo Laredo, Mex., where the evacuating federals burned the town and fired across the American border, was not unexpected, but it was pointed out by officials here that the American troops returned the fire merely in defense of the international line and did not become the aggressors. Both the military and naval forces are operating under this principle, defending themselves from attack but making no offensive move without instructions from Washington.

Congress still talked about Mexico. Senator Lodge read a long telegram from many prominent persons, urging an inquiry into the Mexican situation before was was declared. Representative Fitzgerald, chairman of the house committee on appropriations, asked the president if he wanted "any war appropriation," and Mr. Wilson said, "no! not as yet."

COLONEL LOUGHBORO

Prominent Figure In Army Activities on the Border

Mr. Wilson will affix his signature probably today to the volunteer army bill, providing the machinery for raising a volunteer army force in any time of emergency. Estimates by army officers as to the number of men the president might call for in case of war range from 50,000 to 100,000, but not a word has come from the White House as to this point.

Arms Not Landed

The German vessel which carried the big shipment of arms for Huerta has landed its commercial cargo, but the captain of the vessel, for reasons of his own, has not put the ammunition ashore. There has been no effort on the part of the United States forces at Vera Cruz to prevent its landing.

The accepted theory here is that the ammunition was not landed because of the certainty that it would not reach the consignee if deposited in the Vera Cruz customs house. American naval officers will not interfere with the interior shipment of the cargoes, but will collect the customs and hold them until reparation has been made for all offenses.

Mr. Bryan gave much attention to arranging for the supervision of American consulates in Mexico. He issued orders authorizing all American consuls, both in the federal and constitutionalist territory, to withdraw from Mexico, but left it to their discretion when to depart.

The secretary announced that the consuls of Great Britain, Chile and France would look out for American interests at points where the Brazilian government had no consuls. Brazil already has taken charge of the American embassy at Mexico City, where the Brazilian flag has replaced the Stars and Stripes over the building.

Shanklin In Mexico City

Consul General Shanklin is still in Mexico City, according to the latest word at the state department, and has been instructed to use his discretion about leaving. It is believed he will stay until the last American is cared for, taking refuge finally, if necessary, in some of the other foreign consulates or legations. Charge O'Shaughnessy was expected to reach Vera Cruz today.

There was no information about the condition of Americans in Mexico City, beyond a brief message saying everything was quiet and no harm had befallen any Americans. Bryan said he did not know what disposition had been made of the arms which had been received at the American embassy for its protection.

Secretary Garrison had received only meager reports of the fighting at Nuevo Laredo.

"We are not going to invade under the present conditions," he said in an answer to questions.

FIGHT ON THE BORDER

American Troops Return Fire of Mexican Federals

Laredo, Tex., April 25.—Mexican federals wrought destruction in Nuevo Laredo, across the river from this place, blew up the public buildings with dynamite, and then turned their guns across the international boundary.

It was reported that three persons had been killed by the Mexican's fire, but in the excitement prevailing it was impossible to verify this report immediately. Americans attracted to the border said that probably ten or twelve Mexicans were seen to fall when American troops on border patrol returned the fire.

There was no property loss in Laredo. Both international bridges are safe, though efforts to dynamite them resulted in the death of two men engaged in the undertaking. One Mexican was shot by a sharpshooter from the top of the water tower. The Mexican was trying to reach the end of the foot and wagon bridge. Another was killed when he tried to blow up the American railroad bridge. Americans were constantly at the American side to prevent such an attempt.

When the Mexican soldiers finally departed, order was quickly restored in Laredo, but strong guards remain throughout the city. A serious problem was furnished immigration and city authorites by the presence here of hundreds of refugees from the burning city, who had to be furnished food and shelter.

Among the buildings in Nuevo Laredo were the United States consulate, the municipal building, the flour mill, one of the largest in this section of the southwest; the postoffice, theatre and the customs house. These were all burned.

Fire, originating from the explosions or deliberately set, spread to all quarters of the city.

The federals opened fire on the Americans as federal troop trains pulled out of the city. The railroad follows the international line for some distance in going south and from car windows and platforms the Mexicans began a rapid fire, aiming indiscriminately at any person in sight.

Their fire was quickly returned, for available troops on the American side had been ordered to the boundary when the federals began dynamiting. It was feared that they would attempt to wreck the international bridge, but they confined their attention to buildings in the centre of Nuevo Laredo. Hundreds of people crowded to the boundary at the sound of the detonations. The troop trains put on all speed when the American fire began and soon were out of range.

The federals had returned to Nuevo Laredo for additional engines for their trains. They pulled out from the city yesterday afternoon, and it was thought all danger was passed until the Mexicans opened fire from the car windows.

ATTITUDE OF VILLA

More Concern Over That Than What Carranza May Say

Washington, April 25.—General Villa has taken the constitutionalist diplomacy, as well as military campaign, into his own hands.

Official despatches to the state department indicate that the bandit general is angry at the tenor of the Carranza note to President Wilson and the neglect of Carranza to consult him regarding it, and no secret is made in official circles here of the opinion that hereafter Villa may block out his own course.

In any event, much more concern is felt over what he may do than what Carranza may say. There is no optimistic feeling over conditions on the northern border and no further shipment of arms into rebel territory will be permitted, by order of the war department, although the president has not yet exercised the right he enjoys under the law to prohibit the shipment of arms to Mexico by an order of his own.

VOLUNTEER BILL PASSES

Call For Fifty Thousand Men Is Expected to Come Soon

Washington, April 25.—The senate, facing an imminent call for volunteers, passed the volunteer army bill on which the house and senate conferees had reached an agreement.

The house passed the volunteer army bill and it went to the president for signature. The bill places volunteers on an army basis and the president, not governors, is to name officers.

Their speedy action was taken at the request of President Wilson. The conferees, it was said afterward, had received information that the special urgency for the measure was the fact that the president expected to call for 50,000 volunteers within five days. It was understood in the conference committee that this number might be increased at intervals to a maximum of 250,000 men. The army board, it was said, had recommended the calling together of a volunteer force of 400,000 men. President Taft, who had plans drawn up for the invasion of Mexico, expected to call 200,000 volunteers the moment the regulars went over the line.

URGED TO BE NEUTRAL

Rebel Officials In Washington Send Message to Carranza

Washington, April 25.—After a conference at the state department with Secretary Bryan, representatives of the constitutionalists telegraphed General Carranza advising that he maintain a neutral attitude toward the United States in its difficulty with the Huerta government.

The message to Carranza, it was said, contained what virtually was the reply of the United States to his note of several days ago protesting against the occupation of Vera Cruz.

The constitutionalists in the conference were assured that no offensive movement from Vera Cruz was contemplated by the United States, and that as soon as reparation and amends could be forced from the Huerta faction the customs house in that city would be turned back to authorities duly constituted to receive it.

GUARDING AGAINST FAMINE

Badger and the Red Cross Will Cooperate at Vera Cruz

Washington, April 25.—Attempts to avert a threatened food famine at Vera Cruz, due to the exhaustion of the city's supplies and suspension of all business there, were taken by Admiral Badger. He advised the navy department that one of the ships taking refugees to the United States be returned loaded with food and clothing.

The American Red Cross also ordered its agents to take charge in Vera Cruz and distribute supplies where needed. Mexicans as well as foreigners will be aided, but only until Admiral Badger can induce the local authorities, if possible, to resume their civil activities.

OPERA TALK AT WOLLASTON

W. L. Hubbard Instructs While He Entertains

The second opera talk under the auspices of the Wollaston Woman's club Friday afternoon, at the Wollaston M. E. vestry, was well attended and greatly enjoyed. W. L. Hubbard of the Boston Opera house gave an interpretation of Lohengrin.

Mr. Hubbard is one of the most sought-after lecturers today. He has a style entirely his own. He entertains and instructs, without allowing his hearers to realize that he is all the time driving pegs for their memories to fasten facts to. When his lecture is over his audience goes away, with a clear conception of the opera about which he has been speaking and when later they go to see the opera, instead of sitting through a performance where the golden-haired heroine tosses about frantically and various well-dressed men and women walk back and forth singing words which have no meaning to the average listener.these people who have learned the story of the grand operas from Mr. Hubbard's talks, see the plays with his eyes and the beauty of the music and the story is revealed to them.

While Mr. Hubbard told the story of Lohengrin, Floyd Baxter of the Boston Opera Company, accompanied him upon the piano. He wove into his story the characteristic strength and weaknesses of the different persons in the opera. He left a vivid picture of Elsa, the Princess of Brabant, the accused, and later vindicated woman, who was saved from death by the knight Lohengrin, to whom she could not measure up in spirituality; and of Lohengrin, the knight of the Holy Grail, whose "strength was as the strength of ten, because his heart was pure." The scenes where Elsa plighted her troth to Lohengrin and promised that she would never ask from whence he came, and that where she broke her vow and insisted upon knowing to whom she was wed, were given with great fervor and intensity. When the familiar strains of the wedding march from Lohengrin filled the hall, each listener felt that the music had a deeper meaning for her than ever before.

In the final scene where Mr. Hubbard described the coming of the swan with the boat to bear Lohengrin away to the Grail, and where he takes Elsa before the King and nobles and proclaims himself the son of Parzival, the audience was greatly impressed with the climax of the story and also thrilled by the power of the singing—speaking voice of the lecturer. Mr. Baxter's interpretation of the music was unusually sympathetic.

Mr. Hubbard is to tell the story of the opera "The Love of Three Kings," next Friday evening.

CITY COUNCIL HAS BIG DOCKET

Many Important Reports Expected Monday Night

Monday night's session of the City Council promises to be one of the busiest that body has held this year. It has been three weeks since the last meeting, and during that time there have been a number of committee meetings, several of which have made an effort to clear the calendar of the matters that had been referred to them. The result is that between twenty-five and thirty committee reports will be received.

Monday night's meeting can readily be called license night for the reason that the committee on licenses will report upon over seventy-five applications for licenses of various kinds. Those in which the most interest centres are the applications for permits to transport liquor into or in the City of Quincy and for licenses to drive wagons for the collection of junk.

The present licenses all expire on April 30, and unless liquor permits are passed and signed by the Mayor before May 1, no expressman can transport liquor on that day. The same is also true of the junk collectors' licenses. It is the latter class of license which give the committee the most trouble. There seems to be a general desire on the part of citizens to confine this class of business to one section, and it is a somewhat difficult job. The number of applicants for junk collectors' licenses is increasing every year, and the wonder is how all the junkies are able to get a living. The license committee has taken much time in the consideration of this class of licenses, the session of the committee on Thursday evening lasting until midnight, due wholly to the conideration of junk licenses.

In addition the reports from theh license committee, the Finance committee, Committee on Streets and Committee on Sewers will be heard from.

HIGH MASS FOR M. F. BURNS

The funeral of Michael F. Burns, a retired granite manufacturer of the city, who died at the Carney Hospital on Wednesday afternoon, was held from his home at 13 Payne street this morning.

A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. John's church at 10 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Walter R. Quinlan. The musical portion of the mass the Gregorian chant, was rendered by the regular choir, with Miss Margaret Gallagher and Miss Genevieve Tate as the soloists.

The floral remembrances were from Quincy court, M. C. O. F., Quincy branch of the Irish National Foresters and the Quincy branch, No. 61 Irish Land League, societies with which the deceased was affiliated.

The bearers were Hugh Tracy, James Lennon, Patrick Ward, Peter McConarty, John J. King and Edward Burns. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery, West Quincy.

Great Climax.

"How was the play you saw last night?" "Pretty melodramatic. In the second act when the skulking villain descends upon Hickory farm and forecloses the mortgage on old Uncle Zeke's automoblie there was hardly a dry eye in the house."

OLD COLONY UNIVERSALISTS

The attendance at the afternoon session of the Old Colony Universalists at the Universalist church in this city was considerably larger than the morning session, and the edifice was well filled.

The afternoon session came to order shortly before 2 o'clock at which time a short business session was held. At this session mention was made of the death of Dr. O. H. Perkins, a former president of the association, who died on Jan. 8, the day following the annual convention which was held at his church in Brockton. The appointment of a committee to prepare a suitable memorial was authorized. A collection for this memorial amounted to $15.

In addition to the praise service, which opened the afternoon session, Miss Edith Hyland sang a solo.

The speakers of the afternoon were Rev. Nelson L. Lobdell, secretary of the Universalist mission at Shidzuaka, Japan, toward which the Quincy church contributes. Rev. Mr. Lobdell spoke interestingly of the work of the mission in Japan.

The second speaker of the afternoon session was Rev. Charles Conklin, superintendent of Universalist churches and a former pastor of the Quincy church. The address of Rev. Mr. Conklin closed the afternoon session.

The platform about the altar was very prettily decorated with cut flowers which were contributed by Perry Green, William Patterson, the City Square flower store and by the Dorcas society and were arranged under the direction of Miss Mary Blake.

The hospitality committee was Mrs. T. A. Addison, Mrs. Eben Prescott and Mrs. James Blake.

The lunch which was served at noon was in charge of Mrs. T. A. Addison who was assisted by the following, Mrs. Robert R. Reed, Mrs. John Hyland, Mrs. Arthur C. Merritt Miss Etta Hanson, Mrs. Etta Larkin, Miss Edith Hyland, Mrs. George Spooner, Miss Marcella Souther, Bartlett Spooner, Miss Annie Smith, Mrs. Clara Hyland, Miss Mattie Hanson, Mrs. Elisha Hobart, Miss Alice Coburn, Mrs. George Anderson, Mrs. James Harris, Mrs. Ethel French, Mrs. Eliza Holton, Mrs. Harriett Lombard, Miss Mary Blake and Miss Florence Holton.

CITY HALL NOTES.

The City Council Committee on Fire Department, with Mayor Miller, Chief Billings, President Whiton and several members of the City Council, are at Providence, R. (Continued from Page One.)

Barker, Carlena Lewis and "Fritz" Nagel, Ryder Gay. Robert Barker and Roger Allen danced the Venetian gondolier's dance, "La Furlana," the latest approved modern dance. Its modesty, contrasted with other dances, was given a demonstration seldom equaled outside of professional circles.

F. Bruce sang "I Love the Girls" and during chorus distributed pinks to the audience which secured for him a partner, Miss Catherine Saville who left her seat to assist in a popular song specialty. Their applause was hearty.

The feature of the evening were the whistling solos by Mrs. John J. Crain of this city, who warbled difficult compositions in which she imitated the rolling and thrilling of the birds so well that it was easy to identify the feathered creatures. Encored twice, she closed her contribution by whistling "Comin' Thro the Rye." She was accompanied by Mrs Daisy Bemis Sampson.

Paul Blackmur and Wesley Ripley, the late attraction of "A Bug in a Rug," the mirthful Pi Eta comedy, gave a terpsichorean specialty introducing La Maxixe Brallienne and an original dance, to the delight of the audience, which insisted on its being repeated. Mrs. A. Isabelle Davis the premier woman monologist of the city, gave one of her character readings and was warmly received.

A midnight fantasy by Miss Katherine Hunt, in which the characters were Miss Ruth Packard as a Colonial Belle of 1750, and Miss Lela Smith as an up-to-date beauty of 1912 closed the program. The fantasy was originally produced at Keith's Boston Bijou theatre under the management of Josephine Clement, Sept. 9-14, 1912, and opens with a tableau in which both characters come to life and converse with each other, the Colonial belle in the English of her time and the beauty of the present in indifferent English, decorated with the vernacular of the day. The sketch was given warm applause.

Dancing to Pooles orchestra followed the vaudeville. The matrons were Mrs. Ernest L. Collins, Mrs. George G. Saville and Mrs. Walter M. Packard. The new dances prevailed and were greatly enjoyed until 11.30.

The honorary patronesses included Ellen Fitz Pendleton and Alice Vinton Waite of Wellesley college, and many Quincy residents. The honorary committees were Harvard—G. E. Adams, H. A. Lawton, J. H. Ash, R. F. Leighton, L. S. Anderson, E. E. Lundin, F. S. Andrews, W. J. McCausland, M. D., F. R. Burke, M. D., W. M. Packard, D. L. Chase, A. H. Pierce, E. E. Doble, W. L. Sargent, C. H. Fornell, H. WILL RESPECT GENEVA TREATY

Mexicans Not Expected to Fire on Red Cross Flag

MANY VOLUNTEERS REPORTING

More Experienced Nurses Enrolled Than Are Likely to Be Required—Greatest Problem In Mexico In Event of War Being Declared Will Be Sanitation—Poor Water Systems

Washington, April 25.—As a result of reports that its emblem had been fired upon in Vera Cruz, the Red Cross issued the following statement:

"As soon as the Mexican soldiers and citizens learn that the American Red Cross will care for the Mexican sick and wounded as well as for the Americans, there will be no firing on the Red Cross flag and into Red Cross hospitals.

"It is said the masses of Mexico do not appreciate the significance of the emblem of a Greek Red Cross on a white ground and that accounts for reports of firing on the Red Cross hospitals in Vera Cruz. However, the government of Mexico agreed to the treaty of Geneva, sometimes called the Red Cross treaty."

The board instructed the chairman of the national committee on nursing service to direct local nursing committees throughout the country to have Red Cross nurses report to headquarters weekly their whereabouts and how free they are to respond to a call for war service.

The American Red Cross is having its share of volunteers, and the headquarters at the war department were fairly swamped with letters from women volunteering for hospital and nursing service under the Red Cross in Mexico. The Red Cross officers, with nearly 4600 experienced nurses enrolled, more than are likely to be required, have been obliged to inform the writers that only graduated trained nurses of two to three years' experience can be even enrolled, much less given immediate assignment.

"If war is declared against Mexico," said Colonel Maus, chief surgeon, first division of the United States army, "this country will spend $1,000,000,000 in establishing a sanitation system in Mexico. For four or five centuries Mexico has paid no attention to the details of life—details, seemingly, but factors, exceedingly—and they unconsciously fortified themselves against invasion.

"The greatest consideration of an army opposed, or an army opposing, is sanitation. The water systems of Mexico are so far behind the present age, that if the United States should declare war against Mexico and march on Mexico City—among officers guided by official information, Mexico City is said to be the future headquarters of this country's armed forces—it would require a new system.

"For the most part Mexico is on a high plain, with Mexico City in the southeast in a bowl. That city will give more concern to the army than any other city. Her public buildings, her penitentiaries and her jails are not equipped as we of a civilized country would expect.

"Down there they do not know how to live or how others should live. If we are called on to go far into Mexico we shall have to establish a water system superior to any that has been known to that country for four or five centuries. The infant mortality rate in that country is one in every ten."

For the last ten or twelve years the army has devoted most of its attention to the sanitation end of war—water. Maus said that not only the United States army, but foreign armies, are using the Darnell filter, invented by Major Darnell of the medical corps, who is now in the Philippines.

"All the divisions that go to the front will be equipped with this filter," said Maus. "It is the best device that has been invented for conserving the lives of the American troops. In Mexico the water system is very bad, and in many places where we will not be able to filter the water we shall have to boil the water."

TELEGRAPHIC BREVITIES

A sharp earthquake shock at Reno, Nev., sent persons running to the streets. No damage was reported.

The definite statement that he has retired permanently from the lecture platform was made by Jacob Riis, the sociologist.

David Gaffin, 45, who has a wife and six children in Winnipeg, Can., committed suicide at Boston by hanging. He was out of work and despondent.

The Massachusetts house passed to be engrossed a bill providing for the appointment of a board of examiners for barbers.

Rev. Poindexter S. Henson, for nineteen years pastor of the First Baptist Church of Chicago, and widely known as a lecturer, died in that city. He was born in Virginia eighty-three years ago.

Joseph D. Wishart, a United States secret service agent, was found dead on the floor of his office in Boston. Death was probably due to heart disease.

ALL NOW QUIET AT VERA CRUZ

Mexicans' Total Loss In Fighting Placed at 321

SEVENTEEN AMERICANS DEAD

Seventy-Five Others Are Suffering From Wounds—Efforts to Retain Present Municipal Officials In Office—Admiral Badger Reports Refugee Question as the Most Difficult of All

Washington, April 25.—One hundred and twenty-six Mexicans have been killed and 195 wounded in the fighting at Vera Cruz since the American forces landed there Tuesday. The Americans killed thus far number seventeen, and seventy-five were wounded.

The first official announcement of Mexican casualties came in a dispatch from Rear Admiral Fletcher, made public by the navy department in this statement:

"A dispatch was received by the navy department from Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz and showed the list of casualities of the Mexicans as 126 killed, 195 wounded, making a total of casualties to date 321.

Admiral Fletcher further reported that he informed Admiral Badger that quiet prevailed throughout Vera Cruz and that affairs are gradually being straightened out and confidence restored. The city council, he said, had called a meeting in an endeavor to retain present municipal officials in office.

"The report continues: 'O'Shaughnessy not yet arrived. The only engine we have is too inefficient to operate. Have sent out a request that an engine be allowed to bring in O'Shaughnessy and the refugees direct to the city, but it will take some hours to repair torn-up tracks.'

"Admiral Badger reports that 800 refugees arrived from Mexico City.

"'The refugee question is now the most difficult of all,' Admiral Badger stated."

GOVERNOR AWAITS ORDERS

Equipment of Bay State Troops Rests With Government

Boston, April 25.—Governor Walsh has not received definite word from the war department as to what action the department would take relative to furnishing the Massachusetts troops with the equipment necessary to bring them up to the proper standard and make them available for an early call to arms.

The governor stated that absolutely nothing had been decided as to what troops will be sent first from Massachusetts. He said that would be entirely dependent upon which regiments showed the highest efficiency and were up to the proper standards of equipment.

The governuor's discovery that the equipment of the Massachusetts troops was below the requirements stirred him greatly.

"NEWS" IN MEXICO CITY

Americans Reported Faring Badly at Hands of the Federals

Vera Cruz, April 25.—The newspapers of Mexico City, probably under the direction of Huerta issued many editions, in which they stated that El Paso, Laredo, Nogales and other places had been taken by the Mexicans, who had gained a great victory also at Vera Cruz, where they expected to surround and drive the American invaders into the sea.

The papers also declared that the battleship Louisiana had been sunk by a Mexican torpedo and that Emiliano Zapata, the southern rebel, was coming to join forces with Huerta.

MURDER CASE REOPENED

Negro Is Now Accused of Causing Death of Mary Phagan

Atlanta, April 25.—Three affidavits seeking to fix guilt for the murder of Mary Phagan upon James Conley, a negro factory sweeper, were submitted in the superior court here by attorneys for Leo M. Frank, under death sentence for the murder, in connection with a motion for a new trial on newly discovered evidence. Hearings on the motion have begun and are expected to continue several days.

Two affidavits, signed by Rev. C. B. Ragsdale and R. L. Barber, allege that the affiants while on the street here heard one negro confess to another that he had killed Mary Phagan. Barber in his affidavit further alleges that he recognized the one who is alleged thus to have confessed as James Conley.

The third affidavit is by Annie M. Sarter, a negress, who alleges Conley confessed to her that he had committed the murder.

Conley was the principal witness against Frank at the latter's trial, and is serving one year's imprisonment upon conviction as an accessory after the fact.

Short Strike at Fall River

Fall River, Mass., April 25.—The speeder tenders of the Pocasset mill struck, claiming that they had received a cut in wages. Following a conference between the help and the mill officials, the latter agreed to make amends for the shortage and the strike was declared off.

BATTLING LABOR MEN DISAPPEAR

Troops Release Prisoners Held In Colorado Mines

Trinidad, Colo., April 25.—State troops rapidly advanced towards Ludlow after occupying Lynn and Aguilar without resistance by the strikers. At Aguilar the militiamen released the company men who had been imprisoned in mines since Wednesday. All the prisoners were unharmed.

The whereabouts of the strikers, who suddenly abandoned their plan of resisting the troops at Lynn, was not definitely known. It was generally believed, however, that they massed their forces in the Black Hills, about two miles north of Ludlow.

QUINCY HIGH DROPS ONE

Crude fielding in both the infield and outfield, coupled with timely batting on the part of Newton, cost Quincy High school its baseball game at Newton yesterday by a score of 11 to 3. Newton seemed to have little difficulty in finding O'Connor when hits counted, rolling up five runs in the third inning and the same number in the seventh.

The Quincy fielders failed to help him to any considerable extent, Ford and Martin letting singles go for triples by failing to stop grounders, Arthur dropping a fly which let in a run, and Bates making two costly misplays. Altogether the Quincy team was a disappointment and a decided shake up is promised for next week.

Dolan's work at the bat was the one redeeming feature of the game from a Quincy standpoint. Three hits go to his credit, one of them a double. His second hit sent in one run, and his double put him in a place to score a moment later when Higgins uncorked a wild pitch.

Newton stole bases at will, being able to take such a lead off O'Connor's wind up that Hamlin had little chance to head them off. Bryson stole third, however, while Hamlin held the ball thinking the side was out. The score by innings:

Newton	0	0	5	1	0	0	5	0	—	11
Quincy	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	2	—	3

Batteries— Higgins and Newell; O'Connor, Dolan and Hamlin.

TANGO SPECIAL WAS ENCORED

The third grand dance of the Orient A. A., one of the best known clubs of the city, in Alpha hall on Friday evening, was attended with royal rooters which included fans of both sexes from all parts of the South Shore.

Modern dances prevailed and the feature of a well arranged program was the Tango special, which was encored again and again. Music for the dancing was by Hamilton's orchestra and refreshments were served in Union hall.

The floor director was Charles Predario, with Francis J. Markham, Jr., as the assistant. The aids were Thomas D. Curtin, John J. Donahue, Daniel K. Bradley, Arthur J. Allan, William L. Mattson and Lemuel G. Murray.

QUINCY MAN IN CHARGE.

Lieut. Commander A. W. Marshall, who has been stationed at the Fore River shipyard is now in charge of the United States naval magazine at Hingham and has been working overtime this week as a result of the ammunition required for the battleships at the Charlestown Navy yard. The men at the magazine were thus enabled to finish a day ahead of time several thousand rounds for the battleships New Jersey which was being made ready to send away. Lieut. Commander Marshall has had 100 men at work and it required but little extra help to get out the rush orders after word was received from Washington. Mr. Marshall resides on Spear street, Quincy.

The Yellow Flash

It Served Their Purpose

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Scott Perry stared at the old Indian tracker with widening eyes. Did Daga Bendrib really expect him to believe that there was a tiger—a man eating tiger—at large in the Wundri district?

Daga Bendrib bumped his turbaned head on the floor of the veranda and protested vigorously.

"Ah, Sahib Perry, it is the greatest beast India has ever known! My son-in-law glimpsed it as it sped through the village, and he swore that it went like a flash of yellow lightning. Its lips dripped blood, and its eyes blazed like balls of fire. If the prescience would condescend to leave his study of the birds and butterflies his servant would show him the mangled bull and the track of the great man eating tiger!" Again Daga Bendrib salaamed.

Perry knocked the ashes from his pipe and dropped it in his pocket. He was rather taken with the tracker's plea that he should come and kill the tiger that was molesting the cattle and threatening the lives of the peaceful inhabitants of the little mountain village. It would be a welcome change from his everlasting chase after the birds and butterflies of India.

It was midafternoon when they were ready to set out. Bendrib in the lead, Perry following, and in the rear trotted Sunnit, who carried the guns, as well as the knapsack.

At the entrance to the village they were met by a crowd of excited natives. There was much rejoicing over the arrival of the white sahib, whose deadly gun would put to rout "the great yellow flash" which had killed the finest bull in the chief's compound.

The beast had dragged the animal to the outskirts of the village and had evidently been driven away from his orgy by the rising of the sun.

An hour before sunset Perry and Daga Bendrib were seated on the top of a flimsy platform which they had hastily constructed between four palm trees within twenty feet of the dead bull.

HE WAS RATHER TAKEN WITH THE TRACKER'S PLEA.

A bower of branches and shrubs concealed them from the ground, and it was from this vantage point that Perry hoped to kill the tiger with one shot from his rifle.

He had killed tigers before, and the fine skins that graced the walls and floors of his bungalow bore testimony to his skill as a marksman.

The platform was ten feet above the ground, and, provided Perry could get good sight of the great cat, he would have no difficulty in adding another royal skin to his collection.

Suddenly Daga Bendrib hissed sharply through his teeth.

"Ah, sahib! Ishnie!" whispered the tracker.

"Ah, the tiger!" repeated Perry, moving cautiously beneath his bower of branches.

There came a snuffling growl from a nearby thicket.

Then followed silence.

Daga Bendrib breathed shortly. Perry felt his own heart beating to quick time.

Something moved in the thicket behind them.

"Two!" hissed the tracker.

Perry began to feel uneasy. The platform was a flimsy structure at best. If one or more tigers should attack it there was no doubt that the platform would tumble to pieces.

Again came the growl from the left hand thicket and again a responsive movement from the thicket behind the platform.

Perry had his gun sighted and pointed the barrel toward the dark bulk of the dead bull on the grass below.

While Perry listened for a repetition of the soul chilling growl from the left hand thicket, there suddenly came a horrifying interruption from the rear.

A wild, panther-like scream split the air; there was a rush of wind overhead, and the two hunters were suddenly struck flat to the platform by the falling of a heavy body upon them.

The platform shook, tottered and fell, crashing with its burden of two men and a full grown panther. As the platform fell Daga Bendrib's gun went off, scattering a double charge of buckshot.

The panther screamed savagely and thudded heavily to the ground, rolling over in agony. The double charge of buckshot had entered its eyes and, so far as the hunters were concerned, had put the panther out of business for that occasion at least.

But the excitement was not yet over.

As Perry and his tracker clambered up to the remains of the fallen platform and each found a perch on the supports which still clung to the four trees the moon found an opening among the trees and sent a broad shaft of silver light into the jungle where the dead bull lay, with the stiffening panther near by.

From the left hand thicket was a repetition of that low, deep, ominous growl, ending in an ugly snarl; there was a sudden rush of misplaced air as something long and yellow and black striped streaked across their vision to fall upon the body of the panther.

There were the rending of flesh and the crunching of bones.

The two men in the trees shivered and changed their positions.

The tiger ceased his feasting, and a rigid line ran along his lithe form.

His back was toward the platform, and his left shoulder presented a splendid mark for a bullet.

Perry lifted his rifled shotgun to his shoulder and fired.

Bang!

The tiger whirled about, screamed with pain and rage and was about to charge the hunters in the tree when there came another interruption from the thicket.

This time it was a full grown tigress, and she leaped straight toward the broken platform.

A bullet from Perry's gun crashed through her brain, and she fell staggering at the very foot of the platform supports. At the same instant Daga Bendrib's gun spattered buckshot in the eyes of the wounded tiger, and while the beast pawed blindly at them another bullet from Perry's weapon stretched him beside his dead mate in the parched grass.

Perry drew a long breath and wiped the cold sweat from his brow.

All around them were myriad sounds from the startled denizens of the jungle. Aroused by the double killing and attracted toward the spot by the dead bull came jackals, hyenas and others of their tribes.

Perry was anxious to protect the skins he had won at the risk of his life, so his gun answered the cries of the jungle beasts while Daga Bendrib sped toward the village to bring help.

In half an hour the two tigers and the panther were lashed at the heels of an ox team and the dead bodies were dragged to a deserted hut on the outskirts of the village where Daga Bendrib and his son-in-law and his two brothers and their son-in-laws set to work to skin the three animals for the great sahib.

Perry went back to the tree in order to guard the village from a surprise visit from the panther's mate or from other beasts, if the smell of blood should attract them into the village. The body of the bull had entirely disappeared now, and from distant thickets Perry could hear the jackals snarling over the fragments they had stolen.

He was tired and happy. The night's excitement had been a pleasant relaxation after the dullness of bug hunting at this season, and he was grateful indeed for the information which Daga Bendrib had brought him concerning the depredations of the tiger which had killed the bull.

Perry nodded in the crotch of the tree.

The sun was slanting in his eyes when he was awakened by the sound of voices at the foot of the tree.

He looked down and saw several men standing there. They were neighbors of Daga Bendrib. They were speaking of the triple killing made by the white sahib.

"That Daga Bendrib, he is a clever man," said one enviously. "Who but Daga Bendrib and his son-in-law would have dreamed of killing his best bull—the finest in the village—and then running ten miles to the bungalow of the white sahib and telling him that a tiger had been seen in the village and had carried off a bull?"

"Who indeed?" echoed his companions.

"And, lo, when the white sahib returns with Daga Bendrib and with the promise of many rupees if a tiger is shot, waits for the wicked beast—why, the tiger comes, and the tiger's mate, and, as if those were not rupees enough in crafty Daga Bendrib's pocket, there also comes a panther! All attracted by the smell of the dead bull's blood, when we all know that the jungle has been cleared of these beasts for many years! Whence came these blood hunters? From the distant mountains?"

"Clever Daga Bendrib!" muttered his companions as the three returned to the village.

Perry grinned to himself as he thought over this revelation of Daga Bendrib's device to earn a few rupees. His reward would be ample and the sacrifice of the fine bull would be well justified in the eyes of Daga Bendrib's neighbors, Daga Bendrib's sons-in-law and his brothers and their sons-in-law.

As for Perry himself, he calculated what the tiger skins were worth to him when he could return to America and dispose of them, and he was well satisfied with the craft of Daga Bendrib and with the opportune arrival of the "yellow flash."

BRIEFS

Rehearsals begin next week for the minstrel show to be given by the Squantum Improvement Association June 15, 16 and 17.

Rev. W. H. Hall of 221 Beach street, has been appointed to a pastorate at Lake View, Worcester. He will be missed by the M. E. church at Atlantic.

The Outlook Club is preparing to give a farce and vaudeville entertainment Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the Park and Downs church vestry.

The battleship Rhode Island built at Quincy, and the armored cruiser North Carolina remain at the Boston navy yard. Night and day work has been ordered that they may be ready for service May 1.

It is rumored that the Robert Josselyn estate on Hancock street, Wollaston have been sold to Roland MacDonald of Elm avenue who buys for occupancy taking possession the middle of May.

Rev. William B. Ayres of the Park and Downs Congregational church will give Sunday evening one of his noted discourses on this present all absorbing topic "War" It will be more than interesting.

The many friends of Dr. Alfred W. Brown, a native of this city, will be pleased to learn that he preached last Sunday at the Roland Park Presbyterian church in Baltimore, Md. His subject was "A home mission in Baltimore." His text was Luke 2:52.

A meeting of the Executive committee of the Fourth of July celebration committee will be held tonight at the rooms of the Board of Trade. At a recent meeting of the committee it was decided to hold a celebration as usual this year, and the committee hope to have it bigger and better than ever before.

The annual meeting of the Boston Federation of Young People's Religious Unions will be held in First church, Eliot Square, Roxbury, Sunday. The seven o'clock meeting is open to the public, and all are most cordially invited to attend. Dr. Charles W. Eliot, President Emeritus of Harvard University, will speak on "Universal Religion."

The men's club of Atlantic had an unusual treat at the conclusion of their season's meeting last week when the Hon. Joseph A. Conry, Russian Consul and Director of the Port of Boston gave one of the most interesting and eloquent addresses of the season. Mr. Conry started with the port of Boston and the history of American shipping and showed the decline of the sailing vessel and then optimistically gave his view of how America was to be benefitted by the opening of the Panama Canal. He also in the easiest flow of well chosen words showed the growth of shipping and the difficulties that had been overcome by other nations in opening up their ports and asserted that Boston had a great future by the development of its water front. Mr. Conry paid a warm tribute to Harry W. Read for the development of such a vigorous club. The next meeting of the club will be in October.

WAR BULLETINS

VILLA FRIENDLY.

Washington, April 25—The pronouncement of friendship by General Villa has impressed President Wilson and the members of his cabinet, but war plans will not be relaxed. The Supreme Court will determine whether the National Guard may be sent to Mexico or other territory outside of the United States without first being mustered in as volunteers.

HINGHAM COMPANY READY.

Hingham, April 25—Definite orders to recruit Co. K, 5th Regt., M. V. M., to its full war strength, had not been received by Capt. Walter L. Bouve, this morning, but the company, as at present constituted is holding itself in readiness for a call to the front.

At present there are about 60 members, and upon receipt of orders a recruiting station will be immediately opened at the State Armory.

The prospects of a general call being issued created much excitement in Hingham on Friday and by noon excited groups were at the armory prepared to respond. As each succeeding minute brought no orders their eagerness abated and by evening the usual quietness reigned in the town.

Co. K is the crack company of the regiment and is equipped much better than most of the companies in the state. It was formerly located at Braintree and included many Quincy men.

Leave of absence has been denied the marines stationed at the naval arsenal.

ON THE SOUTH CAROLINA.

Roy Ganzel, a son of the late Charlie Ganzel who was slightly wounded at Port-au-Prince, Haiti, soon recovered and was able to resume his regular duties, according to a letter received by his mother. Young Ganzel who is connected with the marines on the battleship South Carolina, was sent ashore to quell a disturbance and during the skirmish that ensued he was slightly wounded. He is now on the battleship off the Mexican coast and is likely to see service.

CAMP WANTED.

Boston, April 25—The militia may be mobilized at the Readville race track. Other fields are also being considered, but no choice has been made to noon. Room must be provided for 3600 men, or three regiments of 1200 men each, besides the commissary, hospital and other branches of the service. Because of its proximity to the railroad it is favored. The regulars are likely to be called within five days.

BODY COMING HOME.

Boston, April 25—The body of Daniel Haggerty of Cambridge who was killed at Vera Cruz in the first days fighting will be shipped home as soon as possible.

OUT OF COMMISSION.

Philadelphia April 25—The obsolete battleships Massachusetts, Iowa and Indiana have been ordered out of commission and the crews transferred to other ships.

BATTLESHIPS SAIL.

New York, April 25—The superdreadnought New York, flagship of Rear Admiral Cameron M. Winslow of the special service squadron has been pronounced perfect by Naval experts. The battleship Nebraska filled her magazines with ammunition Friday night and left immediately for Mexican waters.

LIQUORS FORFEITTED.

The final chapter in the celebrated case of the raid at the Cedarcrest Inn in Braintree last year was enacted in the district court this morning when the liquors seized from the premises during the raid, amounting to a number of hundred dollars, in value were ordered forfeitted to the Commonwealth. The cases of Mrs E. Grace Reynolds, the proprietress of the Inn, which went to the higher court were settled last week when she paid a large fine. The disposal of the liquors seized was continued until the case should have been disposed of in the upper court.

G. B. BATES AT WOLLASTON

G. B. Bates, champion of the so-called city plan of depression spoke on "Elimination of grade crossings' before the monthly meeting of the Wollaston Citizens' association Friday evening.

In the absence of President Campbell, ex-councilman Albert N. Murray presided. Mr. Bates had with him several plans and drawings to illustrate his arguments.

Mr. Bates charged that the so-called decree plan had been in the minds of an "invisible commission" of Quincy land owners for 20 years and now, in collusion with the railroad, had been forced through. He claimed that the scheme was simply one to operate for the benefit of the railroad and private enterprise, at the expense of the city.

The decree plan, he affirmed, was at direct variance with the contour of the city, which the city plan would follow.

He contradicted many statements regarding facts and figures previously made by the City Solicitor and City Engineer and declared that the city plan of depression would cost less than the decree plan for elevation.

The objection by some parties to the city plan was that the railroad could not get back at the city.

FUNERAL OF MRS. ELLEN O'HARA

Funeral services for Ellen O'Hara, beloved wife of Michael O'Hara and mother of Tax Collector John J. O'Hara, were held this morning at St. John's church, and were largely attended, among those present being Mayor John L. Miller, city officials and nuns from the Home for Destitute Catholic Children of Boston.

Rev. Fr. Florence McCarthy celebrated a high mass of requiem at nine o'clock. The musical portion of the mass was the Gregorian chant sung by the regular choir. Miss Margaret Gallagher and Miss Genevieve Tate were the soloists.

The floral remembrances were from the departments at City Hall, associates of the family, relatives and friends of the deceased.

The bearers were Thomas McGrath John Igo, Timothy J. Collins, Cornelius Connor, Michael Sweeney and Michael Ryan. The body was taken to Randolph for burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

COTTAGE FIRE AT PEDDOCKS

The burning of a summer cottage on Princess Head, Peddocks Island, shortly after 8 o'clock Friday night, made a bright illumination that was seen for miles. People in City Square who saw the sky brightly illuminated thought that one of the big hotels must be on fire. On the side toward Boston the illumination was seen for many miles and one of the Boston fire boats was sent down, but its services were not needed. The cottage was one made from an old boat cabin was burned to the ground The owner, cause and loss is not known. Several residents at Houghs Neck went over to the fire but the building was so far gone that attempts to extinguish the blaze were useless.

LADIES NIGHT OF RED MEN

The second annual ladies' night of Hodenosaunee tribe, Improved Order of Red Men, was held in Odd Fellows hall, Wollaston, Friday evening. A large number of the fair sex were present and a pleasing program was enjoyed with Alfred J. Clapp, as master of ceremonies.

The program opened with piano solos by Miss Florence Smith and violin selections by Miss Lillian Kandib. Piano solos by Miss Kathleen Jones were also enjoyed. Alden Irving proved himself a versatile entertainer, having in stock a long list of card, sleight of hand and other tricks.

Past Great Sachem Augustus Coulter of the Great Council of Massachusetts delivered an extended address on the ideals of the order. He laid stress on the three tenets, freedom, friendship and charity, concluding with a toast to the ladies.

The evening closed with two songs by Miss May Smith "Until the shadows fall" and "Sit down! You're rocking the boat." Refreshments were served by the entertainment committee consisting of Alfred J. Clapp, W. T. Maniman, Lewis Fleishman, E. E. Poole and John J. McCloud.

DRAMATICS AT ATLANTIC

The drama "Teddy or the Runaways," given by the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Atlantic Memorial church in the Atlantic Music hall on Friday evening, was a huge success, and attracted a large audience.

The scene was laid at a ranch in Texas, where two diamond robbers were forced to stop because of an auto accident. At the end, it turned out that the diamond robbers were writers of detective stories, who were making material for another story.

The cast of characters was as follows:

Jean MacLean	Miss Alice Waterhouse
Mrs. Juniper	Miss Marjorie Young
Victoria	Miss Nettie Coombs
Texana	Miss Jean Arthur
Max Juniper	Albin Johnson
Alonzo Willing	Thornton Reed
Ted Keegan	Alvin Mitchell
Sheriff Jim Larrabee	Clifton Young
Deputy Sheriff	Harry Blake
Deputy Sheriff	Herman Keay

Miss Jean Arthur, who took the part of Texana, the servant, brought down the house. Her "Sis Hopkins" manner called forth a long applause. The play was coached by Miss Maud E. Reed, who is a graduate of the Leland Powers school of oratory. Music was furnished by the Bates' orchestra.

TO FAIRHAVEN.

Rev. George Hale Reed of the Unitarian church at Belmont has accepted a call from the Unitarian Memorial church at Fairhaven and will probably take up his new duties early in May. He has been pastor of the Belmont church for twelve years and rather than see him leave, the society offered him a year's leave of absence in which to take a trip to Europe, providing he would remain.

Aside from being pastor of one of the wealthiest churches in the suburbs of Boston, Mr. Reed has been a prominent citizen of the town, a trustee of the Belmont public library, a member of Belmont lodge, A. F. and A. M., secretary of the Unitarian Historical society, scribe of the Cambridge Association of Ministers and a director of the William Reed & Sons Co. of Taunton.

SOLDIERS' CAMP AT MERRYMOUNT

Among the Possibilities If Call Is Issued by President Wilson

Mr. Qualey's Daughter Reaches Galveston Safely

Army officers have been in Quincy during the past few days in conference with Mayor Miller relative to obtaining the use of Merrymount park as a camp for the troops that enlist in this vicinity, and is declared to be an ideal place for the camp. It is understood that Capt. Harry Hawthorn, commanding the forts in Boston harbor, has looked over the grounds and reports it an exceptionally good place. It is proposed if used that the camp shall be located on the lower field where 3500 men can readily be accommodated.

In case it became necessary to send the men to the front they could readily entrain, as there is a long spur track of the railroad at the foot of Old Colony avenue, and the commodious Quincy freight yard is not far distant.

The army officers have already been in conference with the Mayor and the Park Commissioners and it is understood that they are favorable to the proposition, but they believe that permission should first be obtained from the City Council, so that it is probable that the matter will be brought to the attention of that body tonight.

It is stated that the park would be used only for the regulars of the United States army and would not interfere with the plans for the mobilization of the Volunteer Militia at Lakeville.

Late Saturday a conference was arranged for today between Mayor Miller and the army officers and it is understood that Col. Henry L. Kincaide who is thoroughly conversant with the territory will also be in attendance at the conference.

As is well known to Quincy citizens, the park contains nearly 100 acres comprising upland, lowland and woods. It is bordered on the easterly side by the waters of Quincy bay and the general situation of the land is such that no changes would be necessary.

The sewer pumping station is also located on the park and main sewer pipes run through the park so that it would be but little trouble to arrange the necessary sanitary conditions. Aside from this the city water pipes are run through the property and there are many outlets, which are used during the summer months by picnic parties. It is understood that the army officers desire to use what is known as the lower field.

Should the park be selected it is believed that regular troops from all over New England would be sent here to be drilled and it is probable that a detachment of the regular army would be on the ground before the week is out, getting it ready and that another week would see the camp fully established.

CONFERENCE HELD.

This morning the final arrangements were made at a conference in City Hall. Mayor John L. Miller, Walter S. Pinkham, city solicitor, and Chairman Ira M. Whittemore of the Park Commissioners represented the city; Captain Harry Mathews, quartermaster, representing Col. Harry Hawthorne who is in command. Paul R. Blackmur acted as the intermediary. Lt. Col. Henry L. Kincaide and Surgeon Major Fred E. Jones of the 5th Regt. Mass. National Guard, who advise and co-operate as military gentlemen of experience, were present by request of Mayor Miller. Supt. John T. Conway and Mr. Sparks who will look after the railway accommodations attended.

The key to the situation was the permission to use the land surrounding the John Quincy Adams home at Merrymount farms for a review field, and this was offered by Arthur Adams who occupies the house with his brother-in-law Robert Homans.

Paul R. Blackmur after the conference stated that the United States has sent orders to Colonel Hawthorne of the regular army of this district to make a selection for a temporary mobilization field for the regular troops, and that after an inspection of all available fields Merrymount Park and vicinity has been chosen and approved by Captain Harry Mathews, quartermaster of the army.

He said that Arthur Adams, acting from patriotic sentiment, has agreed to allow the use of the land surrounding his house as he is desirous of co-operating.

The field will be occupied by the Coast Artillery to be recruited to serve as infantry. There will be no guns, no firing and perfect discipline will prevail at all times. Harmony between the civilians and the military is assured and all supplies will be purchased in Quincy.

All that is now necessary to cause a mobilization in Quincy is orders from Washington and upon their receipt four companies will be immediately ordered here to make the grounds ready.

It is anticipated that 3600 men possibly 4000 men will be quartered here. Choice of points for hikes is between Hingham and the Blue Hills, the latter having been offered by the Metropolitan Park Commissioners.

The training field for review at the Mt. Wollaston farm will be available immediately, and as soon as the troops reach an efficient standard they will be sent to Mexico aboard transports.

Regiments from Portland and Newport will be on the field as well as the one now stationed in Boston Harbor. All arrangements are completed should the blow fall.

Mayor Miller, in behalf of the city, has extended a cordial invitation to the regular army to take up permanent quarters here.

The Bay State street railway has placed Mr. Sparks of the traffic department at their service, and trolley arrangements will be under his direction.

At the close of the war all damages will be settled, and all grounds will be placed in as near the condition as when taken, and in the event of this being impossible a board of three men, one representing the city, one the army, and the third to be chosen by both, will make the adjustments.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Queer Workings of the Civil Service Rules

The chances are that Mr. Cahill who was given a temporary or rather provisional appointment as assistant commissioner of public works, may be able to hold down the job for the remainder of the year. A civil service examination was held a few weeks ago and of the four men who took the examination, three passed, the one man who failed to pass being Mr. Cahill. This meant that the position must be filled by the appointment of one of the three who successfully passed the examination. Since then however it is reported that one of the three has notified the Civil Service Commission that he does not desire the position which reduces the number of eligibles to two.

Under the civil service rules the appointing officer is entitled to three names to select from, and in case there are not three on the list the two are certified. If however the appointing officer does not desire to take one of the two, he will have permission to make a provisional appointment until a list is established.

It will be seen therefore that the chances are that Mr. Cahill may receive the provisional appointment and be able to draw the $5 per for the remainder of the year.

There was nothing doing this morning in connection with the removal of William Vaughn as keeper of the Quincy Home. Mr. Vaughn was notified a month ago that his services would not be required after April 27. It was thought at first that Mr. Vaughn would resign, but late reports say that such is not his intention and that he proposes to fight. Mr. Vaughn was appointed under the civil service rules and unless he resigns it will be necessary to prefer charges to remove him.

Overseer Green, when asked this morning if there was anything doing in the Vaughn line, replied in the negative. The chances are that he will wait until the day is out, and if Mr. Vaughn has not vacated, charges will be preferred.

It is understood on good authority that Mr. Vaughn has engaged counsel and that he intends to contest his removal. This means that if charges are preferred a hearing will be necessary and after that if Mr. Vaughn is not satisfied with the finding an appeal will be made to the justices of the district court, whose finding is final.

STATE WILL PAY REWARD

Will Give Milford and Qualey $500 Each

Patrick A. Milford of Quincy and James R. Qualey of Braintree are scheduled to receive another $500 for their finding of the body of Louis G. Restelli.

Both branches of the legislature have passed and sent to Governor David I. Walsh the resolve appropriating $500 from the treasury of the commonwealth to be divided equally between the two men.

Earlier in the session the legislature passed a similar resolve which would allow the city of Quincy to pay a similar reward to the two men.

Proponents of the measures who appeared in advocacy of the resolves told the members of the legislative committees that the rewards were offered in good faith at the time of the murder and the two men who found the body had a right to assume that the rewards would be paid to them. It remained for the city of Quincy and the commonwealth to meet an honorable obligation.

While making the trip they were taken and imprisoned.

WILL PARADE IN BOSTON

Wollaston and Quincy Suffragists Enter

The Wollaston Equal Suffrage League held an enthusiastic meeting in Association hall, Wollaston Saturday evening, appointed committees and made arrangements for joining in the big suffrage demonstration in Boston on Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, the president, presided with Miss Helen E. Comins as secretary. The following committees were elected.

Ways and Means—Dr. Malcolm D. Miller, Mrs. Ama K. Lee, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney, Mrs. Alice Moore, Miss Annie Leonard, Mrs. Richard D. Jacobs, Mrs. Howard Penniman.

Meetings and Program— Mrs. Howard G. Hinkley, Mrs. Ama K. Lee, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney.

Publicity and Literature— Miss Harriet E. Turner, Mrs. John Buchanan, Miss Elizabeth Ross, Miss Emily F. Allen, Miss Helen E. Comins

The Wollaston suffrage delegation will leave for Boston on the 3.07 train with banners flying. In Boston they will be joined by the Quincy contingent, and both will march in the parade, which starts at 5 o'clock as one body.

Mrs. Arnold of Quincy brought the greeting of the Quincy suffragists and assured those present that a large number would join with Wollaston in the parade.

Dr. Malcolm D. Miller is chairman of the Wollaston parade committee. Many invitations have been sent out and it is expected the delegation on Saturday will be a large one.

The Wollaston Equal Suffrage League will hold meetings on the first Tuesday of every month with the annual meeting in January.

Special meetings will be held in the fall and it is expected that a spirited campaign will be waged for school board.

In closing Mrs. Gurney had a short word of inspiration and good cheer for the cause.

A pleasing part of the Sunday evening service at Christ church was the violin solo by Miss Mona Beatrice McWilliams, at the offertory.

FUNDS NEEDED FOR CELEBRATION

Quincy Will Have Parade, Sports and Fireworks on Fourth of July

All the Money Will Be Raised By Subscription

A well attended meeting of the executive committee of the Fourth of July Celebration Association was held Saturday evening at the rooms of the Board Trade, with ex- Mayor Stone, the president of the association, presiding.

It was decided that a celebration should be held as usual this year and plans were outlined for the raising of the necessary funds.

The committee will not ask the City Council to make an appropriation this year, and it is probable that owing to the present trouble in Mexico, that no effort will be made to have a battleship in Quincy waters on the Fourth, as it is very doubtful if one could be had. The committee however, propose to have a morning parade, which it is their intention to make the best ever, and to have a series of sports during the day, with fireworks in the evening at Merrymount park.

Finances are of course the first thing necessary for a proper observance of the Fourth, and Chairman DuPlessis of the Finance Committee will get to work immediately raising funds. Committees will be appointed for each ward and they will begin their canvass at once.

It was decided to repeat this year the button scheme which was such a success last year, and an order has been placed for several thousand of these. The button this year will contain a picture of that well known painting of "the spirit of '76." These buttons, as last year, will be sold for a small sum and quite a large amount is anticipated from this source alone.

From now on meetings of the executive and general committees will be held frequently.

"PASSED" FOR DEBATE

No Action Yet on Quincy Grade Crossing Report

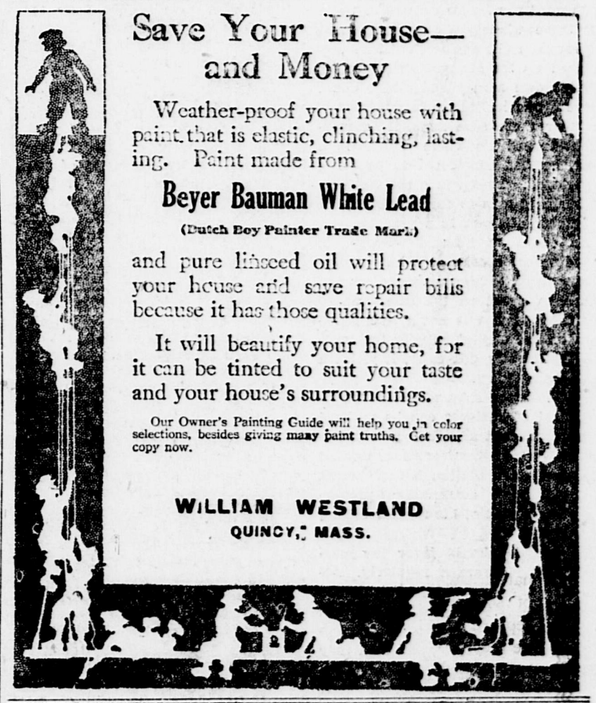

The unfavorable report on the Quincy grade crossing bill has found a place on the calendar of the House of Representatives and at each reading has been "passed" for debate. This action denotes that the adverse report by the committee will be contested by the proponents of the bill, unless they come to a sudden turn of mind before the time that final action is necessary.

The bill reported adversely by the committee is as follows:— "That the grade crossings of the Old Colony Railroad, New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, lessees, in Quincy, be abolished according to the plan adopted by the city of Quincy known as the city plan of depression."

Few men can dig up the garden for an hour after supper without getting lame, but fortunately no such complaint ever follows a twenty mile tramp on a fishing trip.

However it may be in other parts of the country, Quincy will not become hysterical over the trouble in Mexico but will support the President in his determination to uphold the dignity of the Nation, at the same time counseling moderation and hoping that not one drop of blood will be shed needlessly. It is important that other nations be given to understand that there is no thought of conquest or other selfish motive actuating the United States and in giving this impression every community can help.

We admire the spirit of the citizen who is always ready to say a good word for the city, town or village in which he resides and if he cannot conscientiously do so, at least has the good sense to hold his peace. Too often we hear on the streets of our own city of Quincy, disparaging remarks, concerning its officials, its government, its business opportunities, etc. Now this is wrong and all this talk is prejudicial to the prestige and development of this city which by the way is a good place in which to live notwithstanding the dire predictions of the croakers and is each year attracting families of the best class who are anxious to settle here. Every knock may be a boost but there is a good chance for an argument concerning such a statement.

VARIOUS KINDS OF RICHES.

A well-known citizen was announced in Wednesday's Ledger to tell a gathering of young men "How to Get Rich." Had the subject been "How to make both ends meet" doubtless many adults would be clamoring for admission so keen has the struggle for existence become. Doubtless the language of the gentlemen's subject was figurative. There are other forms of riches which should be sought just as zealously as the riches that are represented by dollars, and more so,—the riches of health, ambition and character, and the importance of seeking them should not be lost sight of by young men.

THE NIMBLE DOLLAR.

Large successes in business are not dependent on large capital. It is the nimble dollar that pays. The average business man turns his capital a good deal more quickly than his father did. The old-time merchant bought half a year's supply at a time. He visited the larger centers of trade for these wholesale purchases, and he bought right and left until he was stocked up for six months or more. All his own money and all he could borrow was locked up in goods.

Under these conditions, if a merchant turned his whole stock in a year, he was considered to be doing fairly well. Today, it is the ambition of business men to turn their capital a number of times in a year.

An enormous interest charge is saved where a man sees his money coming back to him promptly. A five per cent. profit on the sales under the old system was not a living return on the capital. Under the modern system of quick sales, it yields a handsome return.

The one means by which this modern ideal of business can be realized is by consistent advertising. Not necessarily splurgy advertising, beyond the merchant's ability, but an amount of advertising reasonably proportioned as a part of his regular selling expenses.

The public should favor the merchants who advertise regularly. Almost invariably these men have the freshest goods. They hold an article only while it is suited to the season or the prevailing taste, and then they get it out of the way.

Also it is cheaper to buy in such stores. The man who keeps his capital on the move all the time can afford to sell at a lower figure. The smaller percentage of profit on the selling price yields him an equally good or better return.

It is an axiom of trade, that it costs money to hold goods in a store. The longer it stays, the higher proportion of rent, clerk hire, and taxes is charged up to it. Any goods will stay, unless the public is told about them.

MEDIATION PLAN MAY SUCCEED

Spanish Ambassador Says It Is Acceptable to Huerta

OFFER OF SOUTH AMERICAN REPUBLICS

Sudden and Unexpected Announcement of Its Acceptance Amazes Washington—President Makes It Plain That Huerta's Government Will Not Be Recognized by United States—Outrage on American Flag by Mexican Federals at Monterey—Safety of Americans In Mexico City Assured—Army of More Than Six Thousand at El Paso

Washington, April 27.—The proposition of Argentine, Chile and Brazil to mediate in the difficulties between the United States and Mexico and the restoration of the peace is the talk of Washington.

Where members of the house and senate gathered and in the clubs the mediation proposition accepted by Secretary of State Bryan was the sole topic of conversation.

"It is too early to expect any reply from Mexico City to the suggestion of mediation," was the statement of Bryan."

Spanish Ambassador Riano announced late last night that he had received private advices from Mexico City, stating that General Huerta had accepted the offer of Argentine, Brazil and Chile to use their good offices to bring amout an amicable settlement of the difficulty between the United States and Mexico.

In accepting the offer, President Wilson made certain conditions, the most fundamental of which was the rejuirement that Huerta must be eliminated. He made that plain to the representatives of the South American governments in the negotiations over the mediation move.

The president also insisted that the mediation does not involve any recognition of Huerta's government by the United States and the South Americans conceded that point.

Congressional circles entertain little hope that anything will be attained by submitting the dispute with Huerta to mediation.

Amazement was caused by the sudden and unexpected announcement that Bryan, acting under the direction of President Wilson, had accepted the offer of mediation from the three South American republics. Their offer was couched in this language:

"With the purpose of serving the interest of peace and civilization in our continent and with the earnest desire to prevent any further bloodshed, to the prejudice of the cordiality and union which have always surrounded the relations of the governments and the people of America, we, the plenipotentiaries of Brazil, Argentine and Chile, duly authorized hereto, have the honor to tender to your excellency's government our good offices for the peaceful and friendly settlement of the conflict between the United States and Mexico.

"This offer puts in due form the suggestions which we have had occasion to offer heretofore on this subject to the secretary, to whom we renew the assurances of our highest and most distinguished consideration."

In accepting their mediation offer, Bryan replied:

"The government of the United States is deeply sensible of the friendliness, the good feeling and the generous concern for the peace and welfare of America manifested in the joint note just received from your excellency tendering te good offices of your government to effect, if possible, a settlement of the present difficulties existing between the government of the United States and those who now claim to represent our sister republic in Mexico. Conscious of the purpose with which the proffer is made, this government does not feel at liberty to decline it.

"Its own chief interest is in the peace of America, the cordial intercourse of her republics and their people and the happiness and prosperity which can spring only out of frank mutual understandings and the friendship which is created by a common purpose. The generous offer of your governments is therefore accepted.

"This government hopes most earnestly that you may find those who speak for the several elements of the Mexican people willing and ready to discuss terms of satisfactory and, therefore, permanent settlement. If you should find them willing, this government will be glad to take up with you for discussion in the frankest and most conciliatory spirit any proposals that may be authoritatively formulated, and will hope that they may prove feasible and prophetic of a new day of mutual co-operation and confidence in America.

"This government feels bound in candor to say that, its diplomatic relations with Mexico being for the present severed, it is not possible for it to make sure of an uninterrupted opportunity to carry out the plan of intermediation which you propose.

"It is, of course, possible that some act of aggression on the part of those who control the military forces of Mexico might oblige the United States to act to the upsetting of the hopes of immediate peace, but this does not justify us in hesitating to accept your generous suggestion. We shall hope for the best results within a brief time—enough to relieve our anxiety lest most ill considered hostile demonstrations should interrupt negotiations and disappoint our hopes of peace."

FLAG TRAMPLED BY MOB

American Consul Jailed by Federals and Released by Rebels

Washington, April 27.—United States Consul General Hanna at Monterey reported to Secretary Bryan that he had been humiliated and placed in jail by Mexican federal officials on April 22 and left behind bars until released two days later by the constitutionalists when they captured the city.

Hanna's message to Bryan was the subject of a long conference between Bryan and President Wilson. Hanna reported that he had been courteously treated by the constitutionalists.

Hanna reported that on April 21 a federal military officer, evidently instructed by the federal military commander to tear down all American flags, arrived at the consulate general with a street mob which he had gathered, and pounded in the door and demanded that the American flag over the consulate general be immediately lowered or he would shoot it down, and the other federals proceeded to tear down all American flags, standing on them, making speeches throughout the city of Monterey, burning some of them and tearing them up and leaving them piled in the middle of the streets.

The next morning a police lieutenant arrived with a force of men and advised Hanna that he had been instructed to search the building. The consul general was taken prisoner through the streets with the mob and carried first to the penitentiary and afterwards to the state government palace, which building has been for some time military headquarters and fortified, and was the object of special attack by the then attacking forces.

Hanna says he was constantly considerably insulted and greatly humiliated, not on account of his personality, but on account of his official position as representative of the United States government in northern Mexico.

TROOP MOVEMENTS

Three More Regiments of Infantry Report For Border Duty

Washington, April 27.—The fourth field artillery, comprising 1020 men with eighteen guns, left Galveston for Vera Cruz on the steamship San Marcos. The complement of 300 mules will follow on the Saltill tomorrow, according to a dispatch received by General Watherspoon.

Arrival of the Sixth, Twelfth and Sixteenth regiments of infantry from the Presidio, San Francisco, at San Antonio was reported at the war department. These troops will be distributed at Nogales, El Paso, Laredo and other points.

REFUGEES ARE SAFE

Are Permitted by Huerta to Leave the Capital of Mexico

Washington, April 27.—The cheering news that all the Americans in Mexico City will be saved was received here.

Secretary Bryan announced that the British minister had informed the state department that he had received a message from Mexico City to the effect that the misunderstanding there on Huerta's part as to the detention of Mexicans in Vera Cruz had been cleared up when a trainload of Mexicans from Vera Cruz arrived under the protection of the British flag.

Huerta had declared that Mexicans were not allowed to leave Vera Cruz and that he intended to hold all Americans in the city as hostages.

The Mexico City bound train was in charge of one of the British attaches. A trainload of Americans is being collected in Mexico City. It was ordered to proceed to Vera Cruz shortly after Huerta was told of the arrival from Vera Cruz of the Mexican refugees.

The information was received by Bryan with the utmost satisfaction. "A load of anxiety has been taken off my mind," he said.

PREPARATIONS COMPLETE

Our Soldiers at El Paso Now Ready For Any Emergency

El Paso, Tex., April 27.—Preparations are rapidly being made at El Paso for a possible invasion of rebel territory, despite General Villa's protestations of friendship for the Americans. Nor are army officers taking seriously the often repeated assertions of Villa that he is seeking no quarrel with the United States.

Every night American cannon are trained upon the rebel positions in Juarez and every night after the artillery is placed, with a flourish to attract attention, it later is secretly moved to different positions, for the American officers know that rebel officers in Juarez watch closely through field glasses the maneuvers on the American side and rebel spies abound on this side of the river, who quickly communicate to Villa just what the American army men are doing.

With the arrival of General Pershing and the three regiments of infantry from the Presidio in San Francisco, preparations for any eventuality at El Paso may be considered complete, for there already was a force of cavalry here sufficient for a campaign and all that was needed was a strengthening of the artillery and a sufficient force of infantry.

Should the call come for American troops to move, an army of more than 6000 could move from here into Mexico, although it is probable that less than 5000 would be sent, as the border cities would have to be well protected from Mexicans on this side, who in most places outnumber the Americans.

EFFORT TO SETTLE GREAT LABOR WAR

Mine Official Denies Order to Surrender to Union

Trinidad, Col., April 27.—While state officers and leading citizens are conferring in Denver in an effort to bring about a settlement of the coal strike, a state armistice prevails in the zone where there have been so many disturbances and conflicts of troops and strikers.

While the conference is going on there is not much hope of a settlement by reason of the posting of the following copy of a telegram by B. J. Matteson, assistant manager of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company:

"There is absolutely no truth in the report that Mr. Rockefeller has wired me to settle with the union. Neither Rockefeller nor any one else has made such a request or suggestion and the Colorado Fuel and Iron company will have absolutely nothing to do with the United Mine Workers.

"Our loyal employes who do not care to belong to the organization are going to be protected, notwithstanding numerous attacks of the character indulged in by the United Mine Workers, and will not be forced by us, or any one else, so long as they are in our employ, to join any organization against their will."

Moving Pictures Do Not Disturb Connecticut's Sunday Quiet

New Haven, April 27.—Relaxation of the blue laws of Connecticut, as applied to shore resorts, is expected by reason of a court decision. In the Orange town court Judge Bryant decided that moving picture theatres did not disturb the peace and quiet of a community on Sunday.

Twenty men arrested on charges of violating the Sunday observance laws at Savin Rock were arraigned in court. Five theatrical men and three spectators were discharged from custody.

The decision may be a factor in curtailing Sunday baseball games in the Eastern association this summer.

RETURNS FROM EGYPT

Dr. Albion Bonney on Visit to His Parents

Dr. Albion Bonney reached Quincy Sunday evening after a voyage of 21 days from Egypt, and will be the guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Bonney of 21 Glenwood way, for a month or two.

It was in October, 1911, on just such a rainy day, that Dr. Bonney and Dr. Harold Curtis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse F. Curtis of Upland road, sailed for Egypt to establish a dental office at Alexandria. They were graduates of Tufts Dental college and were told that the prospects were excellent and they have been successful beyond expectations.

Dr. Bonney arrived in New York on the S. S. Ivernia Sunday morning and hastened home to be warmly greeted by his parents, sisters and others. One sister, Mrs. Robert Campbell and daughter of Nashua, N. H., arrived a few days before.

Dr. Bonney and Dr. Curtis have established a high reputation for good work, and have won the confidence of the people to such an extent that they have been appointed royal dentists. They have both become quite proficient also in the Arabic language.

When Dr. Bonney returns in July Dr. Curtis will come for a similar visit in Quincy.

Among Our Churches

FIRST PARISH CHURCH.

The minister preached a sermon on "Growth," comparing the development of human life with Nature's processes. He emphasized especially two ideas: First the duty of mankind to grow along the lines of life's higher possibilities. And this requires the constant cultivation of those ideals which play so large a part in making character. The lower motives of selfishness and appetite have the accumulated power and momentum of many thousands of years since "the red savage called man" first stood on two feet on this earth; while our higher ideals are of more recent origin and require constant re-inforcement. Herein lies the most important function of the Church.

The second idea emphasized by Mr. Hudson was that no life should be discouraged by its failures or by the fact that so much of life seems wasted. Just as nature in making a forest uses every atom of seeming waste in enriching the soil to maintain the peramnent growths, so human life may make very experience however humiliating contribute to the building up of life's ideals, if only we hold firmly to our faith.

The organ recital by Mr. Weston was postponed until next Sunday at 5 P. M.

BETHANY CONGREGATIONAL

Rev. Harry Grimes of t he First Congregational church at Braintree preached Sunday morning in exchange with the pastor and was surprised to find such a large audience on a stormy day.

Nearly 300 were also in attendance at the Bible school.

About 250 were out for the pleasant Sunday evening service when the pastor lectured on "First aid to the tempted."

A meeting of the committee on renovation of the chapel has been called for Wednesday evening.

Action will be taken Thursday evening on candidates who desire to unite with the church at the next communion.

Bethany Womens Union will hold its annual meeting, Wednesday, May 6, and serve a noon luncheon to the public.

Rev. Clarence Vincent, D. D., of Washington, D. C., will be the speaker at the ladies night of Bethany Brotherhood on May 6.

FIRST UNIVERS[illegible].

At the Universalist church Rev. Merrill C. Ward spoke on "Truths from the trees." Psalm 1:3 "A man shall be like a tree." "A tree," says Pope," is a nobler object than a king in his coronation robes." A tree means whatever it has power to make us think of Service is the nature of its foliage. Its beauty adds much to the pleasures of life. Its beauty ministers to the eye, its music to the ear, its surface to the touch, its f[illegible] to the taste, its blossoms t[illegible] smelling. The structure of a le[illegible] and its function of lung and digestion to the tree, and shade to man is so adapted as to prove that there is a divine mind and heart and will behind all things, a Creator whom Jesus revealed as our Father. Palestine, Italy, Carthage, Spain and other nations where great cities anciently existed but have become full of arid desert spaces, show what waste man makes by cutting down the trees. Denuded tracts allow floods in spring and drouths in summer.

Uprightness is the impression of its trunk. Man must be upright if he would serve mankind. If we are to do our duty by Mexico we must be upright in all dealings with it. We must go there to help them. The Mexican nation seems helplessly in revolution. American reorganization may be necessary, even an American protectorate. We should co-operate with what is best in Mexico, and the best advisers of Mexico from other American nations. War is so awful it is to be avoided if possible, we pray it may not be inevitable. It should come only if it is so clearly just that all can support it heartily.

The source of life's supply is the message of the roots. Our life and strength is from God. Heredity and environment are two factors that make men and trees what they are. The tree makes the best of itself that it can where it is placed. Man can transplant himself. The free library invites his mind to strike its roots deep in its world's rich resources of its best thought. HALL PLACE M. E.

The new pastor, Rev. Perry S. Meldon, occupied the pulpit of the Hall Place M. E. church for the first time Sunday morning. He preached a very able sermon on the text "A place for you," taken from St. John 14--2 and 3.

Mr. Meldon said in beginning his sermon, "There is no doubt in my mind that when Christ uttered these words he had in mind the hereafter. But I believe that while he had in mind that and was trying to direct their attention toward that future home of ours, that likewise he was trying to get their attention upon the need of finding that place in everyday life, getting into that place, filling it and working it. I sometimes have thought that Heaven is no place for an idle individual. If we will carefully study the life of Jesus Christ we will find that He was one of the busiest men that ever walked upon this earth. Not only was His time taken up during the day but we find Him, time after time, on the mountain spending the night in prayer, in preparation for some greater event that was to come the following day. And Christ during His entire life and ministry especially that portion of His life that pertained to these twelve men was continually pointing them to the fact that each one was to go out and fill a place in the Kingdom of God." He further emphasized the need of finding our place in the home, the church, the city, the state and the nation.

The choir sang "I will abide with Thee," with J. Lawrence Martin as soloist.

Sunday school was held at 12 M.

The Epworth League devotional service was led by the first vice president Miss Hilda Francis , on the subject "Personal evangelism under difficulties" and was followed by roll call of members.

The pastor took for the text his evening sermon Acts 4:13 "Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were unlearned and ignorant men, they marvelled; and they took knowledge of them that they had been with Jesus."

The Juniors will meet Friday afternoon at 3. Prayer meeting Friday night at 7.30 P. M., subject "The Prodigal Son." Choir rehearsal at the close of the Prayer meeting.

The Rev. Perry S. Meldon, the new pastor at the Hall Place M. E. church was born in Coshocton, Ohio. He graduated from Ohio Wesleyan University in 1910. For four years he was engaged in pastoral work in Ohio, coming east in 1912 and entering Boston University School of Theology. During the past two years he has been pastor of the church in Ballardvale, Ohio.

WOLLASTON UNITARIAN CHURCH

The musical portion of the Sunday morning service of worship included chants, choral responses, hymns, a contralto solo by Mrs. Royal L. Turner and a most pleasing anthem by the Girls' Choir.

The Young People's Religious Union sent a large delegation to the annual meeting of the Boston Federation of Y. P. R. U. at the First church of Roxbury. There were two sessions one at four and the other at seven o'clock. In the evening President Emeritus Charles W. Eliot gave a most scholarly and discrimminating address upon "Universal Religion."

An auction bridge party for the benefit of baby table at the Alliance fair in November, will be given at the home of Mrs. Harold Green, 68 South Central avenue, Friday evening, May 1, at 8 o'clock.

The Ladies' Aid Alliance has contributed fifty dollars to the parish house fund. Who will be next?

The annual Quiet Day will be held by the Unitarian clergy in the Unitarian church in Lynn, Tuesday, April 28. There will be a communion service at quarter past ten o'clock. At eleven o'clock there will be a devotional meeting. Rev. William Sullivan of New York will preach. At half-past two o'clock the organist of the church will give an organ recital. The devotions will close with the evening prayer at four o'clock.

WOLLASTON CONGREGATIONAL

Those attending the Sunday morning service were well rewarded for venturing into the rain by a most interesting sermon by the pastor from the text found in John 20:29, the following being a summary:

After the resurrection Jesus appeared many time to his followers, His purpose being to confirm the faith of His followers in His resurrection, and the life eternal and establish His sonship with God. We live in a great measure by faith and need some confirmation that we grow not unbelieving. This confirmation we obtain by studying the work and experiences of others at home and abroad.

Our faith in Christ is confirmed by the experiences of his early followers, ourselves and others. The glory of Christianity is that it gives confirmation to its beliefs. Act and do as though Christ were here and you shall know him, since faith is confirmed by activity and experience.

All were pleased to see Dr. and Mrs. Sneath again, they having just returned from a ten days' trip in the South visiting their son. Professor Sneath teaches at the University of North Carolina located at Chapel Hill, now a land of flowers.

The C. E. meeting was well attended and ably led by Miss Margaret Harding. Several selections were read by members on "The Mountain Whites" is being a mission meeting.

Wednesday the last church sociable of the season will be held. Supper will be served at 6.30 and a well arranged program of entertainment will follow.

The mid week prayer service will be a preparatory one for the next Lord's day communion.

WOLLASTON BAPTIST.

"As and So" was the rather unusual subject chosen for the sermon Sunday morning. The two passages selected as a text were John 17;18, "As thou hast sent me into the world, even so have I also sent them into the world." and John 20:21 "As my Father hath sent me, even so send I you." We, today, are also disciples, sent into the world by the Lord Jesus Christ, equipped as He was, with His sure promise "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world"

Mrs. Moses Brown gave an illustrated talk at the Junior C. E. meeting at 3.30. The Senior meeting at 6.00 was in charge of Earl O. Church, representing the prayer meeting committee of the society. The subject discussed was "Our Tongues for Christ."

The regular evening service was held at 7. There was a brief sermon by the pastor, subject "Some Beholds of Scripture."

Monday evening a cottage prayer meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Forsyth, 25 Rawson road, Norfolk Downs.

Thursday evening, the regular meeting for Praise, prayer and testimony, will be held in the chapel.

Friday evening, at 7.45, a Praise and Preaching Service will be held in Community hall, Montclair.

The Walther men's class will have a speaker representing the Anti-Saloon League at its regular S. S. session next Sunday.

The forthy-third annual meeting of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society will be held in the Newton Centre Baptist church, Wednesday and Thursday, April 29 and 30. Sessions at 9.30 A. M. and 2.15, and 7.30 P. M. Reception Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Church Parlors.

PARK AND DOWNS.

The storm and discomforting weather without were entirely eliminated, as the audience listened with intense interest to a remarkable sermon by the pastor, who took for his text I Corinthians 15-46. The morning sermon was on the appeal that the spiritual makes to us through the natural forces of our lives. The minister showed his hearers that religion is not some supernatural thing, superimposed on life—it is but the highest expression of the natural elements of existence. Through integrity and fidelity in the ordinary pursuits of life we come to an open mindedness toward the great truths of the spiritual life.

Religion suffers when men try to absorb at once, its great systems. Men must begin as Paul did with its simple facts and firm, common sense convictions and be wise to an understanding of the rest.

The subject for the evening was "War" and proved one of absorbing interest and showed deep thought and research, as well as the natural ability of the speaker who with peculiar power and charm held his hearers with the closest and almost trance-like attention to the end. Mr. Ayers took for his text II Corinthians 10-3. For though we walk in the flesh we do not war in the flesh but in the spirit. "In the great movements of a nation's life, its people are governed by sentiment."

The minister reviewed through history the tendency toward amalgamation of races and peoples. The great discoveries have seemed to be revelations from God of forces to be turned to this end. The Spanish character does not lend itself to this forward movement. He has squeezed the soil and the humanity of Mexico for gain and gold with which to glut his own purse.

Mexico has been self-sufficient maintaining only the semblance of international relations, not respecting the great world movements toward conciliation, arbitration and tranquility. If the world is to go forward in civilization common standards of human rights and respect for the elements of human greatness must be generally accepted. If nations except themselves from this obligation they must be forced to respect the prevailing sentiment of the world.

Our task in Mexico is not to make war, but to make peace by destroying those elements that perpetuate war. Thus we will be doing the great work of peace. Then the speaker proceeded to draw some very powerful personal lessons for individuals from the present situation. The church was appropriately decorated with flags—the National airs were sung.

GRIPPE PREVALENT

How to Regain Strength After a Severe Attack.

With so much grippe prevalent this winter a few words of advice regarding its cause and treatment will not be out of place.

Grippe is an infectious disease easily taken when the system is in a tired or run-down condition.

The best means of prevention are to keep the blood in good healthy condition, and if the system gets into a weak, run-down condition, take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic.

A lady from Long Branch, N. J. says: "Grippe left me in a nervous, weakened, run-down condition. After taking three bottles of Vinol I am better and stronger than I have been for years, and I cheerfully recommend Vinol to all who have suffered from the grippe and need strength." (Name furnished on request.)

We have never sold in our store such a valuable strength creator and health restorer for the convalescent, the weak and run-down as Vinol, and your money will be returned if it does not do all we claim for it. E. J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

Can't Afford It?

Let's figure it out and see

How much would you charge to go to the grocer's or the provision dealers ?

How much would you give, on a stormy day, to be able to visit a distant friend ?

How much would it be worth, in case your child were taken suddenly ill at night, to be able to summon the doctor at once, and, perhaps, by special instructions from him by wire, to be able to give temporary relief pending his arrival or even to save its life ?

The expense of a telephone is not figured by what it costs for a whole year, but by how much it saves each time it is used. Therefore, with all these things in mind, ask yourself

Can I Afford to be Without a Telephone ?

If you need further details as to cost, ask the Manager

DESERVED THE LEGACY.

The Gift Left by the Old Turk Was Properly Bestowed.

A Turkish story runs that, dying, a pious man bequeathed a fortune to his son, charging him to give £100 to the meanest man he could find and £100 to the most foolish.

The most foolish man is another story. As to the meanest, accounts agreed that a certain cadi filled the bill. Accordingly the dutiful son offered him £100.

"But I can't take your £100," said the cadi. "I never knew your father. There was no reason why he should leave me the money."

"It's yours all right," persisted the mourning youth.

"I might take it in a fictitious transaction," said the cadi, relenting. "Suppose—I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll sell you all that snow in the courtyard for £100.

The young man agreed, willing to be quit of his trust on any terms. Next day he was arrested, taken before the cadi and ordered to remove his snow at once. As this was a command the young man was utterly unable to execute, he was fined £20 by the cadi for contumacy.

"At least," the young man said ruefully as he left the court, "father's £100 went to the right man."--New York World.

RUSSIA A DANCING NATION.

And Red Is the All Pervading Color of the Real Native.

"Red is the obsessing color of the real Russian. His word for beautiful is 'preskrasnee,'" says a writer, which means literally 'very red.' A peasant girl in gala dress is red from the scarf on her head to her bright red boots, often relieved only by the white blouse, on which again is red embroidery. The snow white steps of state in the Kremlin are called the 'red stairs' as a tribute to their beauty and with no suggestion of their color.

"Russia is not barbaric. It is simple and childlike, whence its enormous charm. And it is a dancing nation: the dances are national, unique and quite unoriental. Peasants may be seen in their log built villages dancing away until they almost drop from fatigue. The Russian dance is full of vitality, spontaneous and strenuous; the eastern dance is restrained, suggestive and sometimes sinuous.

"Russian literature is supposed to be consistently gloomy. Of course there is a tendency to depression, but it would be equally correct to assume that German literature consists only of classical annotations and scientific treatises."—Chicago News.

HIGH SCHOOL CLASS REUNION

Williams, and Carl F. Prescott.

SPORT NEWS

In forwarding base ball news to the Daily Ledger please include the score by innings.

H. B. Driver and F. Percival were tied for first honor, each being 6 down, in the handicap vs. par play at the Wollaston Golf club on Saturday afternoon. There were 41 starters.

The Atlantic All Star base ball team, a newly organized team of Atlantic, defeated the City Point Red Sox of Boston to the tune of 19 to 3, Saturday afternoon on Ward Six playground. The pitching of John Duffy, and the catching of E. Thompson was great while Kamp starred for the Boston team.

There was some exceptionally good trotting Saturday afternoon at the matinee meet of the Old Colony Gentlemen's Driving club at South Weymouth park. The winners in the several events were: class A. Edith R; class B, Benjamin; class C, Dorothy C.; class F, Catherine C.; class G, Lawsons Gift; class H, Bessie Patchen; class I, Miss Lake; class J, Russell Pointer; class K, Ruby; class L, Aru; class M, Robby. The second heat in class F, furnished the best racing of the afternoon, when Wendel Totman, on his second appearance on the race track, beat the two veterans of the track.

Ted Galvin, the former Quincy High star, one of the best known fielders, in Boston and vicinity, is home from Fitchburg, where he was to play the season with Fred Lake's team which defeated the Red Sox 3 to 0 on Friday. Ted is suffering from blood poisoning, but his condition is not serious. It is more than three weeks since he reported to Manager Lake. With the other members of the team he was sent out regularly on the road work. The grind raised terrific blisters on his feet which became infected. The first symptons appeared in his right leg and more developed in the left. Since his return his improvement has been slow but sure.

Manager Captain Dinneen of the police team has arranged the first game of the season for Wednesday afternoon when the Blue Sox will play Foy's clerks on the Ward Three playground. The Blues have been getting in considerable practice and their director promises a good showing.

The first open golf tournament in New England will be held at the Wollaston Golf club links on Wednesday afternoon. The Montclair course is always many weeks ahead of the other as far as the condition of the green is concerned and most of the members have covered it within the last month. The qualification at 18 holes will be played on Wednesday and the match play for the Wollaston cup continues through Saturday. Last year Francis Ouimet and Vincent S. Lawrence tied at 78 for the gross prize and theirs were the only cards under 80. The former withdrew from match play and Lawrence was put out in the first round by P. W. Whittemore.

REDMEN WIN SIX TO TWO

The Redmen A. C. defeated the Boston Gear Works team to the tune of 6 to 2 at the Ward Three playground on Saturday afternoon. The game was played in football weather and there were many errors. After the Redmen secured a comfortable lead they tried out a few second string men. Spargo doing the receiving while Stronach held down first sack. Johnson was sent in to pitch. All played good base ball considering it was the first effort in these positions. Moorehouse continues to clout the ball, while Summers got the outfield honors with four putouts. Buckley played good ball for the losers. The summary:

FLETCHER IN FULL CONTROL

American Admiral Announces Martial Law at Vera Cruz

ORDER WILL BE MAINTAINED

Way Opened For Mexican Federal and City Employes to Return to Posts of Duty—Small Arms and Rifles Surrendered—Maas Tearing Up Railroad Leading to Capital

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 27.—Vera Cruz is under martial law. Rear Admiral Fletcher, commanding the American naval forces on shore, issued a proclamation to this effect, and the last oppportunity Mexicans had for handling their own affairs in Vera Cruz under their own laws disappeared.

Fletcher and his staff determined there should be no more quibbling with the Mexican officials regarding forms of government, and until further notice the residents of the port will live and be judged by military law. The word has gone forth that disorder and unruliness in any form shall receive swift and severe punishment.

This proclamation makes Fletcher absolute ruler ashore, and it is generally agreed that he will use this power with stoical regard for all, to the end that order shall be maintained.

It is expected the martial law proclamation will have another effect, that of opening the way for more of the city and federal employes to return to their posts and co-operate in restoring the local government functions. Mexicans point out that these men will be in a position to explain to their friends and the existing government at the capital that under martial law they felt obliged to return to their work.

An order that all arms be turned in at once by the residents brought to the headquarters of the provost martial bushels of small arms and stacks of rifles, which had not been discovered by the provost guard on their previous searches, and at the consulate a huge quantity of guns of all makes and sizes was stacked up.

A large number of local Mexican officials have reported their willingness to resume their duties of office under the supervision of the Americans.

Roberto Diaz, the mayor of Vera Cruz, is among those who have agreed to reopen their offices, and it has been arranged that the public schools, which were in session when the fighting began, shall be reopened today.

The efforts of Fletcher, supplemented by those of the British commander, Rear Admiral Craddock, and the French and German consuls and private citizens, to bring about the departure from the interior of all foreigners who wish to leave, are being continued energetically, but the hope of getting out more than a small part of those left is diminishing hourly.

General Maas has established his headquarters at Soledad, sixteen miles from Vera Cruz, and his men are tearing up the railroad tracks. The gap between Tejeria, the water supply station, which is guarded by the Americans, and Soledad has grown greatly, and it is now no simple task for the refugees, whether foreigners fleeing from Huerta, or Mexicans proceeding from Vera Cruz toward the capital, to get themselves and their baggagge across the open space.

BAER DIES SUDDENLY

Noted Coal Operator Is Stricken With Gastric Trouble

Philadelphia, April 27.—George F. Baer, president of the Philadelphia and Reading railway and active in the organization and management of many coal, iron and transportation companies, died at his home here.

He was stricken on the street while walking to his office and never recovered consciousness. Although approaching 72, Baer had been unusually active and his associates considered him in the best of health.

Gastric trouble, supplemented by a kidney disorder, is believed by the physicians to have been responsible for Baer's sudden death. He leaves a widow and five daughters.

FRANK DECLARED NORMAL

Burns Says State Has Withdrawn Accusation of Degeneracy

Atlanta, April 27.—W. J. Burns has made public for the first time the fact that the physicians delegated by him to call on Lee Frank in his cell had reported that they found the prisoner entirely normal in every respect and could find no indications of degeneracy of the type described by Conley, the negro, on the witness stand.

Burns, in commenting upon the sensational "confession" affidavits, the submission of which brought to a close the defense case in the hearing on the extraordinary motion for a new trial for Frank, declared the state's case was crumbling.

In those affidavits it was alleged Conley admitted his guilt. Burns says his interview with Chief of Detectives Lanford indicated that the state had withdrawn completely its accusation of degeneracy against Frank, the charge which was largely instrumental in bringing about the conviction for murder.

A Couple of Wine Casks

They Contained Something Better Than Wine

By F. A. MITCHEL

Not all the aristocracy of France were, previous to the revolution, oppressors of the poor. True, the power they possessed rendered many of them tyrannical, especially those about the court, but through the country there were instances of nobles who were much beloved by their inferiors in rank.

Among these was the young Count de Lisle, who on his twenty-first birthday came into a fine property in the province of Maine, not far from Paris. He had a tender heart, and the condition of the peasantry pained him exceedingly. When he fell heir to his estate there were 100,000 francs for him in currency in a Paris bank. Half of this he distributed among the poor on or about his domain.

He furthermore resolved that he would devote his life to the cause of the betterment of the condition of the oppressed lower classes. Had he been older he would have realized that the many years of wars and extravagance on the part of royalty and the nobles had so impoverished France that those who had wasted the wealth of the nation must be put out of the way before France could begin a necessary retrenchment.

When the revolution came on the count threw himself heart and soul into the cause of reform. He went to Paris, where he attended a meeting in the Palais Royal composed largely of the best men of the middle class in France, and there raised his voice in behalf of the overtaxed people.

But in the rising cloud of revolution was a thunderbolt, unseen by the intelligent middle classes, who were unconsciously fostering it. Mme. Roland, the leader of the Girondists, feared that the excitement would die away before the constitutional rights required by the people from the sovereign had been granted. It was not long before the storm broke, sweeping away her and her associates in the work. They all perished on the guillotine, singing the "Marseillaise," the volume of sound lessening as each head fell, till the last died singing alone.

One day news came to the tenants of the Count de Lisle's estate that cast a gloom upon them. The count had been arrested in Paris. A few there were who, having become rabid by the flow of blood, rejoiced that another noble head would soon fall and there would be one less of that class who had impoverished France. The young Countess Julie de Lisle had sent messenger after messenger to her husband, begging him to come home and leave the revolutionists to work out their own salvation. But he had entered upon the work of ameliorating the condition of the oppressed people and would not turn back.

He had been warming a serpent in his bosom. At the height of the tempest, when the leadership fell into the hands of representatives of the lowest classes and the cry was raised to exterminate all royal blood and all nobles, De Lisle was denounced as an enemy of France and thrown into prison. A few days later he was taken before one of those tribunals, consisting only of a so called judge—a man without any knowledge of law and usually even without education—whose business it was to condemn those whom the people wished to get rid of in order that they might be executed with the semblance of justice. What was the count's astonishment to see sitting in the judicial chair behind a pine table Henri Denier, one of his own tenants, who had received a portion of the 50,000 francs that the count had distributed on his coming of age.

The two men's eyes met for an instant. Then those of the judge fell before the steady gaze of the one who had befriended him and whom he was now called upon to order to execution. Nor was it in Denier's power to refrain from this course. Behind him were the people, who had put him there, not to judge of guilt or innocence, but to pronounce sentence. He was compelled either to send his benefactor to the guillotine or go there himself. And by refusing to pronounce sentence of death he would not save the count, who would be condemned by Denier's successor.

"We have met before," said the count.

"Yes," replied the judge mechanically, "we have met before."

"Which one of us has contributed more to the cause of the French people, you or I?"

The room was filled with revolutionists. Denier was aware that every eye was upon him. Should he flinch in his duty to the cause of extermination he would at once be reported as an enemy of France.

"That is not the question before us, citizen," he said. "You have been denounced, and it is my duty to pronounce sentence upon you." Then to the guards, "Take him to the conciergerie."

Until this moment Henri Denier had been a revolutionist of the extreme type. He had inherited a little patch of ground and some money from his father, but the taxes he had been obliged to pay had eaten up his patrimony. His wife had fallen ill and needed medical attention and other comforts. His children were without wholesome food. Like a gift from heaven had come his proportion of the count's money. Not only that; the count, being informed of Mme. Denier's condition, had sent his own physician, who had treated her, and she had been restored to health.

The memory of this benefaction in a twinkling produced as great a revolution in the heart of Henri Denier as was being wrought in the government of France. He resolved that if he could save his benefactor by giving his own life he would do so. But his self control was perfect. He sat apparently unmoved even under the reproachful glance of the count as the latter passed out of the room between two soldiers.

Then the work of condemnation was resumed.

Denier after having been some time in Paris, noting the trend the revolution was taking, had gone to his home in disguise for a day and left a cipher code with his wife by which he could communicate with her without any one except himself or her knowing what he wrote her. One morning a girl about fifteen years old appeared at Mme. Denier's door and handed her a bit of paper on which there was writing.

"Who is this from?" asked Mme. Denier.

"Read it," was the girl's only reply.

Mme. Denier, seeing a jumble of words, remembered her cipher code, which she took from its hiding place and interpreted the message:

Count de Lisle condemned. Send wine.

The recipient read much more than was expressed. She knew that her husband meant that she was to find some person or persons to come to Paris and help him save the man who had saved her when she had been ill. But what did the words "Send wine" mean?

She took the message to the countess, whom she found prostrated at news of her husband's arrest, which she had already received. Together they interpreted the "Send wine" to mean this: Denier had just before the revolution set himself up as a wine seller in Paris, bringing wine in casks to Paris and returning the casks empty. They were to send some casks of wine to his shop. What this would have to do with the count's condemnation the women could not determine.

Not two hours after the receipt of the message a man named Francois, a servant in the chateau who attended his master, loaded several casks of wine on a cart and started for Paris. When they reached Denier's shop the girl who had accompanied Francois went for Denier, but he did not leave his official duties till dark. On arrival at his shop he was pleased to see Francois and told him that on his coolness and courage the count's life depended. He was to remain that night in the shop and return the next morning, ostensibly to the chateau, but once having passed the walls of Paris, after proceeding some distance in that direction, he was to diverge on a road to the Belgian border.

Denier, having been one of the most radical of the revolutionists, was thoroughly trusted by them. Indeed, he had become a leader. About 10 o'clock on the night of Francois' arrival in Paris he sent a small squad of soldiers under a corporal to the conciergerie prison with an order to send Citizen de Lisle to him since his testimony was needed to denounce an enemy of France. The count was sent to "the judge," who was in the room where he sent persons to the guillotine. Announcing that he would interrogate the prisoner privately, he ordered the soldiers to withdraw.

No sound having been heard for some time from within, the corporal rapped at the door. There was no answer. The door was opened, and the room was found to be empty. A window had been left open. The corporal had nothing to do but go back to the prison and report the circumstance.

A commotion was stirred up by the disappearance of the judge and his prisoner, who, on gaining the street had made straight for Denier's shop, where Denier got into one empty wine cask and the count into another, after which Francois put the heads on the casks. It was expected that the shop would be searched, so Francois placed the casks on his cart and drove it away, moving about the streets till sunrise, when he turned his course to a gate in the wall on the north side of the city. Since it was the same gate as the one through which Francois had passed on entering and he had treated the guard liberally to the wine he had carried he found no great trouble in passing out with the casks, which had evidently been emptied.

France being a wine growing country, with the product constantly passing to and fro, the fugitives experienced no difficulty in reaching the border, and once in a foreign country they emerged from their confinement and embraced Francois, whose coolness, wit and resource had saved them from exposure on several occasions.

The two men were joined in Brussels by their wives, whom Francois had advised while on the route of the human contents of his casks. When the storm of revolution had spent its force the count and countess returned to their chateau. The Deniers remained in Belgium longer, being fearful of returning to the revolutionists of Paris, whose cause the husband deserted. However, when the Bourbons were enthroned again and they felt assured of protection Denier went back to his wineshop and continued to bring in wine from the country, sending back the casks to be refilled. But never since that eventful journey made by him and De Lisle to the border has he sent out casks filled with human beings.

SURGEON GAVE HER A NEW FACE

Horribly Disfigured Woman Finally Made Presentable.

GOOD LOOKS FOR UGLINESS

Youth With Very Bad Features and Hare Lip Now Attractive—Graftings and Successful Transplantation of Tissue and Fat Enlarge the Field of Reparatory Operations.

Surgery has progressed to the point where it can supply new nerves, blood vessels, bones and even new faces to men and women who have been maimed and mutilated by accident or disease. European specialists have described to the congress of the American Surgical association many examples of the wonderful results obtained in reparatory surgery. Dr. Erich Lexer of the University of Jena, Germany, showed a once beautiful woman whose face he practically remade in two years. She had been disfigured in the explosion of an automobile.

First she was shown without a nose and with the vestige of a chin, with part of an ear and without eyebrows, and with her eye lids drawn down in hideous fashion. No more unpromising subject could have been presented. First the surgeon made a nose for her out of cartilage and fat and skin which he had obtained from other parts of her body. After awhile he saw that the nose was shaped up and molded anew. He made a chin for her, revised the disfigured mouth and put some artistic touches on the remains of her ears.

He finished with a portrait of the young woman in gala dress and smiling. She had not been restored to her former pulchritude, but, taken all in all, the surgeon had performed a most remarkable feat.

Operation For Hare Lip.

Then came a hare lipped young man with a decidedly unprepossessing face. The surgeon literally transformed him in a few months into a Prince Charming and induced him to raise a mustache to cover the lip line. The final state of the youth was almost handsome enough for him to qualify as a riding master or a tango teacher.

From a surgical point of view one of the most brilliant operations, which was shown by Dr. Lexer in color photographs on the screen, was the transplantion of fat and part of a bone into a shattered patella, so that the free action of the knee was restored to the patient. The surgeon demonstrated also how he would obtain quantities of fat from legs and insert them under cheeks to fill up hollows or to smooth out foreheads in which there were unsightly cavities. For a patient who had no external ears he built two perfectly good ones with graceful, scroll-like effects. A young girl whose face was her misfortune was changed into an attractive miss.

New Eyebrows.

Dr. H. Morestin of Paris told the congress that graftings and transplantations of tissues had considerably enlarged the limits of reparatory operations.

"They have enabled us," he continued, "to remedy under better conditions many grave deformities and to lead to many other restorations hitherto almost unattainable."

He spoke of the use of small fragments of skin, of cutaneous transplantation in two distinct times, of the grafting of eyebrows and mustaches and of the strengthening of the broken and mashed nose by grafting cartilage.

"Adipose graftings," continued Dr. Morestin, "are excellent for filling up empty spaces, bony hollows, for effacing the depressions of soft parts, and therefore they render the greatest service in repairing cranial gaps and facial deformities. Fatty tissue with a few blood vessels is most easily transplanted from one region to another. The readiness with which fat may be obtained and the great facility with which it may be used in all deformities and the beauty of the results obtained through these operations, which are attended with no risk, make adipose grafting a very valuable addition to aesthetic and reparatory surgery."

REFUGEES ARE IN DISTRESS

Expected to Be at Once Sent to Their Destinations

HUNDREDS ON BOARD SHIPS

Many Tell Stories of Cruelties, Privations, Insults and Injuries Suffered at Hands of Mexicans—Americans Hanged and Property of Foreigners Confiscated

Galveston, April 27—Driven by armed bands of Mexicans from their homes and from the property which they had been years accumulating, forced to flee from their work where good wages were paid, destitute of food, clothing and money, 2500 refugees are on ships here awaiting the pleasure of the state of Texas in disdisposing of them.

Governor Colquit declared that they must not enter the state until the latter part of this week. They are crowded uncomfortably and their surroundings in many instances could be bettered.

Two thousand of them wired Colquit and President Wilson, saying: "We thank you for being permitted to stand out in the rain, drenched, half-starved, sick and unprotected."

They are disappointed because they thought that they would be sent to their destinations upon arrival. On all ships boarded the refugees told stories of cruelties inflicted by Mexicans, both rebels and federals, and of privations, insults and injuries they have endured since the beginning of Huerta-Wilson disputes.

They told of the fighting about Tampico, Panuco, Vera Cruz and other points. Ed Kline of Marion, Kan., in telling of troubles, said:

"We fared very well until the marines were landed at Vera Cruz, but for weeks Mexicans hooted at us. When the news of the landing of marines came, the Americans gathered at the Southern hotel and prepared to protect themselves. Posters were distributed about the streets and from every quarter came the cry of 'death to the Gringoes.'

"Federals and rebels united and several shots were fired into the hotel. We were saved by the commander of the German cruiser Dresden, who saw the riot and quelled it by training guns on the Mexicans and telling them to cease or he would fire.

"We were then taken aboard ships, and just in time to see several hundred Mexicans gallop up and fire into houses formerly occupied by Americans. As we left the port, the Mexicans fired on the ship. Several bullets struck it and Mr. Miller of Ohio was shot through the legs."

R. L. Britton, who was robbed at Panuco, told of the fighting there. "The rebels rushed into the city at daybreak of April 13, and in one hour had captured it. They took the federal soldiers to the hills. All Huerta's sympathizers were hanged to trees, their bodies frightfully mutilated and left for the crows. No Americans were killed, but all were robbed and their homes burned.

"Boyd Dickinson was tied to a tree and whipped until he revealed the hiding place of his money. Ed. Rigney was beaten senseless and robbed. Women were choked until they gave up their jewelry. It was dangerous to life, and we traveled to Tampico, which is eighty miles distant."

Several refugees told of seeing three Americans hanged by Mexicans, forty miles from Tampico. They were accused of theft and were given trials. Other instances were related where property was confiscated and foreigners ordered to leave.

C. H. Bell of Vera Cruz gave an account of the landing of marines and fighting which followed. He acted as interpreter for American officers and was with them at the time of the firing. At the first volley from the housetops no Americans were killed, but later four marines fell in the streets and many were wounded. Mexicans fell from the windows and housetops by the score, and it was next day before the streets were cleared of dead bodies.

On the Connecticut a baby girl was born to Mrs. H. Jenkins. This is the first birth reported. No death occurred en route.

The following are the boats with refugees: Atlantis, 44; Cyclops, 315; Esperanza, 375; Trinidadian, 360; Connecticut, 580; Dixie, 350; Oklahoma, 440. Others are due.

Old Murderer Is Dead

Providence, April 27.—Robert Crowe, the only federal prisoner in this state, died at the Rhode Island state prison, where he had served forty-seven years for the murder of William H. Robbins, first mate of the bark Ocean Wave, in 1866. He was 73 years old.

Pittsburg Bank Resumes Business

HOW TO UTILIZE AN OLD RAINCOAT.

Rip it apart and wash it thoroughly and then fashion it into—

A large apron for household use, good for scrubbing and washing wear.

A chemistry apron for the daughter in high school.

Dusting cap and sleeve protectors.

Cases for sponges, brushes and toilet articles.

A cover to tie over the laundry basket.

A lining for the laundry basket for the housekeeper who sends soiled linen to the "wet wash." It will save uncomfortable drip from the basket and save mopping the floor.

INSOMNIA RELIEF.

How to Rob Sleeplessness of Some of Its Terrors.

Insomnia and sleeplessness are robbed of many of their terrors if their victim looks at them in a sensible way. The very worst thing to do when sleep fails to come is to worry about it and finally work yourself into such a state of nervousness that night and darkness seem all surrounding and never ending.

The victim of sleeplessness should make her wakeful hours as comfortable as possible. If she cannot train herself to lie still, relaxing and resting, she should provide herself with such comforts as are necessary to make the midnight vigil bearable, even pleasant.

Sometimes simple little devices bring the desired sleep. One remedy is this: Close the eyes and turn the eyeballs as far toward the top of the head as possible. This is their normal attitude during sleep, and this attitude persistently held, often produces sleep. One woman cured herself of real insomnia in this way.

Sometimes a drink of warm water will produce sleep. There is now on the market a little metal cylinder which is attached to the electric light socket by a wire. When the current is turned on the cylinder becomes hot, and if it is placed in a glass of water the water soon boils. A glass of water covered, and this cylinder on the bedside table would make hot water at any time in the night convenient.

Reading, of course, is the solace of the sleepless. The light should be good. Brackets to hold electric bulbs securely on the rungs of a brass bed are sold. Bedside lights on tall brass or wood standards are also sold.

Reading in bed is not injurious if the light is good and if the book is held in the proper position. It should be so held that the light strikes full on the page without glaring in the eyes. It is usually more comfortable to sit in a half upright position than in a reclining one. A comfortable pillow or two should be ready at hand to support the back and head.

Eating often induces sleep. Bread and butter sandwiches, wafers, a little fruit—anything that has been found satisfactory—can be prepared beforehand and placed on the bedside table for the sleepless one's feast. If hot milk does the work it can be kept in a vacuum bottle, or it can be heated by the electric cylinder.

CARE OF THE BABY.

How to Make the Little One Comfortable and Happy.

The crawling baby should have creepers over the little dresses. These can be made of inexpensive materials that will wash, and it goes without saying that little dress articles of this sort are a great saving in the washing.

There is a useful little supporter resembling the masculine suspenders worn by the small child to keep the undergarment in place. The strap extends to the waist, where it is provided with a clasp, to which the garment in question is attached. The clasp is easily adjusted when the garment needs changing. It gives more freedom to the limbs since the garment does not need to be pinned so tightly to prevent it falling.

When the baby cannot wear the flannel band without causing irritation of the skin let him wear a soft linen shirt beneath the band. The linen is soothing to the skin.

Nursing bottles can be cleaned much easier if washed in cold water as soon as used and the nipples dropped in a cup of cold water that has a little saleratus added and then washed with hot water before using.

Silencers made of Turkish toweling can be used under children's plates at the table. They are also useful in protecting the smooth surface of the serving table.

Serious accidents having occurred to babies through their catching hold of the blades of sharp instruments, the following hint will be useful: Do not try to pull away the instrument or to force open the hand; but, holding the child's empty hand, offer to its other hand anything nice or pretty, and it will immediately open it and let the dangerous instrument fall.

How to Fold a Man's Coat.

The right way to fold a man's coat when he is preparing to go on a trip, declares a housekeeper of experience, is to lay it out perfectly flat, with the wrong side down. Then spread out the sleeves and fold back the elbow until each end of the sleeve is even with the collar. Fold the revers back and then double the coat over, folding it directly in the center seam and then smoothing it out carefully.

STATE A PARTNER IN MOTHERHOOD

Plan Which 30,000 English Working Women Are Urging.

A BIG BOON FOR THE POOR.

Would Put a Bounty on Births and Insure the Best of Medical Care For Parent and Child—Women Sanitary Inspectors and Health Visitors Are Reducing Infant Mortality.

Describing the national maternity policy which 30,000 working women are urging upon the English government the London Times says:

The policy proposed by the Women's Co-operative guild, briefly stated, is to link up the state with the home and the municipality in a health service which shall secure that all maternity care and the care of children up to school age shall be organized under one authority—namely, the public health authority.

It would place within the reach of working women all the aids which science and common sense show to be necessary to safeguard the health of mother and child. It would become the agency on behalf of the state for administering the maternity and pregnancy sickness benefits, and these would be so augmented as to be the right of all mothers whose income was under the $800 limit.

Cash For Every Child Born.

The guild suggests that a grant equivalent to a sum of $40 for every child born should be made by the state. Under the guild's scheme there would be a local public health maternity department which would evolve a system of maternity centers out of the infant consultations now in existence.

There are now bands of woman sanitary inspectors and health visitors who give advice as to the health of persons in the home and to whose valuable work the lessening of infant death rates is mainly due.

Advice in the homes has naturally led to further developments. Milk depots have been started in various districts. And, most encouraging of all, in about fifty towns municipalities are acting as pioneers in the establishment of municipal infant consultations. In Bradford two voluntary "schools for mothers"—an unfortunate name, as the important features of such institutions are skilled advice and treatment suited to individual cases—have been taken over by the municipality.

About 500 infants are seen and weighed weekly, individual diets are prescribed and dried milk, foods, emulsions, etc., supplied. A woman doctor, with a staff of nurses and assistants, presides over the work. A large new building is nearly completed, which will provide a milk depot, infant consultations and an observation ward.

Birmingham's Fight For Babies.

In Birmingham the part of the town showing the highest infant mortality has been divided into five districts, in each of which two rooms form a municipal consulting center for mothers and infants, attended by a woman doctor. A municipal health visitor also visits in the homes to see that the directions are properly carried out.

In Sheffield infant consultations are held during five afternoons in the week, and a paid doctor and his wife, not on the municipal staff, are employed. Dried milk is sold at cost price, and patterns of infant clothes are sold at a penny.

BLUEJACKETS AS EDITORS.

Men of the Arkansas Sing Praises of Ship In Print.

The enlisted men of the super-Dreadnought Arkansas have issued the first of the navy's annuals, a finely illustrated book. The contributors are the 1,000 bluejackets and marines who make up the enlisted personnel of the great ship.

The book contains stories of the achievements of the big fighter. In her first year she was chosen for special duties, such as taking President Taft to and from Panama, and being special escort of the Brazilian battleship Minas Geraes, bearing Brazil's foreign minister, Dr. Muller. Then follow the story of how the Arkansas broke the coaling record when she took on board 587 tons of coal in an hour; her speed runs when off Rockland, Me., when she made nearly twenty-two knots an hour, and the story of how the men of No. 4 of the six big twelve inch turrets broke the world's record at target practice.

The annual also tells all about the athletic prowess of the sailors of the Arkansas. Her baseball team won eight games and lost one in the Newport series, and her basketball team won the championship of the Dreadnought division of the Atlantic fleet.

Wool Made to Look Like Fur.

Wool which makes up to resemble fur is a new idea being shown in London. The wool does not look any different from ordinary wool, but after the garment is made when it is brushed vigorously a furry surface appears. Hard brushes are sold with the furry wool skeins. A manufacturer states that after washing the garments retain their furry appearance. Wool is growing dearer, says the London Daily Mirror, one reason for this being the huge quantities that go into the American markets.

MRS. JOHN CORCORAN.

Mrs. John Corcoran, mother of Councilman Daniel F. Corcoran of Ward Four, died at her home on Grove street at noon today. She was one of the best known residents of the ward and enjoyed the friendship of a large circle of residents of West Quincy. Mrs. Corcoran was the widow of John Corcoran who died recently at the Quincy City Hospital as a result of a fall received on Labor Day. Besides Councilman Corcoran she leaves another son, Timothy, who is a foreman in the sewer department of the city.

BUCKLEY STREET FIRE.

The alarm from Box 413, at 2.18 Sunday afternoon, was for a fire in a mattress in a house on Buckley street John Dineen, a member of the Fire department who resides in an adjoining house was at home at the time and rushed into the house and threw the burning mattress out of the window and had the fire out by the time the department arrived. The loss was confined to the mattress.

NORFOLK DOWNS FIRE.

The factory of the Pneumatic Scale Corporation was menaced by fire in a pile of rubbish in the rear of the building Sunday morning. The pile consisted of oily waste and other inflammable material and is thought to have been started by a spark from a passing locomotive. The Wollaston apparatus responded on a telephone call at 4 A. M. and extinguished the fire with one line hose. No damage resulted.

CARD PLAYERS RAIDED.

Inspector Goodhue and Sergt. Bishop made a raid on the premises at 95 Sumner street about 1 o'clock Sunday morning and arrested three men whom they charged with playing cards on the Lord's day. The men placed under arrest were Joseph Levine, Louis Betstdt and Max Schwartz All three were arraigned in court this morning.

CASE DISMISED.

Reuben F. Meelndy was summoned into court this morning for cruelly killing a cat. It was alleged that Melendy shot a cat which had become a source of nuisance to him, and that after being shot the cat wandered onto the piazza of its own home where it lingered twenty minutes before it died. In court this morning a plea of nolo contendre was entered and the case dismissed on payment of costs.

CO. K ENLISTMENTS.

During the past few days army officers have been in the city trying to induce young men to enlist in Co. K of the 5th regiment. This company was formerly located at Braintree at which time more than half of its members were residents of Quincy. Later however its headquarters were changed to Hingham and many of the Quincy boys dropped out. There are still, however, a number of Quincy boys enrolled in the company. It now comprises about 60 men and it is desired to recruit it up to the full war strength of 100 or more. It is understood that the army officers met with considerable success and that a number of Quincy boys signified their intention of enlisting.

HAROLD MITCHELL AT FRONT.

One Quincy boy at least is seeing something of the life in Vera Cruz at the present time. That is Harold Mitchell, a yeoman who is at present acting as secretary to Admiral Fletcher, who has charge of the land forces at Vera Cruz. Mitchell married a daughter of Calvin T. Dyer and his wife and friends in this city are closely following the events that are transpiring in this Mexican city.

GISBURN'S CONDITION SERIOUS.

A dispatch from Washington in the Sunday papers stated that Admiral Badger places Edward A. Gisburn, the Quincy boy wounded when the port of Vera Cruz was seized, as being in a critical condition. The dispatch states that his left femur was shattered by a rifle bullet. Gisburn was a signal boy and was on top of the terminal building signalling to the war vessels in the harbor when he was picked off by a snipper.

MORCOMS REACH GALVESTON.

Mrs. J. Alfred Morcom of Mexico City has reached Galveston, Texas. The news was received in a telegram Sunday evening by her father, James R. Qualey of Washington street, Braintree. It reads "Everybody here O. K." and was signed "Fannie." This indicates that all the Morcom family have fled to the United States.

Mrs. Morcom was Miss Fannie Qualey of Braintree and in June 1911, was married to Alfred Morcom, son of the manager of the railroad which runs between Mexico City and Vera Cruz. The elder Morcom is a British subject and a friend of Huerta, but Mr. and Mrs. Qualey were alarmed by a cable message, dated April 24, which was received by Sec. Bryan at Washington.

The message told of the stopping of a train near Tierra Blanca and making prisoner of W. Mangum. The similarity of the names caused much uneasiness and members of the Qualey family had decided the cable name was intended for Morcum when the telegram laid their fears at rest.

It is expected that Mrs. Morcom will hurry north to recuperate after the severe nervous strain occasioned by the uncertainty of the country's conditions.

LICENSE NIGHT OF CITY COUNCIL

Pony Express Permits Limited to Thirteen Which Is One More Than Last Year

Order Reported for Widening Out of Hancock Street

Monday night's session of the City Council as the busiest of the year but owing to the lack of any lengthy debate the business was put through with dispatch and an adjournment was reached shortly after 9 o'clock. There was a large attendance of citizens at the meeting due to the interest in the granting of licenses of various kinds. The License committee reported between sixty and seventy orders for licenses of various kinds which were adopted with but little debate.

The only debate in fact was over the granting of liquor permits. The committee recommended fourteen permits for the transportation of liquor and with one exception they were granted.

The absent members were Councilmen Corcoran and Sodergren.

PARK FOR CAMP.

Mayor Miller in a communication, stated that after a conference, the use of Merrymount park had been offered to the United tSates army for a camp. The agreement was that the park should be left in as good condition as taken, there would be no firing of guns and that the supplies would be purchased in Quincy. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Griffin offered a resolution approving the action of the Mayor. Adopted.

SACHEM CLUBHOUSE.

The Mayor forwarded a communication from the Sachem club, asking to be relieved from the provisions of the Building ordinance which provided that brick, stone or cement buildings should be erected in district 1, as the club desired to erect a wooden structure. The Inspector of Buildings had turned it down, and application had been made to the board of appeal, consisting of the Mayor, City Solicitor and Commissioner, who had also turned it down, and they now appealed to the last board, namely the City Council. Referred to the Committee on Public Buildings.

HANCOCK STREET.

The Mayor in a communication recommended that Hancock street between Granite street and School street be widened and rebuilt with first class construction, the estimated cost of which was $30,500. Laid on the table until later when Councilman Thompson offered an order for that amount which was referred to the Committee on Streets.

JURORS DRAWN.

A venire was received for the drawing of eight jurors. The Mayor, City Clerk and Councilman Baker drew the following. John E. Ford, Lysander W. Nash, Jonathan S. Swingle, Eugene E. Estes, Gustin Emery, James A. Smith, John J. Joyce, Alfred J. Messier.

AN INVITATION.

The President read an invitation from Clan MacGregor to attend the meeting at Music Hall and hear Governor Walsh.

TROOPS MAY ARRIVE HERE THIS WEEK

President Wilson Accepts Mayor Millers Offer of Merrymount Park for Mobilization Camp

It is probable that before the day is out, engineers from the United States army will be in Quincy getting Merrymount park in readiness for the camp of the coast artillery. As stated in Monday's Daily Ledger, at the conference held in the Mayor's office that morning, an agreement was entered into for the use of the park and all that was then required was the sanction of the authorities at Washington.

Word was received from President Wilson on Monday afternoon accepting the offer, and it was announced later in the evening that Col. Harry Hawthorn, in charge of the government troops about Boston harbor, would probably come to Quincy today with the engineering corps to make the camp ready, and that before the week was out some of the troops would probably arrive on the ground.

It is expected that the troops from the forts in Boston harbor as well as companies from Portland, Me., and Newport, R. I., will go into camp at the park immediately.

The park, it is generally agreed among military men, is an ideal place for the camp. It is a rolling country having the advantage not only of the sea shore but woods as well, and it is not a very long hike before the troops could reach the Blue Hills where they could receive training on ground similar to that which would be encountered, should the troops be used in a war in Mexico.

The conditions under which the park is to be used, that the United States will leave it in as good condition as when taken, and that all necessary expense for water, sewers, etc. will be paid by the government; that no guns will be fired, and that all supplies for the camp will be purchased in Quincy are all very favorable.

There are several clubs in the city, who will doubtless extend their hospitality to the officers of the companies, particularly the Granite City club whose hospitality on such occasions is too well known to need any comment.

The club is made up largely of business men of the city and at the present time is really the only club of its kind in the city having permanent quarters.

The several yacht clubs of the city will also doubtless extend the use of their club houses to the officers at the camp.

Should the troops remain in Quincy for any length of time it means there will be considerable doing in the city the coming summer.

BAKER WIRES OF HIS RELEASE

Will Probably Leave Mexico City by Train Today

Clair L. Baker, assistant general manager of the properties of the American Smelting and Refining Co. who was imprisoned in a smelter at Aguas Calientes by the Huertaists, is at liberty. "Been released, am here, all right, don't worry" is the message received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Baker, of 17 Winthrop street, Wollaston. The message was sent from Mexico City where Mr. Baker was allowed to return. It is probable that he will be one of the passengers aboard the train leaving there today inasmuch has he has received word from the directors to close up the properties and proceed to the states.

DANCE OF HEPTASOPHS

Granite conclave, Independent Order of Heptasophs, held a dancing party in Alpha hall on Monday evening which was attended by members and their friends from all the towns on the South Shore. The guests of the evening included Senator Louis F. R. Langelier and Representative Edward J. Sandberg. Music was furnished by Provost's orchestra, and refreshments were served in Union hall.

Archon Milton H. Irving was floor director and assisting him were the officers of the conclave as aids. They were Edward Brown, William J. Canty, John Kalson, A. Gibney, A. Lemieux, F. P. Hill, J. Cahill, Mark B. Gill.

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Permits Granted by City Council are on Mayor's Desk

The orders granting permits to expressmen to transport liquor into or in the city of Quincy, adopted by the City Council Monday evening, reached the Mayor's office early this morning. All present expire at midnight April 30, and unless the new permits are approved by the Mayor by that time no liquor can be transported into Quincy. The Mayor is allowed ten days in which to approve or disapprove all orders and the reason that the engrossed orders were placed before the Mayor this morning was that he should have as much time as possible before the first of May in which to consider them.

Thirteen permits in all were granted by the City Council Monday evening, or one more than was granted last year. The first twelve are the same as granted last year. The thirteenth man granted this year is Thomas F. Farrell of Wollaston. Farell has had a license in previous years, but a year ago owing to his not having complied with all the requirements of the committee, he was turned down. In other words it might be said that the committee disciplined him. This has been done at other times in the case of other expressmen and has had the desired effect, as it probably will in the case of Farrell, should the Mayor approve his permit. Much interest is taken in the probably action of Mayor Miller.

Nothing has as yet been done in the case of William Vaughn, superintendent of the Quincy Home, who a month age was requested to hand in his resignation on April 27. Overseer Green said this morning that there was nothing new in the matter at present. Before any definite action is taken he will consult with the Mayor and City Solicitor. Up to noon however owing to a large number of callers at the Mayors office he had not been able to hold any conference with him.

DIVORCE PETITION.

A petition for divorce has been filed against Frederick Knox of this city by Shaloie A. A. Knox of Boston, alleging cruel and abusive treatment and habits of intoxication. She also asks the custody of Elizabeth, 17; Herbert A., 15; Violet S., 12; Parker F., 10; and John S., 2; minor children. They were married at Blissville, Canada, Oct. 19, 1896, and since the ceremony made their home in Quincy.

TO EXHIBIT TRACTOR TRUCK

An exhibition of a tractor truck will be held at the Central fire station Friday afternoon before the City Council Committee on Fire Department. These tractor trucks are so arranged that all that is necessary to put them into service is to take off the forward wheels and axle of the steamer and place the tractor truck in position. These tractor trucks give good service wherever used and the cost is considerably less than it would be to purchase an auto steam fire engine. The present steamer is one of the best ever turned out by the Amoskeag company and with a tractor truck attachment it would be up to date in every way.

GOVERNOR WALSH COMPLIMENTS CLAN

Says Scotchmen Seldom Call Upon the State for Assistance

Councillor MacGregor Also Guest of Clan MacGregor

Quincy was honored Monday evening by a visit from Governor David I. Walsh, who was in the city as the guest of Clan MacGregor, Order Scottish Clans. His excellency was accompanied by Councillor Alexander MacGregor and they were given a most cordial welcome.

In order that all members of the clan might have an opportunity of meeting the Chief Executive of the state the meeting was held in Music hall, and about 600 of the clansmen and their friends were present. Later in the evening a number of the members of the city Council dropped in to hear the Governor speak.

Chief Angus D. Martin was the chairman of the meeting and Mayor Miller welcomed the Governor to Quincy in the name of its citizens.

Chief Martin introduced the Governor who received a most royal welcome at the hands of the clansmen. In opening, His Excellency said that this was one of the occasions when he regretted that he did not have a little Scottish blood in his veins. He extolled Clan MacGregor for the magnificent work which it was doing, in helping the sick and distressed, caring for the fatherless children and the widows of deceased members. He also complimented the clan and organizations of a similar character for lessening the burdens of city and state by helping the needy through splendid works of charity. The state of Massachusetts, said the Governor, has less calls for assistance from people of the Scottish race than from any other nationality.

He likened the State to a great clan of which every man, woman and child within its borders were members. He expressed the idea that it was a good thing for the men of any race to form organizations to perpetuate all that was best and good in the race, and to offer that as their share in the upbuilding of the greatest government in the world. He showed that it was this very idea that made this great land of ours what it was.

He stated that if the present crisis in Mexico so demanded, there was no question but what men of Scottish blood would be found fighting for the right.

Councillor MacGregor was then introduced. He stated that his foot was on his native heath and his name was MacGregor. Being a clansman the Councillor knew what the organization was doing.

HON. DAVID I. WALSH.

He referred to the vast amount of money paid in bequeathments and for sick benefits. He stated that he had tried hard to get a former Governor to visit the Scots Charitable Association, but could not prevail on him to do so, but he had succeeded in getting Governor Walsh to say a few words to the oldest charitable organization in this country and on top of that, he had asked the Governor to say something to Clan MacGregor and the meeting tonight was the result.

He concluded by asking the clansmen to simply continue as they were doing and to live up to the splendid

The fishing parties report a corking time, but the corks did not stay in very long.

In spite of all the uncertainties about the weather, it is pretty safe to predict a wet season in the navy from now until July 1.

By delaying the freight rate decision another year or so, the Interstate Commerce Commission will be able to establish a reputation as a judicial body.

It is believed that Congress will manfully stand its ground in Washington, at least until a Mexican warship threatens the mouth of the Potomac river.

When Uncle Sam sells guns to Gen. Venustiano Carranza, it looks as if he did not have to lose sight of them altogether. He may get a chance to look into their muzzles later.

Perhaps the Mexicans will feel it necessary to occupy the strikers' camp at Ludlow, Colo., to restore order.

SPIRIT OF THE MILITIA.

There is a different spirit in the National Guard organizations than prevailed previous to the Spanish war. Then few of the militiamen had any idea that they would be called on for service away from home. They looked at themselves as organizations formed purely for police work in their own states.

The chaos following the attempt to use the militia in Cuba taught a needed lesson. A closer relation with the regular army was formed, although the militia is not yet as readily available in case of war as it ought to be.

During recent years the National Guard has been kept in close touch with the regular army. The possibility of such service as may be necessary in Mexico has been emphasized. Lamentable as is the present situation, the soldierly spirit manifested throughout the militia may well be a source of pride.

HIGHWAYS.

A good deal of the money spent on highways has been wasted, owing to the failure to consider the new strain of automobile traffic. Many men are now finding a motor cheaper than a horse. It is folly to undertake any new construction that does not provide for automobile strain.

It is pathetic to see the condition of some roads built at heavy cost ten years ago. The builders may have laid their material according to the best principles then known. They expected their work, if money was spent properly on maintenance, would be almost as enduring as the old stone roads of Rome. Today many such roads have "picked up," until they are rough heaps of angular stones, more forbidding to motors than the worst sand.

Highways subject to heavy automobile strain must plan on some form of oil or tar binder. A comparatively inexpensive surface protection saves complete rebuilding later.

DICTATOR WILL ACCEPT MEDIATION

Huerta Agrees to Good Offices of South Americans

MUST BE ELIMINATED IN FINAL SETTLEMENT

No Formal Submission of Such Condition, However, to Envoys Entrusted With Concillation—Army and Navy Machinery Being Perfected For Any Unexpected Turn In Events—Americans Safe In Mexico City—No Americans Killed Recently—Congressional War Talk Subsides

Washington, April 28.—Formal acceptance by the Huerta government of the offer of Argentina, Brazil and Chile to use their good offices to bring about an amicable settlement of the difficulty between the United States and Mexico was cabled to Spanish Ambassador Riano here by Portilli y Rojas, foreign minister in the Huerta cabinet.

The success of the first steps toward mediation—the prompt acceptance by the United States and the announcement of the Spanish ambassador that Huerta had accepted the tender of good offices—produced a feeling of distinct hope, which was reflected not only in administration quarters but also in congress, where "war talk" gave way to a spirit of conciliation.

"Things look very much better now," said Secretary Daniels. "We are getting Americans out of Mexico. That is the important thing now."

The attitude of the administration has long been established—that the elimination of Huerta was essential to any final settlement of the Mexican problem. This view was reiterated as recently as Saturday at the White House when senators and representatives were consulted as to the proposal of good offices. But while maintaining this view as to what would ultimately be essential to a real settlement, there has been no formal submission of such a condition to the envoys now entrusted with the work of conciliation.

War Preparations Continue

While the Latin-American envoys bent their energies toward negotiations for peace, the war and navy departments directed their activities toward the bringing of Americans out of Mexico and the transfer of the situation at Vera Cruz from the navy to the army, with the arrival of Brigadier General Funston and his army brigade.

The navy and war departments are continuing their efforts to care for refugees and perfecting the machinery of the army and navy for any unexpected turn in events.

Secretary Daniels announced that he had telegraphed the full text of the mediation offer and its acceptance by the United States to both Rear Admirals Badger and Howard, with instructions to have the commanders of all ships on the east and west coasts spread the news throughout Mexico.

By this Daniels hopes the feelings toward Americans may be alleviated and refugees be able to depart without molestation.

Advices received through the British embassy told of the completion of arrangements for the safe departure of Americans from Mexico City, while the French ambassador gave the state department a message he had received from the French legation stating that, while there had been some anti-American manifestations in the Mexican capital, order now prevailed.

No Americans Killed

Secretary Bryan said he was able to say that no Americans had been killed or injured since the crisis of the last two weeks began, and that though many had been detained at Aguas Calientes, Cordoba and Orizaba, efforts were now being made to obtain their release.

Order prevails in Vera Cruz. Funston and the army is expected to be in command of the situation today. Expeditionary forces of marines have been detached from the command of Admiral Fletcher, who will return in a few days to the fleet with the marine guards.

In consular dispatches to the state department and in reports from the naval commanders in Mexican waters, came reassuring messages as to American refugees.

Arrangements were completed for getting all Americans out of Mexico City, and Admiral Badger from Vera Cruz reported arrangements for train service on either side of the broken railroad between Mexico City and Vera Cruz.

Refugees Are Safe

Refugees were reported safe at Tampico, Puerto Mexico and other eas tcoast points, with arrangements under way to get them to Galveston, and Admiral Howard on the west coast reported the monitor Cheyenne's arrival at San Diego with refugees from Ensanada.

Partial lists of Americans held at Aguas Calientes were forwarded by Consul Canada at Vera Cruz, but he was unable to give any information as to those held at Orizaba. The Japanese ambassador, in conference with Secretary Bryan, secured permission for Japanese leaving Mexico to take refuge in the United States, although this will necessitate a suspension of the immigration laws.

Refugees from the east coast continued to reach Vera Cruz in various vessels.

War talk in congress was supplanted by a spirit of conciliation pending the mediation negotiations with Mexico. There were surface outbreaks in the house, mostly along political lines, but the undercurrent of gossip which last week had grown into a formidable sentiment that the president should adopt extreme measures, almost disappeared during the session of the house.

In its place were interest and curiosity regarding the outcome of the efforts of the South American republics to appease the situation. Meantime the more radical element in congress is withholding criticism pending the results of the negotiations.

SHOW "FOR MEN ONLY"

Those Who Attend Are Quickly Pressed Into Huerta's Army

Washington, April 28.—The "person calling himself president de facto of the republic of Mexico," as Secretary Bryan would say, has a sense of humor. So much is vouched for by an incident that took place a few days ago in Mexico City ,and which has become public gossip here.

Victoriano Huerta has had trouble finding recruits for his army. Accordingly he has devised a hundred schemes to get men for his troops. Not long ago there appeared in every public place in Mexico City huge placards announceing a moving picture show "for men only" in a certain auditorium—the biggest in the city.

The date set was two days ahead, and for those days the city hummed with gossip. All sorts of rumors went the rounds about the mysterious show "for men only." No one could find out who was running the entertainment or what it was to be.

At the appointed hour the auditorium was crowded with young men. After a brief wait, an officer in uniform appeared on the platform and said:

"Gentlemen, I thank you, and President Huerta thanks you for this demonstration of your patriotism. You will find recruiting officers at the doors."

Thereupon a heavy force of troops appeared at the entrance, and every man who had come to the entertainment "for men only" promptly found himself impressed into Huerta's army.

HARMONY OR RUPTURE?

Cordiality of Relations Between Villa and Carranza Is Doubted

El Paso, Tex., April 28.—A crisis in the relations of Generals Villa and Carranza is expected when the former arrives at Chihuahua, according to private letters received from that city and information in the possession of well informed officials here.

Harmony will be re-established, it is said, or a complete rupture will occur. Villa's determination to return to Chihuahua was taken suddenly upon receipt of important messages from his aides in that city. He had not intended to leave for several days.

"FIGHT THE GRINGOES"

Federals and Rebels Combine Forces In Coahuila State

San Antonio, Tex., April 28.—That federals and rebels in Coahuila state are combining against the Americans is the news brought here by C. A. Robson of the Coahuila Coal company of New York, at Palan, Mex.

Robson, who was the last American in that section of Coahuila, declares that General Juarda, federal, and General Mongela, rebel, met at Baratarian. A battle was imminent when Juarda sent a white flag and said the Americans were going to intervene. A brief parley took place, and then the forces joined, making a total of about 3000.

Robson says the American army would have no trouble marching to Saltillo. The roads are good, water plentiful and no mountains to hinder. He asserts Juarda's federals have been considerate toward Americans in his section, and that the federals and rebels are busy recruiting on the cry "Fight the gringoes." As far as is known here this is the first actual rebel and federal junction.

NO TRACE OF MEXICANS

Report of Aviators Who Scout Over Vera Cruz and Environs

Washington, April 28.—No trace of Mexican soldiers in the country surrounded Vera Cruz was observed by navy aviators who engaged in scout work over the city and environs, according to dispatches from Admiral Badger to the navy department.

"Aviators Bellinger and Saufley," the message said, "made a scout flight of one hour and forty minutes at an altitude of 3000 feet. They covered the territory reaching ten miles west, fifteen miles north and twelve miles south of the city.

"One burned place was located, as well as breaks in the railroad. The San Francisco bridge was found intact, except that the rails had been taken off.

"Another scout trip was made at an altitude of 1200 feet over the environs of the city. No trace of Mexican soldiers was observed."

ALLIANCE IS PLANNED

Zapata's Bandit Army In Southern Mexico May Support Huerta

Mexico City, April 28.—Colonel Rodriguez of the Zapatista forces arrived at Cuernavaca for a conference with representatives of General Huerta. Rodriguez let it be known that the purpose of the conference will be to discuss terms of an alliance between Huerta and Zapata. It is believed that the surrender of all the Zapata chieftains to the government will be arranged.

Emilio Zapata, leader of a bandit army now in control of a large part of southern Mexico, has had a career similar to that of Villa in the north. If the full strength of his following is thrown into Huerta's support the provisional president's position will be materially strengthened.

The Zapatistas have frequently penetrated the suburbs of Mexico City and have threatened a number of times to attack the capital. The Zapatistas have no connection with either Villa or Carranza.

OPPOSED TO WAR

Boston Mass Meeting Approves Peace Efforts of President

Boston, April 28.—Faneuil hall, that has rung so often in the past with cheers for martial causes, reechoed with similar applause to sentiments in the cause of peace at the mass meeting called to discuss the Mexican situation.

After listening to several speakers the people unanimously adopted resolutions calling upon all patriotic Americans to refrain from manifestations of the war spirit and to support President Wilson in his efforts towards a peaceful solution of the troubles in Mexico; approving the offer of the three South American republics to mediate, and expressing a desire that congress declare that the United States does not seek to add to its territory by conquest in Mexico.

WAR PLANS CONTINUE

Mediation Proposition Does Not Check Bay State Preparations

Boston, April 28.—The offer of Pan-American mediation between the United States and Mexico will not halt the preparations to place the Massachusetts militia upon a war footing.

This was announced by Governor Walsh and Adjutant General Pearson. The latter received from Secretary of War Garrison a circular containing instructions for mobilizing the militia in case mobilization is ordered.

"Under these instructions," explained Pearson, "the men will be first ordered to their armories to stay there until the companies are recruited to their full war strength, which under the field service regulations may be 108 men, but which is very likely to be 150."

HEARINGS ARE ENDED

Tolls Repeal Now Before Canals Committee, Which Is Divided

Washington, April 28.—Hearings on the bill to repeal the free tolls provision of the Panama canal act were closed last night, and the senate canals committee today begun consideration in executive session of a report to the senate.

The committee is said to be about evenly divided for and against repeal. Chairman O'Gorman thought the executive deliberations might last two days, but it seems virtually certain that a majority will favor some sort of report so that the measure may be brought before the open senate during the present week.

CLEAN-UP AND PAINT-UP

City Will Co-operate With Citizens Generally

Next week will be the clean-up and paint-up week in Quincy, and the Board of Health will co-operate with the citizens in cleaning up their premises. Unusual efforts are to be made this year in connection with the clean-up week. Starting in this morning the agents of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company will begin the distribution to every house in the city of pamphlets relative to consumption, and the proper care of children's teeth. In addition to this a pamphlet is being given out on the general care of the child, the necessity of having the home clean, which includes utensils, closets, garbage-pails, soiled towels, germs, flies, mosquitoes, clean clothing and clean hands, the drinking cup, care of food, care of the ice-box and important matter relative to the use of disinfectants.

In addition to these the agents will distribute a circular relative to clean-up week. These pamphlets and circulars will prepare householders for the general clean-up of their homes and back yards which starts in next Monday morning.

During all of next week the teams of the Board of Health will remove all rubbish and material collected from cellars and back yards. Barrels containing this refuse material should be placed on the edge of the sidewalk so that the Board of Health teams may readily collect it.

FUNERAL OF J. A. SIMPSON

There was a large attendance at the funeral services of J. Albert Simpson which was held Monday afternoon at his late home on Edge Hill road. There were representatives from the Macedonian lodge of Masons, the Dorchester lodge of Odd Fellows, the board of selectmen and many other organizations with which Mr. Simpson at some time or other had been affiliated. The floral tributes were most beautiful and showed the many friends of the deceased and his family. Three representatives from the Masonic lodge and three from the lodge of Odd Fellows acted as pall bearers. Rev. J. Hamilton Woodsum of the First Baptist church officiated and committal services were held at the grave.

Mr. Simpson was one of the founders of the Baptist church and has been closely connected with it for many years as an active member. He served both as treasurer and on the executive committee. He was born in Quincy in 1848. After graduating from the Bryant and Stratton college he became a bookkeeper for the Granite Railway Company at West Quincy serving seven years, when he was elected treasurer and served seventeen years. For several years he was selectman of Milton and held other town offices.

Mr. Simpson married Miss Ella Balch and his wife survives him, also two sons, G. Albert and William B., and two brothers and a sister.

Margaret J. Torrey, widow of James H. Torrey, died at North Weymouth in her 70th year. Her funeral will take place from her home on Lovell street on Wednesday afternoon.

MRS. REYNOLDS PAYS BIG FINE

The case of Mrs. E. Grace Reynolds of the Cedarcrest Outing Club of Braintree was disposed of in the Superior Court at Dedham on Monday, when Chief Justice Aiken reimposed the fine of $350 passed upon her by Judge Raymond on April 22, and which was revoked in order that she could get together the mount of the fine imposed Mrs. Reynolds paid the money over to Sheriff Capen. The case has been an interesting one from all sides, having been the occasion of much comment as regards the rights of the Quincy police officers in going to Braintree to assist in raids. The fact that Judge Raymond sustained the finding of Judge Avery in the appeal taken is considered by many to be a vindication of the action of the local police.

GRANITE CITY CLUB BANQUET

The annual banquet and entertainment of the Granite City club will be held tonight at Alpha hall at 6.30. B. & J. Bessie are the caterers and the menu arranged is one that should please. Rumor has it however that some of the club members are down for stunts, but just what they are remains to be seen.

NOT A STATE IMPROVEMENT

An adverse report was filed Monday by the legislative committee on roads and bridges on the following petition:

CHILDREN'S PARTY.

The Quincy Women's club house was the scene of a delightful children's party Saturday afternoon from 3 until 5.30; it was a merry time for the little folks.

Miss Hattie E. Turner of the Program committee under whose auspices the party was given proved a charming hostess to the children, and with her able assistants made it a festivity long to be remembered by them. For many of the little tots it was their first real party.

For an hour Professor Le Roy of Boston, who proved himself skilled in magic with Japanese napkins an egg, glass, handkerchief, cards, money, flags and a wooden box did most surprising and clever things to the astonishment not only of the children but the grown ups who were there.

An hour of dancing with Mrs Helen Rhines at the piano followed. In this the committee had the efficient help of Miss Sidelinger, Miss Arnold and Miss Bass.

Mrs. Nathan G. Nickerson kindly took charge of the refreshments served which was ice cream with fancy cakes and crackers.

Miss Edith Randall, chairman of the program could not be present owing to her departure on Friday for Lakewood, New Jersey.

WOLLASTON METHODIST CHURCH

At the annual conference of the New England District Methodist church held in Malden the past week, Rev. George M. Bailey was re-appointed to the Wollaston church by request. He occupied the pulpit on Sunday morning and preached upon the theme "A Good Fight." The words of the Apostle Paul, who made history which continues to grow brighter as the ages pass. Paul was fighting man and possessed the qualifications which are necessary to succeed in the moral and spiritual struggle which comes to every professing Christian. He could not be defeated for he said "I can do all things through Christ who strengtheneth me." A crown of life which fadeth not away will be ours for a good fight, winning victory over the habits, temptations and struggles of our daily life.

The subject of the evening sermon was "Building Battlements,"

The Ladies' Aid Society will entertain the choir and those who took part in the "Olde folkes' concerte," in the vestry on Wednesday evening.

Milton Academy won its first baseball game of the season Saturday with the Country Day School, 11 to 3. The features of the game were the three-bagger of Capt. The batteries were; for Milton: Felton, Clark and Swigget; for Country Day; Morse, Newton and Thorndike.

The Board of Directors and officers of the Manufacturers Base ball league will meet in Boston on Thursday night to complete a schedule for the season. The Fore River team will be represented by their manager, Joseph M. Larkin. It is the hope of all concerned that the opening game can be played in this city on Memorial day. The local team has not decided whether to play at Merrymount Park or on the Old Colony grounds in South Quincy.

The big bowling event of the year takes place on Wednesday evening at the Coliseum alleys, when Jenner, high man of the Wollaston Tennis club, and Herb Smith, the premier roller of the Fore River league, meet in a special 10-string match for a handsome trophy offered by the members of both clubs. Since the match was announced last Friday enthusiasm has been high in both leagues, and the fans are prepared for an interesting competition. The match was arranged at the instance of the bowlers of the city who were desirous of knowing who was the better bowler. As a sporting proposition nothing better has been offered during the season.

The Wollaston Tennis Club bowling league has been singled out as the rivals of the Clan MacGregors and the Heptasophs and both have sent challenges over to the fifth ward for a special match between the high average men. In all cases the proposition is purely a sporting one.

FORMAL RAISING OF OLD GLORY

American Flag Now Floats Over City of Vera Cruz

ARRIVAL OF FUNSTON'S TROOPS

No Indication That They Will Be Landed From Transports at Present —Mexican Parade at Capital to Show Friendliness Toward Americans Permitted by President Huerta

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 28.—With all ceremony, the firing of a salute and dress parade, the American flag was raised over the division headquarters of Rear Admiral Fletcher. Over the custom house the flag has been flying since the landing of the American forces, but until now there had been no ceremony indicating the formal occupation of Vera Cruz.

Some of the refugees are responsible for an unconfirmed report that after a demonstration President Huerta became so frightened that he hid himself in a foreign legation, fearing assassination.

The transports, with Brigadier General Funston's command aboard, are off the port, but there has been no indication that the military forces will be sent ashore at this time. If the army lands, the bluejackets now on duty here will go aboard their ships, but the marines will be left for land service.

Five Americans who arrived by train from Mexico City were virtually expelled by Huerta. They had been arrested at Pachuca for no known cause. They were sent to the capital from Pachuca, where Huerta told them he would not hold them, but ordered them to leave the country.

The more friendly attitude displayed in the capital toward foreigners in the last day or two was in a measure explained when it was learned from refugees that rebel supporters in Mexico City had taken steps to change public opinion. They circulated handbills calling upon the people to protect Americans and denouncing Huerta as the cause of the landing of the American naval forces at Vera Cruz, and also as the author of false and inflammatory statements published in Mexico City.

In the handbills the people were called on to join in a big parade in order to show disapproval of Huerta's attitude and to indicate their own friendliness toward Americans. The parade took place and the fact that it was permitted by Huerta was construed as an indication of the weakening of his power.

The rebels are said to have been gaining ground in the territory close to Mexico City. Four hundred federal wounded were brought into the capital from nearby points. Where the battle was fought the refugees did not know.

A train which reached here brought many British, German and French residents, but only five Americans. None of them came direct from Mexico City. Some of them had been prisoners of the federals at Cordoba, others at Soledad, the headquarters of General Maas. The latter had been released by him as a result of the urgent representations of Consul Canada, and were permitted to join the foreign refugee train.

Another train is due to arrive here, and it is understood that many Americans are aboard.

Refugees say that prior to the change in sentiment at the capital, four Americans were seized by one of the mobs, which insisted upon lynching them. Their lives were saved by the intervention of the police, whose commander promised the rioters he would shoot the prisoners, but promptly released them.

BLOODSHED IN MINE DISTRICT

President Wants It to Come to a Speedy End

HE APPEALS TO ROCKEFELLER

Son of Oil Magnate Has Charge of Situation Which Has Become Most Alarming—Governor Confesses Impotence of Local Authorities and Asks Government to Intervene

Washington, April 28.—President Wilson has made a personal appeal to John D. Rockefeller to bring about a settlement of the Colorado coal strike and end the violence which has cost a score of lives and large property losses.

Rockefeller, who owns a large part of the mines affected by the strike, in response to a telegram from the president, declared he had turned over his interests in Colorado to his son, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whom he would ask to co-operate with Chairman Foster of the house committee on mines and mining. The president sent Foster to New York to talk with the younger Rockefeller.

Upon the outcome of the conference depends whether federal troops, which have been asked for by all sides of the controversy, will be sent to the strike zone.

Recently the younger Rockefeller, at a hearing of the mines committee of the house, said the mine owners would fight to the end, even though they lost all they had invested in Colorado. Since then the conflict has raged with all the horrors of actual warfare. The president, cabinet officers, senators and congressmen have been flooded with telegrams describing the most grewsome happenings and terrible scenes.

"Nothing that happened in Mexico," said a cabinet official, "compared with the awful things that have occurred in Colorado. The public mind has for the moment been centred on Mexico and has not observed the great domestic struggle between the strike breakers and the miners and militia in Colorado."

Colorado's bloody reign of terror and campaign of assassination rivalled the Mexican crisis in the president's attention. Hundreds of telegrams demanding that federal troops be rushed to the Trinidad coal fields to restore order deluged the chief executive. On his desk was the formal request of Governor Ammons asking that the nation assume police powers in the troubled zone and confessing impotence of the local authorities.

The order to send troops in has already been prepared. It would have been issued Sunday night, but Chairman Foster of the mines and mining committee of the house suggested that it be held up while he and his colleagues, who have recently returned from an investigation of the strike zone, made one final effort to force a settlement.

During the last two days all of the details of the killing of women, children, striking miners and mine guards have been brought to the president's personal attention. The charges of the union officials of the Colorado strike district that the national guard of Colorado has been seized by the mine owners and filled with professional gunmen to exterminate the strikers have also been emphasized.

Most of the telegrams received at the White House follow the same general line. One signed by the mayor and a committee named by a mass meeting held in Colorado Springs said that men of both sides have ruthlessly killed women and children.

The officials of the Colorado State Federation of Labor and of local unions everywhere in Colorado wired their demands for action. They accuse the state officials of countenancing the most lawless acts and say the local authorities in the strike zone are carrying out the will of the mine owners.

All of the big coal companies in Colorado, through their general managers, telegraphed for troops, placing the blame for all of the trouble on the strikers and their leaders. The general manager of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company wired the president that unless federal troops are sent every coal official in Colorado will be assassinated.

No Arbitration

New York, April 28.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., told Representative Foster, chairman of the house committee on mines and mining, that he (Rockefeller) was in no position to arbitrate the labor troubles in the Colorado coal fields. Foster came to New York as the personal representative of President Wilson.

Neither Rockefeller nor his personal counsel would discuss the matter.

A SMOKING CASE

Story of a Woman's Exchange

By EDITH V. ROSS

After Chester Barnes turned his thirtieth birthday, having tired of society, when he came to his room from business in the evening he found it irksome to get into evening dress. So he dined in business clothes, thinking he would dress after dinner for any function to which he might have been invited—for the theater, opera or whatever entertainment was in store for him. But after dinner he found it more difficult to exert himself than before and, sitting down to his evening paper or a book, failed to arise till 10 or 11 o'clock, to get into his pajamas and go to bed. After having done this quite continuously for a few months, one evening he mused thus:

"There's no use denying the fact any longer that I've outgrown social, or, rather, society, life, which is hollow, selfish and altogether unprofitable. I'm getting out of it very fast and will never go back to it. I can't marry because the girls I associate with are all brought up to spend money, and I am not earning enough to supply my own wants. As for marrying a helpmate, I can't do that because I don't know any girls of that kind. Being forced to live in bachelor quarters alone, I'll procure books from the libraries and read. But first I must get the bareness out of this room and make it as homelike as possible."

Mr. Barnes consulted with an elderly lady friend as to how he might get the "bareness" out of his room and was advised to buy a few attractive pictures to cover the walls and knicknacks to adorn his furniture. He bought the pictures, and, as for the knicknacks, he found a profusion of articles that no man would ever have thought of at a woman's exchange. One thing he purchased there which only a woman would have dreamed of, though it was useful to the sterner sex, was a case for smoker's articles made of a woolen fabric bound with silk and decorated with a number of beautiful bowknots.

Barnes laughed at this when he saw it, but bought it because it was so distinctly feminine. When he got it to his room he hung it on the wall, stringing his pipes along the chain of loops, expecting to keep them there till the smoking case became odoriferous. He also dropped a rubber tobacco pouch in a pocket probably intended for it by the fair smoker, then sat down in his easy chair to admire his decorations.

They all looked attractive and were a great improvement to the room. But there was still something wanting. Barnes knew very well what it was. He had got rid of the bareness, but not the loneliness. Going to his smoking case, he selected a pipe and took his tobacco pouch from its pocket. With it out came a bit of paper, which floated down to the floor. He picked it up and read in a feminine hand as follows:

Lonely Bachelor—If this work of my hands fails to such, I sympathize with you in your loneliness. Perhaps when you read this you will be passing an evening by yourself in your room. If so think of the girl who is doing the same after teaching all day, making things like this smoking case to help to keep herself alive. By the bye, don't you think I struck a bright idea when I thought of making it?

Ned thought she struck a brighter idea when she put this missive in it, though at first he was disposed to consider her doing so a trifle—well, a trifle irregular, but it occurred to him that a girl stupid enough to make a smoking case out of wool and silk, adorned with bowknots, might suppose she could put out such a message without her identity being discovered. However, there is something attractive to men in woman's misconception of man's requirements, and vice versa. At any rate, Ned was very much interested in his find.

He was more than interested. He was sensibly, or, rather, sentimentally, affected by the sympathy of this poor girl, who was like himself yearning for something which nature intended for her, but which she was denied. He lighted his pipe and began puffing clouds of smoke, through which he formed conceptions of her. Was she dark? Was she fair? Was she disposed to be merry? How would she look sitting on the other side of the table doing some bit of needlework, not to sell to strangers, but for some one she loved?

This simple picture grew into others, yet all of the same kind. The room became one of a number. There was a faint cry. She arose and went to an adjoining room, from which it had issued. There was a lullaby, which in a few minutes ceased. The dreamer arose and looked into the room where the woman and child were and saw the baby sleeping, the mother bending over it.

Leaving the child, they walked back, hand in hand, and, drawing a sofa before the fireplace, sat together and, whispering, laid plans, in which the little sleeper was the central figure.

The dream changed. He came home after business to meet her at the door, and she gave him a kiss mechanically, for she was troubled. She told him that their oldest child, now a boy of seven, was ill. The doctor had been called for and would soon be there. Going upstairs, the father put his hand on his child's hot brow and spoke tenderly to the little sufferer. Then he turned away, mutely pressing the mother's hand.

The doctor came, and after an examination a serious look settled on his face. Then followed a night of anxious watching and waiting, while the child tossed and moaned, and every moan cut the parents' hearts like a knife. The doctor came again in the morning and looked graver than yesterday. Before he left he told the man and wife to be prepared for the worst.

In the night a change came. Two alternatives arose before the dream, one that the woman came out of the sickroom with a blighted look on her face, saying, "It's all over." He groaned and shut the vision out by closing his eyes. When he opened them the other alternative was before him. "Ned, there is a change. He is sleeping quietly, and his skin is moist." He went to the sickroom and put his hand on the child's cheek, then turned and, clasping the mother in his arms, said fervently, "Thank God!"

Day dreams as well as those that come in sleep shift quickly. Ned saw himself prosperous, rich. He sat at one end of a dining table, his wife at the other, with children of all ages on either hand. The oldest was now a sturdy collegian, who had carried all the honors of his class; the next, a girl of nineteen, just engaged to one of her brother's classmates, while the others, boys and girls, rattled their knives and forks, making a greater clatter by all talking at once.

"Do you remember, dear," he said, "that smoking case you made of some woolen stuff bespattered with bowknots? That was the stupidest thing you ever did in your life. I can't imagine anything more ridiculous. Ha, ha!"

Ned Barnes had gradually been succumbing to the quieting influences of tobacco, and when he spoke these words he was dreaming in slumber. His loud "Ha, ha!" awakened him.

"By Jove," he exclaimed, yawning; "my dream must have been part while awake and part sleeping! I'd like to dream it all over again. No; not that part about the child dying! No, no!"

He shuddered and gave a quick pull at his pipe. But no smoke came. It had gone out. Laying it aside, he arose, undressed and went to bed. But before going to sleep he made a resolution with a view of turning his dream into a reality, and the next day he put it into practice.

"Can you tell me," he said to the manager of the woman's exchange, "who made the smoking case I bought here the other day?"

The woman hesitated, asked why he wished to know, consulted with another woman, then said that the article had been made by a young girl whose necessities were considerable. If giving her address would be of any benefit to her it would be given. Barnes said that it would. He had been so pleased with the article she had made that he would like a dozen of them. To this the lady replied that he could order a dozen through her, but he said in so large an order he would prefer to deal directly with the manufacturer. After much delay he finally got the address.

Ned was tempted to write the girl that he had purchased her smoking case and had received her missive; but, deeming this incautious, he set about finding some one who would give him an introduction to her. He at length succeeded in this and found in the girl he sought one whose family had in former days been prominent, but whose property had melted away. She had never known anything but adversity, though she had inherited from her mother the manner of a lady. She was rather pretty and generally attractive. Barnes, under the influence of the episode of which she was ignorant, took quite a fancy to her. He followed up the acquaintance, and gradually it appeared to him that, though she was stupid on the surface, beneath was a deep current of common sense.

Since she was the only girl he knew with whom he could begin married life on practical principles, he resolved to ask her to marry him. He preceded his proposition by taking from his pocket the missive he had found in the smoking case and handed it to her. She read it and looked up at him with cheeks aflame.

"Where did you get it?" she asked.

"I bought the smoking case you sold through the woman's exchange. You ask in the note if I don't think you struck a bright idea in making the smoking case. I certainly do. I reciprocate all the rest you said and propose to end our mutual loneliness by a union. Will you marry me?"

That was a dozen or fifteen years ago. Mrs. Barnes proved an admirable manager, thus giving her husband a great advantage in making a living as well as laying up a competence. Besides this, as a family man he gained that concentration which he had lacked before his marriage. Thirdly, as soon as he had a wife and children to take care of all his friends were disposed to help him. The consequence is that today the substance of his dream has come to pass—he is prosperous and happy, with a loving family.

The smoking case is treasured in the Barnes family. When the children ask what it is their father facetiously tells them that it is a monument of mamma's genius, but when they ask how it is so and a girl asks the question he tells her that he hopes she will show as much talent for getting a husband as her mother. If one of his sons makes inquiries about it the father simply tells him that it is an evidence of women's understanding of the requirements of men.

British Expedition to Tibet Reports Curious Atmospheric Effect.

The perils of a mission into a hostile country are described in a communication to the National Geographic society at Washington by Sir Francis Younghusband, who headed the British mission to Lassa, Tibet. Sir Francis is now paying his first visit to America after having spent more than twenty years on the frontier and in India.

It was suspected that secret negotiations were being carried on between the Tibetans and Russia which would be detrimental to England, with her vast interests in India. Therefore it was decided to send a party to the sacred city of Lassa itself. The escort, of Sir Francis at the start—200—was swelled to 4,200 native Indian and 800 British troops.

The hardships of the winter trip over the Himalayas, fruitless negotiations with the Tibetan military leaders and priests and two months' siege endured by Sir Francis and 500 of his men while surrounded by 20,000 Tibetans in a small inclosure on a high plateau are described, together with the final signing of the treaty in the palace of the dalai lama in the Forbidden City and the peaceful journey back to India.

Sir Francis tells of newspaper comments as to the "dignity and bravery" of the Tibetan troops, who, when forced to retreat, moved at the rate of but two miles an hour. "It was not bravery or dignity so much as altitude," he says. "Later we had occasions to retreat for short distances ourselves and, although extremely desirous of making good time, found it impossible to run or walk faster than two miles an hour. In addition, owing to the rarity of the mountain atmosphere, shells from the guns of our mountain battery traveled about twice the distance on the same charge of powder as they would have done at sea level. Bullets from the rifles behaved the same way, and we were compelled to revise completely our system of sighting our firearms."

The people of Tibet believe the soul of the dalai lama never dies. Upon his death it passes to the body of a babe born as near as possible to the time of the dissolution. The new lama comes into his full rights on his eighteenth birthday.

VINCENT ASTOR'S ACTIVITIES.

Young Millionaire a Worker and Keenly Interested In Public Welfare.

Vincent Astor, whose illness has interfered with his wedding plans, is the fifth in descent from the original John Jacob Astor. He is twenty-three years old. His father, John Jacob Astor, was one of the heroes of the Titanic disaster, on April 14, 1912. When his father's will was read Vincent Astor found himself in possession of the greater part of an estate valued at $87,000,000.

Soon after the tragic death of his father Mr. Astor gave up his course at Harvard and entered into the active management of his property. He found time, however, to study social questions and kept in touch with political and economical conditions. He made arrangements for the building near Rhinebeck of a children's home as a memorial to his father. He also became interested in the welfare of the New York police department and offered prizes for athletics in connection with the board of education.

Mr. Astor is especially fond of yachting as a recreation and has continued the giving of prize cups which his father had donated through the New York Yacht club.

The engagement of Mr. Astor and Miss Helen Dinsmore Huntington was announced last November.

King's New Style Hat.

King George V. has introduced a new style in "bowler" hats—or derby hats, as they are called in America. The height of the crown is at least six and a quarter inches. That is an inch more than the average crown. The top is almost square and not rounded like the ordinary "bowler" hat, and the brim is quite extraordinary.

HIGH FLARE SPRING HAT.

Since small shapes prevail, trimming must be measured accordingly, so a ribbon that seems part of the brim and a bunch of wood violets complete a violet and brown hat for a brown suit.

GOVERNOR WALSH

reputation of Clan MacGregor.

C. M. Duggan was introduced and stated that he was well acquainted with many clansmen, and because of this he was almost intimately acquainted with much of the history of Clan MacGregor. He sang one of his own compositions, dedicated to Clan MacGregor. Space forbids giving more than the last verse:

Farewell, each lowland valley, farewell each highland crag,
Tonight we proudly rally, beneath Columbia's flag.
Beneath Columbia's flag, each clansman's bosom thrills
Who'd give Columbia's freedom to Scotia's heath clad hills.

Mr. Duggan's effort was well received.

Chief Martin called on His Honor Judge Avery. The judge was in a very humorous vein. He stated that he had to listen sometimes to a number of Scotchmen within the bar, but very seldom were any Scotchmen before the bar.

He stated that the term "gringoe," as used by the Mexicans when designating our citizens, was on account of the fact that one of the songs sung by our soldiers during the last Mexican War was one of Robert Burns' songs namely "Green grows the rushes, O." The Mexicans pronounced the two first words as "Gring goes" hence the term "Gringoes."

Supt. of Schools Barbour talked on the duties of citizenship.

Senator Langelier spoke on the trials of a Legislator, particularly in connection with such bills as the so-called "Bachelor tax bill."

The following named gentlemen were on the platform, besides the speakers: School Committeeman John D. Mackay, Dr. John oGrdon, Representatives Sandberg and Sullivan, President of Manufacturers' Association, Alfred O. Diack, Robert Maver and ex-City Solicitor John W. McAnarney.

Clansman McAnarney concluded the evening's exercises by speaking on the duties of a clansman, after which everyone joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne."

The meeting was like all Clan MacGregor's enterprises, a complete success and there is no telling what this large organization will attempt to do next.

SURPRISE AND PRESENTATION

Miss Eva Rice, one of the popular soloists at St. John's Catholic church was tendered a surprise party by her young men and women friends at her home on Standish avenue on Monday evening, the occasion being her birthday. There were 60 well known young people in the party.

Miss Rice was given a gold watch and chatelaine pin, the presentation speech being made by Miss Mary Lyons. So complete was her surprise she was hardly able to make a short speech of acceptance.

A social program was inaugurated by Miss Catherine Brown who rendered several vocal solos. Miss Rice rendered several of the popular songs as did Charles Brown. ames were enjoyed and about 11 o'clock, tasty refreshments were served. The party broke up with the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

KINCAIDE THEATRE.

Large audiences yesterday afternoon and evening were delighted with the splendid show Manager Wardwell is offering for the first half week. In fact, one would have to go many miles to witness a more thoroughly enjoyable entertainment.

El Barto proved a very clever magician, and in personal appearance he is a double of President Wilson. McRae & LaPorte pleased immensely with their comical acrobatic stunts. Ben Linn, billed as 300 lbs. of comedy, was all that and then some more. He kept the audience roaring with laughter and his songs were well rendered. George Dury Hart & Co. presented a very pleasing dramatic sektch styled "The Pardon."

The photo plays are all mighty good. One of the most amusing pictures ever presented in this playhouse is "All on account of a Hat." It caused continuous uproar of laughter. Manager Wardwell had pictures taken of the convention in Quincy recently of the Massachusetts Retail Grocers; and these are being shown now. The 2-reel feature "The Helpful Sisterhood" was watched with great interest from start to finish.

Kuntz of Brooklyn, N. Y. The announcement was sent to J. L. Drew of 115 Broadway, N. Y., from the office of W. G. Nickerson & Co., of 59 Congress street, Boston, where Mr. Winter is employed.

CO. K. LOYAL.

Hingham, April 27—Co. K. 5th Regiment gathered in the armory here tonight to drill and the entire company, as at present constituted, answered to the roll. Captain Walter L. Bouve, was in command. Patriotism was high throughout the evening and at the meeting of the company it was voted to volunteer if President Wilson called for the assistance of the Massachusetts National Guard during the Mexican trouble.

Capt. Bouve announced that he had received orders to recruit his company to its maximum war footing of 150 members and express his great pleasure at finding the spirit of real loyalty among the members.

Seven recruits were added to the company, swelling the quota to 67. The armory will be open each evening for this purpose. The recruits will be given special drill so as to rapidly attain the high standard of the other members of the company.

LED IN SINGING AMERICA.

Rt. Rev. Mgr. Ambrose F. Roache, pastor of St. Patricks Church at Watertown, chaplain of the Catholic Federation of Middlesex County, led a patriotic outburst at Medford Sunday evening at a public meeting of the Federation. As Mgr. Roche finished an eloquent address he suggested that "America" be sung, and when the pianist was not prepared he took his seat at the piano and played the full verses of the song. The entire audience arose and sang with fevor after which he led and played Eickbergs hymn, "To Thee O Country." Mgr. Roche is a musician of note and possesses a strong, well modulated bass voice.

Abrahams in company with others was at work near the battleship Nevada. He was struck by a block of lumber, causing the fracture. He was treated at the Red Cross hospital by Dr. W. F. Blanchard who ordered his removal to the hospital.

ACCIDENT TO AUTO.

A small Oakland touring car, owned by the American Radiator Co., of Boston, and operated by J. A. Lawrence, came to grief opposite the store of Forbes & Barry on Hancock street at 10.15 this morning when the front axle snapped. Because of the slow speed the machine was making it was carried along less than 10 feet by its own momentum, stopping before it crashed into a service car of the Bay State street railway. Riding with the operator was an estimator of the company who declined to give his name. Both escaped with a slight shaking up. The auto was taken away by an emergency crew.

NEW PRESIDENT AT SHIPYARD

J. W. Powell Comes From the Cramps Shipyard at Philadelphia

Will Assume Duties Next Week and Become Resident of City

J. W. Powell, for several years assistant to the president of the William Cramp & Sons Shipbuilding Company of Philadelphia, was elected Tuesday, as president of the Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation of Quincy, to succeed Rear Admiral Francis T. Bowles, who resigned ten days ago.

Mr. Powell was in Quincy on Tuesday, at the Fore River plant, looking it over and it was announced that he would assume the duties as president of the corporation next Wednesday.

Mr. Powell, who is about 38 or 39 years of age, was formerly a naval constructor in the United States Navy, but for several years has been assistant to the president at the Cramps shipyard. He is said to be a very energetic official.

While it is not generally known as yet what the plans of the new president are, it is more than probable that he wil make his home in Quincy.

QUINCY LOYAL ORANGE LODGE

Quincy Loyal Orange Lodge entertained two grand officers in Protection hall Tuesday evening, District Master J. McLeod of Hyde Park, who was appointed to the office a week ago and John Collins of Hyde Park, district director of ceremonies.

Mr. McLeod addressed the lodge for the first time and urged the members to continue their loyalty to their order in the future as in the past. He spoke of the great work done through the organization, and concluded his speech in terms complimentary to the Quincy lodge. The remarks of Mr. Collins were along the same lines.

Worthy Master Andrew Stewart presided and presented the visitors. Among the business acted upon was the acceptance of the applications of three Quincy men for membership. It was reported that Richard Rendle, a popular member who was ill the greater part of the winter, had recovered.

Miss Lane Gives Instructive Talk on Pageants

Miss Georgiana C. Lane lectured before the Quincy Historical Society on Tuesday evening on "Pageants." The meeting was held in the chapel of the First Parish church and was well attended.

Brooks Adams, president of the society, presided, and before presenting Miss Lane gave a short talk on the advisability of giving pageants from an educational and not from a commercial point of view.

Miss Lane told of the possibilities of a pageant and selected five episodes of early Massachusetts history which were illustarted by tableaux, given under the direction of Miss Lillian Newman.

"Anne Hutchinson" was represented by Miss Carlena Walker, "John Wheelwright" by Allen W. Walker; Dorothy Hancock" by Miss Louise Steele; "Abigail Adams" and "Little John Adams" by Miss Lela Smith and Roger Nowland; "Christopher Gardiner by Bruce Saville.

The tableaux were attractive features of Miss Lane's entertaining and instructive lecture. During the evening vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. James H. Slade with Mrs. Paul R. Blackmar as accompanist.

A QUINCY SELECTMAN

Death of Charles N. Ditson Leaves But Three

The quartette of former members of the Boards of Selectmen of the Town of Quincy previous to 1889, was broken this morning by the death of Charles N. Ditson of Brighton who served in 1871. The three remaining members are John Q. A. Field, George Harvey Field and Walter H. Ripley.

Mr. Ditson was probably born in Quincy, his father William Ditson being a manufacturer of boots and shoes here. The Ditson homestead was on Washington street, the present site of the Y. M. C. A. building and was moved to Canal street between Brackett and Field streets. At one time Charles N. Ditson was in the grocery business in the store now occupied by Arthur W. Stetson on Washington street. He was also a member of the volunteer fire department attached to the John W. Hall hook and ladder when located on Revere road. He left Quincy about 15 years ago and has resided in Brighton A widow and two sons William and Ernest survive him.

MASONIC TEMPLE FAVORED

Committee Authorized to Build at Wollaston

The indications are that before many months have passed, a long felt want of Wollaston Masonic lodge will be realized, and that they will have a Temple. The lodge has been growing very fast of late years and its present quarters, in Odd Fellows hall are entirely inadequate in many ways.

The subject of securing a new lodge room has been talked several times but nothing definite has been done, as it was thought that when a move was made that the lodge should have a Temple of its own. The members believe the time to consummate that desire is now ripe.

A special communication of the lodge was held Tuesday evening to consider the subject. The meeting was very largely attended and the question thoroughly debated, after which the committe was authorized to go ahead.

Just where the Temple will be located, or how expensive a structure will be erected, has not been decided. The general sentiment however seemed to be in favor of getting to work immediately so that ground could be broken and the corner stone laid early this summer.

WHIST PARTY.

Miss Sarah C. Williams held a matinee whist in Protection hall on Tuesday afternoon for the benefit of Maple lodge, Knights and Ladies of Honor. There was a large attendance. The scores ran high and the winners were Mrs. A. C. Smith, Mrs. M. Driscoll, Mrs. E. E. Field, Mrs. S. Hughes, Mrs B. Walsh, Mrs. M. Stratton, Mrs. J. E Poland.

SUMMONED INTO COURT

For Storing Junk in Violation of Ordinances

War has been declared on those people who are violating the ordinance passed by the City Council last year which prohibits the storing of junk without a license. The ordinance has never been tried out in court so that David Silverman and Isaac Cutler will have the honor of being the first junk men to be brought before the court on the charge of storing junk without first obtaining a license from the city.

The two men were summoned into court this morning by Chief of Police Burrell and entered a plea of not guilty. Their cases were then continued under a personal recognizance until Saturday. It was announced in court that the two defendants would be represented by counsel at that time, and that the counsel secured was none other than Councilman William P. Thompson, who by the way is a member of the Committee on Licenses, who during the past three weeks have been considering the applications of these same two defendants for licenses to drive wagons for the collection of junk.

When the Committee on Licenses made a visit a year ago to the premises of those parties holding licenses to drive wagons for the collection of junk, they found several places where quantities of old junk was stored, and that the parties owning the junk did not hold any Quincy license, but that they were collecting junk in other towns and bringing it into Quincy. In order to regulate this so called nuisance an ordinance was framed and passed.

It is known as Ordinance No. 50, and provides that no person, unless licensed to do so, shall keep or store in any building, or upon any premises within the limits of the City of Quincy. The ordinance however did not apply to a person holding a license to drive a wagon for the collection of junk in Quincy. The fee for said license was fixed at $10, and the penalty for violation at not less than $10 nor more than $20 for each offense.

It will be interesting, especially to those men who have applied to the City Council for junk collectors licenses and have been turned down, to learn how the courts will interpret the ordinance.

After court the two men paid a visit to the office of Mayor Miller to get him to call off his police, but they got but little satisfaction. The Mayor told them that they knew what the law was, and that if they had been violating the law that it was their own hunt, and he declined to interfere in any way.

DEMOCRATIC COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the Democratic City Committee will be held tonight in the Jackson building at which it is probable that a chairman will be elected to succeed the late William Kelly, who died recently after long service as a member and director. In the event of an election taking place there will be a contest for the office, and among those known to be candidates is Charles C. McHugh, chairman of the Ward Four committee. Several other matters of importance will be presented.

DISTRICT COURT.

Isaac Cutler and David Silverman were arraigned for storing junk in Quincy without a license. Cases continued until Saturday.

Harold Koler was fined $10 and Leslie Rancliffe $3 for violation of the Metropolitan Park Rules.

Charles H. Tobey was arraigned for keeping a disorderly place at Braintree. Case continued until May 2.

PETITION READY.

The petition for the new Co-operative bank at Quincy will probably be presented at the State House this week. It has 105 subscribers, and efforts will be made to sell 3,000 to 4,000 shares in series number one.

C. A. HALL PRESIDENT

Enthusiasm at Atlantic Over Co-operative Bank

A largely attended meeting of the subscribers who have petitioned for a charter for the Sagamore Co-operative bank at Atlantic was held in the Music hall building, Tuesday evening, when by-laws were adopted and organization perfected by the choice of officers and directors. Others, who regretted that they were not charter members, were present and interest in the bank is on the increase, many now realizing that a co-operative bank is a good thing for Atlantic.

Henry F. Mosses presided and Carl F. Prescott was elected and sworn as clerk. Messrs. Swain and Carpenter of a Boston law firm were both present and acted as legal advisers, all business being under the Revised Laws.

Charles A. Hall reported for the committee on by-laws, which were taken up article by article, and then adopted as a whole.

The committee on nominations reported, and after considerable debate as to method of procedure, etc., the following were elected:

President,—Charles A. Hall.

First Vice President,—Henry F. Mosses.

Second Vice President,—Harry W. Read.

Clerk,—Carl F. Prescott.

Treasurer,—Alfred S. Nelson.

Directors for three years—Charles A. Hall, Henry F. Mosses, Harry W. Read, Carl F. Prescott, Alfred S. Nelson, William Coulson.

Directors for two years,—Henry B. Barham, William L. Buckley, John A. Duggan, George R. Grueby, C. F. Letteney, Edward A. Burkhardt.

Directors for one year,—George W. Baker, Thomas L. D. Gurney, John P. Granahan, Henry Martens, James E. Packard, William N. Kenyon, Edward F. Parlee.

The officers and directors were sworn to the faithful performance of their duties.

Pledges have already been made for nearly 800 shares of stock and it is hoped that 1,500 or 2,000 shares will be sold at the opening meeting.

The bank is now duly organized and ready to begin business immediately when the charter is granted. The officers and directors are well known and stand well in the city, inspiring confidence and success.

Rev. T. W. Davison was unable to be present at the meeting, but his preliminary work and interest in the bank have helped materially.

The hearing or granting the charter will take place at the State House next Wednesday at 11 A. M., and will be largely attended by the petitioners.

SUPT. VAUGHN WILL VACATE

William Campbell Now Keeper at Almshouse

William Campbell who has had charge of the Mt. Pleasant tuberculosis camp since it was opened several years ago assumed the position as keeper of the Almshouse this morning succeeding William Vaughn who a month ago was requested to hand in his resignation April 27. Mr. Campbell takes the position under a provisional civil service appointment.

It was understood several days ago that Mr. Vaughn intended to fight but this morning it was announced that he intended to retire quietly and that he was getting ready today to move out.

THE FATE OF NATIONS.

Rev. W. G. Puddefoot, D. D., of Indiana of National prominence, will be the speaker on Tuesday evening at Bethany church; his subject will be—"The fate of the nations that know not God." The citizens of Quincy will want to hear him.

ANNUAL BANQUET GRANITE CITY CLUB

Professional Entertainers Help to Make It a Very Enjoyable Occasion

Menu Served at Alpha Hall Music by Orchestra

The annual banquet and entertainment of the Granite City club was held Tuesday evening at Alpha hall, and the evening proved to be one of the most enjoyable of the many similar affairs held by the club. The banquet was largely attended, several members bringing guests, who were made to feel at home. An air of entire informality prevailed throughout the evening which in a large way contributed to its success.

B. & J. Besse were the caterers and the menu was one calculated to please the most fastidious, it being as follows:

Olives Radishes Celery
Oyster Cocktail, Crackers
Oysters on the half shell
Tomato soup Grisini
Salmon croquettes, peas
Roast Filet de boeuf
Mashed potatoes, string beans
Rolls, Butter
Punch a la Romaine
Lobster salad
French Harlequin cream,
A la diplomate
Fancy cakes
Cheese crackers, Cafe noir

Three long tables were set lengthwise of the hall while across the hall in front of the stage was the head table at which were seated President Samuel T. MacQuarrie, Past Presidents Henry F. Tilden, Eben W. Sheppard and James H. Benniman, Vice President Nathan Ames, Treasurer John Q. Cudworth, House Committeeman Mark L. Read, Jr., Dock Commissioner Frank Fessenden Crane, and Benjamin Johnson.

As for the balance of the members, there was no regular order, each taking a seat at any table which best suited his fancy, although it was noticed that the invincible musical trio occupied seats together at the end of one of the tables.

The hour for the dinner was set at 6.30, but owing to the hall having been occupied during the afternoon by the Quincy Woman's Club it was nearer 7 o'clock when dinner was announced. In opening the exercises, President MacQuarrie briefly welcomed the members and guests, and hoped that they would have a good time. He called for a toast to those members, who although gone from us here, are not forgotten, which was drunk standing.

The dinner was then on, and for the next hour and a half everybody was busy, not only in discussing the numbers on the menu which was set before them, but in listening to the music by Morris orchestra. In addition to the orchestra the Arcadia trio sang a number of selections and solos, while the club members led by Jarvis Josselyn sang many of the popular airs of the day, the choruses of which were printed on song sheets distributed among the diners.

The several numbers by the Arcadia trio were greatly enjoyed and were very freely applauded As the dinner drew to a close Rollin H. Newcomb passed about the tables leaving an envelope at each plate containing two of John H. Johnson's best, and the result was that the air was soon full of smoke.

The dinner over seats were turned toward the platform where there was a brief entertainment by Stanley Nicholas, the well known monologist, and Charles Bailey in numerous card tricks, where the quickness of the hand mystifies the eye. On the platform with the professor were two of the club authorities on cards, but even they were unable to penetrate the manner in which the tricks were executed.

The entertainment was over shortly before 10 o'clock at which time the orchestra went to the club room in the Savings Bank Building where they gave a concert until midnight, the members suiting their own fancy, by listening to the concert or in playing billiards, pool or cards.

The affair was a most successful one in every way, and everybody had a good time. President MacQuarrie was in direct charge of the evening, and was most ably assisted by Thomas G. Smith, James H. Bailey and Rollin H. Newcomb, the clubs efficient and untiring entertainment committee.

Because a man turned out to church Easter Sunday, he can not necessarily claim to be immune for the next twelve months.

Every self respecting man of course wants to see the tango reformed, but what is he going to do when a girl snuggles up in his arms as if he were her long lost sweetheart?

There seems to be frequent intervals when our good friend Vic Huerta would have to gaze very long and attentively to distinguish the stars and stripes from an auction flag.

The recent presence of fishing parties along a stream is detected not so much by the blackened bones of fried fish as by the number of empty bottles.

After firing so many years at any old kind of manufactured target, a few live Mexicans ought to look pretty good to the navy boys.

As the Wilson-McAdoo wedding is to be quite private, the reporters will print unusually full details.

It is a mistake to get so lame working in the garden that you can't dance the tango.

Some grocers and butchers are so unreasonable as to expect their bills to be paid at this time of the year when gasoline and new tires must be bought.

New York city seems to have got back to 16th century conditions, where any man who tried to rule a city needed to wear a mail shirt.

Probably if Gen. Coxey's army of the unemployed exert themselves to the utmost, they may be able to march as much as a mile a day.

If it should turn out that one of the 21 guns of Huerta's salute was cracked, it might be necessary to go to war about it.

Although Jack Johnson is coming back for his new trial, there has been no organized rivalry among American cities to secure the honor of his presence as a permanent resident.

If you go out on the floor and do a waltz or a two-step nowadays, some frisky young tango dancer may yell out "Hello, Grandpa!"

There is always just one way for the umpire to satisfy the bleachers, and that is to hand the game over to the home team where it belongs.

There seems to be a general willingness in Congress to support the government, in case of war with Mexico, by sending Ben Tillman to the front with his pitchfork.

It might be supposed that backdoor farming was too inconsequential for the United States government to notice, but it isn't because if all backyards were properly cultivated there would be a very considerable increase in the country's food production, and that, of course, is what Uncle Sam is after all the time. Indeed, as a stimulus to this kind of farming the Department of Agriculture recently issued some simple but fundamental rules for turning a back lot into a vegetable garden or an orchard and for raising instead of buying the things which form such a large part of the summer dietary.

ARBOR DAY.

A real estate expert declared the other day that trees and shrubbery on an estate always enhance the price for which that estate can be sold. And Governor Walsh, in his Arbor day proclamation asserted that the planting of forest trees and shrubbery adds to the material wealth of the state, as well as to the aesthetic taste of all the people. Everyone who plants something on Arbor day is not only going to add to the value of his own property, but he will also contribute to the general happiness of the city, for trees and shrubbery successfully planted now are bound to increase the attractiveness and beauty of Quincy.

DISCUSSION OF TERMS TO BE KEPT SECRET

Loss of Life and Expense at Vera Cruz, Together With Further Outrages Upon Americans, Will Make Mere Salute to Flag Insufficient—Praise For Assistance Rendered by British Marines to American Refugees—Federals Destroying Railroad to Capital—European Diplomats Doing Their Utmost to Further Cause of Peace

Washington, April 29.—Unconditional acceptance is President Huerta's reply to the tender of the Latin American republics of their "good offices" to prevent war between the United States and Mexico, and the envoys are now hard at work upon their self-imposed task.

The first step will be to secure from the two governments the "terms" upon which the negotiations will be based. There is no inkling of what these may be and the White House takes pains to say that they will be kept secret, so as not to embarrass the diplomats.

The three peacemakers are proceeding slowly and carefully, gathering all the information possible from various American and Mexican sources, to the end of considering every element in the controversy. They are careful to make a distinction between the present exercise of good offices and what may come later, if the good offices advance to the stage of mediation. They take the view that their work is one of far-reaching effect, not only in the present controversy but as affecting the continued peace of the western hemisphere through the united efforts of American nations, north, south and central.

Argentine Minister Is Pilot

The three envoys have not organized formally as an international body, with chairman and other officers, except that as the meetings are held at the Argentine legation, Dr. Naon, the Argentine minister, is piloting the way.

Reports were circulated in European diplomatic quarters that one of the plans being considered contemplated a provisional commission form of government in Mexico. This was not confirmed by those acquainted with the work of the envoys, and it was stated in their behalf that this and other reports likely to be circulated could be set down as entirely speculative in the present stage of the negotiations, or as calculated to embarrass their efforts.

One of the possible plans which might be considered would contemplate the establishment of a committee representing all Mexican factions, to take charge of Mexico pending the election of a president and the founding of a stable government. This plan was discussed in Washington and Mexico City some time ago. It also was considered at a conference between Ambassador Gerard at Berlin and Mexican Ambassador de la Barra on his way to Japan some time ago.

Salute Not Sufficient

It may be taken for granted, however, that in view of the loss of life suffered and the expense caused to the United States in the occupation of Vera Cruz, together with the added outrages to American officials and American citizens, a mere salute to the American flag will not now be sufficient. Nothing short of the elimination of Huerta will satisfy President Wilson and this may very well be made the keystone of the administration's arch of "terms."

If the situation in Mexico City is accurately represented by the dispatches the sentiment against Huerta has become so strong that it dared manifest itself in an anti-Huerta demonstration. This, with the continued success of the constitutional armies and the posible pressure, not only of the European powers but possibly those of Latin America, may induce the dictator to resign.

The cruel treatment of American prisoners, women and children, by General Maas at Cordoba, will not tend to create a good impression. Fortunately most of the Americans are either out of Mexico or near to deliverance.

Assistance Appreciated

The assistance rendered by the British to American refugees will win much praise. A detachment of royal marines has gone forty miles inland to bring out beleagured citizens of the United States. The British admiral at Tampico told Admiral Mayo: "I will go in and bring refugees to you." The American fleet had withdrawn from before the city because it acted as an irritant and endangered all foreigners.

The railroad between Vera Cruz and Mexico City is being rapidly destroyed between Tejeria and the capital. The ties are being burned and rails loaded on cars and carried away.

Rear Admiral Mayo reported that the federal forces at Tampico are making further overtures to the constitutionalists for a combination against the United States. The constiutionalists are still firing.

Europe In Sympathy

Secretary Bryan was called upon by ambassadors and ministers of European as well as South American countries.

Among the visitors was the French ambassador, M. Jusserand, who expressed the warm sympathy of his country in the cause of mediation. With the exception of the three South American countries, no power has taken any official action, although the European diplomats are doing their utmost to further the cause of peace.

Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, also was one of Secretary Bryan's callers, his purpose being to report the results of the interview held in the Mexican capital by Sir Lionel Carden, the British minister, with Huerta. Carden strongly impressed upon Huerta the opinion of his government that he should promptly accept the good offices tendered by the three South American republics.

AT FIVE MINUTES' NOTICE

Pershing Says Troops on Border Are Ready to Take the Field

El Paso, Tex., April 29.—The division of troops now on the Mexican border is prepared to take the field at five minutes' notice, fully equipped for a long and severe campaign, according to Brigadier General Pershing, who took over the command of the United States forces gathered here.

Pershing said the troops had been supplied with thirty days' field rations and sufficient ammunition and supplies to carry them through any campaign the war department might deem necessary.

Pershing, who arrived with the last sections of the Sixth and Sixteenth infantry regiments from San Francisco, made an immediate inspection of the border patrols. He established his headquarters at Fort Bliss, but the Sixth and Sixteenth regiments encamped in El Paso.

Colonel Hatfield, who was relieved by Pershing, has been ordered to take command of the Second cavalry brigade which is scattered along the Arizona border.

FEDERALS BURNING TOWNS

Method of Preventing Possible Occupation by Americans

Laredo, Tex., April 29.—A party of twenty men from this city who left Nuevo Laredo over the National lines with a locomotive and water car, to bring back a train abandoned by the federals, who evacuated and destroyed Nuevo Laredo on Saturday, have returned here.

They brought an interesting story of what they say. At Sanchez the federals destroyed buildings with dynamite and fire and burned the telegraph poles. Not a building remains at that place. At Lajitia, thirty miles from Nuevo Laredo, the town was found a mass of ruins, not one of about forty buildings being left standing. The railroad bridge at the place was destroyed.

It appears that the federals are carrying out the threat made when they left Nuevo Laredo that they would destroy every town between Nuevo Laredo and Monterey, rather than leave them intact for possible occupation by the Americans.

UNDER DRUNKEN KEEPERS

Americans Jeered In Jail and Threatened With Death

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 29.—Sleeping on the stone flagging of a jail, with insufficient food, no sanitation, and threatened every night with assassination by drunken jailers, is the lot of the Americans and other foreigners, including women and children, confined at Cordoba.

Their release has been promised by General Maas in a reply to a request from American Consul Canada through a messenger who has just returned to Vera Cruz.

W. H. Mexling, of the geographical survey of Canada, spent two days at Cordoba. He was detained, but not put in jail, and finally was allowed to proceed here as an Englishman, though he is in reality an American.

Mexling went to the jail in Cordoba and there talked to the prisoners, among whom are several with whom he is acquainted. They begged him to communicate their plight to Consul Canada and Rear Admiral Fletcher.

The prisoners are herded like cattle, and are jeered almost constantly either by the keepers or the Mexican inmates of the jail. There are several women and children and the total number of all nationalities, according to Mexling, is eighty-five.

MAYO'S ACTION JUSTIFIED

Admiral Quits Tampico to Insure the Safety of Foreigners

Washington, April 29.—The reason for withdrawing the naval forces under Admiral Mayo from Tampico, says an official statement by the navy department, was that Mayo was informed by persons intimately in touch with the situation at Tampico that it was necessary for the safety of all foreigners that the United States naval vessels should not be near the town.

He was informed that the Mexicans apparently considered war on, that the federal and constitutionalists' forces were exchanging overtures to unite their forces against the Americans, and that the presence of the United States ships near Tampico would almost surely cause the two forces to combine.

The British naval captain volunteered to send out all Americans and, therefore, Mayo decided that it was in the best interests of Americans in Tampico that his forces should not be at Tampico.

Admiral Badger agreed entirely with Mayo and the department indorsed the action. Results have justified the action.

IS JEALOUS OF VILLA

Herrera, Rebel Cavalry Chief, May Head New Revolt

El Paso, Tex., April 29.—General Herrera still is a disturbing element in the Villa-Carranza alliance, and with his 8000 cavalrymen he is in a position to cause Villa a great deal of trouble.

While it is announced that Herrera has consented to return to his command, it is known that he will not go from Chihuahua pleased at the outcome of the conference. When Villa was put in command of the rebel troops in Chihuahua he succeeded Herrera. Villa at that time had but a few men, his army having deserted him to go with Orozco. Herrera had about 6000 cavalry. Herrera submitted to the change, but he never has been satisfied and he has been jealous of Villa since the rebel leader began achieving fame.

Back of the revolt which was started against Villa was the jealousy of Herrera, and the rebels frankly admit that there is no assurance that Villa can control the cavalry leader.

Semi-officially it is announced that all again is serene in rebel ranks, but unofficially it is stated that the breaking of the storm only has been postponed by Villa's determined stand at the conference in Chihuahua.

LONG LITIGATION ENDS

Postal Telegraph Wins Against the Western Union Company

Albany, April 29.—The court of appeals affirmed an order of the appellate division, which in turn affirmed an order of the public service commission, commanding the Western Union Telegraph company to cease charging the Postal Telegraph and Cable company an extra sum in addition to the regular telegraph toll on telegrams taken in and transmitted part way by the Postal and then handed over enroute by the Postal to the Western Union, for further transmission and delivery at exclusive Western Union points.

This litigation between the two companies has been going on for four years.

TWO HUNDRED KILLED

Chinese Pirates Swoop Down on British Vessel With Great Fury

Hong Kong, April 29.—Two hundred native passengers were killed or drowned during a desperate fight with Chinese pirates who attacked and burned the British steamship Jason near Macao.

Chief Officer Fevans is missing. Other foreign officers and 150 passengers escaped. The pirates greatly outnumbered the officers at the station and swooped down with the greatest fury.

It was only after the most desperate fighting that the survivors succeeded in getting away.

Choked to Death by Coffee

Wallingford, Conn., April 29.—A cup of coffee, swallowed in haste, caused the death of Frank Boesi, aged 45, in a local lunch room. The medical examiner's verdict was death due to choking.

Francis Joseph Holding His Own

Vienna, April 29.—A bulletin on the condition of Emperor Francis Joseph reports that it is "practically unchanged."

SOCIALIST WAR VIEW

Intervention in Mexico Not to Help Workingmen

Intimating that intervention in Mexico was not to protect the workingmen but the Rockfeller interests, Miss Ann Maley of the Rand School of Social Science, New York, discussed the situation from the Socialist points of view in Electa hall Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the local branch Miss Maley is an eloquent speaker and was roundly applauded by the audience of 150 that were present.

Her topic was the "Class struggle." She said nothing is available that does not represent the result of intelligent human energy directed against natural gifts and forces. Organized peoples have, since the rise of political society, been divided into workers and shirkers, makers and takers, non-possessing producers and non-producing possessors. These groups constitute economic classes and between and among them a great struggle has been waged. The cause of the struggle, the bone of contention, has always been the same—the right to control the wealth produced by labor. Directly, the masters have maintained their control of this wealth by control of the factors vital to the processes of production.

Miss Maley then spoke of what she termed the exploitation of labor and said it resulted in the wage-laborer, who did not attain the right to control the product of his labor because of the ownership was not his. Industry has grown and the iron man takes the place of the real man. Production increases, the market is glutted, and there is a quietness in working circles.

She then spoke of the financial owned governments, and said Socialism does not mean free bread, it means the free opportunity to get bread in government publicly owned and operated by the people.

In speaking of government ownership, she said a nation that can build a canal, can build a railroad; a city that can run a school, can run a milk depot. There is but one way to protect private right and that is by social control of the general supply.

QUINCY WOMEN'S CLUB.

Quincy Women's Club met Tuesday afternoon in Alpha hall with a large attendance. Following the secretary's report, the president Mrs. Chandler W. Smith made several announcements one of the most important being the pure food exhibition to be held in Boston in October under the auspices of the State Federation.

The co-operation of clubs was asked and the Quincy club would be expected to have a day and to serve in the tea room. In the meantime, stamps had been issued to be used on letters exploiting the coming exhibition.

The president, Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham, Mrs. Edward B. Marsh and Miss Harriet E. Turner were elected delegates to the annual meeting of the State Federation at Worcester May 20, 21. The club was also asked to send delegates to the peace conference at Springfield May 4-5.

The next meeting of the club would be the annual held at the clubhouse. Officers and chairmen of committees were asked to be prepared with their reports. There would be an exhibition of pure food, Westfield standard. Postcards of the clubhouse are on sale at all meetings. According to by-laws any club member not paying her annual dues before May 1st would be dropped from the club without further notice.

Mrs. Mellen of the Educational committee spoke of the annual May Festival to be held at Music hall Friday afternoon and asked for donations of candy, grabs, etc. Also announced that no tickets would be sold at the door but must be obtained in advance of her committee.

Mrs. Belcher spoke briefly for the Boston Civics club asking the co-operation of Quincy women in forming a class for Civic betterment. The class to meet twice a month for one hour each lesson. Text books and supplementary reading would be included in the 50 cents cost of each meeting.

This concluding the business of the afternoon, Mrs. Zenas S. Arnold, chairman of the Literature was introduced and announced that her committee was presenting for entertainment the first issue of the Merrymount Monthly which was also a spring number. The contents was as follows: The Cover Design represented historic Merrymount with its green knoll and cedar tree. An Indian maid near by was represented by Anna Weston.

The Frontispiece, "A portrait of a lady," by an unknown artist, was impersonated by Mrs. Chandler W. Smith and it was a pretty picture to look upon and received much applause.

For poems, Mrs. Herbert J. Gurney read two, in her usual pleasing manner.

The modern short story, a composite by Locke, Mary Wilkins, Galsworthy and Robert Hichens, was enacted in pantomime by Mrs. Jesse I. Litchfield and Mrs. George Ryder.

Signorina Sladissima (Mrs. James H. Slade) for the musical section sang two songs, one brand new "A June Morning," the other an old favorite "Good-bye Sweet Day." She was in fine voice and received much applause.

The art feature was presented in tableau, three well known paintings being given. The "Reading Homer" by Alma Tadema was done by Mrs. Spillane, Mrs. Ryder, Mrs. Howard Spear and Mrs. Alfred Hall. "Summer Noon" by Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann and Mrs. Ernest Collins; "The Three Fates" by Mrs. Frank Crane, Mrs. Edward Miller and Mrs. Alfred Hall. The three pictures were beautiful as to coloring, posing and reproductions of the originals.

Another group of poems was read by Mrs. Gurney.

The Dance was a Spanish dance in costume by four young ladies from the Sargent school of Boston, Misses Pauline Fredericks, Ethel Cleaves, Gertrude Chapman and Alice Arnold.

The serial story gave four scenes in pantomime from Romola, Mrs. Walter S. Pinkham, preceding each scene with short descriptive reading and the actors were Miss Esther Sidelinger, Mrs. Spillane and Mrs. Frank Crane.

The Editor's Drawer was bright, humorous and original from the pen of Mrs. Frederick H. Bishop.

In Lighter Vein was a series of humorous tableaux. The first "Engaged" was represented by Mrs. Wilson Marsh, Miss Margaret Milne, Mrs. Levi Turner, Mrs. A. M. Jameson, Elford Durgin and Doris Pinkham; Auntie Sam was capitally represented by Mrs. A. G. Olney; Eugenically Speaking—Looking for a fit mate by Mrs. N. S. Hunting, Mrs. C. N. Godfrey, Mrs. Carroll E. Bates, Mrs. Herbert Albee and Mrs. Spillane; En-route for Mexico received great applause. Those in the scene being two boy scouts, Carroll Wright and William Lindsay and the company Elford Durgin, Marshall and Robert Brown, Tom Capen and John Payson. Preceding this feature Mrs. Arnold read a poem clipped from Monday's New York Tribune which was most appropriate. Net Results was represented by Mrs. Walter Brady and Mrs. Litchfield and " I beg your pardon, but I thought my daughter was here" was acted by Mrs. Litchfield, Mrs. McDonough and Mrs. Oscar Blaisdell.

In this magazine there were also advertisements but not quite as many as in the modern magazine. Four were given by tableaux and made very beautiful pictures. Those representing Dutch Cleanser were Alice Arnold; Queen Louise shoes, Mrs. Charles B. Hall; Vogue, Mrs. Fenner, Baker's chocolate Pauline Fredericks.

Merrymount Monthly as a magazine was entertaining from cover to cover, the illustrations being of the best, the prose and poetry of high quality while as to make-up there was nothing left to be desired. It is hoped the editors will feel encouraged to continue the publication.

GRAND OPERA TALKS.

The fact that interest in grand opera is continually increasing in this vicinity is shown in the report from Havrah W. L. Hubbard, that nearly one hundred talks have already been booked by different clubs for next season. Many of these are evening performances, that men also may enjoy the talks. The following paragraph, by Mr. Hubbard, speaks for itself and is quoted to excite interest and thought.

"How many members of your club have ever considered the importance of having English sung in all the grand opera performances, and in all song recitals given in this country? Do they realize that we and the English are the only nations on the globe who do not have opera given in the language of the country? Do they appreciate that having opera and songs sung in English would mean recognizing the value of our mother tongue, instead of belittling it as we do? That it would give our American singers reason and chance to study and sing their own language perfectly, instead of spending all their time and energy on foreign tongues; that it would make grand opera and song recitals,—vital, educational and intellectual factors in our cultured life, instead of the largely decorative and social functions they now are; and that it could but result in encouraging American composers to set to music, English, instead of foreign librettos and texts, and could but develop originality and nationality in our musical activity, instead of fostering and compelling more or less slavish imitating of foreign models?"

QUINCY ALLIANCE.

The last meeting of the season of Quincy Branch Alliance was held Monday afternoon in the parlor of First church. As the officers are elected for two years there was no election the officers holding over for another year. After the usual business Miss Catherine Saville sang very pleasingly. Mrs. George E. Pfaffmann and Mrs. Henry M. Faxon were hostesses for the social half hour.

MANDARIN CRAPE FROCK.

Paquin designed this afternoon frock of mandarin crape, with collar of satin folded about the neck in cowboy fashion and the flounces ultra Parisian of 1914. The back girdle is draped, while the upward flare and the full back of the skirt are also in the mode.

GAY COLORS FOR SPRING.

As it should be with spring fashions, bright colors are popular. This may be due to the craze for futurist innovations, this school of art being the advocate of gayety in attire. Under these circumstances it is likely to be a trying time for the woman who has no eye for color, for some of the combinations are bizarre in the extreme and must be adapted to suit individual requirements.

OLD PEOPLE GAIN

Strength by Taking Vinol. Here Is Proof.

So many cases like this are constantly coming to our attention that we publish it for the benefit of others:—Mr. John Widmayer of Jackson Mich., says: "I am nearly 70 years of age and was in a feeble condition but Vinol has done wonders for me. It is the best medicine to create strength I have ever seen and I have taken a good many of them: Last spring I was run down and worn out but I took Vinol and soon regained my strength. Vinol is certainly an invigorating tonic for old people."

It is the medicinal curative elements of the cod livers without oil aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic ironwhich are contained in Vinol that makes it so efficient in such cases.

If you have an aged father, mother or anyone in your family who needs a strength-creating tonic, try Vinol on our offer to give back your money if it fails to benefit. E. J. Murphy, Druggist, Quincy, Mass.

ROCKLAND RAID.

Two Rockland hotels were raided on Tuesday night. At Hotel Thomas 162 bottles of beer, 23 pints of whiskey, three pints of rum, some gin and some sherry brandy were seized by Deputy Sherriff John T. Condon and Officer T. F. Kendrigan. At the Rockland house Chief of Police Stewart and Officer A. T. Minnis took 210 pints of beer and seven quarts of whiskey. No arrests were made at either hotel but summonses will be issued.

Great Climax.

"How was the play you saw last night?" "Pretty melodramatic. In the second act when the skulking villain descends upon Hickory farm and forecloses the mortgage on old Uncle Zeke's automobile there was hardly a dry eye in the house."

MRS. JOHN CORCORAN.

The funeral of Julia Corcoran, widow of the late John Corcoran, and mother of Councilman Daniel F. Corcoran, was held this morning from her home at 9 Grove street, and was largely attended by relatives and friends. A high mass of requiem was celebrated at St. Mary's church by Rev. Fr. William J. Duffy. The musical portion of the mass was the Gregorian chant, sung by the regular choir under the direction of Mrs. Mary McKay Reardon, organist. The floral remembrances included a large standing piece from the members of Ave Marie council, Knights of Columbus. Burial was in St. Marys cemetery.

MILTON 1—REVERE 1.

Milton High base ball team played its first game at home Wednesday afternoon at Cunningham Park with Revere High. The score was 1 to 1 at the end of the eleventh inning and umpire Brierley called the game off on account of darkness. It was a pitcher's battle throughout, but at the end Reiser of Milton excelled his opponent and no doubt he would have won his game if it had continued an inning or two longer. Milton's infield is still very weak, and there will have to be considerable improvement before the game with Milton Academy Saturday afternoon. Machardy and Gustafson of Milton did some good hitting the latter making a two-bagger in the sixth inning, which knocked in Machardy who made the single run for Milton.

QUINCY HIGH DEFEATED

Winthrop Scores Seven Runs in the First Inning

Quincy High lost to Winthrop High 10 to 7, at Merrymount Park Tuesday afternoon in an uninteresting game of base ball. It was slowly played, none of the local boys showing any "pep." Inability to hit, poor base running, and frequent errors was the general program.

Quincy blew up in the first innings, and seven of the visiting players crossed home. Two more scored in the second. Their last run was made in the sixth.

Quincy earned two runs in the fifth, and in the ninth the visitors blew up. Out of four hits and two passes five Reds counted. Naturally the early tallying of Winthrop was depressing on the fans, and many left for home. Those that remained changed their sentiments however when the runs commenced in the final stretch. At that Quincy could have had more if Murphy, sent in as a pinch hitter, had not fanned with three men on bases.

Lucke pitched the first seven innings for Winthrop and was succeeded by Wilson and Bond. Jordan was on the receiving end. The blow up came after Lucke was taken out.

Quincy used Sawyer in the first but sent in O'Connor who did good work until the eighth. Anderson finished the game and on a comparison performed as well as when holding down the box for the Lincolns in the grammar school league. Stedman caught throughout the game.

Winthrop, after the third, failed to make any hits and in the final innings played a "kid" game. They tried to rattle Wes Ganzel, the umpire, but he only smiled. He was the centre of a controversey between the coaches however for calling Butner out on first when he left the bag and walked toward home, on an incompleted play. On discovering that the ball had not been fielded he made a quick return, reaching there first. Ganzel declared he had forfeited his right to the bag and his ruling was finally accepted. The score by inning:

Winthrop	7	2	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	—10
Quincy	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	9	5	— 7

COLORADO IN THROES OF WAR

Fighting In Northern and Southern Parts of State

FEDERAL TROOPS ORDERED OUT

President's Action Influenced by Proclamation of Governor Ammons Declaring State of Rebellion Exists In Coal Fields—State Troops Prove Unable to Cope With the Situation

Washington, April 29.—After conferences which lasted nearly all day President Wilson decided to send government troops into Colorado to handle the strike situation. Secretary of War Garrison was instructed to order troops from the most available army posts to the seat of the labor troubles.

It was one of the rare occurrences in American history when a state found itself impotent to assert its authority, but the president, in a telegram to the Colorado governor, expressly stipulated that the federal troops would confine themselves to maintaining order only "until the state can reassert its authority and resume the enforcement thereof."

The president issued a proclamation ordering all persons engaged in domestic violence to disperse and "retire peaceably to their abodes" before April 30.

Secretary Garrison, after a conference with the president, ordered three troops of the Fifth cavalry from Fort Leavenworth and two troops of the Twelfth cavalry from Fort D. A. Russell, Wyo., to Trinidad and Canon City, respectively.

President Wilson's action was influenced by Governor Ammons' proclamation declaring that a state of rebellion existed in the coal fields. There was no hesitation after the dispatches from Denver had told of the real situation in that state.

President Wilson later wired Ammons that he had dispatched a portion of the military forces of the United States to restore order in his state.

The president at the same time requested the governor to withdraw the Colorado militia as soon as the United States troops had reached Colorado.

In State of Revolt

Denver, April 29.—The climax in the greatest industrial war that Colorado has ever seen has been reached. Governor Ammons issued a proclamation declaring that a state of rebellion exists. He called upon all citizens to rally for the suppression of lawlessness in the coal strike district.

The state troops have proven unable to cope with the situation. It has become worse as a result of the failure of President Wilson's personal representative, Congressman Foster, to secure any concession from John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whom the strikers claim to be responsible for conditions.

Fighting is going on in many places. The warfare has extended from the southern coal fields to those in the north. Complete anarchy is imminent. More than a dozen men are reported killed near Walsenburg. Fighting is severe near Boulder.

As a result of the governor's proclamation, citizens of Boulder and Longmont organized home guard companies to proceed to the coal camps and put down the warfare in that locality. Sheriff Buster is being held prisoner at the Louisville mines, according to information received shortly before the telephone and telegraph lines were cut.

The governor's proclamation places the entire state of Colorado under martial law. In his proclamation the governor does not use the term martial law, but his language means nothing else.

Court Directs Mrs. Von Claussen's Release From Matteawan

White Plains, N. Y., April 29.—Supreme Court Justice Mills handed down a decision declaring Mrs. Ida Von Claussen not insane and directing that she be released from Matteawan asylum and sent back to the Tombs in New York to await trial or an indictment charging her with sending threatening letters to Charles S. Strauss, a lawyer.

Mrs. Von Claussen first gained notoriety several years ago by threatening to sue Theodore Roosevelt, then president, for damages because, as she averred, he thwarted her plans to be presented to the King of Sweden.

DOG LIVES WITHOUT BRAIN

Body Kept Alive For Eighteen Hours After Experiment

New York, April 29.—Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, addressing the annual meeting of the Medical Society of the State of New York, said he had succeeded in keeping a body of a dog alive for eighteen hours after the brain had been removed.

He added that he had discovered that the brain and the liver exercised control over the body in a somewhat similar manner. During the course of his experiments death ensued eighteen hours after the liver of an animal had been removed.

Crile said that during the course of experiments dealing with what he has termed the Kinetic system of the body he had kept rabbits awake for 100 hours. Some of the rabbits died, however, before the 100-hour period was finished.

MINERS ARE CAUGHT IN BURNING SHAFT

Little Hope of Saving Lives of Two Hundred Men

Eccles, W. Va., April 29.—Four miners are known to be dead, fifty-nine were rescued, many of them severely burned, and 203 others are entombed in two burning mines, and are believed to have but a small chance for their lives, as the result of an explosion of gas in mines Nos. 5 and 6 of the New River Collieries company here.

The depth of the two main shafts is 600 feet, and the mines are connected underground. There are two other shafts into the mines, but the explosion totally wrecked three out of the four.

The explosion occurred in mine No. 5. The two shafts of this mine were demolished. It is believed the explosion traveled through the mine into No. 6. One shaft of the latter mine was wrecked, but the other remains intact.

DISCOVERS NEW TRIBE

Roosevelt Comes Across Savages Who Wear No Clothing

Rio de Janeiro, April 29.—Theodore Roosevelt during his journey through the unexplored regions of Brazil has discovered a tribe of savages hitherto unknown. The tribesmen, who were named Pauhates, were completely unclothed.

Captain Magalhates, chief of the Brazilian mission accompanying Mr. Roosevelt, who relates this discovery, says the party had some stirring adventures.

Roosevelt himself killed two tiger cats, each considerably over three feet in length, on the banks of the River Taquary.

The members of the expedition explored and traced the course of the River Gypirana, a tributary of the Madeira. At its junction with the Madeira it has a width of 1382 feet and a depth of 118 feet. Along its course are several strong rapids.

FAILS TO OPPOSE DECREE

Surprise at Attitude of Jerome In the Thaw Case

Concord, N. H., April 29.—Failure of William T. Jerome to file an assignment of errors to the court decree sustaining the writ of habeas corpus sought by Harry K. Thaw caused considerable surprise here when the April term of the United States district court opened.

Jerome has been very restive under the long delays, and gave every impression he would force the matter through the court the minute the session opened. His next step is waited with double interest.

Some 62 trains on the system have been cancelled and a cut has been made in the dining car, sleeping car, and pullman car service. Over 10,000 men have been laid off by this most recent reduction. There have never been any charges made of mismanagement of the Pennsylvania and the retrenchment is due to causes which seems to affect all railroads alike.—Taunton Herald.

INTIMATIONS OF SPRING IN SMART NEW TAILORED SUITS

THE peg-top silhouette in a modified form is adopted for spring suits. Demi-tailored effects are popular and give this class of garments a very dressy appearance. This is achieved by the cut and the combinations of materials or colors.

The short coat is the popular type. Some coats reach only to the waist line. Others drop just below it and have a slightly basqued effect. Cutaways are exploited, some of these being run down from the bust to a few inches below the waist in the back. Three-quarter and seven-eighth length sleeves are seen on some coats, though the full length sleeve seems to be most generally favored. As for collars, the kimono and the rolling flare collar seem to be accepted styles. The latter stands high in the back.

HANDSOME RATINE SUIT.

Whether we like it or not, the modistic authorities have decreed that boleros are to be in the lead during the early spring. Some women, of course, look charming in these abbreviated garments. The new boleros are most engaging affairs, made either with or without revers and opening over lovely brocaded or elaborately embroidered waistcoats.

Most of the advance models are of face cloth, and many of them have the high Napoleonic collars that can hardly ever fail to look smart.

Coats often have the extreme flare over the hips that the fullness of the hip lines require with pannier draperies and flaring tunics. On some coats godet flounces are used.

One thing seems settled, and that is that skirts and draperies generally are to be more voluminous. This is good news, for graceful and well managed draperies give charm to almost any figure. The ballet dancer tunics, with frills stiffened at the hem, are in all probability the forerunners of Grecian draperies that will fall in soft folds over the waist line. Waists are things of the past. We are to disdain them, even as Venus de Milo did, and swathe them out of sight in classic plaits and folds.

This classic tendency in dress is not to be wondered at after the long vogue that the natural waist has enjoyed. It is the obvious outcome of that return to nature, and the powers that preside over the world of fashion are evidently going to take full advantage of it to exploit the charms of the world's most artistic period of dress, cunningly adapting to modern requirements the beautiful flowing draperies so admired by the sculptors of ancient Greece and Rome. The short tunic is swiftly giving place to the greater elegance of long draperies.

On skirts combinations of tunics and draperies are seen. Some tunics are made with a panel. While wide over the hips, skirts still are quite narrow below. Pannier draperies are used on some models, the most successful being those on which the fullness is brought well below the hip line. Flounces are favored, the three tiered skirt being considered very smart.

The suit illustrated here is carried out in ratine, the short coat being supplemented by a satin vest. A pannier drapery in modified lines is carried out on the draped skirt.

The Crooked Street

A Story of Constantinople

By CLARISSA MACKIE

Cynthia Fulham's graceful form was poised for an instant on the steps of the Hotel Constantia. The terraced gardens of the hotel ran down to a lime shaded avenue beyond which she could glimpse the waters of the Golden Horn and the distant haziness of Constantinople.

In the foreground the white buildings and the gracefully planned mosques of Constantinople glistened beneath the rays of the midday sun. Here and there were gay awnings fluttering in the breeze that ruffled the date palms and the acacias. Above all were the glitter and color of the orient and the vague murmur characteristic of far eastern cities.

As Cynthia stood there waiting for her father to join her for a stroll through the bazaars Joseph Fulham suddenly appeared at her elbow.

"Cynthia, I'm sorry, but our stroll will have to be postponed for an hour or so. Mr. Evans has called to see me. Suppose you sit in the garden until I am at liberty."

"Very well, father. Come as soon as you can. It is such a glorious morning I would not lose a moment of it indoors."

"I'll cut the business as short as possible, dear," was Mr. Fulham's reply as he returned to the hotel.

Cynthia walked down the marble steps to the little pavilion that overlooked the sparkling sea, but presently the thought of the glittering bazaars lured her away from the garden.

"I can come back after dad by and by," she thought guiltily, for she was aware that her father would have forbidden her wandering through the city alone.

The appearance of the beautiful American girl, quite unattended, in the seething Street of the Goldbeaters created unpleasant notice.

Cynthia found dark faces thrust toward her with insolent curiosity, while the veiled women looked at her with contemptuous eyes.

Ahead of her a little party of tourists were chatting, and Cynthia wished fervently that she was one of them. There was a big, broad shouldered young man who glanced at her in a startled manner when she hurried past them.

Her cheeks flamed with embarrassment because of his evident surprise at her solitary appearance.

"I wish I had not come alone. If ever I can find my way back I will"—

A deep voice was speaking at her elbow.

"Pardon me, but I am afraid that you do not know how imprudent it is for you to wander here all alone."

Cynthia turned and saw the tall young man of the tourist party. Knowing that she had been unwise to the point of folly, Cynthia was unreasonably indignant with her well meaning countryman.

"Thank you," she returned haughtily, "but this—this incident is the first annoyance I have experienced!"

He reddened to his smoothly brushed fair hair and bowed stiffly.

"I am sorry, but I felt sure that you could not know that you were inviting danger." He replaced his hat and went away.

Angry with herself at her own discourtesy, Cynthia went on her way, unmindful that she had unwittingly turned into a small street that ran at right angles to the Street of the Goldbeaters.

Her heart beat faster as she paused before a rug shop to gather her wits about her.

Before her were displayed perfumes of the orient in queer bottles and many odd bits of Byzantine jewelry.

The shopkeeper, a snowy bearded Turk, with a large turban surmounting his dark face, was sitting cross legged on a pile of rugs.

He leaned forward and lifted a silver filigree bracelet from the heap of trinkets.

"Buy?" he coaxed in the only English word at his command.

Cynthia shook her head.

"Buy?" wheedled the old man.

"No," said Cynthia decidedly.

"Buy!" Now it was a command that issued from his skinny throat.

Cynthia glanced around quickly. The street appeared to be deserted. From the gloomy interiors of the little shops there was the glitter of inquisitive dark eyes.

The street turned sharply here, so that she could not see either end of it.

To all purposes she was alone with the villainous looking Turk on the pile of rugs.

"Buy!" he threatend again.

"No!" cried Cynthia. "I will come back later with my father."

This subterfuge was not understood by the Turk. He muttered some strange words, and, lo, apparently out of the rugs hanging about the dim doorway, there appeared several veiled women. One of them clapped a brown hand over Cynthia's mouth, and two others took her arms and hustled her into the darkness of the inner shop.

Without giving the American girl an opportunity to cry out the first woman tied a silken scarf over Cynthia's mouth, knotting it behind her head.

Then they stood back, laughing, and watched her while she beat her hands against the door of the room in a vain endeavor to escape.

Through another door entered the white bearded Turk of the shop, and when Cynthia saw him she shrank away in terror. How she longed for the protection of the young man she had flouted! If she had only taken his advice!

But the old man had snatched away her golden purse and was greedily counting over the money contained in it. It was a goodly sum, for Joseph Fulham was a rich man.

The three women crowded around and were made glad with a coin apiece. Then they gathered around Cynthia and plucked off her rings and the little brooch she wore. They quarreled over the division of the spoils.

Presently they fell to talking shrilly with the old man. Cynthia rightly guessed that they were discussing what to do with her. She did not understand that the women wanted her murdered and tossed into the Bosporus. It was the easiest way, they argued. But the man was experienced, and he was afraid of the foreigners. There had been many witnesses to his dastardly deed, and he trembled for his own safety. His plan was to hide the money and the jewels and when it was night to take the girl, blindfolded, out into the streets and let her go. She would never find her way back to his shop, and if she did the shop would be empty, for there was money enough to take him to America.

While they argued the shop remained unattended.

The tall young American, who was Hugh Markham of New York, came down the street, his blue eyes alert for a glimpse of the foolhardy girl who had spurned his protection and advice.

He passed the empty shop of the rug merchant with a careless glance, but something in the curious glances that pierced him on every side made him suspicious.

Hugh Markham paused before the counter of another perfume shop, and he had chosen well, for the yellow old man was a strong competitor and deadly rival of the Turk, who had captured Cynthia Fulham.

"What became of the young American lady?" asked Hugh sternly. "She came to buy perfumes, and she has disappeared." He hazarded this guess.

The man threw out his hands, palms upward, in a negative gesture.

"She is hidden in your shop," accused Hugh, seeking for a clew. "I will notify the police and have your place searched."

A red light came into the shifty black eyes. Here was a chance to prove his own innocence and at the same time get even with his enemy, Biji Shoosh, the rug merchant.

But it would never do to let his neighbors see that he had betrayed Biji Shoosh. So, with a hardly noticeable movement of his thumb, he pointed across the street to the empty shop, just as a woman's scream rang out and was instantly stilled.

Hugh Markham whirled about and dashed across the narrow street. Biji Shoosh's rival smiled into his black beard and returned to his pipe. The street was empty once more—only the peeking eyes from gloomy backgrounds.

Biji Shoosh had been a fool to touch the girl in broad daylight, when the streets were full of tourists, but the old man was greedy and had overstepped the bounds of prudence. These Americans would make trouble. So they wagged their heads and gossiped while they watched the door of Biji Shoosh's shop.

* * * * * * * *

Cynthia had screamed when the old Turk laid his hand on her shoulder. Little by little she had worked the bandage from her lips, and after her loud cry for help Biji Shoosh had savagely knotted the scarf so tightly that it made her dizzy.

There came the sound of an approaching whirlwind through the shop. Furniture was overturned and the muttering growls of an angry man sent the Turks cowering to the four corners of the room. Biji Shoosh turned like a wolf and flashed a glittering knife when Hugh's broad shoulder brought the flimsy door crashing into the stuffy room. The women had dragged Cynthia with them to a divan, and they were pinching her cruelly when the storm broke.

When it was over Cynthia found herself, like the heroine in a melodrama, occupying the center of the stage. Markham's arm about her in strong protection, while the old Turk lay unconscious with a blow from the American's fist. The women had been hustled into a corner, and Hugh had tied their hands with their own scarfs, but their tongues were unbridled and the Americans could not guess at the torrent of abuse that was poured forth at them.

Cynthia recovered her empty gold bag and one of her rings, but the others she would not search for.

"All I want is to get away from here," she shuddered. Presently they were out in the crooked street and later in the Street of the Goldbeaters.

Hugh took Cynthia to the Hotel Constantia and turned her over to her father's care. Mr. Fulham had just dismissed his caller and was searching for his daughter when the young couple appeared and related Cynthia's startling adventure.

"How can you forgive me for my rudeness?" asked Cynthia as she said goodby to Hugh, after her father had expressed his gratitude to their young compatriot. "I owe my life to you, Mr. Markham."

Hugh's heart said, "I shall collect that debt some day!" But his tongue merely disclaimed any credit for heroism.

Before they left Constantinople there was every reason to believe that some day Hugh Markham would keep his promise.

LIKELY TO GO ASHORE TODAY

Funston's Troops Have Not Yet Landed at Vera Cruz

COMMANDER RECEIVES ORDERS

To Relieve Navy of Duties In City and Environs but Keep In Harmony With Policy Already Established by Fletcher—Latter Releases Large Batch of Mexican Prisoners

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 29.—The naval authorities have not transferred authority on shore to General Funston.

The men from the transports, unless the present plans are changed, will go ashore today and the city will be formally taken over by Funston tomorrow.

Funston found awaiting him at Vera Cruz this order:

"Acting in compliance with instructions received from the president, the secretary of war directs that on your arrival at Vera Cruz with your command, you relieve the navy of its duties ashore incident to the occupation and control of Vera Cruz and environs.

"The secretary of war is explicitly required by the president to say to you that the president entirely approves in every respect of the course which Admiral Fletcher has pursued in the occupation, control and management of the city of Vera Cruz since his landing; that he has the greatest confidence in Admiral Fletcher's judgment; has learned to depend upon his long acquaintance with the situation there for guidance, and desires that you keep in close touch and consultation with the admiral and seek to continue in intimate harmony with him the policy he has initiated there, except so far as changes of circumstances may demand a different course.

"Orders are to be issued by the president through the navy department detaching the marine corps contingent at Vera Cruz for service with the army, the effect of which orders will be to place the marine corps contingent so detached under your command."

Admiral Fletcher telegraphed the navy department that he had taken charge of San Juan d'Ulloa prison at Vera Cruz on account of the "frightful conditions" discovered there. He said that 325 prisoners who had not been accused of any misdemeanor or crime whatever, arrested within the last two months in order to force them into the federal army, were confined in the prison.

Fletcher recommended that these be immediately released, and Secretary Daniels so ordered by telegraph. There were confined in addition forty-three persons sentenced for crime and seventy-five awaiting trial. These will be held pending further investigation of their cases by the American authorities.

The Mexican wireless station here, the largest along the coast but having only medium power, was taken over by the navy wireless officers. Lieutenant Maddox of the battleship Utah was placed in charge.

This station will form an important link in the ship and shore chain of wireless stations in case the United States forces should make further advances into Mexico. It is hardly strong enough in power to talk with Key West, but battleships, transports or other craft may be able to relay messages from it.

The wireless reports from along the coast said everything was quiet. The battleship Arkansas picked up messages from the Denver off Manzanillo on the west coast. Their nature was not disclosed.

MORE ARMS TO ULSTER

Irish Nationalists Secretly Land a Large Consignment

Londonderry, Ire., April 29.—The Irish Nationalist volunteers, a body similar in organization to the Ulster Unionist volunteers, made matters even with their political opponents by successfully landing a large consignment of arms. The weapons, which are said to have been brought from America, were taken ashore at a remote spot on the coast of the county of Donegal in the far west of Ulster.

The size of the consignment is unknown, but it is believed to have been considerable, although not equalling the 40,000 rifles and 500,000 rounds of ammunition the Unionists received on April 25.

Double Drowning Accident

Lewiston, Me., April 29.—Bertelle Clark, 9 years old, and Ambrose Rollins, 8 years, were playing about the logs in Gilman stream at North New Portland when one of the logs rolled over and the boys were drowned.

Another Reduction In Oil Prices

Findlay, O., April 29.—A further cut in oil prices was announced here. A reduction of 5 cents a barrel was made on Lima, Indian, Princeton and Illinois oils, and Wooster was reduced 10 cents a barrel.

Prison For City Official

St. Louis, April 29.—Fred Gerold, former city treasurer of East St. Louis, Ills., was sentenced to imprisonment in the penitentiary for from one to ten years for withholding city funds.

GRADUATIONS JUNE 19

School Committee Adopt Plans of Last Year

A regular meeting of the School Committee was held Tuesday evening, Messrs. McKay, Bushnell, Curtis, Diack, Foster, Hunting and McPherson being present.

The annual contract for stationery and school supplies was awarded to Edward E. Babb & Co.

The superintendent was authorized to purchase wood working machinery to equip the industrial school.

It was voted to lease the land of Henry M. Faxon, adjoining the Coddington school, and in the rear of the school for school playbround purposes for a term of five years, the annual rental to be the amount of taxes assessed on the property.

It was voted to follow the same plan of grammar school graduations as last year. That is the graduations to be held in the various school buildings on the afternoon of June 19, with the exception of the Wollaston and Massachusetts Fields schools which will be held in the evening.

The secretary was authorized to advertise for bids for coal in the usual form.

It was also voted to co-operate with the civic league for immigrants and to allow the use of the office in the Industrial school two or three evenings a week for that purpose.

Burma Ruby Mines.

Very little is known about the ruby mines of Mogok, in a valley of Burma, whence come nearly all the large rubies. The valley lies through a forest which is seldom trodden by white people. A few Englishmen who live there have laid out a polo ground, and between this and the town are the mines. The diggings are slowly eating up the village, and the main street is already half destroyed. The work goes on all day and all night, the ruby bearing earth being brought up in iron trolleys. A few strangers who have called at the mines have been told by the officials that they can keep any ruby they may find, but no one has ever been able to find one. The gems are imbedded in the gold colored clay which stretches along the whole of the valley, and it is only after the earth has been washed that the rubies are seen.

Marriage by Halter.

Among ignorant people of English birth it was once the belief that a wife bought with money or goods was legally married if the purchaser led her all the way home by a halter.

Baring Gould, the English antiquarian, told of a village poet known to him who bought a wife for a half crown and led her twelve miles to his cottage. The squire and the rector protested to the village poet that he was not legally wedded.

"Why, yes, I be," he replied. "I'll take my Bible oath I never once took the halter off till she'd crossed the doorsill and the door was shut."

The latest instances of such wife sales occurred in 1858 and 1859, when women were sold in Little Horton and in Dudley. In these cases a blue ribbon took the place of the straw halter.

SALEM CARRIES MAIL.

Philadelphia, April 28—The scout cruiser Salem, one of the fastest ships in the navy and built at the Fore River shipyard, Quincy, sailed today from the Navy Yard for Vera Cruz. On board was 200 sacks of mail and naval officers who have been ordered to report to the commanding officer at Vera Cruz.

MEXICAN PRISONERS.

El Paso, Texas, April 29—The 4900 Mexican Federal prisoners will be taken from Fort Bliss to Fort Wingate, New Mexico. Their permanent guards will be the troops of Fort Meade, South Dakota.

OUT OF DANGER.

A dispatch from Admiral Badger at Vera Cruz, received at Washington on Tuesday says that Edward A. Gisburn of Quincy, an electrician of the third class, is out of danger. Gisburn was shot by a snipper while signaling from the Imperial hotel.

TRAINLOAD OF REFUGES.

Vera Cruz, April 29—Another train, carrying about 400 arrived this morning from Mexico City. Preparations are being made to bring the remaining 300 to the coast. The stories vary as told by these refuges, some stoutly maintaining that the cruelty of the Mexicans is barbarous.

PEACE CONFERENCE.

Washington, April 29—Envoys of Argentine, Brazil and Chile are in conference with Secretary Bryan and are learning to what extent the United States will agree to mediation.

Insulated Wires.

To keep electricity in the wires, to prevent it from escaping, which it is always trying to do, the wires have to be bandaged up in some substance through which the electricity cannot penertate. This is called insulation. A wire is said to be insulated when it is wrapped in nonconducting covers. Dry hair is the best material; next rank glass, mica, porcelain, rubber, lava, oils, silk, cotton, etc. The wires used about ordinary buildings are insulated with rubber, oils, varnish and dry cloth. Some of the smaller wires, for electric bells, etc., are merely covered with closely woven silk or cotton threads. The best known conductor of electricity is silver, but it is too costly to be used commercially. Copper ranks next and is generally used for electric wiring.—New York World.

Did Her Work at Night.

Mrs. Catherine Gore, who wrote seventy novels between 1824 and 1861, worked on a strange plan. When J. R. Planche visited Paris in 1837 he found Mrs. Gore living in the Place Vendome writing novels, plays, articles for magazines—almost every description of literature flowing from her indefatigable pen. He says: "'How do you manage it?' I asked her. 'I receive, as you know, a few friends at dinner every evening. They leave me at 10 or 11, when I retire to my room and write till 7 or 8 in the morning. Then I go to bed till noon, when I breakfast, after which I drive out and pay visits, returning at 4 to dress for dinner. As soon as my friends have departed I go to work all night again.'"

Fate of Marshal Ney.

It has been maintained by many that the famous Marshal Ney, whom Napoleon called the "bravest of the brave," was not executed, as history makes him out to have been, but succeeded, by the help of friends, in making his escape to America, where he lived to an advanced age, dying in peace in his own bed. The theory as advocated by many is that Ney went to North Carolina, became a school teacher and made many friends, to the more intimate of whom he confided his secret. But there is not much to the story except its novelty.—New York American.

By the Explosion Route.

History Professor — The Americans are the acknowledged reformers of the world. Now, can you even mention, my dear sir, any Englishman who endeavored to raise legislation to a higher plane? Student — Yes, sir; Guy Fawkes.—Harvard Lampoon.

They Use a Lot of Coal.

The coal required for one journey between Liverpool and New York by the present day big Atlantic liners would fill twenty-two trains of thirty trucks, each truck containing ten tons.

Going to law is losing a cow for the sake of a cat.—Chinese Proverb.

Draining a Metropolis.

London sewage has its main drainage outfalls at Barking and Crossness the average daily quantity dealt with is about 260,000,000 gallons, while the total quantity of sludge collected at Barking and Crossness is over 2,500,000 tons.

Economy Hints

A penny saved is a penny earned.—Benjamin Franklin.

How to Utilize Stale Bread.

THE bane of many a housekeeper's existence is stale bread. Some women are such careful managers that they never have a piece of stale bread that they cannot find a use for, but others are not so efficient. This mismanagement is more often due to want of thought and plan than to careless tendencies.

It is well to know that when bread begins to get stale it can be freshened by wrapping it in a wet cloth and placing it in a hot oven.

Instead of laying the slices left from a meal aside to dry, place them back against the loaf and wrap a piece of clean cloth about them. Turn the loaf on the slices of bread, and the moisture from the loaf will keep them so fresh that they can often be used the next day on the table. Wax paper can be used instead of the napkin or piece of linen.

It is a splendid plan to keep leftover bread and crusts that cannot be used any more in a bag of cheesecloth. The bag should be hung in some out of the way place, where the air can circulate around it, but where it will be protected from the dust. When the bread is quite dry it should be rolled on the biscuit board with the rolling pin or run through the food chopper until fine.

Bread that has been hung in the air to dry in the cheesecloth bag should be ground into breadcrumbs at least twice a week. It is well to dry the stale bread in the oven after it has been made into crumbs. They should be stirred to hasten the process. When they have been thoroughly dried and toasted they should be set away in glass jars in the cupboard.

When cutting a loaf of bread place a piece of waxed paper on the bread board and after placing the bread in the pan pour the crumbs that have remained into the handy little jar that should be kept near by for the purpose. As the crumbs are toasting in the oven add those that come from cutting the bread.

Of course it is needless to tell the uses of breadcrumbs. They can be used in so many ways, not only in frying oysters, breading cutlets and sprinkling on top of baked dishes, but also in dry cleaning. New breadcrumbs can be used for cleaning gold and white lace. They should not be toasted if they are to be used in this way, but applied with a clean cloth. When they become soiled fresh crumbs should be used.

CARE OF CORSETS.

How to Prolong the Life of Expensive Pairs of Stays.

The care of an expensive corset prolongs its life for weeks and even months. So the woman who buys expensive corsets ought to know how to take care of them.

First a word about expensive corsets. They are real economy for the stout woman. She breaks a cheap corset in a week or two and never feels comfortable or looks well in it. An expensive corset, made of stronger materials, boned, perhaps more flexibly, surely more serviceably, wears five or six times as long as the cheaper one.

The slim woman can well wear cheap corsets. If she is slight and of normal proportions, these will doubtless feel quite as comfortable and look quite as well as the more expensive sort. Then she can indulge in the luxury of getting a new one as soon as the old one is worn or soiled.

The expensive corset must be sent to the professional cleaner occasionally. It is possible to clean a corset at home, although it will not look as well as one cleaned by professionals. The corset should be stretched out on a board and scrubbed with a brush dipped in soapy warm water to which a little borax has been added. It should be scrubbed until as much dirt as possible has been removed, and then it should be rinsed in clear water; then it should be pinned out flat on a board to dry in the air, but not in the sun.

The Frenchwoman follows a good plan. She has several corsets all the time and alternates wearing them. The ones not in use are aired and then wrapped about a wooden cylinder, to which they are neatly pinned or tied. They are then wrapped in tissue paper or in a muslin or silk case and laid away until needed.

How to Keep Your House Clean.

A shoe duster and a long handled overshoe remover are things that will add to the comfort of any family if they are hung in a convenient place near the hall entrance throughout the winter and early spring rains. They can be homemade. The duster may be made from a piece of old blanket or any thick woolen material, cut into a fringe and tacked to an old handle of a feather duster or just a stick, so that dust may be flicked from the shoes without any stooping.

The overshoe remover may be made by using a stick about a yard long and the lower end cut into a strong and capable shoe horn. In this form one can stand upright instead of getting smeared by the dripping and mud caked shoe.

TAUNTON FEARS IT WILL BE OVER-RUN

If Militia Is Allowed to Have Mobilization Camp at Lakeville

Mayor Takes a Protest to Governor Walsh

The city of Taunton is not as enthusiastic over a mobilization camp at Lakeville as the people of Quincy are for a camp at Merrymount park. A Boston daily prints the following:

Gov. Walsh yesterday received the strenuous protests of the entire city government of Taunton against the location of a militia mobilization camp at Lakeville, which has been decided upon by the Governor as the most available site.

Gov. Walsh took the matter under advisement and assured Mayor Fish, who headed the Taunton delegation, that in any event the Taunton water supply will be protected against contamination. Fear of the pollution of the water by the location of the camp on the watershed led the city officials to protest.

Engineer F. X. Goodenough of the state board of health was present at the conference with plans showing that no part of the watershed would be occupied by the troops.

The Taunton delegation consisted of Mayor Fish, Chairman Henry M. Lovering and Col. Peter H. Corr of the water board, and Supt. George A. King of the water deaprtment.

Mayor Fish made the flat statement that he feared the militia would overrun Taunton if they were located at Lakeville. The Governor replied that he was surprised to hear this, although he could see that the city would want to protect its water supply.

STATE PREPARATIONS.

Notwithstanding the proposals for mediation and peace, the preparations for war so far as the Massachusetts militia is concerned are going steadily forward. It is anticipated that when the time comes the Legislature of 1914 will be no whit behind that of 1898, which gave the late Gov. Wolcott carte blanche to spend $500,000 to fit out and send to the front the Massachusetts quota, and it may be said that under Adjutant General Samuel Dalton the militia of this State was the most completely equipped of all the State troops reporting at the southern camps, as those who were at Chickamauga, and Camp Alger and Greenville, S. C., can swear to. General Dalton conferred with the mill agents and furnished every man with a blanket and every other supply that he needed.

Governor Walsh is assured that, though the Commonwealth may have to bear the initial expense that the United States will reimburse all expenditures. Yesterday the Governor was holding his first long conference with the adjutant general over the recommendations of the war department, covering some 20 closely typewritten pages, for getting the mechanism perfected for calling out the troops.

Upon the receipt of the President's proclamation that necessity exists for calling out the militia and the accompanying letter of information from the secretary of war the Governor will issue his order for the assembling of the militia at their home stations—the armories.

As soon as that is done recruiting and training will begin. Organizations will remain there for some time till recruited to war strength, both in order that the men might have some time in which to adjust their business affairs, and in order that the presence of the organization and its preparation for the field service might be utilized as a stimulus to assist in recruiting.

That which the Governor and the adjutant general are doing today is perfecting the mechanism for carrying out these instructions. The idea is that the companies would be at the armories for each day, pending the actual call, which must be given by act of Congress, and there would be drills for two or three hours a day. The men might or might not sleep in the armories, but they would be within the call of their captains at any hour of the day.

The above is exactly the plan that was carried out in the preliminary assembling of the Massachusetts militia for volunteer service in the Spanish War. It was stated that there would be the same weeding out of those who cannot respond, because of dependents upon them, ties of mar-

GAS MAINS THROUGH PARK

Company Is Laying New Trunck Line from Boston

The Citizens Gas Light Co., have commenced work laying its new auxiliary gas main from Neponset to the holder on Brackett street a location for which was granted by the City Council last year.

At the present time the company is at work laying its main through Merrymount Park, and engineers at work Wednesday, laying out lines for the gas main, gave the impression to many that the United States engineers had arrived and commenced work.

The new main comes from Neponset via Hancock street to Merrymount park, thence through the park to Valley street to the holder on Brackett street.

The main gas pipe supply line now comes to Quincy via East Milton, the pipe coming down Beale street to Hancock street thence through Hancock street. The idea of the new line is that the company may have an auxiliary supply pipe so that in case anything happens to one of the supply lines the other will keep the city supplied with gas at the right pressure.

PINE TREE CLUB AT BRAINTREE

The last regular meeting of the Pine Tree club of Braintree for the present season was held in Odd Fellows hall Wednesday evening. The program of entertainment consisted of piano solos by Miss Hazel Lothrop readings by Joe Beal, and a vocal duet by the Misses Lillian and Evelyn Tenney, with Mrs. George Dunn as accompanist at the piano. An amusing feature of the evening was a peanut hunt in which the first prize was awarded to Joe Beal and the consolation to Miss Ruth Robbins. Another enjoyable part of the program was an old fashioned Virginia reel. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and coffee were served and dancing followed with Miss Hazel Lothrop presiding at the piano. Next month the club's season will close with the annual banquet. The committee in charge of the meeting was as follows: Mr. and Mrs. George Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph L. Wiggin, Mrs. H. A. Jones, Mrs. Ada Maxham and Mrs. A. M. Chick.

DESTROYER DUNCAN HERE

The torpedo boat Destroyer Duncan, the fastest of its type, was towed from the Charlestown Navy Yard on Wednesday afternoon to the Fore River shipyard so that its turbines can be reinstalled. On a recent trip, one of the turbines was stripped. The Duncan and its convoy passed through the draw at the bridge at about 4.30 o'clock and was immediately tied up to the fitting up dock. As soon as the repairs are completed the ship will proceed to Mexican waters.

CASE CONTINUED.

One of the first to be summoned to court for violations of the Board of Health was Asad Kuori of Sumner street who was arraigned this morning on the complaint of John C. Murray, chairman of the board. Kuori is charged with keeping garbage in an uncovered receptacle. His case was continued until Saturday.

Quincy Co-operative Bank

CITY HALL HAPPENINGS

Mayor to Inspect Premises Asking Licenses

The permits issued a year ago to expressmen to transport liquor into or in the City of Quincy for hire or reward expire at midnight tonight and unless Mayor Miller signs the orders today the expressmen will be unable to transport any booze tomorrow.

The Police department are watching the matter closely and any expressman attempting to bring liquor into Quincy tomorrow, who has not been granted a permit, will be brought into court.

In the cases of licenses for common victuallers and Sunday fruit, the police have allowed them to open while action on their application for a license is pending. In the matter of liquor transportation however no such leeway is permitted and they are held strictly to the law.

Mayor Miller said this morning that he intended to give his attention to the license problem in general today. He further said that he had disposed of two liquor permit orders and that the others would be disposed of today. He however did not intimate what action he would take on any of them.

Last year twelve liquor permits were issued and the same twelve granted permits last year were granted this year, the thirteenth permit this year going to an expressman who held a permit some years ago.

The Police department report that the twelve granted permits a year ago complied with all the requirements, relative to making the returns the police desired. There is no law which compels the expressmen to make these returns but the Council committee and Police want them and it is pretty safe to say that any expressman refusing to comply with this request would have a hard time getting by the Council next year.

The Committee on Streets of the City Council, who are considering the order for the paving of Hancock street are going to visit some of the cities about Boston on Saturday to inspect some of the first class work in this line that is being done in those places. The Committee will be accompanied by Mayor Miller, Commissioner Brown and City Engineer Sargent.

Mayor Miller has a full summer's job on his hands if he carries out his present intentions in relation to the granting of minor licenses. He stated Wednesday that he proposed to visit the premises of every person granted a license before he signed their order, which means an almost endless job.

The City Council during the year passes upon upwards of five hundred licenses of various kinds such as common victuallers, Sunday fruit, billiards, pool and bowling, and the premises of these five hundred are scattered all over the city. For instance, last Monday night the Council passed upwards of sixty licenses outside of those for the transportation of liquor, and as he has but ten days in which to approve or disapprove, it can be readily seen that he has some job on his hands, when this work comes in addition to the regular routine office work. Of course if the Mayor had that automobile, for which he desired an appropriation, it would make the job considerably easier. But that is ancient history now.

Commissioner Brown did not purchase the auto truck for the Water department that he intended to do, and as a result the water pipe will have to be carted about the city by horses, this year as usual. The Commissioner however has purchased a new runabout for his own use, the car which the department formerly used having been run out.

It is announced that the street railway company is about to rebuild its tracks on Franklin street, between School street and Independence avenue. These tracks are now what is known as a T rail, and as they are higher than the remainder of the street, that section of the street is in a deplorable condition. According to the street railway company rebuilding of this section of track has been contemplated for a long time but actual work has been delayed on account of the uncertainty of the grade crossing problem. The new track will be of the grooved girder pattern, 90 pounds to the yard. The Commissioner will at the same time rebuild this part of the street.

The contract for the City Book of 1913, has not been awarded as yet and as eight weeks are allowed for its completion after the contract is awarded, it will mean the first of July at least before it is delivered. Probably the printers would appreciate more time and there is no reason why they should not have the copy earlier.

If the City Council acts favorably on the order appropriating $30,500 for the rebuilding of Hancock street between Granite street and School street the work will probably be done this summer. The land for the widening of the street was taken during the last year of Mayor Shea's administration. The widening comes largely on the east side although the street line is straightened in front of the estate occupied by Undertaker Hall. The Mayor in his communication to the City Council recommended that the street be paved with first class construction. This means a paving block set on a cement foundation which makes the street level, and prevents the puddle holes that make their appearance in paved streets after a certain time caused by the paving blocks settling in places. The necessity for doing the work at the present time is made necessary by the new business block of Col. Kincaide on the west side of the street, for Col. Kincaide proposed to put a granolithic walk in front of his block and when this is done the sidewalk line will be back somewhat from the present sidewalk curb. This would leave an unpaved space between the new sidewalk line and the present paving and would be extremely dangerous to teams. The job when completed can not fail to be other than a great improvement as it will give a good wide street between Granite and School streets with sidewalks on both sides of the street.

WARM MEETING OF DEMOCRATS

Call However Did Not Provide For Filling Vacancy

Many of the 60 members of the Democratic City Committee who attended the special meeting in the Johnson building Wednesday evening were disappointed when they learned that the call had not provided for a special election to fill the vacancy in the chairmanship caused by the death of William Kelley. All that transpired was the passage of a set of resolutions on his death although the meeting was one of the warmest held since the committee was enlarged. Ward Four, for the first time this year was well represented, most of those present being supporters of Charles C. McHugh who is a candidate for the office. Several of the members indulged in personalities while expressing their dissatisfaction with the present board of officers, only to have the compliment returned by other members who came to their defense. A special election will be held at an early date.

ORDAINED TO MINISTRY

Quincy residents, especially those connected with Washington Street Congregational church, will be interested in the service held at the Second Congregational church, Elyria, Ohio, last Sunday, when Alfred James Barnard, was ordained to the Christian ministry. Rev. Mr. Barnard was a former resident of Quincy He is a graduate of the Quincy High school and for some time was a member of the Washington Street Congregational church. At the service of ordination Rev. Jason Noble Pierce preached the ordination sermon, Rev. Albert H. Currier, D. D. the ordination prayer; charge to candidate, Rev. Kemper Fullerton; right hand of fellowship, Rev. William J. Cady; charge to people, Rev. John Hiram Grant.

BOY SCOUTS PUT TO THE TEST

Were Able at Short Notice to Give Army Officers Some Measurements Desired

Made Survey and Map of Merrymount in Three Hours

Troop 1, Boy Scouts of Quincy, feel proud today over the receipt of a letter from the commander of the troops at Fort Warren, and feel that they are actually doing some active service. The letter in full:

Fort Warren, Mass.,
April 28, 1914.

Mr. Sidney McLaughlin,
20 Goddard St., Quincy, Mass.,

My Dear Sir: —I wish to thank you for your kind assistance in taking the measurements of Merrymount Park and to assure you and your fellow scouts I shall always be glad to return the favor should you call on me for it.

Very sincerely,
H. F. Matthews,
Captain Q. M. Corps

All this happened last Saturday. It happened that the troop of Boy Scouts accompanied by B. F. Hodgkinson their scout master, was camping at Merrymount that morning when Capt. Matthews and three other Army officers arrived in an automobile. They asked the boys if they were at leisure, and would they like to do a job for them. The boys were only too glad. The Army officers requested them to make measurements of Merrymount park, particularly the three fields.

Quickly they set about the task. Drew a rough map of each field, and gave the measurements of the irregular sides in yards. Although without compass they were able to indicate the north by the use of a watch. Their work was really commendable, hence the letter.

In view of the railroad's earnest appeal for higher rates, it is believed that the Commerce Commission will generously consent not to lower them.

Many people are congratulating themselves nowadays on the money they have made by not speculating in stocks.

The king of Albania is going to wear a shirt of mail. Now he can sympathize with a fellow when he is trying to button his studs in a well starched dress shirt.

It is singular how keenly the girls feel the obligation to attend church regularly when they have a new and stylish Easter hat!

In some colleges students are now required to attain a certain proficiency in sports. It is now to be hoped they do not make the book work elective.

William A. Brady says there are not ten good press agents now. Probably his definition of a good press agent is one who can persuade the editors to insert advertising free of charge.

Gen. Coxey predicts that his army will gather size as it travels, but that depends on what kind of a handout is secured from the back doors.

Until the hour of the Wilson-McAdoo wedding is given out, the politicians do not know whether they have got to hire a swallowtail or a jim-swinger coat.

Tangoing on railroad trains is nothing new, except for the phonograph. The motion of passengers in the aisles as the train rounds a sharp curve have long resembled the popular Argentine dance.

It may be perfectly safe to thumb noses at Uncle Sam up among the mountains of Mexico City, but down on the seashore it's a different proposition.

THE PROTECTION OF OFFICIALS

The frequent attempts at assassination of high officials bring an aftermath of suggestions as to how they may be better protected. The attack on Mayor Mitchel of New York elicits as usual such ideas as that sale of firearms should be more restricted, that unsound people should be more closely restrained and that high officials should have the more constant company of armed guards.

All these ideas are good, but they will always be inadequate. A stricter firearms law would avert much of the gun play around saloons and dives, and in remote villages that constitute the fringe of civilization. But the man with murder in his heart can always get a gun. The restriction of deranged persons is subject to this limitation, that confinement in an insane hospital would often turn a slightly disturbed mind into a raging maniac.

The most practical suggestion ever offered is that high officials submit to the awkwardness and bother of being accompanied by detectives. The trained eye sees indications of crime not visible to the ordinary person. Behind the pale and grey shabbiness of some defeated and discouraged creature, the restless and furtive eye may be a red flag of danger.

But after all is done, it must be taken as one of the hazards of the trade, as King Humbert coolly remarked after they had popped away at him for the first time. In private life it is often happening that a foreman or employer of labor is attacked by some unbalanced workman who has been discharged. The risks of these attacks are greatly magnified by the free criticism of executives, particularly by the intemperate lengths to which many newspapers go.

So it often happens that the public official who seems to be doing humdrum work, in the dusty detail of administering streets and schools and police, really may be taking his life in his hand while he walks down a crowded street.

CESSATION OF HOSTILITIES

Peace Envoys' First Step to Settle Mexican Trouble

MEDIATION PROGRAM IS GREATLY ENLARGED

War Preparations, However, Will Be Continued by Both Countries—Carranza and Villa to Remain Neutral In Dealings Between Huerta and United States—Envoys of Foreign Governments Advise Huerta to Advance Settlement—Funston to Have 8000 to 10,000 Men

Washington, April 30.—The scope of mediation plans for the settlement of the Mexican crisis was suddenly broadened so as to include the entire range of Mexican affairs—not alone the critical issue between the United States and the Huerta regime, but also the conflict between the elements of northern and southern Mexico.

This signal enlargement of the mediation program followed the receipt of a formal acceptance by General Carranza, chief of the constitutional forces, of the principle of mediation as proposed by the ambassador from Brazil and the ministers from Argentine and Chile.

Already the United States and General Huerta had formally accepted the good offices of these South American envoys, and now Carranza has been brought into the deliberations so as to draw every element and faction within the range of any settlement which may be attained.

Armistice Seems Assured

The mediators made another decisive move in asking the United States and Huerta to agree to an armistice, by which all aggressive military movements would be suspended pending the outcome of the negotiations. The mediators confidently expect both sides to accept the armistice proposal.

A separate proposal for an armistice as between Huerta and Carranza will also be made, and with its acceptance all the warring elements throughout Mexico as well as the American forces would maintain a military status quo.

The American government in its formal reply to the armistice proposal will expressely stipulate that any untoward act toward Americans will be regarded as an infraction of the armistice.

Envoys Make Progress

The South American envoys were in session at the Argentine legation. Up to the time of their adjournment they had progressed steadily on their plans, and foresaw a definite statement within the next few days of their contemplated action.

The envoys individually conferred with their colleagues in the diplomatic corps from Central and South America, to lay before them what had been done and discuss the general situation.

This emphasized what the mediators have been seeking—a purely American settlement of a crisis which affects the political integrity of all Spanish America. The patriotic unity of all Mexico and all Spanish America was expected to give a signal evidence to the world at large, and particularly to Europe, of what the American republics could do for the tranquility of the western hemisphere at a time of supreme crisis.

Word of Carranza's acceptance of the tender of good offices looking toward mediation came in a telegram directed to the three South American envoys, who informed Secretary Bryan, the announcement being formally made at the state department.

War Preparations Continue

It is assumed that the president will agree to a cessation of hostilities on assurance from Mexico that there will be no "civil uprisings" or other "untoward incidents." This does not mean that the United States and Mexico shall not continue their war preparations, but simply that they will initiate no aggressive operations.

The chancelleries of the world are watching with keen interest these peace negotiations at Washington. Dispatches from the different capitals hasten to say that the particular countries are doing all they can by way of advice to Huerta to advance a settlement. A Berlin dispatch afterward labelled as "unconfirmed" stated that the envoys had appealed to Europe asking the powers to exert their influence with President Wilson to make such "conditions" (concessions probably it meant) as would render the success of the negotiations possible.

Generals Carranza and Villa, the constitutionalist leaders, have agreed, it is said, to remain neutral in dealings between Huerta and the American government "so long as there was no invasion of their territory." The constitutionalist attack on Tampico continues, but Rear Admiral Mayo states, however, that there does not seem to be any serious attempt to take the city. The number of constitutionalists is small and they have no artillery.

Ignacio Alcocer, Mexican minister of the interior, is sending messages to all state governors and to the jefe politicos, urging them in the name of Huerta to push their efforts to persuade the rebel leaders to unite in defense of national integrity. Complete amnesty is promised the rebels.

Refugees continue to arrive at Vera Cruz from the Huerta capital and special trains are picking up additional foreigners between Mexico City and the coast. The transport Hancock has been sent from Vera Cruz to Puerto, Mex., to take away refugees arriving from the interior by the Tehauntepec railroad.

Consul Schmutz and 110 other Americans who had been released at Aguas Calientes by federal soldiers are safe on their way to the coast.

Everything at Vera Cruz is quiet. General Funston is ashore looking over the situation, but his troops are still aboard the transports. This afternoon is given as the time when Funston will assume supreme command. A troop ship bringing 1000 more marines reached Vera Cruz and another section of Funston's brigade is due. Probably by the end of the week he will have 8000 to 10,000 men.

PRISON IS CLEARED

Inspection by Americans Reveals Most Horrible Conditions

Vera Cruz, Mex., April 30.—The fortress of San Juan de Ulua, notorious for centuries as perhaps the foulest prison on the American continent, has been ordered by Rear Admiral Fletcher to be vacated immediately.

Fletcher's decision to remove all prisoners from the fortress was reached after an inspection had been made by Commander Stickney.

The inspection by the American authorities verified the tales that had been written and told for generations of the terrible conditions prevailing there. Many dungeons were below the water line when the tide was running in, at which time the inmates, many of whom were half blind on account of their long incarceration in semi-darkness, were drenched.

Other dungeons were so constructed that it was impossible for the victims to lie down. Ancient devices of torture were discovered and there was evidence that these recently had been in use.

Among those held in confinement were men whose names, once well known, now have been almost forgotten; men who had been there so long that their minds were blank, and men so enfeebled by the treatment they had received as to insure their transfer to hospitals instead of to prisons.

The appearance of the prisoners was pitiable. Emaciated creatures stumbled forward to thank the inspecting officers for their delivery. Long beards in many cases were matted over dirty countenances on which once the fashionable element of the federal capital had looked, for many of those imprisoned were formerly prominent in society, in politics and in the army.

TO REINFORCE FUNSTON

Cavalry and Artillery Set Sail From Galveston For Vera Cruz

Galveston, Tex., April 30.—A complete unit of the United States army prepared to advance on Mexico City will be under command of General Frederick Funston, when the troops of the Sixth cavalry, regimental headquarters of the field artillery and the horses and mules of both cavalry and field artillery, which sailed yesterday afternoon on the converted transport San Marcos, reach Vera Cruz.

The San Marcos carries the necessary cavalry for covering the advance of artillery, while the 350 mules aboard will pack the mountain guns already en route to Vera Cruz. Other troops and great quantities of supplies are here ready to be sent to Vera Cruz.

RELIEF OPERATIONS

American Red Cross Will at Once Assume Active Charge

Washington, April 30.—Active charge of relief operations at Vera Cruz will be assumed by the American Red Cross. This decision was reached as a result of a personal cablegram received by Miss Mabel T. Boardman, chairman of the national relief board of the Red Cross, from Rear Admiral Fletcher.

The Red Cross cabled authority to General Funston and later transferred that authority to the newly-appointed civil governor, Robert J. Kerr, to draw on Red Cross funds to the extent of $5000 for relief work. Dr. Goodman, chief surgeon of the National railways of Mexico, was designated to act as the Red Cross agent until Charles Jenkinson, director of the Atlantic division of the Red Cross, can reach Vera Cruz. Jenkinson left last night for Vera Cruz via Galveston, and the navy department will expedite his journey to the Mexican port.

WANTED IN MEXICO

But Americans Are Told They Had Better Stay Away

Nogales, Ariz., April 30.—Renewed warnings that Americans remain out of Mexico were sent to consular agents and others along the Arizona border.

The warnings were called forth by reports that Secretary of State Bryan had conferred with constitutionalist agents in Washington and had agreed that Americans might safely return to Sonora and Sinaloa.

Americans at border points appealed to Consul Simpich at Nogales to inform them whether these reports were authentic.

Simpich announced he had received no advices from the state department reversing the warning that Americans leave Mexico. It is reported the rebel chiefs were anxious that Americans return so that industries crippled by their departure might be revived, but it is feared these chiefs might not be able to control the lawless element.

SCORES WITHDRAWAL

Our Ships Should Have Remained at Tampico, Says Lodge

Washington, April 30.—Vigorous criticism of the withdrawal of American warships from Tampico when American citizens in that place were in danger from Mexican mobs was made in the senate.

The fact that these Americans were allowed to be rescued by British and German warships when American vessels lay only nine miles away was severely commented upon. The debate followed the submission of telegrams from refugees now in Galveston.

"I cannot help feeling that it is a good thing to protect our own citizens ourselves," said Senator Lodge, who pointed out that American gunboats had been withdrawn from Tampico because it was feared that their presence might inflame the Mexican mob against American citizens in Mexico.

"If we had landed men from the American warships, instead of withdrawing those ships, we could have protected all Americans there and there would have been no need of rescue by the German and British," stated Lodge.

LITTLE HOPE FOR ENTOMBED MINERS

Fear That 178 In West Virginia Shaft Are Doomed

Eccles, W. Va., April 30.—Efforts to penetrate mine No. 5 of the New River Collieries company, wrecked with mine No. 6 by an explosion, progress slowly.

The chance of rescuing alive any of the 178 miners entombed in mine No. 5 is slight. On account of the intense heat and gases coming from the mine, expert miners have abandoned all hopes.

The bodies of the eight men who met death in mine No. 6 were prepared for burial. The sixty-seven men injured in mine No. 6 are all expected to recover.

VINCENT ASTOR WEDS

Ceremony Takes Place at Home of Bride Instead of In Church

New York, April 30.—The wedding of Miss Helen D. Huntington and Vincent Astor took place today, although the illness of Astor necessitated a change in the plans and the ceremony was performed at the Huntington home, instead of in St. Margaret's church, Staatsburg, N. Y.

The ceremony was attended by a small assembly of relatives and friends, not exceeding fifty in number. Miss Huntington's only attendant was her sister, Miss Alice Huntington, and Herman Oelrichs served as best man.

TO STOP GUN-RUNNING

Battle Squadron and Destroyers Patroling Coast of Ulster

London, April 30.—The third battle squadron of the British fleet arrived off Bangor, a seaport on Belfast Lough. A flotilla of eleven destroyers also reached Belfast Lough, which they will undertake to patrol to prevent further gun-running.

Speaking in the house of commons Premier Asquith declared that with the close of the present week he would decline to answer any further questions as to military movements in connection with the Ulster situation.

Farmer Allowed One Cat In Barn

Boston, April 30.—The bill to license cats was advanced to a third reading in the house by a voice vote. It was previously amended, however, so as to allow each farmer to keep one cat in his barn.

FAVOR DANCE WAS POPULAR

The second dancing party under the auspices of the Braintree Catholic Women's club was held in Cochato hall, Wednesday evening from 8 until 11.30. The first of the evening was devoted to an entertainment consisting of a vocal solo by William Clifford of Brockton, readings by Miss Margaret Heney of Randolph, vocal solo by Thomas Langley of Brockton, and a vocal trio by Messrs. Clifford and Langley and Miss Katherine Gogan. Miss Clifford presided most acceptably at the piano for the vocal numbers. Dancing followed until 11.30, excellent music being furnished by Abel's orchestra.

The hall was beautifully decorated with wistaria and baskets of flowers and the orchestra played behind a bower of cut flowers, potted plants and ferns. Number 6 on the order was the favor dance, each lady receiving a jonquil and each gentlemen a crepe paper regalia or sash. During this dance, paper bombs in different parts of the hall were exploded, showering the dancers with confetti. Frappe was served in the intervals between dances. There were about 75 couples present and the whole affair was most enjoyable.

The committee of arrangements included Miss Claire E. Shay, Miss Elizabeth McGaughey, Miss Katherine Gogan, Miss Agnes Galvin, Mrs. Charles Cavanagh, Mrs. J. Edwin Dee, Mrs. J. J. McDermott, Mrs. William E. Knowlton, Mrs. John J. Davis, Mrs. John Galvin, Mrs. W. H. J. Fitzgerald and Mrs. John W. Mulcahy.

riage of or business. Recruits would be enlisted as they were for the Spanish War to take the places of those who are thus weeded out, this being a volunteer service.

The State officers would assemble at some designated rendezvous for their examination by regular army surgeons and muster in to the federal service after which they would be available for the examination of the organized militia. Staff officers would assemble at some designated rendezvous to receive the instructions from the adjutant-general as to the preparation of the mobilization camp and the maintenance of the organizations which would be sent there.

Then there would follow the transfer to Lakeville and the mobilization camp. It is the anticipation that the various companies would be at once recruited to their present maximum strength of 63 officers and men, and that then the commands would go directly to the camp.

Recruits to the number required for the full war strength would follow them to the mobilization camp and the regiments, batteries and squadron be mustered into the United States volunteer army.

Drill and training is to be started, as it was at the mobilization camp, at Framingham, as soon as a recruit passes the physical examination.

THE EDUCATIONAL FIELD

THOMAS CRANE PUBLIC LIBRARY
HIGH SCHOOL PUBLIC SCHOOLS
WOODWARD INSTITUTE PAROCHIAL SCHOOL

PUBLIC LIBRARY NOTES.

A group of pictures of the Yosemite Valley is now on exhibition in the art gallery of the Thomas Crane Public Library.

The group is introduced by a Geographical Survey map of the region. Many of the photographs are accompanied by a brief descriptive sketch, which adds to the interest of those who study the pictures.

The first picture of the group is a panoramic view of the Valley as seen by the traveller descending the Mariposa trail, the second a view from the stage road.

Those that follow are nearer views of the stupendous cliffs, marvelous rock formations, wild watercourses and beautiful falls that make up the grandeur of this wonderland of California. The pictures are arranged as the view would appear to one riding into the Valley.

VISIT INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Many Quincy classes have visited the State House and the historic sites of Boston, but they should visit the Quincy industries, and know more about them. High schools in other cities will also find much of interest here.

On Wednesday, members of the senior class of the High School of Commerce, 25 in all, went to Worcester inspecting several large manufacturing plants in that city. The trip was arranged by Maurice J. Lacey, one of the instructors at the school, together with the entertainment committee of the Worcester Chamber of Commerce, whose guests the boys are while in Worcester.

Before going to Worcester the boys were given a talk on the industries of that city by Mr. Lacey, who formerly lived there.

The delegation left Boston at 8.30 in the morning. They were met at the Union station in Worcester by the entertainment committee of the Worcester Chamber of Commerce. They were then taken to the city hall, where brief talks on Worcester's industries were given by Mayor Wright, whose wire plant was later visited. President J. Lewis Ellsworth and Secretary Herbert N. Davidson of the Worcester Chamber of Commerce.

VACATION WILL COME.

It's mighty nice that nine times nine
Makes eighty-one forever.
But oh, I know a place that's fine
For bathing, in the river!
A place a hundred times as cool
As any spot in this whole school.

It's very interesting to know
Eight furlongs make a mile,
And in a little week or so
I'll prove it, barefoot style.
I'll stride those furlongs, gay and free,
Nor care how many there may be.

These noble streams, the Rhone, the Nile,
The Rhine, the Amazon—
They're great, of course; but all the while
I keep remembering one
Where minnows dart, from June to June—
And where I'm going fishing, soon.

Geography, arithmetic,
And all the books are splendid,
But you will see me shut them quick,
When school at last is ended,
And range them in a solemn row,
And give one jolly whoop, and Go!
—Nancy Byrd Turner in the Youths Companion.

TEACHERS' PAY.

Data collected from blanks sent out by the Massachusetts state board of education to 14,570 teachers of the state and filled out by them show that 27 per cent of the teachers of the state work for salaries ranging from $5.77 to $10 a week. More normal trained teachers leave the profession than untrained. After having taught several years many of the trained teachers are secured by other states at an advanced salary. It is found that a very few of the younger teachers work during the summer vacation. The great majority use the time for travel and recreation.

WOODWARD GIRLS TRIP.

Souvenir postals from some of the students at the Woodward Institute who are doing Washington this week under the guidance of Mr. and Mrs. Rice, report that they are having the time of their lives. They have visited all of the public buildings at the capital, including the President's room where they had the privilege of sitting in the President's chair. The party is expected home the end of the week.

HOUGHS NECK ADDITION.

The plans for an addition to the Atherton Hough school at Houghs Neck forwarded to the City Council a week ago by the School Committee, call for an addition of four rooms to the present building. The addition will be built to the rear of the present structure. There will be two rooms on the first floor and two on the second floor, with a wide corridor running through the building, from which entrance is had to the school rooms. The Houghs Neck Associates were very anxious that when the addition was built that an assembly hall should be added, and so petitioned the School Committee. At that time however the plans were too far advanced to make any changes, and no action was taken.

If Houghs Neck keeps on growing as rapidly in the future as in the past it will only be a matter of a short time before another addition will be necessary and the matter of an assembly hall will probably be taken up at that time.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS.

In executive session Wednesday, the committee on education of the Legislature voted reference to the next General Court on the recommendations of the Massachusetts Immigration Committee to vest in the State Board of Education supervision over the parochial bi-lingual schools.

Members of the committee said that the bill is referred to the next general court without prejudice to its merits. The committee practically acknowledges the existence of a vast problem in the educating of immigrant children and is apparently unable to find a better solution of the problem than to allow the children to be educated in the parochial schols.

Representative Kimball of the committee said that the committee is agreed that it is impossible to teach the children the English language immediately upon their arrival in this country. They agree that the parochial school system of first teaching the children in their mother tongue and gradually familiarizing them with the English language seems to be the best-established system.

They recognize that the parochial schools have assumed considerable expense and manifested a commendable spirit in fitting the alien children for future success. To attempt to educate the alien children in the English language, they agree, would not not only be a waste of time for the children but would retard the progress of the entire school.

Representative Kimball said also that the committee halted in the face of the fact that to inaugurate the several recommendations of the immigration committee would cause an ultimate expenditure of $2,000,000. The greater part of this expense would arise from the establishment of part-time schools. The enlarged duties of the State Board of Education, an over-worked department, would also entail a considerable part of the expense.

The committee has reconciled itself to the belief that Bernard Sheridan of Lawrence, who investigated the bilingual schools, is efficient and progressive. They agree with Mr. Sheridan on at least one point, that being that some of the bi-lingual school grades have a larger number of scholars than is compatible with sure progress and efficiency.

GLEAMER CHANGES HANDS.

The famous prize winning cat boat Gleamer, owned and sailed during the past few years by Dr. H. A. Jones has been sold this week to Chester and Luther Bennett who will sail her in the races under the auspices of the Quincy Yacht club the coming season. The Gleamer was sailed last year by Dr. Jones and was a winner in nearly every race in which she was entered, often taking the first. Her record for the season was a phenomenal one for she won nine first prizes, four second prizes, one third and one fourth, in addition to winning the prize in her class for the run to Marblehead. The assurance that the Gleamer will figure in the races the coming season is a warning to other skippers in her class that they will have to look to their laurels.

Mrs. Miller speaks very enthusiastically of her trip, and says that Mrs. Sheppard has started on her homeward trip but that it will be another month before she arrives.

CAFE DANSANT COLONIAL HALL

A "Cafe Dansant" with all the cabaret features was given in Colonial hall Wednesday evening by the members of the Limited Three Club of Wollaston. Tables, arranged about the hall decorated with plants, flowers and colored streamers at which sat a large number of guests, made the hall appear like the interior of the dining room of a hotel that enjoyed a fashionable patronage.

The program included selections by the kitchen orchestra, composed of members of the club, trio selections by the Misses Jessie, Edna and Raymond Fowler, vocal solos by Mrs. Joseph Ripley, solo dancing by Miss Merrill, readings by Mrs. Morgan Walker, piano duets by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fowler, and mandolin selections by a trio consisting of Miss Verne Fowler, E. Z. Burnham and Raymond Fowler.

Popular song choruses of the day were sung with Miss Edna Fowler as the soloist. Folk dances were given by ten of the pupils of the Quincy High school—the Misses Sadie Files, Alice Brogan, Marguerite Bruton, Naomi Abbiatti, Viola Ford, Mary McCabe, Marion G. Green, Elizabeth Gillis and Rheta Keith.

FEDERATION OPPOSES WAR.

The Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs has sent an appeal signed by Mrs. George W. Perkins, president, and the board of directors to the Massachusetts Congressmen requesting them to do all in their power to prevent war and above all to prevent annexation.

"Representing a body of 60,000 families among your constituents," the appeal reads, "we beg that just as the Teller resolution before the Spanish War saved us from annexation of a resentful Cuba, so Congress today, by explicit indorsement of President Wilson's noble word at Mobile that we 'Never seek a foot of land by conquest,' may enable us to maintain our own self-respect and assure suspicious Latin-America and the world that our motive is not robbery."

NEW GOLF CLUB.

The Winnetka Course, Near Chicago, Nearing Completion.

A new outlet for the enthusiasm of north shore (Chicago) golfers will be afforded next season. Vice President Robert Stevenson, Jr., has announced that the scenic course of the Winnetka Country club, lying midway between Kenilworth and Winnetka, will be completed and thrown open for play on July 1. This is a welcome addition to the list of popular links bordering the lake on the north side because of the congested conditions that prevailed last season, when overflow membership rosters prevailed.

Directors of the new Winnetka club are already forming plans for their formal bow in Chicago golfing circles in July. President Douglas Smith has recommended that an invitation tournament be staged from the 1st to the 4th, together with several special events for women golfers and the usual holiday attractions on July 4.

High "Death Rate."

Last year was surely a hoodoo for the champion English fighters, as five of them were defeated. Bombardier Wells was knocked out twice by Georges Carpentier, Johnny Summers lost two decisions in Australia to Harry Stone, the American fighter; Jack Harrison was defeated by one of his countrymen; Bill Beynon was knocked out by Charley Ledoux, the French bantamweight, and Jack Ladbury was stopped in ten rounds by Jim Berry, an Englishman.

JENNER WINS CHAMPIONSHIP

Defeats Smith by .74 Pins in 10 String Match

Jenner of the Wollaston Tennis Club fulfilled the expectations of the royal rooters and took the championship of the city by defeating Herb Smith of the Fore River league in a special 10 string match at the Coliseum alleys Wednesday evening. The trophy was an elaborate silver cup offered by both leagues. His score was 954 to 880.

The match was an interesting one throughout. Jenner's confidence was displayed from the start-off. Herb Smith was equally as confident but his breaks were bad and he was unable to make the clean-ups for which he is noted. The kindest feelings prevailed between the men.

Smith only boosted one string over the century mark, while Jenner passed it twice and equalled it once.

Smith made seven spares and netted only 32 pins on the drops, while Jenner got 12 spares, his drops returning 73 pins. In addition he secured two strikes.

Jenners star performance was in the seventh string when he drove a strike onto a spare and closed with high single of the evening. After the fourth string his chance of winning was not endangered.

Many bowlers of both leagues were on hand to see the contest, and together with the other fans of the city comprised a good sized gallery. Jenner became the favorite early in the match and remained so during the performance. The score:

Jenner	90,	80,	97,	94,	97,
	95,	113,	100,	87,	101—	954
Smith	77,	89,	82,	86,	96,

TO RECOVER $38,000

Action Against Bank In Connection With Jail Accounts

Cambridge, Mass., April 30.—An attachment for $38,000 was filed against the Lechmere National bank here by District Attorney Corcoran of Middlesex county after conference with the county commissioners.

This action, according to the district attorney, is brought on the ground that the bank improperly and unlawfully paid to Frederick Smith, formerly bookkeeper at the county jail, money on checks, drawn to the order of the county of Middlesex.

This is the second suit instituted on account of a shortage discovered soon after Smith's death. The first suit, also for $38,000, is against John R. Fairbairn, sheriff of Middlesex county.

FURTHER LIGHT ON NEW HAVEN DEALS

Sum of $11,400,000 Was Paid For Two New Lines

Washington, April 30.—Some of the details of the deal by which the New Haven railroad acquired the franchises and right of way of the New York, Boston and Westchester and the Portchester lines, were given the interstate commerce commission bby Oakleigh Thorne, who, in conjunction with Marsden J. Perry, engineered the transaction.

Thorne said the New Haven road paid $11,400,000, furnished by J. P. Morgan & Co., for the properties and that he and Perry received $725,000 for their services. He added that in 1912, five years later, he burned all the books relating to the deal.

Frank S. Fowler, examiner for the commission, stated that examination of the books of the Millbrook company, organized by Thorne for the purpose of transacting the financial affairs of the two roads after their acquisition, showed that more than $1,032,000 out of the $11,400,000 paid by the New Haven had not been accounted for in the expenditures.

Thorne explained this by saying that any balance left on hand after the transaction was turned over to the Millbrook company.

CONFESSES TWO MURDERS

Escaped Slayer Says He Wants to Complete His Life Sentence

Cincinnati, April 30.—Confessing to two murders and numerous hold-ups, a man giving his name as Albert Wing of Baltimore surrendered to the local police and asked that he be sent back to the Frankfort, Ky., penitentiary to complete a life sentence.

Wing claimed that he escaped from the Kentucky institution in January, 1908. He was then serving a life sentence, he said, for the murder of a woman in Louisville. Wing also claimed to have served time in the Jefferson, Mo., prison for the murder of a man in St. Louis.

KILL HOSPITAL CORPS OFFICER

Climax of Another Serious Battle In Colorado

STRIKERS LAY DOWN ARMS

Surrender to Militia Under Truce Agreement—At Least Nine Lives Lost During Day's Fighting—Women and Children Barricaded In Mine During the Hostilities

Denver, April 30.—Under a truce agreement which stopped the fighting at Walsenberg, approximately 650 strikers are surrendering arms to militia officers appointed by Colonel Verdeckberg.

The strikers were not taken into custody, but will be subject to prosecution in the courts for the killing of Major Lester of the hospital corps.

The adjutant general's office gave out this statement: "Major Lester of the militia hospital corps was shot and killed by strikers near Walsenberg while dressing a militiaman's wound. He wore a red cross band on his arm."

The industrial conflict yesterday claimed a toll of at least nine lives. This was the verified record, divided as follows:

At Forbes, seven mine guards and one striker dead, with two other strikers believed to have been killed.

At Walsenberg, Major Lester killed, one officer and two enlisted men wounded.

The Forbes camp was a scene of desolation, practically all the mine buildings having been destroyed by fire. Here it was the work of only a few fleeting hours.

The strikers opened their attack in force. With the women and children of the camp barricaded in the mine, the guards, under the personal direction of Superintendent Nichol, responded spiritedly. About five hours later the firing ceased and the camp's assailants disappeared as mysteriously as they came, some toward Trinidad and others over the hills in the direction of Perwind and Tabasco.

The militia detachment relieved by federal soldiers in Fremont county is hastening to Verdeckberg's assistance at Walsenburg.

The strain of the last ten days was noticeable in the voice and manner of Governor Ammons as he sat in his office receiving reports of the conflict and conferring with his advisers.

APPROVED BY PRESIDENT

Committee Reports Tolls Repeal Bill With Amendments

Washington, April 30.—Administration leaders won the second round of the fight to repeal the free tolls provision of the Panama canal act, when the senate canals committee, by a vote of 8 to 6, ordered the house bill carrying the repeal reported to the senate. Coupled with the bill will be reported an amendment which reads as follows:

"Provided that neither the passage of this act, nor anything therein contained, shall be construed or held as waiving, impairing or affecting any treaty or other right possessed by the United States."

This amendment has been seen by President Wilson, and is said to have his approval. Administration leaders are confident that, with it attached, the repeal bill will be passed by the senate; and some senators opposed to repeal agree with this view.

RESULT OF GRAFT CHARGES

One Plaintiff Awarded a Cent and Another a Dollar

Salem, Mass., April 30.—A verdict of 1 cent was awarded by the jury in the case of Alexander Kotarski, an expressman, who brought suit for $10,000 against Director of Public Health Lally for slander and libel.

One dollar was awarded to William H. Colbert in his suit for $10,000 against Lally for slander and libel.

In the case of Director of Public Property Gifford against Lally for $10,000 for alleged slander and libel the jury returned a verdict for the defendant.

The suits grew out of graft charges made by Lally at a political rally.

THOUSAND BANDITS KILLED

Four divisions of 40,000 men are now operating against the bandits.

PRICE LAID ON HUERTA'S HEAD

Maderos Ready to Pay $75,000 When Dictator Is Dead

MONEY WILL GO TO VILLA

Personal Friend of Rebel Leader Tells What He Declares Is True Story of Killing of Benton—Englishman Talked Too Much and Brought About His Own Destruction

San Antonio, Tex., April 30.—"On the day that Victoriano Huerta meets his violent death the family of the murdered Francisco I. Madero will pay to General Villa $75,000 in gold," was the declaration of a man prominent in the business life of San Antonio, who, because he is Villa's personal friend, would not allow the use of his name.

"This may seem a strong statement," he continued, "but I personally know it is true. Remember, I do not say I know that Villa has agreed to kill Huerta for $75,000. That is not the bargain. It is simply that on the day that Huerta is killed, Villa gets the gold.

"And more, Villa has a practical hostage. In his camp today is young Raoul Madero. Huerta might be able to compose his differences with the other rebel chiefs and line up a united Mexican force against American, but in Villa—who personally has a long score with Huerta—the dictator has one foe who will never rest while he is above ground."

The informant is, or so says everyone here, as well informed on Mexican affairs as any man in the southwest. With one Sommerfeld, a German agent of Madero, he broke up the incipient rebellion of General Reyes against Madero, and he is in the confidence of the leaders of the present Carranza movement.

Asked concerning the Benton incident, this man freely told what he declared is the true story of the Englishman's death.

"Benton," he said, "got just what was coming to him. I know Villa well and he is a pretty decent sort—in a Mexican, not an American way.

"For weeks before he was killed, Benton had been storming around El Paso, bitterly denouncing Villa because the rebel chief would not assign 300 men to guard the properties of which Benton, as trustee, was in charge. Sommerfeld, who knew Benton well, went to him. I have the story at first hand.

"'Benton,' Sommerfeld said, 'you have been talking too much. I am going to New York to buy ammunition for the rebels, and I want you to promise me that you will not go to Juarez to Villa until I return. If you do you will find trouble.'

"Benton promised and Sommerfeld left. Just two days afterward Benton crossed the river and went to Villa, demanding a guard.

"'I can't do it,' Villa told him. 'Nor would I now, even if I could spare the men. I have heard of your abusing me in El Paso and I believe you are a spy for Huerta. Take my advice, get out of Mexico and stay out.'

"That enraged Benton. 'I will come into Mexico where and when I damn please,' he told Villa flatly.

"'Enough,' said Villa, and he called the guard and put Benton under arrest. Almost at once Benton was put on a train for Chihuahua, guarded by a small detachment under Major Fierro. The train had only gone a few miles when Fierro's soldiers dragged Benton out of the coach and Fierro shot the Englishman to death."

AFFIDAVIT IS FALSE

Baptist Minister Now Denies He Overheard Negro Confess Murder

Atlanta, April 30.—The defense in the case of Leo M. Frank has washed its hands of Rev. C. B. Ragsdale, the Baptist minister who made an affidavit that he overheard a negro, identified as Jim Conley, confess to the murder of Mary Phagan. He is now said to have repudiated the affidavit in toto.

Attorneys Arnold and Rosser, counsel for the condemned man, obtained from Judge Hill an order striking from the extraordinary motion for a new trial the amendment setting up the Ragsdale affidavit as one of the grounds for a new hearing.

COURT DELAYS SENTENCE

Thinks Five Years Too Long For Bank Teller Who Embezzled

Boston, April 30.—Judge Morton of the United States district court stated that he did not believe in long jail sentences. Certainty of punishment, said he, is a greater deterrent than the length of a sentence.

Because he believes the minimum penalty of five years imposed by the federal statutes for embezzling funds from a national bank is too severe he suspended sentence until Monday in the case of Charles P. Foster, teller in the Bristol County National bank of Taunton, who stole $2500 from the bank.

Tragic Sermon on Fresh Air.

The innate corruption and depravity of human nature were perhaps never more clearly brought out than in the historic black hole of Calcutta. That atrocity stands unrivaled as an instance of the utmost suffering humanity can endure, passed through by a large number, yet leaving a few survivors to tell the tale. Many more have been slain or executed at one time, death being anticipated, but probably only safe keeping of the prisoners was intended, and only fear of breaking a despot's sleep prevented their earlier release. Yet this torture, "unequaled in history or fiction, whose record cannot be read unmoved after the lapse of 150 years," was produced merely by crowding men together in an ill ventilated room. No fires, racks nor scourges were needed. All that was done or required to be done was to take from each the amount of air and space to which he was accustomed, crush him into close proximity with his fellows, and the thing was accomplished.—From "A Farmer's Notebook."

When They Stoned Actors.

Authors and actors of today have reason to congratulate themselves upon the disuse of many of the ancient Greek methods of showing dissatisfaction in the theater. The worst that a playwright must reckon with now is an ironical cry of "Author!" followed by a booing demonstration. But it is on record that the Athenian audience at least once forcibly ejected an unsuccessful comic poet from the theater. The pelting of bad actors with vegetables and questionable eggs is rare now even in the remotest provinces. But the Athenians did not draw the line at figs and olives as missiles. Aeschines was said nearly to have been stoned to death during his stage career, and there is a story of a second rate musician who borrowed a quantity of stone from a friend to build a house with, promising to repay the loan with the stones collected at his next performance.—London Telegraph.

An Inventor's Hard Luck.

Ill luck was the persistent partner of Samuel Crompton, the inventor of the spinning mule. While Crompton was an infant his father died, leaving the lad to the care of his mother, who insisted upon a daily task of well spun wool. He detested it and invented the spinning mule to relieve himself of the work. Having invented it he was not lucky enough to find a capitalist to finance him. When he gave a model of his invention to a company of manufacturers a subscription list was opened to recoup him for his losses and several of the subscribers repudiated their signatures.

BRIEFS

May day tomorrow.

Wet grounds prevented the game between the police and the Adams Market teams at Ward Three Wednesday afternoon.

Mary L. Briggs, wife of Albert H. Briggs died at her home at 231 South Central avenue on Wednesday. She was in her 72nd year and is survived by a family.

B. F. Hodgkinson Jr. the Boy Scout Master is to give a talk before the Board of Trade at its meeting next Wednesday evening on the Boy Scout movement.

A meeting of the men of the Universalist church has been called for Sunday afternoon at 4.15 to talk over the plans for a men's supper to be given at the church at an early date. The meeting will be held in the church after the afternoon meeting.

Commissioner Brown is filling up the holes in the streets about City Square with tarred rocks, covered with a coating of tar. City Square was full of holes which made bad puddles every time it rained and were also a source of danger to passing automobiles.

Frank Flynn, a well-known young man of this city left Wednesday for Perth Amboy, New Jersey, where he will join the New York-New Jersey base ball league. "Porky," as he is called, recently underwent a serious operation, but it is hoped by his many friends here that he has now recovered sufficiently to be able to make as good this season as he has during past years.

The funeral of Fred L. Peterson, who died in Cambridge, was held from the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Alex Larson at 21 Ryden street, on Wednesday afternoon. Services were conducted by Rev. Leander K. Hokenson of the Swedish Lutheran church. Burial was in Mt. Wollaston cemetery. The deceased was well known in this city.

THE FATE OF NATIONS.

Rev. W. G. Puddefoot, D. D., of Indiana of National prominence, will be the speaker on Sunday evening at Bethany church; his subject will be—"The fate of the Nations that know not God." The citizens of Quincy will want to hear him. The report that the lecture would be given Tuesday evening was a mistake.

CLEAN UP WEEK BEGINS MONDAY

Clean-up and paint-up week will go into effect in Quincy next Monday morning and during the week the teams of the Board of Health will remove rubbish of all kinds taken from back yards, cellars and attics. All this week, as has been previously announced agents are making a house to house visit of the city leaving circulars and phamplets relative to sanitation and the care of children, in cases where the families are foreign born and the English language is not understood to be readily read, the agents are giving verbal instruction.

These visits together with the work that has been done during the past month by Chairman Murray of the Board of Health, will doubtless have good effect, and it is certain that for a time at least back yards, cellars and attics will be cleared from the accumulation of rubbish.

MISS MARY J. GIBSON.

Miss Mary J. Gibson, daughter of the late Owen and the late Elizabeth Gibson, died at her home at 270 Granite street, Wednesday afternoon, after an illness covering a period of ten days. Death was due to bronchial pneumonia.

Miss Gibson was one of the most popular members of Christ church, and until illness forced her to cease her efforts in its behalf had always been active in its affairs. She was held in the highest esteem by her neighbors in the neighborhood where she has always resided, and enjoyed the friendship of a large circle of friends. She is survived by two sisters, Miss Annie B. Gibson of this city and Mrs. John Lennon of West Upton.

ALMOST A TRAGEDY.

There came near being a tragedy in the laundry at Arnold and Washington streets this morning when Charles Fong, the proprietor refused to give William Weinhouse his laundry and pointed a revolver at his head. Weinhouse fled and sought refuge at the Court house, where he filed a complaint charging Fong with threats. Fong was arrested on a warrant by Capt. Daniel R. McKay and although he denied the complainant's story pleaded guilty in court and was fined $5. He also brought the laundry to the Court House and gave it to Weinhouse.

TODAYS COURT.

Three simple drunks were arranged before the district court this morning. One of these was placed on probation and the other two, James Lamon and Thomas Sherry were fined $10 each.
